As for Wilson and Mandy, they were doing battle with a pair of ninjas that were wielding twin katana blades and a bo-staff respectively. Wilson fought the katana ninja and Mandy fought the staff ninja. Wilson drew out his spinning-blade weapon and he clashed blades with the katana ninja. The clash of the blades ran through the fighter's ears. The ninja however soon had Wilson on the ropes as he twirled his katanas around at an amazing speed and Wilson backed away nervously because of this. The ninja swung the katanas at Wilson and their weapons clashed ever so violently. Wilson slashed at the ninja and almost knocked his katanas out of his hands. But the ninja kept hold of them and he slashed at Wilson, the attack getting blocked by Wilson's spinning blade. As for Mandy, all she had were her brass knuckle attachments and her opponent wielded a bo staff. It was short range vs. long range in this battle. The staff ninja tried to smack Mandy with his staff but Mandy dodged the attack and roundhouse punched the ninja in the face. The ninja thought for a moment his face had been smashed by the power of that punch, doubled by the brass knuckle attachments Mandy wore. The ninja quickly recovered and he used his staff to flip himself over behind Mandy. Before Mandy could react, the ninja walloped her in the back with his staff and the mouse was thrown down onto the ground. Mandy picked herself up only to get tripped up by the ninja's bo-staff as he whacked her legs with it. The ninja then tried to smack Mandy with the staff but Mandy rolled out of the way and picked herself up. She lunged at the ninja and punched him in the face again.

Bunnie and Geoffrey were in a similar predicament only they were fighting a pair of ninjas armed with a Naginata (a bladed bo-staff) and a kusarigama (or a chain-sickle whichever you prefer) respectively. Bunnie was fighting the ninja with the kusarigama. The ninja spun the end of the weapon around in a perfect circle and he threw it towards Bunnie. Bunnie dodged the attack and she extended her arm to twice it's length. She walloped the ninja in the face and sent it staggering backwards. The ninja regained his balance and he threw the bladed part of the kusarigama towards Bunnie. The blade skimmed Bunnie across her side and Bunnie grimaced for a minute. She quickly regained herself and she ran towards the ninja. However, the ninja leaped past Bunnie and wrapped her up in the kusarigama. Bunnie was now wrapped up by the long chain of the kusarigama. She couldn't move her arms and the ninja could take advantage of this. The ninja pulled on the chain and pulled Bunnie towards himself. He then kicked Bunnie in the back as she was yanked towards him and Bunnie was thrown forward. The ninja pulled on the chain again and pulled Bunnie towards himself. However he stood to the side and Bunnie ended up flying past him and landing sharply on her back. Bunnie managed to break free of the kusarigama, which left the ninja with the sickle part and a much shorter chain. The ninja tried to slash Bunnie with the sickle part of the kusarigama but Bunnie dodged and elbowed the ninja in the gut. She then punched him in the face and tripped him up with a swift kick to the legs. As for Geoffrey, he began shooting as many darts as he possibly could at his opponent but the ninja kept dodging them all. He slashed at Geoffrey with his Naginata and he tore a gash in Geoffrey's trademark combat suit. Geoffrey punched at the ninja but the ninja blocked the punch with his hand and he butted Geoffrey in the gut with the flat end of the Naginata. Geoffrey doubled over and the ninja walloped him with his weapon. Geoffrey picked himself up and he punched at the ninja. The ninja blocked his attack but Geoffrey head-butted him in the face before the ninja could do anything else. Geoffrey then grabbed the Naginata and he tried to yank it out of the ninja's grasp. The ninja held on tight and kicked Geoffrey away. The skunk staggered backwards but he regained himself and he prepared to fight on.

Amy and Cream were paired up and having a tough time against some ninjas that were armed with all sorts of horrible weapons. One ninja armed with a pair of sais tried to stab Amy with them but Amy walloped him with her Piko-Piko hammer. The ninja landed on his back but he quickly leaped back onto his feet and threw his sais at Amy. Amy shielded her face with her hammer and the sais embedded themselves into the head of the hammer. The ninja leaped towards Amy and he grabbed the sais that were embedded in her hammer. He yanked them back out of the hammer and he slashed Amy's hands with them. Amy yelped in pain and she sucked on the fresh cuts that appeared on her hands. This gave the ninja ample time to kick Amy in the gut. Cream flew in behind the ninja and attempted to attack him but another ninja leaped in and kicked Cream down to the ground. The ninja then drew out a broadsword and he attempted to slice Cream in two with it. But Amy stopped the ninja by throwing her Piko-Piko hammer at him and the hammer smacked the ninja down onto his side. Amy ran over to retrieve her hammer but the ninja she just hit by throwing it at him leaped up and kicked her away from the hammer. The ninja then picked up Amy's hammer and walloped Cream with it just as the rabbit flew in to stop him. Cream was sent crashing down and she wailed in pain. She really didn't like getting hit. Cheese, her pet Chao, was furious to see his owner get hurt like this so he flew in to attack the ninja but the ninja smacked him with Amy's hammer. Amy picked herself up and summoned another Piko-Piko hammer to her hand. This in turn led to her and the ninja having a hammer fight (I'm pretty sure it's as hilarious as it sounds). The two began to bash hammers with each other as hard as they could but the ninja won in the end for two more ninjas leaped in and ambushed Amy from behind. Cream tried to help but she was quickly ambushed by another ninja that was armed with a staff.

Espio, Vector and Charmy were locked in combat with a bunch of ninjas that were mostly armed with spears. The three of them weren't doing too bad against the ninjas mainly because of Vector's strength, Espio's ninjutsu and Charmy being a darn good distraction but they were having problems themselves. Vector socked a ninja in the face as hard as he could but two ninjas, both armed with staffs, hit Vector in the back as hard as they could and Vector yelped in pain. They then proceeded to trip Vector up with their staffs and bring the big, brawling crocodile down onto his back. Espio threw some shuriken at the ninjas and made them back down for a minute. Espio then landed between the staff-wielding ninjas and split-kicked them, knocking them both down onto their sides. One ninja threw a shuriken at Espio but Espio deflected it by throwing one of his own to stop it. The ninja attempted to throw another shuriken but Charmy flew in and rammed him in the gut by flying head first into it. The ninja was thrown backwards by the attack and Charmy buzzed off to distract another ninja. But he ended up getting dropkicked by another ninja and knocked down beside Vector, who was just picking himself up. Espio and another ninja began to punch at each other in typical ninja fashion but he was suddenly attacked from behind by another ninja he punched him in the back of the head. The ninja he was fighting slugged him in the stomach and kicked him over to Vector and Charmy. Espio spluttered and he drew out a kunai knife.

"This clan is well trained." he mused "They're strong and powerful."

"They're no Devatrons or Eggman robots that's for certain but they're quite a handful." muttered Vector "This is one fight we'll have trouble winning I fear." he added as he watched Shadow and Rai brawl with each other some more.

"Well I'm not letting these loser ninjas beat us up! Let's keep fighting!" yelled Charmy determinedly "We will kick their butts all the way to Spagonia!"

"Easier said then done Charmy." said Vector "But I'm not one to back down from a situation like this so I'm gonna keep fighting!"

"Me too, for the glory of Chun-Nan!" cried Espio, throwing the kunai at a ninja.

The Chaotix lunged towards some ninjas and prepared to dish it out on them. This whole fight was getting chaotic and it didn't look like anybody was going to win this one. This fight could will go on forever with no clear victor in sight…

Meanwhile in the fortress itself, Ruben, Tails and Cosmo had run into the throne room and Tails finally managed to catch Ruben. He stopped Ruben dead in his tracks by grabbing his arm firmly and giving him a stern glare.

"Ruben, what are you thinking?" asked Tails "You can't charge into enemy territory like this! You'll get in trouble!"

"I'm sorry about this sudden charge in Tails but I gave my word of honour to Matilda that I'd retrieve the stolen aqua-collars." explained Ruben "And the Raiju Clan apparently were the ones behind the whole thing so while we're here, I may as well fulfil that task. And since Rai mentioned the emperor being in their captivity I think we should look for him in here too."

"I understand Ruben but you shouldn't recklessly run into these kind of things." said Cosmo "Conquering Storm could be anywhere and waiting to strike at us."

"She doesn't appear to be here so there's nothing to fear." said Ruben casually "Now, you two start looking for the emperor while I look for the stolen aqua-collars."

"Before that Ruben, I'd like to point out that just because Conquering Storm doesn't appear to be here it doesn't mean she isn't here at all." noted Tails "Did you think about that one at all?"

"Um…no actually." said Ruben, his face falling "Oh I'm such a ditz!" he groaned, face-palming himself crossly "I'm so eager to get my aqua-collar back that I'm not thinking things through before I do anything! And that's bad since I should know better!"

"Well even the best of us make mistakes Ruben." said Tails reassuringly "Anyway, Conquering Storm probably doesn't know we're here so we should start looking for those aqua-collars and the emperor before she finds us. And if we need help, we have our friends still outside and they might join us in a minute so there's nothing to worry about."

"I agree Tails." said Cosmo "Now, where would Conquering Storm keep her prisoners in a place like this."

"A dungeon perhaps." suggested Ruben, looking around the room for any possible signs of the aqua-collars "But where exactly one is in a place like this is a mystery to me as I didn't get to see much of the place when I first visited it."

With that said, Tails and Cosmo started looking around for any possible entrances to a dungeon in the throne room while Ruben looked for the aqua-collars. Unbeknownst to them though, Conquering Storm was watching them from the doorway and she silently stepped into the throne room. she reached into a pocket on her cloak and pulled out a vicious looking weapon which was a scary looking kunai with sharp blades and a long chain that was wrapped around it. Conquering Storm removed her shoulder pads and cape so she could fight better and she unravelled the chain, ready to strike these intruders with her weapon. They would get one heck of a shock when she suddenly sprung at them with the kunai and chain weapon she now wielded…

The battle for Chun-Nan has begun folks! Who will triumph and who will fall? And will Dr. Eggman succeed in his assassination attempt? Or is Devion no longer the robot he once was? Tune in as we continue this saga next time...

Hey Arena Luminati, how's things going in this story for ya? Still good? Also, why do you keep changing your name? It's getting confusing now...

The Storm Rages On

Story 118: The Storm Rages On

Tails, Cosmo and Ruben were in the Raiju Clan's fortress and they were searching for any possible entrances to a dungeon and the stolen aqua-collars. Their search hadn't come up with any results though and as of now, they were still looking around for those things. They wouldn't be searching for much longer though for the Raiju Clan leader, the Bride of the Conquering Storm, was sneaking up on them and getting ready to strike with her lethal weapon which was a kunai with chain. Being the ninja master she was, she managed to sneak up on the three as quietly as she possibly could. When you're a ninja, you can walk and run very quietly after all. Conquering Storm managed to get within ten feet of Tails before she started spinning the long chain around in a perfect circle. Tails heard the metallic clink of the chain and he turned around to see what it was. To his horror, it was Conquering Storm standing behind him, grinning maniacally and spinning a chain with a wicked looking blade on the end around. Conquering Storm threw the weapon at Tails and she nearly got him. Tails managed to dodge by leaping out of the way and leaving the kunai to embed itself into the ground. Conquering Storm tugged on the chain and yanked the weapon out of the ground. Tails frowned at Conquering Storm and clenched his fists.

"Hey! Watch it, you could hurt someone with that!" yelled Tails.

Conquering Storm ignored Tails and she swung the chain at Tails. Tails leaped over the chain as it swept over the ground and swept under his feet as he jumped up. Conquering Storm then began to spin the chain around again and she aimed for Tails. She threw the chain at Tails and the kunai almost struck him directly in the chest but Ruben leaped in and kicked the kunai away, causing it to hurl to the side and land on the ground. Conquering Storm withdrew the kunai and she prepared to spin the chain around again. Ruben bent down in a battle ready stance and he prepared to deck Conquering Storm.

"We meet again Conquering Storm." said Ruben coldly "This time though, we're on apposing sides."

"Yes we are little water panther." snorted Conquering Storm "And if I were to guess, that little brat of a princess reached you and informed you on what we Raiju Ninjas have done recently so that you can bring a small army and attempt to overthrow me Ruben?"

"Yes." said Ruben "I'm horrified to hear that you dared to betray Chun-Nan and try to seize power for yourself like this. I thought you had decency in you Conquering Storm but now I know that you and your ninjas are even worse then Zira is. In the name of the emperor and the princess, I will see you defeated and I will get my aqua-collar back!"

"You think too highly of yourself Ruben." sneered Conquering Storm "I am too powerful, I am one of Chun-Nan's mightiest forces! Zira the Ruthless and even Matilda herself are no match for me so what chance do you have Ruben? You may have reinforcements but do any of them know martial arts of any kind? And it seems most of it is not here. Are they still outside waiting to make their move?"

Ruben suddenly remembered the others and he began to wonder what they were up to outside. Were they waiting to come in? Or had Conquering Storm beaten them all to a pulp and was now coming to finish him, Tails and Cosmo off? He had no idea and he wasn't going to find out if he couldn't get past Conquering Storm. Ruben decided to shrug it off and focus on the current threat.

"My friends are probably still outside." said Ruben "And I'm sure they'll be waiting to make their entrance so you'd better watch out!"

"Maybe so." said Conquering Storm in a deadpan tone, spinning the kunai with chain around again "But that will not stop me from slaughtering all of you!"

With that said, she threw the kunai at Ruben but Ruben caught it in between his hands before it could strike his heart. Conquering Storm yanked the kunai out of Ruben's hands and she swung the chain at him. Ruben jumped over the chain and he lunged towards Conquering Storm with his leg stretched out. Conquering Storm swung the chain upwards and whipped Ruben in the back before his kick could hit home. This caused Ruben to fly over Conquering Storm and land behind her. Conquering Storm then kicked Ruben as hard as she possibly could. Her iron-toed boots made that kick very painful and poor Ruben felt like he'd been smacked with a sack of rocks. Ruben grimaced in pain and he slowly began to pick himself up. Conquering Storm flashed a wicked smile at Ruben and she swung the kunai around again. She swung at Ruben and the kunai slashed Ruben across his side, leaving a very nasty gash on it. Ruben screamed a bloodcurdling scream and he fell down onto his side, clutching it and feeling the nasty gash. Tails and Cosmo stared at Ruben in horror and they instantly ran into help. But this just earned them a hefty whip of the chain from Conquering Storm as they ran towards Ruben and she swung it at them. Tails and Cosmo were sent hurling backwards and they landed on their backs. Conquering Storm stood over the injured Ruben and she prepared to deliver the killer blow.

"I can just imagine Matilda's face when I deliver her little servant boy back to her with his head severed!" cackled Conquering Storm "And that would serve her right for relying on mere children to do the dirty work for her!"

Conquering Storm swung the chain around again and aimed for Ruben's neck. Ruben could only stare back at Conquering Storm helplessly as she prepared to severe his head off. Tails picked himself up and he took flight with the aid of his namesakes. Tails flew towards Conquering Storm and he pile-dived the ninja master in the back. Conquering Storm dropped her weapon and she hurled over Ruben and onto her face. Conquering Storm picked herself up and she glowered at Tails. The glare quickly turned into surprise when she realized that Tails was flying and he was doing so by spinning his tails around in a circle.

"This is not possible!" she blurted "How are you able to fly by spinning your unnatural twin-tails around you little brat?!"

"I'm just special." said Tails "And I'm gonna use my flying skills to knock you down Conquering Storm! This is for hurting Ruben and stealing his aqua-collar!"

"It's humorous that you should bring up the aqua-collars fox boy." said Conquering Storm with a cruel smile on her face before Tails could attack "I'm glad Ruben is here because he in particular would love to hear this…do you know what happened to Hydra after he had served his purpose to me?"

"What?" asked Ruben nervously "What did happen to him?"

"I killed him." said Conquering Storm dryly, her wicked smile widening on her face "I blackmailed him into stealing every water panther's aqua-collar and after he had done so I killed him. He was surplus to requirements after he'd served his purpose and I couldn't let him go or he would give me away and I wanted to reveal myself to the public at just the right time so I couldn't let him live. So now thanks to me, Hydra will never get to apologize or make up for what he had been forced to do."

Ruben looked like someone had just plunged a katana blade into his heart. He could not believe what he was hearing. Conquering Storm had killed Hydra after he'd stolen every water panther's collar?! This was one of the worst things that had ever happened to him since Zira slaughtered his clan. Ruben could hardly feel his limbs right now, the shock of this revelation had made him go numb with horror. Tears welled up in his eyes and he stared down at the floor.

"You…you…you k…killed…Hydra?" gasped Ruben.

"Yes I did." said Conquering Storm with a prideful smile on her evil face "Like I said, he was surplus to requirements and letting him go would just have ended up with him telling on the clan like a little tattletale."

"I…I cannot…believe this!" choked Ruben, the tears falling down his face at last "Hydra…was one of my best friends…and you killed him!"

Ruben then put his face into his hands and let out a long, wailing cry that could make any stone-faced individual tear up. Cosmo knelt down beside Ruben and gave him a comforting hug while Conquering Storm watched with a cold expression.

"That's so terrible." said Cosmo sadly "Oh Ruben, I feel so sorry for you right now. Your friend got forced into doing something terrible and he's dead so he can't redeem himself. What have you done to deserve something like this?"

"I don't know…" sobbed Ruben "But I am going to avenge Hydra… Conquering Storm…" he suddenly said, lifting his head up and glaring at the ninja lynx in the coolie-hat "I swear on the blood of my deceased clan, on the blood of Hydra and the blood of everybody in Chun-Nan…I will make you pay for this!"

Ruben then suddenly picked himself up, ignoring the stinging pain in his side from the horrible gash he'd received, and he lunged at Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm laughed at Ruben and she back-flipped just as Ruben neared her. This in turn caused Ruben to get walloped by her legs as she went up and over. Ruben landed on his back and Conquering Storm stood before him. She was about to pounce on him but Tails flew in and pile-dived Conquering Storm in the back, knocking her down onto the floor. Conquering Storm picked herself up just as Tails flew in to attack again. She and Tails ended up locking hands with each other and Tails tried to push Conquering Storm backwards but Conquering Storm was too strong for Tails. She then suddenly swung Tails around and smacked Ruben with him as he tried to lunge at her again. Ruben and Tails both lay on the floor in a heap. Conquering Storm picked up her kunai with chain and she swung the chain around again. She was about to let Tails and Ruben have it but Cosmo stood in the way and held out her arms defensively. Conquering Storm hesitated for a moment and she stopped spinning the chain around.

"I won't allow you to hurt my friends." said Cosmo.

"And how do you plan to stop me from doing so freak?" snorted Conquering Storm, repulsed by Cosmo's otherworld appearance "You don't seem to be the fighting type little girl. In fact, you look even weaker then the fox and Ruben. You will be no obstacle for me."

With that said, Conquering Storm swung the kunai with chain around again and she swung it at Cosmo. She hit Cosmo in the side of her body with the chain and the weight of the kunai pulled it around and around the Seedrian, wrapping her up in the chain and rendering her at Conquering Storm's mercy. Conquering Storm yanked on the chain, pulling Cosmo towards her and she kicked Cosmo away from her. The chain unravelled as Cosmo flew backwards and she crashed into a wall. Cosmo fell down onto the floor and she winced in pain. Tails was up on his feet in seconds and he rushed over to help Cosmo.

"Cosmo! Are you alright?" he asked worriedly as he ran over to her.

Ruben picked himself up and glared at Conquering Storm. Seeing Cosmo hurt just made him even angrier and more determined to beat Conquering Storm then ever.

"How dare you hurt Cosmo!" growled Ruben "Killing Hydra was bad enough but hurting a sweet little girl like Cosmo is going too far!"

"Oh I'm so terribly sorry about all that." sneered Conquering Storm, swinging the chain around again "Had I known that harming a freak like her would have angered you so much, I would have done worse to her then I already have done!"

With that said, Conquering Storm threw the kunai at Ruben but Ruben caught it before it could hit him. Conquering Storm however just swung the chain around and Ruben, still holding onto it, found himself being flung across the room and as he let go of the chain, he hurled through the air and crashed into a crate that sat in the corner of the throne room. To Conquering Storm's bad luck though, this was the crate that contained every single aqua-collar in Chun-Nan and as Ruben crashed into it, the crate fell over onto its side and the collars spilt all over the floor. Ruben wondered what he just crashed into and he suddenly realized he was sitting in a pile of aqua-collars. That alone made Ruben beam like a sunrise.

"Hey! I've found the stolen aqua-collars!" cried Ruben happily "How serendipitous this is! Now which one of these is mine?" he wondered, digging through the pile to find his collar.

Aqua-collars came in all shapes and sizes and were different shades of purple, violet and indigo so Ruben knew which collar he was looking for. It would take a while finding it though considering every water panther in Chun-Nan minus the ones who had been given permanent water powers' collars were in the crate. Conquering Storm was not about to let Ruben find it though so she swung the chain around and aimed at Ruben.

"Get away from there you little brat!" she screamed, throwing the kunai at Ruben.

The kunai whooshed towards Ruben and it almost impaled him in the head but Ruben ducked just in time. The kunai ended up embedding itself in the wall as a result of this. Ruben quickly grabbed the kunai and he yanked it out of the wall. He then tried to snatch the weapon out of Conquering Storm's hands but Conquering Storm pulled on the chain and brought Ruben down onto the ground. Ruben refused to let go of the kunai so he kept hold of it and tried to yank it out of Conquering Storm's grasp. But pull as hard as he possibly can, he still couldn't snatch the weapon from Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm yanked on the weapon again and brought Ruben flying towards her. Conquering Storm kicked Ruben in the face with her heel as he hurled towards her. Ruben landed on the floor very sharply and he grimaced in pain. If only he was at a higher level of ninjutsu and maybe he would stand a chance against Conquering Storm but being only a novice and Conquering Storm being presumably a master or expert, he had no chance against her. Same with Tails and Cosmo. Tails flew in to attack Conquering Storm again but the ninja lynx pounded him down into the floor with little effort and Cosmo kept well away from her since she couldn't do anything against Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm picked up Tails and she held the kunai at the end of her chain up to the fox's throat.

"Now you will pay the price for daring to intrude on Raiju Clan soil little boy." she said coldly "And the rest of your resistance is next."

"Don't you dare kill me Conquering Storm or you will make my friends really angry!" warned Tails.

"Anger is hardly going to help your friends in a crusade against me and my clan foolish child." snorted Conquering Storm "So they can get angry all they like, it will not help them."

Conquering Storm then prepared top lunge the kunai into Tails' throat but suddenly, something came flying through the doors and into the throne room. It was her star ninja Dàfēng Rai. Shadow the Hedgehog had spin-dashed him into the fortress and now he'd spin-dashed him into the throne room of the place. Rai landed at Conquering Storm's feet and the lynx threw Tails down onto the floor.

"Rai! What is going on?" asked Conquering Storm.

"We have a resistance." muttered Rai, pointing at Shadow the Hedgehog who stood before the two lynxes and looked deathly serious.

Conquering Storm glowered at Shadow and she readied herself for the inevitable battle. Shadow bent down in a battle ready stance and he prepared to unleash hell on Conquering Storm. But Shadow wasn't going to be alone in this battle for the rest of the Royal Fighters quickly joined him. They had tried to abandon the battle and run after Shadow but the Raiju Clan chased after them and now everybody was in the throne room, ready to get into one big epic beat down. The Raiju Ninjas all stood behind Conquering Storm and prepared for battle while the Royal Fighters, looking a little beaten but still ready to fight, all stood together and prepared to do battle themselves. Tails, Ruben and Cosmo joined their side and they sneered at Conquering Storm.

"The gang's all here now Conquering Storm." gloated Ruben "This fight's going to get even harder for you now."

"If I were you, I would surrender before things get unpleasant." said Cosmo "Things really will get nasty for you if you don't stand down Conquering Storm."

"The Raiju Clan NEVER surrenders!" bellowed Conquering Storm "I have been waiting too long and working too hard for this moment and I will not allow you to foil our conquest! I will see you all slaughtered and kicked out of my fortress before the sun sets!"

"Is that so?" sneered Shadow "Well then, prepare yourself ninjas for you're in for the fight of your lives."

"Do you honestly think I'll be intimidated by a Sonic impersonator?" snorted Conquering Storm "Resembling Sonic's appearance to some degree does not make you imposing in anyway black hedgehog, especially as I do not fear Sonic himself!"

"I'm not trying to impersonate Sonic." corrected Shadow "I am Shadow the Hedgehog, a fifty year-old genetic experiment with a lost purpose and I am filling in for Sonic as he's out of bounds for now. And in the name of my forgotten creator, I will Chaos Blast you all into oblivion!"

With that said, Shadow rocketed towards Conquering Storm and Conquering Storm charged towards Shadow, swinging the kunai with chain around and preparing to strike at him. The Raiju Ninjas and the Royal Fighters all charged at each other and the big battle resumed. With Conquering Storm present now, would this make the battle even harder for the heroes or would it not make a difference? Time would tell as the battle raged on…

Meanwhile back at New Mobotropolis, things were considerably much quieter and nothing was going on at the moment. In the New Mobotropolis Hospital, the remaining Royal Fighter groups were keeping guard of the unconscious Sonic the Hedgehog and they were remaining good to their word for they hadn't left his room since the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had left. Mariah the Medicine Cat was still here too and she was monitoring Sonic's condition to see if he was getting better at all. The medicine she'd given him yesterday should be taking effect by now. Mariah looked over Sonic and observed the heartbeat monitor he was hooked up to. It was beeping a little faster then yesterday but it was still pretty weak. Mariah sat Sonic up and she unravelled his bandages to see if the wound in his back was healing up at all. The wound on Sonic's back was black and there were some wrinkles from where it was healing up from the scorch marks caused by the blast. The wound was beginning to heal but it would still be awhile before Sonic was back on his feet and fighting for Mobius again. Mariah bandaged Sonic back up and she gently lay him back down onto the bed. Miranda Mongoose of the Northern Royal Fighters stood forward and put her hand on Mariah's shoulder.

"I don't mean to intrude miss but how is Sonic doing now?" asked Miranda.

"He's still unconscious but he's still stable at least and his wound appears to be recovering." said Mariah "He'll wake up sometime soon but I'm not sure when so you'll have to be patient."

"I know, it's just that me and Sonic are such good friends that I can't help but worry about him." said Miranda, looking at Sonic with a sad expression on her face "Ever since he saved me from getting roboticized by Dr. Eggman all those months ago, he's been an inspiration to me. He inspired me to join the R.F.S. and he's inspired me in my duty as team leader. If Devion had finished him off then I would just fall apart like a broken statue."

"I'm still amazed that a dying Devatron still had the firepower to put Sonic in a coma." said Kari the Rat who had her trademark spanner with her to fight off any intruders "Those guys really are serious. At least we don't have to worry about them anymore."

"You got that right Kari." said Thunder the Chipmunk "The Devatrons are as dead as dingbats and we can mock them all we like now!"

"You said it brother!" chuckled Bolt the Chipmunk "Just a pity Kate couldn't be here to join us in the mocking."

Just mentioning her late friend's name made Miranda feel like tearing up again. The mongoose knew though that constantly crying over Kate's death wasn't going to change anything so she held it in this time. Kari frowned at Thunder and Bolt.

"You two, please don't bring up Kate while Miranda's here!" she hissed "You know how much her death has…"

"Kari, they were alright." said Miranda "I know you're looking out for me but don't tell them off for bringing up my late friend. They don't mean any harm after all. Besides, I've been teaching myself to not let it get to me as Kate won't come back if I continue to grieve and grieving isn't going to do me any good."

"You got that right hot stuff." said Scott Lynx, leader of Team Adabat "Me and Jessica lost our village and our homes to Ravage Bloodfang during our training sessions* and we've learnt that grieving won't bring it back, nor will it do us any good. We've done the best thing and moved on from that. We still hold the memories in our minds though and we hope for the village's reconstruction soon."

"At least you'll get your village back son, if it ever gets rebuilt." said Miranda "I however won't get Kate back. While I'm glad the Devatrons, including the one that killed Kate are all dead, I don't feel any different. I guess they're right when they say "Revenge never solves anything"."

"You can say that again Miranda." said Kiara the Cheetah, Royal Fighter rookie and resident of Megapolis "When Wilson and Mandy tried to help us stop Marik from killing our team, Marik played Mandy's desire for revenge to his advantage and evaded our capture or so Mandy herself told us. Also despite beating Marik, I didn't feel that great about myself because I lost my temper and disobeyed Thomas' direct orders. He was only looking out for me and what I did was uncalled for. He did let me off for succeeding in capturing Marik but I still feel bad about disobeying Thomas and from now on, I will follow his orders as exactly. I don't ever wanna disobey him again."

"Well that's very good of you sweetheart." said Miranda "As for Thomas, how is he?"

"He's wheelchair bound for life thanks to Devion but he's still his old self thank goodness." said Kiara "He'll be stuck on the sidelines giving out orders but he won't let his broken back bring down his spirit and valour. I admire such dedication to duty and it makes me pleased to be a Royal Fighter under his command."

"That's so nice Kiara." said Jessica Cougar, Scott's girlfriend and member of Team Adabat "We're lucky to have a recruit like you in the service."

"Thank you Jessica." said Kiara in a flattered manner.

"You're welcome." said Jessica "So, how do you think Sonic's friends are doing in saving Chun-Nan? That's what they're doing right now after all."

"I know one should not presume matters like this but I believe with all my heart that they're performing most wonderfully over in that holy country." said Felix the Peacock, one of the R.F.S.'s more sophisticated members "Especially since they have that Shadow person on their side. Shadow's battle prowess almost mirrors that of Sonic's so those oppressors that have subjugated Chun-Nan will stand no chance against him."

"It's easy enough to say that Felix but we can't possibly guess how things are going since we have no way of seeing how they're doing." said Taran, Scott's older brother "But the likely scenario is they're fine. If only we could join in then we could kick some evil butt over at Chun-Nan with them!"

"But then who would look over Sonic?" noted Jessica "We are here to defend him from the inevitable Eggman attack after all so it's better that we're here in New Mobotropolis instead of over at Chun-Nan helping Sonic's friends."

"Speaking of Eggman attack my friends…" said Felix, who was looking out of a window at that moment "The vile man has decided to launch his attack! A ship of his is coming towards the city at this very moment!"

That made everybody jump in surprise and run over to the window to see what was going on. And surely enough, they saw the fleet ship that Dr. Eggman had taken and it was coming towards New Mobotropolis. Luckily for the citizens, Queen Sally Acorn and her lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx had seen the ship coming too and Nicole quickly raised the city's shields. The shield generator may have been destroyed by Devion during the Devatron war but it had just been repaired this morning so the shields were working once again. New Mobotropolis was shielded and completely safe from harm now. But levelling the city wasn't Eggman's plan so the shields wouldn't be a problem for him. Eggman's ship came to a halt just a few feet away from the city and it hovered in the air ominously. Eggman stroked his moustache and cackled to himself.

"Aah New Mobotropolis." purred Eggman "Mobotropolis' little replacement and new home of Sonic the Hedgehog. I look forward to levelling that city just like I levelled the original city! But we're not here to do that oh no, we're here to kill Sonic. And that plan is about to commence!"

Dr. Eggman pressed a button on the control pad and barked out "Eggman robots, deploy and attack!"

He then turned to Katherine and ordered "You deploy with them my dear, you'll lead the distraction."

Katherine nodded and she wondered off to find a platform to deploy from in the ship. Eggman and Devion were left in the cockpit and they stood by for the moment.

"When do I get deployed master?" asked Devion.

"When all the Royal Fighter teams come out and start battling my robots." explained Dr. Eggman "You remember what you have to do right?"

"Yes." said Devion "I will go to the city with a burrowing robot that will dig me under the city and then I will locate Sonic the Hedgehog and terminate him. Being as he is currently hospitalized, I know where I'm looking for him."

"That's right Devion." beamed Dr. Eggman "And I'm going to equip you with just the right tools for this job."

With that said, he got out a pair of arm gauntlets and he clamped them onto Devion's lower arms. The gauntlets were a very dark red with some gold on them. Devion looked at the gauntlets in confusion and wondered what they were.

"What kind of weapons do you equip me with master?" asked Devion.

"They're weapon gauntlets." explained Eggman "Both have a concealed laser blaster and when you clench your fist, blades come out. Give it a try."

Devion clenched his fists and surely enough, two blades came out of each gauntlet. They were a glistening silver colour and they looked lethal. Devion looked impressed with the weapons. Eggman had given Devion those since his golden sword was no more and he couldn't get his arm cannons fixed for they had been too damaged so Devion needed these weapons as replacements and they were bound to be suitable replacements for his original weapons.

"These weapons will do just nicely." he purred to himself "Thank you master."

"You're welcome Devion." said Eggman "Now standby until I say it's time to deploy."

Devion obeyed and he sheathed his blades by unclenching his fists (you have to keep your fists clenched in order to keep them deployed). Down on the ground, Eggman robots had deployed from the ship and they were all preparing to do some damage. The robots were all Egg-Pawns and they were armed with guns, shields and jousts like they usually were. Katherine was with them and she looked ready for business as usual. Seeing all this happen, Team Adabat, Team Nekronopolis and Kiara the Cheetah all left the hospital and ran outside the city in order to deal with this invasion force as well as keep Sonic safe. They all stood defensively in front of NewMobotropolis and they prepared to do battle with the Eggman robots. Katherine peered at the Royal Fighters they were up against and she sent an image of them to Dr. Eggman. Dr. Eggman looked at the image Katherine had given him and he mused for a minute.

"I recognize one of those teams." he said "There's Miranda's group minus the eagle, but who are the other teams? They're all new to me. And where's Sonic's team of Royal Fighters? Shouldn't they be defending Sonic?"

"That would be the most logical scenario." said Devion "Maybe they're planning an ambush."

"Maybe so." said Dr. Eggman "But I am not going to fall for it. When you get into New Mobotropolis Devion, search for Sonic's friends and see if they're lying in wait for us. If they're not then you may proceed with the killing."

"By your will." said Devion darkly.

Down on the ground, the Royal Fighters were preparing to charge at the robots. There maybe many of them but that was not going to bring them down anytime soon. Miranda pulled out her electro-prod and she twirled it around.

"Royal Fighters, we were assigned to defend Sonic and that is just what we're going to do." announced Miranda "Are you ready for this battle?"

"Yeah!" cried the others.

"Then let's show Eggman that we will do whatever it takes to keep Sonic safe from him!" yelled Miranda.

With that said, the Royal Fighters all charged towards the Eggman robots in proper war fashion, ready to do battle and destroy them all. Katherine and the Eggman robots charged towards the Royal Fighters and prepared to finish them off in the name of the Eggman Empire. This was going to be one heck of a battle that was about to commence between the two factions and it was all about poor Sonic the Hedgehog…

Back over at Chun-Nan, the Royal Fighters and the Raiju Clan were engaged in one heck of a battle right now. The whole throne room was full of flying ninjas and battling heroes and the whole thing looked serious and intense. Who was going to win this one? It didn't look like there was a clear winner so far given how even sided it was beginning to look. Even Conquering Storm was having an even-sided battle right now and that was with Shadow. Shadow may not know ninjutsu or any kind of martial-arts but his speed and Chaos Powers made him a foe unlike any Conquering Storm had ever faced before and that was why he was holding out well against the ninja lynx. Conquering Storm swung her kunai with chain at Shadow but Shadow spin-dashed it into pieces before it could hit him. He then propelled himself towards Conquering Storm and sent her flying backwards into a wall. Conquering Storm picked herself up and lunged at Shadow but Shadow teleported out of her way and reappeared behind her. He spin-dashed Conquering Storm in the back and knocked her down onto the floor. Conquering Storm picked herself up but Shadow jumped in front of her, unleashing a flurry of attacks while grunting and yelling as he did them. This brought Conquering Storm down onto the floor again but she wasn't down for long. She picked herself up and unleashed a flurry of punches onto Shadow. To Shadow, her punches felt like getting hit by cinder blocks. She really was a powerful warrior after all. Conquering Storm then quickly tripped up Shadow by roundhouse kicking him in the legs. Shadow landed on his back and before he could pick himself up, Conquering Storm grabbed his ankles and tossed him up into the air. Shadow hurled up into the air and before he could land down onto the floor, Conquering Storm leaped up and kicked him as hard as she could. That sent Shadow hurling into the wall at the end of the room. Shadow picked himself up and teleported back over to Conquering Storm. He began to unleash a flurry of attacks onto Conquering Storm again but Conquering Storm began putting her trademark defensive tactics on display. She shielded herself with her arms and blocked every blow Shadow launched at her. But Shadow wasn't going down yet, he swiped the air with his arm and showered Conquering Storm with Chaos Spears. The spears all struck Conquering Storm and she was brought down onto one knee, grimacing in pain and fighting the sting of the cuts she'd received from them.

"Hurgh! You're like no other Shadow!" she grunted "Your supernatural powers give you the edge that my opponents before you never could get against me."

"Thank you." said Shadow smugly "I am the Ultimate Life Form after all and nothing is stronger then I am."

"We'll see about that." muttered Conquering Storm, pulling out a slew of daggers and throwing them at Shadow as rapidly as she could.

Shadow spin-dashed through all the daggers but Conquering Storm was ready for him this time. She bent over backwards and kicked upwards as Shadow hurled towards her. That caused Shadow to hurl over her and skid across the floor. Shadow remained on his feet and he zoomed at Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm just back flipped and as her feet flung upwards, they walloped Shadow and knocked him down onto his back. Conquering Storm then tried to stomp on Shadow but Shadow rolled out of her way and picked himself up. Conquering Storm punched at him but Shadow dodged to the side, grabbed Conquering Storm's arm and flipped her over his shoulder and onto her back. He didn't let go of Conquering Storm though, he swung her over into a wall. The impact of the slam was so hard that there were cracks in it. Conquering Storm pulled herself out of the wall and she braced herself as Shadow prepared to attack again. Shadow spin-dashed towards Conquering Storm but Conquering Storm caught him in her arms and twirled him around into the wall. She slammed him as hard as she could, causing more cracks to appear in the wall. Conquering Storm didn't stop there though, she proceeded to knee Shadow in the back multiple times. If she kept this up then she might well break Shadow's back. But Shadow teleported out of the way before Conquering Storm could do so, leading to a rather comical case of Conquering Storm accidentally kneeing the wall and causing a bit of plaster to crumble down to the floor. Conquering Storm ignored the pain in her knee and she spotted Shadow just as he reappeared. Shadow punched at Conquering Storm but Conquering Storm caught Shadow's arm, twisted it sharply to one side and made him shout out in pain and then she viciously backhanded him into the wall. Shadow's head slammed into the wall and the hedgehog felt a little dazed and bedazzled after that. Conquering Storm then grabbed Shadow and pinned him to the wall. She glared into Shadow's crimson red eyes and gritted her teeth.

"I am going to make you all suffer for daring to stand up to the mightiest force in all of Chun-Nan." she growled softly "And I'll start by snapping you in two Shadow!"

"You'll have to beat me first!" retorted Shadow, kicking Conquering Storm in the gut and forcing her to let go of him.

Conquering Storm backed away and Shadow spin-dashed her, causing her to fly backwards and straight into the arms of Knuckles who was waiting to ambush her. Knuckles grasped Conquering Storm in a holding lock and he hoisted her off the ground. Conquering Storm flailed about madly, trying to get Knuckles to let go of her. Knuckles managed to hold on tight though despite all this.

"Let go of me!" growled Conquering Storm, flinging her legs around while Knuckles carried her "I said…let GO of me!" she then shouted, kicking Knuckles in the shin as hard as her ninja skills allowed her to and making Knuckles cry out in pain.

Knuckles' grasp on her weakened and Conquering Storm broke free of the echidna. She grabbed Knuckles by the shoulders and hurled him across the room. Knuckles landed painfully on the floor and stopped at Shadow's feet. Knuckles quickly picked himself up and he and Shadow both charged towards Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm leaped towards them and as she sailed in between the two, she kicked out to the side and knocked them both down onto their sides. That attack left Knuckles and Shadow both grimacing in pain and clutching the sides of their heads. They weren't down for long though. They shook themselves off and got back to their feet. They lunged towards Conquering Storm together and Conquering Storm lunged towards them.

Meanwhile, the others were all tangled up with Dàfēng Rai and the Raiju ninjas. The fight was pretty much the same as it had been outside only Tails, Ruben and Cosmo were joining in with this one. Ruben got to put his ninjutsu skills to good use despite the gash in his side, Tails provided a great distraction for the ninjas which allowed the Royal Fighters to get the drop on them and Cosmo allowed Amy and Cream to do their team move on the ninjas, the Twirling-Hammer Batter (I think I should change that name, it's so corny!). Amy, Cream and Cosmo formed their usual attack formation and Cream began to spin Amy and Cosmo around. Amy summoned her Piko-Piko Hammer to her hand and Cream edged closer and closer to the attacking ninjas. The ninjas were instantly walloped by Amy's hammer and sent sprawling across the floor. The poor ninjas had no idea what had hit them. Amy, Cream and Cosmo all high-fived each other in triumph.

"Oh yeah that was ace!" cried Amy "Those ninjas had no idea what was coming to them!"

"That team move of ours always works doesn't it?" said Cream with a cute little smile on her face.

While that was a powerful move, it wasn't enough to keep the Raiju Ninjas down. The ninjas picked themselves back up and they were instantly back onto the attack. They lunged at Amy, Cream and Cosmo with their katanas but the girls managed to dodge them before they could get hit. Cream flew in and tried to kick a ninja in the head but the ninja struck first by upper-cutting her in the face and knocking her down. This enraged Amy and she tried to flatten the ninja into the ground with her hammer but the ninja sliced it in two with his katana. Amy gibbered like an idiot in fright and the ninja let her have it with a shoulder ram that sent her flying backwards. Another ninja tried to slice Cosmo to ribbons but Cosmo dodged his attack and grabbed the sliced up remains of Amy's hammer. She chucked them at the ninja but the ninja proceeded to slice them into even smaller chunks. Cosmo instantly knew from that that running away was a good option right now. She fled for it with the ninjas following her but Amy and Cream leaped in with their respective attacks and knocked them down.

While that was going on, Wilson, Mandy, Bunnie and Geoffrey were all taking on a slew of ninjas and they were fighting back-to-back right now. They were holding out surprisingly well in this match and the ninjas were slowly but steadily beginning to fall before them. It would still take a while until they were all defeated though as there were so many of them. Wilson clashed blades with a ninja wielding a broad sword. The ninja's sword-skills were incredible and Wilson was having a hard time keeping up with him. But as his weapon had two blades, he had two different angles to block from so he had a decent amount of defence on his side at least. The ninja aimed for Wilson's head but Wilson blocked it with his spinning blade weapon. He pushed the ninja backwards and then threw the spinning blade at the ninja. The ninja ducked and the spinning blade whooshed past him. It boomeranged back to Wilson and he caught it in his hands. Disappointed his attack didn't work, he resumed sword fighting with the ninja. Mandy was fighting some ninjas that were used to fighting with fists instead of weapons which was useful for Mandy as she only had knuckle attachments to fight with. The mouse was holding out OK against the ninjas but she was having a tough time keeping up with them as they're faster then she is. Geoffrey was fending the ninjas off with mostly his combat skills and his arm-mounted crossbow. He fired many darts at the ninjas to make them hesitate and also, he used a flash bomb to distract them. But the poor skunk was running low on ammo so he couldn't keep this up forever. And that's where his combat skills came in. But even then, that wouldn't help him much in a battle against ninjas. The ninjas had way better skills then Geoffrey did and the poor skunk was finding himself beginning to get overwhelmed as a result. One ninja elbowed Geoffrey in the back and knocked the skunk down onto the floor. Another ninja drew out a Naginata and prepared to stab Geoffrey with it but Bunnie punched the ninja away before he could do so. Bunnie helped Geoffrey back onto his feet and the skunk smiled at the rabbit that he had fallen in love with.

"Thanks luv." said Geoffrey.

"Yer welcome sugah." said Bunnie with a sexy little wink to the skunk "Those dang ninjas are gettin' a little bothersome ain't they?"

"I never thought there'd be a day where I honestly miss fighting bloomin' Eggman robots." muttered Geoffrey "They're a lot easier to beat then these guys."

"Well if we can beat Eggman robots, we can beat these ninjas." said Bunnie "Let's go Geoffrey!"

Geoffrey agreed and the couple resumed fighting the Raiju ninjas.

Over to Shade, Rouge and the Chaotix, they were all fighting together and they were against ninjas of all shapes and sizes and with all sorts of weaponry. One ninja with a mace tried to club Rouge into the ground but the bat dodged the attack with ease and she screw-kicked the ninja in the face. Another ninja pounced on her and knocked her down onto the floor. Shade was quick to jump in and defend Rouge by drop-kicking the ninja and knocking him down onto his side. Shade drew out her twin-blades and she Blade-Rushed the ninja with them. A ninja wielding a pair of sais pounced on Shade and knocked her down onto the floor. He tried to plunge the sais into Shade's chest but Shade blocked the attack with her blades and pushed the ninja off of her so she could get back up. The two ended up clashing weapons with each other. Vector, Espio and Charmy were doing as well as they were doing earlier. Espio matched the ninjas blow for blow being as how he was a ninja too, Vector's mighty strength helped him stay on top of the competition and Charmy continued to be a great distraction. Charmy buzzed past some ninjas and he smacked them in the back of their heads while giggling like a little child (oh wait, he is one! Ha, ha, ha!). However, that didn't work for long for a ninja leaped up and smacked him into the ground with a Bo staff. Charmy hit the floor and he whined in pain, clutching his aching head. The ninja was about to hit him again but Espio sent him scurrying back in fear by throwing a shower of shuriken at him. Another ninja with a Bo staff sneaked up behind Espio and butted him in the back with the flat end of the staff and Espio was knocked down onto his stomach. Before he could even pick himself up, another ninja grabbed his tail and chucked him into the wall. To their misfortune though, Espio had crashed into the dungeon door in the wall but Espio was stunned from the attack so he didn't realize where he'd crashed into. And the impact hadn't damaged the door in anyway so there was no harm done there. Vector saw what had happened to Espio and he retaliated with a roundhouse punch to the jaw on the ninja that had attacked Espio. A ninja with a kusarigama attempted to attack Vector but Vector caught the weapon in his hands and he snatched it from the ninja. He socked the ninja in the gut and brought him down onto the floor. But another ninja sneaked up behind Vector and tripped him up with a roundhouse kick to the legs that took them out from underneath Vector. The crocodile landed on the floor with a heavy thud that left him a little winded. Vector was struggling back up onto his feet but before he could do so, Rai suddenly leapt in and picked up Vector. He tossed him upwards and kicked him directly into Espio who was just picking himself up. The two reptiles lay in a heap at the foot of the dungeon door. Charmy buzzed over to his friends to see how they were.

"Vector, Espio! Are you guys OK?" asked Charmy.

"Just peachy." muttered Vector, picking himself up "Those ninjas are getting on my nerves now!"

"They're too powerful for us and there's too many of them." grumbled Espio "We can't keep this up much longer."

"Do you think we should skedaddle before…?" began Charmy but he stopped himself when he noticed something funny about the door

Vector and Espio were lying in front of.

It wasn't your average door, it had bars in it and some kind of knob that puts in a code that opens the door. Charmy began to feel suspicious about the door.

"Hey guys, am I incredibly thick or does that door look like a dungeon door?" asked Charmy.

Vector and Espio looked behind them and they realized what Charmy was on about. They were lying at the foot of a door that clearly looked like it led to a dungeon. The two reptiles looked at each other and then back over at Charmy.

"I think you might be right Charmy." said Vector "That must be a dungeon. I can recall one of those ninjas saying that the emperor was in their captivity so he might be in there."

"Let's see shall we?" asked Espio "And if he is in there, we will get him out of there. And who knows who else might be in that dungeon?"

"Well, let's break the door down and see who the Raiju Clan's holding captive shall we?" asked Vector "If luck's on our side, there might be someone who can help us in there."

With that said, Vector cracked his knuckles and he punched at the door. Espio joined in and the combined efforts of the two broke the door down in a few punches. Luckily for them, the Raiju Ninjas were too preoccupied to notice them so they could do this without getting spotted. Vector, Espio and Charmy sneaked down the steps and into the dungeon, wondering how many prisoners they might end up rescuing down there.

As for Conquering Storm, her ninjutsu skills were beginning to overpower Knuckles and Shadow despite their best efforts together. Knuckles and Shadow were beginning to tire out but Conquering Storm, thanks to her ninjutsu enhancing her stamina, was able to keep going. Knuckles punched at Conquering Storm but Conquering Storm dodged it with ease and she grabbed Knuckles' arm. She flipped the echidna over onto his back and slammed him on the floor as hard as she possibly could. Shadow ran towards Conquering Storm but the lynx swung Knuckles around and whacked Shadow with him. The two were sent sprawling across the floor. Conquering Storm ran towards Shadow and Knuckles but Shadow picked himself up and spin-dashed at Conquering Storm. He hit her and knocked her down once again. Conquering Storm picked herself up but Shadow pounced on her from behind. He grabbed her by the shoulders with his hands, flipped himself over Conquering Storm while still holding onto her shoulders, and as his feet touched the ground he hoisted Conquering Storm off the floor and tossed her into a wall. Conquering Storm picked herself up just in time to block an attack from Knuckles. Conquering Storm slugged Knuckles in the gut, then slammed him on the head and then backhanded him across the room. Shadow threw some Chaos Spears at Conquering Storm but Conquering Storm dodged the spears and she rushed towards Shadow. She dropkicked Shadow in the face and the black hedgehog was brought down onto the floor again. Conquering Storm grabbed Shadow by the throat and she tossed him towards Rai. Rai punched Shadow before he could crash into him and Conquering Storm bent over backwards as Shadow headed towards her. Shadow hurled over Conquering Storm and Conquering Storm raised her leg up, kicking Shadow and sending him crashing down a few feet away from her. Shadow groaned in pain and the black hedgehog strained to get back up onto his feet. Conquering Storm advanced on Shadow and she prepared to beat him some more.

"Some ultimate life form you are." she scoffed "You're being bested by a ninja master such as myself. This whole fight is proving the Raiju Clan is truly the mightiest force in Chun-Nan."

Shadow cried out in rage and he tried to unleash hell on Conquering Storm but Conquering Storm grabbed his arms and began to punch him in the sides of his head as viciously as she could. The punches made Shadow feel light-headed and bedazzled. Being punched in the side of the head is very painful after all. Conquering Storm then knocked Shadow back down onto the floor and kicked him as viciously as she could.

"You should have stayed back at your home." sneered Conquering Storm "But even then, home wouldn't be very safe for you. I've decided that if I am to keep my title as Ruler of Chun-Nan, I will have to conquer the whole world and eliminate any possible attempts at resistance. After all, if you and your pitiful bunch of friends are attempting to overthrow me, some other people might rally up against me. If I expand my conquest then maybe I can eliminate any possible resistance attempts against me."

"You couldn't possibly take over all of Mobius." snapped Shadow, picking himself up and clenching his fists "One person can't fight the whole world. And you'll never get to conquer the world for we will stop you before you get beyond Chun-Nan!"

With that said, Shadow suddenly threw a Chaos Spear at Conquering Storm's eyes and the attack blinded her momentarily. Conquering Storm screamed in pain and she clutched her throbbing eyes. Who knew a Chaos Spear to the eyes could be so painful. Shadow took the perfect opportunity to go to town on Conquering Storm. He unleashed a flurry of attacks on the blinded lynx and he added a couple of spin-dashes in there too. Conquering Storm was thrown down onto the floor and she was helpless against Shadow since her vision was distorted momentarily. She picked herself up but Shadow spin-dashed her and slammed her into the wall. Conquering Storm screamed in rage and she rubbed her eyes again. Her eyes were a little blackened around the edges from that Chaos Spear. That rub seemed to clear them up a little and she just managed to see Shadow coming towards her again. He punched at her but Conquering Storm dodged the punch and left Shadow to punch the wall instead. Conquering Storm and Shadow both glared at each other and they prepared to carry on fighting.

"You will snap like a spinal cord for that!" snarled Conquering Storm.

"Not if I snap you first!" retorted Shadow.

"Conquering Storm, your fight is no longer with the heroes of the west, it is now with me." came a raspy voice that Conquering Storm didn't expect to hear again.

The whole fight just suddenly seemed to ground to a halt after that voice was heard and the fighters all starred in disbelief at where the voice came from. Conquering Storm looked in the direction of the voice and her jaw dropped. To her horror and shock, Matilda's mentor Master Kai was standing in the centre of the throne room with Bladefeather, Mushu, Master Gāng, Emperor Tai and Li Moon by his side. Team Chaotix had broken them free of their acupressure cuffs and they had come out of the dungeon to join in with the battle against the Raiju Clan. Master Kai had a deathly serious glare on his face and he looked like he was ready to kick some Raiju Clan butt right now. The odds were about to turn in the Royal Fighter's favour right now…

Back over at New Mobotropolis, Eggman's robots and the Royal Fighters were locked in combat and the Royal Fighters were winning. The Egg-Pawns were getting destroyed by the dozen by the Royal Fighters and only Katherine was doing any good against them because of her superior fighting skills and technology. Miranda, Kari, Thunder and Bolt were fighting Katherine and the main reason behind this is because they owed her much for what she did to Miranda the last time they met. Katherine slashed at Miranda and almost caught the mongoose across the stomach but Miranda dodged the attack and she zapped Katherine in the wrist with her electro-prod. Katherine retracted her arm and she deployed her force-field to keep the attacks off of her. Thunder and Bolt began throwing lightening bolts at Katherine but they all ricocheted off the barrier. Katherine shortened the barrier so it was only a red outline around her body and she lunged at Thunder and Bolt. Thunder and Bolt dodged Katherine's attack and they zapped her in the back, knocking her down onto the ground. Kari stepped in and began to pound Katherine on the head as hard as she could with her spanner. But because Katherine had her force-field deployed, the spanner didn't do any damage to her. Katherine expanded her force-field and it sent Kari flying backwards. Miranda ran over to help Kari back onto her feet. Katherine shortened her force-field again and she and the Northern Royal Fighters began fighting again. Team Adabat and Kiara were stuck fighting Eggman robots though and while they could see the Northern Royal Fighters needed help fighting Katherine but they couldn't get to them because the Egg-Pawns were keeping them away from them. The Egg-Pawns weren't much competition but because there were many of them and they just kept coming, Team Adabat and Kiara were forced to keep fighting them. Dr. Eggman watched the whole thing from up in his ship and he was pleased to see that his distraction was working.

"The distraction is working perfectly." said Dr. Eggman "Devion, I think it's time for you and the Burrow-bot to deploy and sneak into New Mobotropolis now."

"I agree master, now is the perfect time to strike." said Devion "I shall return to you with Sonic's head in my claws."

Dr. Eggman grinned widely at that very thought. Sonic was as good as dead, especially since Devion was the one that was going to be doing the dirty work. Devion left the cockpit and prepared to be deployed and Dr. Eggman steered the ship closer to the city so that he could drop Devion off and he could begin his assassination. Nobody would see this coming and nobody would be able to stop him once Devion was deployed and in the city, ready to kill Sonic once and for all while he was weak, unconscious and bed bound right now. Sonic's friends would have terrible news to come home to once they got back from Chun-Nan…

Well people, we're at the end of the saga! What's going to happen next? Can Master Kai Zen, the very person who's trained Matilda to the warrior she is now, defeat Conquering Storm? And can the Royal Fighters stop Devion before he kills Sonic? I dunno, we'll find out in the next chapter so stay tuned everybody!

Story 119: Duelling the Storm

The Royal Fighters had launched their attempt in overthrowing the Raiju Clan and freeing Chun-Nan from their evil grasp. The plan wasn't going so well at the moment what with the Raiju Clan being very difficult to take down given their amazing battle prowess. Conquering Storm, their leader and been holding out surprisingly well too although Shadow had put up a reasonable fight against her. However, it seemed that things were going to turn in the heroes' favour for earlier in the fight, Team Chaotix had found the dungeon and had broken the prisoners out of it. Now the Raiju Clan had to deal with Master Kai Zen, the mentor of Princess Matilda, Bladefeather the Falcon, Matilda's boyfriend and dagger-thrower, Mushu the Iguana, the silent companion of Bladefeather and Master Gāng, their mentor. Emperor Tai, the emperor of Chun-Nan, and Li Moon, Matilda's friend, were here too but they weren't fighters so they were staying out of this one. Conquering Storm could hardly believe her eyes and she stared at her escaped prisoners in horror.

"How did…you…what?!" she cried "How did you…?"

"We were helped by a trio of heroes who refer to themselves as "Team Chaotix" Conquering Storm." explained Emperor Tai, motioning over to Vector, Espio and Charmy who just put on gormless grins and they waved tauntingly at the ninja lynx "They managed to find us during your battle with Sonic's friends."

"And now we're free from our captivity, I am going to finish you off myself Conquering Storm." said Kai, standing forward and pulling his hood up over his head.

"Um sir? Are you sure you can handle her by yourself?" asked Tails unsurely "I mean, she's very strong and powerful you know…"

"You needn't fret about this situation my little boy." said Bladefeather reassuringly "This man that stands before you is Master Kai Zen, a kung-fu expert and the mentor of our glorious Princess Matilda. He can handle this."

"No way! That's Matilda's mentor?!" squeaked Ruben in an excited manner "Oh my gosh! I never thought I'd ever see the man behind Matilda's kung-fu skills in person!"

"Had things not taken these twists and turns, you would never have seen Kai in person since he is a vigilante kung-fu warrior." said Bladefeather "Meaning he always goes out in disguise, even when he's tutoring his pupils, and he only takes it off when he's alone. That kind of life makes him harder for the villains to track since they see a man in a mask and he could be anybody under it. Conquering Storm has relinquished him of that life now by revealing his face to us all so he's no longer a vigilante warrior."

"That's too bad for him." said Ruben "Oh well, he can make Conquering Storm pay for this now he's free! This is going to be great!"

"It certainly well Ruben." said Bladefeather, grinning sinisterly at the very thought of Conquering Storm being battered and beaten by Kai's own hand.

Kai and Conquering Storm stared each other down and they prepared to do battle.

"Why do you wish to fight me alone vigilante warrior?" asked Conquering Storm.

"Because I'm the only one who stands a chance against you." said Master Kai grimly "And I owe you much for taking away my life of vigilance by revealing my face to everybody. As such, I challenge you to a duel of honour. If I win, you relinquish Chun-Nan back to us. If I lose then we go back in your dungeon and you keep Chun-Nan forever."

"Kai Zen, I don't think that's a wise wager!" cried Emperor Tai "Don't make that deal! If you lose then we're all doomed!"

"Trust me your eminence, I don't make wagers I know I can't win." said Kai with a reassuring smirk on his face "So, do you except this Conquering Storm?" he asked, turning back to face her.

"Without a moment's hesitance." said Conquering Storm coldly "We Raiju Ninjas love a good duel of honour. And I look forward to facing the mentor of Princess Matilda in battle. Maybe you're as pathetic as she is!"

"Matilda only lost because she's not yet at the expert stage of kung-fu." retorted Master Kai "But I am. So I will not be so easy to defeat. And besides, you only win your battles by having your ninjas by your side or relying heavily on cowardly tactics such as heavy reliance on blocking and defending yourself. I doubt someone like you could dare to face me without using cowardly moves at all."

That little taunt just made Conquering Storm mad. And that's just what Kai was trying to do. He knew Conquering Storm's weaknesses which was she's a bit of a cowardly fighter in how she constantly blocks and defends and her arrogance and temper are extremely high and using those against the opponent was always a good tactic to use in battle. It guaranteed the chances of you winning in a battle. Conquering Storm clenched her fists and she prepared to do battle.

"You insult my honour kung-fu master!" she growled "I am not a coward, my battle style is not cowardly and defeat you myself! Let's fight!"

"Whenever you're ready coward." said Kai dryly.

That did it. Conquering Storm lunged towards Master Kai and she prepared to deck him one. Kai lunged towards Conquering Storm and the two engaged in battle. This was going to be a battle of the epics and a battle that would determine the fate of Chun-Nan for everyone in the country. This was a battle that was going to be legendary and a battle that nobody would ever forget…

Meanwhile, the Royal Fighters and Eggman's robots were still locked in a deadly brawl with one another. The battle for Sonic's life was getting more intense by the second and despite the high number of Eggman robots falling as the Royal Fighters smashed them to pieces, they just kept on coming. It wasn't helpful for the Royal Fighters that Eggman's fleet ship had a robot production chamber in it and that was why there were so many of them. The chamber hadn't been used so the robots couldn't keep on coming, they'd run out eventually but there was a good number of them already so the Royal Fighters would have to go through quite a lot of them before they were all destroyed. Katherine, Eggman's servant bot, continued to be a major problem for the Royal Fighters with her force-field and swift attacks. She was the only robot who posed any real threat for them right now and even then, she was only the distraction and she was being a very good one at that. Katherine had her barrier as a red outline around her body so she could use her fists on the Royal Fighters. Kiara the Cheetah leaped in and tried to kick Katherine but Katherine widened her barrier and sent Kiara bouncing off of it and flying backwards. Kiara landed on her back and she grumbled furiously. Katherine was beginning to get on her nerves now what with being so hard to hit and using that barrier so efficiently. Scott Lynx and Jessica Cougar tried to attack Katherine by throwing energy spears at her but Katherine kept her barrier deployed and the attacks ricocheted off of the barrier. Katherine then ran towards Scott and Jessica, jumped up into the air, shortened her barrier and then used her drill-attack on the two, sending them sprawling across the ground as she spiralled past them. Scott and Jessica were stunned by that attack and they couldn't help but wonder how Katherine was so powerful. Katherine ran back towards Scott and Jessica but Taran the Lynx stepped in and barged Katherine by ramming her from the side. The resulting barge knocked Katherine onto her side and Taran grabbed her by the neck before she could stand back up. Taran picked Katherine up and then tossed her over to Scott and Jessica. Scott and Jessica summoned energy to their hands and they both leaped up and socked Katherine as hard as they could as she hurled towards them. Katherine's barrier protected her but the power of the attacks left her a little shaken. If Scott and Jessica were any stronger, they might have broken straight through that barrier. Scott, Jessica and Taran all whooped with joy and they prepared to dish out more punishment for Katherine. Katherine picked herself up and suddenly found herself being bombarded by thunder bolts from Thunder and Bolt. Katherine expanded the barrier to keep the thunder bolts off of her self and she fired bladed discs at the two chipmunks. Thunder and Bolt yelped in fright and they jumped to the side to avoid the discs. The two chipmunks then held hands and both of them together tried to give Katherine a big electric shock. The barrier protected Katherine though but the bright flash of the lightening prevented her from seeing anything, allowing Miranda Mongoose, Kari the Rat, Kiara, Scott, Jessica, Taran and Felix the Peacock to sneak up behind her and then all attack her at once. Katherine's barrier may provide good defence but all these people attacking at once was not what she was used to and the resulting attacks sent Katherine rolling forward in her barrier. She was like a guinea-pig in a ball. Katherine rolled around in the barrier for a good few metres and when she finally came to a stop, she lay on the ground, dazed and confused and wondering which way was up. That onslaught had left her feeling very dizzy and her vision was distorted. The Royal Fighters watched her and they prepared to let her have it once again.

"Good job everybody!" said Miranda "But Katherine's not finished yet so let's keep it up for a little longer!"

"Yes Miranda." said the others as Katherine began to pick herself up.

But the Royal Fighters would have something else to worry about now because Devion and the burrow-bot that he was paired up with had finally been deployed. Eggman's ship was hovering closer to the city and Devion fell down from the ship and directly in front of the ring wall that surrounded New Mobotropolis. The burrow-bot, which was a robot with a huge drill as big as a water trough and tank treads much like The Mole from Thunderbirds , landed beside him and it trundled up to the wall and looked for a place to start digging. Devion watched the battle with the Eggman robots and Katherine and he was pleased to see that the distraction was working so well. The Royal Fighters would never find him out or even see what he's doing right now. The burrow-bot found a good place to dig and it aimed its drill down at the foot of the wall. The burrow-bot then started digging. It's drill spun around and made a loud, ear-piercing squeal as it did so, and it began to sink down into the ground. The burrow-bot churned through the grass and soil as if it was nothing and as it began to dig, it sunk down further and further into the ground. The robot's huge drill was making short-work of the earth and in a matter of moments, it began to dig under the wall and aim up for the other side of the wall. The burrow-bot eventually reached the surface on the other side of the wall and it dig straight up through it, leaving a large hole in the ground as it climbed up into the open air on the other side of the wall. Now the burrow-bot had done its work, Devion got down onto his knees and he crawled through the tunnel under the wall. He wriggled through it like a worm and he climbed up out of the tunnel and into the city of New Mobotropolis. It had been no less then a few days ago when he conquered the city and took it for himself and had been in charge of it until yesterday when Sonic and friends finally finished him off. The moment Devion emerged from the tunnel, the citizens of New Mobotropolis spotted him and they freaked out. They began to run around, screaming in terror at the very sight of Devion. They had not been expecting to see him again in a hurry so to see him alive and back in business scared the living daylights out of them. Devion just watched as the Mobians ran around, screaming in terror and he chuckled to himself.

"The sounds of a panicked individual are music to my audio-receptors." he purred softly to himself "Now…where might a hospital in this wretched excuse for a city be?"

Devion began to stalk through the city of New Mobotropolis while the burrow-bot trundled back through the tunnel under the wall and waited for Dr. Eggman to pick it up. Devion kept his sharp visor open and he looked everywhere for the New Mobotropolis Hospital. He had no idea what hospital he'd be looking for but he knew one when he saw one so he'd find it eventually. Especially as the New Mobotropolis Hospital is the ONLY hospital in New Mobotropolis. Devion searched and searched for the hospital. He didn't bother asking any citizens for help since they'd likely refuse to comply. He'd just have to find it himself. As Devion searched for the hospital, he passed Castle Acorn and he glared at it as he walked by. If he wasn't on an assassination mission, he'd be quite happy to destroy the castle. But that was for another time. He was only here to kill Sonic right now and that's what he was going to do. Unfortunately for Devion, Nicole the Lynx was looking out of the window and she saw Devion walking by. When she saw Devion, the lynx thought her heart was going to stop.

"Devion?!" she shrieked "And he's back online?! But…but this can't be! We…we beat him yesterday!"

"What's going on Nicole?" asked Queen Sally Acorn, who was in the room with Nicole at this very moment.

"Devion's been repaired and is back alive!" shrieked Nicole "And he's here in the city right now!"

Sally thought she was going to die of shock right now. Sally charged over to the window and she looked out of it. The moment she saw Devion, prowling around and looking for the New Mobotropolis Hospital, she though she was going to go numb all over and then accidentally fall out of the window. Sally had been hoping to see the last of Devion but right now, he was back alive and ready to cause destruction.

"No…No! This…this is…impossible!" choked Sally "Devion was… defeated yesterday! He…he can't possibly be back!"

"I agree Sally." said Nicole "My best guess is someone must have taken his body and then rebuilt him and brought him back alive. And no prizes for guessing who that person is."

"Dr. Eggman." muttered Sally grimly "Well if that fat man thinks Devion is going to help him conquer our world then he's got another thing coming! Nicole, I'm going to change into something more suitable for a fight right now and after I've done that, we're going to face Devion together and stop him before he can do any harm."

"But…we can't face Devion!" shrieked Nicole "Have you forgotten how powerful he is?"

"No Nicole." said Sally grimly "But given how he was rebuilt by Eggman and NOT by a Devatron, he might not be as powerful as he used to be. And that will be our advantage over him."

With that said, Sally went into another room to change her clothes as an elegant queen's dress was not the right thing to go into battle in and she didn't want it to get wrecked. As Sally changed her clothes, Nicole watched as Devion continued to look for the hospital. Devion still hadn't found it yet but he was not about to give up. He kept his visor open and he scanned his surroundings. He then spotted a tall, silver building with a shiny, silver hospital plus sign on it. That obviously meant that was a hospital. Devion had found it at last. Now all he had to do was find Sonic and kill him for Dr. Eggman. Devion ran off to the hospital as fast as he could. Nicole watched Devion run off and she quickly realized that he was heading to the New Mobotropolis Hospital. What a shock the lynx felt as she saw him heading to the hospital. It was clear to her on what Devion was up to and that made her more determined then ever to stop him. Devion arrived at the hospital and he punched his way through the door, not even bothering to open it. The people inside the hospital all panicked and they ran around in fear. Devion stormed over to the reception desk where a female wombat in a smart uniform sat and he thumped his fists on the desk.

"Tell me which room Sonic the Hedgehog resides in and I promise you, you will remain alive!" he thundered at the terrified wombat.

"H-h-h-h-he's on the third f-f-floor in r-r-r-room A-113!" shrieked the wombat, sweating madly.

Devion didn't say another word and he stormed off to find a lift so he could take it up to the third floor of the hospital, leaving the terrified wombat trembling in her seat as he left. He quickly found a lift and he pressed a button to open the doors. The doors opened up and Devion stepped into the lift. The doors closed and Devion pressed the button that took it up to the third floor. The lift whisked Devion up to the third floor of the hospital and the doors opened. Devion stepped out of the lift and he prowled through the corridors, looking for room A-113. He found room A-101 and he decided to follow the doors down the corridor until he got to room A-113. The numbers climbed up the number table as they went along so Devion would have no problem finding Sonic's room in this hospital. Devion strode down the corridors until he got to room A-113 and he opened the door. Mariah the Medicine Cat was still in the room and sitting beside Sonic. The moment she saw Devion, she leaped to her feet and she stared at Devion in horror. She backed away in fright and began to gibber in fear. Devion glowered at Mariah and he advanced on her menacingly. He grabbed Mariah by her robe and he threw the elderly cat straight out of the room. Mariah landed outside the room, spluttering hoarsely and she tried to get back to her feet. Devion walked slowly up to Sonic's bed and he glared at him. Sonic was still unconscious from yesterday and he was breathing nice and slowly. The heart-beat monitor beeped in perfect rhythm but at this moment, Sonic's heart wouldn't be beating anymore. Devion cackled to himself and he clenched his fist, deploying the long sharp blades from his arm-mounted gauntlets. Devion aimed for Sonic's chest and he prepared to plunge the blades into Sonic's body but before he could deliver the killer blow, Sally and Nicole suddenly burst into the room and they jumped over Sonic's bed and onto Devion, bringing him down to the floor. Sally's new outfit she was wearing for this fight consisted of a black tank top, black shorts, a blue vest that was closed up, white gloves with blue bracelets around the wrists and a pair of blue boots. Sally and Nicole both tried to keep Devion down on the floor but the Devatron leader effortlessly threw them both off of himself. Devion raised his arm blades and he glowered at Sally and Nicole.

"I was expecting resistance." he muttered "And now it's here, I may as well get rid of it so that I may commence with my objective."

"Try all you like Devion!" yelled Sally bravely "We will NEVER let you kill Sonic! We will defend him from you and we will fight you to the bitter end if we have to!"

"Then allow me to deliver your karma you foolish females…" purred Devion dryly.

With that said, he lunged at Sally and nearly sliced her head off with his gauntlet blades. Sally ducked just in time to avoid losing her head and she kicked Devion in the stomach. All that did was give her a sore foot given how strong his armour was. She clutched her foot, grumbling to herself in annoyance, and Devion kicked her back. Nicole leaped in, stood up on her hands and began to kick Devion in the head furiously. Devion took all the blows but Nicole's rapid attacks were making it hard to retaliate and they were making him back away. Nicole spiralled around and jumped back onto her feet. She then tripped Devion up and brought him down onto his back. Devion was back on his feet in seconds and he slashed at Nicole with his arm blades. Nicole bent over backwards to dodge the blades and she rammed Devion with her shoulder. Devion grabbed Nicole by her hair and threw her into a wall. Nicole slid down to the floor and she rubbed her head tenderly to subside the pain in her skull. Devion tried to stab her with his gauntlet blades but Sally jumped in from behind and kicked Devion in the back, using the sole of her foot this time so it would hurt less. Devion turned around sharply and tried to slice Sally in two but he missed and Sally tried to trip Devion up but Devion lifted his foot up to prevent her from tripping him up. This just left Sally sweeping the floor with her foot and nothing happening. Devion grabbed Sally by the back of her vest and he hoisted her up to his height. Devion then dropped Sally but before she could land on the floor, he kicked out and sent her hurling across the room. Sally crashed into the wall and lay beside Sonic's bed. Amazingly, Sonic was still asleep despite all this noise going on. Sally picked herself up and she and Nicole both leaped towards Devion. Devion slashed at them and left them both with a long cut across their faces each and they both fell down to the floor. Sally and Nicole both rubbed their faces and Devion add insult to injury by dropkicking them both. They were sent flipping over onto their backs and they scrunched their faces up as pain surged up their backs. Sally and Nicole picked themselves up and they braced themselves as Devion lunged at them again. Devion may not be the same Devion they'd fought the past few days but he was still deadly and if Sally and Nicole couldn't stop him then Sonic was dead meat. He'd be dead before he could wake from his coma…

Back over at Chun-Nan, Master Kai Zen and Conquering Storm were locked in mortal combat (yes, I just made that reference!) as they fought for Chun-Nan. The fight was as fast and as furious as a fight between a ninja and a kung-fu master always would be. And so far in this battle, Kai appeared to be winning. Given how Conquering Storm's been in battle for a good while already and Kai's only just started fighting, Kai had the advantage as Conquering Storm was wearing out from the previous battle and he was just getting warmed up. But despite this, Conquering Storm continued to be a powerful foe and was doing well to hold up against him. Conquering Storm tired to perform her sweep kick manoeuvre on Kai but the badger jumped over Conquering Storm, landed behind her and kicked out backwards, knocking her down onto her stomach. Conquering Storm growled furiously and she leaped back onto her feet…only to get an uppercut to the face and get knocked down onto the floor again. Kai then grabbed Conquering Storm by the shirt and he threw the lynx across the room and into her own throne at the back of the room. Conquering Storm picked herself up and she leaped behind her throne. She kicked the throne towards Kai but all he did was stand there and let the throne come towards him. He then lashed out and destroyed the throne in one punch. Conquering Storm would need a new place to sit once this fight was over. But the throne did what Conquering Storm intended it to do, and that was be a good distraction, and as Kai destroyed it, she lunged towards him and rammed Kai in the gut. Kai ignored the pain and he slammed both of his fists on Conquering Storm's head. Conquering Storm retaliated with a flurry of ninja kicks but Kai managed to block them all. The Royal Fighters could only stand there and stare in surprise, amazed at how fast Kai was moving despite his old age. Conquering Storm grunted and growled in annoyance as she tried to hit Kai but the badger was just too fast for her and he blocked every move she threw at him. Ruben stared at Kai in amazement and he could easily see how he was Matilda's mentor. Kai was like Matilda if she was a lot faster and a lot more powerful. But that was because Kai was at the expert stage and Matilda was in-between. The expert stage of kung-fu made you as powerful as this after all. Conquering Storm finally stopped kicking at Kai and she tried another attack. She tried to nerve-pinch Master Kai and knock him out just like she had done before* as she took over Chun-Nan. But Kai grabbed Conquering Storm's fist and twisted her arm to one side. Conquering Storm yelped in pain and she punched Kai in the face with her other arm but that punch didn't seem to affect Kai much. Kai just calmly rubbed his cheek as if it was nothing much and he slugged Conquering Storm in the gut. Conquering Storm doubled over in pain and she tried to catch her breath. Kai didn't give her time though for he kicked Conquering Storm across the room. Conquering Storm landed at the feet of her star-ninja Dàfēng Rai and Rai bent down to help her up.

"Conquering Storm, you're struggling. May I assist you in this fight?" asked Rai.

"No! I can handle this!" snarled Conquering Storm "And this fight is between me and Kai only, none of you are allowed to interfere!"

"Yes Ma'Am." said Rai in a disappointed manner.

Conquering Storm picked herself up and she clenched her fists in rage. Kai rushed towards Conquering Storm and began to shower her with a rapid flurry of punches that were so fast, his fists were nothing but blurs. Conquering Storm resorted to her defensive tactics by blocking his attacks. But due to how fast Kai was moving, it was hard for her to block all of his attacks. Kai managed to get a few strikes on her here and there while Conquering Storm blocked all the other punches. Kai then roundhouse kicked Conquering Storm in the legs and tripped her up. Kai tried to attack her before she could get back up but Conquering Storm raised her legs and used them to keep Kai back. She then pushed Kai away with her legs and she leaped up onto her feet, swinging her head forward and delivering a terrible head butt to Kai's face. When you're a ninja, you have a skull like steel. Kai grimaced and he gripped his face in pain. That head-butt hurt like crazy and that was by far the most powerful attack Conquering Storm had launched on him in the whole fight. Conquering Storm took advantage of Rai's stunned nature and she began to rapidly punch and kick him in several places all over his body. Kai couldn't keep up with Conquering Storm for she was moving too quickly and he had not been ready for her. Conquering Storm delivered an uppercut, a left hook, a right hook, a kick to the gut and then she used her sweep kick attack. She took Kai's legs out from underneath him and tripped him up but before he could land on the floor, she kicked him across the room. Kai hurled across the room and he landed at the foot of the doors to the throne room. Kai wasn't in too much pain but that attack had been quite powerful and it had left him feeling a little beaten. The sweep kick was one of the most powerful attacks a ninja could learn after all and only ninjas knew this attack so he, a kung-fu master, wouldn't be able to use it against Conquering Storm. Conquering Storm cackled and she advanced on Kai Zen, ready to finish him off. But Kai wasn't down for the count yet. Kai leaped back onto his feet and he slammed the sides of Conquering Storm's face with his fists. That attack left Conquering Storm feeling dazed and light headed. Kai then tripped her up with a kick to the legs and before she landed on the ground,

Kai lashed out and punched her backwards a few feet. Conquering Storm landed on her back and she skidded to a painful halt. Conquering Storm picked herself up and decided enough was enough. She ran over to a random ninja standing by and she snatched his katana that he had in a scabbard on his back. Conquering Storm twirled the katana around and she ran towards Kai. Kai saw her coming and he flipped over Conquering Storm and landed behind her. Conquering Storm twirled around and tried to slice Kai in two with the katana. Kai dodged the katana and he kicked upwards, knocking Conquering Storm backwards. Conquering Storm kept her balance and she tried to slice Kai in two with the katana yet again. Kai dodged her attacks and as Conquering Storm lunged forward with another attempt chop, Kai grabbed her wrist and wrestled the katana out of her grip. The katana landed on the floor and Kai pushed Conquering Storm backwards. He then dashed forward and grabbed the katana. Conquering Storm saw this and she ran over to another ninja standing by. She snatched a kusarigama he was armed with and she twirled the sickle end of the weapon around. Kai twirled the katana around and prepared to fight. Conquering Storm threw the kusarigama at Kai Zen but the kung-fu master blocked the attack with the katana. Conquering Storm drew the weapon back and she twirled the other end which had a battering butt on it. Kai lashed at Conquering Storm with the katana but Conquering Storm dodged the attack and threw the butt end of the kusarigama at Kai. It walloped Kai in the eye and Kai cried out in pain. Conquering Storm then slashed Kai across the back with the sickle on the weapon and Kai cringed in pain again. Conquering Storm then wrapped Kai up with the chain of the kusarigama and pulled him down onto the floor. Kai struggled in the grasp of the chains and Conquering Storm picked up the katana she'd tried to use on him. She pointed the katana at Kai's face and smirked at him.

"An admirable performance mentor of Matilda…" she purred darkly "But now this conflict will end the way my conflict with Matilda should have ended before you interfered. And with you out of the way, Chun-Nan will be mine."

Conquering Storm then raised the katana and prepared to plunge it into Kai's face. But before she could kill him, Kai rolled out of the way, leaving Conquering Storm to plunge the katana into the floor instead where it got stuck fast. Kai picked himself up and he managed to break out of the kusarigama. Conquering Storm tried to pull the katana out of the floor but it was embedded quite deep into the floor and it was getting hard to pull it out. Kai uppercut Conquering Storm into the air and sent her spiralling across the room. Kai then grabbed the katana and yanked it clean out of the floor simple as that. He tossed the katana back over to the Raiju Ninja that owned it since this was a fight that would be fought without weapons. Conquering Storm picked herself up and she cried out in rage. She ran towards Kai but Kai held his hand out and stopped Conquering Storm dead in her tracks by placing it on her forehead and holding her back. He then clapped Conquering Storm across the mouth and roundhouse punched her in the cheek, bringing her down onto the floor. Kai then grabbed Conquering Storm's ankle and threw her over onto her back with a slam. Kai then stomped on Conquering Storm's stomach and made her wheeze in pain. The badger glared at Conquering Storm with his aged but stern looking eyes.

"You have been poorly trained Conquering Storm." he said "You allow yourself to be consumed by your anger and pride and that is why you are losing this battle. Instead of clearing your mind and focusing on the battle, you just rush in and expect to win. If you don't lose your attitude then you will never win this fight."

Conquering Storm pushed Kai off of herself and she picked herself up. Her face was redder then the devil himself.

"You will take back everything you've just said when I'm through with you, you aged old wretch!" snarled Conquering Storm.

She then pounced on Kai, pinned him down to the floor and began to throttle the poor badger. Conquering Storm was attempting to throttle Kai to death. Kai however effortlessly wrenched Conquering Storm off of himself and pushed her off of himself. Kai leaped back onto his feet but Conquering Storm was ready for him and she slugged him as hard as she could. She then clenched her fists together and slammed them on the top of Kai's head, knocking him down onto his knees. Conquering Storm then kicked upwards and knocked Kai backwards. She jumped up into the air and attempted to stomp on Kai but Kai rolled out of the way before Conquering Storm could stomp on him. Kai jumped up onto his feet and punched Conquering Storm in the face. Conquering Storm punched Kai back. Kai then tried to kick Conquering Storm but Conquering Storm raised her foot above Kai's leg as he kicked at her and then using her foot, stopped the kick and slammed it down onto the floor. Conquering Storm then uppercut Kai in the face and the only thing stopping him from staggering backwards was Conquering Storm holding his foot down with her foot. Conquering Storm raised her foot and then she roundhouse kicked Kai in the face. Kai was brought down onto the floor and Conquering Storm kicked him again, sending him sliding across the floor and coming to a stop at the feet of the Royal Fighters. Kai was beginning to wear out. His old age meant he would often tire quicker then a young warrior and he was struggling to get back up. Bladefeather and Mushu reached out and they helped Kai stand back up. The badger began to rub himself better, grunting and screwing his face up in pain. Conquering Storm laughed at Kai and she advanced towards him.

"I knew this would happen." she sneered "Your age is taking an effect on you. You're getting tired and my attacks are hurting more. You should have retired from fighting a long time ago old man."

Unbeknownst to her, while Bladefeather and Mushu were helping Kai stand back up, Bladefeather had sneaked a dagger into Kai's hand and Kai was holding the dagger right now. He kept his back turned and he stood up straight again. Some of his strength was beginning to come back to him now.

"A kung-fu master never retires Conquering Storm." said Kai "They fight until their lives are over. And my life is far from over…"

He then suddenly spun around and threw the dagger at Conquering Storm's thigh. The dagger plunged into Conquering Storm's thigh and the ninja lynx screamed a blood-curdling scream of pain. She pulled the dagger out of her thigh, the blade drenched with blood, and she tried to fight some more. But the wound in her thigh was already taking its toll on her. Conquering Storm staggered down onto one knee and try as she might, she couldn't get back to her feet. Kai then delivered one last kick to the face that knocked Conquering Storm over onto her back and he picked up Bladefeather's blood-soaked dagger. He pointed the dagger at Conquering Storm's face and Conquering Storm glared at him. She could no longer prolong this fight. Her leg was injured and useless to her and she couldn't fight with just one leg so she could only do one last thing…

"I…yield." grumbled Conquering Storm.

"Wise choice Conquering Storm." said Kai with a dry smirk on his face.

He tossed the dagger back over to Bladefeather and Bladefeather put it away. Kai turned back to Conquering Storm.

"So as it turns out, I am victorious and Chun-Nan will be returned to the emperor." said Kai "And you can spend the rest of your life in the Lóng de dòngxué prison. In fact, your whole clan will spend the rest of their lives in the Lóng de dòngxué prison."

"No we will not!" thundered Rai, drawing out a made and preparing to smash Kai into the ground with it "You may have defeated our master but we will not let you take back Chun-Nan!"

"Yes you will." said Kai coldly "The wager for the duel of honour was if Conquering Storm lost then she would relinquish Chun-Nan back to us. She lost and so, the Raiju Clan must back down and we get Chun-Nan back."

"We maybe ruthless…but we're not without honour…" grunted Conquering Storm "Raiju Ninjas…stand down. We may have lost today but we will be back and we will take Chun-Nan back from the pathetic emperor and his bratty daughter."

"That day will never come." said Kai, nerve-pinching Conquering Storm and knocking her out.

Now that was dealt with, the Royal Fighters instantly began whooping for joy and congratulating Master Kai Zen for his efforts.

"You did it Master Kai!" cried Tails "That was so cool the way you fought Conquering Storm and beat her!"

"Your skills are insane! Where did you learn them from?" asked Amy.

"You beat that nasty, vile woman!" cheered Cream "Chun-Nan's safe from harm again!"

"Thank you ever so much for stopping the Raiju Clan." said Emperor Tai "I'm not sure how I can ever repay you for this sir."

"I seek no reward in my days of defending the country." said Kai "I only do what is necessary to keep the country safe and holy. And remember, I wouldn't have won that fight if it wasn't for these three helping us escape." he added, motioning to the Chaotix.

Had Vector, Charmy and Espio not found the dungeon and freed Master Kai and the others then none of this could have happened. That in a sense made them the heroes of the day. Vector, Charmy and Espio beamed proudly.

"How about that boys? We ended up saving the day for once." beamed Vector.

"If only Sonic could be here to see this." said Charmy "He'd be well happy with us!"

"Well now our job is done, we can return to Sonic and, if he's awake, inform him on everything." said Espio "And we'll be sure to inform the princess too."

"Speaking of my daughter, how is she?" asked Tai concernedly.

"She's fine." said Tails "We got her a room in the hospital back home and she's resting comfortably. Once she recovers, we'll return her to you."

"That will be splendid." said Tai "Thank you for taking care of her. I'm glad she managed to reach you otherwise you never would have known about all this and therefore, never would have been able to help us. Matilda has helped saved Chun-Nan."

"Yes, she has." said Tails "She'll be pleased to hear about all this. Hey, where's Ruben?" he suddenly asked as he noticed Ruben was gone.

"I think you can guess." said Knuckles, motioning over to the pile of aqua-collars in the corner of the room.

Ruben had been searching through the entire pile of aqua-collars all the time they'd been fighting and at long last, he'd managed to find his collar. Ruben cried out like a happy little boy that's found a lost toy and he eagerly clamped his collar back around his neck. A surge went through his bloodstream like an ocean wave and Ruben pointed directly at the Raiju Ninjas. He squirted them all with a huge jet of water that sent them all sliding across the room and crashing into the wall at the end of the room. Rube cried out for joy and giggled inanely.

"I've got my aqua-collar back!" he cried out "Oh yes does it feel good to have this back!"

"Well Ruben's got his collar back and now he can squirt water again." said Amy "Good for him."

"We shall return all of those aqua-collars back to the respective water-panther clans." said Emperor Tai "They'll all be happy to find out we've retrieved their collars at last."

"It's just a pity Hydra can never make up for what he was forced to do." muttered Ruben, remembering what Conquering Storm had said about his friend earlier "Because Conquering Storm killed him."

"Hydra will be observing this from the heavens Ruben." said Bladefeather reassuringly "And he'll be relieved to see that we've gotten the aqua-collars back at last. Now then, what will be next for you heroes then?"

"Well we're gonna return to our home now and spread the good news." said Tails "Especially to Sonic and Matilda. We'll leave you guys to fix everything if that's OK with you."

"We will be fine child." said Kai "The Raiju Clan will be locked up, the oppressed will be freed and Chun-Nan can recuperate from this terror that it has experienced."

"OK." said Tails "Goodbye everybody and we'll see you some other time."

"You take care heroes of the west." said Emperor Tai "And don't forget to bring Matilda home when she recovers from her injuries."

"We won't." said Tails as he and the Royal Fighters left Conquering Storm's fortress and headed off to find their vehicles and get back to New Mobotropolis.

Now they had gone, the emperor and the kung-fu masters could start cleaning up the Raiju Clan's mess and delivering them all to the Lóng de dòngxué prison where they would spend the rest of their days along with Zira the Ruthless…

Back at New Mobotropolis, Sally and Nicole were still in battle with the fully repaired and awakened Devion and the battle was going horribly against them. Despite not being the same as before, Devion still had his excellent battle prowess and tough armour and Sally & Nicole didn't have any weapons on them so they couldn't really harm Devion in anyway. As of now, Sally and Nicole were tiring out and Devion was beginning to pound them into the ground. Devion threw Sally and Nicole into a wall and he deployed his gauntlet blades. He advanced on the princess and lady-in-waiting with his blades glistening in the light and ready to make the killer blow. Mariah watched on helplessly and she quickly whipped out a mobile phone that she'd kept on her in case of emergencies. It was quite clear at this moment that Sally and Nicole couldn't beat Devion on their own so she had to call the Royal Fighters and bring them back into the city. It didn't matter if they left Eggman alone for he was not the real threat now, the city's shields would keep him at bay so they could easily abandon fighting the Eggman robots and focus on Devion. Mariah punched in the number and she put the phone to her ear.

Outside the city gates, Miranda received Mariah's call through a communicator she wore on her belt. She was still fighting with Katherine though so she couldn't really answer it without having to keep Katherine at bay. Instead, she took the communicator off her belt and tossed it over to Kiara, who had just managed to destroy another Eggman robot.

"Kiara! Answer this for me please!" cried Miranda as she threw the communicator over to her.

The cheetah caught the communicator in her hands and she put it to her ear.

"Hello, this is Kiara speaking, who is it?" asked Kiara.

"Tell the Royal Fighters to come back into the city!" shrieked Mariah "The hospital's been compromised by a fully-repaired and rebooted Devion! We need you all now!"

Kiara almost dropped the communicator in shock. She couldn't believe what she was hearing. Devion?! Back alive?! And he's in the hospital?! They had to stop him and fast before he tried to kill Sonic! Kiara switched off the communicator and she zipped over to Miranda. She handed the mongoose her communicator back and informed her on what Mariah had just said.

"Miranda! The hospital's been breached! We're needed back in the city!" cried Kiara.

"Oh no!" gasped Miranda "The hospital's been breached…Sonic… he'll be…"

Miranda realized what had to be done so she put her electro-prod back onto her belt and gave out the order.

"Royal Fighters! Fall back!" she ordered "There's danger in the city!"

All the Royal Fighters did as they were told and they stopped fighting the Eggman robots. They all ran back towards New Mobotropolis as fast as they could possibly run. Katherine stood there and watched them retreat. It was quite clear that someone had told them there was danger in the hospital and it had to be dealt with. No matter, Devion could handle them all easily. There was no trouble for the Eggman Empire now so letting them retreat wasn't going to do any harm at all. Devion would just finish them off himself and then Sonic would be dead at last…

Back in the hospital, Devion dealt a few more blows on Sally and Nicole and he slammed them both into the wall. He then grabbed them both by their throats and pinned them against the wall. His blades were sheathed at the moment for his fists weren't clenched. Sally and Nicole both struggled in the grasp of Devion, desperate to get free and fight back.

"Ack…Devion…please…let us…go…" choked Sally.

Devion ignored them and began to tighten his grip on the two ladies, hoping to throttle them both to death. His visor narrowed down to an evil slit that was so thin you could slide it through a letter-box.

"You tried to interfere with my objective and so you will suffer the consequences." said Devion coldly "My master Dr. Eggman will be very pleased when I return to him with Sonic's head in my claws."

Sally tried a last-minute attack to get free and save herself and Nicole from death. She kicked Devion in the gut as hard as she possibly could but Devion didn't even feel that attack. Devion tightened his grip some more. He was gripping Sally and Nicole's necks so tightly their faces began to turn blue. But they wouldn't be throttled anymore for the Royal Fighters had made it hack to the hospital and Felix the Peacock flew straight through a window with Scott and Jessica holding onto his legs. Devion let go of Sally and Nicole and he deployed his arm blades. He glared at the new attackers and he prepared to finish them off as well.

"More resistance." he muttered "That just means more lives for me to take."

"No lives will be lost today vile villain." said Felix "But you will be escorted out of the city."

With that said, Scott and Jessica both summoned energy to their hands and they threw some energy spears at Devion's visor. The spears both hit Devion in the visor and destroyed it, leaving Devion completely blinded. Devion staggered backwards and he crashed into the wall, growling furiously and clutching his face. Had he been his old self, he wouldn't have been so easy to hit. Eggman may have brought him back alive but Devion was not 100% like the Devion they had fought before and that was why Devion was losing now. Now Devion was blinded, the Royal Fighters could take advantage of it. Felix began to whack Devion all over his body with his feather clubs but Devion took all the blows as if they were nothing. Devion deployed his arm blades again and he began to slash at Felix. He maybe blinded but he has other senses like hearing. Scott and Jessica sneaked behind Devion and they both gave the Devatron an energy-powered punch that sent Devion flying through the broken window and crashing down onto the ground outside of the hospital where Miranda, Kari, Thunder, Bolt, Kiara and Taran were all waiting for him. The moment Devion landed on the ground, the Royal Fighters all began to bombard him with attacks and they didn't hold back. Devion managed to get back to his feet and he pushed the Royal Fighters away from him. He could see that the whole mission was in a flummox now and he had to escape before he was destroyed. Devion ran off as fast as he could, the Royal Fighters running after him and desperately trying to catch up to him. They couldn't let Devion stay alive and they had to destroy him or he would continue to be a threat for the Mobians. Devion touched the side of his head and contacted Katherine.

"Katherine, I am in need of assistance! Come to me immediately!" he ordered.

He then suddenly collided with a random house and he fell over onto his side. Being blinded was going to be a problem for him when running from danger in a city like New Mobotropolis. But he would get help soon for Katherine found the tunnel the burrow-bot had dug under the city and she crawled through it and into New Mobotropolis. Devion picked himself up and ran off again, the Royal Fighters catching up to him. Thunder and Bolt threw some lightening bolts at the ground just behind Devion's feet, sending Devion tripping over onto the ground and skidding to a halt. But Devion wasn't down for long. He picked himself up, deployed his arm blades and he slashed furiously, forcing the Royal Fighters to keep away from him. Devion then deployed the concealed laser blasters in the gauntlets and he began shooting at them furiously. It was more a comical case of Devion shooting in ever direction since he couldn't see properly. But he was doing a good job of keeping the Royal Fighters away from him. His rapid and continuous fire was making it hard to find an opening to get to the Devatron so the Royal Fighters couldn't get near him without getting shot. One shot nearly hit Kiara but the cheetah just managed to dodge the attack. Katherine, who had made it into the city, finally found Devion and she ran up to the Devatron. She had her barrier deployed and she leaped in front of Devion, defending him from any possible attack. Katherine then expanded her barrier so that now it was defending her AND Devion both together. Devion sensed that Katherine was here and he held onto Katherine so she could lead him away. Katherine ran off with Devion in tow, her barrier still deployed so nobody could hit her or Devion. The Royal Fighters weren't going to let Devion go so easily so they chased after Katherine. Scott, Jessica, Thunder and Bolt both began throwing energy spears and thunder bolts respectively at Katherine's barrier, the attacks making no impact on it. Katherine led Devion back over to the tunnel under the city and she made Devion go down on his knees. She directed Devion to crawl through the tunnel and stood in front of him as he made his escape, defending him with her barrier. Devion crawled out of the city and Katherine shortened her barrier so she could crawl out after him. The two robots were safely out of New Mobotropolis and they ran off towards Eggman's ship for pickup. Katherine sent a text message to Eggman, informing him of their failure and that they needed picking up. Eggman fumed angrily and he picked up Devion and Katherine with his fleet ship's ascending beam. While he wasn't pleased that the mission had been a failure, he knew it had been worth a try and there was always next time he could try and kill Sonic. And he'd make some improvements to his robots and Devion so that they would succeed in the next mission. The Royal Fighters could only watch helplessly as Eggman retreated from the scene. They'd failed to destroy Devion and Eggman was likely to upgrade him so he'd be even more invincible then ever, then he'd return and try to kill Sonic again.

"Ugh, we almost had him!" grumbled Miranda "Devion lives to fight another day and he'll return to kill Sonic again!"

"Well at least we saved him." said Kari in a positive manner "That's all that matters. We've kicked Devion out of New Mobotropolis and Sonic still lives. We've done our task and I'm sure Sonic's friends will be very gracious when they hear about all this."

"I'll say they will." said Scott "I'm amazed how easy that was though, Devion used to be a lot harder to defeat then this. I guess Eggman didn't quite rebuild him back to his former glory, luckily for us."

"That'll be one advantage we have over him." said Miranda brightly "And the next time Eggman and Devion attack, we'll make sure Devion doesn't leave alive."

Then suddenly, her communicator began buzzing and the mongoose answered it. She put it to her hear and listened intently to who was calling. It was Tails and he was telling Miranda that Chun-Nan was back under the emperor's rule, the Raiju Clan had been defeated and they were on their way back home. Miranda smiled happily and she switched off her communicator.

"Everybody, I have good news." said Miranda "Sonic's friends have succeeded in their mission and they're on their way back."

"I knew they would succeed!" cheered Thunder happily "Those guys can do anything when they get into it!"

"Yeah, and they've just proven they don't always need Sonic on their side." said Bolt "I bet Sonic will be thrilled to hear all this when he eventually wakes up."

Miranda nodded agreeably. This day had been truly wondrous for the Royal Fighters. Two victories in one day, what could be better for them…?

That evening, Sonic's friends had finally returned from Chun-Nan and they had been informed on everything that had been going on while they had been away. They were all surprised to hear that Devion was back but they were pleased to hear that they had done their task in defending Sonic from any attacks. Right now, they were all gathered around Sonic's bed again and watching to see if he would awake from his coma at last. Matilda had requested to see Sonic so Mariah had helped the injured princess out of her bed and into Sonic's room so she could see him. She was thrilled to hear that Chun-Nan was back to normal, Ruben had gotten his aqua-collar back and the Raiju Clan were being imprisoned as of now. She couldn't wait to return home. But for now she'd have to rest and wait until she was well enough to walk about again before she could go home. For now, she could be here for poor Sonic. Mariah monitored Sonic's condition and she was amazed with what she was coming up with.

"Everyone, you won't believe this." said Mariah "The medicine I gave Sonic yesterday is beginning to take effect sooner then I thought it would and he's beginning to come around. He'll wake up in a few moments."

"He is?" piped Amy happily "Oh yay! Sonic's gonna wake up at last!"

"This day just keeps getting better." said Tails "We've saved Chun-Nan, our friends save Sonic and now he's gonna wake up."

"Let's all talk to him and help him wake up." said Matilda "That usually helps an injured person wake up. It worked with me so let's try with Sonic."

"OK." said Tails, leaning forward and speaking to Sonic "Sonic, please wake up, we're all dying to see you again."

"Come on Sonic, you've come back from worse before." said Amy, holding Sonic's hand "You're gonna be OK, please wake up."

"We're all here for you buddy just like you're always here for us." added Knuckles "Come back to us so we can all be together again."

Shadow decided he'd add something of his own so he bent down to Sonic and spoke to him.

"Wake up faker." he said "Or me and you will never get to prove who the ultimate is."

"Shadow!" snapped Amy.

"What?" asked Shadow "I'm just trying to help him too! If that doesn't wake him up, nothing will."

Just as he finished that sentence, Sonic began to stir in his sleep, moaning drowsily to himself. Everybody stared at Sonic and their faces began to light up. It seemed to be working. Sonic was coming too at long last. Sonic continued to moan to himself and then, finally, after what seemed like an eternity, his eyes began to open. Sonic opened his eyes and he saw all his friends standing around him, looking very happy at the fact the hero of Mobius and their long time friend had come to at last. Sonic weakly smiled back at them all.

"Hey there…guys." he said weakly "What's…going on…here?"

"You got shot in the back by something, presumably Devion as he was dying, and we all brought you here to get better." said Tails, happy tears coming to his eyes "We're…we're all too happy to see you awake again…knowing that you're gonna live."

"Well…that's me for you…" said Sonic "The hedgehog…isn't going anywhere…anytime soon."

"You certainly aren't." said Amy, giving Sonic a loving kiss on the cheek, earning an annoyed expression from Sonic but he didn't mind too much as he knew Amy was just showing how happy she was right now "You're still with us and you will be for years to come."

Sonic smiled back at his happy friends and then, he looked over to his other side and noticed that Matilda was sitting there and loving this loving, tender moment between him and his friends.

"Ma…Matilda?" burbled Sonic "What…are you doing here…and where did you get…that hideous scar?"

Matilda's face fell and she put her hand over the scar over her eye.

"It's kind of a long story." said Matilda grimly.

"We'll all tell you it Sonic." said Tails "We'll tell you all what's been going on while you've been asleep all this time."

"OK then…" said Sonic with a cheeky grin on his face "What has the hedgehog been…missing out on?"

Sonic's friends and Matilda began to tell Sonic the whole story on what had been going on in his absence…

But happiness was not to last. For in space, a huge black comet began to sail through space and towards Mobius. This comet was the home of an insidious race of hideous, freaky aliens known as the Black Arms. The Black Arms were all black and red in colour with yellow eyes and they came in all shapes, sizes and forms. Some were humanoid and rather slim creatures, some were very muscular and very large and some had wings and flew around like birds or were giant worm creatures. They were a terrible race and anybody who met them feared them. Their leader was the ruthless, sadistic tyrant that threatened peace everywhere. And his name was Black Doom. Black Doom had two horns on his head, spikes on his cranium, three red eyes, two blank and one with a reptilian pupil, black wrinkly skin which indicated he was quite old and three fingers. He wore a tattered, brown robe with shoulder pads and he wore golden jewellery that made him look quite grand in appearance. He had no legs and just levitated above the ground like a ghoul. He looked very demonic and was pretty much the devil in anyone's eyes. Black Doom could see that the Black Comet was heading towards Mobius. It was not on a collision course. It would fly right past Mobius and disappear for another fifty years. But Black Doom had plans, sinister plans and he planned to make them once the comet sailed over Mobius.

"So…we approach this wretched mud ball of a planet once again." growled Black Doom, his voice very deep, growly and monstrous "At long last, we can finish what we started centuries ago. We have sparred with this planet time and again. And this time, Mobius will cease to exist…"

Story 120: Aliens and Origins

A whole week had passed since the destruction of the Devatrons and the defeat of the Raiju Clan and the Black Comet was finally beginning to pass over Mobius once again (it moves VERY slowly and it was a good few hundred miles away when we saw it in the previous chapter). The Black Comet was never a good sign for Mobius as it was home to the Black Arms, a race of insidious creatures that liked to cause malice and mayhem whenever their comet passed a planet. The Black Comet itself was no ordinary comet, it was the home of the Black Arms and was actually somewhat alive and techno-organic in nature. Standing inside the comet gives off the impression of being inside the body of a living organism, mostly with its pulsating growths, throat like halls, tentacles, organs and a viscous substance that only Death Leeches, the Black Arms offspring, and Black Annelids, a species of worm like creatures that were kept as pets, could live in. The Black Comet truly was a wonder to behold and anyone who saw it instantly grew scared for it meant the Black Arms were coming and they would bring death and destruction to them. Mobius was a popular target for the Black Arms mainly because Mobius was among one of the more challenging planets they came across. The Black Arms had battled Mobius five times already, coming back every fifty years to fight again, and this year, 2143, was going to be their sixth encounter with Mobius and the Black Arms looked forward to it. The Black Arms had more reasons to return to Mobius then simply having fun with them though, they intended to finish the Mobians off at long last and finish what they'd started as they were getting tired of them now and just wanted to put them out of their misery already. Also, they wanted to retrieve a few things that had been stolen from them in the Fifth Black Arms War which was all the way back in 2093 but more on that later. Right now, a huge Black Arms soldier plodded into Black Doom's lair. He was a Black Oak, a large, muscular species of Black Arms renowned for their strength and endurance. He had a scar across his chest that suggested he'd been in a rather bloody conflict and he had a large black and purple sword in a scabbard on his back. This Black Oak was distinctive from the rest in that he was one of the few Black Arms soldiers to be sentient. The Black Arms were mostly like a hive of bees, just following their leader blindly with no questions about their orders or their leader. Few Black Arms soldiers such as this Black Oak we're with now actually had a sentient mind. The Black Oak strode up to Black Doom and he bowed down to his leader but Black Doom had his back turned and was looking through one of the viewing areas of the comet. He had a Black Warrior with him. They were the most common members of the Black Arms army. They were humanoid with no visible mouth, yellow eyes, black and red skin and two toed feet with claws. This one was sentient too.

"Black Doom my lord." said the Black Oak in a gruff voice "The army is primed and ready, we're almost ready to deploy. Just a few more hours and the comet will be over Mobius. I have also been sticking to my training and I'm ready for battle again sir."

"Excellent Oakron." growled Black Doom in his trademark growly voice "I'm glad to see my best soldier has been using his time wisely. Now our army is ready, we can strike Mobius again and this time, finish it off for good."

"Curse those disgusting furry dirt bags!" growled Oakron "And curse their rulers for giving me this!" he added, pointing to the scar on his chest "I will slice them all into bite-sized chunks and then feed them to the Black Annelids!"

"Yes my star soldier." purred Black Doom darkly "Today, we finish off what we started 250 years ago. I want them ALL wiped out when we invade!"

"I assure you that we will not fail you Black Doom." said Oakron loyally.

"I know." crooned Black Doom, his eyes narrowing down to evil slits "And this time, all Black Arms will get involvement, even the scientific kind. In this battle, you will be joined with my best scientist, Nyrah (pronounced nigh-RAH)."

Nyrah, the Black Warrior standing next to Black Doom, proudly stood forward and took out his weapon, which was a ring gun, a gun that fired ring shaped beams and was very powerful. Oakron didn't seem very pleased with this assignment for some reason.

"Are you mad master?! I can't work with this scientific know-it-all!" cried Oakron "Working with a scientist is an insult to my honour! Particularly since this trash is as weak as the Mobians are!"

"Oh really?" sneered Nyrah, his voice exactly the same as Knockout's from Transformers Prime "Then how about me and you prove that theory by having a little contest?"

"I'll happily accept a challenge like that Nyrah!" yelled Oakron, looming over the puny Black Warrior and threatening to smash him to pieces "I will squash you flat you piece of…"

"I am NOT interested in your petty rivalry!" bellowed Black Doom, turning around to glare at Oakron "Nyrah has been on Mobius all five encounters we've had in the past and therefore, has more knowledge and experience then you do Oakron. Knowledge and experience that will help us in this forth-coming war. You two WILL work together or I will obliterate you both."

Oakron clenched his fists and he held in his anger. He instead let it out in a heavy sigh.

"Yes master." said Oakron dully "I will abide to your wishes."

"Good." snapped Black Doom gruffly "Now then, our first move is simple. The Black Comet will be over Mobius in a few hours. You, Nyrah and the Black Army will descend and ransack the popular Royal Grounds known as…Castle Acorn. You will ready the castle for my arrival and then I will descend to Mobius, take their ruler and hold that person hostage. If that does not make them back down then we will resort to brute force. These weak-minded Mobians deserve to bear the brunt of our army."

"That is an excellent plan master." said Nyrah supportively "And while we're down there, we can find the wayward Project: Shadow that we had been working on and get him back on our side. We know he's there after all since we sent him there to avoid losing him to the Xorda."

"Yes." growled Black Doom "Shadow is either still in suspended animation or he's awake and already causing chaos as we speak. If he is then we will be in time to finish the job. Once we've gotten Shadow back, we will use him to find our stolen relics too."

"Indeed, your sword and your Black Chaos Emerald were stolen from us the last time we invaded and we had to abandon them because we were low on soldiers and resources at the time. Now we're back with an even bigger army, we will get them back easily and wipe those Mobians out."

"I look forward to that." said Oakron happily "I'll crush every Mobian skull there is when we get down there!"

"We shall indeed." said Black Doom darkly "Mobius will experience its last breath of life once we descend…"

The Black Arms began to picture that very thought in their heads. This invasion was an invasion that they were looking forward to and it would be the last invasion the Mobians would ever experience from them…

The future. People often wondered what the future would behold for them and what would happen several years onwards from the current year. Unfortunately for Mobius, the apocalypse had come and the planet had been in ruins for over two-hundred years. The Mobian populace had been declining since then and only a hundred Mobians remained. Food and water supplies were dwindling as time went on and the remaining Mobians were lucky they could even get any. Also since proper resources weren't available, reproduction was getting more difficult and any attempts to repair the damages done by this global disaster were in vain as many fell due to exhaustion or extreme weather just stopped them dead in their tracks. Speaking of the weather, it had been very different since the end of the world. Tornadoes often randomly appeared and went, sandstorms struck at the most unexpected of moments and heavy rain and thunderstorms appeared suddenly and lasted several days, even weeks before finally subsiding. The rain was in someway keeping the last remaining Mobians alive since they just got some cups, jugs and bottles out and filled them with rainwater to drink so they were happy to see rain come. The only thing wrong with it being how long it lasted when they came. At least there were monthly gaps between the rainstorms. How a world so lush and beautiful was suddenly reduced to nothing more then a global wasteland with dwindling life was anyone's guess and only two people were trying to find out how it happened. They were, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat. Silver and Blaze had been studying about Mobius' history and trying to find out when zero hour officially came for the planet 200 years ago. The official end date seemed to be some time in the year 2143 and they had the idea that a supposed Martian invasion of the planet might be responsible. They had tried to go back in time to prevent it only to accidentally end up on Greengate, the home of the Seedrian race, and get tangled up in the Martian and Seedrian war*. Their interference resulted in the death of Count Drago, Marik the Martian's uncle and the Martians had sworn revenge. The two Mobians had been hoping to try again and fix the future but other matters had been occupying them like starving survivors and extreme weather. Right now, Silver was floating through the cities that had become ruins by this disaster and returning home from his daily rounds of helping the less-capable Mobians. He and Blaze were special being as they were the ONLY super-powered beings left and that is why they were looking after the only remaining Mobians. Silver had a bit of trouble getting home though. A sandstorm had hit Nekronopolis again and Silver as having a tough time getting through it. He was wearing a pair of goggles which he'd brought with him since a sandstorm had been predicted earlier today and it was a good thing he had brought them otherwise his eyes would be full of sand and he wouldn't be able to see. Silver made a psychic bubble around himself in order to keep the sand off of him and he flew through the storm, looking for his home. If he wasn't protecting himself, the sandstorm would be shredding his skin by now. Blaze the Cat was already at Silver's home and waiting for him and she set her hands aflame so she could signal to Silver where he had to go. Silver peered through the blustering sandstorm and he saw a faint orange tinge in the distance. He guessed that was Blaze signalling to him and he headed towards the tinge. His guess was right and he eventually reached Blaze. Blaze put out her fire and Silver landed on the ground, his psychic bubble disappearing and the teal glow around his body fading away as he stopped using his psychokinesis.

"Those sandstorms are a nuisance when you're trying to fly around and do your daily duties." muttered Silver "Oh well, I managed to deliver the last of the food supplies for the surviving Mobians Blaze."

"That's good Silver." said Blaze brightly but keeping her face straight "So now we've done our duties, we can try again to prevent the Martian invasion from happening."

"We know which date we need to be it but the best thing might be to warp to the date BEFORE May the 4th as we might have a better chance of preventing it." said Silver "We could warn Sonic and friends in advance and then they'll be ready for the invasion and they can stop it before it begins."

"That might be easier said then done Silver." said Blaze grimly "I just hope that killing Count Drago doesn't end up being the reason behind the Martian invasion otherwise we will have inadvertently ended up bringing the whole thing upon ourselves."

"I don't think that'll be the reason they decided to invade." said Silver "Especially as the invasion happened before we ended up interfering with the timeline anyway. I bet Marik's the one responsible for the invasion. He likely got beaten by Sonic and then ran home crying to his mommy and daddy and wants them to finish them off for him. The invasion will still happen regardless of Drago's well-being or at least that's how it seems to me."

"I think you're right Silver." said Blaze "But regardless on what started the whole invasion, we will end it before it begins and hopefully, that'll fix our future. If not then we will have to do more research on what caused this apocalypse."

"I know." said Silver, wandering over to a drawer in the corner of the old room they were in and opening it.

The drawer contained their only remaining means of time-travel now the Time Stone had been destroyed. A Super Warp Ring. It was like a warp ring only you could travel through time with it and hop between zones and time with it. Silver thought about May the 3rd 2143 and he flicked the Super Warp Ring into the air. The ring expanded to several times its normal size and then it opened up with a gleaming golden glow. On the other side of the ring was Mobius 200 years in the past.

"Let's go Blaze!" cried Silver "For the future of Mobius, let us prevent the Martian invasion from happening!"

"Or at the most, stop it from being successful." said Blaze.

With that said, Silver and Blaze both leaped through the Super Warp Ring, leaving their time behind for the time being and warping directly to the past. Hopefully the Martian invasion would be the very thing that doomed their world and that stopping it would fix everything…

Back in the present day, Amy Rose was monitoring an exercising Sonic the Hedgehog. Just yesterday, Sonic had finally managed to get out of bed and in an attempt to shape him back up for battle, Amy decided to start giving him some exercises. Sonic was having his first session right now and needless to say, he didn't appear to be enjoying it much. In fact, he looked like he was very distressed and fed up. Sonic was lying on his side right now, his torso still bandaged up to keep his back in check, and he was attempting to do some leg lifts while his friends watched him, feeling very sorry for him. Sonic feebly tried to lift up his leg and Amy watched him impatiently with a commanding attitude in her. Sonic only just managed to lift his leg up before his leg started straining and it fell back down onto the ground. Amy glared at Sonic and barked at him.

"Leg higher Sonic the Hedgehog!" she yelled.

Sonic tried to lift his leg again but he only managed to lift it about half the height anyone can lift their legs and then it started straining and it flopped back down again. Amy fumed at him.

"Try harder Sonic!" she barked.

Sonic tried to lift his leg again but this time, he couldn't do it and after lifting it about an inch off the ground, it slumped back on the ground. Sonic felt like he was trying to lift a sack full of bricks with his leg. Never in his life had he felt so weak and pathetic but that was only because of his injuries courtesy of Devion the Devatron Leader. If he'd never been shot then he wouldn't be subjected to this kind of torture, being bossed around by Amy and being forced to exercise even though he was barely able to walk again.

"Sonic, do you call that a leg lift?!" snapped Amy "Because I do not! My granny can lift her legs higher then you! Try harder mister!"

"Amy, in case you haven't noticed, I've only JUST got out of my bed!" grumbled Sonic "I've only started walking again since yesterday and it's mostly staggering I can do at best! You can't expect me to start suddenly being fully functional again so soon after recovering!"

"Do not talk back to your instructor Sonic!" retorted Amy "Now get up off your lazy bum and start walking!"

Sonic grumbled to himself and he picked himself up. He then began to stagger a good few paces with Amy watching his every step with a death stare. Sonic's best friend, Tails the twin-tailed fox, just face-palmed himself and groaned in annoyance. Watching Sonic suffer at the hands of Amy Rose was just torment to him.

"Oh man, why did Amy have to do this to poor Sonic?" muttered Tails "Sonic can't start exercising so soon after getting out of his bed and leaving the hospital! He can barely walk so he shouldn't be forced to do this!"

"I wish Amy would let me use a Chaos Emerald to heal Sonic with a Chaos Regeneration." muttered Knuckles the Echidna "But after the whole Chaos Cluster frenzy last year, Amy doesn't want anybody to be using Chaos Regeneration in fear of side effects again. We all know what happened when Sonic used that cluster to heal her."

"But that was a Chaos Cluster, a Chaos Emerald works differently to those clusters." noted Cream the Rabbit "The Chaos Emeralds won't harm Mr. Sonic if we heal him with one."

"I know but Amy's just being one of those "Better safe then sorry" types and I won't disrespect her wishes as that will just tick her off and I don't like upsetting people I'm friends with." said Knuckles "So Sonic will have to recover on his own I'm afraid."

"If Amy makes him exercise like this though, Sonic'll end up back in his hospital bed!" snickered Geoffrey St. John.

The others snickered with him.

"If Amy starts forcing Matilda to exercise while she's only just recovering then I will show no mercy on her." said Ruben the Water Panther grumpily.

"Amy won't get that chance since some of Castle Acorn's staff have taken a hover-saucer and are escorting Matilda back to Chun-Nan so she can be back with her family and recover in a hospital at home." noted Cosmo the Seedrian "So don't worry about Matilda, she'll be safe from Amy's wrath."

That set everybody off again. They thought the last thing Cosmo said was pretty funny. Their laughing was cut short though as Sonic suddenly caved in from strain and he fell over onto his face. He lay on the ground, grumbling to himself and Amy stood over Sonic, tapping her foot.

"Come on Sonic, this is pathetic!" she screeched "You've barely walked more then ten paces! I've seen tortoises walk further then you and they're the slowest things alive!"

"Sorry Little Miss Bossy." retorted Sonic, trying to pick himself up but failing as he was too weak.

Mandy Mouse, the tomboy girl and heavy hitter of the R.F.S., had had enough of Amy making Sonic exercise when he was in no shape to walk about yet. Mandy strode forward and she put Sonic's arm around her shoulder. She helped Sonic back onto his feet and led him back to the others.

"Break time for you blue dude." said Mandy.

"Are you serious?!" cried Amy "We can't let Sonic have a rest! We need him all shaped up and ready to fight Dr. Eggman again! Do you think Eggman's going to let Sonic have a rest?!"

"Amy, you can drop that attitude right now!" snapped Mandy "Sonic's not fit to be exercising and forcing an injured patient to do heavy work like exercising just as they're recovering will exasperate his injuries! Sonic NEEDS to rest or he'll NEVER recover!"

"I don't really like telling people off but I'll make an exception this time." said Cream "Amy, you need to let Mr. Sonic recover on his own and stop being so bossy!

Amy's face quickly changed from a stern, bossy expression to a guilty and disheartened expression. She began to realize that what she was doing was just pushing the injured Sonic too far and that she can't just expect Sonic to be functioning again so soon after getting out of bed. Sonic was still recovering and recovery takes time so Amy would have to give Sonic time to recover.

"Oh Sonic I'm…I'm so sorry for treating you like this." said Amy apologetically.

"It's cool Amy." said Sonic with a weak smile on his face "I understand why you're so jumpy. You're worried about Eggman coming in and trying to finish me off before I can recover so you want me back in shape so I can kick his big fat butt again. You mean well Amy but you're gonna have to be patient, I don't recover as fast as I can run you know!"

Amy snickered at Sonic's remark. Sonic maybe in a bad state so far but he still had his trademark humour at least. Sonic's humour and spirit would never die down, no matter what state he was in.

"Well Sonic, I'm gonna stop playing drill coach and I'll leave you to recover on your own." said Amy "I really should have known better then to do this to you."

"That'll be very nice Amy." said Sonic as Mandy helped him stagger over to the others on the sidelines where the rest of his friends were sitting.

But just as Mandy was helping Sonic to sit down with the others, a bright golden flash appeared from nowhere and made everybody jump in surprise. The golden flash belonged to a warp ring and the warp ring expanded up to twice its normal size. Out of the warp ring jumped Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, future friends of Sonic and co. They had successfully managed to use their Super Warp Ring to warp from their time to Mobius in the year 2143. Sonic stared at Silver and Blaze in surprise as the Super Warp Ring shrunk back down to size and they put their warp ring away. Silver and Blaze observed their surroundings and they realized they had arrived in the right place. It felt good to see Mobius looking to grand and lush in comparison to their dystopia that they unfortunately live in nowadays.

"Well, we made it." said Silver "Now we can save our future."

"Don't get too excited Silver." said Blaze "We're only taking a big gamble at most so don't think we're going to change everything just by preventing the…"

Her voice trailed off as she noticed Sonic and friends all sitting there and staring at her and Silver. Sonic's face brightened and their very appearances seemed to bring new strength to him as he stood up and staggered over to them to shake their hands.

"Silver! Blaze! Man is it good to see you future Mobians again!" cried Sonic happily.

"It's great to see you too Sonic." said Silver brightly "Although it'd be better if we weren't seeing you like this. The Devatron War must have been bad eh?"

"Huh, figures you'd know about The Devatron War." said Sonic grimly "You're from the future and I bet in the future there's books about the whole thing. Yeah, the Devatron war was pretty bad, I've only just been released from the hospital yesterday!"

"You look like you're recovering well though Sonic." said Blaze "To say you've only just been released from the hospital…"

"Hold on a minute there!" interrupted Amy "Excuse me for asking Sonic but who are these two and how do you know them?"

"They're Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, Mobians from the future." introduced Sonic "Silver knows psychic powers and Blaze knows fire powers."

"Sounds cool." said Amy "When did you first meet then?"

"A robot from another zone stole my Sol Emeralds and after chasing it down, we accidentally ended up in your time and Sonic, Tails, Cosmo, Geoffrey, Wilson & Mandy helped us find them all." explained Blaze.

"I see." said Amy "Well my name's Amy Rose and I'm Sonic's girlfriend…soon-to-be girlfriend that is."

Sonic just fumed to himself. Would Amy stop claiming him like this?! They're not in a serious relationship yet! They hadn't even been dating that much yet! Well he knew what Amy was like so he let it slide. It was just in her character to be like this and she wouldn't be Amy Rose any other way.

"And we're Sonic's other friends." said Knuckles, stepping forward to greet the two "I'm Knuckles the Echidna, Guardian of Angel Island."

"Guardian? I'm one too." said Blaze "Guardian of the Sol Emeralds that is, what do you protect then?"

"The Master Emerald." explained Knuckles "On Angel Island in Downunda."

"I guard the Sol Emeralds there too." said Blaze "Although in the future, the Master Emerald is gone and Angel Island sits in an ocean off the cost of Nekronopolis."

Knuckles looked shocked. The Master Emerald is gone in the future and Angel Island has fallen? How did that happen? Hopefully now Silver and Blaze were here, they could probably help to prevent this from happening.

"And who are you lot then?" asked Silver, looking at the others.

"My name's Cream the Rabbit Mr. Silver." said Cream sweetly "How do you do?"

"Mah name's Bunnie Rabbot sugah." said Bunnie.

"I'm Ruben the Water Panther." said Ruben.

"And I'm Shade the Echidna." said Shade "I'm with Knuckles as co-guardian of Angel Island."

"It's nice to meet all of you." said Silver brightly "Meeting the friends and comrades of Sonic the Hedgehog is a great honour in so many ways."

"Flattering I'm sure." said Knuckles "So maybe you can tell us why you've travelled all the way to the past then you two?"

"Because the future is a wreck." explained Blaze "We're from 200 years in the future and the world's been a wreck for precisely this long. Me and Silver strive to find out what triggered this apocalypse and we think we've worked it out."

Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Bunnie, Ruben and Shade all looked at each other with discomforting expressions on their faces. Are Silver and Blaze implying that the world ends at some point in time, maybe THIS exact time? That really wasn't comforting for them in the slightest, what would that mean for all of them if that was what Silver and Blaze were hinting at?

"Ok then you two, what triggers the end of the world then?" asked Sonic "And when's the official doomsday date?"

"Well I began reading a book about Mobius' history." explained Silver, pulling out the book that he'd been reading and using for research "And it says on May the 4th 2143, the Martians invade Mobius and we think that might be the starting ember behind the disaster that dooms the future."

Sonic looked like he was going to faint. The Martians invade Mobius?! Did that mean Marik the Martian ran back to Mars and squealed on him and his friends so that his friends and family could help him destroy Mobius? What a suck-up! Then again, it'd be a job taking down a bunch of Martians. Just Marik alone was a serious threat so how bad would a WHOLE FLEET of Martians be? Somehow, Sonic had a feeling that Silver and Blaze's research might be correct. The Martians dooming Mobius sounded plausible enough and now Silver and Blaze warned them that it was coming, they could prepare for their arrival and prevent the coming apocalypse…hopefully.

"So the Martians invade Mobius on May the 4th 2143?" asked Sonic "Well, it's 2143 now and it's May the 3rd. So the Martian invasion must happen tomorrow then."

"That was the idea." said Silver "We warped ourselves back in time a whole day before the invasion begins so we could warn you in advance. Now we've informed you all that the Martians are going to invade, you can prepare for their arrival and stop them before it begins."

"We're very grateful for your help guys but I think we need more details then just simply "The Martians are coming"." noted Mandy "Does anything happen once they invade?"

"Just read this whole section." said Silver, handing Mandy the book which he had turned to the pages about the Martian invasion already "That'll tell you what we know about it."

Mandy read the book very closely, trying her hardest to make out some of the words that had been smudged or faded thanks to deterioration over time. It was an old book after all and Mandy made sure she was careful with it as any wrong move could easily rip a page or two. Sonic and the others waited as Mandy read the book. After a minute or two, Mandy finally read the whole section dedicated to the Martian invasion, Mandy closed the book and handed it back to Silver. Silver put the book away.

"So the Martians invade and then they take over Castle Acorn?" asked Mandy "Well now we know they're going to do that, we can prevent that from happening. But how exactly does this prove that they're the cause of your dystopia? For all we know, we might stop them after they've taken over the castle. It's not helpful that the book sorta stops after the take over of Castle Acorn so there's some helpful information that's missing and that information might have been helpful for all of us."

Silver couldn't help but agree with Mandy, he didn't have definite proof that the Martian invasion WAS the cause of Mobius' destruction, he was just going on by guesses from what he'd learnt.

"Well we're willing to guess that the Martian invasion is the cause of Mobius' destruction so we're testing that theory." said Silver "The best thing to do is shoot down the theories one by one until we get closer to the truth."

"And once you find out the truth, you can warp yourself to the right time and inform us about it." said Sonic brightly "Since you can time-travel, it won't matter what time of day, month or year it is, you'll always have the chance to tell us."

"That is true." said Blaze "And even though we've come here to tell you about the Martian invasion, me and Silver are gonna stay here until the invasion comes and goes just to see what happens and if we can help in anyway."

"Sounds good." said Tails "So Sonic, do you think we should tell Sally about all this? I'm sure she'd love to know that the Martians are coming."

"I agree." said Sonic "Although Silver and Blaze should tell her so let's bring them with us. Come on you two, we've gotta tell our queen about what you've found out, she'll know what to do about this."

Silver and Blaze nodded and they followed Sonic and friends off to Castle Acorn. Silver decided to help Sonic by carrying him with his psychokinesis as he was having trouble walking. Sonic was surrounded by a teal glow and he was floating above the ground. The Mobians all wandered off to Castle Acorn to apprise Sally Acorn on everything Silver and Blaze had told them. Sally was a smart woman, she would know exactly what to do about the Martian invasion and how to prepare for it before it began…

While all this was going on, Shadow the Hedgehog was sitting on a hilltop and listening to the gentle breeze that blew over the forest at the bottom of the hilltop he was sitting on. After Sonic finally managed to get out of bed yesterday, Shadow felt like he was no longer needed to fill in for him and despite protests from Queen Sally and the Royal Fighters to stay with them and join the R.F.S., Shadow declined as he had his quest to complete. And that quest was to find the answers to his mysterious past. Shadow just could not get those bothersome questions out of his head. Who was he? Why was he made into the image of a Mobian when after Devion experimented on him, it was quite clear he was not Mobian? Who created him and what was his purpose in this big, lonely universe? His time on this planet hadn't been doing him much good as he'd barely found any useful information. The only thing he knew about himself now was that he was not Mobian, just made in the image of one, and that he was likely created by some other being. Shadow put a hand to his head and he sighed to himself as he continued to think on these questions and what the answers were.

"So many questions…" muttered Shadow "And yet there's no way of finding the answers. I've been all over this world ever since I was awakened from stasis and I know barely nothing about my past still. Anything I do know is thanks to Devion and his experiments rather then my little quest. How can I find the answers to my past if there are no answers to find here?"

Shadow lowered his hand and lay back on the long wavy grass that swayed in the gentle breezing wind. He stared up at the sky, realizing for the first time ever how beautiful it looked, and he continued to swim in his thoughts.

"Maybe I should forget about the whole thing…" he mused to himself "Maybe I should move on and be my own person like what Princess Matilda suggested. After all, I am kinda liking my life as it is now. I'd like it better if I didn't have so many questions bothering me but I can fix that easily, just simply stop thinking about it and let it all go."

He stopped talking to himself for a minute and he stared more intently at the sky this time around. His mind now had something new to focus on.

"I've never realized how beautiful the sky looks." he said to himself "I've been so caught up in my quest for the truth I've never had the time to admire the beauty of this planet. This may not be my home but I will happily make this my home now since I'm likely to never find out where I came from. And to think that scumbag Dr. Eggman tried to trick me into destroying Mobius. Well with me around and Sonic recovering from his injuries, he'll never get to desecrate this planet…"

His thoughts were interrupted by an unexpected arrival. It was none other then the first Mobian he ever saw after being awakened from that capsule he was found sleeping in, Rouge the Bat. Rouge had been going her own way again after the whole ordeal with the Devatrons and the Raiju Clan had finally been dealt with and she'd just happened to come across Shadow while hunting for treasure again (what did you expect? It's Rouge the Bat after all, she's always doing that!). Rouge swooped down beside Shadow and she sat down on the grass with him.

"Well, I didn't think I'd be running into you again in such a hurry Shadow boy." cooed Rouge teasingly.

"If I didn't know any better, I'd say you were looking for me." said Shadow with a mocking smirk on his face "Well you found me Rouge so what do you want?"

"I just wanted to see what you were up to." said Rouge modestly.

"I'm just kicking back and swimming in my thoughts right now." said Shadow, keeping his eyes fixed on the sky above him "What have you been up to?"

"I've been hunting for treasure again." said Rouge "There's a beautiful relic I've been looking for, for a while now. It's a golden key with rubies and sapphires in it and it's rumoured to have some kind of power, not that I care since I don't use gems for their powers, only for their beauty and for display."

"Mmm hmm…" mumbled Shadow, not really caring about what Rouge was on about "So shouldn't you be looking for this relic instead of hanging out with me?"

"I've got all the time in the world Shadow boy." said Rouge "I'll find it eventually, don't you worry. So…how's the quest for your past coming on then?"

"I'm wondering if I should keep searching for answers to my past or if I should just give up and move on." said Shadow "Over time, I'm growing to really like this world and I think I wanna make myself at home here. Mobius is a beautiful planet and since I've been made into the image of a Mobian, it makes sense for me to be living here."

"Well if you wanna live here then go ahead." said Rouge "You'll be accepted no problem given how you're a hero along with Sonic boy."

"No, Sonic's a hero." said Shadow "I've only contributed to his heroism, nothing more. Sonic has worked all his life to build this image for him and I will not be the one to take it from him. I maybe superior then him in every way but does that give me a legitimate excuse to steal his spotlight? I'll be accepted simply for aiding Sonic in his adventures and that will be all I need."

"Well Shadow, to me, you and Sonic are both heroes and are both as good as each other." said Rouge, batting her eyelids seductively at Shadow "I think you and Sonic are much better as friends then enemies."

"I do not consider us "friends"." muttered Shadow "More or less "acquaintances". But you are right, we're much better as "friends" then enemies. At least we won't have to go through that again since Eggman will never fool me into thinking I'm his again."

"Couldn't agree more." said Rouge "Speaking of Eggman, I bet…"

She was suddenly cut off by the arrival of something strange and eerie. Much like she had earlier, something suddenly appeared from nowhere and floated directly in front of Shadow and Rouge, making Rouge squeal in surprise and jump. Shadow leaped up to his feet and stared at the thing looking at him. It was a purple starfish like being with a red eye in the centre and dark purple tentacle tips. Shadow's mind was in a whirl just looking at it. Why did that thing look familiar to him all of the sudden? Had he seen it before? The starfish suddenly began to talk, and when it talked, it talked in Black Doom's voice. The starfish was Doom's Eye, a little something Black Doom often sent out to watch someone from the comfort of his own home as well as project images of him and messages and such.

"Shadow. Right now, you are looking at my eye." growled Doom's Eye "And I have sent it to you to send you a cryptic message."

Shadow stood still and entered daydream mode. That voice was so familiar to him all of then sudden. Had he heard it before? In fact… that voice was very similar to the one he'd kept hearing in his head several times in the past. Could this be a sign that his creator was near and had finally found him? Or was his memory playing tricks on him?

"Shadow?" asked the Doom's Eye "Are you listening to me?"

Shadow snapped out of his daydream and he stared back at the starfish.

"I am now." said Shadow "Who are you and what message do you have for me?"

"You will find out soon enough." said Doom's Eye coldly "Right now, you must go to Castle Acorn. Then you shall get the rest of the message..."

Doom's Eye then suddenly flew away and vanished without a trace, leaving the bewildered Shadow the Hedgehog to stand there and wonder what he'd just been told. Rouge began to wonder what was going on too.

"What was that Shadow?" asked Rouge.

"Something…telling me…that I should go to Castle Acorn." said Shadow "And…then I'll get the rest of it's message. But who is it and what did it mean by "I'll find out soon enough"?"

"I dunno, but this whole thing seems fishy to me." muttered Rouge "I don't think we should listen to that starfish thing. It might be leading us into a trap."

"I'm willing to take that risk." said Shadow "Maybe that thing knows something about my origins and it just wants to tell me them. I'm going to Castle Acorn to see what that thing wants to say to me."

With that said, Shadow skated off as fast as he could on his jet shoes. Rouge decided to tag along just to make sure Shadow didn't get into any trouble. The two Mobians ended up on their way to Castle Acorn to see what Doom's Eye wanted to tell Shadow. What was going on? And why was Doom's Eye interested in Shadow in particular? What was it going to tell him? And what did Castle Acorn have to do with all of this…?

They'd soon find out though for the whole thing was being set-up by Black Doom. He'd sent his eye out to find Shadow and now he'd found him, he had told Shadow to come to Castle Acorn, which was exactly where he was going to deploy his troops upon and begin the invasion. Now he could get Shadow back and have him aid the Black Arms in their conquest of Mobius. Black Doom cackled to himself as Doom's Eye returned to him and then disappeared into thin air.

"Shadow is coming back to us." he purred malevolently to himself "I may have lost him thanks to those miserable Xorda forcing me to abandon him in order to save him from falling into their tentacles but I have found him and now he will be coming back to the Black Arms. And just as we're ready to deploy too…"

Black Doom turned to face Nyrah and Oakron, who were standing behind him and waiting to be spoken to before they said anything.

"Are my forces ready?" asked Black Doom.

"We're ready when you are my lord." said Oakron in a prideful manner.

"Black Arms of all occupations are ready to deploy Black Doom and the comet is over Mobius at last." said Nyrah "We await your command."

"Good…" said Black Doom gruffly "Then let us descend down to this miserable mud ball of a planet…and wipe out those pathetic Mobians once and for all! Black Arms…DEPLOY AND DESTROY!" he bellowed at the top of his terrifying voice.

The Black Arms all obeyed and they ran over to the deploying area of the Black Comet. The Black Comet was over Mobius so the Black Arms would descend straight down onto the planet. The Black Comet had a descending beam that would protect them from the planet's atmosphere so they could pass through it without a problem. The same couldn't be said for the comet itself as it's velocity wasn't powerful enough to pass through another planet's atmosphere. The comet would just be looming above Mobius and waiting to pick up the Black Arms when it was time to leave. And once they left, they'd be gone for another fifty years and then be back again to cause more trouble. But this was going to be their last encounter with Mobius as they were going to destroy it so the Black Comet would never pass by Mobius again after this…

Down on the planet below, Sonic and friends were gathered around in the throne room of Castle Acorn where Queen Sally Acorn sat in her throne with her lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx beside her. Sally began to wonder what Sonic and friends were wanting to see her for and she was particularly interested in seeing who the new faces (Silver and Blaze) with them were. Silver and Blaze stood forward and they bowed down to Sally.

"Your majesty." said Blaze politely.

"Hello you two." said Sally "I don't believe I've seen you two before, may I have your names please?"

"Yes Queen Sally." said Silver "My name's Silver and this is Blaze. We're Mobians from the future and we've come to your time to deliver a cryptic warning that'll hopefully, save Mobius from future catastrophe."

"I've met them by the way." chimed in Sonic "Trust me Sal, these guys can totally be trusted and they really are future kind."

"I believe them anyway." said Sally "Time-travel was proven to be possible as far back as 2086 according to history books. So Silver and Blaze, what warning do you bring to us then?"

"Mobius is a wreck in the future and 200 years from now, we're barely surviving." explained Silver "We've been studying to find out what causes this disaster and we found out that on May the 4th 2143, the Martians invade Mobius and we think the Martian invasion might be the cause for Mobius' dystopia in the future."

Sally was so shocked to hear this she almost leaped out of her throne in the manner of someone jabbing her in the bottom with a pin. The Martians invade Mobius? Mobius is a wreck in the future? Possibility of the two being linked? This was terrible news to hear but at the same time, it was good to be hearing of this now so that they could prepare for this invasion and stop it before it begins. Sally relaxed herself and looked back at Silver and Blaze.

"So the Martians, Marik's people, invade Mobius on May the 4th this year?" asked Sally slowly.

"Yes." said Blaze grimly "This book is where we found out about it." she said as Silver took the book out to show Sally "It wasn't complete but it tells us that the Martians invade Mobius and at one point, they take over Castle Acorn and we didn't get anymore after that as there are some pages missing. But we're guessing that they destroy Mobius after they take over Castle Acorn so we've come back here to warn you about it and help you to prevent the Martian invasion from happening."

"I see." said Sally "Well we've had plenty of experiences with Martians, we've been battling one of them for a while before he disappeared during the Devatron war. I'm guessing you've heard of Marik the Martian since you're from the future and have likely read about him."

"We do." said Silver with a disgusted expression on his face "We even met the little creep the first time we met Sonic. We met him again when we tried to warn you about the Martian invasion the first time but we accidentally ended up on the Seedrian Homeworld…"

"You accidentally ended up on my home planet Greengate?" chipped in Cosmo in surprise "How's the war going between my kind and the Martians?"

"Seemed pretty even sided to me." said Silver "Me and Blaze ended up getting tangled up in it and…I accidentally killed Marik's uncle Count Drago."

Cosmo was surprised to hear this. She knew Count Drago all too well. Count Drago had once attempted to kidnap her and Galaxina and hold them hostage in exchange for the Seedrian's surrender. She was surprised to hear that Drago was dead now, hopefully that would help the Seedrians a bit in their war with the Martians.

"So Count Drago's dead?" asked Cosmo.

"Yes." said Blaze "I bet though that's going to be the main reason the Martians will be wanting to invade Mobius though. To avenge Count Drago as well as Marik since Marik's easily the one who suggested the whole idea."

"So if the Martians want to invade Mobius then…does that mean they win the war with the Seedrians?" asked Tails curiously.

"We're not sure." said Silver modestly "The book didn't have that information. Either the Seedrians win and the Martians leave to target Mobius next or the Martians win and they target Mobius next. Either outcome will result in the same for you all, the Martians will be coming and they'll want to kill all of you."

"Well, since you two wonderful people have come to the past to warn us of this coming event, we will prepare for the Martian's arrival." said Sally with a stern expression on her face and standing up from her throne "That invasion will be stopped before it can fully commence. It's May the 3rd now so we have the rest of this day to prepare for them. We should get all Royal Fighters to get out their best and heaviest weapons and we will set up…"

Before Sally could finish what she was saying, the roof caved in and rubble rained down on everybody in the throne room. Silver used his psychokinesis to stop the rubble from falling on top of everybody.

Now he'd caught them all, he gently lowered all the rubble down to the floor. After that sudden cave in, the Black Arms suddenly began to rain down from the sky, descending down a bright red beam of light that shone over Castle Acorn and they all landed in the throne room of Castle Acorn. Everybody immediately began panicking and backing away in fear as the Black Arms all rained down into the room and began snarling viciously. The Royal Fighters stared at the Black Arms in disbelief and wondered what they were. Sally stared at them in horror. She knew what they were. Her father had told her stories he'd heard about them and then shown her the history books written about them. Her heart turned to jelly, seeing the Black Arms in person for the first time and being as she was going to be one of the unfortunate royals that has to deal with them. As the Black Arms began to descend from the sky and into the throne room, Shadow and Rouge arrived at Castle Acorn and they ran into the throne room to see all the commotion. The moment Shadow saw the Black Arms though, he began to have some flashbacks. They looked familiar to him for some reason. He had the strangest feeling that… that…that he'd seen them before…were they his creators? Were they a race of aliens he'd seen before losing his memory? Whatever they were, they looked like they meant trouble and Shadow was not about to let them wreck the place. Shadow prepared to do battle and so did Rouge. The Royal Fighters saw them and they joined up with Rouge and Shadow, ready to fight off these strange, grotesque black creatures.

"What are those things?" asked Sonic.

"Definitely not Martians." said Tails grimly.

"Yeah, they're definitely not Martians." said Silver, his hands glowing teal as he prepared to use his powers "But I haven't seen or read about these guys so I couldn't tell you what they are."

"I guess that's why you didn't tell us we were having ANOTHER alien invasion before the Martians come!" grumbled Knuckles "That book of yours must have been missing pages about those guys!"

"It is." said Blaze, setting her hands alight with fire "There's no information about these strange black creatures we're dealing with right now. If there was then we would have told you about them already."

"Well whatever they are, they need a good butt-kicking so let's pound them into the floor!" yelled Amy, summoning her Piko-Piko hammer to her hand.

But before anyone could start fighting, three more Black Arms descended from the sky and into Castle Acorn's throne room. They were Nyrah, who had his ring gun at the ready, Oakron, who already had his purple sword in hand, and Black Doom, who was looking as formidable as ever. Everybody stared at Black Doom in disbelief and they all hesitated, wondering what they should do as he descended from the sky. Sonic and Sally were both amazed at the appearance of the insidious Black Arms leader. Shadow stared at Black Doom contently and he began to think of something. Shadow's mind suddenly went click and memories began flooding back to him as he saw Black Doom coming down towards the Mobians. No wonder the Black Arms were looking familiar to him, he had SEEN them before! Especially Black Doom! He definitely remembered seeing Black Doom before. That was it! He'd seen the Black Arms before and now he was seeing them again! But why would he have seen them before? Maybe…

As Black Doom descended into the throne room, he held out his arms and boomed in his malevolent, growly, sinister voice.

"Attention Mobius! I am Black Doom, leader of the Black Arms race! The Black Arms have returned for the sixth time and this time will be the last time you will EVER see the Black Arms again!"

Going Off The Rails

Story 121: Going off the Rails

Today was going to get very bad for the people of Mobius right now. The Black Arms, an ancient enemy of the Mobians, had returned to the planet after a fifty year absence and they were invading once again. They'd broken through the roof of Castle Acorn and rained down into the throne room of the castle. The throne room was now full of Black Arms and they were all ready to fight with Black Doom at the centre of them all. He had Nyrah and Oakron at his side. The Royal Fighters were all preparing to take on the Black Arms. Before any fighting could start though, Queen Sally Acorn stepped forward and calmly spoke to Black Doom.

"Black Doom, I have heard much about you and the Black Arms from the rulers before me." she said "I know that you have a long history with our world and you're probably here to start another war."

Black Doom turned around to face Sally. His three eyes narrowed down into an evil scowl at the sight of her. Did Mobius EVER get anyone else to rule the planet and not just have an Acorn ruling over Mobius all the time? Talk about lack of variation!

"I take it you're the current ruler of Mobotropolis now." growled Black Doom in his malevolent, dark voice.

"This is no longer Mobotropolis now." said Sally "It's New Mobotropolis. And yes, I am the current ruler of New Mobotropolis. My name is Queen Sally Acorn and…"

"You do not need to give me any more unnecessary details." interrupted Black Doom "That was all I needed. Oakron, seize the little brat and take her aboard the Black Comet!" he barked at his giant strongman.

With that said, Oakron sheathed his purple sword and he lashed out and grabbed Sally in a bear hug. Sally tried to squirm free of Oakron's grasp but the Black Arms soldier was miles too strong for her. His grasp was like titanium clamps. Oakron then prepared to leave Castle Acorn with Sally in tow but before he could do so, Silver the Hedgehog stopped him dead in his tracks with a psychic hold. Oakron was completely immobilized by the future dweller's psychic powers. He was completely teal in colour thanks to Silver's psychic hold and Silver was frowning at him.

"You're not taking the queen anywhere!" yelled Silver.

Nyrah decided to help Oakron by shooting Silver with his ring gun. Silver was blasted from behind by a ring shaped blast and he was knocked off his feet. His psychic hold was broken and Oakron was free to move once again. With that said, Oakron dashed outside of Castle Acorn with Sally in his arms and he called up to the sky.

"Black Comet, beam me back up to you!" he ordered.

With that said, the Black Comet sent down a transporting beam and it shone down over Oakron. The beam carried Oakron up off the ground and back up through the sky and to the Black Comet. The Royal Fighters could only watch helplessly as Sally was taken away to the Black Comet. Sonic the Hedgehog glared at Black Doom and he staggered forward to him.

"You bring Sally back right now Black Doom or so help me I'll tear you to pieces!" screamed Sonic.

"You are in no position to order me around you obstinate fool." snarled Black Doom "Your queen is mine now and if you want her back then you must order a global surrender and hand yourselves over to the Black Arms."

"Yeah, uh-huh, not gonna happen creep!" yelled Sonic "We're not gonna cave in to you or your freaky Black Arms guys! You give Sally back to us or I will spin-dash every last one of you!"

"Don't be an idiot faker!" cried Shadow the Hedgehog "You can barely walk, you'll never take on Black Doom and win!"

"Well then Shadow, why don't YOU take him on then?" retorted Sonic "You're like me plus one and you're fit enough to fight, why don't you fight Black Doom then?"

"Because Shadow is on MY side that's why." purred Black Doom.

The Mobians all stared at Black Doom in disbelief. Their jaws all dropped and then they stared at Shadow. Shadow looked just as horrified as they were. He? Shadow the Hedgehog? On Black Doom's side? What was that demon on about?!

"Wha…at?" burbled Tails the Fox.

"I'm on…your side?" blustered Shadow "What…what do you mean?"

Black Doom turned his head to one side and narrowed his eyes at Shadow.

"A sin it is for me to finally find my lost creation and he doesn't remember his roots." grumbled Black Doom "Well then Shadow, allow me to remind you, and fill all your Mobian friends in on the truth about you."

"Go on then Black Doom, I've been wandering around aimlessly trying to find answers to my past." said Shadow "Now tell it me."

Black Doom cackled lightly and then he began to speak.

"Shadow is my progeny all you miserable, misguided Mobians." explained Black Doom "You see, I came up with a plan to infiltrate Mobius and bring it down so that I may destroy it quicker the next time we invaded Mobius. That plan was make a false Mobian to live among you like an ordinary citizen. That false Mobian would then weaken your defence systems, bring down your government and power houses and then sabotage your military. Using the powers of Chaos that I had stolen from your Master Emerald the last time we invaded, some Mobian DNA, a Mobian exoskeleton and the blood of myself, I began to create Shadow the Hedgehog. I intended him to be my greatest weapon and thus, gave him Chaos Powers like the Chaos Blast and the Chaos Spear as well as super speed and an unwavering battle prowess. Unfortunately, the Xorda attacked us. I feared losing Shadow to them so I was forced to send him away. I sent him to Mobius with his mission in mind and seeing as he is here now, I can safely assume he made it…albeit with his mission forgotten. Well Shadow, now I'm here and I have reminded you, you will join me in the destruction of this miserable excuse for a planet and it's life forms!"

Shadow looked like he'd just been hit by a meteor. Black Doom was his creator?! His purpose WAS to destroy Mobius after all? He'd been sent here to avoid being lost to the Xorda and he was supposed to be a weapon?! No wonder the Black Arms were familiar to him, he'd been created by them and he was supposed to serve them in their nefarious schemes against Mobius! So why did all of this feel wrong to him? Somehow, Shadow didn't feel that this could be the truth. Black Doom had to be lying, he just had to! This couldn't be right at all and yet it seemed to be.

"You're lying Black Doom!" cried Shadow "You can't be my creator and my purpose can't be to destroy Mobius!"

"I do not lie Shadow, I am delivering the truth to you." said Black Doom coldly "You are my weapon Shadow, you are my creation and most of all, my progeny. You were created from my blood and thus, were are biologically related. I will prove this to you right now…" he added, holding out his hand.

Shadow suddenly began to feel strange. His head began to throb and he was brought down onto his knees, groaning in pain. Rouge the Bat gasped in shock and she knelt down beside Shadow.

"Shadow! What's wrong?" asked Rouge worriedly.

"Black Doom's…making me submit to him…" grunted Shadow "How…how are you…doing this to…to me?"

"Simple mind control." said Black Doom plainly "If you're not immune to my mind control then that means you are Black Arms as I only have control over my Black Arms soldiers. Does this prove that you're my progeny now Shadow?"

Shadow was forced to admit it. Black Doom was right after all, he WAS his creation! Black Doom couldn't be doing this to him if he wasn't part Black Arms! So Black Doom was telling the truth after all!

The Royal Fighters were having a hard time believing this revelation and they all took turns in expressing their horror.

"This can't be!" shrieked Bunnie Rabbot "Shadow-hog's one of them?!"

"And the bloke looks like he belongs here because Black Doom made him that way?" added Geoffrey St. John.

"And his purpose is to destroy Mobius?!" exclaimed Wilson the Dog "Well…Dr. Eggman was right about one thing when he manipulated Shadow into joining him that time!"

"Only this time, Shadow's not being manipulated, it's the truth!" cried Mandy Mouse "Shadow's meant to be against us after all!"

"Well he's not!" retorted Sonic "Shadow's on our side now and he's helping us defeat Black Doom! Come on Shadow, let's beat this creep to a pulp!"

"Shadow will not be doing anything of the kind." growled Black Doom "He is mine and now he knows his true place, he will come back to me and help the Black Arms finish you all off once and for all."

"No…no I'm not!" grunted Shadow, trying to stand back up but Black Doom's mind control kept him down on his knees.

"What?!" growled Black Doom loudly "Shadow, you're my creation and your purpose is to destroy this planet! You will do as instructed!"

"No I won't!" yelled Shadow "Over time, I've grown quite accustomed to this planet! I like it here and I will not destroy it! I will destroy you instead Black Doom!"

"You dare to betray me Shadow?!" snarled Black Doom "And after I gave you life?! Looks like I will have to punish you until you swear fealty to me! I will not let my greatest creation turn on me like this!"

With that said, Black Doom increased his mind control over Shadow and made Shadow's head hurt to the point he passed out on the floor. Shadow was completely knocked out now thanks to Black Doom. Black Doom hovered over to Shadow and he grabbed the knocked out hedgehog. Knuckles and Shade decided to help Shadow by leaping towards Black Doom and preparing to deck the alien leader fifty times to Kingdom Valley and back. But before they could even get anywhere near Black Doom, the insidious Black Arms leader teleported and disappeared into thin air, taking Shadow with him. The two echidnas landed on the floor and they fumed angrily to themselves. The Royal Fighters were all gobsmacked at this.

"He…He…He vanished!" squealed Cream the Rabbit in shock "And…he took Mr. Shadow with him too!"

"Black Doom's taken Shadow!" wailed Rouge "What is that evil creature going to do to him?"

"He's likely going to make Shadow evil again." murmured Blaze the Cat "We've got to find where Black Doom's disappeared to and rescue Shadow and Queen Sally from him."

"Black Doom told one of his cronies to go to something called "The Black Comet" I believe." said Tails "Maybe he's gone back there. And if it's a comet then it'll likely be up in space."

"No worries." said Knuckles "We'll just go over to Angel Island and get the Chaos Emeralds. We'll use the Chaos Emeralds to Chaos Control over to this Black Comet and get Shadow and Sally back."

But before anyone could so much as bat an eyelid, Nyrah and a group of Black Warriors with him suddenly opened fire on all the Royal Fighters with their ring guns. The Royal Fighters were all blasted across the room by the ring blasts and they all landed in a heap on top of each other at the foot of the wall. Nyrah smirked at the Royal Fighters.

"You will not be doing anything." he gloated "And thanks ever so much for telling us where the Chaos Emeralds are. We can steal them for ourselves and use them to find our stolen relics. I do hope you put up a feeble resistance though, we don't want our last war with the Mobians to be too easy do we? Come on lads, let's go and give Black Doom some good news!"

With that said, every Black Arms creature in the room ran outside of Castle Acorn and Nyrah ordered the Black Comet to beam them back up to into it. A red beam of light shone down over the Black Arms soldiers and they were all brought up into the sky and out of sight. There wasn't a single Black Arms soldier left in Castle Acorn now, they were all back on the Black Comet. Now the Black Arms soldiers had all gone, the Royal Fighters picked themselves up and the first thing they began doing was conversing among one another.

"The Black Creatures overheard our conversation!" cried Shade "They know where the Chaos Emeralds are and they're going to steal them!"

"They don't know EXACTLY where on Angel Island they are but I bet they won't take it easy on their search for them." grumbled Knuckles "We've gotta stop them before they can even begin looking for them."

"What did that Black Arms soldier mean by "stolen relics" though?" asked Cosmo the Seedrian in confusion "And why would they need the Chaos Emeralds to find them?"

"I can answer that." said Nicole the Lynx, standing forward with a worried expression on her face.

"OK then Nics, tell us what the Black Arms mean by "stolen relics" then." requested Sonic.

"According to the historical records we were given about the Black Arms, they have two powerful relics." explained Nicole "One was a sword capable of rising demons of any element out of the ground and the other was a Black Chaos Emerald, an artificially created Chaos Emerald that they made by stealing one Chaos Emerald from Angel Island and experimenting on it and turning it into their own evil gem of power. Of course, this was before the Chaos Emeralds were brought down to seven. Those relics were too powerful for us to let them have them so the last time they warred on Mobius, which was 2093, our armies made it their top priority to steal them. After stealing them, they were hidden in two remote places on the planet. The sword is at the end of Rail Canyon and the Black Chaos Emerald is hidden somewhere in Ocean Palace."

She then suddenly ran out of the room, presumably to fetch something. The Royal Fighters stood by and waited for a minute while Nicole went to get something. A few moments later, Nicole returned into the room, carrying a rolled up piece of paper under her arm. She unrolled the paper and showed it to the Royal Fighters. The paper was a map which gave directions to the stolen Black Arms relics. The Royal Fighters stared at the map carefully.

"This map will give you the directions you need to take in order to reach the relics." informed Nicole "We were given this map by the army for incase the Black Arms ever returned to Mobius, we could find the relics and use them against the Black Arms. Right now, I am entrusting you to find those relics and stop the Black Arms from wrecking our world."

"That'll be no problem at all Nicole but what about Shadow and Sally?" asked Sonic "We need to rescue them. And we also need to protect the Chaos Emeralds from the Black Arms since they know where they are now."

"Ah think we should divide our forces sugah-hog." suggested Bunnie "We can't do three things at once after all. One team should defend Angel Island, the other should rescue Shadow and Sally and the third should find those relics."

"Me and Shade are defending Angel Island for starters." said Knuckles "And Blaze can come with us as she's the future guardian of Angel Island. We'll give her the pleasure of defending a proper floating Angel Island."

"Oh um…I'll be happy to help you two." said Blaze, surprised that Knuckles was so quick to choose her for his team despite the fact they've barely met "I've never really had the chance to defend Angel Island from anything as there's nothing to threaten the island in the future so now will be my chance to put my guardian skills to good use."

"So which of us would be the best suited for rescuing Shadow & Sally and which of us would be best suited to finding those relics?" asked Sonic.

"Well maybe Bunnie, Geoffrey, Wilson, Mandy, Ruben, me and Cosmo should find the relics and the rest of you should go and save Shadow and Sally." suggested Tails "I'm sure they're good team-ups."

"So it's me, Silver, Amy, Cream and Rouge going up on that Black Comet." said Sonic "Unless Nicole wants to come as well."

"I do." said Nicole "I'm not going to sit by while Sally needs our help. But you're not going anywhere Sonic, you're in no condition to fight right now, you'll sit out of this one."

"Oh come on Nicole!" whined Sonic "These guys will need me! I have to come with them and help them beat the Black Arms…"

"Ebb, deb, deb!" said Nicole, holding a finger up in a stern manner "You're not going out into battle when you can barely walk Sonic! You're staying here in New Mobotropolis under the watch of Team Chaotix and that's the end of it!"

"But Nicole…" protested Sonic.

"I said that's the end of it!" snapped Nicole "Sally would say the same thing if she were here!"

Sonic closed his mouth and he stopped griping. Arguing with Nicole was not going to win anything for him. The best thing for him to do would be to do as he was told, much to his regret. Silver put a hand on Sonic's shoulder affectionately.

"Don't worry Sonic, I'll fill in for you." said Silver with a smile on his face "I may not be the new you or anything but my psychic powers will suffice."

"I know you'll fill in for me brilliantly." said Sonic, smiling back at Silver "If you managed to kill a Martian then those Black Arms will stand no chance against you."

Silver sort of nodded in agreement at Sonic.

"So then, now we've decided what we're going to do, let's go and do these tasks." said Nicole "Tails, your group will go to Rail Canyon and find the sword relic. Take the map and you'll find it easily."

"Yes Nicole." said Tails, taking the map from Nicole and tucking it under his arm "I promise you we'll find those relics. And don't worry about me Sonic, I'll be OK with these guys…"

"I'm not worried Tails." said Sonic "I know that my friends will take good care of you and Cosmo and that you'll find the relics. We have the advantage after all."

"Knuckles and Silver, your groups will both go to Angel Island." said Nicole "When we all get there, Silver's group will Chaos Control themselves onto the Black Comet with the Chaos or Master Emeralds and then we'll try and save Shadow and Sally. Knuckles' group will make sure the emeralds don't fall into their hands."

"Um, that won't be necessary." said Silver "I can just warp us over to the Black Comet with this Super Warp Ring I have." he added, pulling out his Super Warp Ring.

"Oh." said Nicole "In that case, Silver will warp his group over to the comet with that warp ring."

"Good luck Blaze." said Silver, flicking the warp ring into the air.

"Thanks Silver." said Blaze "And good luck to you. And for goodness sake, please don't lose that warp ring."

Silver nodded as the Super Warp Ring expanded to several times it size. So now everybody knew what they were doing, they all set off to do their appointed tasks while Sonic remained where he was. Silver's group stepped through the warp ring and the other two groups ran off to their respective destinations. There was a lot of work to do right now but the Royal Fighters weren't going to let that bring them down that easily. They'd survived Eggman's worst creations, Scourge the Hedgehog, Marik the Martian and the Devatrons. They'd win this battle easily…or would they? The Black Arms didn't seem like your average villains and they looked deathly serious and seemed to have powerful weapons. Could they be beaten or would they be too powerful for them to defeat…?

Back on the Black Comet, Black Doom had taken Shadow to the science labs and he was working on getting Shadow back on his side. Shadow was placed in a capsule very similar to the one Rouge had found him in that fateful day she'd found him and he was in suspended animation. Shadow wouldn't wake up until Black Doom let him out of the capsule and it was very likely he was going to be in there for a while. Black Doom was not about to let Shadow mutiny against him. He'd made Shadow a weapon of the Black Arms that was meant to destroy Mobius and that's exactly what he was going to do. Such a pity that Shadow had been awakened before he could find him and then this wouldn't be happening right now. But every plan has it's bumps in the road and the best thing to do is to flatten them so Black Doom was going to ensure Shadow remained on his side. And how he was going to do that was remarkably simple, alter Shadow's mind and make him evil. Watching Black Doom was Queen Sally Acorn. She was being kept prisoner in this lab and she was bound to the wall by her arms and legs. Her arms were spread out but her legs were tightly bound together by a rock bind that was wrapped around both ankles. The way she looked made it look as if the wall was wrapping itself around her wrists and ankles for her bonds appeared to be made of rock and they appeared to have just come out of the wall. She was completely immobilized and was unable to do anything except watch Black Doom alter Shadow's mind. As Black Doom worked on Shadow, he began to talk aloud to himself.

"I finally relocate Shadow and the first thing he does is mutiny against me, or at the most, attempt to." growled Black Doom "Good thing I will be putting a stop to that by reconfiguring his mind. I shall simply add some dark thoughts into his head and reawaken him as the weapon I intended him to be."

"And then what? You'll unleash him upon the world and let him do your dirty work for you?" asked Sally in a cold manner.

Black Doom stopped what he was doing and he turned around and glared at Sally with his three eyes.

"I will thank you for not commenting at this moment in time you foolish female." he snarled "I am trying to work on my glorious weapon right now."

"I'm disgusted that you've even gone the extra mile here." said Sally "You made a genetic experiment in our image just so he could win our trust and then bring us down from the inside and all you do with Shadow now is treat him like some kind of tool instead of an extension of life itself. No one has the right to play god after all and nobody, artificially made or not, should be treated as a weapon or a tool of any kind."

Black Doom had told Sally Shadow's origin story after returning to the Black Comet so that's how she knows. Black Doom did his best to keep himself from ripping Sally apart right now. He was not pleased with Sally's opinions on him.

"You would be wise to spare me your pontificating princess otherwise you'll end up as another victim of the Black Arms." warned Black Doom.

"Threaten me all you like, you don't scare me Black Doom." scoffed Sally "We Mobians have won the last five wars we've had with you and your kind and I should know, I've read all about them in the history books as well as been told about them from the royals before me. You have no reason for me to fear you."

Black Doom, eerily enough, suddenly burst out laughing at Sally. His laugh was a sinister, growling laugh that could make even the strongest of wills feel nervous. Sally began to feel nervous right now. When villains began laughing at your taunts, that never meant anything good. Black Doom stopped laughing and he glowered back at Sally.

"You are so blinded by pride if you believe that your wretched kind ever had a chance against me and my kind!" crowed Black Doom "We Black Arms only allowed you Mobians to exist so that we may entertain ourselves. Of all the planets we've desecrated and brought ruination too, you were the most challenging and thus, the most entertaining to battle. We could only war with you all for a couple of weeks at most because the Black Comet never stops moving and if we never retreated back to it by the time it had finished passing over Mobius, we'd be stranded here and we'd have to wait another fifty years before it returns, not that you would have given us time to."

"So you've never finished us off before because we entertained you?" said Sally in shock, unable to believe all of this "Combined with the fact your comet never stops and after a period of time, you have to leave before it goes out of your teleportation range?"

"Correct." said Black Doom "We could have finished you off anytime we wanted but then our entertainment value would have diminished so we kept you alive for our own purposes. But after the fifth war, which in your time occurred in 2098, we lost our powerful relics and we nearly lost our lives for your forces had grown stronger. You're no longer entertaining, you're too dangerous for us so we've come to finish you off before you can terminate us all. And that is why we created Shadow to weaken your systems from within and prepare Mobius for our arrival. Unfortunately, that plan has failed so we need a quick change of plan. We'll destroy you all even if your forces haven't been weakened."

"You'll never kill us all Black Doom." said Sally coldly "We have powerful resources and powerful fighters on our side now. You will never destroy our world."

"We shall see about that." muttered Black Doom "Once Shadow is awakened, I shall send him out to find your Chaos Emeralds and bring them to me. With that kind of power, I will be unstoppable."

"And to your luck my liege, I know where to find them." interrupted Nyrah, striding into the lab pride fully "For I eavesdropped on a conversation between the Mobians and found out where they're being kept."

After Nyrah had returned to the Black Comet, he wandered around the place looking for Black Doom so he could give him the good news. Black Doom stopped looking at Sally and he looked at Nyrah, interested in hearing what the scientist had to say to him.

"Well then Nyrah, where are the Chaos Emeralds kept?" asked Black Doom.

"They're located on a place called Angel Island." explained Nyrah "I'm not too familiar with the island but I bet we'll find it easily."

"We will." purred Black Doom "Angel Island was where the echidna guardians gathered and where they had hundreds of Chaos Emeralds. I never bothered looking there again as I thought the Mobians would have been clever enough to relocate them now we know where they are. It appears they're not as clever as I thought they were."

"They still wield great power no matter how many of them there are." said Black Doom "I shall find the seven Chaos Emeralds and use their power for my own."

"I suggest sending Shadow to get the emeralds once you've finished on him my lord." suggested Nyrah "He has the powers of Chaos in him so he'll be able to find them easily. While he's searching for the emeralds, we can find our stolen relics."

"Yes." said Black Doom agreeably "You and Oakron will take a squadron of Black Arms and find the relics. I will prepare Shadow for the raid of Angel Island."

Nyrah bowed down to Black Doom and then he left the room to gather up a search party. After Nyrah left, Black Doom looked back at Sally and he continued to crow at her.

"I shall have your Chaos Emeralds Queen of New Mobotropolis and I shall retrieve my relics." he gloated "And any resistance you have will be crushed by my own hands."

"You wish Black Doom." muttered Sally "The Royal Fighters will stop you dead in your tracks. They've stopped worse threats in the past, heck, we recently stopped the Devatrons! We'll stop you easily!"

"I have no idea what a "Devatron" is but I am unlike any threat you've faced before." snapped Black Doom "And you have better stop thinking so highly of yourself or you shall suffer painfully…"

With that said, Black Doom snapped his fingers and all of the sudden, a purple electrical shock emitted from Sally's bonds and surged through her body. Sally screamed in pain as she was brutally electrocuted by her bonds. Black Doom hovered by and laughed sadistically at the imprisoned queen. Sally may have a lot of nerve standing up to him like this but he'd dampen that obnoxious spirit easily and Sally would swear fealty to him…

Back down on Mobius, Tails, Cosmo, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Wilson, Mandy and Ruben had already arrived at Rail Canyon and Tails glanced at the map to see where the way to the relic was. Rail Canyon quite literally lived up to its name. It was a canyon full of iron rails that any visitors could grind on. Rail Canyon even had some amazing looking trains that ran around on the rails delivering supplies to various places that Rail Canyon was connected to. This did however come with a lot of hazards. The main one being that there was a massive drop from the rails as they were high up above the ground and they weaved through the canyons so anywhere you went on these rails meant you were in danger of falling to your death. Not a problem for this team though as Tails and Bunnie can both fly and Ruben has his water powers to keep himself above the ground. Wilson, Mandy, Cosmo and Geoffrey would be helped by the fliers simple as. As of this moment, the team were standing at the entrance to Rail Canyon, which was a neon lit sign saying "Welcome to Rail Canyon!" and also had some warning signs underneath the neon lit letters, and they were looking at the map. They had been studying the map very closely as they couldn't afford to make any mistakes in this mission. They had a powerful Black Arms relic to find and they had to find it fast before the Black Arms could make their move. As they looked at the map, Cosmo couldn't help but admire the fantastic sights of Rail Canyon around her. The canyons looked amazing to her. This place might have to be one of the most fascinating places on Mobius she'd ever seen.

"This place is really grand." said Cosmo as she watched a train going by in the distance "I don't think words could ever do this place justice."

"I agree with you there Cosmo." said Tails, looking up from the map and observing the scenery "This place really is grand. I'm amazed I haven't seen Rail Canyon before."

"This is a first for all of us mate." said Geoffrey "Neither of us have ever been to Rail Canyon before and I kinda wish we were here to sight-see instead of find some Black Arms relic, I wanna explore this place."

"Well Geoffrey hon, after we've defeated the Black Arms, maybe me and you could hang out here." said Bunnie teasingly, making the skunk blush "The two of us together could explore Rail Canyon and enjoy the beautiful scenery."

"I'll keep that in mind babe." said Geoffrey, trying not to blush any harder then he already was now "But right now, we've got some bloomin' relic to find."

"If ah heard Nicole correctly, the relic here is some kind o' sword." said Bunnie "Ah wonder what it can do and how powerful it might be?"

"Didn't Nicole say it could make demons of any element out of the ground?" asked Ruben.

"I believe she did." said Wilson "I'm not sure what she means by that though. I guess we'll find out once we find the sword and find out how to use it."

"I can just imagine how horrified Black Doom's going to be when he sees us with his precious relic and we're using it against his minions." snickered Mandy "That will be so funny to see!"

"So Tails, where do we need to go to find that sword?" asked Bunnie, peering at the map as Tails studied it.

"According to the map, the way to the relic is this red rail in the middle." said Tails, looking over the map and pointing at the red rail which ran down the middle with a blue and yellow rail on either side "That rail will take us to Bullet Station, which is where the relic is buried. It's not IN the station itself luckily, just buried somewhere nearby, maybe round the back or something."

"Sounds simple enough." said Geoffrey "Hopefully, we'll have no trouble and those Black Arms blokes won't interfere with us."

"Well since they don't know where the old army's buried their relics, they'll not come here looking for them." said Tails "We might have an easy mission for once. Let's go guys."

"But…none of us know how to grind." said Wilson with a worried face on "We've never been here before and haven't had any practice. How will we get across this canyon?"

"Well me and Bunnie can fly and Ruben can surf across water to keep himself in the air so we haven't got a problem." noted Tails "But you, Mandy, Geoffrey and Cosmo can't fly so you can't follow us. I can easily carry Cosmo and Bunnie could carry Geoffrey but will Ruben be able to carry anybody while using his water powers to stay above ground?"

"Not really." said Ruben "I need to concentrate when using my powers and it'll be hard to carry two people while also trying to use my powers. I'm not entirely sure if I can carry anybody on the water trail behind me either."

"We could always catch a train." suggested Bunnie "And ask the driver to take us to Bullet Station."

"We'll do that." said Tails "We'll catch a train and get to Bullet Station that way."

With that decided, the Mobians all searched around for a boarding station so they could catch one of the trains that ran through Rail Canyon. Unfortunately for them, a group of Black Arms had boarded hover-saucers and were flying around Mobius in search of the stolen relics and by sheer coincidence, they had decided to look around Rail Canyon. Whenever the Black Arms invaded Mobius, Rail Canyon often had a habit of being a popular target among them so it made sense for them to be here. Oakron and Nyrah were leading the pack and noticeably enough, Oakron and Nyrah seemed to be competing for the lead. They didn't get along well after all so they were going to be acting like this. The two flew dangerously close together and threatened to knock one another off the board. If the soldiers flying with them had sentient minds like they did, chances are they would be groaning in embarrassment at the two and wondering "Why are those two always at each other's throats? Why can't they get along?" But they were all mindless drones and didn't really think about anything so they weren't thinking that at all. Oakron and Nyrah flew towards the canyon with the Black Arms soldiers following them closely behind. The two sentient minded Black Arms stopped competing with each other and they noticed something they weren't expecting. They saw Tails and his group filing into a station and waiting for a train to come. There was one on the way to the station right now. The Black Arms stopped flying towards the canyon and they remained hovering in the air on their boards, watching and waiting intently. Oakron grumbled to himself.

"Just what we need, Mobians to get in our way!" he griped.

"What could they possibly be here for?" wondered Nyrah "They couldn't possibly know that we were going to target this place in our relic search. Heck, they can't possibly know we're even looking for our stolen relics so why are they here?"

"Nyrah, think about this for a minute." snapped Oakron "They seem close to Castle Acorn and its inhabitants. It's likely they've learnt about our relics and it's even likelier they know where they are. Look, the twin-tailed thing even appears to have some kind of map." he added, pointing at Tails.

Nyrah peered down at the station and he noticed what Oakron had noticed too. Tails clearly seemed to have a map with him and the map must lead to somewhere. Maybe it led to their stolen relics. There was only one way they were going to find out though, ambush them and steal the map to see what it lead to. The Black Arms waited for a moment as the Rail Canyon Train pulled into the station. The Rail Canyon Train was a highly-armoured piece of machinery that ran on the rails of the canyon. The train was red and black in colour and had horns on it. The whole train looked considerably frightening in appearance because of this but that didn't make them any less popular among tourists who visited Rail Canyon. Oakron decided now was the time to strike as the train slowed to a stop in the station. Oakron zoomed down towards the station on his hover saucer and he held his hands out. The Mobians were about to board the train but Oakron ploughed straight through them like a bowling ball through skittles and he knocked them all over. The Mobians lay sprawled on the ground and Oakron hopped off his saucer. He looked down at the Mobians and he noticed that Tails had dropped the map after he'd flown into him. Oakron reached down and grabbed the map. He then hopped back onto the hover saucer and he read the map. To his delight, it was indeed a map that led to the stolen relics! His job had just gotten a whole lot easier now.

"A map that leads to the relics?" purred Oakron "What serendipity this is. Thank you for this Mobians, you've just made my job a whole lot easier."

He then flew off on his hover saucer before anyone could stop him. Tails leaped onto his feet and cried out feebly.

"Hey! Give that back to me!" screeched Tails.

"No chance fur ball!" sneered Oakron "You'll have to catch me first!"

Tails seemed too happy to oblige. He twisted his tails around one another and he took flight. But before he could even fly away from the station, he was blasted in the back by a ring shaped blast from Nyrah's ring blaster weapon. Tails was thrown off the station and he landed on a rail. But the rails were pretty thin so Tails didn't stop on the rail, he began to slip off. Bunnie gasped in horror and tried to take flight and save Tails before he could plummet to his death but Nyrah blasted her in the back and sent her flying off the station and plummeting down to the ground below. Nyrah cackled delightedly as Bunnie and Tails began to fall to the ground, much to the horror of everybody else.

"So what will it be my indigenous idiots?" smirked Nyrah "Will you chase us down? Or save your friends?"

The others didn't know what to do. Bunnie and Tails were in danger and were going to make a very nasty stain at the bottom of the canyon once they landed there so they had to save them. But none of them could fly so they couldn't save them and if Ruben tried to use his water powers to save them, Nyrah would just blast him and send him plummeting to his death. But Nyrah was in for a surprise for Bunnie had managed to shake herself off as she plummeted and she activated her rocket jets in the soles of her roboticized feet. She flew down and managed to catch Tails before the two of them could crash into the ground. Bunnie flew back up to the station with Tails in hand. Nyrah saw her coming and he tried to blast Bunnie again with his ring blaster. But before he could do so, Ruben squirted him with a jet of water and knocked him clean off his hover-saucer! Nyrah began to plummet down to the ground, a blood curdling scream coming out of his mouth as he plummeted down to the bottom of the canyon. Oakron sighed loudly and he flew down to catch Nyrah before he could land on the ground below. Oakron caught Nyrah and he flew back up to Nyrah's saucer. He put Nyrah on the saucer and the two Black Arms flew off, Oakron leading the way as he had the map. Nyrah looked over his shoulder and called out to his squadron.

"Black Arms, kill them!" he barked "And after you kill them, bring their bodies to Black Doom!"

The Black Arms soldiers obeyed and they all drew out weapons of various kinds. The Black Arms had a varied weapons cabinet after all. Some carried swords and some carried different kinds of laser guns. As Oakron and Nyrah made their getaway, the Black Arms flew down towards the station and began shooting at the Mobians. Bunnie flew on top of the train, which had finally stopped and was waiting to pick up somebody and activated her force-field generator to block all the blaster fire.

"Everybody, get in the train and tell the driver to take us to Bullet Station!" cried Bunnie "Ah'll hold off these vermin!"

The Mobians all obeyed and they ran into the train while Bunnie remained on top of the train and she put her force-field away. She deployed her arm cannon and began shooting at the Black Arms as madly as she could. The Black Arms all dodged Bunnie's cannon fire before they could get hit by them. Inside the train, the Mobians all darted to the front of the train and Tails ran into the cockpit to see the driver. The driver was a Mobian Giraffe with red spots and he looked surprised to see a little kid on the train and coming in to see him.

"Hello sonny Jim." said the driver "Where may I take you?"

"Bullet Station please and fast." blustered Tails "We need to get there urgently."

"Very well, Bullet Station it is." said the driver, setting the train to go.

The train jerked slightly and then began to move forwards. Bunnie managed to keep her balance luckily as the train began to move. The train then picked up speed and began to zoom forward across the rails. Rail Canyon Trains were really fast, much faster then the trains we humans have. This train would get the Mobians to Bullet Station in a few minutes. But this train might end up going off the rails for the Black Arms soldiers flew after the speeding train and began shooting at it as madly as they could. The train maybe heavily armoured but even that would succumb to the Black Arms' weaponry eventually. Bunnie would put a stop to that though. Bunnie began shooting at the Black Arms soldiers that were shooting at the train. The Black Arms kept dodging her attacks and shooting at her and the train. They were not easy to hit as they were really skilled on the hover-saucers. Bunnie growled in frustration as she shot at the Black Arms and missed again. How could she shoot them down if they were so hard to hit? One Black Arms soldier that wielded a sword similar to Oakron's flew towards the train and tried to slice Bunnie in two with one deadly swipe. Bunnie activated her force-field generator and blocked the attack. The Black Arms soldier began to swing his sword madly at Bunnie, trying to penetrate her force-field but Bunnie held on and her force-field was too strong to be penetrated by a mere sword, alien design or not. Bunnie then shut off her force-field and leaped backwards just as the Black Arms slashed at her with his sword. Bunnie then punched the Black Arms by extending her robot fist and landing it squarely in the Black Arms soldier's gut. This in turn threw the Black Arms soldier off the hover-saucer and sent him falling down to his death. Bunnie leaped onto the hover-saucer and used it to fly closer to the other Black Arms soldiers. They began shooting at her but Bunnie deployed her force-field again and flew directly into the laser fire. The Black Arms soldiers could see their guns were not working and Bunnie was getting closer so they began to back away. Bunnie put her force-field away and she punched one Black Arms soldier off his hover-saucer. The Black Arms was sent plummeting down to his death at the bottom of the canyon. Bunnie then grabbed the hover-saucer and she threw it towards the other Black Arms soldiers that were trying to shoot her. The hover-saucer cruised through the air like a Frisbee and it walloped several Black Arms soldiers as it was sent spinning towards them. The Black Arms were all knocked off their hover-saucers and they fell down into the deep rocky canyons below. Bunnie looked over at the rails and realized that the train was leaving her behind. Bunnie leaped off the hover-saucer, activated her rocket jets, and flew towards the train as fast as she could. There were ten Black Arms soldiers left and they all chased after Bunnie on their hover-saucers. They began to shoot at Bunnie with their laser guns. Bunnie looked over her shoulder and realized that she was being shot at. She began to weave through the air and dodge the attacks that were coming from behind her. Bunnie was only just managing to catch up to the train but a Black Arms soldier shot her in the foot before she could begin to touch down. The resulting blast had damaged her foot and left her spinning out of control just above the train. Bunnie screamed in terror as she spiralled towards the train and she fought for control. She landed sharply on her side and bounced across the train, making heavy thump noises as she was sent hurling across the train. The Mobians inside heard Bunnie and Geoffrey stuck his head out of the window to see what was going on. He saw Bunnie lying near the edge of the train and clutching her foot in pain.

"You alright luv?!" Geoffrey called out to her, trying to be heard over the tumultuous noise of the train cruising across the rails.

"Ah'm fine sugah." Bunnie called back "Just got ambushed from behind that's all! Those Black Arms will be sorry they messed with me!"

"I think I'll help you Bunnie." said Geoffrey, climbing out of the window and onto the roof of the train.

"Oy! You can't do that!" cried the driver, who could see Geoffrey climbing out of the window through a rear view mirror at the front of the train "That's illegal! Not to mention dangerous, you'll fall!"

Geoffrey blatantly ignored the driver and he stood beside his love interest as the Black Arms closed in for an attack. The Black Arms shot at Bunnie and Geoffrey but Bunnie defended herself and Geoffrey with a force-field. Bunnie then closed off the force-field and Geoffrey began shooting darts rapidly at the Black Arms. The Black Arms dodged the darts and they shot back at Geoffrey. Geoffrey however managed to hit one of the hover-saucers with a dart and the dart short-circuited the saucer with an electromagnetic pulse shock. This in turn caused the Black Arms soldier to fall down to the ground since his saucer no longer worked. The remaining nine soldiers tried to surround Bunnie and Geoffrey and blast them to bits but Bunnie and Geoffrey got the first blow by kicking out at the soldiers closest to them. They were knocked off their saucers and sent falling to their deaths. There were only five left now. They decided to get off their hover-saucers and fight so they leaped off their saucers and onto the train. Bunnie and Geoffrey raised their arms and they bent down in a battle-ready stance, ready to pound them into submission. The Black Arms tried to shoot Bunnie and Geoffrey but the two lovers leapt out of the way, flipped over them and landed behind them. Bunnie punched one soldier smack in the face and sent him hurling across the train. The soldier nearly fell off the train but he managed to cling on and stay on the train. A Black Arms soldier that wielded a sword tried to slice Bunnie and Geoffrey in two but they dodged the attack and Geoffrey kicked the soldier in the head. The attack left the Black Arms soldier dazed and light-headed and he staggered back. Geoffrey then roundhouse kicked the soldier in the legs and tripped it up. The soldier landed painfully on his back and he dropped his sword. Geoffrey grabbed the sword and pointed it at the Black Arms soldier. Two Black Arms armed with ring guns got the drop on him though by blasting him across the train with ring-blasts. Geoffrey hurled across the train and landed with a heavy clunk on the roof above the driver. The driver began to grow increasingly worried for his passengers and wondered what was going on outside. Bunnie gasped in horror at Geoffrey and she ran over to the ring-gun wielding soldiers. They tried to blast Bunnie but Bunnie jumped out of their way and dropkicked them both in the head, knocking them both of the train and leaving her with only three Black Arms to deal with. The remaining three Black Arms sheathed their weapons and they raised their fists as Bunnie ran towards them. Bunnie punched one in the face and almost sent it falling off the train but the Black Arms kept his balance and retaliated with a gut-punch. Bunnie doubled over, gasping for breath, and another Black Arms soldier clasped his fists together and slammed them on the back of Bunnie's head, knocking her down onto her stomach.

Bunnie tried to get up but the Black Arms soldier stomped on her back and pinned her down with his foot. Bunnie could feel the razor sharp talons of the Black Arms soldier's foot pressing against her back. The Black Arms soldier then prepared to kill Bunnie but Geoffrey shot him in the neck with a dart and the Black Arms soldier was killed instantly. This in turn allowed Bunnie to get back to her feet and she roundhouse punched another Black Arms soldier in the face. The Black Arms soldier staggered backwards towards Geoffrey and Geoffrey kicked it towards Bunnie. Bunnie caught the Black Arms and threw him across the train. The Black Arms soldier hurled through the air and landed on the carriage at the back of the train. The third Black Arms soldier could see this was not going well so he decided to try something else. He leaped back on his hover-saucer and flew off down the rails ahead of the train. Bunnie could sense that the Black Arms was up to something so she took flight and flew after the soldier, leaving Geoffrey to deal with the only Black Arms left on the train. The Black Arms soldier still on the train drew out a sword that he wielded and he ran towards Geoffrey, roaring menacingly. Geoffrey just loaded his crossbow and fired at the Black Arms soldier. The Black Arms miraculously managed to dodge the shooting dart by leaning to the side and have the dart zoom past his head. The Black Arms soldier then swung his sword at Geoffrey and nearly cleaved the skunk in two but Geoffrey just managed to dodge the attack. Geoffrey kicked the Black Arms in the gut and made him double over and then Geoffrey grabbed it into a head lock. But the Black Arms soldier quickly wrestled himself free and he tried to push Geoffrey off the train but Geoffrey dodged and rammed the soldier with his shoulder. This in turn caused the Black Arms soldier to fall off the train and plummet to his death much like everybody else (at the end of the day, Rail Canyon's going to have a LOT of dead Black Arms to clear away aren't they?). Now that was dealt with, Geoffrey climbed down from the roof and back through the window. He was safely back in the train now but the train wasn't going to be safe for long.

Further down the rails, Bunnie was still giving chase to the Black Arms soldier that had flown away. Despite one of her feet being damaged, she was still flying well. She'd been training herself to fly with only one rocket and while it had been a wobbly process, she'd been getting the hang of it and now was giving chase to a Black

Arms soldier using only one rocket. The trouble with flying with one rocket was she was a little slower and she found herself beginning to veer slightly to the right at times, thus making it harder for her to catch up. As for the Black Arms soldier, he had a plan. A plan that would guarantee the deaths of the Mobians on the train. After flying a good distance away from the train, he stopped flying away, turned around and pointed his laser gun, which was long and red in colour, at the rails. The Black Arms soldier then suddenly began shooting at the rails! He fired several laser blasts at the rails and he began destroying bits of the rail one shot at a time. He kept on shooting until there was a twenty-foot gap between the rails and by that time, Bunnie had finally managed to catch up. She punched the Black Arms off his hover-saucer and sent him plummeting down to the ground. Now the last Black Arms was dead, Bunnie could see to the bigger problem, the destroyed rails. The train was heading towards the broken rails and it couldn't seem to stop in time. It was going much too fast. The driver was putting the brakes on but even that wouldn't save the train now. Bunnie gasped in shock and wondered what to do. The train was coming in fast. If she didn't do something the train would plummet off the rails and down to the ground below. Bunnie then had an idea on what to do. She flew towards the train as fast as her only remaining rocket would let her and she held her arms out. She pressed her hands against the train and put all her might into stopping it. She only had one rocket left so her push was considerably weaker then it would have been if both her rockets were intact. But Bunnie's strength combined with the train's brakes seemed to be working as the train was beginning to slow down. There was a horrible screech coming from the rails as the train's brakes fought to slow the train down. Bunnie thought her ears were going to explode from the sheer volume of the screeching brakes. But she fought the loud sound in her ears and focused on slowing the train down. All her hard work finally paid off for the train finally ground to a halt just inches away from the broken rails. Bunnie pulled herself up onto the top of the train and she panted like a dog in the summer.

"Phewee!" she gasped "Ah can't believe ah stopped the durn thing! Whew…"

The Mobians inside all stuck their heads out of the train's windows and they began cheering for Bunnie.

"Well done Bunnie!" cheered Tails.

"You stopped the train from falling luv!" cried Geoffrey.

"You did it Bunnie!" exclaimed Wilson happily.

"Thanks everyone." puffed Bunnie, wiping sweat off her forehead "There's a big problem now though…how can we get to Bullet Station now the rails are out?"

The Mobians all stared at the broken rails. There was a twenty-foot gap between them thanks to the Black Arms soldier shooting it to bits. The train couldn't possibly get over a gap so big. They needed a new way of reaching Bullet Station. But there was only two fliers and Ruben couldn't carry anybody with him when surfing across his water so how could they carry everybody across the canyon to the station? Tails spotted the only remaining hover-saucer that was still floating about not far away from the rails and waiting to be used now it's pilot had gone. Tails then suddenly had a bright idea. Maybe they could use that to carry some of the none fliers to Bullet Station. Tails flew out of the train and he headed towards the hover-saucer. He grabbed the saucer and dragged it back over to the train.

"Hey guys, I've got an idea." said Tails "Wilson, Mandy, you two stand on this thing."

"Stand on that? Are you mental Tails?!" cried Wilson "We don't know how to work that thing!"

"I didn't say you had to fly it." said Tails "You and Mandy just stand on it. I'll fly Cosmo over to Bullet Station while Bunnie will carry Geoffrey. Bunnie will drag the hover saucer with her while you two stand on it."

"But we'll likely fall." noted Mandy "And I don't think that saucer can carry both of us at once. It doesn't look big enough."

"I've got a better idea." chimed in Cosmo "I'll sit on the hover-saucer while Bunnie tows it and Tails can carry Wilson and Mandy."

"Why didn't I think of that?" mused Tails "That's a good idea Cosmo."

"I sure hope you can carry both of us." said Mandy sternly "Or we will be plummeting to our deaths!"

"I can manage." said Tails, taking hold of Wilson's left hand and Mandy's right hand each and carrying them both out of the train "If i get tired, I'll just put you down on the rails and rest up for a minute. The rails have sections on the sides where we can stand on."

"Sounds like a plan mate, let's get going." said Geoffrey, climbing out of the train and onto the roof.

Bunnie took Geoffrey by the hand and then took flight. She extended her robot arm and grabbed the hover-saucer as Cosmo climbed out of the train and sat on it. Cosmo held on tight as Bunnie towed the hover-saucer with her. Tails flew off after them with Wilson and Mandy in each hand. Ruben fired a stream of water and surfed across it after his friends. The driver sat there in the train and his jaw dropped. He couldn't believe his eyes. He'd never seen Mobians with powers like this before. He was seeing miracles today. The Mobians all left the train behind and they followed the rails off to Bullet Station where the first Black Arms relic was hidden. Hopefully, they'd be there in time to snatch the relic before the Black Arms could use it...

Meanwhile, the Knuckles, Shade and Blaze had arrived back on Angel Island. They climbed up to the island and they instantly ran onto the Master Emerald shrine. The Master Emerald continued to glow radiantly. Blaze was amazed to see the Master Emerald in real life. To think that this is what the guardians before her used to guard before the Master Emerald vanished mysteriously and the Chaos Emeralds became the Sol Emeralds.

"I never expected the Master Emerald to be so glorious." said Blaze, putting her hand on the emerald "Pity it's gone in the future. That's why Angel Island sits in the waters off the coast of Nekronopolis."

"Why is the Master Emerald gone in the future?" asked Knuckles.

"I really don't know." said Blaze "Maybe I could study and find out about it when I return back to my time. When I find the answer, I'll inform you straight away so you can prevent it from happening."

"I'm grateful you're going to go to that trouble Blaze." said Knuckles brightly "No wonder you're the future guardian of Angel Island."

"I'm not much of one though because there's nothing to guard Angel Island from." muttered Blaze "Villains are extinct and any surviving Mobians are all good people. The possibility of Angel Island ever getting attacked in the future is a hundred to one so I haven't had much practice protecting anything from anyone."

"Now you're here, you'll get your chance." noted Shade, patting Blaze on the back affectionately "And I'm sure you'll be great Blaze as you apparantly have fire powers."

"I do and I'm a keen fighter." said Blaze "I managed to give some of Marik's family a run for their money when me and Silver accidentally ended up on Greengate."

"If you can fight Martians then those Black Arms will have no chance!" cackled Knuckles "They'll be as good as defeated when they show up here!"

"And it looks like they're coming right now!" cried Shade, drawing out her blades and looking off into the distance.

Knuckles and Blaze looked in Shade's direction and surely enough, they saw a group of Black Arms soldiers. This group consisted of Black Warriors, Black Oaks and Black Hawks. The Black Hawks were flying Black Arms and they had wings instead of arms, no legs and a long tail. There were lots of Black Arms here and it looked like the echidnas and Blaze were going to have their hands full...

Now that's what I call having your hands full! A relic hunt, an island to defend and a friend to save! Can the Mobians win all these and save the day? Or will the Black Arms emerge victorious? Join me next time as we witness the "Power of the Black Arms"...

Story 122: Power of the Black Arms

The Black Comet, the embodiment of surrealism. It looked like a huge black rock flying through space and yet had some rather organic like features such as pulsating growths, throat-like halls, tentacles, organs and a viscous substance. How such a thing could possibly exist was a mystery to anyone who set foot in it. And now a new group of individuals would start wondering the same thing any other person who set foot in the Black Comet wondered. That group was of course, the group of Mobians that had volunteered to go to the Black Comet and save their two kidnapped friends. The group had the futuristic, psychokinetic hedgehog Silver, Sonic's self-proclaimed girlfriend Amy Rose, the sweet and gentle Cream the Rabbit and her pet Chao Cheese, treasure hunter and part-time helper Rouge the Bat and the Acorn's lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx. Silver had warped the group over to the Black Comet with a Super Warp Ring and now the group was in a large hallway which had a lot of bridge ways across a viscous substance that looked toxic and was a purpley colour. Tentacle like structures lurked somewhere in the halls and they waited to lunge out and grab someone. The whole place looked like something out of a sci-fi horror film and Cream instantly began to whimper in fear. There was something about this place that gave the child the willies ever so badly. Rouge just snorted at Cream and wore an unimpressed look on her face.

"Care to tell me why we brought her along?" she muttered.

"Rouge, don't be mean to poor Cream!" snapped Amy "She's obviously terrified of this place and you wondering why we brought her with us isn't going to comfort her! I don't blame her though, this place is very eerie isn't it?"

"It certainly is." mused Silver, screwing his face up at his surroundings "It's like being in the belly of a giant space worm in here."

"Space worm?" questioned Amy curiously.

"They're a race of creatures that swim around through space and they gobble up asteroid fields." explained Silver "When I was born, one invaded Mobius and tried to eat the ruins of Nekronopolis. My dad stopped it with the psychic powers he eventually passed onto me. Being in this place makes me think of those voracious creatures for some reason."

"Fascinating." said Rouge sarcastically "Now, where might we find Shadow in a place like this?"

"There'll likely be some kind of prison in this place." said Nicole "You know what villain lairs are like, they've always got prisons of some kind."

"Too true." said Rouge "And I wouldn't be surprised if this comet has one."

"I might be thinking too hard on this but, is it weird how we're inside a comet up in space and yet we can still breathe?" asked Nicole "How are we able to breathe in this thing?"

"I'm stumped too." said Silver "But let's just be glad we can breathe in this. Now, let's start searching for Sally and Shadow. Black Doom must be doing terrible things to them as we speak so we've gotta save them and now."

So the Mobians began walking across the bridge ways and looking around for any signs of life. Despite being home to the Black Arms, there didn't seem to be any around currently. This made the Mobians feel somewhat nervous. Where were the Black Arms? Were they hiding and waiting to jump out and ambush them? Fat chance as they have no idea they're even here. Maybe they'd just picked a lucky spot when warping onto the Black Comet. Regardless, it would be best to remain vigilant in a surreal place like this. You never know what's going to happen in a place like this. As the Mobians walked across the bridge ways, Cream fought hard to keep her eyes off her surroundings. The comet's interiors really scared her and she couldn't bear to look at them. She focused her sights on Silver and Amy, who were walking ahead of her. Looking at them instantly made her feel less afraid. But she was soon going to have something to be afraid of for out of the viscous substance that surrounded the bridge ways, a dark red, slimy tentacle suddenly shot up from the substance and wrapped itself around Amy's ankle. Amy screamed so loudly it's a miracle she didn't burst anybody's eardrums. The tentacle pulled Amy down onto her stomach and then proceeded to try and pull her into the toxic pool that surrounded the bridge ways. Amy screeched in terror and she tried to stop herself from being pulled into the pool.

"EEK! Help me!" squealed Amy "I'm gonna be pulled into the pool!"

Rouge, to everyone's surprise, was the first to leap in and help She screw-kicked the tentacle and made it let go of Amy. But the tentacle didn't give up there. It smacked Rouge back onto the bridge and then grabbed Amy again, this time wrapping itself around both of her ankles. Amy tried to hold on but the tentacle was inevitably winning this tug-of-war. Rouge tried to help again but another tentacle lashed out of the pool and wrapped itself around Rouge's body. Rouge cried out in horror and she flapped her wings furiously, hoping to pull herself out of the tentacle's grasp. The tentacle decided to make its job easier by smacking Rouge onto the bridge way. That attack left Rouge feeling shattered and thus, she couldn't fight back against the tentacle. The tentacle began to pull Rouge and Amy towards the toxic pool but Silver stopped them dead in their tracks with his psychokinesis.

"Hurgh! Let go of them!" grunted Silver as he fought the tentacles for Amy and Rouge "You're not taking them into that pool!"

Using his psychic powers, Silver managed to make the tentacles let go of Amy and Rouge. But before he could carry the two girls back towards the bridge way, another tentacle shot out of the pool and smacked Silver, sending him hurling backwards and almost falling off the bridge way but Silver managed to stop himself just in time. Cream flew up into the air and she caught Amy and Rouge's hands before they could fall into the pool. The three tentacles reached up to grab Cream but to their misfortune, Cream was too high up and the tentacles had reached their length so they couldn't reach Cream. Silver grabbed the tentacles with his psychokinesis and he forced them back down under the pool. The tentacles would likely come back up again so Silver thought the best idea would be to move on. Silver ran off with Nicole running after him. Cream flew down to the bridge and put down Amy and Rouge. The girls then caught up with Silver and Nicole. They ran across the bridge way and ran into another hallway. The Mobians ended up slumping on the floor and gasping for breath.

"Whew! That was too close for comfort!" gasped Amy "Me and Rouge were about to be pulled down to a watery grave by those icky tentacles! Thanks for saving our lives Silver and Cream."

"You're very welcome Miss Rose." said Cream politely.

"It was nothing." said Silver casually "I do have to wonder what that stuff was though and why this comet has it. Do the Black Arms feed off of it?"

"Perhaps." thought Nicole "It couldn't be used for anything else. I do hope that those tentacles don't belong to a creature that lives in that stuff or we will be in trouble."

"I think the tentacles are just random growths throughout the comet." mused Silver "There's a lot of them around but they don't appear to belong to anything. I guess that's fortunate for us, we can do without any monsters trying to kill us right now."

"Silver honey, we're in a comet that's the home of these Black Arms creatures, we're gonna find a lot of monsters here don't you think?" retorted Rouge "But that will not stop me from finding Shadow." she added, getting to her feet "Those Black Creatures are not gonna turn him evil!"

"We may not know where to find Shadow but we'll find him eventually if we keep looking." said Silver, standing up with her "Let's get back to our search girls, your queen and Shadow can't wait…"

Before he could say anything else, he was blasted off his feet by a ring blast fired from a ring gun. Silver was thrown across the hall and he landed on his stomach a few feet away from the girls. The girls all gasped in horror but then they were suddenly blasted off their feet by more ring blasts. During the episode with the tentacles, their screams had caught Black Doom's attention and he, along with some Black Warriors wielding ring-guns, came to investigate the scene. He'd found the Mobians and now his Black Warriors had blasted the Mobians off their feet and they were having problems getting back to their feet. Black Doom hovered over to the Mobians and glared at them with his three red eyes. He cackled at the Mobians that lay defeated before him.

"So, it appears I have intruders on my comet." he growled scarily "And it'll come as no surprise to me if you're here to save your queen and steal Shadow from me. Well you will not get that chance you foolish Mobians for I shall feed you to my glorious pet…"

He then ordered his Black Warriors to fire the ring guns again at the Mobians. This time, the guns were set to stun mode so the blasts would knock the Mobians out instead of sending them flying across the room. The Black Warriors fired the guns and the Mobians were all quickly knocked out by the blasts. Everything went black for them and Black Doom reached out to grab their unconscious bodies…

Meanwhile, over at Rail Canyon, Tails' group had finally arrived at Bullet Station. It had been a steady process but they'd made it eventually. And it was a good thing too because Tails was beginning to feel worn out from flying for so long while carrying Wilson and Mandy. Bunnie Rabbot had done pretty well carrying Geoffrey and towing Cosmo, who was riding on the hover-saucer, to say she was only flying with one rocket instead of two. Ruben surfed across the water trial he was making and he came down to the ground along with the others. The Mobians all touched down on Bullet Station, Tails puffing and panting and Cosmo stepping down off the saucer. Bullet Station was a huge station and on busy days in Rail Canyon, was usually crowded. But today was a slow day so in all likelihood, Bullet Station was probably empty. That would be fortunate because Nyrah and Oakron were at Bullet Station too and they were around the back digging up the first stolen Black Arms relic! The Mobians could hear the Black Arms digging away so they ran off around Bullet Station to find the source of the sound. They came to the back of the station and they peeked around the corner. There, they saw Nyrah and Oakron with their hover saucers nearby and Oakron was chipping away at the ground with his sword. He had been going at it for a while now and was just beginning to uncover the relic. Nyrah lazily stood by, holding the map for the relics and watching Oakron put his back into it. From the looks of things, he was digging up a giant sword with a blade longer then he was tall and it had black lining around the edges and it gave off an ominous purple glow. Oakron chipped away another piece of the earth and he began to grumble to himself.

"I don't get it!" he said grumpily "All this chipping away with my sword…just to bring Black Doom another sword?" he motioned to the sword he was digging up now.

"Oakron you vacuous little Death Leech, have you forgotten what that relic is?!" snapped Nyrah "That's Doom's Sword, a weapon crafted by Black Doom himself! It has the ability to summon creatures of any element out of the ground depending on the terrain and surroundings and it was one of the two relics stolen from us last time we invaded! You were there when we lost that sword so how did you forget about it?!"

Oakron scratched his head absent-mindedly

"I'm not sure really." he mused aloud "Mind you, I don't have the sharpest memory out of all of us do I?"

He then continued digging up Doom's Sword with Nyrah shaking his head in annoyance. As Oakron continued chipping away, Tails watched him and began to wonder what was Nyrah on about. He didn't quite understand the sword's powers but he knew that they couldn't let that sword return to the Black Arms. They had to get it from them before they could use it. It's power was likely to be catastrophic.

"That sword belongs to Black Doom himself?" mused Tails "And it has the ability to summon creatures out of the ground? I don't understand what that means but I bet it's a deadly power."

"If that thing belongs to Ugly Face himself then it MUST be deadly." spat Mandy "We've got to get that sword off of them before they can use it."

"What do ya'll think will be the best way of getting that durn sword back?" asked Bunnie Rabbot concernedly.

"When they pull that sword out of the ground, you will shoot it out of their hands Bunnie." said Tails "Then we'll jump out and grab it while keeping them at bay."

"Let's hope it works mate." said Geoffrey St. John, loading his arm-mounted crossbow "Or we're dead meat out there."

The Mobians patiently waited and watched as Oakron finished chipping away chunks of rock and unearthing the stolen relic. Doom's Sword had finally been unearthed and now the Black Arms could have it back at long last. Despite being buried here at Bullet Station for fifty years, the sword was still glowing malevolently and still looked as good as new. Oakron and Nyrah were well pleased with this. Oakron reached down and grabbed the sword's handle with both hands. He wrenched the sword out of its buried place and he lifted it up slowly and carefully, the sword's blade glowing brighter as it was in the hands of a Black Arms soldier. Oakron was dazzled by the sword and memories began to flood back into his head. Memories of seeing this sword in action. How he ever forgot about it was a mystery to him. Nyrah stared at it longingly too, remembering the many times Black Doom used it whenever they invaded Mobius or indeed any other planet. It felt good to have this relic back in their hands.

"Doom's Sword…so much power contained in this mighty weapon… I wish it was my sword." said Oakron, looking like he was in a trance of some kind.

"Just because it's Doom's Sword, it doesn't mean we're forbidden usage of it." noted Nyrah "We're granted permission to use the weapon should we ever be the ones to hold it right now, Black Doom said so."

"Oh right." muttered Oakron, clopping himself on the head in annoyance "I'm such a scatterbrain! As much as it humiliates me to be paired with a scientist like you, it's a good thing you are here otherwise I'd just keep forgetting everything!"

"Yes, it is." sneered Nyrah.

Oakron glared at Nyrah but said nothing. Before the two could do anything else though, Bunnie Rabbot deployed her arm cannon and blasted the sword out of his hand. Oakron squealed in pain and he clutched his searing hand. The sword landed with a clang on the ground. Oakron tried to shot Bunnie with his ring gun but Bunnie deployed her force-field generator and activated a force-field. She blocked the attack and everybody ran in to stop the two Black Arms soldiers. Geoffrey fried several darts at Oakron and Nyrah and Wilson threw his spinning blade weapon at them. Oakron however drew out his own sword and sliced the double-bladed pole in two, leaving it useless as a spinning blade weapon. Wilson now had two blades to fight with but first he'd have to retrieve them for they lay just behind Oakron. Oakron swung his sword at Wilson but the dog jumped back and dodged the attack. Mandy ran in and began to punch Oakron as hard as she could with her brass knuckle attachments making her attacks harder. But punching Oakron was like punching a boulder. Even with the knuckle attachments on, Mandy's punches didn't seem to be making much of an impact. She felt like she was going to break her wrists if she punched any harder. Oakron laughed at Mandy and he attempted to slice her in two. But Wilson retrieved the two halves of his spinning blade weapon and he blocked Oakron's attack with the blades of his weapon. He and Oakron clashed weapons with each other a couple of times before Oakron swung at Wilson and broke the blades to pieces. Wilson yelped in fear and narrowly managed a big swing of Oakron's sword. Mandy ran in and uppercut the Black Oak in the face. Oakron didn't really feel that punch but he was not going to tolerate being punched by a Mobian so he punched Mandy back. The mouse was thrown backwards and she landed painfully on her back. Wilson growled furiously and he tried to bite Oakron's arm but Oakron's arm was too big for him to get his mouth around so he instead targeted his wrist. Wilson bit Oakron's wrist but even a powerful dog bite couldn't harm Oakron. Oakron flung Wilson off of his wrist and into the wall of the station. Oakron then attempted to cleave Wilson in two with his sword but Bunnie Rabbot came in and pile-dived Oakron into the ground. Nyrah attempted to shoot Bunnie with his ring gun but Geoffrey ran in and forced Nyrah's gun upwards, causing him to shoot up at the sky instead. Nyrah fumed at Geoffrey and he tried to whack him with the gun but Geoffrey dodged and kicked Nyrah in the gut. Nyrah doubled over and Geoffrey then slammed both fists on top of his head. Nyrah was brought down on his knees and Geoffrey then snatched his ring gun. He pointed the gun at Oakron and blasted him with it. Oakron was thrown off his feet and sent sprawling on the ground. Bunnie was surprised at this and she gave Geoffrey a thumbs up.

"Good shot sugah!" she praised.

"Thanks luv." said Geoffrey modestly.

Nyrah picked himself up and he grabbed Geoffrey by the shoulders. He and Geoffrey suddenly ended up in a grapple and they were wrestling with each other. Nyrah was trying to get his gun back and Geoffrey was trying to keep it out of his grasp. Bunnie ran over to Nyrah and she walloped the Black Warrior scientist in the face with her robot arm. Nyrah was sent slamming into the wall and he lay at the foot of the wall, wondering which way was up. Oakron got back to his feet and he ran towards Geoffrey and Bunnie with his sword in hand ready to slice them to pieces. But Geoffrey and Bunnie both blasted him with their respective weapons, Geoffrey with Nyrah's ring gun and Bunnie with her arm cannon. That blast alone nearly sent Oakron flying off of Bullet Station but he managed to grip onto the edge of the platform and pull himself back up. Ruben then suddenly squirted him with a jet of water to distract him and give the others a chance to launch another attack. While all this was going on, Tails and Cosmo ran over to Doom's Sword and they tried to pick it up. Unfortunately for them, the sword was as heavy as it looked and they were having trouble trying to lift it up. Tails spun his tails around and tried to fly up with the sword with Cosmo helping him lift it. But try as they might, they weren't strong enough. They both strained to lift up the sword but they just couldn't lift it.

"Grrrr! Oh gosh this is heavy!" grunted Tails "How can Oakron even lift this?!"

"He's very strong I guess." grunted Cosmo as she tried pitifully to lift the sword.

"OY! Get away from that!" screamed Oakron, thundering towards the two children with his hands open and ready to snatch them up.

But before he could touch them, Geoffrey and Bunnie blasted him again. Oakron was sent sprawling across the ground and he grumbled in annoyance. But Nyrah kicked Geoffrey in the back and made him drop the gun before he could use it again. Nyrah scooped it up and he blasted Bunnie before she could get him. He then blasted Tails and Cosmo and sent them hurling away from Doom's Sword. Oakron picked himself up and seizing his chance, grabbed Doom's Sword and lifted it up with ease. The sword's blade glowed very brightly in his hands. Oakron cackled demonically and he pointed the sword into the air.

"I maybe absent-minded, but I definitely remember how this relic works!" he crowed "By the powers of the Black Arms!" he chanted as the sword glowed a deep purple colour "I summon thee creatures from thy depths! Fiends, demons, behemoths and monsters, I summon you to rid thee of thy villains! Arise my monsters! ARISE!"

As he bellowed the last word, the ground beneath them began to shake violently. The Mobians fought hard to keep standing as the ground began to shake beneath their feet. What was happening? Was Oakron causing an earthquake with Doom's Sword? Then suddenly, as the shaking got more and more violently, a huge rocky hand with long fingers shot up from the rocky ground surrounding Bullet Station. The Mobians were well and truly shocked by the sight of the hand but that wasn't all they were going to be dealing with for as the hand popped out of the ground, a body came up with it. The resulting creature was a huge, rocky golem with huge rocky arms, purple eyes and purple tinges in-between the rocky parts of it's body. It was thicker then a boulder and it was gigantic, reaching about twenty feet in height. The Mobians stood back from the rock creature as it bellowed a loud, thunderous roar.

"I guess that's what the Black Arms meant by it can rise creatures of any elements out of the ground!" shrieked Tails.

"That sword's made a creature made of rock just come up from nowhere!" exclaimed Ruben "I guess that's where the elemental side of the power comes from, we're on rocky ground right now so it's rising up creatures made of rock and…"

"We get it Ruben!" snapped Mandy impatiently.

But that one creature wasn't all they were going to be dealing with. Two more rocky creatures rose up from the ground, one rising up directly under Bullet Station and tearing it's way through it. These two creatures differed from the first one. The second rock creature was more serpent like in appearance and had no arms. The third rock creature was more dragon-like in appearance and had no wings (it'd be hard to have a flying creature made of rock wouldn't it?). Three gigantic rock creatures now stood before the terrified Mobians and they roared at the top of their voices. Oakron and Nyrah were thrilled to see this and they hopped onto their hover-saucers.

"Hope you have a nice play with our new pets!" sneered Nyah "Now if you'll excuse us, we have the second relic to find!" he crowed, waving the map at the Mobians tauntingly.

The two Black Arms then whizzed off on their saucers, leaving the Mobians at the mercy of the rock creatures and heading off to Ocean Palace to find the next relic, the Black Chaos Emerald. The moment Nyrah and Oakron left, the rock creatures bellowed a thunderous roar and they opened their jaws. A bright purple beam began to build up in the back of their throats and they aimed at the Mobians. They instantly knew what they were doing and they ran for it before they could unleash their attack. The rock creatures fired a giant, purple blast out of their mouths and they almost hit the Mobians but they narrowly missed them. Their blasts though left a giant hole in the ground. The Mobians ran into Bullet Station as it would be safer for them to be in a more enclosed environment while fighting three giant rock creatures of different shapes and sizes. The serpent like creature slithered nosily into the station after them, it's slithering noisy because of the fact it's made of rocks. It fired spears of energy at the Mobians and tried to hit them but the Mobians were too quick. The spears all missed them. As the Mobians ran, they looked over their shoulders at the rock creatures and watched them lumber after them.

"How in heaven's name can we take those behemoths on?!"

shrieked Wilson.

"Stop shrieking Wilson! That's not going to help!" snapped Mandy.

"Wilson has a legitimate point though!" Ruben called to her "How can we fight those creatures? They're huge and made of rocks!"

"We've fought giant robots, which are made of metal, in the past Ruben! We'll stop those guys somehow!" retorted Mandy "Although I'm not sure how we'll do so without killing ourselves."

"Ruben hon, will yer water powers slow them varmints down at all?" asked Bunnie.

"Unfortunately no, earth swallows water after all." noted Ruben "Those rock creatures won't be effected at all."

"Well me and Bunnie still have our projectile weapons." put in Geoffrey "I'm sure we can blast those blokes down to size!"

"It's risky sugah-John but it's worth a shot." said Bunnie, screeching to a halt and deploying her arm cannon "Stay back everybody, me and Geoffrey are gonna try blastin' those creatures!"

"I'll distract them so you can get a clear shot!" Tails announced "Ruben, you can help distract them with me! Those water powers of yours will be a good distraction!"

"OK then!" Ruben called back.

Tails flew up to the rock creatures while Ruben ran towards them and prepared to shower them with a jet of water. Bunnie and Geoffrey weren't far behind them. Geoffrey ran after Ruben with his crossbow loaded with exploding darts and Bunnie flew after Tails with her arm cannon deployed. The rock creatures towered over the Mobians and they prepared to fire purple beams of energy at them. Tails flew in front of the Rock Golem's eyes and flew around in circles, keeping it distracted and keeping it's attention diverted. Bunnie took advantage of the situation and she began firing at the golem as rapidly as she could with her powerful arm cannon. Ruben squirted water at the Rock Dragon and the Rock Serpent and kept their attention focused on him. That gave Geoffrey chance to fire some darts at the rock creatures. He aimed for the gaps between the rocky build of the creature's bodies. The darts embedded themselves into the softer spots of the creatures and they exploded on cue. The Rock Dragon and Rock Serpent roared in pain as the darts exploded around them. But to Geoffrey's horror, the darts didn't seem to do any damage to their tough, rocky bodies! They looked perfectly fine despite the power of the explosions! Bunnie's arm cannon didn't seem to be harming the Rock Golem either, the golem took all her blasts as if they were nothing and he swatted at her with a giant rocky arm. Bunnie dodged the attack and she kept firing. But her blasts just didn't seem to be affecting the Rock Golem. The Rock Golem fired back at her and made Bunnie fly back to avoid getting hit by it.

"Whoa!" screeched Bunnie "Tails, ah don't think our plan's working!"

"We'll break them eventually!" cried Tails, goading himself along with false hope just to keep himself going "Keep doing your hardest Bunnie and Geoffrey!"

So the two Mobians kept firing at the Rock Creatures, hoping to eventually break them and bring them crashing down into giant, rocky pieces on the ground…

Meanwhile on Angel Island, Knuckles, Shade and Blaze were engaged in battle with a squadron of Black Arms creatures. The squadron consisted of Black Oaks, Black Warriors and Black Hawks. The Black Warriors and Black Oaks all descended down to the island and they hopped off their hover saucers. The Black Hawks remained flying and they prepared to dive bomb the Mobians. A pair of Black Warriors pulled out a ring gun each and they shot at Knuckles. Knuckles dodged the deadly ring blast, leaving it to strike the Master Emerald shrine and knock some bits of stone off of it. Knuckles lunged at the Black Warrior and he socked it directly in the face. The Black Warrior was knocked onto his back and he dropped his rung gun. Knuckles grabbed the ring gun and he blasted the other Black Warrior with it. Two more Black Warriors fired their ring guns at him but Knuckles spun around and fired his ring gun. The blast of his gun blocked the blasts coming towards him so nobody ended up getting hurt. Knuckles then tossed the ring gun aside and he ran to the two Black Warriors trying to shoot him. Knuckles leaped over the blasts and he landed in front of them both. He punched them both in the gut and brought them both down on one knee. Knuckles then punched them both in the necks, making them gag and cough hoarsely. A Black Oak lumbered towards Knuckles and then punched him as hard as he could, throwing Knuckles backwards and sending him crashing into the emerald shrine. The Black Oak ran towards Knuckles and prepared to deck him but Shade jumped in and Blade Rushed the Black Oak, knocking it down onto it's side with a sweep of a pink energy wave that came from her twin blade weapons. Shade had her helmet currently deployed to give herself some extra defence. A Black Hawk swooped down from the sky and attempted to aerial ace Shade. But Shade Blade-Rushed the Black Hawk before it could touch her and she brought it crashing down to the ground like a stricken bird. A Black Oak lumbered towards Shade and clasped it's fists together. It attempted to bash them down on top of Shade's head but Knuckles jumped in and pile-dived the Black Oak in the back. This brought it down onto the ground and Knuckles began to punch it as hard as he could in the back of the head, hoping to knock it out.

"Thank you for the save." said Shade.

"Anytime Shade." said Knuckles with a rather flashy grin on his face "A co-guardian as beautiful as you doesn't deserve to be pummelled by these Black Alien scum!"

Shade blushed at the fact Knuckles just called her beautiful. Ever since the whole incident with Imperator Ix, Knuckles had been seeming to grow feelings for Shade and Shade was secretly growing feelings for Knuckles. The two echidnas were secretly falling in love with each other and hopefully some time soon, they'd be able to reveal their love for each other. Now was not the time for they were fighting for their lives here. Moving over to Blaze, the pyrokinetic cat was showing the Black Arms why she's the future guardian of Angel Island and the guardian of the Sol Emeralds. Blaze threw fire at some Black Warriors and then she ploughed through them all with a fiery spin kick attack. The Black Warriors were sent sprawling across the ground and Blaze spiralled towards a pair of Black Oaks, both armed with swords and looking really powerful. She blazed through them both and then threw fire in their faces. Blaze tripped them up by kicking them in the legs and taking them out from underneath them. As the Mobians fought however, the Black Hawks flew in towards the Master Emerald and they attempted to grab the emerald and fly off with it. A whole squadron of Black Hawks could easily carry the heavy emerald off the shrine and back to the Black Comet. They knew it was some kind of Chaos Emerald so that's why they were trying to steal it. Blaze saw the Black Hawks trying to steal the Master Emerald and she rocketed towards them.

"Hey! Get away from that!" she screeched.

She blazed all the Black Hawks with a spiral of fire and scared them all off. They all flew away in blind panic as fast as their wings would let them. Blaze scoffed at them and she looked down at the Master Emerald which she now stood on top of.

"So…this is what it feels like to actually be guarding Angel Island from something." she said "And this is what it feels like to be defending the long lost Master Emerald. I still can't help but wonder why it no longer exists in my time…?"

"Blaze, we can do with less talk and more guarding the Master Emerald and Chaos Emeralds from these Black Vermin!" bellowed Knuckles who was having a sumo session with a Black Oak.

Blaze snapped back into reality and she jumped off the Master Emerald. She spiralled towards the Black Oak Knuckles was fighting and she swept it off it's feet with one hefty ram of her spiral kick attack. A Black Warrior however snagged her with a ring gun and Blaze was brought down onto the ground at it's feet. Three more Black Warriors surrounded Blaze and they pointed their ring guns at her. Blaze pretended to look scared in order to fool them for a moment before setting herself alight and then letting the four Black Warriors all have it with a wave of blazing fire. The Black Warriors were thrown backwards and Blaze stomped on their dropped weapons, breaking them to pieces and leaving them useless to the Black Warriors. Knuckles and Shade were well impressed with the fiery feline and how she blew those Black Warriors away with a wave of fire.

"Wow Blaze, you're incredible!" exclaimed Knuckles.

"You are most definitely worthy of being future guardian of Angel Island." complimented Shade "Very impressive skills and battle prowess."

"Thank you." said Blaze modestly "It feels good to actually be defending Angel Island in it's prime before the Master Emerald disappeared and the island fell off the coast of Nekronopolis. My skills are getting put into good use at last."

Knuckles and Shade nodded agreeably. Although they were still nervous about the whole mystery behind the disappearing Master Emerald in Mobius' future. But that was in the future and this was now, the present time so they couldn't focus on that at the moment, they had to focus on keeping the emeralds safe from the Black Arms. A Black Oak had lumbered over to the Master Emerald shrine and it was climbing up the steps to get the Master Emerald. It almost grabbed the emerald until Shade Blade-Rushed it in the back and made it turn around and glare at her furiously. Shade ran up the stairs of the emerald shrine and she jumped up at the Black Oak. She kicked it and knocked it back into the Master Emerald. The Black Oak NEARLY knocked it off the shrine. Shade then tripped the Black Oak up with a sweep of the leg and it ended up tumbling down the stairs and off the shrine. Shade remained on top of the shrine and she had her blades at the ready. Best to stay close to the Master Emerald so no one can get near it after all. Some Black Hawks dived down towards the Master Emerald like birds of prey and they attempted to attack Shade but Shade Blade-Rushed them and sent them falling down to the ground with a pink energy wave. One Black Hawk that wasn't part of the squad Shade had just downed flew towards Shade from behind and it charged into her, knocking her clean off the Master Emerald shrine. Shade landed flat on her face and she groaned in pain. The Black Hawk then started attacking her like an angry bird (please don't make any Angry Bird jokes!) would attack a human. Shade tried to fight off the creature but without her blades, which she'd dropped, it was considerably harder to fend off such a creature. Luckily for her, Blaze leaped in and kicked the Black Hawk away. The pyrokinetic cat took Shade's hand and helped her back to her feet. The Black Hawk picked itself up and it flew towards Shade and Blaze but the two girls leaped up and they both kicked it down to the ground. A Black Warrior sneaked up behind Blaze and Shade and then it blasted the girls in the back with a ring gun it wielded. Shade and Blaze were thrown off their feet and sent sprawling across the ground. Knuckles took care of the Black Warrior by pile-diving it in the back and knocking it down. He snatched it's ring gun again and then he blasted the Black Warrior across the island. A couple of Black Oaks and three Black Warriors all ran towards Knuckles but Knuckles blasted them with the ring gun and, to his surprise, ended up sending the five Black Arms running towards him flying off the island and plummeting down to the ground! Knuckles was well flabbergasted by how powerful the gun was.

"Wah-hey!" blurted Knuckles in surprise "This thing really packs a wallop doesn't it?!"

After that blast, there were only six Black Warriors and four Black Oaks left on the island. The Black Hawks were OK for whenever they were knocked down they could just fly back up into the air and because they could fly, it was impossible to knock them off the island. The remaining Black Arms creatures still on the island looked a little nervous after seeing what Knuckles had done to the other Black Arms creatures in their squad. Knuckles pointed the ring gun at them and he prepared to fire it at them.

"Alright you vermin, get off of my island or I'll blast you off of it with this!" growled Knuckles, threatening to use the ring gun.

But a Black Hawk flew in behind Knuckles and knocked him down to the ground, causing him to drop the gun. The Black Warriors instantly began shooting at Knuckles with their ring guns and they attempted to blast him off the island. But before they could get Knuckles anywhere near the edge of the island, Blaze leaped in and blazed through the Black Warriors, knocking them all down onto the ground and causing them to drop their weapons. The Black Oaks lumbered towards Blaze but before they could touch her, Blaze held her hands out and summoned a ring of fire that surrounded all the remaining Black Warriors and Black Oaks. They were all trapped within a circle of blazing fire. The Black Arms in the circle of fire didn't know what to do. Any attempt at breaking through would result in them getting burnt badly so they couldn't take that risk. Not that they would need to take such a risk anyway for Blaze shot more blazes of fire through the circle and she began blazing the Black Arms with her powerful pyrokinetic abilities The Black Arms made this strange, hoarse sounding squeal that sounded like a stuck pig as they were being burnt alive. The Black Hawk flock flew down and began charging and pecking at Blaze in an attempt to get her to stop what she was doing. Blaze threw fire at them and made them back off. The Black Arms in the circle of fire couldn't stand the fire any longer so they charged through the blazing wall that was keeping them in the centre of the circle. They all ran for their lives and they hopped back onto their parked hover-saucers. The mission was a flummox and they couldn't beat Knuckles, Shade and Blaze so they had to retreat. Black Doom was not going to be happy to see them come back to him empty handed but as they usually said, a failure now can lead to a success the next time. The next time they attacked Angel Island, they'd succeed in stealing the Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald and that was guaranteed for the next time they attacked, Black Doom would likely be coming with them to make sure they succeed this time. Knuckles, Shade and Blaze watched as the Black Arms all flew away on their hover saucers and the Black Hawks swooped after them as fast as their wings would let them. It made the three guardians feel good to see that they had succeeded in their mission to defend the Chaos and Master Emeralds from the Black Arms but they had the nasty feeling that they would be back to try again.

"Well that was easier then I anticipated." said Knuckles "But I'm not complaining, I'm happy we got rid of those creeps!"

"The three of us worked amazingly well together." said Shade with a rather deadpan smile on her face "And our combined efforts managed to push back those Black Creatures."

Blaze nodded agreeably.

"We may have won this one but I have a nasty feeling that they'll come back in larger numbers and probably bring Black Doom with them." muttered Blaze.

"The Black Creatures don't really seem to pose much of a liable threat so chances are that Black Doom won't be much harder to take down then the Black Arms themselves." theorized Shade.

"Yeah, I bet Black Doom's as soft as the rest of them!" crowed Knuckles "If he shows up, we'll roughen him up as much as we've roughen this lot up!"

"We shall see on that." said Blaze grimly "In the meantime, I wonder how the other two teams are doing in their tasks?"

"They're hopefully doing well like we are." said Shade "But something tells me they're probably in need of aid right now."

Shade couldn't be more right on that theory for Silver's team had been captured and Tails' team was fighting three giant rock monsters. Knuckles' team were lucky they had even succeeded in their mission but that success was likely to turn to failure for Black Doom could possibly try and attack the island himself and steal the Chaos Emeralds. If only Sonic wasn't still healing from his wounds at the hands of Devion then he could stand in and help out in some way…

Speaking of Sonic, he was in Royal HQ right now with Team Chaotix keeping an eye on him. Espio the Chameleon was on the computer monitors and he was monitoring the Royal Fighters' current positions via satellite views. He wasn't monitoring Silver's team for they were in the Black Comet and it would be hard to get a view inside the Black Comet without getting dangerously close to it. Vector the Crocodile and Charmy Bee were sitting around with Sonic and Sonic was telling them everything that was going on and what he had been told about the Black Arms' history and the relics.

"…and as of this moment, Tails and his team have taken a map Nicole gave them and they're hunting down these stolen relics so they can use them against the Black Arms." explained Sonic "The relics sound pretty funky too. One's a sword that can raise creatures up from the ground and one's a Black Chaos Emerald."

"OK, that's pretty creepy." said Vector "They have a Black Chaos Emerald?"

"Who knows what that can do." said Charmy "If it's a black Chaos Emerald then I bet it has evil powers."

"According to Nicole, that's exactly what it is." said Sonic "They artificially created it by stealing one from Angel Island and corrupting it into their own dark gem of power."

"So what will that mean? The super forms will be ugly and evil instead of awesome and heroic?" wondered Charmy.

"Maybe." said Vector "Those Black Arms guys sound like real jerks don't they? They've warred with us five times every fifty years and now they've come back to fight us again? Do they have anything better to do with their lives?"

"I think their lives centre around warring with planets they come across every fifty years." muttered Sonic "Sad life really. I kinda wish I could join in with taking them down though. Instead, I'm stuck here being babysat by you three, no offence."

"Aw, we know how you feel Sonic." said Charmy affectionately "It's boring having to sit around waiting for your body to recover. I had to sit around being bored while waiting for my wing to heal the time it got shot on that oil rig last year so I know what it's like to be stuck around doing nothing while your body heals."

"Unlike you though, Sonic can barely walk." murmured Vector "You only had a ripped wing that time so you could still function. Sonic can't so its worse for the poor guy then it was for you."

"I know." said Charmy glumly "You know what Sonic, maybe so you feel less bored, we could all play a game together. Or maybe we could tell some jokes. I've got a good one here…"

"It's not "What goes "zzub, zubb? A bee flying backwards" is it?" muttered Sonic with his hand on his face in a bored manner.

"What? It's a funny joke isn't it?" asked Charmy defensively.

"It's only funny to a bee Charmy." sighed Vector "Non-bees don't tend to find it as funny I'm afraid. I've got a better one…"

"Hey guys, sorry to interrupt you but I've got an announcement." said Espio, turning around and looking over his shoulder.

Vector and Charmy ran over to Espio whereas Sonic just limped over to the chameleon. They all peered over Espio's shoulder as the chameleon told them what he could make out from the images he was getting on the monitors.

"Angel Island looks like it's in the clear." said Espio, pointing to a monitor that showed Knuckles, Shade and Blaze standing guard around the Master Emerald and there didn't appear to be a single Black Arms creature in sight "Knuckles, Shade and that new woman appear to have succeeded in their mission for the Black Arms ran away from the island. Mind you, they're probably getting more soldiers and they're planning to come back and attack again."

"The Black Arms can send as many as they like, Knuckles, Shade and Blaze will keep pushing them back." gloated Sonic "If it gets too much for them, they can just simply use the Master Emerald to perform a Chaos Control and use it to beat them."

"Nobody's getting that emerald." said Vector with a big fat smile on his scaly lips.

"That's true." said Espio "Unfortunately, it seems Tails and his team have run into a bit of trouble. Look on this monitor."

Vector, Charmy and Sonic looked at the other monitor and noticed that Tails' team was under pressure from three giant rock creatures. The Rock Golem was at this moment, chasing Ruben around and trying to smash him. Bunnie and Geoffrey were both shooting at the Rock Serpent but their weapons were futile against its tough rocky hide. The Rock Dragon was shooting beams of energy at the others and trying to hit them but ultimately failing because of their speed. But the tides of this battle were going to turn against the Mobians very quickly if this carried on for the rock creatures simply wouldn't go down and the Mobians wouldn't be able to keep this up forever. Sonic knew they needed help and rather then sit around doing nothing; he was going to sort it out. Whether Amy wanted him to or not, he was going to go straight to Angel Island and then use the Master Emerald to perform a Chaos Regeneration. He was needed right now and his body wasn't going to heal any faster so a Chaos Regeneration was in hand for him. Sonic limped away from the monitors as quietly as he could and he left Team Chaotix to themselves. He headed off to the Royal Fighter Hangar not far away from the headquarters to get a hover saucer to travel to Angel Island with. While Sonic sneaked away, Team Chaotix began chatting to themselves.

"What are those things?" asked Vector.

"They look like rock creatures!" squealed Charmy "And they look terrifying too! No wonder Tails' team are in trouble! They don't look easy to defeat!"

"Where did they come from?" asked Vector "They don't look like they're from Mobius and they don't match Sonic's description of the Black Arms so what are they?"

"Sonic said one of the relics the Black Arms had stolen from them was a sword that can raise creatures from the dead, or so I heard when he was talking to you two." said Espio "Maybe the Black Arms found the sword and rose those creatures up from the rocky ground around Bullet Station. It's just a theory but it's likely to be true."

"It probably is." said Vector "I hope Tails and his team can beat those things."

"It doesn't look like they can though." said Charmy in a concerned manner "Do you think they'll win Sonic?"

He turned to face Sonic only to find out he wasn't there. Sonic had gone. Charmy looked around wildly for Sonic and his stomach began to tingle with worry. Had Sonic gone off on his own to face the rock creatures? How reckless and foolish of him would THAT be since he can barely walk!

"Hey! Sonic's gone!" cried Charmy.

Espio and Vector jumped out of their seats and they stared at Charmy in horror.

"Sonic's gone?!" shrieked Vector.

Charmy nodded frantically.

"Can't believe it, a simple babysitting job and we botched it up." grumbled Espio "How humiliating this is!"

"I've got a nasty feeling on what he's up to!" exclaimed Vector "He's gonna try and help his friends! We have to stop him!"

With that said, Team Chaotix hurried out of the lab, through the corridors and out of Royal HQ. The moment they stepped out of Royal HQ though, they saw Sonic in a hover-saucer making his way through New Mobotropolis and off out of the city to who knows where. Vector put his hands to his head in panic.

"He's getting away! We've gotta catch him or we'll be toast for letting him sneak off on his own!" squealed Vector "Come on boys, let's follow him!"

Before Espio and Charmy could ask how they would follow him, Vector grabbed them by their hands and ran off to the Royal Fighter Hanger to grab a hover saucer. They entered the hanger and they grabbed the nearest hover-saucer they could find. They leaped into the saucer and they kicked it into gear. The hover-saucer rose up off the floor a few inches and it sped off out of the hangar bay. Vector was driving the saucer and he followed Sonic through New Mobotropolis and out through the city gates. Sonic was already a good distance ahead of them so he wouldn't notice he was being followed and Team Chaotix would take a while to catch up to him. Both saucers were going at full speed so Team Chaotix likely weren't going to catch up to Sonic since they couldn't go any faster. But they had been given the task of watching Sonic and they couldn't let him out of their sights or they would be in trouble so they had to follow him and stop him from doing what it looked like he was going to do…

Meanwhile, Silver the Hedgehog was beginning to come to after being knocked out by the Black Arms earlier. He sat up and he began to rub his head better for it was throbbing a little. Silver opened his eyes and he noticed that he was facing a wall. A dungeon wall that is. Black Doom had taken him and his team down to the dungeons and thrown them in there to perish. Sally was in there with them too. Silver noticed that Amy, Cream, Nicole, Rouge and Sally were in the room with him and for some curious reason, they were all backed against the wall in fear and staring straight ahead of themselves. The look on their faces suggested they were witnessing something terrible ahead of them. Silver was surprised to see Sally here, that meant they'd found her at last and their job was going to be much easier, but he was puzzled at the same time at their frightened expressions.

"Uh, hey girls." said Silver cautiously "Wh…what's up? Why are you looking so scared?"

"Look…behind you!" choked Sally hoarsely, pointing behind Silver. She was so frightened her voice was going funny.

Silver looked behind him and he saw what everybody was so scared about. They were being watched by a giant creature that was in this cell with them. The creature looked like a cross between a maggot and a giant. It had a huge blubbery body and relatively small wings which always made one wonder how it was able to fly despite the size of its body. It had a singular green eye in the centre of its face and giant jaws with mandible like jaws on the sides of its face. It had horns and small spikes on its head and back and it was black and red in colour. The creature looked very grotesque and horrifying in appearance and it began to roar at the sight of its victims. Doom's Eye was next to the creature and Doom's voice began to boom out from the little purple star-fish like creature.

"Glad to see you are awakened my prisoners." sneered Doom's Eye "Now you can face your punishment for sneaking onto my comet and trying to infiltrate it from the inside out while also trying to rescue Shadow from me."

"We'll see about that!" retorted Silver, reaching for his Super Warp Ring.

To his horror though, he couldn't find it. He searched all over himself but he couldn't find the warp ring at all. It was quite clear that it was gone and Black Doom had likely stolen it. As if Doom's Eye could read Silver's mind, he spoke to him.

"Do not bother about your warp ring, I stole it from you while you were knocked out." crowed Doom's Eye "You cannot escape from this dungeon. I will be willing to allow you the chance to live though. If you can defeat my glorious pet, the Black Bull, then you will be freed from here." he lied.

Black Doom was filling the heroes with false pretences and hope just so he could crush them in his own sadistic way.

"Fair enough challenge." said Silver "Bring it on then you gluttonous gut ball!" he yelled to Black Bull.

Doom's Eye flew away from the scene while Black Bull roared loudly and glowered at Silver with its single green eye. Black Bull opened its massive jaws and it began to breathe fire out at its victims. They were trapped in a dungeon with a giant Black Arms creature. There was no hope for the heroes now Black Bull was after them…

Well this is going well isn't it? The Black Arms have their first relic back and Silver's team is going to become food for the Black Bull! Will Sonic's idea work and will his contribution help? Or are they just fighting a losing battle? Tune in next time as the Black Chaos Emerald comes to frution...

So sorry for the delays everybody. I keep getting distracted by DeviantArt and...well I'm just being lazy so apologies for that. I'll try harder to juggle my two lives and keep bringing you Sonic the Hedgehog goodness on ethier site. Hope you understand and thanks for the support you give me by favouriting me and reviewing this story.

Black Chaos

Story 123: Black Chaos

I don't care.

Those three words seemed to swim around Sonic the Hedgehog's head in a repeated circle like goldfish swimming around in their bowl over and over.

I don't care. I don't care if Amy wants me to play it safe in case we get any side effects like we did with the Chaos Clusters, I'm healing myself with a Chaos Regeneration and no one is gonna stop me. I need to help my friends and nothing will stop me from saving them.

Sonic had seen the trouble some of his friends were in at Bullet Station. Tails, who was teamed up with Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben, were under peril from three giant rock creatures created by Doom's Sword, a relic of the Black Arms that Oakron and Nyrah had unfortunately managed to steal back. They needed help and nobody else could provide it for them for Shadow was captured and the others were in teams and on Angel Island and the Black Comet respectively so he had to fill in for now. He was still recovering from his injuries from the Devatron war and he could barely walk so he needed to heal himself with a Chaos Regeneration. And for that, he required a Chaos Emerald so he was going off to Angel Island to use the Master Emerald to heal himself. Amy had been against the idea after what had happened with the Chaos Clusters a year ago and she was worried that if they used a Chaos Regeneration again, there might be a side effect even though it would be the Chaos Emeralds or Master Emerald they'd be using and she didn't want to risk anything bad happening so she had wanted Sonic to recover naturally. At first, Sonic had been onboard with this as he didn't believe in deliberately going against his friend's wishes for his own needs. Amy was only looking out for him and he was willing to accept that. But for now, Sonic had to go against it since now was a desperate time and it was calling for desperate measures. So Sonic had sneaked away from Team Chaotix and grabbed a hover-saucer. He was heading off to Angel Island right now and unbeknownst to him, Team Chaotix were trying to catch him since they had been assigned to baby-sit Sonic for he's unfit to battle and now he was escaping from them so they had to catch him or they would be in trouble. The big problem was they couldn't catch him since Sonic had had a big head start already and both saucers were at top speed to the Chaotix couldn't really catch up to him since they couldn't go any faster. So at best, they were just following him and making sure he didn't leave their sights. A long while passed by as the two hover-saucers cruised through the many places of Mobius and after that long while, Sonic finally reached Angel Island. His saucer cruised through the deserts of Downunda as he headed towards the giant floating island. The Chaotix could see that Sonic was heading towards Angel Island and the first thing they began wondering was what Sonic was coming here for.

"What the heck's Sonic come all this way for?" wondered Vector.

"He's up to something." said Charmy "I bet he's gonna use the Chaos Emeralds to turn super and make himself feel better and then fight the rock creatures in Bullet Station."

"If that's what he's up to then we have nothing to worry about." said Espio "But he could have told us if he was gonna do that, why did he have to sneak off?"

"I dunno what goes through Sonic's head but at least he never does anything bone-headed." said Vector "Oh well, we'll stick with him anyway and see if we can do anything to help."

Espio and Charmy nodded agreeably. They could rule out the theory that Sonic was doing something foolish and that he had a good idea. And how right they were to think that, except for the super part that is for Sonic hadn't thought of that, he'd just thought of using Chaos Regeneration to heal himself. Up on Angel Island, Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas and future Angel Island guardian Blaze the Cat could see two hover-saucers coming towards them and they began to wonder what it was. They knew it wasn't more Black Arms for the saucers weren't even of their design.

"There are two hover-saucers heading towards the island." observed

Shade "Who's piloting them?"

"I'm not entirely sure from here but the one in the lead looks like… like…Sonic…is driving it." said Knuckles, peering out over the edge of the island and looking as hard as he can "It's hard to tell from here."

"I wonder who's in the second saucer." mused Blaze "Is he being chased by a villain? Is he being followed by a villain or is that some kind of back up with him?"

"I think they're friendly." said Shade "But it's an estimate at best as we can't see too well from up here."

They'd sooner see who were in the saucers for they had finally reached Angel Island and Sonic had just set his saucer to fly up to the island, increasing the hovering capability with the thrust of a lever (he's driven one of these before during the eight months in-between before he met Tails). Team Chaotix didn't know how to do that though so their saucer was stuck on the ground with the three of them watching Sonic descend up to Angel Island. Charmy however took Espio by the hands and Vector held onto Espio's ankles as Charmy carried the two of them out of the saucer and up to Angel Island. As Charmy was carrying them up to the island, Sonic finished ascending and he steered the saucer up to the Master Emerald shrine. The three guardians were gobsmacked to see Sonic here and for a moment, they couldn't speak. As Sonic staggered out of the saucer and onto the emerald shrine, Knuckles finally regained his ability to speak.

"Sonic?! Well this is surprising." he said "What the heck are you doing here?! You're supposed to be back at Royal HQ getting some rest!"

"I've come here to use a Chaos Regeneration on myself and heal myself." retorted Sonic, trying as hard as he can to stay standing "I don't care what Amy says, I have to do this. Tails' team are in peril and I NEED to heal myself so I can help them."

"Really?" said Shade, her usually cold looking eyes widening a fraction "What kind of peril?"

"They're being attacked by giant rock creatures and they'll need me to stop them." explained Sonic "Me and Team Chaotix found that out after monitoring them through satellite in Royal HQ."

"Rock creatures?" spluttered Knuckles "Where did they come from? Are they Black Arms?"

"Possibly." said Sonic "They're at Bullet Station which is where Nicole said the first Black Arms relic was and the first relic if I recall was some sword doo-hicky that can raise creatures from the ground or something like that."

"So maybe the Black Arms got the relic first and they made the rock creatures with it." deduced Blaze "That can't be good at all. Let's hope they don't find the second relic."

Sonic nodded and then he touched the Master Emerald. Chaos Energy crackled between his fingers as he touched the Master Emerald. He then yelled at the top of his voice "Chaos… REGENERATION!" and the Master Emerald glowed a bright, fluorescent green colour. Team Chaotix had just touched down on Angel Island as Sonic was using Chaos Regeneration and they ended up shielding their eyes from the sheer brightness of the emerald's glow. The light died down after a while and Sonic stood up straight, stretching as much as he could. He began to feel much better now he'd just done that Chaos Regeneration. Boy was he glad he went with this idea now! Team Chaotix were pretty amazed at what they'd seen too.

"That was awesome! Do it again!" cried Charmy.

Sonic turned around in surprise and he stared at Team Chaotix in surprise. The echidnas and Blaze stared at Team Chaotix in surprise too.

"Team Chaotix?!" blustered Sonic "What are you guys doing here?"

"We got worried when you sneaked off and we thought you were going to rush into battle despite your injuries." explained Vector "So we followed you because we were concerned about you. Thankfully, you weren't going to do anything foolish. You just used the Master Emerald's power to heal yourself that's all."

"Yeah, sorry I didn't tell you what I was doing." said Sonic with an apologetic look on his face and rubbing the back of his head nervously "I didn't think you'd understand and that you'd just try and keep me trapped in Royal HQ."

"It's alright, we shouldn't have jumped to conclusions." said Espio.

He then spotted Blaze and his eyes widened.

"Whom may I ask is the pretty woman there?" asked Espio.

Blaze blushed bright red.

"That would be Blaze, future guardian of Angel Island." said Sonic "She and her friend Silver are helping us beat the Black Arms.

"Any friend of Sonic's a friend of ours." said Vector happily "Hi Miss Blaze, I'm Vector and these two are Espio and Charmy. We're Team Chaotix and we're detectives and defenders of Mobius along with the Royal Fighters."

"Nice to meet you." said Blaze "It's been a while since I've ever seen a crocodile or a chameleon for the last ones died out last year. Last year in my time that is, not this time. And I've never seen anything like you before." she said to Charmy "I guess your kind went extinct before I was born."

That did not make Team Chaotix feel very comfortable at all. Sometime in the future, their kind goes extinct? How did that happen and how could they stop that from happening?

"O…K…" said Vector "So…care to explain a bit more on that for us? We don't understand you."

"While you do that, I'll be off to save Tails and his team." said Sonic "Wish me luck guys."

"You don't need it Sonic." said Knuckles "We all know you'll win as always."

"Before you go Sonic, I recommend taking the Chaos Emeralds." said Shade "If you need them to destroy these "rock creatures" then you'll have them on you. And I have a feeling you will need them, especially to go after the second relic once you've beaten the rock creatures."

"Good idea Shade." said Sonic "Wait here while I go get 'em."

With that said, he zipped off at top speed and rushed off to the tomb the Chaos Emeralds were hidden in. In a matter of seconds, he rushed back to the Master Emerald Shrine with all seven Chaos Emeralds in his hands. The seven glorious gems all glowed in unison and Blaze couldn't help but stare at them. To think the Sol Emeralds used to look like that before they became the Sol Emeralds. The Chaos Emeralds vanished away and Sonic leaped on top of the Master Emerald. With a touch of the emerald and a simple yell of "Chaos…CONTROL!", Sonic vanished into thin air with one bright flash of the Master Emerald. He was warping himself over to Bullet Station so that he may stop the Rock Creatures and save his friends from being killed by them. The only thing was… would he be able to stop them…even though he's healed himself and is ready for action again…?

Over to Bullet Station, the three rock creatures had the Mobians on the run. Despite their best efforts, they couldn't seem to hurt the rock creatures in anyway. Now the three of them were chasing the Mobians all around the station, wrecking it as they did so. The Rock Golem was after Ruben and Mandy, the Rock Serpent was after Tails, Cosmo and Wilson and the Rock Dragon was after Geoffrey and Bunnie. The rock creatures kept firing beams of energy at them from their mouths and trying to crush them with their rocky appendages. As the Rock Golem thundered after Ruben and Mandy, it bellowed at the top of it's voice and held it's hands out to grab them. The water panther and mouse were well terrified and they ran faster.

"Help! The Black Rocks are after us!" screeched Ruben.

"Stop calling them that! That's a stupid name!" snapped Mandy.

Ruben stopped talking and carried on running along with Mandy as the Rock Creature tried to grab them with it's rocky hands but it missed by centimetres. The impact of it's hands slamming onto the ground was enough to shake the ground and make Ruben and Mandy fall over. They quickly picked themselves up and ran after the others. The Mobians all joined back together as the Rock Creatures continued to pursue them. Tails, who was beginning to tire out, looked over his shoulder to see the Rock Creatures still chasing after them. They couldn't keep this up forever, they needed a plan and they needed it fast or they were toast.

"Tails! You got any ideas?" puffed Cosmo, who was visibly tired and looked like she could barely go on any longer.

"Not at the moment no!" Tails called over to her "But I'm thinking of one!"

"Then hurry up and come up with a plan, those things are gaining on us!" shrieked Wilson who looked the most panicked out of them all.

Tails was one of those people who thought better when he was calm and relaxed. Right now, he was panicked as all hell, scared out of his flippin' mind and running for his life so he couldn't focus and think properly right now. So thinking of a plan to stop the Rock Creatures might be a little difficult for the little twin-tailed fox since he found it harder to think when panicked and running for his life. Even if he wasn't being pursued right now, Tails didn't think he'd be able to come up with a plan to stop the Rock Creatures. They'd already tried one idea and that didn't work. Bunnie and Geoffrey's weapons just weren't strong enough to stop the giant Rock Creatures and he and the others couldn't do anything about them so how COULD they stop those giant rocky gestalts?! If only Sonic was fit enough to fight then maybe he could help them in this fight! But sadly, that was the case and Tails had to accept it. For now, they had to do the best they could to stay alive or be crushed by giant rocky creatures of various shapes and sizes. While the chase continued, Bunnie decided to try and distract them a little just to keep them off their backs for long enough to come up with a plan. Bunnie flew towards the Rock Serpent and she deployed her arm cannon. She saw two pools of dark purple in the places where eyes should be on the Rock Serpent's head. Maybe they were a weak spot and shooting them could distract it a little. Bunnie shot the Rock Serpent in the purple spots on the creature's head. The Rock Serpent squealed in pain, clearly effected by the shots and it writhed about in pain for a moment. Bunnie beamed happily. She'd found a weak spot on it at last! But would shooting it in the eyes be enough to stop the Rock Creatures? Shooting it in the eyes didn't seem to be effecting the Rock Serpent fatally so maybe it wasn't a fatal weak spot. Still, they had some kind of distraction at least.

"Hey Tails! Ah durn found a weak spot on the creatures!" Bunnie called down to the others on the ground.

"Awesome! Keep them distracted while we come up with a plan to stop those things!" Tails called back to her as he dived behind a chunk of debris from the station.

The others dived behind the chunk with him to take cover while Bunnie kept the creatures distracted by shooting them in the weak spots. She blasted at the Rock Golem and hit it in the eyes. The Rock Golem clutched its eyes and it bellowed a thunderous roar of pain. The Rock Dragon tried to blast Bunnie with a spurt of energy from it's mouth but Bunnie flew out of the way and blasted it in the eyes. The Rock Dragon roared in pain and it began to stomp around in pain while clutching its eyes. Its stomps were enough to shake Bullet Station apart (provided it wasn't already being destroyed right now). The distractions were working but it was too much to hope that the creatures were going to be stopped just by shooting them in the eyes. Tails peered over the chunk of debris he and the others were hiding behind and then he looked back over at them.

"Alright, does anybody have an idea on how we might stop those Rock Creatures?" asked Tails.

"Well our weapons aren't working that's for sure." muttered Geoffrey "And I'm out of darts anyway so the original plan isn't going to work."

"And I'm not even gonna think about using my spinning blade weapon!" blurted Wilson "This thing won't work on creatures like those!"

"And I don't think I've got the weapons for it either." muttered Mandy, looking at her knuckle attachments "What am I gonna do? Punch them to death?"

"If I were against say fire creatures or something, this would be easy." murmured Ruben "But my water's useless against rocks so I'm not much help."

"Neither am I." said Cosmo sadly "I'm of no use against those things."

"We're all pretty much useless against those things." said Tails grimly "Bunnie has the best chance against them and even then, I doubt she'll be able to break them with those cybernetics of hers. I doubt even Knuckles could break through them. Even Sonic or Shadow would probably struggle against them."

"If only Sonic was up and at em' instead of stuck on the sidelines he could get the blinkin' Chaos Emeralds, turn super and then knock ten bells out of them blighters!" grumbled Geoffrey "Same goes for Shadow but he's captured unfortunately."

"We could do with anyone's help right now." said Tails "We can't abandon this fight and leave them or they'll just destroy Rail Canyon and then move onto other places so…"

Before Tails could finish speaking, a bright flash of light appeared from nowhere and everybody peered from around the chunk of debris to see what it was. The light was so bright that they had to shield their eyes from the light so they didn't get blinded. The Rock Creatures stopped trying to kill Bunnie Rabbot and they stared at the flash of light that had suddenly appeared. This gave Bunnie the opportunity to sneak away from the creatures and join the others back on the ground. She flew down behind the debris to hide with them and she stared at the light, wondering what it was. The light died down, revealing none other then Sonic the Hedgehog, looking so much better now, standing there with his trademark cocky grin on his face. He surveyed his surroundings and realized that his Chaos Control had worked. He was in Bullet Station just where he wanted to be.

"Well, here I am." said Sonic "Now time to bash some boulder demons!"

The others stared at each other and they didn't know what to think about this situation.

"It's Sonic! But what's he doing here?!" hissed Tails "He should be back at Royal HQ being babysat by Team Chaotix!"

"How did he get better so quickly?" asked Cosmo "He could barely walk before and yet, he's standing up perfectly without any support and he looks as fit as he usually is."

"The bloke did it didn't he?" muttered Geoffrey, face-palming himself in annoyance "He used a Chaos Regeneration didn't he?"

"Well I'm glad he did if that's the case!" cried Mandy delightedly "Now the blue dude can fight again and he can help us smash those rock creatures!"

"I hope he can." said Wilson "Or we are toast out here if he can't."

As for Sonic, he looked up at the giant Rock Creatures as they towered over him and they all roared at him. Deep inside, Sonic was scared stiff of the creatures and he felt like falling over in horror but he kept a straight face on and remained cool and collected as always. Sonic puts his hands on his sides and he smirked at the creatures.

"You guys are bigger then you looked on the computer monitors back at Royal HQ." he sneered "But I bet you're all size and no substance. I'll smash you to pebbles!"

Sonic spin-dashed towards the Rock Creatures. As he propelled himself towards the Rock Golem, he began to think to himself how good it felt to suddenly be doing a spin-dash again. He hadn't done one in ages and that was because of Devion putting him out of action. Sonic hit the Rock Golem in the head…and ricocheted clean off of it. The Rock Creatures were too strong for even Sonic to destroy. Sonic hurtled into what was left of the third wall of Bullet Station and he bounded off it and spin-dashed towards the Rock Serpent. The Rock Serpent smacked Sonic down into the ground with its tail before he could get anywhere near it. Sonic picked himself up and shook his head. He'd only just healed himself and already he felt like his bones were ready to crack. The Rock Creatures were tougher then he had imagined. He needed some more power before he could destroy them. As Sonic thought on how to destroy them, the Rock Dragon opened it's rocky jaws and it blasted a beam of purple energy at Sonic. Sonic jumped back in surprise, his face a picture of hilarity as he was almost hit. The Rock Dragon then raised it's rocky tail and it tried to slam it down on Sonic. Sonic zipped out of the way and he spin-dashed the Rock Dragon in the eye. The Rock Dragon screeched in pain and it flailed about madly. The Rock Serpent opened it's jaws and tried to snatch Sonic up in them but Sonic dodged and left the Rock Serpent to accidentally crash into the Rock Dragon. The two Rock Creatures lay in a rocky, stony heap on the ground. The Rock Golem punched at Sonic but Sonic dodged and left it to punch the ground instead. That punch made the ground shake and the remains of Bullet Station began to tremble as if they were going to collapse down onto the ground. Sonic zoomed away from the creatures and he thought to himself for a minute. He couldn't destroy the creatures for they were too strong. How could he destroy them? Then suddenly he remembered. He'd brought the seven Chaos Emeralds with him! He could use them to destroy the creatures! But Sonic didn't want to use his super form just yet. He might need it for something more important then three giant gestalts made of rock. He pulled out the blue Chaos Emerald and he tapped into its power. How powerful could one Chaos Emerald on its own be? The Chaos Emerald glowed brightly as Sonic tapped into its power and he began to power up slightly. The Rock Creatures stared at the Chaos Emerald and they wondered what Sonic was going to do with it. Sonic then span into a super spin-dash and he hurtled towards the Rock Creatures. He smashed straight through the chest of the Rock Golem and he smashed it to bits instantly. The Rock Golem collapsed to the ground in giant chunks of rocks and the purple light inside of it died down into nothingness. Without Doom's Sword, the Rock Golem couldn't come back to life. As long as someone was there to use the sword, it could come back alive again. Sonic continued his super spin-dash and he destroyed the Rock Serpent and the Rock Dragon in a matter of seconds. The two creatures were reduced to giant chunks of rocks and they lay in a pile next to the dead Rock Golem. The purple aurora in them died away and the creatures were nothing but a pile of rocks. Sonic landed on the ground and he smirked at the dead Rock Creatures.

"Nothing but a pile of rocks." sneered Sonic "Epic!"

"Sonic! You did it!" cried Tails, leaping out from behind the debris chunk and throwing himself into Sonic's arms for a brotherly hug "You destroyed the creatures!"

"Well done mate!" cheered Geoffrey.

"What an honourable feat that was!" exclaimed Ruben.

"You're amazing as always Sonic." said Cosmo "But how did you get better so quickly?"

"I used a Chaos Regeneration to heal myself." said Sonic "Went to Angel Island and used the Master Emerald to heal myself. I don't care if Amy didn't want me to do it, I had to or you guys would have been dead out there."

"Well I'm glad you went against her wishes, that was the right thing to do." said Mandy "I hope Amy will understand and be cool with this or I will slap her one!"

"I'm sure she'll understand Mandy, she's not that crazy." said Sonic snidely "So where did those creatures come from?"

"Ah'm sorry to say sugah hog but the Black Arms have got the first relic." said Bunnie sadly "They got Doom's Sword and they used it to raise these durn creatures out of the ground to slow us down while they go and get the second relic."

"And they stole the map too." said Tails downheartedly "So they know where to find the next relic. I'm so sorry we let you and the others down Sonic. Really I am."

"Dude, it's cool." said Sonic "You haven't let us down yet, we can still get that next relic. I have the Chaos Emeralds so I can just Chaos Control us all over to…wherever the next relic is. Where did Nicole say it was again?"

"Ocean Palace." informed Wilson "We need to get there and now. I bet they're digging up the next relic as we speak."

"OK then, to Ocean Palace we go!" said Sonic, holding up the Blue Chaos Emerald and yelling "Chaos…CONTROL!"

A Chaos Portal opened up in mid-air and the Mobians all jumped through it at once. The portal warped them away from the wrecked, ruined remains of Bullet Station and all the way over to Ocean Palace where the next relic, the Black Chaos Emerald, was going to be found. As they sailed through the portal tunnel, Sonic prayed that they had gotten there in time and that the Black Arms hadn't already found the relic and made off with it…

Meanwhile, on the Black Comet, the Black Bull was chasing its victims all around the dungeon and trying to roast them alive by breathing fire out of the pit of its throat. The fire that Black Bull breathed out at its victims was different from other fires for not only was it hot and deadly but it had a funny, musky sort of smell to it. Almost like it was poison fire. Who knew what happens when it touches you. Silver, Sally, Nicole, Amy, Cream and Rouge ran around the dungeon to avoid the Black Bull's deadly fire. If only Black Doom hadn't confiscated his warp ring then maybe he could get them out of here! But no, he had to fight off the Black Bull and hope Black Doom kept to his promise and freed them from this place. Despite being a huge, blubbery creature, the Black Bull was a scary foe and it was a surprisingly agile flier despite having wings relatively small in comparison to its huge body. Black Bull breathed fired at Silver but Silver used his psychokinesis to stop the fire and he threw it back at the Black Bull. The fire scolded Black Bull's face and it roared in pain. Doom's Eye, Black Doom's little way of watching things from the comfort of his own room, watched the fight and he was not pleased to see that Silver had a way of counter-attacking Black Bull's deadly attacks. But Black Bull would deal with Silver, it had other methods of attack. Black Bull roared angrily and it literally swooped towards Silver with its head lowered like a charging bull (maybe that's why it's called Black Bull). Black Bull rammed Silver and smashed him against the wall. Silver felt like he was being nailed into the wall by a giant hammer. Black Bull then grabbed Silver in it's jaws and proceeded to try and eat him alive but Rouge screw-kicked it in the jaws and made it drop Silver. Black Bull snarled at Rouge and it breathed fire at the jewel-thieving bat. Rouge narrowly managed to dodge the fire, the tips of her wings getting lightly singed by it as it blazed past her. Rouge did a massive U-turn and she screw-kicked Black Bull in the face again. Black Bull spun around and walloped Rouge with its rear end (don't take that the wrong way readers). Rouge was sent hurling into the wall and she slid slowly down to the floor. That attack had left the bat a little stunned. Amy leaped in at the Black Bull and she walloped Black Bull with her Piko-Piko hammer. Black Bull barely felt that attack though. It was as if Amy didn't even hit it. Black Bull charged at Amy and tried to slam her against the wall but Amy jumped out of the way and then she hammered Black Bull in the side of the head. Black Bull turned its head towards Amy and breathed fire at her. Amy only just managed to avoid getting her fur singed off by throwing herself down onto the floor. She could feel the searing hot flames blaze over her on her skin. Cream and her pet Chao Cheese flew towards Black Bull and she punched it directly in the eye. Black Bull screeched in pain and it flailed around in pain. It didn't have limbs of any kind so rubbing its throbbing eye better was impossible for it. If this were any other person, Cream would be feeling ashamed of herself for hurting somebody but this was a Black Arms pet she was against so she didn't feel ashamed of punching it in the eye. Yet seeing it writhe around in pain made Cream think for a moment. The eye seemed to be a vulnerable spot so hitting it there would be the best idea. Cheese rolled up into a ball and Cream threw him at Black Bull's eye just as it stopped writhing around. Cheese hurtled straight into Black Bull's eye and Black Bull screeched in pain again. Doom's Eye was watching this whole fight and it was furious.

"Impossible! No one can defeat the Black Bull!" he roared "And yet they're winning so far! I shall have to send in some more threats for these pathetic Mobians to deal with…"

Back on the ground, Sally and Nicole were running together around the Black Bull and wondering what to do.

"That thing shrugs off most attacks but the eye seems to be a weak spot." observed Nicole "Cream keeps hitting it there and it screeches in pain and writhes around."

"If only I had some kind of weapon then maybe I could join Cream in hitting it in the eye." muttered Sally "When all of this is over, I'm going to arm myself so I can fight better."

Then suddenly, the two women were surrounded by a teal glow and they were picked up off the ground by an invisible force. It was only Silver using his psychokinesis to lift Sally and Nicole up off the floor.

"You wanna hurt that thing so I'm helping you." said Silver with a wink "Clever idea eh?"

"Silver, we'd be goners without you." said Sally with a smile "Now launch me and Nicole at the Black Bull's eye, but not too hard."

"You got it your majesty." said Silver, drawing his arm back and then throwing it outwards as if he was throwing a baseball.

Sally and Nicole were thrown towards Black Bull and they raised their legs so they would hit it feet first in the eye as opposed to simply flying straight into it like a missile. Sally and Nicole both hit Black Bull directly in the eye and the force of the impact made it back off and screech a terrible screech of pain. Sally and Nicole were swiftly caught by Rouge before they could fall onto the floor and she lowered them down onto the ground. Black Bull writhed around in great pain and it smashed its head against the wall to rub its eye better. There was a loud rumbling noise as it rubbed its head against the rocky walls of the dungeon. Sally and Nicole beamed with pride at the fact they'd managed to hurt it.

"That was amazing!" cried Nicole happily "I wouldn't mind doing that again!"

"Despite the pain we've caused it, I don't think hitting it in the eye will necessarily beat it or bring it down." said Sally grimly "There must be a better way of taking it down."

"How about I hit it really hard?" asked Amy, brandishing her hammer and getting ready to use it.

"Hey girls, I think I can hear something coming from the foot of the walls." said Rouge, who had her head turned and was listening out for something.

Black Doom had decided to send in more creatures to deal with the Mobians for Black Bull was being beaten at the moment. And that threat was a swarm of Death Leeches, the Black Arms offspring. They were crawling into the dungeon from the seams at the foot of the wall and the barred window in the ceiling of the dungeon. The Death Leeches were small pulsating purple blobs with three horns and one eye in the middle of their bodies. Bet you can't believe that those tiny, blobby things become Black Arms soldiers can you? The Death Leeches were capable of sticking to walls and they ate and devoured anything that resembled food to them. If they were desperately hungry, they would even turn cannibalistic and eat their own kind, albeit in large swarms so they can bring down the larger opponents. The girls all screwed their faces up at the Death Leeches and they stood back from them. Silver jumped in surprise and he backed away from them.

"Whoa! What are those disgusting creatures?!" he gagged.

"These are the dear off-spring of the Black Arms my prisoners." Black Doom's voice boomed out from Doom's Eye "They are the Death Leeches and they will devour you instantly if you do not fend them off. Which will you face? The Black Bull or the Death Leeches?"

"Hey, this isn't fair!" yelled Amy "You said we had to fend off Black Bull and that was it!"

"You lied to us! Lying to people is a bad thing to do you bad, bad alien!" squealed Cream.

"Spare me your unwanted remarks you foolish, feral beings." snarled Doom's Eye "I have altered the deal, pray I do not alter it any further. Now will you fend off the Black Bull or the Death Leeches?"

"We pick both!" retorted Silver, his hands glowing teal as he activated his psychokinesis.

He managed to pick up EVERY SINGLE Death Leech that was crawling into the room. The Death Leeches were now trapped in Silver's psychic hold and Silver held them all in place.

"Everybody, fight off Black Bull while I figure out what to do with these leeches!" yelled Silver.

Everybody obeyed and they leapt into action, leaving Silver to wonder what to do with the Death Leeches. Rouge flew towards Black Bull and screw-kicked it in the eye before it could attack her. Black Bull winced in pain but it recovered and it breathed fire at her. Rouge dodged the attack and she screw-kicked it in the side of the face. Black Bull opened its jaws and it tried to chomp on Rouge but the bat managed to dodge it before it could eat her. Black Bull growled in frustration and it charged directly into Rouge, hitting her with its forehead and slamming her against the wall. Cream threw Cheese at Black Bull's eye just as it backed away from the wall. Black Bull roared in pain again and it breathed fire at Cream. Cream squealed in terror and she flew away as quickly as possible. Rouge picked herself up and she took Sally and Nicole by the arms. She carried them into the air with a flap of the wings and she threw the two girls at Black Bull. They landed on Black Bull's head and they stomped on it's eye (ouch!). Black Bull thundered in pain and it shook Sally and Nicole off of its head. Sally was caught by Cream before she could crash into anything but to Silver's misfortune, Nicole crashed into him and made him lose his psychic hold over the Death Leeches. The Death Leeches all fell back down to the floor and they began to crawl towards Silver and Nicole. They squealed in delight and they prepared to eat them alive. Nicole shrieked in horror and she pressed her back against the wall in shock, her eyes fixed onto the Death Leeches and her face contorting with horror. She looked like a woman who was standing against the wall, terrified of a spider crawling across the floor.

"Eeek! Don't let those things near me!" she whimpered as one was about to crawl onto her foot.

"They're going nowhere!" yelled Silver, picking up all the Death Leeches with his psychokinesis again.

Nicole sighed with relief, knowing that they were safe from the Death

Leeches now. But what could Silver do with them? There was nowhere to throw them and they'd just come back even if he did throw them away. There was no sure way of getting rid of them and he had a nasty feeling killing them was easier said then done so how could they deal with them? Silver then remembered something. What did Black Doom say about them again? They devour their prey instantly if you do not fend them off? Maybe he could make them devour Black Bull instead. Silver drew his arm back and then he threw the Death Leeches at Black Bull as it was fending off Amy and Cream with its fiery breath. The Death Leeches all stuck to Black Bull and because they were ravenously hungry, they began to gnaw on Black Bull's scaly skin. Black Bull began to panic and it flew around in blind panic as the Death Leeches began to devour it at the speed of piranhas. Doom's Eye was livid to see all of this happen.

"No you fools! Don't devour the Black Bull! Devour your enemies!" bellowed Doom's Eye.

But when you're a hungry Death Leech, your hearing shuts off. All the Death Leeches were bothered about now is what a scrumptious feast they were having. Black Bull was huge and blubbery, they could all fill themselves up on it. Black Bull gave one last desperate scream as it fell down to the floor and breathed its last breath. The Death Leeches were too much for it and being as it had no limbs, it couldn't shake them all off so they effortlessly managed to eat their way through the flesh and into the soft, squishy parts. The Death Leeches were even eating the wings. Black Bull lay on the ground, dead as a doornail, and the Death Leeches all began to devour the carcass alive. Nicole began to feel sick just watching this and she threw herself into Sally's arms for comfort. Sally hugged Nicole back and she closed her eyes to look away from the grisly scene before them. Same happened with Cream and Amy. Even the normally calm and collected Rouge couldn't help but cringe at the scene before them and she looked away. Silver was disgusted too and he turned away as the Death Leeches began to eat their way into the Black Bull's internal organs. He almost regretted doing this as he didn't really like killing and this whole scene was disturbing and gross to him. He had a feeling he was in for some nightmares tonight. Doom's Eye was disgusted to see that Black Bull, his glorious pet, had been killed by his own offspring and he could see he had to deal with the Mobians himself. Shadow was not ready for refurbishment yet so he didn't think of using him yet. Shadow would have to wait for the moment. Doom's Eye flew away while the Mobians weren't looking and it left the dungeon. A minute or so later, the Death Leeches finally finished eating Black Bull alive and they all crawled out of the dungeon. Every time Death Leeches finished eating, they went back into their sleeping spots to rest until they were hungry again (They eat and sleep until they grow up). All that was left of Black Bull was a pile of bones. Everybody stopped looking away from it and they stared at the bones left behind by the leeches.

"That was the most horrific thing…hurk…I've ever seen!" choked Nicole, her stomach turning in several places "I…I feel sick now…!"

Sally patted her on the back to make her feel better.

"Never again do I want to witness something like that." said Sally grimly "That was horrible."

"Just seeing something like that getting eaten alive…it's terrible." said Silver solemnly "I feel bad that I did this to the creature. But we had to have done that. "Kill or be killed" as they say."

"Don't worry Silver, it's OK." said Amy softly "Although yeah, that was pretty horrible. Now where's Black Doom so we can shove it in his face how we managed to kill his precious pet?"

"Right here." growled the familiar voice of Black Doom.

To the Mobian's shock, Black Doom materialized from nowhere and he loomed before them like a ghoul from a horror film. Black Doom narrowed his three eyes at the Mobians and he opened his hands. The Mobians took a step back.

"You have done well against the Black Bull." he growled in his malevolent, growly voice "Now you will face me for your freedom."

"Now wait just a minute, you said we could go if we beat the Black Bull!" shouted Silver.

"Oh Silver you gullible twerp, he's obviously lied to us." snapped Rouge "He's been lying to us this whole time and I bet he's lying again."

"I speak the truth this time." said Black Doom coldly "If you can beat me, you may leave alive. Now come and face your karma Mobians! Unless you're too afraid to face the true wrath of the Black Arms race!"

Black Doom dared the Mobians to come at him while he was preparing to launch his attacks on them. The Mobians willingly obliged and they launched themselves towards Black Doom. This match was going to be a fight for their lives…

Ocean Palace, a beautiful landmark on the face of Mobius that stood proudly in the middle of the ocean as it's name suggested. The palace had many bridge ways that led to various areas of it and there were giant turtles carrying giant blocks on their shells. Ocean Palace was one of Mobius' most beloved landmarks and it had not been touched by Eggman or indeed any other villain on Mobius, meaning the residents there had a rather happy life of peace and tranquillity. If only all Mobians were this lucky. Ocean Palace wasn't densely populated and nowadays, not many people lived there, only about fifty-sixty citizens living in the palace. This could be a good sign though for not many people were going to be endangered by the two Black Arms that had arrived here. After finding the first relic in Rail Canyon, Oakron and Nyrah had left the canyon behind and they arrived at Ocean Palace to find their next relic. All the while the Royal Fighters had been fighting the giant Rock Creatures, the Black Arms had been tracking down the Black Chaos Emerald. They had found it after a while of searching. The Black Chaos Emerald had been inserted above the doorway of the main palace (if you don't understand I mean the large building you come across when you reach the goal at the end of the level in Sonic Heroes). The rulers of Ocean Palace had wanted it inserted there because they thought it looked grand looming above the door and shining whenever the sunlight stroked across it. Although really, there could have been a better hiding place to put a Black Chaos Emerald that had been stolen from the Black Arms. Nyrah whipped out his ring gun and he blasted the top of the palace doors, bringing the Black Chaos Emerald down to the ground along with a bunch of rubble and stone from the arch above the door. The Chaos Emerald survived the blast of course for Chaos Emeralds can not be destroyed. The Chaos Emerald gave off a faint, dark glow from the rubble. Nyrah put his weapon away and he seized the emerald quickly, a glorious sensation streaming through his bloodstream as he picked it up.

"Those Mobians are as subtle as an asteroid field." crooned Nyrah "What an easy find this was."

"Yeah, they at least hid Doom's Sword when they stole it from us didn't they?" said Oakron "Hiding that Black Chaos Emerald in plain sight is not a very clever move is it? It's like they WANTED us to find it isn't it?"

"Maybe they worried they'd forget where they put it." sneered Nyrah "So hiding the Black Chaos Emerald in plain sight would help them remember where it is."

Oakron nodded.

"We're having an easy day aren't we?" crowed Oakron "We've taken back our wayward weapon Shadow and now we've gotten our relics back. Mobius' destruction is certain now. Just remind me though… what can the Black Chaos Emerald do?"

"It can do the same things an ordinary Chaos Emerald can do." explained Nyrah "Only we can use the energy of the emerald to blow our enemies away. And it can also corrupt a Chaos Emerald and turn it dark as well."

"Of course! How could I forget?!" groaned Oakron "I do wish I wasn't so absent-minded!"

"Well maybe I could use this Chaos Emerald to give you a better memory." joked Nyrah mockingly.

"Very funny Nyrah." muttered Oakron.

Then suddenly, a bright flash of light shone from nowhere and Nyrah and Oakron both leaped back in surprise, almost dropping the Black Chaos Emerald. The light died away and there before them stood Sonic, Tails, Cosmo, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Wilson, Mandy and Ruben. Nyrah and Oakron were so shocked they almost fainted.

"Wha…at?!" choked Nyrah "How did…?"

"I came in and used a Chaos Emerald to stop your little rock pets." sneered Sonic, showing Nyrah the Blue Chaos Emerald "And then I warped us all the way over here to stop you from getting the second relic as well as take back the first."

"Well you're too late rodent because we've found it!" sneered Oakron "Nyrah, let them have it!"

Nyrah thrust his arm forward, the Black Chaos Emerald in hand, and he yelled something different to what one usually yells when using a Chaos Emerald.

"Chaos…CORRUPTION!" he barked.

The Black Chaos Emerald gave off a very dark, evil aurora and a beam of black light shone out of the emerald and onto the blue Chaos Emerald Sonic had in his hand. Sonic jumped and he dropped the emerald. But that was just the beginning part. More beams of light shone from the Black Chaos Emerald and they pulled out the other six Chaos Emeralds to join the first one. The beams pulled the Chaos Emeralds away from Sonic and towards the Black Chaos Emerald. All seven Chaos Emeralds were being corrupted by the Black Chaos Emerald's sheer, raw power. Their beautiful colourful glows died down to a murky, eerie black and the presence they gave off was far more malevolent and dark then before. Sonic zoomed towards the Black Arms and tried to stop them but Oakron jumped in and punched Sonic away from Nyrah, sending him hurling to the side and almost falling into the water. Tails ran over to help Sonic back up. The others stared at the Black Chaos Emerald in total horror, its dark power transforming the Chaos Emeralds into Black Chaos Emeralds much like it. The Black Chaos Emerald finally finished what it was doing and the seven Chaos Emeralds, now all black in colour and full of dark power, fell to the ground. Oakron scooped them all up and he looked at them, his eyes full of glee.

"Still works. Ha, ha, ha! We have the last remaining Chaos Emeralds with us now!" crowed Oakron "Thanks for saving us the bother of finding them!"

"Eight Chaos Emeralds." said Nyrah tauntingly "Who knows how much power we're going to have now?"

"Ya'll give them back you ugly aliens!" yelled Bunnie, rocketing towards them with her robot arm drawn back and ready to punch.

Nyrah just simply held up the Black Chaos Emerald and yelled "Chaos…CONTROL!" The resulting Chaos Control froze Bunnie in time and left her stuck in her running-and-ready-to-punch-your-face-off pose. Nyrah and Oakron quickly leaped onto their hover-saucers and they hovered away before anyone could stop them. Tails flew after them, desperately trying to catch them and snatch the relics and Chaos Emeralds back from them. But his attempts were futile for the hover-saucers could fly much faster then he could and they soon lost him. Tails tried desperately to catch up to them but he just couldn't. He quickly tired out and he flew back down to the ground in defeat. He was so out of breath he felt his lungs were going to explode. The Chaos Control on Bunnie wore off and she was able to move again. She looked around in horror, unable to believe Nyrah and Oakron had just managed to escape. Sonic looked pretty miserable at the fact they'd lost the seven Chaos Emeralds to the Black Arms AND failed to retrieve the stolen relics before they could. Could this day get any worse?! (probably shouldn't ask that!) Tails landed on the ground and he looked down at his feet, his ears flat against his head and his face full of sorrow.

"I'm sorry I couldn't catch them guys. They were too fast and I just couldn't keep up with them." he said.

"Don't sweat it Tails." said Sonic affectionately "This whole thing's my fault. I shouldn't have let those jerks take the Chaos Emeralds and corrupt them or whatever it is they've done to them. We're never gonna get those relics back now."

"We can blue dude." said Mandy "We'll just have to go to Angel Island and use the Master Emerald to warp ourselves onto their comet. Once up there, we can fight through the Black Arms and get back the emeralds and relics."

"Mandy…you're a genius!" exclaimed Sonic "I could just stamp the word "genius" on your forehead right now! Come on guys, let's get to Angel Island!"

With that said, Sonic zipped off with Wilson and Mandy holding on to him. Tails carried Cosmo and flew after Sonic while Bunnie carried Geoffrey and Ruben surfed after them on the water surrounding Ocean Palace. They all left the water mounted palace and they headed off to Angel Island. The day was looking pretty bad so far but it seemed like there might be a good chance at turning the whole thing around in the Mobians' favour…

The Chaos Emeralds are lost the relics are retrieved! Looks like the Black Arms are turning this whole thing around! Maybe they will win after all? Or will Sonic and friends bounce back on them like they always do? Tune in next time as the build up to Story 125, my FIFTH milestone, begins...

So everybody, how's the whole Black Arms saga coming along? Am I doing well with them?

Plans Are Coming Together

Story 124:Plans Are Coming Together

It's not hard to see why Black Doom is the leader of the Black Arms race. Not only is his voice one of the scariest voices anyone anywhere in the cosmic entity of space will ever hear but his battle prowess and abilities make him a force to be reckoned with. And poor Silver the Hedgehog and his team were finding that out the hard way for they had to fight him. After tricking the Death Leeches into eating the Black Bull alive, Silver and his team were now forced to fight Black Doom for their freedom. Not that they're going to get it anyway for Black Doom's lying to them for his own amusement. And so far, Black Doom had them on the ropes. Black Doom's fighting style consisted heavily of using his abilities rather than hand-to-hand combat but should he get up close and personal, he will do so without a moment's hesitance. His abilities consist of flaming meteors he can summon from nowhere and throw at you, blades of fire had can slash at you with like swords and his most deadly attack, the Swift Strike, a boomerang like attack that swept across the floor and blew his opponents away. He could also teleport at will and emit after images of himself to confuse his enemies. Sounds pretty insane huh? The Mobians certainly thought so as they tried to fight off this twin-horned, legless demon. Amy Rose pounced on Black Doom and tried to hammer him with her Piko-Piko hammer but Black Doom teleported away and left her to hammer the ground instead. Amy growled in annoyance. Black Doom had been doing this persistently already and she was really starting to get irritated by him constantly teleporting. Black Doom reappeared behind Amy and back-handed her across the room. Amy hurled across the room and crashed into the wall. Cream the Rabbit threw Cheese at Black Doom but Black Doom simply caught the Chao in his hand and tossed him away. The one thing you must never do is hurt Cheese. Otherwise you get a ticked off Cream in your face. Cream lost it and she flew at Black Doom with a punch ready for him. But Black Doom back-handed her across the room before she could touch him. Cream hurled across the room and landed on top of Black Bull's remaining bones which had been left behind after the Death

Leeches ate it alive (am I trying to make this a horror story or something?!). Cream picked herself up and she grabbed a rib bone on the carcass. She snapped the bone off its socket and she flew towards Black Doom. She was going to use the bone as a club to hammer Black Doom's face into mush. But even wielding a weapon guarantees a slim chance at victory against Black Doom. Cream tried to wallop Black Doom in the face with the rib bone but Black Doom caught it in his hand, snatched it off of her and then proceeded to wallop her with the bone. Cream was knocked down onto the ground and she clutched her face in pain, whimpering to herself for that attack really hurt her. Black Doom then held the bone in the manner of a dagger and attempted to stab Cream with the pointy end of the bone. But Silver stopped him dead in his tracks with his psychokinesis. Black Doom was completely immobilized now, Silver had him right where he wants him.

"Ha, ha, ha! Got you now Black Doom!" crowed Silver "Bet you can't escape from a psychokinetic hold can you?"

"You underestimate my capabilities young one." scoffed Black Doom "You cannot stop me with a simple psychic hold."

He then proceeded to teleport out of Silver's psychic grasp! Just because you have psychokinesis, it doesn't mean you can stop someone from teleporting for teleporting is something triggered by will more than anything and you can't hold someone's will with psychokinesis. Silver was truly gobsmacked to see this happen. He didn't think that it was possible to teleport out of someone's grasp. But unfortunately it was and that was going to be Black Doom's trump card against him. Black Doom reappeared behind Silver and he threw a flaming meteor at him. Silver was struck in the back and thrown across the room and he came to a stop at the foot of the wall. Black Doom threw another meteor at Silver but Silver caught it with his psychic grip. But as he was doing that, Black Doom fired his strongest attack.

"On guard…SWIFT STRIKE!" he bellowed as he activated his swift strike attack.

Silver tried to stop it with his psychokinesis but he couldn't. The swift strike was too fast for him to react and too strong for him to stop so he was promptly hit by the attack. Silver was thrown backwards into the wall, dropping the meteor he'd caught earlier. Black Doom cackled menacingly and he prepared to attack Silver again but Rouge screw-kicked him directly in the chest. Black Doom growled a pained, groaning growl as he clutched his chest in pain. Rouge Then grabbed the jewelled chains that hung from his armour and tugged on them, attempting to snatch them off of him.

"You wear such pretty jewels." crooned Rouge "I might have to take them for myself."

Black Doom just promptly teleported away from Rouge and reappeared behind her. He grabbed her by the neck and then threw her directly into the wall. He then grabbed her again and tossed her towards Black Bull's carcass. Unfortunately for Rouge, Black Doom had thrown her in such a way that she was heading towards the rib bones from above. If she didn't stop herself in time then she would get impaled on one of the rib bones and killed instantly. Luckily for her, Silver was on hand to catch her with his psychokinesis before she could land on any rib bones at all. Black Doom took the opportunity to throw meteors at the two before anything else could happen. Silver and Rouge were both hit by the meteors and slammed against the wall by them. Sally and Nicole took advantage of this by sneaking up behind Black Doom and then double-teaming him by leaping up and kicking him in the back together. Black Doom was brought down to the floor and just as he was getting up, Sally and Nicole both threw punches and kicks at him as hard as they could. Black Doom teleported out of their way and he reappeared behind them. He then struck the two with blades of fire and sent them hurling into a wall. The two girls weren't down for long, they picked themselves up and they charged towards Black Doom again. Black Doom just simply used his Swift Strike on them and blew them both away. Being stricken by Black Doom's strongest attack was like being hit by a train. Sally and Nicole sprawled on the floor and they groaned in pain. Black Doom summoned some flaming meteors and then he threw them at Sally and Nicole. But Silver stopped the meteors with his psychokinesis and he threw them back at Black Doom. Black Doom teleported out of the way and he reappeared just behind Silver. He used his Swift Strike on Silver and sent him flying into Sally just as she was standing back up. The two Mobians lay in a heap on top of each other at the foot of the wall. Amy and Rouge ran in to try and attack Black Doom but Black Doom began making after images of himself to confuse the two. Amy hammered one after image, only to find out that it was not Black Doom and Rouge ended up falling for it too by screw-kicking an after image. Before they could work out which one was the real Black Doom, Black Doom struck them with blades of fire. Amy and Rouge were sent hurling through the air in a neat rainbow arch and they came crashing down on top of each other a few inches away from the wall. Cream flew in and tried to pummel Black Doom but Black Doom swatted her down into the floor. Cheese fluttered into his face and fisted him in his third eye, the one with the reptilian pupil. Black Doom groaned in pain and he grabbed Cheese before he could attack him again. He threw Cheese at Cream and then he used his Swift Strike on the poor rabbit. Nicole was horrified to see Black Doom hurt Cream like that so she decided to let him have it. She cart-wheeled towards him and then dropkicked Black Doom before he could attack again. Nicole then stood on her hands and kicked Black Doom in the gut. Black Doom clenched his fist and he socked Nicole directly in the face. He then uppercut Nicole into the air before she could attack again. Nicole hurled through the air in a rainbow arch and she landed on top of Silver before he could stand back up. Sally jumped up towards Black Doom and tried to punch Black Doom but Black Doom dodged the attack with ease, grabbed her by the leg as she soared past him and then threw her across the room and into Black Bull's remains. The result ended up scattering Black Bull's remaining bones all over the floor. A rib bone had pierced Sally's arm as she landed near it, leaving a long cut on it. It wasn't serious and Sally managed to ignore the pain in her arm. Silver, Rouge, Amy, Cream and Nicole all rushed towards Black Doom but Black Doom threw meteors at them all and then Swift Struck them just after the meteors all hit them. To add insult to already heavy injury, Black Doom let them have it with blades of fire too. The Mobians were all left sprawled across the floor and groaning in pain. Sally was the only one left standing. She picked up a rib bone from Black Bull's broken remains and she held it in the manner of a sword. She ran towards Black Doom, screaming loudly but Black Doom Swift-Struck her and knocked her off her feet. Black Doom then hovered over to the downed Queen of New Mobotropolis and he grabbed her by the neck. He hoisted her up to his height and slammed her against the wall. Sally was now pinned to the wall by Black Doom. Sally struggled in his grasp but she had no way of getting out of such a tough grip. Black Doom began to cackle at Sally, clearly delighted with hers and everyone else's defeat.

"Your attempts to combat me are to be commended New Ruler of Mobotropolis." purred Black Doom, his voice rumbling through Sally's ears like a tremor "But you have all fallen to me and thus, you will not receive your freedom you pathetic fool."

"Ack…hurk…I bet…even if we…ack…did beat you…you wouldn't… let us…gack…go anyway!" choked Sally, trying to breathe while being strangled by Black Doom.

"You are much wiser then my other prisoners." complimented Black Doom "I get enjoyment out of filling my victims with false hope and pretences and then shatter it to pieces before them by leaving them imprisoned. And you Mobians will perish in this dungeon while I destroy your planet and wipe out your flaccid race. And then once Mobius is ashes and your kind are extinct…then you have my permission to die."

He tightened his grip on Sally's neck. The poor queen was struggling to breathe now. She was slowly but steadily being throttled to death.

"Gurk…you…you won't…win this Black Doom…ack!" gagged Sally, struggling to speak for how hard she was being throttled "We've… beaten you before…gack, hurk…ack…we can…do it again…ack!"

Black Doom fumed at Sally but he didn't lose his cool at her.

"I already explained to you that we allowed you to live those times." retorted Black Doom "This time, we're showing no mercy and that is why you will soon be extinct when we make our move…"

"Your eminence!" came a familiar voice above his head.

Black Doom looked up at the ceiling and saw none other then Oakron and Nyrah standing above the dungeon grate and looking down into the dungeon. They had finally made it back to the Black Comet after escaping with the Chaos Emeralds and Black Arms relics and they had searched for Black Doom so they could give him the good news.

"Oakron? Nyrah?" said Black Doom in surprise "What have you returned to the Black Comet for?"

"We have succeeded in our mission my lord." said Nyrah "We wish to show you our success."

"I will join you in a moment." said Black Doom "Go to my throne room and I shall meet you there."

Oakron and Nyrah obeyed and they ran off to Black Doom's throne room. Black Doom looked back at Sally Acorn, who was just beginning to go purple in the face due to how much she was being strangled.

"It appears Oakron and Nyrah have succeeded in retrieving my relics that your disgusting kind confiscated from me the last time we came here." growled Black Doom gleefully "For they state that they've succeeded in their mission. Now there's no hope for you Mobians. You may as well accept defeat now for Mobius' Darkest and Final Hour is coming…"

He then finally let go of Sally and let her drop down onto the floor. Sally began gasping for breath and her face stopped going purple. Never before had she been strangled so badly. Had Black Doom done it any longer, she would have been dead already. Black Doom teleported out of the dungeon and left the defeated Mobians to rot in it. Sally clutched her neck and her breathing began to relax a little for she'd finally gotten her almost depleted breath back. Her heart sank like a ship with a hole in it. The Black Arms had gotten their relics back? That alone was very bad! Those relics were confiscated from them for a good reason. They were too powerful to leave them in the hands of villains like the Black Arms so they were stolen and hidden so they couldn't use them. And now they'd gotten them back somehow! It appeared the Black Arms were going to win after all. After Black Doom had left and Sally had gotten her breath back, Silver, Amy, Cream, Rouge and Nicole all gathered around Sally while trying to ignore their injuries.

"Well, Black Doom's certainly tougher then I thought." murmured Silver.

"He beat all of us without breaking a sweat." said Amy in dismay "How can we beat him now?"

"Maybe if he wasn't such a coward then we'd floor him easily." muttered Rouge "Stupid teleporting thing he does."

"I can't believe he was lying to us!" wailed Cream "Even if we won, he wasn't going to let us go anyway! How horrible!"

"What's more horrible is we're still trapped in this horrid dungeon." said Nicole in disgust "How can we get outta here?"

"If only Black Doom hadn't stolen my warp ring then I could just simply warp us out." fumed Silver "But unfortunately, that's the case. We need another escape route."

"I agree." wheezed Sally, her voice just starting to come back to her after getting her breath back "True the Black Arms have somehow gotten their relics back but that doesn't mean we're beaten yet. If we can get outta here, maybe we can stop them from using the relics before they can and we'll save Mobius and stop the Black Arms for good."

"And then we'll NEVER see them again!" huffed Amy "I think Mobius being invaded by them five times before was enough so we can do without them coming back again!"

"But how will we get out of here?" asked Nicole "There's no way of escape in here!"

"Actually, there is." said Silver with a smile on his face.

He held his hands out and they glowed a bright teal colour. His quills seemed to straighten and his body was surrounded by a teal glow. The grate in the ceiling was surrounded by a teal glow too and it seemed to shake a little as Silver focused his psychokinesis on it. It seemed that Silver was trying to break through the grate or something as that seemed to be the only way in and out of the dungeon aside from teleportation. Silver gritted his teeth and he focused really hard on the grate, desperate to break through it or something. The grate's bars then suddenly began to bend. Silver was bending the bars with his psychokinesis. He continued to bend and bend the bars of the grate in the ceiling until eventually, he managed to break through the bars in the grate. They could easily escape out of the dungeon now. Silver then used his psychokinesis to carry all the girls with him as he flew up towards the now broken barred grate. He had the girls in single file so he could fly out with them all behind him. Now Silver had gotten himself and all the girls out of the dungeon, they could see to stopping the Black Arms from using the relics now. They had heard Black Doom mention he was going to the throne room so they had to look for a room that looked like a throne room and then ambush Black Doom and his cronies. But would they get there in time to stop them from using the relics…?

Angel Island had been at peace since the Black Arms' failed attempt to find and steal the Master and Chaos Emeralds. Knuckles and Shade were standing on the shrine and keeping an eye out for any further danger whereas Team Chaotix were talking with Blaze the Cat. They wanted to know a bit more about the future of Mobius after Blaze mentioned she was from the future. Blaze had been telling them quite a bit and they were intrigued by what they had been told.

"So you're the future Guardian of Angel Island huh?" said Vector in his usual grizzly voice "And the Chaos Emeralds are now known as the "Sol Emeralds" after being transformed by your mama?"

"That's right." said Blaze "And that is why I defend them, I must live on in my mother's name or I will shame the name of the Spirit of the Pyro. Since there's little life on Mobius in my time though, there's nothing to worry about. Still, I've got to guard them for anything can happen."

"Too true." said Espio "So what exactly happens to Mobius then? Why is it a wreck 200 years later?"

"That's what me and Silver are trying to work out." muttered Blaze

"We want to find out what dooms Mobius so we can fix our time and so me and Silver can have a better future. We think we've found out what dooms Mobius at the moment."

"So what do you think dooms Mobius then?" asked Charmy inquisitively "I bet it's awesome!"

"We found out that in this exact year, the Martians invade Mobius on May the 4th and we think that's what causes Mobius' apocalypse." explained Blaze "Me and Silver came to this time so we could warn you about it and hopefully change the future. If that doesn't work then we'll study some more until we find the answer and come back so we can prevent it from happening."

"I very much hope you and Silver succeed." said Espio "It doesn't feel good knowing that the world ends at some point in our lives."

"I'm more disturbed by the fact there are no bees in the future!" shrieked Charmy "And no crocodiles and chameleons! What happened to them?"

"Not sure about your kind Charmy since there's little to no information about bees in my time." said Blaze grimly "The chameleons and crocodiles went extinct because they competed with each other for reasons unknown and they literally fought each other to extinction."

Vector and Espio looked at each other uneasily. What a disturbing thought! The chameleons and crocodiles warred to extinction in the future?! Well you could count on one thing, they wouldn't be among those crocs and chameleons fighting each other in the future!

"Well that was certainly…nice to know." said Espio, pulling a face.

Blaze began to feel down. Perhaps telling the Mobians of the past what happens in the future was probably not the best thing to do as they all seem disturbed by it and they're not enjoying what they're hearing.

"You know what, I don't think I wanna know anymore about the future." said Charmy "Why don't we talk about something else instead?"

But before a new conversation could start, Knuckles and Shade noticed something in the horizon. They both peered into the horizon and saw what looked like to them, a huge dust cloud coming towards Angel Island. Was it a sandstorm? Probably not as there was no wind around Downunda right now. The dust cloud continued to get closer and closer until Knuckles and Shade could see that it was indeed not a sandstorm, but just Sonic running at his usual trademark speed and whipping up a cloud of sand as he ran through the desert of Downunda. They could also see Tails and the team he took to find the relics with Sonic. The two echidnas began to wonder why Sonic and the others were coming to Angel Island. Had something gone wrong? Or were they here to deliver the good news? Sonic and friends arrived at Angel Island and Tails and Bunnie flew everybody up to the island one at a time save for Ruben who just simply used jets of water to shoot himself up onto the island. Tails and the others were a little surprised to see Team Chaotix there but they didn't waste time questioning it for there was no time for that. Knuckles and Shade hopped off the shrine and they ran over to greet Sonic and the others.

"Wasn't expecting you to come back so suddenly." said Knuckles "So since the others are with you, I take it you saved them from the Rock Creatures in Rail Canyon?"

"Correct Knuckles." said Sonic "But we stumbled into a bigger problem."

"Which is?" asked Shade.

"Oakron and Nyrah have both relics." muttered Tails "And they used the Black Chaos Emerald to corrupt the seven Chaos Emeralds and turn them dark as well."

Knuckles felt like someone had just plunged a sword into his heart.

"So…the Black Arms have got their relics back…and they used the Black Chaos Emerald, which is one of the two relics they have, to… corrupt the seven Chaos Emeralds…and turn them dark?!" spluttered Knuckles.

"Yes." said Tails, looking very sorry for himself indeed "We're so sorry Knuckles, we didn't mean to lose the Chaos Emeralds."

"Well sorry isn't good enough Tails!" shrieked Knuckles "THE BLACK ARMS HAVE ALL SEVEN CHAOS EMERALDS PLUS AN EXTRA ONE NOW! Who knows what kind of power they're gonna have with eight Chaos Emeralds all filled with Dark Chaos Energy?!"

"Knuckles, chill, breathe for a minute!" blustered Sonic "We have a plan! We've come back here so we can use the Master Emerald to warp ourselves onto the Black Comet and then get back the relics and Chaos Emeralds."

"That is the only way we'll get them back but…isn't that a little risky?" asked Shade "The Black Comet will be crawling with Black Arms and they won't be so easy to fight through. Not to mention they have the Chaos Emeralds so they can use them against us."

"It will be risky but there's no other way." said Sonic "We HAVE to take that risk. If we're lucky though, maybe Silver and his team will get them back for us. And maybe they've already saved Sally and Shadow up there right now. Oh well, we don't know until we get up there so let's do it."

With that said, Sonic and Knuckles climbed up the shrine and they touched the Master Emerald. With a simple yelling of the word "Chaos…CONTROL!", the two managed to open up a Chaos Portal above the Master Emerald. That portal would take them to the Black Comet, the very home of the Black Arms race. Sonic, Knuckles and all the others, including Team Chaotix, leaped through the portal together and the portal vanished from sight the moment they entered it. They would hopefully end up on the Black Comet and while there they could retrieve the relics and at the same time, maybe save Sally and Shadow. Provided they weren't too late that is…

While all this was going on, Black Doom had warped into the throne room so that he could see what Oakron and Nyrah wanted him for. Oakron and Nyrah were just standing to attention and were waiting for Black Doom to speak to them. Black Doom loomed above the two Black Arms and he folded his arms. His three eyes were narrowed down to a cold glare that suggested "This had better be good or else!" to anyone looking at him.

"You request my presence because you claim to have completed your mission." growled Black Doom in his deep, growly voice "Is that correct?"

"Most certainly my lord." said Nyrah "Oakron, present the relics to our master."

"Yes Nyrah." said Oakron, standing forward and bending down on one knee, holding out the two relics and the corrupted seven Chaos Emeralds for Black Doom "We have retrieved our relics and stolen the last remaining Chaos Emeralds master. Using the Black Chaos Emerald, we've corrupted them and now we have eight Black Chaos Emeralds."

Black Doom felt like he wanted to explode with excitement and joy right now at the very sight of those relics and the corrupted Chaos Emeralds. But since he was a no-nonsense, level-headed kind of person, he did not show such emotions and instead just casually took the relics out of Oakron's hands and looked at them with glee. The Chaos Emeralds began to circle around his head and his sword began to glow a malevolent, radiant shade of purple. After all these years, these weapons of doom were finally back in his hands and he could use them for his plan to wipe out the Mobians and destroy them forever. Black Doom began to cackle like a demon as he held the relics.

"Yes! The weapons of the Black Arms are now in the hands of their rightful owners after fifty years of being in the hands of those vile Mobians!"

"I'm disgusted to think that all the Mobians did with our relics was bury them or stick them in a building of theirs and have it on display as if they were things to display or bury forever!" growled Oakron "How dare they mistreat our relics! I'm so glad we've got them back!"

"I'm on the same comet as you Oakron." said Nyrah "I'm much delighted to have our relics back. I'm pleased they still work despite being out of use for fifty years."

"None of that matters anymore now my disciples." purred Black Doom, moving the Chaos Emeralds out into the centre of the throne room and brandishing Doom's Sword just above the circling emeralds. It was quite clear he was planning on doing something right now.

"Our relics are back in our possession now so we can commence with our plans." said Black Doom.

"Indeed we can." said Nyrah "So…how's Shadow coming along?"

"He's in stasis so far and I haven't gotten round to fixing him yet for I've had to deal with other matters." explained Black Doom "But we do not need him anymore. These will be all we need to ensure the Mobian's doom." he said, looking at his sword which seemed to be glowing even brighter as it was held near the Chaos Emeralds.

"Um…how master?" asked Oakron "How can your sword and the Black Chaos Emeralds doom Mobius?"

"You shall see." said Black Doom "For when my sword is fully re-powered by the Black Chaos Emeralds, I can begin a ritual that I have been planning since the day we lost Shadow. Mobius shall bear witness to the Ritual of Prosperity in a matter of moments…"

What he meant by that was a mystery to even Oakron and Nyrah but one could be certain that it was not going to be good at all. Who knew what the Ritual of Prosperity was possibly going to do when Black Doom unleashed it on the world…

Meanwhile, in a random area of the Black Comet, a Chaos Portal opened up a few feet above the ground and lit up the normally dark-lit atmosphere of the eerie, surreal surroundings of the alien space rock. Out of the portal jumped Sonic and all his friends one by one. After the last Mobian had jumped through the portal, the portal closed up behind them and vanished into thin air, leaving no trace of its existence. The darkness returned to the area after the portal had vanished. Sonic and friends looked around and they observed their surroundings. The strange of the Black Comet was stunning to them and some didn't know what to make of it. It was that strange a place for them.

"Um…are we…in the right place?" said Blaze, screwing her face up at some of the tentacles on the walls of the comet.

"Urgh! This place is disgusting!" gagged Mandy as she saw another tentacle waving eerily at them "Are you sure this is where the Black Arms live?!"

"I wouldn't be too surprised luv." muttered Geoffrey "This place looks just about right for the blokes. They're equally as ugly and grotesque as this place."

"Sonic, are you sure we've been warped to the Black Comet?" asked Tails, feeling a little nervous by the grim, dark atmosphere of the room they were in "This doesn't look like we're in a comet, it looks more like an alien entity to me."

"I had the Black Comet on my mind when I performed that Chaos Control so we must be on the Black Comet." replied Sonic "Must say, it's freakier then I imagined..."

"When it comes to aliens, you never know what to expect." murmured Knuckles, punching a rock over just for the fun of punching something.

"I agree." said Shade "Even the Nocturnus Clan wasn't as strange and mysterious as this place."

"I think this place is awesome!" cried Charmy, buzzing around excitedly "It's like being in a level from a really cool video game! I wonder if there's a boss we have to fight in this place?"

"There likely will be and that "Boss" will be Black Doom himself." said Sonic "Now, let's see if we can find Shadow, Silver's team or Black Doom in this creepy place."

So the Mobians began searching around for those three different things. They all kept their senses alert for even the tiniest hint of danger. In a place like this, you never know what to expect so the best thing to do was remain vigilant. Espio would particularly be good at this for vigilance was one of his strongest points. There didn't seem to be anyone around so there didn't seem to be anything to worry about. But you can't push your luck in a place like this, especially as it's unfamiliar territory and the home place of some evil aliens so Sonic and team didn't dare lower their senses. They kept their ears alert, their eyes open and their noses twitching. It'd be hard for anything to get by them now. Blaze looked around the surreal area they were in and just managed to avoid having a tentacle stroke across her back. Seeing how slimy it was made the pyrokinetic future guardian cringe and she was quick to move away. It disgusted her to think that this is where Silver and his team were to hopefully try and rescue Sally and Shadow but knowing Silver, he was OK and the others with him were likely OK under his watch. Sonic observed his surroundings and kept note of what he was looking at in his brain. He even pinpointed possible places any Black Arms could be hiding in so he'd be prepared for a possible ambush. Sonic began creeping backwards on tiptoe as he continued to search the area. Then suddenly, he bumped into something and he quickly spun around on his heel and raised his fists. The thing he'd bumped into had wheeled around and raised its fists too. To Sonic's relief though, it was none other than Silver the Hedgehog so he lowered his fists. Silver realized he was face-to-face with Sonic and he lowered his fists.

"Silver, I wasn't expecting to find you so quickly." said Sonic brightly.

"Sonic?" blurted Silver "What in the world are you doing here?! And with all the others too!"

"Sonic? Sonic's here?" piped Amy Rose who was further down the room.

She ran up to Silver and Sonic with Cream, Sally, Nicole and Rouge following her. The girls were well-pleased to see Sonic and the others here on the Black Comet with them now. Blaze ran to Silver and the two greeted each other with a friendly hug. Once the girls had reached the boys, Sally stared at Sonic in surprise and was the first to address the obvious elephant-in-the-room of this whole situation.

"Sonic, what are you doing here and...how did you get better so quickly?!" gasped Sally.

"Hey Sal, good to see Silver and his team have rescued you." said Sonic "Anyway, Tails' team was in trouble in Rail Canyon and I had to help them out so I went off to Angel Island and used the Master Emerald to heal myself with a Chaos Regeneration so the hedgehog is back in business!"

"I see." said Sally "Very clever of you to think of such a tactic Sonic, well done. It's not often you think before acting."

"Ah I'm working on it Sal." said Sonic snarkily.

Amy was a little furious to hear that Sonic had gone against her wishes and used a Chaos Regeneration on himself. She hadn't wanted Sonic to perform one on himself in fear of having a repeat of the whole Chaos Clusters incident last year. Amy strode up to Sonic but instead of flipping and going mad, she took a deep breath and spoke to Sonic.

"I'm not pleased you ignored my concerns Sonic…but I understand why you had to do it." said Amy softly "Tails and his friends needed help according to you so you had to heal yourself in order to help them. So don't worry Sonic, I'm not mad at you for going against my wishes."

"Don't sweat it Amy." said Sonic, giving her a friendly hug "After all, you were only looking out for me that's all. But just remember that I know the Chaos Emeralds better then you do so I know for certain that there's no side effects from using a Chaos Regeneration with an ordinary Chaos Emerald."

"OK." said Amy "Thanks for being cool with me."

"Anytime." said Sonic "Now then, how has your team been doing Silver?"

"Poorly." muttered Silver "We were captured shortly after we arrived and we were thrown in a dungeon along with the Queen here. We were going to be executed by Black Doom's pet monster Black Bull but we killed it and then Black Doom beat us all up himself."

"He looks like he gave you a good beating." said Tails grimly "You all look badly beaten." he added, taking notes of their bruises and battle marks.

"Black Doom's a serious guy." muttered Rouge, straightening her hair "He teleports every five seconds, throws meteors, slashes with fire blades and has some kind of attack called "Swift Strike". Even silver boy's psychic powers can't stop him for he just teleports out of his psychic grasp."

"Oh mah stars! Black Doom sounds worse then ah thought he was!" shrieked Bunnie.

"I'm beginning to wish we'd stayed at Royal HQ." murmured Vector grimly.

"So if that was the case, how did you escape the dungeon?" asked Ruben.

"When Black Doom left, I used my psychic powers to bend the bars to the dungeon and we sneaked out through them." explained Silver "And since then, we've been looking for Shadow and the throne room since Black Doom's gone there."

"Aha." said Sonic "And we've come here to see how you're doing as well as announce that…Black Doom's cronies retrieved their relics and used the Black Chaos Emerald to corrupt the Chaos Emeralds and turn them dark so we've come here to get them back."

"We already gathered Black Doom got his relics back when his minions announced they'd "succeeded in their mission"." said Sally "But we didn't know they'd corrupted the Chaos Emeralds and stolen them!" she cried in horror.

"Oh no! They're going to use the emeralds and the Black Chaos Emerald together to do something terrible, I know they are!" exclaimed Nicole "We've gotta get them back and fast!"

"I agree but first, let's find Shadow and rescue him." said Sonic "He'll be able to help us track them down."

"Hey guys, do you think this looks like a doorway to another room?" asked Ruben who had just toddled off to look at a funny shaped rock in a wall not far away from the Mobians.

The Mobians all looked at Ruben and they saw the rock he was looking at. The rock looked like it could slide to the side like some kind of door. Ruben had every right to be suspicious about it. Maybe that rock WAS a door and it led to some kind of room. A room that hopefully Shadow was kept in right now. The Mobians all ran over to the rock and they observed it, wondering if it really was a door.

"What's made you look at this Ruben?" asked Mandy.

"I dunno, it just looks funny to me." said Ruben, rubbing the back of his head casually "It doesn't look like a real rock and it looks like it can move. So I have this sneaky feeling that this "rock" is really a door. What do you think?"

"It certainly looks like it can open." said Tails "Let's see if it can open."

Tails put his hands on the rock and tried pushing the rock aside. But the rock was too heavy for him to move so he couldn't push it. Knuckles and Bunnie stood forward and they took over from pushing the rock. They placed their hands upon the rock and they pushed on it. They just happened to be pushing from the right side and surely enough with their combined strength, they began to push the rock aside. Ruben's face lit up. He was right! It WAS a door! But what was behind it? Hopefully Shadow the Hedgehog but that was just wishful thinking pretty much. Bunnie and Knuckles finished bushing the rock aside and they peered into the room behind the rock. Everybody else peered in too. Behind the rock was the Black Arms science lab. It was a strange sight for anyone looking in it. The lab was rocky just like the rest of the comet was and there were stone tables with surreal looking equipment on display. Lots of bubbling liquid was in some stone carved pots, tubes and pans. Strange fumes rose from the equipment and filled the air. Tails screwed his face up in disgust. What an ugly science lab! He wouldn't be sitting foot in this atrocity! What a disgrace to science labs everywhere this ugly room was! But there was something in the lab that would bring him into it whether he wanted to go in or not. And that something was a capsule and that capsule obviously contained the one person they were looking for. Rouge in particular worked out who was in it for the capsule was completely identical to the one she'd found Shadow lying in that fateful day last year.

"Guys, I think Shadow's in that capsule!" cried Rouge.

"He is." said Sally "This is the science lab and I should know, I was in here before Black Doom decided to feed me to the Black Bull."

"Well, we've managed to find Shadow!" cheered Sonic "Sweet! Now let's get him outta there and kick Black Doom's ghastly butt!"

"Wait Sonic." said Sally, holding him back "We don't know if Shadow's safe at all or not. I'm not sure if Black Doom's actually managed to alter him in anyway for he zapped me into unconsciousness and took me to the dungeon but we can't be too careful. Approach Shadow with caution and open the capsule carefully. If he displayed any hostile actions towards you, stop him from getting out of the capsule and close it quickly."

"Gotcha Sal." said Sonic "Knuckles, Bunnie, Silver, Blaze, you're really strong and powerful, you come in with me for incase Shadow tries to attack. We can restrain him and put him back in the capsule easily."

"OK." said Knuckles, Bunnie, Silver and Blaze.

So with that said, Sonic, Knuckles, Bunnie, Silver and Blaze all crept into the lab and up to the capsule where Shadow was in stasis and waiting to be released. They could see Shadow sleeping peacefully away in the capsule through the window in it. It looked pretty cosy for a capsule in there but Sonic couldn't imagine himself being content with being trapped in there like Shadow was. The capsule had a keypad to it just like the one Rouge had found him in. Sonic had no idea which ones would open the capsule so he just tapped every key he could at random. That somehow ended up opening the capsule and freeing Shadow from his forced slumber. The Mobians braced themselves for incase Shadow attacked them as it was likely he's already been altered by Black Doom. But to their relief, Shadow just opened his eyes and sat up. He stretched as hard as he could and then looked at Sonic in surprise.

"S…Sonic?" he said quietly "How did…?"

"Long story Shadow boy." said Sonic "We've got more important things to worry about now. Out you get from this capsule." he added as he helped Shadow climb wobbly out of the capsule.

The fake Mobian was just getting his senses back so he was a little wobbly on his feet right now hence why Sonic was helping him climb out the capsule.

"Oogah…my head feels like it's doing loops all over." said Shadow groggily "Damn that Black Doom for knocking me out and putting me in that capsule! What was he planning to do with me?"

"He wanted to alter you and make you evil again." explained Sally "Believe me, he said so to me himself."

"He wanted to make me evil again?!" gasped Shadow "How dare he?! I'm quite happy the way I am and I will not let that demon take away my freedom! I refuse to help him destroy the very planet I've been very happy to call home! I'm not his weapon, I'm not his pet, I'm not his science experiment! He may claim I am but he's wrong to do so!"

He clenched his fists and stood up on his own without any support. He was so angry right now the Mobians were amazed he hadn't exploded yet. Shadow then suddenly began to form a speech so powerful and awe-inspiring you'd think he'd written and scripted it:

"I'm Shadow the Hedgehog, an experiment designed to mimic the Mobians for nefarious purposes and to destroy them simply because the Black Arms despise them." he announced "But I have seen the world through the eyes of a Mobian, my heart feels like it belongs here and I've grown quite accustomed to Mobius. I'm proud to live in this world and I will defend it from those Black Demons! Even if they have created me, I am rebelling against them and stopping them from destroying the one place I can call home! My old purpose is dead, my new purpose is to be Mobius' defender! This is WHO I AM!"

The Mobians were well impressed with Shadow's testimony. His origins finally revealed and yet he's still on their side? Guess Shadow REALLY grew to like Mobius during his time on the planet! And how fortunate for them that this had been the turn out otherwise they would be dead right now wouldn't they? Sonic gave Shadow a well-earned thumbs up.

"That Shadow, is the coolest thing I've ever heard you say." said Sonic "I'm glad you're on our side. You've just proven you're not an experiment meant to be ordered around and forced to do what the master tells you. You are a REAL Mobian after all." he added with a wink.

Shadow smiled with pride.

"Thank you faker." said Shadow "That means a lot to me. And to think some time ago I was your enemy."

"Well that's behind us now." said Sonic "Right now, you're on our side and you're going to help us stop the Black Arms from bringing forth the end of the world."

"Yes I am." said Shadow "So does anyone know where Black Doom is so I can use his face for stress relief?!"

"Not really no." said Tails "But Black Doom has his relics and our Chaos Emeralds back so you can probably track him down by sensing the Chaos Emeralds' power."

Shadow was surprised to hear that Black Doom had the Chaos Emeralds but he was pleased to hear this at the same time since if the emeralds were here, that meant he could use them against Black Doom and REALLY make him suffer for daring to use him as a common tool and take away his much beloved freedom.

"I see." said Shadow "And I can feel the Chaos Energies right now. They feel…dark and corrupted for some reason."

"We'll explain on the way." said Sonic "Can you sense where they are Shadow?"

"Yes." said Shadow "They're this way, follow me!"

With that said, Shadow skated out of the lab and the others ran after the speedy hedgehog as fast as they could. Sonic caught up with Shadow easily and the two hedgehogs led the pack down the corridor and through the Black Comet. Shadow the Hedgehog was free and he was ready to annihilate the Black Arms for good. But would they be in time to stop Black Doom's so-called "Ritual of Prosperity"? Or would Black Doom be activating it before they could stop him…?

Story 125: Black Doom Rising

The throne room was filled with a bright, malevolent, dazzling glow from Doom's Sword and the eight Black Chaos Emeralds that Black Doom now had in his possession. Black Doom had been using the Chaos Emeralds to add more power to Doom's Sword and make it a more powerful relic then ever before. The sword itself was already powerful what with being able to create creatures and rise them up from any surface but powering it up with eight Chaos Emeralds, one artificially made dark and corrupted by the Black Arms themselves and seven normal Chaos Emeralds all full of Dark Chaos Energy thanks to the original Black Chaos Emeralds, was bound to give it some other kind of power and make it a VERY dangerous relic. Black Doom was making a start to his so-called "Ritual of Prosperity" which he claims will be the start of Mobius' destruction. None of his subjects really knew what he was talking about, nor did they question Black Doom about it for they didn't have sentient minds and thus, no real reason to think about this. Oakron and Nyrah were the exceptions since they were sentient and thus, were allowed to wonder what Black Doom was up to. But they didn't question Black Doom on this since they trusted the insidious, twin-horned leader knew what he was doing. Black Doom had never let the Black Arms down before so he wasn't going to let them down now. They had a feeling that Black Doom's supposed ritual was going to be something good. After a while, Doom's Sword finally finished feeding off of the Chaos Emeralds and was now a super-powered relic of amazing capabilities. The sword glowed an even darker shade of purple and now had a trim of crystals all around the blade and hand guard. At was almost like it had become a fusion between a sword and a Chaos Emerald after that whole scene. Black Doom cackled at his new and improved sword and he swung it around gleefully. A huge wave of energy swept out from that sword-swipe and it struck a wall at the other side of the throne room. The wave hit the wall and the wall began to crack after that attack. Oakron and Nyrah were amazed at this and they began to wonder if Black Doom was losing it for he had just hit a wall with the newly powered up weapon.

"Are you losing your sanity my liege?!" shrieked Nyrah.

"You've just used the Chaos Emeralds to…do something to your sword and now you're trying to wreck the place with it!" exclaimed Oakron "What's gotten into you master?!"

"Clam down your anxious nerves you fools." snapped Black Doom "That was merely a test of my new weapon. My Ritual of Prosperity has begun by fusing my sword with the power of the Chaos Emeralds, therefore making it a Chaos Sabre. I remember reading Mobian legends that said if you fuse a powerful relic with the power of the Chaos Emerald, you can make it a Chaos Weapon be it a sword, a shield or any kind of weapon. And now I have my Chaos Sabre. It has the same powers as before only more powerful and it has other kinds of abilities thanks to the Chaos Power it has been fused with."

"You are a genius Black Doom." said Nyrah "If only I'd known about this then maybe I could have made thousands of those sabres for all of us."

"I sure as heck would love to have a Chaos Sabre." said Oakron in an envious manner.

"Weapons like these are best left to the most powerful of wielders." said Black Doom grimly "For they will be less likely to wield it disastrously. You would not want to lose control of a weapon like this." he pointed the Chaos Sabre out to the side, a faint aurora drifting up from the sword after the swing "Now, it is time for Phase 2 of my ritual."

He then suddenly pointed the Chaos Sabre up at the ceiling, the eight Chaos Emeralds drifting up after it and circling around the mighty sword like circling vultures homing in on the rotting carcass they had been lucky enough to find. The emeralds all gave off a dark, eerie glow along with the Chaos Sabre and Black Doom yelled at the top of his growly voice.

"Chaos… CONTROL! "

With that said, the whole Black Comet was engulfed with a giant black light that made everything dark and everyone on the comet feel like a huge shadow was looming over them…

Further away from the throne room, the running Mobians had all heard Black Doom bellowing "Chaos….CONTROL!" aloud and they began to run even faster towards the throne room. Shadow had been leading them a good distance through the comet and right now, they were getting nearer to the throne room. The moment Shadow the Hedgehog had heard Black Doom bellow the terrible words, his heart quickened and his mind went abuzz with worry. What was Black Doom up to? What was he using a Chaos Control for? He was about to find out though for the corridor was engulfed in a black shadow and everything went pitch black, forcing all the Mobians to stop in their path and wait for the light to come back.

"Hey, who turned out the lights?!" cried Sonic the Hedgehog.

"Is this a Chaos Control with Dark Chaos Energy?" wondered Knuckles the Echidna "Makes sense since Black Doom's corrupted the Chaos Emeralds."

"It's definitely a Chaos Control." muttered Shadow "I heard him yelling "Chaos Control" aloud! But what's he doing?"

"I think we're gonna find out in a minute!" exclaimed Tails "And I bet it's not good!"

And good it certainly was not. The Black Comet had been engulfed in a big black shadow by the insidious Chaos Control Black Doom was performing and then it suddenly vanished into thin air. There was no trace of its presence left in space after its disappearance. But the Black Comet hadn't just simply vanished into thin air and that was it, it had been warped out of it's place and brought down to Mobius itself! The Chaos Control had warped the Black Comet down to Mobius! The comet stood sinisterly in the Northern Border of Megapolis and the moment it touched down, something strange began to happen. Huge, rocky tentacles grew out of the sides of the comet and dug their way down into the ground. It was like the Black Comet was fusing itself into the ground. The rocky tentacles were like roots spiralling out into the ground and digging their way into the earth like the roots of a plant. All this commotion was quick to catch the attention of Dr. Eggman, Sonic's number one archenemy, who was in his secret bunker and was modifying Devion the Devatron to ensure he is completely unbeatable next time he faces Sonic. He'd been in hiding since Devion's failed attempt to assassinate Sonic while he was bed bound and he had given Devion a Diamond Glass cover for his visor so it would be tough to blind him this time and he'd also equipped Devion with more powerful blasts for his blade gauntlets which he still had attached to his arms. The new blasters could bring down a five-storey building in ONE shot. And now Devion would get the chance to put his new weapons to the test since something was going on and it didn't sound very good. A huge rumbling sound shook the room and Devion deployed his arm blades, ready to deal with who was making the noise. Dr. Eggman covered his ears and he grumbled to himself.

"What the sand hill is going on out there?!" he bellowed "Katherine, establish visual contact now!"

Katherine, Eggman's silent female minion, nodded ominously and she logged into the computer monitors that Dr. Eggman used to spy on his enemies. The computers switched into life and Katherine peered at them closely with her cactus shaped visor. Dr. Eggman looked over her shoulder and his jaw dropped at what he was looking at. The screen was showing him the Black Comet standing proudly in the middle of the plains above his head and it's root-like rocky tentacles spiralling down into the ground and fusing itself with the earth. The Black Comet looked even larger now it was down on the ground. It was bigger then the Empire State Building itself. Dr. Eggman thought he was going to collapse over in shock at the mere sight of this comet. What on Mobius was it and what was it doing? Whatever it was up to, it wasn't good and Eggman had to get rid of it before it could interfere with his conquest. Why couldn't he just conquer Mobius just like that? Why must he keep having some kind of opposition?!

"What is that freak of nature?!" screamed Dr. Eggman in surprise "It looks like some giant, monster asteroid! It's up to no good and I can tell from the way it's fusing itself with the earth with those root things from its sides! It must be destroyed immediately! Devion, Katherine! Come with me to the Egg-Fleet! We're going to destroy that giant space rock or whatever it is!"

"Yes master." said Devion loyally (yes, Eggman's made the poor guy I right suck-up hasn't he?).

With that said, Dr. Eggman, Devion and Katherine all ran off to deal with the Black Comet. The Egg Fleet combined with Devion's new weaponry was sure to bring down the Black Comet and stop it dead in its tracks. Little did Eggman know was that there was more to this thing then met the eye and he was in for one heck of a battle as was Devion since he'd never seen or heard of the Black Arms before…

After the Black Comet had warped down to Mobius, the shadow that had been cast over the alien space rock disappeared and light returned to the rooms. The Mobians were now able to see again much to their delight but what they couldn't help but wonder is what the heck the Chaos Control had just done. They couldn't see outside the comet at all so goodness knows what had just happened right now.

"What was that, what just happened?" asked Amy Rose nervously.

"I have no idea…" said Sonic slowly "A Chaos Control happened and…I'm not sure what it's done. Has it moved us somewhere?"

"I wonder if they've moved the comet itself." said Shadow "And I think I can guess where they've moved it…" he added with a furious growl.

"Look! We're back down on Mobius! Look!" shrieked Tails who had just found a huge crevasse in the wall that was so deep it actually reached the other side and you could see outside through it like a window (the crevasse is covered by a force field to keep the air in before you wonder why it hasn't sucked all the air out of the comet and suffocated everybody!).

The Mobians looked through the crevasse and they were gobsmacked at what they were seeing. The Black Comet was no longer in space, it was down on Mobius! The Chaos Control must have warped the Black Comet down to Mobius and now it was here, the Black Arms could all invade at once and since the comet was down on Mobius, it wouldn't be leaving anytime soon and the Black Arms could stay as long as they liked! This was NOT a good turn of events at all! Mobius' end looked like it was certainly near now. Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, future dwellers hoping to save their world, were beginning to worry too. Was this the cause of Mobius' downfall? Did the Black Arms destroy Mobius and not the Martians like they were thinking initially? No, it couldn't be! Why would the Martians have invaded Mobius if the Black Arms had destroyed it? Maybe the Black Arms wreck most of Mobius but get defeated at the last moment and the Martians arrive to finish the job? Who knew? But one thing for certain was they HAD to stop the Black Arms before they destroyed the world!

"Those Black Creatures just warped the comet down to the surface using Chaos Control!" gasped Sonic "Look! We're back on Mobius!"

"No…that's not possible!" gasped Rouge the Bat "How…did they manage to…do this?"

"Chaos Power is beyond what anyone can comprehend Rouge." muttered Shade the Echidna "Chaos Control can perform acts beyond what anyone can predict. I never thought it'd be able to warp an entire comet down to the surface of the planet."

"I wouldn't be surprised if we could warp Angel Island from place to place if Chaos Control can do this!" cried Knuckles "We've gotta stop those Black Arms before they begin their invasion force!"

"I think we're too late." murmured Tails "It's already beginning."

He pointed outside at the ground below. Sonic and the others looked in Tails' direction and they saw what he was seeing. The Black Arms soldiers were already beginning to pile out of the Black Comet and they were running out in every direction. There seemed to be at least a million of them and they were spreading out in every direction of where they were now and running off into the distance to attack the other regions of Mobius. The plan was in motion and the invasion was on! The Mobians would have to act fast before the Black Arms began to wreck everything! Wilson the Dog however looked a little scared.

"YIPE!" he shrieked "The Black Arms are invading! Oh my gosh, it's the end of the world for us! We're all dead! We're all so dead we may as well dig our graves, write our wills and carve our tombstones right here right now! Oh god, what are we gonna do?!"

"Wilson the Dog! Calm down this minute!" yelled his wife, Mandy Mouse, grabbing the dog by his arm and holding him down "Get a hold of yourself for a minute mister! We have survived Dr. Eggman and all his robotic instruments of death, we have survived Marik the Martian, we have survived Scourge the Hedgehog AND we've even survived the bloody Devatrons and they were invulnerable! We are NOT going to die at the hands of this black alien freaks that hate our guts simply because they're evil! Do you get me?!"

"Yes!" squeaked Wilson, obviously scared at Mandy's anger right now.

"Good." said Mandy, letting Wilson go "Now then, shall we find Black Doom and give him what for everyone?"

"You don't even need to ask Mandy." said Shadow coldly "Come on! I can sense the Chaos Emeralds down there at the end of this corridor! I bet Black Doom's right there!"

So with that said, Shadow skated off down the corridor with his hover-shoes with the others running after him. It didn't take them long to reach the end of the corridor for it was only a good few feet away and they were there in a couple of minutes. At the end of the corridor was a huge door that looked like it was made of hardened slime and was purple in colour. Shadow guessed that these doors possibly led to the throne room since the doors resembled doors to a usual throne room in a castle. There was only one way to find that out though, let themselves in so the Mobians all barged through the door and ran into the room. There they saw Black Doom, cackling maniacally with Oakron and Nyrah joining in and all eight Chaos Emeralds circling around in the centre of the room. The three Black Arms stopped their cackling and they turned around to see who it was that had just burst into the throne room so abruptly. Black Doom's three eyes all widened in shock when he saw that Shadow the Hedgehog was there and with all the Royal Fighters, including the ones he'd imprisoned, behind him.

"What is this?!" growled Black Doom furiously "How did you escape your capsule Shadow?! And how did you and your female comrades escape my dungeon silver one?!" he added, pointing at Silver.

"Let's just say you shouldn't leave a psychic-powered being alone in a room that has bars." sneered Silver, his hands glowing teal and getting ready to throw a psychic wave at Black Doom.

"And we found Shadow the Hedgehog when looking for you and released him from his prison." put in Sally "You should have hidden your laboratory better Black Doom."

"I'd like a serious word with you Black Creep!" growled Shadow, his spines quivering in rage "First of all, why have you warped the Black Comet down to the surface using Chaos Control?!"

"Because it was the only way we could transport our home down to Mobius." explained Black Doom "The comet's velocity isn't powerful enough to pass through another planet's atmosphere. The Chaos Emeralds amplify the space-time control powers of Chaos Control. We need them to charge to full power. It's the perfect plan! And now the comet is down on Mobius, we do not need to worry about it passing by the planet and have to forcibly forfeit our matches and go back to the comet before it goes out of range. Also, I can unleash my full armies and a few other surprises at the same time…"

"Thanks for all that information Black Doom, I now have MORE reasons to break your bones!" growled Shadow "And second of all, how dare you try to alter my mind?! I'm quite happy the way I am and I will NOT allow you to take away my freedom! I don't care if you're my creator, I am NOT going to be your weapon of mass destruction! I am not a weapon, I am a living being, I am…a Mobian just like the others! And I will not allow you to take that away from me! You are going down Black Doom!"

Black Doom was livid with rage to hear all of this.

"I created you to be the perfect agent and weapon and yet you rebel against me?!" snarled Black Doom "I gave you life Shadow and this is how you repay me?! Makes stealing you from that worthless human being all for nothing now…"

Shadow thought his ears had fallen off. What did Black Doom just say?

"Wh…at?" asked Shadow "What…did you say?"

"I think he said…he stole you from a human being." said Blaze uncertainly "What do you mean Black Doom?"

"I may have revealed Shadow's origins to you but I lied about me being the sole creator of him to try and convince him that he's on my side and he's my creation." admitted Black Doom "The actual fact is I stole him. He was being created by a human being named Gerald Robotnik who is renowned for his interest in the space-time continuum. We had passed over the Earth…"

"Earth? Isn't that where Dr. Eggman comes from?" asked Sonic.

"If this "Eggman" is a human being then yes it is." snapped Black Doom impatiently "Anyway, we had passed over the Earth after our last encounter with Mobius and we found out about Gerald's little pet project. He had been to Mobius and was fascinated with the planet's life forms there. He wanted one for himself but could not bring himself to kidnap an innocent Mobian and have it be his little pet against its will since he is a pathetic waste of life. So he decided to create one himself and that creation would have been you Shadow.

He wanted to genetically create a Mobian and have it be his pet for life. I saw a great opportunity to destroy Mobius so I stole you before Gerald could begin moulding you and I began to mould you into my own image and I added some extra things to you like some of my blood and some Chaos Energy. I had taken a human experiment and made it the perfect weapon for any alien race. Unfortunately, that weapon has decided to point itself towards its creator and I will destroy it before it can pull its trigger!"

Shadow the Hedgehog couldn't believe his ears. No wonder he felt that the first origin story wasn't true! It literally WASN'T true! He wasn't Black Doom's creation after all! He had in fact been created by the same species Dr. Eggman was! And his purpose was to be his creator's pet it seemed. Well Shadow wasn't going to be content with that! Alien Weapon or Human's Pet, he simply refused to fulfil either of those purposes. He has a new purpose now and it's to live peacefully among the Mobians and protect the world from harm. So now Shadow had learnt all the answers he needed and yet the answers weren't worth finding in the end. It turned out that all Shadow really wanted was to be his own person. He remembered the cryptic words that Princess Matilda had once told him after he found out Dr. Eggman hadn't created him…

"You may have a lost purpose but that can be a good thing dark warrior. If you have no purpose then you can decide what your purpose can be and you have all the freedom you wish. If you want my advice I say, you choose who you want to be Shadow, you don't have to be what everyone else wants you to be, you be who you wish to be."

And it looked like Shadow was more then willing to abide by Matilda's suggestions then he imagined. While Shadow was coming to grips with himself, the other Mobians began commenting.

"Shadow was created by Dr. Eggman's species?" piped Tails.

"And he was meant to be his creator's little lap dog?" added Sonic "Some life that is!"

"If this "Gerald Robotnik" wanted a Mobian he should have just come here." said Sally grimly "We would have been content with a human who's fascinated by us to live among us like an ordinary citizen."

"Well Shadow won't need to worry about his creator anymore." growled Black Doom "I slaughtered him after I stole Shadow for my own. Even if I hadn't, time would have caught up with him for he was already in his elderly years so your original, intended purpose is gone forever Shadow. You could have taken my purpose but you defy my so I will have to destroy you, a big mistake in the face of the Black Comet that will easily be replaced by the weapons I have now!"

He then pointed his Chaos Sword at the Mobians and he swung the deadly blade at the speed of a professional swordsmen. A huge wave of energy swept out from the sword and hurled towards the Mobians. The Mobians all scattered and dodged the huge wave of energy as it swept past them and ploughed into the wall. Knuckles and Shade stared at the sword in horror and they were having a hard time believing this was possible.

"It can't be…" gasped Shade hoarsely.

"Black Doom's…got a Chaos Sabre?!" cried Knuckles.

"What's a Chaos Sabre?" asked Cosmo the Seedrian curiously.

"A mystical sword fused with Chaos Energy." explained Knuckles "If you fuse Chaos Energy with ANY powerful relic, it'll make a Chaos Weapon. And Black Doom's fused Chaos Energy with his own sword to make it a Chaos Sabre!"

"So Black Doom pretty much has a Chaos Powered sword now?" asked Sonic "Well I'm not gonna let that stop me!"

Sonic then tried to get up but for some strange reason, he couldn't move. He was suddenly frozen to the spot as if somebody had just squirted him with liquid nitrogen only the ice cannot be seen. Sonic tried as hard as he could but he just couldn't move. His whole body was frozen in this pose he was in (He's in an about to stand up position).

"Sonic! What's wrong?" asked Tails.

Then suddenly, HIS body froze up and HE couldn't move! Whatever had frozen Sonic had just frozen Tails now! But it didn't stop there, soon everybody else was suddenly frozen to the spot all of the sudden. It was as if somebody had just paralyzed them all at once. They were all stuck in the positions they were currently in (some of them are kneeling down on the ground and some are just standing up) and completely unable to move. Black Doom cackled at the frozen Mobians.

"A special weapon…this gas." he explained "Once released is quickly absorbed into your blood stream. In a moment, total paralysis will hit your nervous system. The end is near now…"

"Special…gas?" asked Sonic "But…I don't see any gas here!"

"This gas is invisible to the naked eye." explained Black Doom "But even if you could see it, you wouldn't be able to stop it from paralyzing you all right now."

"And just think on what will happen once we release our special gas into the atmosphere of Mobius." crooned Nyrah "The whole world will be defenceless against us!"

"Indeed." purred Black Doom.

As the two were gloating, a horde of Death Leeches began crawling into the room. They began squealing with delight at the sight of potential food in the throne room and that food was the frozen Mobians. Black Doom heard their delighted squeals and he cackled evilly.

"Ah my dear offspring, eat and devour these savoury dishes!" cackled Black Doom "Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha…"

The Death Leeches all began crawling towards the paralyzed Mobians, eager to start eating them alive. The Mobians tried to move but they were all tuck to the spot where they were frozen. They just couldn't move thanks to the paralyzing gas. They were doomed to be devoured by a horde of Black Arms offspring.

"Ugh, I managed to save us from those things back in the dungeon but it seems I won't be saving us from the Death Leeches now!" cried Silver as the Death Leeches got nearer.

If Sally and Nicole weren't paralyzed, their faces would be scrunched up in disgust. The Death Leeches were just surrounding the Mobians and homing in on their prey. But there was an unexpected saviour among them. And that saviour was Shadow the Hedgehog. Due to the fact he was created from Black Doom's blood, he was part Black Arms and thus, completely capable of resisting the gas. Shadow stood up and he kicked the Death Leech nearest to him away. The leech hurled across the room and it hit the wall. Frightened, it panicked and slithered away, not intending to stay here a minute longer. The other leeches homed in one Shadow but Shadow merely stomped on them all and threw them away. The frightened leeches all slithered quickly away after being beaten up by Shadow. The Mobians were saved for now. Black Doom looked like he was about to blow a vessel.

"What…?!" he gasped.

"I was created with some of your blood right?" asked Shadow "So I'm part Black Arms because of this and because I'm part Black Arms, I am immune to your pathetic gas Black Doom!"

"Grrr…I should have prepared for that." grumbled Black Doom "No matter. I shall kill you myself Shadow the Hedgehog. I killed your original and intended creator after all so I will now kill the created!"

He swiped the air with his mighty Chaos Sabre but Shadow warped out of the way, leaving the wave to completely miss and strike the wall instead. The wall cracked heavily and bits of rock crumbled down onto the floor. Shadow reappeared directly in front of Black Doom and he walloped him in the face with a powerful kick. Black Doom backed off and he clutched his face in pain. Shadow then spin-dashed Black Doom in the gut, earning a growling groan from Black Doom. Black Doom swung the Chaos Sabre at Shadow but Shadow ducked and then threw a Chaos Spear at one of his eyes. Black Doom groaned in pain and he swung the Chaos Sabre at Shadow again. He just managed to catch Shadow across the shoulder and Shadow yelped in pain. Shadow clutched his shoulder and tried to fight the pain in his arm. He then ran over to Oakron and stole his sword by leaping over him and yanking it out of it's sheath which was on Oakron's back.

"Oy! That's mine!" growled Oakron, trying to grab Shadow.

But Shadow simply slashed Oakron across the gut with the sword. The slash left on Oakron was a very deep wound and he began bleeding from the wound. Black Arms blood was green so green blood trickled out of the wound on Oakron's stomach. Nyrah was livid to see Shadow do that to his partner so he whipped out his ring gun and blasted at Shadow. Shadow dodged the blasts and he spin-dashed Nyrah into a wall. Nyrah laid at the foot of the wall, groaning in pain and wondering which part of him to rub better. Shadow then turned his attention back to Black Doom but Black Doom had decided to catch him off guard with an early attack. He swiped the air with the Chaos Sabre and Shadow was stricken by the massive energy wave that swept from it. Shadow was slammed against the wall and the wall began to crack even more from the sheer power of that wave. Black Doom swiped again but Shadow warped out of the wave's way and he reappeared behind Black Doom. He tried to stab Black Doom with Oakron's sword but Black Doom spun around and defended himself with the Chaos Sabre. The two then began to clash swords together, the blades making a mighty clash sound that rung around the room. Shadow and Black Doom clashed swords again and again, sparks flying off of them as the blades hit each other and then they crossed swords at face level. They both pushed on each other's swords and tried to knock one another down.

"You really should have joined me Shadow." growled Black Doom "You would have been quite welcome among us and you could be helping us to destroy this miserable excuse for a planet."

He then suddenly lashed out and grabbed Shadow by the neck. He hoisted the hedgehog up to his height and began throttling him as hard as he could. Shadow grunted in Black Doom's grasp and he tried to get free.

"Do you really think you'll be accepted among the Mobians?" sneered Black Doom "Especially as you were meant to destroy them? You're not even a real Mobian you do realize, you're just a creation of a human being stolen by me and remoulded into my image and meant to imitate a Mobian. You are a pseudo-Mobian and they'll never accept a faker among their kind."

"Yes…they will!" grunted Shadow "Especially…since nobody…other then…Sonic and friends…knows who I really am!"

He then tried to slice Black Doom's arm off with his sword but Black Doom quickly teleported out of the way before Shadow could render him with one arm. Shadow grumbled furiously and he kept his sword ready for when Black Doom reappears to attack him. Black Doom reappeared behind Shadow and then tried to slice him in two but Shadow blocked the blow with his sword. Shadow then put the tip of the sword into the ground, hoisted himself up like he was pole vaulting with it and then kick-slammed Black Doom in the face. Shadow then proceeded to throw some Chaos Spears at Black Doom. The spears all hit Black Doom in several places all over his body. Black Doom groaned in pain and then he swiped the Chaos Sabre once again. A giant wave swept towards Shadow but Shadow warped out of the way before it could hit him. The wave struck another wall and cracked that as well. If Black Doom wasn't careful, he'd end up wrecking his own throne room but in all likelihood, he probably didn't care about that as all he wanted now was to kill Shadow. Shadow reappeared directly in front of Black Doom and he spin-dashed him in the face. Black Doom retaliated by throwing a flaming meteor at him. The meteor sent Shadow hurling into the wall with a heavy crash. Shadow picked himself up and he charged back towards Black Doom. Black Doom simply teleported out of the way and left Shadow to land down onto the floor. Black Doom reappeared behind Shadow and then struck Shadow with an energy wave from the Chaos Sabre. The wave slammed Shadow against the wall and made that wall begin to crack too. Shadow picked himself up and he charged towards Black Doom again, crying out a fearsome battle cry as he did so. Black Doom cried out too and the two ended up clashing blades with each other again. Shadow and Black Doom clashes swords with each other several times until Shadow decided to throw a Chaos Spear directly at Black Doom's third and centre eye. Black Doom growled ever so loudly in pain as the Chaos Spear struck his eye and he clutched it in pain. Shadow jumped at Black Doom and tried to cleave him in two but Black Doom warped away before Shadow's sword could even touch him. Shadow growled in annoyance. He was getting pretty fed up of Black Doom teleporting constantly now. Black Doom reappeared and he used his most powerful attack on Shadow.

"On guard…SWIFT STRIKE!" he bellowed.

The Swift Strike swept across the floor and struck Shadow. Shadow was thrown against a wall by the Swift Strike but even that didn't keep him down. Shadow spin-dashed towards Black Doom but Black Doom swung the Chaos Sabre and knocked him down with an energy wave. Shadow picked himself up and he and Black Doom clashed swords again. But then something terrible happened. The two raised their swords high above their heads and they swung them down towards each other…and Black Doom's Chaos Sabre smashed Shadow's sword to pieces! Shadow gasped in horror at his destroyed sword, now completely useless to him. Black Doom cackled and he slammed Shadow against the wall with a wave from the Chaos Sabre. Shadow hit the wall and he lay against it, defeated and beaten. Black Doom levitated towards Shadow and he pointed the Chaos Sabre at him.

"It looks like I emerge victorious Shadow." sneered Black Doom "Now, allow me to bury the biggest mistake I have ever made in my life!"

He then raised the Chaos Sabre high above his head and prepared to kill Shadow with it. Sonic and his frozen friends could only watch helplessly as Shadow was about to have his life claimed by Black Doom. But before Black Doom could deliver the killing blow, a huge explosion erupted outside the comet and shook the room. Black Doom looked up at the ceiling in wonder.

"What was that?" he growled "Nyrah, establish visual contact!"

Nyrah obeyed and he got up some screens that the Black Comet had to show anybody what was going on outside of it. Black Doom peered at the screens and he was surprised at what he saw. The Black Comet was being attacked by the Egg Fleet. All of Eggman's remaining ships had taken flight and were now shooting at the Black Comet with their laser cannons. All the Black Arms outside and heading off to cause havoc had stopped and returned to the comet so they could fight the Egg Fleet back but they were under attack from Eggman robots, Katherine and Devion and, of course, Eggman was winning so far. Devion simply breezed through the Black Arms as if they were nothing thanks to his invulnerable armour and his powerful new weapons Dr. Eggman had given him. Devion's powerful blasters that were contained with his blade gauntlets killed about three Black Arms soldiers at once they were that powerful. Katherine's force-field kept the Black Arms off of herself and she fought them off with her usual attacks and weapons. The Egg Fleet itself also joined in every now and then but its primary target was the Black Comet itself so most of its fire was directed at the Black Comet. Black Doom was livid to see somebody daring to attack him like this whereas Sonic and friends couldn't believe their eyes.

"No way! Eggman's helping us?!" cried Sonic.

"I don't think he's helping us, I think he's just attacking the comet because he doesn't want the Black Arms to deny him his opportunity at world takeover." guessed Tails.

"Well whatever his reason is, let's be glad he's on our side for once." said Knuckles "He's destroying the comet and stopping the Black Arms!"

"But…we're onboard and…he'll kill us all if he destroys the comet." noted Sally "We have to get outta here before we go down with the comet!"

"But we can't, we're still paralyzed by the gas!" shrieked Nicole "We're stuck here and we're all going to die along with the Black Arms once Eggman destroys this comet!"

"No you're not." said Black Doom coldly "I am going to stop that attacking fleet before it can destroy my comet! And I know exactly how to deal with a measly threat like this…"

Black Doom then teleported away and warped outside to face the Egg Fleet along with his minions outside. Oakron and Nyrah ran out of the throne room to join their master in the battle, leaving the Mobians to do nothing but remain where they are thanks to the gas.

Shadow picked himself up and ran over to the Mobians.

"The doctor's attack maybe able to bring the Black Arms down for a bit but I have a nasty feeling Black Doom has some trick up his sleeve that'll bend the battle in his favour." said Shadow "We have to get outta here and help the doctor win this one, as reluctant as I am to help the doctor with anything nowadays."

"But how can we help? We're still paralyzed by the gas." noted Sonic, trying to move "And Black Doom seems to be too powerful. What can…"

Then suddenly, the room shook violently after the Egg Fleet fired again and the ceiling started caving in. Huge chunks of rubble from the ceiling rained down onto the floor and some particularly large chunks headed towards the Mobians. If the Mobians didn't move and fast, they'd be crushed by the rubble. But before the Mobians could get buried by the ceiling that caved in on them, Silver suddenly stood up and he used his psychokinesis to stop the falling rubble! Everybody stared at Silver in surprise as the psychic hedgehog threw all the rubble away from them.

"Silver, how did you do that?" piped Sonic.

"I…I don't know…" said Silver, wriggling his fingers and then his toes "Somehow…I'm able to move again."

"You're not the only one Silver." said Blaze, she got up from her position and started moving around as normal as if nothing had happened to her earlier "I can move too."

Then suddenly, everybody got up and started moving again. They all wriggled their fingers as if it was the first time they'd ever moved them in their lives. Then they wriggled their toes, flexed their arms and legs and even wagged their tails (except Cosmo as she's not a Mobian).

"He-hey! We can all move again!" cried Sonic happily "That stupid never-freezing gas must have worn off!"

"I guess the gas was only temporary." murmured Tails "Lucky for us.

Now we can all get outta here before Eggman brings the house down on us."

"Before we leave," Shade said quickly "We have to get back the Chaos Emeralds and as luck would have it, Black Doom was stupid enough to leave them all behind, including his Black Chaos Emerald."

The Mobians looked at where Shade was pointing and surely enough, they spotted the eight Chaos Emeralds just lying about on the floor. Black Doom had simply left them there after the Ritual of Prosperity and forgotten about them since then. This was lucky for the Mobians since they could use them to destroy the Black Arms once and for all.

"The freak left the Chaos Emeralds behind?" mused Knuckles "How lucky for us. But the seven Chaos Emeralds are corrupted with Dark Chaos Energy as a result of the Black Chaos Emerald. I have no idea what would happen if we used a Dark Chaos Powered Emerald to go super with but I bet the result isn't going to be pleasant."

"So what do we do Knuckles?" asked Cosmo "Can we cleanse the emeralds of their corruption?"

"We sure can." said Knuckles "We'll just simply take the Chaos Emeralds over to AngelIsland and use the Master Emerald to cleanse them of the dark Chaos Energy. Maybe we could even cleanse the Black Chaos Emerald and have it be a normal Chaos Emerald again."

"But we're miles from AngelIsland and I don't recommend using a Chaos Control with a dark powered emerald to get there quickly, it might have a nasty side effect." said Shade cautiously.

"We don't need to." said Silver "I've just found where Black Doom's kept my stolen warp ring."

Silver had been looking around for his warp ring all the time they'd been talking and he found it lying discarded on a nearby rocky shelf on the wall (yes, Black Doom has shelves, what of it?). Black Doom had simply plonked it there after stealing it from Silver earlier. His hands glowed teal and he used his psychic powers to bring the warp ring over to him.

"Our luck's just getting better by the second." said Knuckles "Silver, warp us over to AngelIsland so we can cleanse these Chaos Emeralds."

Silver obeyed and he flicked the warp ring up into the air. The ring expanded to twice its size and opened up a portal from the Black Comet to AngelIsland just as the comet was stricken by the Egg Fleet again. Rocks crumbled down from the ceiling above and onto the ground. Now the warp ring had been opened up, Knuckles and Shade scooped up the emeralds and the Mobians charged through it quickly and over to AngelIsland. The Mobians all leaped out through the warp ring and onto the familiar island of AngelIsland. Knuckles felt good being back on the island again after being on a hideous alien comet for so long and he and Shade ran up to the emerald shrine. They placed the eight Chaos Emeralds on the Master Emerald and the moment they were placed on top of the huge gem, the Chaos Emeralds all floated up and circled around the Master Emerald with green energy zapping them and feeding positive energy to the corrupted gems. Knuckles and Shade both began the chant for the Master Emerald to do its job.

"The servers are the seventh Chaos! Chaos is power enriched by the heart! The server exists to unify the Chaos! Master Emerald, cleanse these corrupted gems of their dark power and feed them the real, true power of Chaos!"

The Master Emerald seemed to willingly oblige to this order for it began feeding more energy to the Chaos Emeralds and all of them, including the black one, began to turn back to their natural colour. The Black Chaos Emerald changed from black to white. It had originally been a white Chaos Emerald before it had been experimented on by the Black Arms and changed into their evil gem of power. All eight Chaos Emeralds were soon cleansed of their corruption and turned back into powerful gems of gleaming light and Chaos Energy. The emeralds all levitated down towards Knuckles and Shade and they held them in their hands.

"That's much better." said Knuckles "And we have an extra emerald now. I didn't know you could get white Chaos Emeralds though…"

"According to Ix, Chaos Emeralds had more colours then just the seven that exist currently." explained Shade " It's just nowadays, those colour emeralds such as white, black, orange and others are lost forever though, especially after the destruction of the Chaos Clusters during the whole battle with Chaos."

"I see." said Knuckles "Well then, Sonic, it's time for your super form to come out and play again."

"No it isn't." said Shadow, stepping forward and holding his hands out "I'll destroy Black Doom and his cronies."

"You will?" asked Sonic and Knuckles in unison.

"Yes." said Shadow "I was intended to be a pet but then I was stolen and made into a weapon and now I live to be a saviour. The Black Arms created me so I will destroy them and I will destroy them by myself."

"No Shadow, you can't fight them by yourself!" cried Rouge affectionately "What if the Black Arms are too tough for your super form? Heck, Black Doom has that Chaos Powered Sword, he could probably go super with it! Please don't go on your own!"

"I have to Rouge." said Shadow "Stopping the ones who give me life will be my best ever chance at redemption for what I did under Eggman's pretences. I was sent here by the Black Arms and I'll be the one to get rid of them."

"Well Shadow, I wish you good luck." said Sonic with a wink and a thumbs up "You give those alien freaks a beating for me!"

"I'll do more then that for you faker." said Shadow with a smirk, taking the Chaos Emeralds from Knuckles' hands.

"Good luck Shadow." said Tails supportively "I believe in you, you can do it."

"You want to defend Mobius, then get out there and defend Mobius for us shadow dude!" cried Mandy supportively.

"We're counting on you." said Wilson "And we know you'll win this fight."

"You've honoured us before by aiding in our victories, now honour us more by stopping the Black Arms!" cheered Ruben.

"Please Shadow, for our sake, for the sake of indigenous species everywhere…stop those vile creatures." said Sally.

"Your support is much appreciated." said Shadow happily "And don't worry your majesty, I will not return to this island until the Black Comet is nothing but pebbles. Well, it's time for me to go super. Look out Black Doom, I'm coming for you!"

Shadow tensed himself up and willed for his super form. The eight Chaos Emeralds all levitated out of Shadow's hands and they began to circle around him slowly at first and then faster and faster as they picked up speed. The eight Chaos Emeralds circled around faster and faster and faster until they were nothing more than a rainbow blur circling Shadow. Shadow's quills all pointed upwards and his fur turned the familiar lemon-yellow colour he always turned when he went super. Super Shadow was here once again and he was ready to bust up the Black Arms good and badly. Now Super Shadow's transformation was complete, the first thing he did was warp himself back over to the Northern Border of Megapolis where the Black Comet was stationed. The other Mobians could only standby and wait for Shadow's hopefully inevitable return from the battle. But they didn't have to wait for Silver just simply warped them all back over to the Northern Border of Megapolis with his warp ring so they could see the battle for themselves and see if Shadow was winning at all. The Mobians all stepped back through the warp ring and they found themselves at a considerably safe distance from the battle and looking at the Black Comet being bombarded by Egg Fleet ships' firepower and the Black Arm soldiers battling Devion, Katherine and Eggman robots. The battle was swinging in Dr. Eggman's favour easily thanks to the Egg Fleet, Katherine's defences and Devion's firepower. The Mobians were all amazed at this battle but they were strangely happy to be seeing Dr. Eggman winning.

"Well whadda ya know? The good doctor's winning!" gasped Sonic

"I never thought I'd be happy to see him winning though!"

"It's all thanks to Katherine's impenetrable force-field and Devion being on his side." noted Tails "Devion in particular appears to be helping out brilliantly here. He's blasting them all to bits as if they're nothing!"

He watched as Devion effortlessly vaporized a dozen Black Arms soldiers with a couple of powerful blasts from his arm gauntlets.

"We'd read about the Devatrons and this "Devion" person." muttered Blaze "But we didn't see a page detailing his turn to Eggman's side. This could prove problematic for you all…"

"Ah don't worry, we'll handle Devion." said Sonic "He hasn't got his invulnerable army with him anymore so he'll be easier to defeat this time. Right now, I'm quite happy to watch Devion blast those Black Creatures to bits."

"I bet not even their weaponry is a match for Devion." said Cream.

She was too right on that. None of the Black Arms' weapons had any kind of effect on Devion's invulnerable armour. Not even the ring guns. And thanks to the Diamond Glass sheet placed over Devion's visor by Eggman, he couldn't get blinded by them so he was even harder to defeat. And Katherine's barrier was surely enough, keeping the Black Arm's attacks off of herself and rendering herself incapable of being destroyed by them. But all of that was about to take a turn in the Black Arm's favour for Black Doom was now here to cause trouble and he did something that surprised the Mobians. He began fusing himself with the roots of the Black Comet and started transforming. He started transforming into a hideous behemoth that was unlike anything anybody had ever seen before in their lives. The resulting creature was a huge, towering monster with a very surreal appearance. The monster had two heads on either side of its torso in the image of a gargoyle. One head had Black Doom's trademark twin horizontal horns and the other had a single vertical horn. The lower part of its body was rooted to a large spiked boulder. It had very large wings and two arms that were double-jointed at the shoulder so the creature could use it's arms in either direction. On both heads, the creature had a singular yellow eye with a reptilian like pupil in it and they both had horizontal jaws like the Black Bull did but without a lower jaw to go with it. Its torso also had strange spikes pointing down and it had the typical colours of the Black Arms race. This behemoth was known as Devil Doom and it was Black Doom's super form which he gained from fusing himself with the Black Comet's roots or some other kind of method. Black Doom had very rarely ever used this form and whenever he did use it, it resulted in terrible ruination everywhere for any planet who encountered it. To make things worse though, Doom's Chaos Sabre had formed with the creature during the transformation and the blade of the sword was now sticking up from the creature's back somewhere between the wings. That meant Devil Doom could still use the power of the Chaos Sabre and swing things in his favour! Devil Doom roared a thunderous roar that made Devion and Katherine stop what they were doing and stare at it in wonder. Dr. Eggman saw Devil Doom from the cockpit of the ship he was in and he almost fell out of his chair.

"What the blazes is that monstrosity?!" shrieked Dr. Eggman "That's the most surreal thing I've ever seen in my life! No matter, I'll destroy it easily! Egg Fleet, fire all cannons on that demon thing!"

The entire Egg Fleet obeyed and they all aimed their cannons at Devil Doom. But before they could even fire one single laser cannon, Devil Doom activated the Chaos Sabre's power and performed a Chaos Control on the Egg Fleet. The Egg Fleet was now completely frozen in time by the Chaos Control, giving Devil Doom the perfect opportunity to annihilate the entire fleet. Devil Doom used one of his abilities which was the ability to levitate the environment around him. He managed to telepathically rise up giant chunks of earth from the very ground beneath him and he simply threw them at the Egg Fleet ships, destroying them instantly. The Chaos Control wore off and Dr. Eggman could see that Devil Doom was destroying his fleet. The fleet began firing lasers at Devil Doom to stop him destroying anymore of the fleet but Devil Doom shielded himself with his wings and blocked the attacks. He then used the Chaos Sabre's original ability, raise creatures from the ground, to rise up a bunch of rock creatures from the plain environment of the Northern Border. Five giant rocky golems all formed from the Chaos Sabre's power and they joined in with destroying the Egg Fleet.

They threw their rocky weapons at the ships and destroyed them in a matter of seconds. The remaining Egg Fleet ships did all they could to try and destroy the Rock Creatures but their tough hides protected them from the attacks. Devil Doom then used the Chaos Sabre to fire some Chaos Spears at the Egg Fleet and destroy all but one of the ships left. Only Dr. Eggman's vessel remained and he decided to make a quick run for it before he could go down with his fleet. Eggman activated an escape pod and he fled his doomed vessel just as Devil Doom fired a Chaos Spear at it and destroyed it. Eggman's entire Egg Fleet was now completely obliterated. It had survived losing its flagship twice but it didn't survive this battle. The Black Arms were pleased to see that Devil Doom was helping them win this match whereas Katherine and Devion looked on in horror. Devion then immediately began firing at Devil Doom. Devil Doom is generally hard to hurt but Devion's powerful cannons managed to make the beast roar in pain. Devil Doom just opened his mouth and began breathing fire at Devion. But, being invulnerable, Devion took the fire as if it was nothing.

"It's going to take more than a pyrokinetic onslaught to bring me down." scoffed Devion.

He then leaped out of the way of the fire breath and shot Devil Doom in the eye on the twin-horned head, the one that was currently facing forward. Devion Doom cried in pain and then rotated around so his other head was facing forward. Devil Doom then fired some Chaos Spears at Devion from the Chaos Sabre in his back but Katherine jumped in front and blocked it with her force-field barrier. Devion leaped over Katherine and then shot Devil Doom in the eye again. Devil Doom cried out in pain and turned back around so his twin-horned head was facing forward. He then ordered the Rock Creatures to attack Devion and Katherine. The five Rock Creatures all bore down on Devion and reached out to grab the lone living Devatron but Devion began blasting them with his gauntlets. The shots didn't have much effect but they made the creatures back off. Devion then drew out his arm blades and tried to slice chunks of rock off one of the creature's legs but his blades had no effect on the creature's tough hide. So he sheathed his blades and began shooting as rapidly as he can at the Rock Creatures.

"These creatures a truly going to be a good test of my abilities." he said to himself "But in the name of my master, I will defeat them."

But Devion wouldn't have to defeat the Rock Creatures himself for Super Shadow had finally arrived on the scene and he ploughed straight through the first Rock Creature as if he was nothing but a sheet of paper. The Rock Creature crumbled down onto the ground in a pile of boulders and stones. Devion was surprised to see this but he was pleased at the same time to see Super Shadow was here to help them.

"I remember the super Mobians." he mused "Sonic and Shadow turned super and took down my Deva Dragon. Well these alien invaders have no chance of survival if a super-powered Mobian is here to stop them…"

Even Dr. Eggman was strangely pleased to see Super Shadow here and ready to take down Devil Doom.

"So Shadow's here to save the day, how marvellous." crooned Dr. Eggman "But why isn't Sonic saving the day with him?"

No matter what the reason for Sonic's absence was, Eggman was grateful to see at least Shadow on the scene to stop Devil Doom. Super Shadow destroyed the other four Rock Creatures in seconds, leaving nothing but a pile of boulders, and then he flew up towards Devil Doom. Devil Doom glared at Super Shadow with his singular yellow eye and he roared loudly at the top of his voice. Super Shadow didn't show any signs of fear at all. He just clenched his fists and prepared to do battle. Even though he didn't know that Devil Doom was Black Doom at first, he'd quickly managed to work out it was Black Doom after seeing the twin horizontal horns on the head currently facing forward. He wasn't the least bit intimidated by Devil Doom's appearance though, he just saw Black Doom in front of him and ready to be annihilated. He wasn't scared of Black Doom and he certainly wasn't scared of Devil Doom.

"Black Doom! You've come here with the intention of wiping out a whole world complete with indigenous species!" yelled Super Shadow "But I am here to stop you and I will completely annihilate you!"

Devil Doom roared a thunderous roar and he breathed fire at Super Shadow. Super Shadow ploughed effortlessly through the fire and he threw a Chaos Spear down Devil Doom's throat. Devil Doom gagged loudly and he rotated around so his one horned head was facing forward now. Devil Doom summoned some rocks from nowhere and the rocks all fired lasers at Super Shadow. Super Shadow was stricken by the lasers and sent flying backwards. Super Shadow then flew towards Devil Doom but Devil Doom activated a Chaos Control with the Chaos Sabre fused in his back. Time froze around Super Shadow and he froze where he was. Devil Doom took the perfect opportunity to swat Super Shadow down into the ground with a giant hand. Super Shadow slammed down into the ground and left a crater where he landed. Sonic and friends watched all this and they all went "Oooooooh!" as Super Shadow hit the ground. Super Shadow picked himself up and he charged back at Devil Doom. He spin-dashed Devil Doom in several places all over his body and began throwing Chaos Spears at him. Devil Doom shrieked loudly as he was bombarded by attacks and he warped away using a Chaos Control. He reappeared and then telepathically lifted up chunks of earth and threw them at Super Shadow. Super Shadow ploughed through the chunks as if they were nothing and he spin-dashed Devil Doom in the face. He wheeled around for another spin-dash but Devil Doom blocked the attack with his wing. Super Shadow bounced off his wing but he wasn't about to give up that easily. Super Shadow began throwing Chaos Spears at Devil Doom but Devil Doom shielded himself with both wings. Super Shadow saw his chance for a sneak attack and he spin-dashed Devil Doom's twin-horned head twice, one in the eye and one in the mouth. Devil Doom swatted at Super Shadow but he missed and Super Shadow spin-dashed his arm. Devil Doom summoned some laser-firing rocks again and the rocks fired at Super Shadow. Super Shadow was stricken by the lasers and sent spiralling through the air. Super Shadow growled furiously and he threw some Chaos Spears at Devil Doom. Devil Doom blocked the attacks with his wings but Super Shadow spin-dashed towards Devil Doom just as he uncovered his head and he spin-dashed him directly in the eye. Devil Doom roared loudly in pain and he rotated around so his single horned head was facing Super Shadow. He breathed fired at Super Shadow but the attack didn't harm Super Shadow in the slightest. Devil Doom however had other ideas. He used the Chaos Sabre on his back to fire Chaos Spears at Super Shadow. Super Shadow was stricken by the spears and knocked down into the ground. Devion decided to help Super Shadow after watching him get knocked down so Devion began blasting Devil Doom with his gauntlet lasers. The lasers struck Devil Doom and made him screech in pain. Devil Doom telepathically raised up the remains of the Egg Fleet and threw the pieces at Devion. Devion just blasted the Egg Fleet debris to pieces with his gauntlet blasters (I did say earlier they can bring down a five storey building so ship debris's nothing to those blasters) and continued blasting Devil Doom. Devil Doom warped away and reappeared on the other side of the Black Comet. Super Shadow picked himself up and he warped over to where Devil Doom was. Super Shadow fired some Chaos Spears at Devil Doom but Devil Doom blocked the blows with his wings and breathed fire at Super Shadow. To make his attack even worse, Devil Doom combined his fire attacks with some Chaos Spears from the Chaos Sabre on his back. Super Shadow was stricken by scorching fire and sharp Chaos Spears. He was sent hurling backwards and he gasped for breath. He clutched his arms and he fought the pain that was slowly seeping over him. Despite his super-enhanced invulnerability, that attack was pretty powerful and did manage to hurt him a little. Super Shadow was not about to give up though, he was going to stop Devil Doom and nothing was going to bring him down. Super Shadow rocketed towards Devil Doom but Devil Doom summoned laser rocks and fired Chaos Spears along with the rocks that began firing lasers at Super Shadow. Super Shadow was bombarded by laser blasts and the Chaos Spears. Super Shadow was thrown down onto the ground by the powerful attack. Sonic and friends all gasped in shock at this and Rouge came close to breaking down.

"Oh no! Shadow!" wailed Rouge "I knew he wouldn't be able to take down Black Doom by himself!"

"Rouge, don't worry, Shadow will win." Sonic assured the distressed bat.

"Have faith in him Rouge, he's going to make it." said Amy comfortingly.

"I do have faith in him but…I'm worried that he'll get defeated and…

that Black Doom will kill him." said Rouge, a single tear trickling down her face "I really like Shadow and I don't want him to…"

"Rouge, Shadow survived the freaking Devatrons, Black Doom's no contest." said Sonic reassuringly "Don't sweat it, Shadow's as tough as they come, he'll beat Black Doom yet."

Rouge smiled at Sonic's comforting words. He was right, Black Doom was nothing compared to the Devatrons. Shadow was going to win. He just had to press on and find a way to bring down Devil Doom. Super Shadow picked himself up and he grunted in pain. Devil Doom was getting a little bothersome and he had to bring him down and fast. Luckily for him, Super Shadow had just come up with a brilliant idea. An idea that was guaranteed to bring down Devil Doom once and for all. Super Shadow rocketed towards Devil Doom and he threw several Chaos Spears at Devil Doom. The spears struck Devil Doom in several places all over his body and the Super Shadow spin-dashed him in the face. Devil Doom swatted at Super Shadow but he missed and Super Shadow decided to put his plan into action. He held out his hands and performed a Chaos Control to freeze Devil Doom in place so that he couldn't interrupt the next phase of his plan. Devil Doom was frozen in time and completely unable to move. Super Shadow smirked at him and he then removed his inhibitor rings from his wrists. Super Shadow began to glow a bright red after removing his rings and he tensed up very tightly. Sonic and friends beamed happily for they knew what was coming next. Super Shadow then thrusted his arms out and released all the energy inside of him.

"Chaos… BLLLLLLLLLAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAS SSSSSSSSSSSSSSSSSSSSTTTTTTT TTTTTTTTTTT! " thundered Super Shadow.

A titanic eruption of Chaos Energy exploded out from Super Shadow and engulfed Devil Doom in a bright flash. Devil Doom screamed in agony as he was torn apart atom by atom by the colossal blast from Super Shadow. Black Doom was now no more thanks to the Chaos Blast. The Chaos Blast went on to destroy the Black Comet and all the Black Arms soldiers, including Nyrah and Oarkon, that were still living. Devion, Katherine and Dr. Eggman had all run for cover before Super Shadow activated his Chaos Blast so they'd avoided being obliterated by the enormous blast. This had by far been the biggest Chaos Blast ever unleashed by Shadow, super or not. After the Chaos Blast had finally died down, all that was left were pebbles of the Black Comet. The Chaos Blast had destroyed everything atom by atom and left virtually nothing behind. Super Shadow levitated back down to the ground and his super form died away, returning him back to normal. His fur was back to being black and his super aurora vanished. Shadow slumped down onto the ground and gasped for breath. That Chaos Blast had warn him out and he was pretty much completely power-drained. Sonic could see that Shadow was in need of aid right now so he zoomed over to Shadow and scooped up his inhibitor rings. He quickly clipped them back onto Shadow's wrists and Shadow's power began to return to him. Sonic helped Shadow back up onto his feet and the black hedgehog smiled at him.

"Thank you Sonic." said Shadow.

"Anytime Shadow." said Sonic "Let me be the first to say that…you were way past cool today. You have officially proven yourself deserving of being one of us."

"Thanks Sonic." said Shadow "Like I said, my original purpose is dead and my new purpose has been assigned to me. I'm Shadow the Hedgehog, Mobius defender in its battle for survival. Any threat, no matter the size, no matter the scale of it, will be dealt with by me and Mobius will survive. I've grown accustomed to this planet and I won't let anyone take it from me. I am here to tell you, to tell Black Doom, to tell everybody, to tell the world, to tell the universe that I am not a pet and I'm not a weapon or an infiltrator. I'm a Mobian, I'm a defender and I've just obliterated the entire Black Arms Race. THIS IS WHO I AM!"

"You said it Shadow!" said Sonic "Mobius is sure lucky to have you defending it along with us."

Shadow smiled graciously. But his praise wasn't about to end yet. The others ran over to Shadow and they all began cheering for him and congratulating him on his victory.

"You did it!" cheered Tails.

"You stopped Black Doom and his invasion! You've honoured us all today!" cried Ruben.

"Shadow dude, you're just as cool as blue dude himself, well done." said Mandy with a wink.

"I agree." said Wilson agreeably.

"Shadow, you have impressed us all!" cheered the Chaotix trio Vector, Espio and Charmy "Brilliant victory!"

"The world is saved and the Black Arms are dead!" cheered Cream "Mobius will live! Yay! I can't wait to tell mother and father!"

"I'm proud of what you've done today Shadow." said Cosmo sweetly "Thank you for all you've done."

"Thank you, all of you." said Shadow appreciatively "It makes me glad to hear all of your comments. I'm glad that we're all friends instead of enemies, it feels much better being on your side."

Rouge then suddenly ran in and threw her arms around Shadow, surprising the black hedgehog.

"I'm so glad you won Shadow." said Rouge tearfully "Thank you for saving us all…and thank you for surviving the match."

"You're welcome Rouge." said Shadow, hugging her back in a way of saying "thank you" "And thank you for waking me up from that pod last year. I'd never have experienced what it's like to live, to have a life and have something to live for if I was still stuck in there."

"You're so welcome Shadow." said Rouge in her usual coy manner "And then I thought I hadn't found anything that special."

Shadow chuckled dryly at her. Sally then stood forward and decided to give the genetic experiment her thanks.

"Shadow…you have made this Queen proud. You're officially a Mobian and I therefore grant you an honorary citizenship here on Mobius." said Sally happily "Welcome to Mobius, your official new home from this day forward."

"Thank you very much your majesty, I'm very honoured." said Shadow politely.

"I shall see to it that you get your own place of dwelling." said Sally "Maybe you could live in the city with us…"

"No, I'm quite happy to be roaming around freely your highness." said Shadow "But I'll be there to help you when you need me. I'll wear a communications device to that you can contact me when you need me. And even though I'm not gonna have a place to live, I'll still fall under your laws and mandates."

"Very well." said Sally "I'm quite happy with that. Now, we have something else to focus on now."

"What's that Sal gal?" asked Sonic.

"The oncoming Martian invasion tomorrow…" said Sally grimly.

Invasion of the Martians

Story 126: Invasion of the Martians

Through the vast, empty void that is space, a huge ship cruised gracefully through the stars and onto its intended destination. That ship, of course, was the Martian ship and as Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat foretold, it was coming to Mobius. After destroying Greengate*, the Martians had set course for Mobius and after a long time, they were beginning to arrive there. With help from Marik the Martian, for he knew the coordinates to it, the Martians had been able to find Mobius. As they began to near the planet, the Grand Warlord Diablo peered out of the window and observed Mobius as they neared it. Mobius looked pretty much how he imagined it and chances are, it was going to look just as bad when they got down onto the planet's surface.

"So this is it, Mobius." said Diablo softly to himself "Looks as vapid as most other peace-loving worlds we've desecrated over time."

"Well what do you expect dad? A lot of peace-loving worlds look the same don't they?" sighed Marik who was standing beside his dad and watching as the ship neared Mobius.

"They do until you touch down on them." noted Diablo "They mostly look the same on the outside but never on the inside. And judging from what you've described to me, Mobius isn't going to be like most other worlds we've invaded before."

"It certainly isn't going to be dad." muttered Marik "We've never invaded a planet who's population consists of humanoid animals before. Nor have we really encountered a world with super-powered beings. I can assure you though, with all the time I've spent on Mobius, the advantage will be ours for I've studied the world and taken note of the most relevant of things on it. Like the locations and names of cities and countries and the location of any powerful relics they have. Information like that will be our winning trump card in this new war we'll be starting."

Diablo smiled widely at those very words that Marik had just said.

"Indeed Marik." crooned Diablo "We'll destroy those Mobians and it'll be all thanks to you."

"Once we land on this pitiful planet, we'll make the Mobians pay for what they did to me…" Marik said as he looked at his metal hand "… and what they did to Uncle Drago. We will make them ALL pay."

"I promise you Marik, we won't leave this world until every last Mobian is exterminated!" declared Diablo "Nobody gets away with crippling one of our own's hand and then killing one of our own! Nobody!"

"Agreed." said Marik "But as I said before dad, you cannot underestimate the Mobians. That was my mistake during my time on there…" he added as he looked at his hand again "I severely underestimated those Mobian mongrels and I paid the price for it. I underestimated them so badly that I even thought the Devatrons had it in the bag with them. And even they fell to the might of the Mobians."

"That's the part that worries me." said Diablo grimly "If those freaks can take down the Devatrons then chances are, they'll put up a good fight against us."

"Yes but when fighting the Devatrons, they had to bugger off into space and get help in order to beat them, as well as use their precious Chaos Emeralds to stop them." noted Marik "That was the only reason they beat the Devatrons. That and the Devatrons didn't know what to expect when they invaded Mobius whereas we do. That's why we'll succeed where the Devatrons failed, we know the tricks of the trade, we know their secrets and we know their secret weapons. Thanks to me alone, we Martians understand the Mobians better then the Devatrons ever did."

"And that is the advantage we have." purred Diablo, grinning like a leprechaun "We will be able to anticipate their battle tactics and remove any advantages we have. For once we settle down, one of the first things we'll be doing is finding those…Chaos Emeralds as you call them. Unfortunately, you don't know that kind of information."

"The most I know about the Chaos Emeralds is that they're very powerful, they can turn people super and there's seven of them." said Marik "But, now we've fixed the Visual-Mind Reader Link, we could kidnap a Mobian and use it on them so we can find out where the Chaos Emeralds are hidden. Sonic or any of his friends would do, they'd have that kind of information."

"Very well, we shall make sure that happens during our invasion." said Diablo "So, tell me, how many friends does Sonic have and what are they like?"

"Sonic has many friends dad and they all vary in strength and power." explained Marik "Allow me to tell you about them one by one…"

As Marik prepared his VERY long exposition for Diablo, the ship continued cruising towards Mobius. Sooner or later it would enter the planet's atmosphere and then the invasion could begin…

Tomorrow had dawned on Mobius bright and sunny. Just the perfect kind of weather for anyone to relax, sunbathe or have fun in it and play games and exercise to their heart's content. Such a shame that the Martians were going to invade Mobius on this very day right now and spoil it for everybody. Luckily for the Royal Fighters Service, they had been warned by the future dwelling Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat first hand of the invasion so they were going to be well prepared for it. The moment everybody had woken up, Queen Sally Acorn had given the order for all Royal Fighter teams to come to New Mobotropolis immediately and bring their best supplies. Teams Nekronopolis, Adabat and Megapolis had gotten the order and had come over to New Mobotropolis with some big supplies. Sonic had decided to make their job easier by taking a Chaos Emerald and using a Chaos Control to open a Chaos Portal to give the teams a quick trip over to the city to save time for New Mobotropolis was far away from all of their respective places. The Chaos Control had been very helpful and now all the teams were here in New Mobotropolis, ready for action. Team Nekronopolis had Miranda, Kari, Thunder & Bolt of course and they had a plethora of soldiers by their side. Miranda had armed herself with a handheld plasma cannon as she felt her electro-prod wasn't going to be very useful in this battle, Kari had her usual wrench and Thunder & Bolt didn't need anything for they had their electrical powers. Their men had brought weapons of many kinds, including wheeled cannons that could take down a skyscraper in a couple of shots. Team Adabat merely consisted of Scott Lynx and his team-mates Jessica Cougar, Taran the Lynx and Felix the Peacock. Adabat was a peaceful country and refused to have an army of any kind in the country but they didn't mind anyone from Adabat contributing to the R.F.S. so Team Adabat's supplies were limited. Luckily for them, the other teams had plenty of weapons should they need one and Taran had instantly armed himself with a large hand held rotary cannon. He'd also brought some ear plugs with him to drown the noise out for he couldn't stand loud noises. Scott and Jessica had their usual energy powers and Felix had his feather clubs. Team Megapolis consisted of the wheelchair-bound Thomas Tiger who could only give out orders and devise tactics since Devion had broken his back during the Devatron invasion and the beautiful rookie Kiara the Cheetah. Team Megapolis had lots of soldiers and heavy artillery too. They had brought wheeled cannons with them also so as you can imagine, the Martian army is in for a VERY nasty surprise once they touched down on Mobius. Sonic was well surprised with how much resources they now had with them. The Royal Fighters Service was well and truly ready for action.

"Now THAT'S how you prepare for battle!" gasped Sonic "We wouldn't be anywhere near this ready if we hadn't been worn in advanced about it. You and Blaze are the ones to thank for this preparation."

"Think nothing of it Sonic, we're just happy to help." said Silver casually.

"Yes we are, especially since we want to prevent the end of the world." said Blaze in her usual grim matter (Blaze isn't a very cheerful person as you know) "I just hope stopping this invasion will fix the future otherwise we're back to square one and we'll have to arrive and warn you of the coming apocalypse again."

"Well you keep researching and warning us and we'll shoot down your theories one by one until your future changes." said Sonic "And with our big, hulking army here, the Martians will be stopped easily."

"Let us hope so or we're all doomed." said Silver grimly.

Sonic nodded. As for the Royal Fighters, the leaders from each team came up to Sonic. Miranda and Scott walked up to the blue hedgehog whereas Thomas was wheeled over to Sonic by Kiara. Kiara was responsible for wheeling Thomas around now since Thomas wanted to test her on responsibility and hopefully make her a better soldier for she was still a little reckless.

"So Sonic, what's this all about buddy?" asked Scott "Something about a "Martian invasion" or something like that? I didn't really get what your queen was telling us."

"I'll let Silver tell you, he can explain it better then me." said Sonic.

Silver stood forward and Scott stared at him.

"Wow, you look cool!" he cried, taking Silver's hand and shaking it "Where have YOU been all this time?!"

"Nowhere because I don't exist in this timeline." said Silver "My name's Silver the Hedgehog and this is my friend Blaze the Cat."

Blaze stood forward and curtseyed politely.

"We're from the future and we're honoured to see the esteemed Royal Fighters Service in all its glory." she said.

"You're from the bloomin' future?!" exclaimed Kiara in amazement "Oh man that is so cool! I've always yearned to travel through time! It sounds so flippin' cool!"

"It is miss but you'd have to be careful how you go about it." said Silver sternly.

"Well then you two, welcome to the present." said Miranda politely "My name is Miranda Mongoose…"

"Yes, we know who you are." said Blaze "We've studied about the R.F.S. in our timeline and we've memorized most of your names and ranks. You're the leader of the Nekronopolis or "Northern" Royal Fighters team."

"Oh…" said Miranda, a little surprised "…you've done your research it seems."

"So if you two are from the future…" said Scott, putting a finger to his chin "Then why are you two here? How did you get here?"

"We came by Super Warp Ring." said Silver, holding up the magnificent ring for the team leaders to see "It's like a warp ring only super-powered and can allow you to travel through time and other zones."

"Could you open that thing and show us the future?" asked Kiara "I'd love to see it!"

"You'll be wishing you hadn't asked." muttered Silver, opening the warp ring for her.

Eagerly, Kiara stuck her head through the Super Warp Ring and saw what was on the other side of it. She saw the ruination of the future, the miserable remains of the various cities that once made Mobius' scenery and the stretching wastelands that reached out all around the world. The ruination of the future that is sadly, Silver & Blaze's home and will continue to be so unless the future gets fixed. Kiara's face was ashen. Her jaw dropped and her eyes nearly popped out of their sockets at what she saw. She couldn't believe what she was looking at. She almost felt like she was staring at another world. She slowly raised her head out of the warp ring and staggered backwards. Kiara started shaking like a leaf. Silver closed the warp ring and sympathetically put a hand on her shoulder. He could tell what Kiara was thinking just be looking at her horrified face. Kiara looked like she was about to have a shock-related heart-attack.

"I know, we're dismayed too." said Silver "And that's mine and Blaze's future no less. We have to live in that apocalypse zone that is Mobius' future. And that's why we're here, to fix the past and improve the future. We're here to prevent Mobius' doom."

"I…I…c…can't…this…this can't…" gasped Kiara hoarsely, barely able to speak.

She sat down on Thomas's knees and the tiger stroked her back to calm her down.

"So you're telling us that the world ends at some point and you're here to stop it?" asked Scott "What's this got to do with this so-called "Martian invasion" we're getting worked up over?"

"Because they think the Martian invasion is the cause of Mobius' end." replied Sonic "They think if they can stop the Martians from winning then their future will be fixed which is good for both them and us. I can't stand the thought of the world ending."

"Well I hope with all my heart that defeating the Martians will fix your future you two." said Miranda with her hands over her chest.

"Thank you Miranda." said Blaze.

"I'm not convinced the Martians will be the ones to destroy the world." said Scott doubtfully "We stopped the friggin' Devatrons and they're the most powerful beings ever. The Martians can't be any worse then they are."

"Maybe the Martians have something they don't?" suggested Sonic "Either way, Silver and Blaze have helped us prepare for their invasion so we can stop them easier when they arrive. If we stop the Martians, it'll be thanks to them."

"It probably will be." said Scott "Well, I'll be joining back with my team to prepare for the invasion now. See ya."

With that, Scott wandered back over to his team mates to prepare for the invasion. Miranda, Kiara and Thomas rejoined their respective teams too. The Royal Fighter teams were setting up defences and an attack blockade. The wheeled cannons they'd brought with them were raised and pointed up at the sky. They were all standing in a line together. The soldiers had their weapons primed and ready and they waited to launch their readily prepared assault. Sonic watched them all and then he wandered off to Royal HQ with Silver and Blaze.

"Well, I think I'll see my buddies in Royal HQ before the invasion begins." said Sonic casually "I wonder if they're preparing for the invasion at all. How long have we got until they arrive?"

"According to the book…" said Silver, looking at it again "They arrive at exactly one-thirty this afternoon and not a moment later. The arrival is described here as "a horrifying sight for anyone on Mobius for out of the clouds, a huge ship of extraterrestrial design and appearance appeared and loomed over the City of New Mobotropolis. Ploughing through the clouds, it headed towards the city and opened fire. Luckily the shields were raised in time and…"

"I think I get the picture Silver." said Sonic quickly "So all of this setting up weaponry and preparing with the Royal Fighters didn't happen until you and Blaze interfered?"

"Correct." said Blaze "This isn't how it should be happening but thanks to us, we've changed that and hopefully, that little change will help us win the inevitable battle and thwart the invasion."

"Even if it doesn't, we've got our shiny trump cards to defeat them with." noted Sonic "The eight Chaos Emeralds. It's funny how we had seven and now since the Black Arms invasion, we now have eight after we cleansed his Black Chaos Emerald…"

"That's a good point." mused Silver "So maybe we were worked up over nothing and the Martian invasion is indeed not the event that destroys our future…?"

The very mention of the Chaos Emeralds made Silver wonder about the Martians taking over Castle Acorn. He had very vague information on it given the book he'd been reading had pages missing. Maybe after the Martians take over Castle Acorn, Sonic and maybe Shadow as well just simply use the Chaos Emeralds to kick them all out of the castle? Perhaps the Martian invasion wasn't as bad as Silver and Blaze initially thought and maybe it wasn't the cause of their doomed future. But they didn't know the full details of the invasion so for all they knew, the Martians probably had a secret weapon of their own or just get lucky and manage to beat everybody. But that's what he'd come here for, to be dead sure that Sonic and friends win the invasion and see if that changes anything in the future. If not, he'd just keep researching and see if he could find anymore information and find out what REALLY dooms his future. After all, Silver and Blaze had all the time in the world to do that since they can time travel. Sonic interrupted his train of thought.

"So, you two comin' to Royal HQ?" he asked "I don't believe you've really had the time to explore our headquarters given all we've been through."

"We'd like that very much Sonic." said Blaze politely "Lead the way."

With that said, Sonic ran off to Royal HQ, at a normal running speed so Blaze and Silver could keep up with him. As Silver ran after Sonic and Blaze, he looked at the book again. There was one name in the section on the Martian invasion that was bugging him and had him wondering something about the whole Martian invasion.

Who's Tyrahko? he thought to himself…

In Castle Acorn, the beautiful Queen Sally Acorn was preparing herself for the Martian's arrival. Ever since she'd gotten kidnapped during the Black Arms invasion, she'd decided she'd had enough of being an easy target and getting kidnapped. Thus she'd decided to push her training to the max. True she had performed admirably during the Region of Rebellious Reptiles' first invasion but she felt like she needed to train more and learn more skills. Her battle prowess was weak at best and she had no special powers to make her a threat to be reckoned with. Even Nicole could fight better than her and her battle prowess wasn't anything to write home about. So Sally was pushing her training beyond what she'd done before. She'd set up some targets, which were three tall poles with faces on them, for herself and she'd armed herself with a simple blue bo-staff. She was wearing the same outfit she had worn from Eggman's attempted assassination of Sonic while he was still bed bound from the Devatron invasion all the way through the Black Arms invasion for she felt that if she were to be more active on the battlefield now, she should look less like a queen and more like a fighter and the tank-top, closed vest, gloves and shorts really helped give her that desired look. Sally breathed softly to herself and she raised the bo-staff. This was her first time ever wielding the weapon. She wasn't expecting to do well with it the first time. But if she were to beat the Martians, she'd have to try her hardest.

OK Sally-girl…here we go… she thought to herself.

Sally slowly began to twirl the bo-staff around. She'd done some twirling with sticks before for no real reason other than entertainment so she could twirl the bo-staff to perfection. She twirled and twirled until the bo-staff was nothing more then a blue blur around her constantly moving hands. Sally moved around while twirling the bo-staff and then she spun around a full 360 while still twirling the staff. Due to the fact she hadn't been practicing wielding weapons, she ended up losing control of the staff and she ended up dropping it onto the floor. Sally grumbled to herself and she picked the staff back up. She twirled it around again…and accidentally smacked her thigh with it.

"Yeow!" yelped Sally, clutching her sore thigh in pain and dropping the staff.

She rubbed her thigh better and then picked the staff back up.

"OK…let's do this right this time…" she mumbled to herself.

She twirled the staff around slowly at first. Then she picked up speed and then she twirled the staff around as fast as the first time. She spun around while still twirling the staff (and didn't drop it) and she ran over to her targets. She leaped up into the air while twirling the staff around and she smacked the face on the pole. The face fell off onto the floor. Sally then quickly spun around and accidentally dropped the staff again. Sally picked it up and twirled it around again. She then thrust the staff forward in a lunging motion and she hit the face on the other target. The face fell off onto the floor. Sally twirled the staff around again but she lost control of it and smacked herself in the face with it. Sally's first instinct from such a sharp wallop was to squeal in pain and she clutched her face, gritting her teeth and making a muffled "Ooooohhhhh!" noise through them. The pain in her face was immense and it stung really badly. After her face recovered, Sally picked up the staff but instead of twirling it around, she whacked the third face off the third pole. The face shattered to pieces on the ground for it was merely made of plaster. Sally smiled happily but her smile quickly disappeared as she looked down at the staff in her hands.

"Sigh…this isn't going to be easy." she muttered, rubbing her face again "The staff will take time to master and I'm gonna have to try not to hit myself with it. If I'm to improve my fighting prowess, I really need to practice more. Pity I don't really have time since the Martians will be coming soon…"

She eyed the wealthy looking clock on the wall. It was beautifully sculpted with golden flowers and huge petals around the clock face. The hands had acorn shapes on them and they read exactly one-thirty, the specified time the Martians were going to arrive. Sally almost leapt out of her skin in surprise.

"Oh my gosh! It's one-thirty already?!" she exclaimed "And I've only just begun! I must have been so ready getting the R.F.S. riled up I didn't take track of time! The Martians could be…"

Then suddenly, as if fate knew what she was thinking, the doors flung open and in ran Sally's beautiful lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx. The lynx looked like she'd barely escaped from a ravenous pack of wolves. Sally turned around quickly and looked at her frightened lady-in-waiting.

"Nicole, are they…?" began Sally.

"Yes Sally, they're here!" shrieked Nicole, breathing frantically "The Martians are here! It's beginning, the invasion's beginning!"

"Then let us prevent another dark hour for our world." said Sally, raising the staff up high "The Devatrons, The Black Arms, all alien life forms that we've stopped. The Martians will be added to the list."

With that said, Sally and Nicole both ran out of Castle Acorn to deal with the Martians for the invasion was beginning and a new battle for Mobius was about to commence…

The Martian vessel ploughed through the atmosphere of Mobius like a plough through snow. The edges of the vessel glowed a radiant, aluminous red-orange colour as it entered the atmosphere. Marik smiled to himself as the ship entered Mobius. To him, it was like coming back to finish what he'd started, which was exactly what the Martians were all here for. As the ship entered Mobius, Marik beamed happily at the familiar sights, almost as if he'd missed Mobius and was glad to be back. It felt good to be here again, especially as they were going to destroy the Mobians once and for all. Diablo watched through the windows as the ship finished entering Mobius' atmosphere and started cruising down towards the ground. Diablo could see the City of New Mobotropolis just down below for they were heading towards it. Diablo could just make it out and was secretly impressed with the look of it. He'd never seen cities like this before.

"And so we're here, Mobius." he said "Marik, are you able to identify that residence down below?"

Marik peered through the window and he saw New Mobotropolis, the location he had wanted the Martians to show up at. He smiled maliciously as his evil eyes observed the city down on the ground.

"I can indeed dad. That is New Mobotropolis, the home city of Sonic the Hedgehog and the Royal Fighters I've described to you."

" "New Mobotropolis"?!" snorted Diablo "That's the stupidest name I've ever heard for a city! Why on Mars did they call it that?!"

"Because Mobians don't know how to name a city." said Marik grimly "Unlike us, we have great names for our cities like Kragok and Volderoth. Nevertheless, New Mobotropolis is where we will strike first. I hate to warn you though, the city is shielded. I remember watching Eggman's fleet feebly try to destroy the city only to utterly fail for it was shielded."

"We'll get past that shield Marik." declared Diablo "Should be a lot easier to get past then the Seedrian Palace Barrier we failed to get past back on Greengate."

"Speaking of Seedrians, I can't wait to tell Cosmo that her kind's dead!" cackled Marik "Even though the children are all still alive thanks to the Visual Mind-Reader link giving out on us and Galaxina being dead so we can't ever find out where they are, we'll tell her ALL the Seedrians are dead just to wound her feeble heart further."

"Well we Martians are renowned for our sadism Marik." said Diablo pride-fully "Now then, time to rally the troops. Tell Sycranna to land us and then join us once the ship's landed."

"Yes dad." said Marik, scuttling off to tell Sycranna, The Grand Pilot of the Martian fleet who had recently been promoted thanks to his intelligence, what Diablo had told him to tell him.

Down on the ground, the Royal Fighters all watched as the Martian ship came into view, ploughing through the clouds and lowering down to the ground. Kiara began to get nervous for she had a paralyzing fear of aliens.

"W-w-we're g-g-going to f-f-fight…aliens?!" she squeaked "And they're…Martians! I believe th-th-that M-M-Marik guy I s-s-stopped once…is a Martian! D-d-d-does that mean h-h-h-he's here and h-h-he's b-b-brought his f-f-family and f-f-friends here?"

"Indeed it seems so Kiara." said Thomas grimly "If I wasn't disabled, I would be blasting them all to bits with you and our men."

Kiara nodded and tried to put her phobia aside for the time being. Now was not the time to be afraid of aliens. As the Martian ship neared the ground, Sonic and his team ran out of Royal HQ and joined the blockade. Everyone was here. Shadow, Tails, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Knuckles, Shade, Rouge, Wilson, Mandy, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Ruben, Vector, Espio, Charmy Silver & Blaze were all here and they were ready for battle. Amy had her Piko-Piko hammer in hand, Cream had Cheese by her side, Knuckles clenched his fists, Shade drew out her blades, Wilson had his spinning blade weapon deployed and ready to taste Martian blood, Mandy had her knuckle attachments on and she'd also equipped herself with a shield for extra-defence, Bunnie had deployed her arm cannon already, Geoffrey had loaded his arm-mounted crossbow and Ruben was ready to give the Martians a good shower. Team Chaotix were well ready for action, particularly Vector who was listening to The Good The Bad and The Ugly theme song on his earphones (very fitting battle music eh?). Shadow and Rouge, who had decided to stick around and join in with the Martian invasion, were ready too. Shadow had recently been accepted as an honorary Mobian and now was his first day as one. He'd get to show the whole R.F.S. that he was truly one of them now and defend the planet from yet another alien invasion. Rouge put her arm around Shadow's. She looked perceptibly nervous. Ever since Shadow had been getting more active in Royal Fighter activity such as the foiling the Devatron invasion, the take-over of Chun-Nan and the Black Arms invasion, she'd grown more and more attached to Shadow and would now get worried about him whenever he was about to get into a fight. She wasn't really sure why since you do not ever have to worry about Shadow in a fight for he's one of the strongest beings alive.

"You nervous Shadow?" asked Rouge.

"Not in the least." said Shadow casually "These Martians won't be a problem. I hope I get to break Marik's arm again. Maybe I'll get to break another Martian's arm too."

Rouge wasn't sure why Shadow was so fond of that memory but she couldn't help but smile at the thought of Shadow breaking Marik's arm again. As for the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, they watched the ship incoming and they all began conversing to one another.

"It's definitely them alright." whimpered Cosmo "And it's Diablo's ship no less. Why oh why did it have to be him in particular?"

"Who's Diablo? The leader of the Martians or something?" asked Tails, holding Cosmo's hand to calm her nerves.

"He's the Grand Warlord of the Martians and he's Marik's dad." said Cosmo "He's the Martian I fear the most next to Count Drago. But Silver and Blaze took care of Drago so we won't be seeing him anytime soon."

"I'm not surprised that freak ran crying to his dad about us." scoffed Mandy "Well at least he knew when he was beaten. Well what he's not beckoning on is us beating his family as well."

"I hope we win this." said Wilson "Then maybe finally, me and you can settle down and enjoy our lives as a married couple. We haven't had time to enjoy being a couple since we got married."

"I can't begin to tell you how much a strive for at least a day of peace and quiet." muttered Mandy.

"Well we'll deal with Marik's flunkies and then maybe we'll get a break at last." said Sonic "So where's Sally and Nicole?"

"Here they come now." said Geoffrey, watching as Sally and Nicole ran towards them.

Sally watched as the Martian ship finished coming through the clouds and was getting ready to land. As she ran, she looked over at Nicole.

"Are the shields raised?" she asked.

"I raised them the moment I saw the Martian ship coming." puffed Nicole as she ran alongside Sally.

"Then we can start our assault." said Sally "Royal Fighters, OPEN FIRE!" she shouted as she ran out through the gates of the city and came to a halt in the blockade.

The Royal Fighters obeyed and they opened fire on the Martian ship with the wheel cannons. The cannons blasted away but the Martian ship managed to manoeuvre out of the way of their blasts thanks to Sycranna's skilled piloting. Sycranna gasped in surprise as cannon shots whizzed towards the ship. Diablo and Marik almost fell over as the ship manoeuvred out of the way of the oncoming cannon shots.

"What's happening?! Are we under attack?!" cried Diablo.

"We are indeed master!" gasped Sycranna's voice over the ship's intercom "The Mobians are firing at us with cannons!"

"How can this be?!" thundered Diablo "They couldn't possibly know we were coming and prepare an attack in advance for us!"

"I bet Silver and Blaze have come to this timeline and warned them we were coming so they could prepare for us and stop us from destroying them." grumbled Marik "There goes the advantage of surprise."

"We'll still beat them no matter what!" declared Diablo "Sycranna, land us before we get shot down! Martians, prepare for battle!"

"Yes Grand Warlord!" cried Sycranna over the intercom.

Sycranna thrust on the levers and steered the ship down towards the ground. He had the landing legs already deployed as the ship came in to land. The cannons kept on firing at the ship, desperate to shoot it down and maybe destroy it, thus ending the invasion before it began. But Sycranna's piloting skills were too good for the cannons to hit the ship, he manoeuvred out of the way of the cannon's fire effortlessly and headed down to land. But one cannon managed to skim the ship across the side and rip a huge gash across it. The ship shook but it wasn't effected too terribly by the attack. It still persisted in its landing phase. Sycranna pushed on the levers and finally managed to get the ship to descend down and come in to land. The ship landed down onto the ground, the cannons aiming down at it and preparing to fire. They fired at the ship but the ship fired its own cannons and blocked the cannon fire.

"Hold your fire!" ordered Sally, seeing that this wasn't going to get them anywhere.

The Royal Fighters ceased firing and the Martian ship hissed loudly as it finished its landing. The Royal Fighters all ran over to the huge Martian vessel and braced themselves as the landing ramp opened and came down to the ground with a thunk. Tails was the first to step forward. He was itching to thump Marik ten times to Downunda for daring to squeal on them and bring his army here. But nobody came down the ramp for a few seconds. A couple of minutes past and still nobody came out of the ship. Was the ship empty or were the Martians lying in wait for them? The Mobians remained vigilant for lowering their senses was not wise for any of them. Tails cautiously stepped closer to the boarding ramp. Cosmo stepped forward too, making sure to keep close to Tails. Then suddenly, Diablo charged out of the ship and he grabbed Cosmo by the face!

He hoisted the terrified Seedrian up to his height and cackled maniacally.

"Ha, ha, ha! Got you Last of the Seedrians!" he cackled.

"AAAIIIIIIEEEE!" screamed Cosmo, thumping Diablo's arm frantically "Get him off me! Get him off me!"

"I'll help you Cosmo!" cried Tails, flying up into the air with the aid of his namesakes and grabbing Cosmo by the legs. He tugged on Cosmo's legs while Diablo held onto Cosmo's face.

"Not like that, NOT LIKE THAT!" shrieked Cosmo frantically, her legs and face beginning to strain terribly as Tails and Diablo played tug-of-war with each other.

Diablo just effortlessly swung Tails down into the ground, his hand still clenched tightly around Cosmo's puny head. Sonic put a stop to that by spin-dashing Diablo in the chest, causing him to drop Cosmo. Diablo staggered backwards but he kept his evil smile on his face. Marik and his sister Sierra toddled off the ship and joined Diablo's side. So did their mother Natasha. Cosmo grew even more scared as she saw Natasha stand beside Diablo. She remembered Natasha all too well. Natasha had taken the lives of two of her cousins back on Greengate well before she was evacuated. Seeing her again really made her feel like wetting herself. Diablo folded his arms and boomed aloud with his terrible, deep voice.

"Attention citizens of Mobius!" he announced "I am Grand Warlord Diablo, leader of the Martians and we are here to deliver your sentence!"

"Really? Well sorry Diablo, we haven't got any court-cases going on right now so come back later." sneered Sonic.

Diablo pretended not to hear.

"You Mobians have been found guilty for causing grievous harm to my son Marik and taking the life of my brother, Count Drago!" he continued, glaring at Silver and Blaze as he said Count Drago's name "Your sentence is death and we will annihilate you all for what you've done to us!"

"You're one to talk!" snapped Sally "Your son killed my parents, tried to kill me, tried to take over my kingdom and a whole lot of other terrible things! You have NO right to sentence us just because we've hurt ONE Martian and a couple from the future killed ONE Martian!"

"Well, what can we say honey? We're a very vengeful race." said Natasha snidely "Call us low-lives if you will but in our eyes, we're anything but that. Anyhow, Marik tells us that you're supposed to be the queen of this city?"

"I am indeed." said Sally "I am Queen Sally Acorn of the House of Acorn. I was forced to take the role way before I was ready, no thanks to your son Marik, and I order you all to leave this planet before things get needlessly unpleasant."

"Oh we can't do that sweetheart." sneered Natasha "You see, we hate peace and we're here to eliminate it, as well as make you pay for the harm you've caused Marik and the death of Count Drago. I'm sorry to say, we're staying right here and you will have to fight us off your world."

"So bet it, I gave you a chance to avoid pointless bloodshed." said Sally coldly "Royal Fighters, attack!"

"Before you do so, I've got something to tell your Seedrian friend." said Marik quickly, a big smile on his evil face.

"What could you possibly want to tell me?" asked Cosmo nervously.

Marik put his hands behind his back and grinned so widely, the edges of his mouth looked like they were going to pop out of the edges of his face.

"We won the war with your filthy kind." announced Marik "We planted a bomb in the core of your planet and blew it to smithereens! Not that we're proud of that since we don't like using cowardly tactics to win our battles but Count Nyder, Uncle Drago's replacement, had other ideas and went with the idea to blow up Greengate. Nevertheless, your kind are all dead! Before all that though, we found the location of the evacuated children, thanks to your big sister Galaxina, and we slaughtered them too! You're now officially, the LAST of your kind Cosmo! How does THAT feel?!"

Obviously, the part about killing the children was a lie for they'd failed to find where the evacuated children were hiding and Diablo was going to let them live anyway so the Seedrian children could grow up and the Martians could have a do-over with the Seedrians and have the war end how they wanted it to end, but Cosmo bought it all. Her knees felt wobbly and her heart felt faint. Her eyes welled up with tears and her hands began trembling. All her kind was… dead?! She was the last of her kind?! The Martians had killed them all?! Cosmo was so horrified that she fell down on her knees and wailed her heart out. Marik just smirked at her, happy to hear the Seedrian cry.

"NOOOOO!" sobbed Cosmo.

Tails felt his heart tear in two as he watched Cosmo wail for Mobius. He felt so sorry for the little Seedrian. What had she ever done to deserve THIS?! All her kind was dead and her planet was gone?! On a lighter note, that meant she'd never have to leave Mobius and she could be his forever but Tails never wanted Cosmo to lose her family, friends, all her kind and her entire planet! Tails was so angry with the Martians for hurting his love interested like this that the little fox cub snapped like a twig and he flew towards Marik in blind rage.

"YOU MONSTERS! HOW COULD YOU DO THAT TO HER?!" he screamed.

Marik just zapped Tails with his metal hand and brought him down onto the ground.

"Cosmo asked for it!" snarled Marik "All of the Seedrians asked for it so we gave them what they asked for!"

"How did they "ask for it"?!" snapped Tails "And why do you have such a grudge on Cosmo? What has she ever done to you?"

"That's none of your business Tails!" growled Marik "I do have a reason for my grudge on Cosmo but I won't waste my time explaining it to you, you won't care anyway."

"Enough pointless rambling!" bellowed Diablo "It's time to fight! Martians, ATTACK!"

With that said, all the Martians ran out of the ship and towards the Mobians. All the important Martians were there, Sycranna, the twins Dranzer & Obelisk, Mercury, Myra, Count Nyder and even Zarondight. They all charged into battle, ready to smash the Royal Fighters to bits. The Royal Fighters prepared to do battle too.

"Here we go Royal Fighters, the fight to strive off yet ANOTHER alien invasion begins!" cried Sally "Royal Fighters, attack and don't hold back!"

"Whoo-yeah, that's my kind of talk!" cheered Sonic as he zoomed towards Diablo.

With that said, the Royal Fighters all ran into battle with the Martians and they all started picking and choosing opponents as the battle commenced. Sonic decided to go for the head man. He ran towards Diablo and began circling him. Diablo managed to guess that this Mobian was Sonic given Marik had shown him a picture of Sonic once and he remembered his appearance from the picture. That and he was moving very fast. Sonic stopped running around the Grand Warlord and he spin-dashed Diablo in the armour but he just bounced harmlessly off of it. Sonic skidded across the grass and he gritted his teeth at the hulking leader of the Martians.

"Your armour's pretty tough, let's just see how many times I can spin-dash it before I put a ding or two in it!" yelled Sonic.

"You're wasting your time hedgehog." gloated Diablo as Sonic spin-dashed him again only to ping off of his armour harmlessly "My armour can withstand rockets! Your spinning attacks are useless against me!"

"OK then, if I can't ding your armour, I'll just go for a headshot!" jeered Sonic.

He spin-dashed Diablo directly in the head and made him stagger backwards. Diablo gripped his head and he grunted furiously. He drew out his mace and attempted to smash Sonic with it but Sonic dodged him, causing him to hit the ground instead.

"Ooooh, you got a mace! Awesome, I don't often fight guys with maces!" laughed Sonic.

"Are you usually this annoying?!" growled Diablo.

"Well, maybe. Depends on your definition of "annoying"." sneered Sonic, kicking Diablo as hard as he could in the face "That one's for Cosmo by the way!"

Diablo shook off the pain in his face and he tried to wallop Sonic again but Sonic dodged his attack. Sonic spin-dashed towards Diablo but Diablo punched him away with a powerful fist. Sonic hurled backwards across the field and he landed with a heavy thud on the ground. Sonic grunted and he rubbed himself better. He picked himself up and charged back towards Diablo.

As for the Royal Fighters and the Martians, they were all fighting each other and various soldiers had picked certain enemies to battle. Sally, Nicole, Team Chaotix, Team Nekronopolis, Team Adabat and Team Megapolis (sans the disabled Thomas Tiger of course, he's still with the cannons) were all attacking the standard Martian soldiers whereas Team Mobotropolis were fighting off the big boys. Amy Cream and Cosmo were teaming up on Natasha, Tails was fighting Marik, Knuckles and Shade went for Dranzer and Obelisk respectively, Silver and Blaze were against Mercury (she knew they were Silver and Blaze because Marik had described them to her and they matched his descriptions so she's fighting them to avenge Count Drago), Count Nyder (whom has an eye patch over his left eye to cover his now missing eye, a punishment inflicted on him by Sycranna for disobeying Diablo's orders), was against Wilson and Mandy, Sierra and Geoffrey St. John were in a crossbow battle, Bunnie Rabbot had chosen to fight the silent Zarondight, Ruben was against Sycranna and Myra was against Shadow and Rouge. The whole battle was getting colossal and hectic already and it had only just really begun.

Tails tail-whipped Marik as hard as he could but Marik took the attack no problem and he punched Tails in the face with his metal hand. Tails gripped his face in pain, giving Marik time to elbow-thrust Tails on the head and knock him down onto the ground. He then grabbed Tails by the scruff of his neck and gave him a powerful electrical shock. Tails screamed in pain as he was electrocuted by Marik and the sinister Martian threw him backwards across the battlefield. Tails skidded across the grass on his back but he was quickly back on his feet and he flew straight into Marik with his fists stretched out (it's like a flying punch really). Tails' fists socked Marik directly in the face and knocked him over but that didn't stop the furious fox. He grabbed Marik by the collar of his jacket and he threw Marik directly into the ship. Marik landed with a clunk on the ship and Tails flew towards him.

"For Cosmo's sake, I'll see you defeated Marik!" cried Tails.

Marik decided not to give him a retort since nowadays, mid-battle banter was lost on him. Gloating, boasting and crowing hadn't done him a bit of good all the time he was on Mobius before leaving so why bother now? Marik leaped up and kung-fu kicked Tails down onto the ship before he could touch him. Tails landed down on the thick, hard steel of the Martian ship and the two ended up getting into a fist fight on top of the huge vessel.

Team Rose weren't doing a bit of good against Natasha at all. The Grand War Mistress was far too skilled and agile for the girls to land a good blow on. Amy kept trying to whack Natasha with her hammer but she dodged every blow with ease and just walloped Amy with her spiked nunchakus. Cream tried to tackle Natasha but she dodged the attacks and elbowed Cream down onto the ground. Cosmo didn't even dare go near Natasha, she'd be no good against her! Amy walloped the ground again with her hammer as she tried and failed to hit Natasha.

"So who are you then ugly?!" asked Amy.

"Look who's talking." sneered Natasha "You're a ghastly sight for some yourself pinkie. I mean that dress, what self-respecting woman would prat around in that mistake of fashion?"

"Quit commenting on my clothes and answer my question!" retorted

Amy, trying to hammer Natasha again only to miss the agile Martian.

"The name's Natasha freak." said Natasha smoothly, kicking Amy in the gut "And I'm Marik's mother. My son's told me some very nasty stories about you freaks. Something about crippling his hand?"

She then kicked Amy in the head.

"So as you can imagine, I'm not very happy about that." continued Natasha "I'll have to cripple YOUR hand to see how YOU like it!"

"Don't touch Miss Rose!" squealed Cream, trying to punch Natasha only to get elbowed in the eye by the Grand War Mistress.

Amy could see that Natasha was too swift for them so she, Cream and Cosmo decided to use their team move, the Twirling-Hammer Batter (Amy STILL needs a better name for that attack!). Cream flew up into the air and carried Cosmo while Cosmo carried Amy and Amy held her hammer tightly. Cream spun the girls around and edged them towards Natasha…only for Natasha to jump up and kick all three of them down effortlessly. Amy, Cream and Cosmo all landed down onto the ground in a heap and Natasha stood over them triumphantly.

"Is that seriously the best you freaks have got?" she sneered "The Seedrians were more challenging then you are and they were the biggest pacifists in the galaxy!"

Amy growled in annoyance and she yet again, tried and failed to hit Natasha.

Knuckles and Shade were having a relatively even-sided tussle with the twins. Knuckles had picked Dranzer and Shade (who had her helmet already deployed) had picked Obelisk. The two Martians didn't even bother with their cannons since they didn't think they'd need them. Knuckles and Dranzer both punched each other in the face and then Dranzer gut-punched Knuckles. You can imagine a punch from a Martian wearing armour is going to hurt real bad. Knuckles retaliated by upper cutting Dranzer with both fists. The spikes on Knuckles' fists left some rather heavy scratches on Dranzer's face. Dranzer wiped the blood from the cuts and he smirked at Knuckles.

"You pack quite a punch, I like that in an opponent." he crooned.

"Thank you, there's more where these come from Martian!" yelled Knuckles.

He lunged at Dranzer but Dranzer grabbed Knuckles' fists and he slammed him down onto the ground. As for Shade and Obelisk, Shade kept Blade-Rushing Obelisk but Obelisk took the blows with relative ease and he drew out his sword. He and Shade clashed weapons with each other as heavily as they could while also trying to tag one another.

"Impressive skills woman." boomed Obelisk "Good, I was wondering if you lot were as dangerous as Marik made you out as."

"You'll regret ever coming to Mobius you monsters." said Shade coldly, Blade- Rushing Obelisk in the gut.

Obelisk doubled over but he quickly recovered and they clashed blades once again.

Ruben and Bunnie were fighting their battles back to back pretty much. Bunnie had her arm cannon deployed and kept blasting at Zarondight but the messenger Martian was way too swift for Bunnie to hit. Seeing that her cannon wasn't going to work and if she kept blasting, she'd tire out from excessive use of her robot parts, Bunnie sheathed her arm cannon and instead just decided to have a traditional fist-fight with Zarondight. He punched at Zarondight but Zarondight blocked her blows and then gut-punched her. Bunnie quickly recovered and walloped Zarondight in the face. The punch left a nasty dent on Zarondight's helmet. Ruben kept squirting water at Sycranna but Sycranna ploughed through the water as if it was nothing. All it did was make him very wet and very annoyed. Sycranna had his rapier out and he kept trying to stab Ruben with it. Ruben dodged the attack with ease and he punched Sycranna in the face. Sycranna punched him back. Ruben squirted at him again but Sycranna leaped away from Ruben and ended up standing behind Bunnie, who was grappling with Zarondight right now. Without thinking, Ruben squirted water at Sycranna and Sycranna inevitably, jumped out of the way. This caused Ruben to accidentally squirt Bunnie in the back and drench her. But that wasn't the worst part. The worst part was that Ruben's water short-circuited Bunnie's robot limbs, rendering her disabled and useless! She was stuck lying on the ground, defenceless and at the mercy of Zarondight who bared his claws and prepared to kill Bunnie. Shocked at his mistake, Ruben tried to help Bunnie but Sycranna grabbed his tail and threw him over into the ring wall around New Mobotropolis. Bunnie stared up at Zarondight helplessly as he prepared to pierce her neck with his claws. But before Zarondight could touch Bunnie, Kiara jumped in and rammed him away. She bent down and tried to help Bunnie stand up but given her short-circuited legs, she couldn't. She just fell back down onto the ground again.

"What's up? Why can't you stand Bunnie?" asked Kiara.

"Ruben accidentally drenched me and mah robot parts have short-circuited." said Bunnie grimly "Ah can't do anything now."

"I'll help you back into the city." said Kiara, scooping up Bunnie bridal style "Once this fight's over, we'll get you fixed."

Using her cheetah speed, Kiara ran quickly back into New Mobotropolis with Bunnie in hand. Sycranna and Zarondight watched as Kiara escorted Bunnie off the battlefield. Sycranna grinned evilly to himself.

"The cyborg woman's limbs malfunction when drenched in water?" he mused "That could be helpful to us…"

He was then suddenly kicked in the back of the head by a very angry Ruben.

"How dare you make me short-circuit Bunnie accidentally!" he growled "I'll drench you for that!"

Zarondight helped his friend by swatting Ruben off of Sycranna and back over into the wall. Sycranna picked himself up and the two Martians ran over to Ruben so they could finish him off together.

Over to Mercury who was shooting arrows at Silver and Blaze as furiously as possible. Silver effortlessly caught all the arrows with his psychokinesis and threw them back at Mercury. Mercury dodged the arrows before they could hit her and they caused a tremendous explosion that blasted nearby Martians and Mobians off their feet. Silver gasped in surprise at this.

"Whoa, your arrows explode on impact?!" he exclaimed.

"Only when they hit inorganic matter!" snarled Mercury "And you will get one through your heart for killing my Count Drago! We loved each other, he gave me this bow as a birthday present and we were a happy couple together and yet you two killed him! I know it's you two for Marik described you two to me and you match his descriptions! He also tells me your names are Silver and Blaze!"

"That's right." said Blaze, throwing a fireball at Mercury only to miss as Mercury dodged and fired an arrow at her. Blaze dodged the arrow and continued "And we're sorry about Drago's death OK? We didn't intentionally kill him, Silver only wanted to beat him into submission. He didn't mean to kill him."

"As if I'm gonna believe that!" growled Mercury "Now stop moving around and face your sentences!"

She fired some more arrows at Silver and Blaze but Silver used his psychokinesis to throw them back at Mercury. Mercury dodged the arrows again and continued to fire arrows at the two Mobians.

All the other battles were getting intense and didn't appear to have a particular winner. Count Nyder was holding out well against Wilson & Mandy although they were putting up the best fight, Sierra and Geoffrey St. John were so skilled that they kept shooting at each other and missing for they dodged each other while shooting at each other and Shadow & Rouge were giving Myra a run for her money. Sally, Nicole, Team Chaotix and the other Royal Fighter teams were dealing with the Martian soldiers pretty well, especially Sally and her new bo-staff weapon but the Martian soldiers were picking off the Mobian soldiers rather easily. But despite all this, the Martians and Mobians were pretty even sided so far. This battle was going to go on for a while and it had no clear winner for the moment. Sonic spin-dashed Diablo in the shoulder but Diablo took the blow and he walloped Sonic with his mace. Sonic hurled through the air and crashed into the landing leg of the Martian ship. Marik smacked Tails off the ship and sent him crashing down beside Sonic. Tails' fur was singed in places from the electrical attacks inflicted on him by Marik and he was struggling to get back up.

"Hey Tails, I don't know about you but I think Marik's dad is a bit of a handful!" grunted Sonic.

"Marik's still the same pain in the butt he was before." grunted Tails "I can barely land a blow on him."

"Well we're gonna have to keep going, we can't let the Martians win." said Sonic, picking himself up.

Then suddenly, Marik jumped down from the ship and tackled Sonic down to the ground from behind. Tails tail-whipped Marik off of Sonic but Diablo grabbed Tails by the head and threw him through the air. Tails came down with a heavy crash in the middle of the chaos with the various Martians and Mobians. Sonic fumed angrily at Diablo and he picked himself up. He spin-dashed at Diablo but again, his attacks were futile for he just bounced off of Diablo's armour.

As for Thomas Tiger, the disabled Field Marshal had an idea on how to swing this battle in the Mobian's favour. He wheeled over to one of the soldiers operating the wheeled-cannons they had brought with them for this attack.

"You there, you and your men aim the cannons at the Martian ship and open fire." ordered Thomas "Hopefully the sight of their ship under siege will make them back down."

"Yes sir." said the soldier, nodding.

All the soldiers operating the cannons lowered the barrels down until they were pointing directly at the Martian whip and then they open fired. Tumultuous blasts rocketed out from the barrels and hit the ship with impressive force, blowing holes in it and breaking the ship apart bit by bit. The tumultuous noise of the cannons blasting the ship caught the attention of everybody on the battlefield. The Martians stopped fighting the Mobians and they all stared in horror as their ship was fired upon by the cannons. The cannons were firing quite persistently on the huge ship. Martian's hull was generally quite strong, able to withstand small asteroids, but the onslaught of cannon fire began breaking dents and small holes into the tough steel of the ship. If this cannon fire persisted, the ship would be broken to pieces. The Martians weren't prepared for such an attack and if the Mobians were ruthless enough, they'd probably start blasting at them with the cannons! They had to get out of here before their ship was torn apart and they'd be unable to leave Mobius once they'd finished with it. Not to mention the ship contained various supplies that would be helpful to them in this battle so they had to get it out of here and fast. For the sake of his ship, Diablo decided to give the one command he hated giving out.

"Martians! Fall back!" he bellowed "We have to get our ship out of here before it gets destroyed!"

The Martians obeyed instantly and they all fled back into the ship. Thomas Tiger gave the order to cease firing since his plan had worked and the Martians were retreating. After all, they didn't want to KILL the Martians, they just wanted to push them out of Mobius. Killing the Martians would make them no better then them. The Martians all retreated back into the ship as fast as they could and Sycranna scrambled quickly to the pilot's seat so he could take flight. The cannons remained aiming at the ships to make the Martians flee faster and that they were going to fire again, thus tempting them to pick up the pace. Despite all the heavy cannon fire, the ship was still in working order. The ship only had a few large holes and some scorch marks in places. The damage would be easy to fix once they left and touched down in another place. Now, the Martians had to flee the place before anymore damage could be done to them. Sycranna sat down in the pilot's seat and quickly started the ship up. The ship rose up off the ground slowly and steadily and the landing legs ascended back up into the ship. The ship turned around and flew away as quickly as it could. It soared over the forests of Green Hill Zone and vanished from sight. The Mobians watched as the Martian ship flew away.

"And that takes care of them." sneered Sonic "I'm amazed they gave up so quickly."

"They haven't given up Sonic." muttered Cosmo grimly "They're falling back to save their ship and resources. They'll come back for more once the ship's repaired and they're prepared for a better attack."

"Well that bites." murmured Sonic "And the Martians are really tough too. This is going to be one long battle and chances are, they won't be so easy to scare off the next time. So Sal, what do we do now?"

"We fall back into the safety of the city for now and wait until the Martians attack again." said Sally "We're off to a good start already, let us hope we can keep it up once they attack again."

With that said, the Mobians all fell back into New Mobotropolis, the cannons remaining where they are for they were too big to fit through the city gates. The Martians had fled the battle and the Mobians had won so far but this victory wasn't to last for the Martians weren't going to give up so easily. This battle was only just beginning, the Mobians had been given a taster of the Martians and soon they were going to bear witness to their true wrath…

Story 127: Divide and Conquer Part 1: A Frigid Encounter

The Martian ship soared over the plains of Megapolis and it touched down in the middle of nowhere. It was miles away from the Northern Border so the hiding Dr. Eggman wouldn't pick them up on his monitors or see the ship above the surface. The ship's landing legs deployed and it touched down onto the sandy, rocky ground with a hiss as the legs touched down and the weight of the ship rested atop them like a plank of wood resting atop four upright poles. The moment the ship touched down, some Martian workers ran outside to fix the damages done to it by the cannon attacks earlier. They carried new armour panels on to the roof of the ship and using welding tools, they laid them down over the holes and welded them into place. As for the Martian warriors, Diablo was pacing up and down while the main Martians in the army all stood together in a line. Diablo clearly didn't seem pretty happy with this relatively embarrassing retreat of theirs.

"This is unacceptable!" roared Diablo "We've barely been on Mobius for more then a few minutes and already, we've retreated! Ugh, that element of surprise of theirs has already given them the advantage over us! Curse Silver and Blaze for coming to the present and squealing about us to their friends!"

"We should have known they would do that!" grumbled Marik furiously "So why didn't we?"

"Nobody's perfect Marik dear." said Natasha softly "Even we Martians are capable of making mistakes. And any mistake we make, we act off of. Mistakes build up to future success after all."

"I agree on that mommy." said Sierra.

"You are indeed right Natasha." said Diablo "But if we're to defeat those Mobians, were going to have to devise some tactics that are guaranteed to bring them down. We already know that New Mobotropolis is shielded thanks to Marik and the city is heavily guarded. We can take down those cannons easily with the tanks but they won't penetrate a force field. We all know what happened when they were faced with a force field that shielded the Seedrian palace*."

The Martians all nodded agreeably as they remembered their ill-fated attempt to storm the Seedrian palace before Count Nyder blew up the planet.

"And knowing the Mobians, they'll be cowards and hide behind their shielded city while they let their cannons take our ship down should we try and attack." muttered Diablo "And even if we stop the cannons, we won't be able to break in. We'll find a way to get inside I assure you but I'd rather get the Mobians to come out and fight us man-to-man. How can we get them to leave the safety of their city and make them vulnerable I wonder?"

The Martians all thought for a moment on that pressing matter. It was indeed a good point. How could they get the Mobians out of New Mobotropolis, pick them off easily and bring down their forces so they could get an easy victory? If they could get the Royal Fighters away from New Mobotropolis, it would make it easier for them to find a way to break inside the city for there wouldn't be anybody to interfere with them as they investigated the city for a weak point and a way inside. The Martians racked their brains and wondered on how they Marik then suddenly had a brilliant idea. An absolutely brilliant and fantastic idea. An idea so brilliant and fantastic that it just might be the Martian's winning card before the war can really begin. Marik's face widened into a grin that just dripped with evil.

"Hallelujah! I've got it!" cried Marik, leaping a foot into the air and cheering madly.

"Please for the love of Tyrahko, don't do that Marik!" snapped Diablo "And don't say "Hallelujah!", we sound like idiots when we say that!"

"Sorry dad." said Marik "It's just…I have a cunning plan. A VERY cunning plan."

"Oh Marik, you wonderful boy! You've got an idea! Let's hear it honey." said Natasha excitedly.

"How about we "divide and conquer"?" asked Marik "Divide our resources over the regions of Mobians and tempt the Royal Fighters to come out and fight each and everyone of us. They'll be forced to split up and fight each Martian so we can pick them off one by one. The remaining Martians can work on bringing down their defences and picking off any Royal Fighters still at home."

"Marik, that's a brilliant idea." complimented Dranzer, the blue-armoured Martian twin "We're bound to defeat the Mobians that way."

"But who's going to the different regions of Mobius?" asked Obelisk, the green-armoured Martian twin "And who's staying behind?"

"Everybody except Count Nyder will be part of the "divide and conquer" scheme." announced Diablo "Nyder will stay here and find a way into New Mobotropolis. And maybe find out the location of those Chaos Emeralds you've told me about Marik."

"Good idea dad." said Marik.

Nyder looked disappointed. He immediately began protesting.

"I'm staying behind?!" gasped Nyder "But sir, I wish to be part of the divide and conquer scheme! Please, allow me to go out there and terminate Mobians! Consider it me trying to redeem myself for what I did back on Greengate…"

"You are to remain on the ship while the others go out into this world and that's final!" snarled Diablo "Unless, you want Sycranna to tear your other eye out!"

Nyder gulped and he looked over at Sycranna, the Grand Pilot raising his long, slender claws menacingly as if to say "Remember what I did to you before?" As part of his punishment for disobeying Diablo's orders, Nyder had had his left eye ripped out of its socket by Sycranna and now he had an eye patch to cover the missing eye. Nyder stroked his eye patch and shivered heavily. He did not want to get punished again.

"N-n-no sir." said Nyder "I shall take my post and live with it."

"Good." said Diablo "Besides, you're doing the most important job which is breaking and entering their territory. That's more then enough to help you redeem yourself."

"And don't worry about the entering part, I can help with that." said Marik.

He reached into his pocket and pulled out the last remaining Chaos Cluster fragment he had stolen from Dr. Eggman and used to escape the Devatrons.

"This is a fragment of a Chaos Emerald and you'll be able to use it to teleport into their city." explained Marik "You'll bring them down easily once you warp inside the city."

Count Nyder was well impressed at that. He looked at the glorious cluster fragment in amazement.

"Marik, you're our winning ticket in this war." said Nyder brightly.

"Thank you Nyder." said Marik "Before you do that though, I'll use this to open up a portal to a random place on Mobius and thus, the Martians can divide up and begin the divide and conquer scheme."

"Very well." said Diablo "So, how are we splitting up then Martians?"

"I'll go with a squadron of soldiers." announced Dranzer.

"Me and Mercury will go someplace together." decided Natasha.

"I'll go someplace and I'm taking Obelisk with me." said Sycranna.

"I'll go with Sycranna as he insists." boomed Obelisk "And we're taking a tank and some soldiers with us.

"Me and Sierra will go together and we'll take a squadron and a tank with us." said Marik.

"Yay! I get to go with my big brother!" cheered Sierra.

"I'll go alone since I don't need anybody." said Myra "I'm quite capable on my own."

"I'll go and take a squadron and TWO tanks with me." announced Diablo "And Zarondight can go on his own and take a saucer full of supplies to set up traps for any Mobian he ends up against. After all, he is an expert trap-setter."

"All this sounds very good indeed." said Natasha "And quite fair too. There'll be enough soldiers left for Nyder and he'll have a tank or two on his side for we're not taking them all."

"This plan is going to work to perfection." crooned Count Nyder "And we'll have Marik to thank for it."

"Thank you, I'll happily take credit for our inevitable victories." crowed Marik conceitedly "Now then, it's time to divide and conquer!"

With that said, the Martians all ran off to prepare their decided attack squads for the plan. Once they split up and started drawing the Royal Fighters out, things were going to get very hectic indeed. Mobius was about to bear witness to the Martians true wrath once the plan commenced…

"Try it now Bunnie." said Tails as he tightened one last bolt on Bunnie Rabbot's roboticized leg.

Bunnie, who was sitting up on a bench in Royal HQ's laboratory, twitched her foot a little and then starting bending her leg back and forth. Once the Martians had retreated, the Mobians had all fallen back into the sanctuary of their home city, NewMobotropolis. Tails had made it his first priority to fix Bunnie's short-circuited limbs. He had given Bunnie's limbs more then just a fix though. He had taken the metal casings off completely and replaced them with waterproof metal so that Ruben wouldn't be able to short-circuit her by accident ever again and she'd also be able to go into water without a problem (although she isn't a good swimmer anyway). Bunnie flexed her new waterproof limbs (don't envision her with different looking robot legs and left robot arm, they still have the same design it's just that they're waterproof now) and she beamed like a sunrise. She hopped off the bench and started walking around the room. Her new limbs worked to perfection. It was as if she'd never been short-circuited in the first place.

"Oh mah stars! They work beautifully Tails!" squealed Bunnie happily. "Thank ya'll so much for upgradin' them!" she added, grasping Tails into a grateful cuddle.

"Ah, heh, heh, heh. You're welcome Bunnie." said Tails modestly.

"I'm so sorry I accidentally squirted you on the battlefield Bunnie." said a very sad and down-hearted looking Ruben "I should have thought twice before trying to get that Martian standing behind you."

You see, Ruben's not used to making mistakes and will often get sad when he makes one. He doesn't take failing lightly after all, a trait that his mother had tried to get him out of before she was tragically killed off by Zira the Ruthless six years ago.

"Oh Ruben, please don't be so down-hearted about yerself." said Bunnie, patting him on the head affectionately "Everybody makes mistakes, even the best of us. Although your little mistake has given me mah new robot limbs that'll never short-circuit in water again so it was kinda good that you did squirt me. It was a sign that ah needed an upgrade pretty much."

That little statement made Ruben feel a little better. His face turned up into a smile.

"Aw…thanks Bunnie. I feel much better now." said Ruben "Now you have waterproof limbs, it means I can't make the same mistake twice."

"It sure does sugah." said Bunnie with a wink "We make mistakes and we work on them, that's what makes us truly Mobian in nature."

"I agree on that." said Ruben brightly "My mother often told me that the one thing that makes us what we are is that neither of us are perfect and that we all have flaws big and small. We may want to be perfect but in the end, we're perfect just the way we are."

"Yer ma sure is smart Ruben." said Bunnie "Cause she's so right on that."

"Yeah, if only she were still alive…" murmured Ruben as memories of his clan's demise came back to haunt him again. As far as Ruben was concerned, no matter how long he lived, he'd never truly get over the demise of his clan.

"Ah'm sure yer mom would be very proud of ya Ruben." said Bunnie sympathetically "Now then, shall we see how everybody's doin' in the rest room?"

"Sure." said Ruben brightly "I'd love to see how everybody's doing."

But before they could go anywhere, Tails stopped them dead in their tracks. He had spotted something on the computer monitors and was convinced it wasn't something good. The screen was full of info boxes telling them that the Royal Fighters were receiving incoming messages. Something was going on and Tails could feel his stomach tighten as he dared to think on what the messages were about. Were they from the Martians? Possible since Marik knew where they were and would likely have informed his parents about their whereabouts and thus, they'd be able to send them a message. Or perhaps they were something else entirely. Tails wasn't going to know until he looked at them.

"Hold on a minute you two, we've got incoming messages." said Tails "I dread to think what they are though."

"I hope they aren't Martians, who knows what they'd have to say to us." muttered Ruben.

"Ah don't think they'll be from the Martians, what would those scoundrels wanna send us a message for?" asked Bunnie in wonder.

"Well I'm just about to find out who's sending them." said Tails.

Tails sat down to the computer monitors and looked at the messages. They weren't voice messages or anything, they were written messages much like a comment left on Facebook or DeviantArt or even a text message on a mobile phone. And the messages came from seven different locations all over Mobius. Tails' heart skipped a beat as he saw where each message was from. One message was form Holoska, a snowy place much like the Earth state of Alaska in the USA, one was from Grand Metropolis, one was from a place near Black Acropolis, the land of obsidian that Sonic, Tails, Amy and the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters barely lived through, one was from RailCanyon, one was from Soleanna, one was from Kingdom Valley and one was from Megapolis. All the messages were urgent cries for help and they were all about the same thing: The places were under attack from strange beings the people had never seen before. The residents of each place had sent the messages in hopes of getting the Royal Fighters involved with this madness. Tails almost fainted at the urgency of the messages and what they were about. Seven different locations all over Mobius were under attack from some strange creature and it was obvious what they were referring to: the Martians! But why? Why would they suddenly split up and attack seven different places on Mobius? It didn't make a lick of sense to Tails but the Royal Fighters couldn't ignore a call for help. Seven calls for help in this case. Tails got up from his seat and charged out of the laboratory faster then anyone could say "Bob's your uncle". Ruben and Bunnie had a feeling that Tails' reaction was to a serious matter and that something bad was going on so they ran out after him to see what had startled the little fox so badly. Tails ran down the corridors and all the way to the rest room where all the others were. Everybody was in this room, including the other Royal Fighter teams. They were all sitting around and talking more than anything though save for Queen Sally Acorn who was doing more staff training (and had given herself bruises galore given how many times she had accidentally smacked herself with the staff. She is learning after all). Tails burst into the room, much to the surprise of everybody in it, and he skidded to a halt just in front of Sally as she twirled the staff around. Sonic leaped up from his chair and wandered over to Tails to see what was wrong.

"Tails, buddy, what the heck's the matter?!" blurted Sonic "You look like someone just set fire to your tails!"

"You're not gonna believe this everybody!" shrieked Tails "The Martians have split-up and are attacking seven different places all over Mobius!"

That earned a chorus of gasps from all the Royal Fighters in the room. Sally in particular was shocked to hear all this.

"Are…are you quite sure Tails?" said Sally hoarsely.

"Positive!" blurted Tails "The computers in the lab received seven messages coming from seven different locations all over the world! They came from Holoska, Grand Metropolis, Black Acropolis, RailCanyon, Soleanna, KingdomValley and Megapolis! They're all under attack from the Martians! We've gotta stop them and fast!"

The Royal Fighters all mused to one another in wonder.

"This doesn't make a lick of sense at all." said the Royal Fighter tomboy Mandy Mouse "Why would those freaks invade Mobius, give us a big battle, flee because their ship's under siege and then suddenly divide their forces and attack random areas all over the world?"

"It's all part of their conquest I bet." said her husband, Wilson the Dog "After all, that's what conquest is isn't it? Take over the world? That means attack everywhere to ensure you conquer the world?"

"Wilson has a point mates." said Geoffrey St. John "But we ain't gonna let them blighters attack innocents and destroy valuable locations! We've got to stop them all!"

"But we can't stop seven different attacks all happening simultaneously!" shrieked Nicole in alarm "Not even Sonic can be in two places at once!"

"Indeed Nicole, which is why we're going to do what they're doing." said Sally "We're going to divide our sources and stop them. We maybe weakened for we won't be all together but we will do what it takes to save those places under siege."

"They do say "united we stand, divided we fall" but we're not gonna fall to the Martians, no siree!" declared Sonic "United or divided, we will stop them!"

"But we can't all go, who's going to defend New Mobotropolis?" noted Miranda Mongoose "I mean, what if the Martians haven't all gone to those locations and there's some left behind waiting to ambush us? I have a feeling the Martians have made sure there's some men left behind to attack NewMobotropolis as it's an important city for them to attack."

"I thought of that too Miranda." said Sally "Which is why I've decided to divide the Royal Fighters as follows: Sonic & Tails will go to Holoska, Wilson and Mandy will handle the Martians in Grand Metropolis, Knuckles and Shade will go to Black Acropolis, Bunnie, Geoffrey & Ruben will go to Rail Canyon, Silver & Blaze will deal with the Martians in Soleanna ,Amy, Cream & Cosmo will be sent to Kingdom Valley and Shadow and Rouge will be the ones to go to Megapolis. The rest of us will stay here and defend NewMobotropolis."

"Sounds good Sally-girl but do ya'll think we'll handle the Martians like that with us so divided and spread out?" asked Bunnie "Ah mean, we could be fightin' hundreds of Martians and in each place there's only two or three of us to do the fightin' due to the way you split us up."

"Come on Bunnie, we beat the Devatrons, our strongest enemies yet, the Martians will be nothing compared to them." put in Geoffrey, putting a hand on Bunnie's shoulder "We can handle those blokes."

"Ah'm sure we can sugah but it's just…" began Bunnie.

"Bunnie, there maybe a lot of Martians out there but I'm putting my faith in the heroes that I KNOW will stop a threat like this." said Sally reassuringly "I wouldn't spread you so thin if I didn't have any faith in any of you. When you encounter the Martians in your designated area, just focus on nothing but taking them down and should you need back-up, give us a call and we'll send reinforcements."

"That makes me feel a lot better." said Bunnie with her organic hand over her chest "Thanks sugah."

"Anytime." said Sally happily "Silver, you still got your Super Warp Ring?" she then asked the silver furred hedgehog "We'll need it to transport the designated Royal Fighters to their respective locations."

"Sure thing your majesty." said Silver, fishing the warp ring out and twirling it around his finger.

"We'll use that to transport everybody to their respective destinations." explained Sally "And when they want to come back, I'll open up the warp ring and welcome our fighters back into Royal HQ. I'll keep the warp ring safe for Silver and Blaze as they go to their destination and I'll be the one to bring them back into Royal HQ when their mission's complete. Sonic and Tails will deploy first so open up the warp ring to Holoska Silver." she ordered.

"Just a secy Silver." said Sonic quickly before Silver could move a muscle "Me and Tails will need to warp up warmly, it's cold over in Holoska."

With that said, Sonic zipped off and in two seconds flat, came back with a pair of coats and a scarf each for himself and Tails (he IS fast after all). Sonic and Tails put on their coats and scarves and they buttoned the coats up to their chins. They'd be toasty warm over in Holoska with those big, thick coats. Sally walked up to the two and she put a hand each on Sonic and Tails' shoulders.

"You two be careful out there." she said, giving Sonic and Tails a big hug "We do not want to lose our best members."

"We'll be careful Queenie." said Sonic casually, hugging Sally back along with Tails "We'll be back before dinner, don't you worry. I know I'm gonna be fine since I've got Tails to back me up in this mission."

"Same to you Sonic." said Tails with a thumbs up to his best friend.

Then suddenly, somebody threw her arms around Tails and grasped him into a surprised hug. It was Cosmo. Cosmo was giving Tails a big farewell hug.

"Please come back safely Tails." begged Cosmo "I've lost my family, my friends, everybody on my planet. I don't want to lose my best friend on Mobius too."

"Oh Cosmo, I'll come back, you know I will." said Tails, stroking the Seedrian's face affectionately "And I promise you with all my heart that I'll make the Martians pay for wiping out your kind and making you the last. I promise."

"I don't want you to get revenge on them Tails, revenge is wrong and it's unhealthy." said Cosmo "I just want you to stop those monsters from bringing the same ruination to your world as they did mine."

"OK then, I promise you that." said Tails, giving Cosmo a peck on the cheek without her realizing it "Those Martians will be outta here before you know it."

Cosmo beamed happily at Tails' words. Sonic smiled at Tails too. He was impressed with how heart-felt the fox could be.

"That was beautiful Tails." said Sonic "Well Sally, we'll be off now. Goodbye for the moment."

"Goodbye for now." said Sally with an expression fit for a farewell scenario "And please, save Holoska from the Martians there."

"You got it." said Sonic "Sayonara guys and gals! We'll be back soon!"

"Goodbye Sonic." said everybody in the room.

With that said, Silver opened up the warp ring to Holoska and Sonic and Tails gracefully charged through the warp ring like a trained tiger leaping through a blazing ring of fire. After they went through the warp ring, it vanished behind them and they landed feet first in a heap of snow. The warmth of Royal HQ was quickly chased away by the bitter cold that swept over them the moment they entered Holoska through the warp ring. The wind was howling loudly and blowing callously and the snow was falling heavily. There was nothing but snow all around for Holoska was the place on Mobius that's always snowing. Sonic and Tails raised the hoods to their coats over their heads to keep the cold and snow off their heads.

"Brrr…I always did hate the cold." muttered Sonic "I do hope we don't encounter Blizzard the Hedgehog while we're here too. Mind you, she's in White Acropolis and this is Holoska, thousands of miles from White Acropolis so we shouldn't run into her here."

"I think I'd rather run into her then a Martian though." muttered Tails "She was nowhere near as scary or as powerful. So where do you think the Martians might be then?"

"Likely the local village." suggested Sonic "I don't know where it is though so we'll split up and look for it. Should I find it, I'll call you on my wrist-mounted communicator and guide you to it and you do the same should you find it."

"It's a good thing we all had these installed after the Raiju Clan was defeated." said Tails "They're gonna help us a lot should we need to make long ranged communications. You be careful Sonic."

"You be careful out there too Tails." said Sonic "See you later."

With that said, Sonic ran off as fast as his legs would carry him, snow flying into the air in great chunks as he ran off to look for the local Holoska village. Tails twisted his namesakes around one another and took off like a helicopter. He flew off through the snowy plains of Holoska, keeping his hood over his head and trying to make sure that the snow didn't splatter in his face as he flew. After all, going fast in a snowstorm guarantees your vision being blurred by snow falling into your eyes. Tails cupped his hands over his eyes to shelter them from the snow and he looked around for the local village of Holoska.

"Hmm…it would have been convenient of us if we'd brought a map." mused Tails as the snowfall got heavier…

Over at the village of Holoska, Dranzer and his squadron of soldiers blasted the last hut to pieces with their cannons. Dranzer had been the one to go to Holoska (the locations were picked at random so Dranzer could have ended up anywhere) and he had decided to stir things up and catch Royal Fighter attentions by destroying the village of Holoska and scaring off the locals or killing them if necessary. Dranzer had killed a few just for sport but he'd let most of them go so they could stir up enough worry and send the message to the Royal Fighters. After all, a dead man can't send a message. The entire village, which consisted of wooden huts for various functions such as homes, shops and other facilities, had been reduced to timber and splinters in a matter of minutes with all the attacking Martians. The whole experience had delighted Dranzer greatly and he was grinning maniacally to himself.

"That was a lot of fun." he sneered "Makes trudging through this frigid wasteland worth it. Hopefully that'll bring the attention of some Royal Fighters and I can pick them off one by one."

"I can't wait to hear from the others." said a Martian who was dressed completely in a black body-suit with bits of armour in places and wore a black helmet with a large visor "I bet they'll all have good news to tell us and I wonder whom they'll be killing?"

"I wonder whom I'LL be killing." chortled Dranzer wickedly "I do hope I'm the one to crush Sonic the Hedgehog though, that'll bring me the biggest ounce of honour I could ever hope to grasp in my entire career. I know who I'm looking for since Marik showed us a picture of Sonic and I remember the names of his friends that he's described to me. So I'll easily know who I'm going to kill should any Royal Fighter come my way."

"I'm sure the Royal Fighters will respond." said the Martian in black "I saw a citizen tapping away on a computer and it looked like he was sending a message for he was muttering "Must call the Royal Fighters!" to himself as he tapped away. That and his expression was rather frantic."

"So somebody's managed to send the Royal Fighters the message." sneered Dranzer "Good, that means some scrawny Mobian or maybe a whole squadron of Mobians will come over here and come to their doom."

"How long we'll wait is anyone's guess." sighed the Martian in black "But we'll wait, it's the only way we'll get a Royal Fighter to terminate."

"Dranzer! Dranzer!" screeched another Martian who was a female Martian in a skin tight black bodysuit and wearing pieces of armour on her shoulders, lower arms and chest "There's a twin-tailed creature down at the bottom of the hill! I think it's a Royal Fighter!"

"Twin-tailed creature…?" mused Dranzer.

That sounded familiar. Marik had described such a creature to him. Maybe this was a sign the Royal Fighters had sent out some members and thus, the divide and conquer scheme could begin! Dranzer ran over to the edge of the hilltop that they were standing upon (the village is up a high hill) and he looked over the edge to see what was down at the bottom. To his surprise, he saw Tails down at the bottom, flying around and looking for the village. He looked visibly tired too and he touched down onto the ground to rest. As he touched down, he looked around to see if the village was nearby. Dranzer grinned to himself as he saw Tails.

"I know who that is." he purred to himself "Marik described to us a twin-tailed fox creature named Tails who has the unnatural but gifted ability to fly with his twin-tailed appendages and is the best friend of Sonic the Hedgehog. Marik tells me that if he's around, Sonic's likely not far behind."

"So what do we do sir?" asked the female soldier "Do we kill him first and wait for Sonic to find his corpse and then kill him too?"

"No Tori." said Dranzer "We capture the fox and use him to draw out Sonic. Lance, the net-gun please." he said to the black-suited Martian standing next to him without even looking at him.

Lance obeyed, albeit with a puzzled look on his face behind his helmet. He ran over to the chest of weapons which the squad had brought with them and he pulled out three compartments that set up the net-gun. He assembled the net-gun by clipping the respective parts together and he ran back over to Dranzer with it. The gun was loaded with its only net. Lance handed the gun over to Dranzer and Dranzer primed it. He aimed it down at Tails.

"But sir, that thing's only got one net. You'll have to get a perfect shot if you wanna get it right first time." said Tori, the female soldier with Dranzer.

"Then I'll MAKE it perfect." hissed Dranzer, his finger curling over the trigger.

He had the net-gun aimed squarely at Tails and the fox was showing no signs of getting ready to move or anything. There was no way he could possibly miss this shot. Dranzer smiled icily (funny he should smile like that for he's in icy cold weather) to himself and he pulled the trigger. The gun blasted a huge, metal wire net out of its barrel and it sailed towards Tails. The net snagged Tails and covered him up like a sheet of cling film being wrapped around yesterday's leftovers. It was like shooting a hand out of a cannon and said hand grabbing whatever it was being shot at. Tails was wrapped up in the net and the terrified fox began squirming madly in the grasp of the net. He was very frightened. He was trapped and Sonic was nowhere to be seen so he couldn't call him for help. Dranzer cackled madly and he jumped down from the hill (which is twenty-four feet high by the way!). He landed down onto the snow down below and strode over to his captive. Tails looked up at Dranzer and his eyes widened at the sight of him. He gasped in horror as Dranzer smirked at him.

"Got you little fox." sneered Dranzer "Now you'll be used as bait to draw Sonic out and make him surrender."

"Sonic will never surrender to you!" cried Tails "Now you let me outta this net right now or you'll be very sorry!"

"Now where would the logic in releasing a prisoner just after I've caught one be?" snorted Dranzer "You're staying in there…until I have no further use for you." he added in a very dark, slithering tone of voice.

Tails gulped nervously. He knew what Dranzer meant by that. Dranzer then picked up the net that Tails was trapped in and he glowered at Tails.

"So Tails. Where is Sonic?" asked Dranzer coldly.

"How d-d-do y-y-you kn-kn-know my n-n-name?" shivered Tails (and it's not because of the cold).

"Marik described each and every one of Sonic's friends to us." explained Dranzer "He told all us Martians your names and appearances and even your attributes so I know who you are little fox. Now, where's Sonic?"

"P-p-please d-d-don't th-think I'm l-l-lying b-b-but I don't know w-w-where he is." said Tails timidly "W-w-w-we sp-sp-split up t-t-to f-f-find the village of H-H-Holoska."

"Well the village is already destroyed so you're a bit late." crowed Dranzer "And if you don't know where Sonic is then we'll wait for him. Or…"

He narrowed his gaze at Tails.

"Do you have any method of communication at all?" asked Dranzer in a low, rumbling tone of voice "Maybe a wrist-mounted communicator or something?"

"Y-y-yes." said Tails feebly.

"Then contact Sonic and bring him to me." ordered Dranzer.

"No!" snapped Tails, trying to be brave "I'm not gonna let you kill Sonic!"

Dranzer growled at Tails, the fox whimpering in fear as his growls rumbled through his ears ominously like a low, ominous tiger growl.

"Then I shall do it myself." he snarled.

He reached two fingers into the net and pulled Tails' glove down, revealing the communicator he was wearing underneath. Dranzer gripped it with his finger and thumb and he yanked it off Tails' wrist. He switched it on and spoke into it.

"Sonic the Hedgehog, this is the Martian who is attacking this place, do you read me?" asked Dranzer.

Sonic, who was still running around looking for the village of Holoska, stopped running and he looked at his wrist. He could feel the communicator vibrating as Dranzer attempted to contact him. He switched his communicator on and answered it.

"Tails, what's up bro?" asked Sonic.

"You are mistaken Sonic the Hedgehog." purred Dranzer's deep, commanding voice from the other side of the communicator "I am the Martian attacking this place. My name is Dranzer, Squadron Leader of the Martian fleet, and I am calling you through your friend's communication's device so that I may reveal to you my precise coordinates."

Sonic's blood ran colder then the snowstorm blowing in his face.

"You creep, if you've hurt Tails then so help me I'm gonna…" growled Sonic.

"Curb your anger and listen carefully." snapped Dranzer "I will tell you only once my coordinates. I am at the bottom of a huge hill and at the top of the hill stands the destroyed village of Holoska."

"The village is destroyed?!" blurted Sonic "That's it, you're going down Dranzer! I'll be there, just you wait!"

"I already am." purred Dranzer.

Then he switched the communicator off. Sonic switched his off and ran off in search of Dranzer. He couldn't understand why Dranzer was blatantly telling him where he was. Was he begging for Sonic to stop him or something? Or was he luring Sonic into a trap? Regardless, Sonic would be too fast for the trap to catch him so falling for it wasn't going to do much harm for him. He just hoped that Tails was OK…

A short while later, Dranzer had set up an ambush for Sonic. He and his squadron were standing ready for the hedgehog's arrival while Lance and Tori were hiding. Lance was up at the top of the hill with a bazooka in hand. Tori was hiding behind some snow-covered rocks and was armed with a bazooka too. Once Dranzer gave the signal, they would leap out of their hiding places and blast Sonic to smithereens with a rocket from their bazookas. Tails was still trapped in the net and he was sitting on the snow-covered ground next to Dranzer. The snow-storm was beginning to die down a little so the snow would be less of an interference. Dranzer waited and waited for his victim to show up. Dranzer was one of the most patient Martians in the army. He had been known to sit around waiting for hours just for his victims to arrive before he would blast them with his deadly cannon. Tails was a bit worried by Dranzer's ominous and patient waiting. An enemy this clam usually means that it's going to be more dangerous then an enemy who's usually very violent or something. And judging by how eerily calm and patient Dranzer was, he was likely going to be a VERY dangerous enemy. Dranzer kept his yellow eyes fixed ahead of him as he waited for Sonic to arrive. It was like waiting for a VERY important parcel delivery only there wouldn't be a postman with a package coming to him, it would be Sonic the Hedgehog coming straight to him. And finally, after waiting for what seemed like forever to Dranzer, Sonic arrived onto the scene, sending chunks of snow hurling into the air as he zoomed through it. It had taken Sonic a while to find Dranzer due to the fact Dranzer wasn't every specific on where he was (he could have been at the bottom of any hill since Holoska has lots of them) but he'd found him at last. Sonic screeched to a halt, sending snow flying at Dranzer's feet. Dranzer didn't even flinch, he just stood there ever so calmly with his face as stoic as the darkest of people.

"Sonic the Hedgehog." boomed Dranzer "I will request, only once, that you surrender yourself to the Martians."

"Oh yeah? And who's gonna make me?" snorted Sonic "You've destroyed a village and you've kidnapped my best friend. That kind of behaviour to me is an invitation for a butt-kicking Dranzer!"

"If you do not surrender yourself obstinate one…" said Dranzer coldly "Then I will terminate your friend."

The Martian soldiers standing behind him drew out some guns and they pointed them at the netted up Tails. Tails whimpered in fear as the guns were pointed at him. Sonic gasped but he quickly turned his attention back to Dranzer.

"Nice try Dranzer." sniffed Sonic "But I can see your little plot a mile away. If I stand down, you'll kill us anyway."

"I give you my word that no harm shall come to either of you if you stand down." lied Dranzer "After all, Diablo gave me strict orders to ONLY capture you. He will decide your fate once we get back to the ship."

"Sonic, please don't! It's a trap!" cried Tails.

"Silence!" snapped Dranzer, gritting his teeth at Tails "So Sonic, do you stand down?"

"No." said Sonic "I'm still not entirely convinced here. Now let Tails go before I use your face as my new doormat!"

"You surrender or he dies!" roared Dranzer "Simple as that!"

The Martian soldiers curled their fingers around the triggers to their guns and they prepared to blast Tails' head off. Tails grew ever more frightened and he squirmed furiously in the net. Sonic didn't want his friend to die but he knew he couldn't surrender since the Martians were doing the most predictable plan ever. Then Sonic had an idea. An idea that would guarantee Tails' safety but not him and Tails becoming Martian prisoners. Sonic held his hands up and threw himself down onto his knees.

"OK, I give, I give!" exclaimed Sonic desperately "Please, just please don't hurt Tails!"

"Sonic, don't surrender to them, they'll kill you!" shrieked Tails.

"SILENCE!" thundered Dranzer.

His voice echoed around the snowy scenery and the hilltops began to shudder. If Dranzer didn't keep his voice down, an avalanche would likely start. Dranzer turned his attention back to Sonic.

"Very well Sonic. I'm glad you came to your senses." said Dranzer "As promised, no harm shall come to you or your friend."

"Yeah, yeah." said Sonic casually "So what are you gonna do now?

Stick some cuffs on me and take me back to the ship?"

"Exactly." said Dranzer, an evil smirk spreading out on his face.

That was the signal for Lance and Tori to come out and fire. The two Martians leaped out of their hiding places and fired a rocket each at Sonic! Fortunately, Sonic had heard them coming out of their hiding places so he had already leaped onto his feet and zoomed out the way just as they fired. The two rockets struck each other and caused a terrific explosion that would have easily killed Sonic had they hit him. The explosion caused a lot of smoke and snow to fly everywhere and the Martians shielded their eyes as it drifted over them. Sonic whizzed past Dranzer and snatched up the netted Tails while they weren't looking. Sonic zoomed away from them and he used a nifty little spin-dash to cut Tails' net open and free him from its clutches. The smoke from the explosion died down and Dranzer and his squad realized that Tails was gone. They turned around and saw Sonic and Tails standing before them and ready to fight. Dranzer growled like a furious lion at them.

"You deceiver!" he snarled "I will eviscerate you for this! Martians, kill them both!"

"You'll have to catch me first!" sneered Sonic.

Sonic whizzed towards the Martians and he spin-dashed them all down onto the ground. They soon picked themselves up and began shooting at Sonic with their rifles. Sonic dodged all the shots with ease and he spin-dashed them all into the ground once again. Lance and Tori charged out of their hiding places and they drew out a rifle each. They began shooting madly at Sonic but Sonic dodged all their shots and he spin-dashed Lance in the gut. Tori retaliated with a roundhouse kick to the back that knocked Sonic down into the snow. Tails however got the drop on the female Martian soldier by flying towards her and tail-whipping her in the back of her head. Lance picked himself up and he punched Tails in the face. Then he and Tori both walloped Tails down onto the ground with their fists. Sonic spin-dashed them both in the back and sent them tumbling through the snow. Dranzer could see that his squadron was going to be of no use in this battle so he decided to just do it himself (if you want something done right, you have to do it yourself as they say).

Dranzer whipped out his handheld laser cannon and he blasted at Sonic and Tails as furiously as he could. He was blasting more furiously then even the most deranged of gunmen. Sonic and Tails ran for their lives as they were showered by laser blasts. The blasts struck the snow and sent it flying everywhere and they were close to hitting Sonic and Tails for the blasts were hitting the ground just at their heels. Sonic and Tails dived for cover behind the hill top and Dranzer ran off to catch up to them and blast them to smithereens. As Sonic listened out for Dranzer, he put his hands on Tails' shoulders and looked him directly in the eyes.

"OK, big boy with the big toy's coming this way Tails." said Sonic "I'll handle him. You stay here and don't come out unless I call for help. Got that?"

"Yes Sonic. Please be careful." said Tails.

Sonic just gave Tails the usual thumbs up sign and he ran off to deal with the furious Dranzer. He charged out from behind the hilltop and he spin-dashed Dranzer directly in the gut, sending him flying backwards and causing him to drop his laser cannon. Dranzer landed on his back and skidded across the snow. Dranzer picked himself up and he braced himself as Sonic came in for another attack. Sonic spin-dashed at him but Dranzer blocked the blow by holding out his arms in an X shape. Dranzer pushed Sonic back and then ran off to retrieve his cannon. Sonic beat him to it and he picked the cannon up. He threw it directly at Dranzer and the cannon clonked him on the head. Dranzer growled furiously at Sonic and he picked the cannon back up. But he didn't fire at Sonic. He instead just put it away as he could see it wasn't going to do him any good. Weapons are suitable for some opponents, but not every opponent. Dranzer then drew out his sword and he pointed it directly at Sonic. Sonic sweat-dropped a little for he knew that swords were dangerous but he didn't let it bother him. Dranzer swung his sword at Sonic but Sonic dodged the sword and Dranzer hit the ground. Lance picked himself up and he drew out a sword of his own. He ran over to Sonic but Sonic grabbed him by the wrist, kneed him in the gut and then snatched his sword off of him. He then threw Lance over onto his back and twirled the sword around. Dranzer smirked at Sonic. He was looking forward to seeing how well he could sword-fight and how easily he could defeat him. Sonic raised the sword above his head and he jumped into the air. Dranzer readied his sword and the two ended up clashing swords with each other. The clangs rung through the snowy scenery as the metal of the swords clashed violently against each other. Sonic and Dranzer clashed swords as hard as they could with Dranzer advancing forward and getting Sonic to back away. But then it was Sonic's turn to make Dranzer back away. Sonic started clashing swords more furiously and he was swinging the sword faster and faster so Dranzer was having trouble keeping up with him. Sonic then jumped up to Dranzer's eye line and he kicked Dranzer in the chest as furiously as he could. Dranzer skidded backwards but he remained standing. He pointed the sword at Sonic and then started twirling it around furiously and frantically for no particular reason other then just to show off. Dranzer then roared an intimidating battle cry and he charged towards Sonic. He and Sonic ended up clashing swords again but Dranzer got the drop on Sonic by manoeuvring his sword just right to force Sonic's down onto the ground and then punch him in the face with his free arm. Sonic staggered backwards and Dranzer tried to cleave him in two with his sword. Sonic blocked the blow with his sword and they two pushed on each other's swords. Dranzer however broke the struggle by ramming the hand-guard into Sonic's face. Sonic staggered backwards, clutching his face and Dranzer attempted to cleave him in two before he could ready himself but Tails quickly rolled up a snowball and threw it in Dranzer's eyes before he could make the killer blow. This gave Sonic time to spin-dash attack Dranzer while he was rubbing snow out of his eyes. Dranzer was brought down onto the ground and Sonic attempted to slash him with his sword. Dranzer blocked the blow and used his leg to throw Sonic over himself and into the snow behind him. Dranzer picked himself up and he sheathed his sword. Sonic wondered what Dranzer was up to but he didn't drop his weapon. He ran at Dranzer but Dranzer uppercut Sonic in the face and made him drop the sword. Sonic hurled into the hilltop beside them and he rolled back down to the bottom. Sonic groaned in pain as he lay there in the snow, covered in chunks of it. Sonic picked himself up, shook off the snow, and charged at Dranzer. He jumped into the air and attempted to kick Dranzer but Dranzer dodged the attack and walloped him in the back of his head. Sonic hurled into the snow face first and he grimaced in pain. Dranzer attempted to fist-slam Sonic but Sonic rolled out of the way and jumped back onto his feet. Sonic punched Dranzer in the face but Dranzer punched him back and sent him hurling across the battlefield. Sonic lay down front first in the snow. He was a little weakened from that beating he'd received and he was having trouble getting up. Dranzer's punches were like getting whacked by a baseball, they were almost as powerful as a Devatron's punch. Dranzer smirked at Sonic and he drew out his laser cannon. To make Sonic's death more sadistic and grisly, he'd set it to bomb mode, meaning it would fire bombs instead of lasers.

"You have fought admirably and honourably Sonic. I admire such battle skills." boomed Dranzer "But I'm afraid such an honourable duel must come to an end…"

He aimed the cannon directly at Sonic's face and prepared to fire. Sonic however jumped up to his feet and kicked the barrel of the cannon up just as Dranzer pulled the trigger. Dranzer staggered over onto his back due to the weight of the cannon pushing against him as it was forced upwards and the cannon accidentally fired a couple of bombs up into the hilltops! The bombs exploded and the explosions shook the hilltops like rattles. Then…it happened. The hilltops crumbled and an avalanche began! Dranzer looked up in horror as a colossal avalanche of snow began to roar down towards them like a stampede of wildebeest. Nothing could be more terrifying then watching a huge wave of snow soar down towards the ground, sweeping up everything in its path and burying anything alive should anyone get caught up in it. Dranzer put away his cannon and he ran for his life as fast as he could run. Sonic got to his feet and zoomed away at top speed. Tails took to the skies and he flew up into the skies where the avalanche couldn't get him. Dranzer's whole squadron ran for their lives too. Sonic & Tails managed to clear the avalanche zone and the Martians all ran in the opposite direction to the avalanche so it couldn't get them. Dranzer however wasn't so lucky. He was swept away in the avalanche and he vanished under the tonnes of snow that roared down the hilltops and over the snow covered ground. The destroyed village of Holoska at the top of the hill was also covered in the avalanche meaning that an entirely new village had to be built somewhere else once this was over. Sonic and Tails ran and flew respectively as far away from the avalanche as they could. After they finally stopped, they looked over at the avalanche and watched as it finished falling. There was now a huge pile of snow at the bottom of the hill. The snow had piled up to the point where the hilltops were now the perfect ski-slope for any skiers around. Sonic and Tails were amazed at all this and after the avalanche had stopped, they walked off.

"Well, I guess that's that." said Sonic casually "A big old avalanche starts and buries all the Martians."

"How do you know that Sonic?" asked Tails "They might have escaped before the avalanche could get them."

"Well I know for certain it got Dranzer." said Sonic "I saw him get buried as I ran for my life. He's long gone now. The Martians attacking Holoska have been defeated and our mission's accomplished."

"I guess so." said Tails "I mean, Dranzer's men aren't gonna attack with their leader dead are they?"

"They'll likely fall back." said Sonic "And report the news to their master Diablo. Oh well, the Mobians score one and the Martians score zero in this round. Let's go home and tell everybody the good news."

"We won't have entirely good news to tell them." sighed Tails sadly "Holoska's village was destroyed and now it's been buried by the avalanche. The people of Holoska are homeless now."

"Not entirely." said Sonic reassuringly "There's more then one village in this country. The citizens of this one will have fled to another village. Just a pity we lost the one up in the hills. Hopefully they'll rebuild it when they get the time."

Sonic then switched on his communicator and spoke into it.

"Sally, it's Sonic. Mission accomplished." he said "Warp us back."

"OK Sonic, just hang on a second." came Sally's voice on the other side of the communicator.

So Sonic and Tails waited for Sally to open up the warp ring and let them back into Royal HQ where it would be nice and warm and they could get the chill out of their noses. They'd have to wait though for Sally was dealing with Count Nyder and the remaining Martians left on the ship. That and there were others in the queue to come back to Royal HQ. As Sonic & Tails waited for the warp ring to take them back to Royal HQ, they wandered off through the snowy plains of Holoska. The moment they left though, an arm burst out of the snow. And that arm belonged to Dranzer. He was alive and he was going to be furious once he got out of the snow he was buried deeply in…

Story 128: Divide and Conquer Part 2: Madness in the City

"Well Sally, we'll be off now. Goodbye for the moment." said Sonic the Hedgehog as he prepared to go to Holoska to deal with the Martians there.

"Goodbye for now." said Queen Sally Acorn with an expression fit for a farewell scenario "And please, save Holoska from the Martians there."

"You got it." said Sonic "Sayonara guys and gals! We'll be back soon!"

"Goodbye Sonic." said everybody in the room.

With that said, Silver opened up the warp ring to Holoska and Sonic and Tails gracefully charged through the warp ring like a trained tiger leaping through a blazing ring of fire. Sonic and Tails vanished through the warp ring and it closed behind them, sealing them off from Royal HQ and leaving them in Holoska until it was time for them to come back. The Martians had split up and were attacking seven different locations on Mobius simultaneously. Thus, the Royal Fighters had been forced to do the exact same thing, divide their resources and tackle the Martian threats in each place. Sonic and Tails had just gone to Holoska where they would eventually meet up against Dranzer and his squadron of soldiers as we saw in the last episode. Now Sonic and Tails had left, it was time to deploy the next couple of Royal Fighters.

"So, who's going next?" asked Sally.

"We are your majesty." said the Royal Fighter tomboy Mandy Mouse with her husband Wilson the Dog standing beside her "We're off to Grand Metropolis I believe?"

"You are indeed." said Sally.

"Heh, funny. We were sent to Grand Metropolis months ago to help the Royal Fighters there*." noted Wilson with a slight chuckle "And now we're going back there to stop some Martians. Only thing is, we won't be helping any Royal Fighters because Bostock and Mortimer are dead now." he said sadly, thinking back to their deaths at the hands of the sinister Devatrons during the now almost legendary Devatron war.

"Yeah, it is a pity." said Mandy grimly "I bet they'd love to help us beat them. As is, we're going to have to go it alone for this one. Silver dude, open up the warp ring to Grand Metropolis."

"You got it Mandy." said Silver, opening up the warp ring "It's a good thing I memorized the locations of Mobius from my own time and through books I've read over the ages otherwise I wouldn't be able to use this to get you lot anywhere."

The warp ring opened up and on the other side was the city of Grand Metropolis, the now largest city on Mobius since Central City had been razed by the Egg Fleet last year and was under construction much like New Mobotropolis had been until it was completed.

"I always said research was important." said Wilson brightly "Well then, me and Mandy will be going now. Although I'm kinda scared. I mean, we had a tough time taking down Marik and he's just ONE Martian, we'll be facing other Martians and heaven knows what they're like if Marik's as bad as he is!"

"Wilson honey, don't worry." said Mandy affectionately "I don't like to see my cutesy little boy all scared and worried, it makes me feel nervous too."

"It's OK to be scared isn't it?" asked Wilson "I was always told it's better to be scared of something then be brave about everything."

"Can't argue with that baby." said Mandy "But we can't be scared, we have Martians to deal with. We have to be brave Wilson, the world's counting on everybody, us included. Please be brave Wilson, for my sake, for everybody's sake."

Wilson looked at his wife dreamily. No wonder he married her, Mandy was always the one to turn to when he felt afraid. Somehow, that mouse always made him feel braver just by giving him that warm loving smile, her soft little touch and by motivating him gently through soft talk. It's those traits that made him love her so much. Wilson held Mandy's hand.

"OK gorgeous, I'll be brave." said Wilson "But I'm still nervous about the Martians."

"I am too but my duty comes first so I don't let it bother me." said Mandy "Besides, we beat the Devatrons, those guys are a push-over compared to them."

"Let us hope so." said Sally "Well then, I and everybody in the room wish you all good luck with all our hearts and may you come back to us safely you two. We do not want to lose two of our longest serving members."

"We'll be fine your grace." said Mandy reassuringly "When me and Wilson are together, we're tough to beat."

"Bye everybody." said Wilson "And don't worry, we'll stop the Martians in Grand Metropolis!"

"Bye Wilson and Mandy." said everybody in the room.

Wilson and Mandy gave a farewell wave and they ran through the warp ring into Grand Metropolis. Little did they know, they'd have a pair of Martians that was likely to give them a seriously hard time and even likelier to kill them…

Meanwhile in the Northern Border of Megapolis, Dr. Eggman was down in his bunker still and he was oiling a strange mechanical plant that was green in colour and had a metal jaw and metal leaves. This plant was an experiment of his he did back on Earth in which he made mechanical plants. He called this one a Krudzu Plant and he'd constructed one right now to liven the place up a bit. The Krudzu Plant was enjoying it's little oiling right now.

"There, there little Krudzu, a nice little oil to perk you right up." said Dr. Eggman happily "I hope someday to make up into something greater then just a pot of mechanical plants. Well since I've got some spare time on me right now, I can do some experiments with you and see what I can make out of you."

"Master." came the voice of Devion the former Devatron leader-turned-Eggman-lackey who was on the monitors and keeping an eye on things above surface "The proximity alarm is sounding, I believe there's targets on the move. That and Katherine is picking up messages being sent to the Royal Fighters."

Dr. Eggman stopped oiling his Krudzu Plant.

"I beg your pardon Devion?" asked Eggman.

"Katherine, show him what I am trying to convey to him." ordered Devion.

Katherine stepped forward and played some radio transmissions she had been picking up from Mobians everywhere after using her radio interceptor device, which was a small antenna that telescoped up from her head, to listen in on radio communications everywhere on Mobius. Eggman listened intently to the transmissions. One radio message went like this:

"In other…khsshk!…news today, strange red creatures in armour have…. khsshk!...been attacking…sssshhhhhk!… different places… khsshk!...over Mobius. The creatures…sssshhhhhk! hostile intentions. They…zrt!...blowing up homes and…khsshk!...attacking citizens everywhere!"

Dr. Eggman was surprised to hear all this. Red creatures in armour? Eggman didn't know any read creatures in armour save for Marik the Martian and he wore a helmet at the most, although a helmet is somewhat a bit of armour so it counts. Could it be…? Then Katherine switched to another radio station and played a conversation going on live in Soleanna.

"Here in Soleanna, some strange creatures are attacking the village and one of them looks like the Martian thing that was reported to have killed the former King and Queen of Mobotropolis and attempted to do the same to Sally Acorn who is the current Queen. He's demanded to allow him to make an announcement to everybody so I'm now passing you over to that Martian." the news-reporter's voice dripped with worry.

Then Marik's voice played on the Soleanna radio and Eggman listened to the message as Katherine played it.

"AttentionMobius! I am Marik the Martian, the one who killed the former rulers of Mobotropolis and the attempted murderer of the current Queen Sally Acorn. I'm also the one who's tried to destroy Mobius several times before. I've come back with my friends and family at my side and if you do not cede to the Martians, we will destroy you all! If any Royal Fighters dare to face us then kindly do so, we need the exercise before we conquer your world!"

Then Katherine switched off the message. Dr. Eggman was so speechless with horror that one would think he was going to suddenly drop dead. When he eventually spoke, he made some gargled sounds that made him sound like he was being strangled.

"Marik…has…returned and…brought more…of his kind…TO MOBIUS?!" screamed Dr. Eggman "How dare he?! How dare he?! Mobius is MY planet to conquer and he can't have it! We've tried to hard to stop the Black Arms from conquering the world, we don't need Martians as well!"

"That's not all sir." said Devion "The scanners indicate that the Martians are attacking seven different places on Mobius simultaneously. One location seems to have Sonic and Tails currently handling the situation so we do not need to bother with that one, he'll obviously come out on top."

"Yeah, Sonic will save that place." muttered Eggman "The other places won't be so lucky, especially since the Royal Fighters will have to spread their sources thin across the globe in order to stop those Martians. We're going to give the other places a helping hand…"

Devion and Katherine looked at each other. Why on Mobius would Eggman want to help his enemies beat the Martians?!

"Forgive me for asking master, but why ever do you wish to assist the Royal Fighters in refuting the Martians? That motion of yours is obfuscating." questioned a very puzzled Devion.

"I wish to help the Royal Fighters so that the Martians will not win and thus, they cannot conquer Mobius and prevent me from conquering this planet and building my ultimate empire!" snapped Dr. Eggman "I want to conquer this world and I will not let any alien freaks deny me that honour!"

"That motion is…logical." said Devion slowly "So how best shall we accommodate the Royal Fighters?"

"By sending them some reinforcements…" purred Dr. Eggman, a slimy smile spreading out beneath his big, bushy moustache.

He had a plan to help the Royal Fighters bring down the Martians. And it involved a little bit of assisting and sending forces of his own out into the attacked countries sans Holoska as that's currently under control. The Royal Fighters were about to receive some unexpected assistance form the unlikeliest of allies…

Meanwhile, Silver's Super Warp Ring opened up near Grand Metropolis and Wilson and Mandy stepped through it, leaving the sanctuary of their cosy headquarters and stepping into the now largest city on Mobius given the fall of Central City last year at the now recently destroyed Egg Fleet's firepower. The warp ring closed behind them as they stepped through, sealing them off from Royal HQ and trapping them here in Grand Metropolis until the problem was dealt with and they called for the warp ring to bring them home. Wilson already had his double-bladed pole deployed and itching to slice some Martians to bits and Mandy had slipped on her brass knuckle attachments. They kept their senses alert for any signs of Martian activity as they walked towards the city. They couldn't see any Martians around so far but they could see signs that they were about. As they neared the city, they noticed that a colossal amount of damage had been done to the city already! Buildings were ablaze with a mammoth wall of fire that scorched all the insides and razed the edges of them with relative ease. The streets had been desecrated beyond belief with potholes by the dozen, cracked roads, fallen lampposts and leaking fire hydrants. There was tumultuous uproar from the panicked citizens as they fled for their lives. Some were shot down and killed relentlessly while others made it out alive. The city looked like a war zone. Truly, the Martians were one serious threat if they'd managed to cause THIS amount of damage to just ONE big city. Not even Eggman's forces during the first year of the R.F.S. had done that amount of damage and they had pretty much won the battle against the Grand Metropolis Royal Fighters until Wilson and Mandy helped them! The sad thing is, had Bostock and Mortimer not been killed by the Devatrons, they might have been able to fend off the Martians with their Royal Fighter team and prevent all this destruction. As is, the Royal Fighters in Grand Metropolis had been pretty poor without Bostock and Mortimer to lead them which led to illogical tactics and terrible plans. Thus, they had all been slaughtered easily by the Martians. There was no one to help the citizens of Grand Metropolis now except Wilson and Mandy and yet, even they began to feel nervous after surveying the disaster zone that loomed in front of them. Mandy's jaw dropped down so low, she thought it was going to snap off it's hinges. Wilson's eyes almost popped out of their sockets they widened so much. He dropped his weapon in shock.

"Wh-wh-wh-wh-wh…"

Wilson tried to speak but he couldn't. He was too horrified at the sight before them to even keep himself under control.

"I-I-I-I th-th-think I'm th-th-thinking the s-s-same th-th-thing as you b-b-baby!" spluttered a very gobsmacked Mandy "Th-th-th-those m-m-m-monsters have p-p-p-pretty m-m-much d-d-destroyed G-G-G-Grand Metropolis!"

"What are th-th-those M-M-Martians flaming armed with?! Nuclear bombs?!" screamed Wilson, his voice all high and frightened "This is worse then w-w-w-what E-E-E-Eggman did t-t-to the p-p-place a year ago!"

"Those Martians make Eggman look like he's going easy on us!"

shrieked Mandy "It's a good thing we're now on the scene, although I feel uncomfortable that we're all there is to fight those savages! There must be a whole platoon of Martians out there judging by what's happened!"

"I…I don't…I don't wanna do this! Mandy, you're on your own!" cried Wilson "This is too much for me!"

He tried to run away but Mandy grabbed his tail and held him firmly back.

"Let go of my tail!" exclaimed Wilson desperately.

"You are not going anywhere mister!" said Mandy angrily "The Martians destroy a whole city and you wanna just chicken out?! The Devatrons have done worse to us then those Martians ever did Wilson! They power-drained the Chaos Emeralds, took over our home city, blazed Knothole to the ground, killed many Royal Fighters, especially big names like Kate the Eagle, Bostock and Mortimer, crippled Sonic himself for a time and attempted to kill us all! Did we give up then? No! So you're not chickening out of this one Wilson! This is not the man I married! The man I married would never chicken out of a situation like this, even if it is intense and on a colossal scale! Wilson the Dog, we are going to stop those Martians or die trying! Understand?!"

Wilson stopped gibbering like an idiot and he clamed down. Mandy didn't half terrify him when she was angry but her words had a lot of meaning behind them so Wilson couldn't scoff her off as just mindlessly ranting. Wilson knew Mandy was right. They'd survived much worse then a destroyed city, he couldn't chicken out of this one. The world was counting on the Royal Fighters to stop the Martians. If they could take on one Martian then they could take on more Martians. Wilson sighed in shame and he looked up at Mandy.

"You're so right cutie-pie." he said quietly "I'm so sorry I got scared and tried to opt out of this Mandy. Sometimes, I'm just too skittish for my own good."

"It's alright Wilson honey." said Mandy reassuringly "I'm scared too but I'm putting that aside and focusing on what's important. I'm sorry

I shouted at you though, I should know by now you're scared of me when I'm shouting and angry."

"It's OK Mandy." said Wilson softly "You were just pulling me back in line. I'd be so lost if I never met you, you know."

"Aww, you're sweet." said Mandy gleefully "Now then, let's kick some Martian butt shall we?"

"Be my guest Mandy." said Wilson, picking up his weapon "We'll show them what happens when freaks like them tear down our cities!"

With that said, Wilson and Mandy charged off towards Grand Metropolis to deal with the Martian threat. There was one thing that Mandy would have been pleased about had she stayed around longer and observed the scenery around hers and Wilson's former location. And that would be the fact her late sister Marion Mouse's grave was still intact for it wasn't in the city itself. If it had been desecrated then Mandy seriously would have been narked at the Martians. One couldn't help but wonder though what would Marion have been like if she was still alive and was seeing all this happen right now…

In Grand Metropolis itself, two Martians were causing a right ruckus. And those two were the deadly duo of Natasha the Martian, Marik's mother, and Mercury, Mars' Champion Archer and wielder of one of the deadliest weapons ever devised by Martians. They were on their own and didn't have a squadron of Martians with them since they didn't think they'd need any extra-support. Given Mercury's destructive bow, it's not hard to see why they think that. Mercury had been firing arrows at every inch of the city and blowing things up here and there. But it wasn't just Mercury who was causing this devastation. Natasha was flying in a hover-saucer with an enormous tank-like barrel on it that fired laser cannons with destructive capabilities. Mercury was in one too. The hover-saucers looked like a tank-turret turned upside down and they flew quite nicely and had a lot of fire power. Two hover-saucers plus Mercury's exploding arrows means a lot of damage done. Just the two of them alone could level Mobius if they wanted to with this kind of firepower. The demented dames were having a great time destroying Grand Metropolis and to their disappointment, they had pretty much levelled everything. Buildings were ablaze, walls were crumbling, streets were ravaged, citizens had fled or been killed and houses had been razed. This meant that fun-time was over for them which was a shame as they loved causing destruction. But this did mean that they'd be likely to draw a Royal Fighter or several out and then they could kill them as planned. As Mercury blew up one last building with her bow, she brought her saucer down to the ground but remained sitting in it and hovering about five inches above ground. Natasha flew down and joined her comrade.

"Well Natasha, how about that?" said Mercury gleefully, her eyes full of demented joy "We've managed to level this entire city and we've only been here for an hour at the longest!"

"Well that hi-tech bow of yours is amazing Mercury." said Natasha "Arrows that explode when they hit inorganic matter, it's no wonder Count Drago gave you that as a birthday present. It's so effective! And to think he asked the late Professor Korark to invent it just for you too."

"Yeah…" said Mercury, looking at her bow admirably "I often like to think that when Count Drago died, his spirit went into my bow and every arrow I fire is a cackle of delight from him as he lashes out and destroys his victims. I do miss him so much, I wish he was here conquering Mobius with me right now."

She paused for a moment as a tear came to her eye. Natasha put a hand on Mercury's shoulder affectionately, sharing her pity since even though she found Drago to be very creepy, she quite admired his efficiency and dedication to duty in the Martian army.

"Drago was a marvellous man Mercury and his death won't be in vain." said Natasha "We're getting revenge on the Mobians right now for killing him and crippling Marik like they did. Hopefully, our razing of this city will draw out the Royal Fighters and hopefully, Silver and Blaze will be among the ones that come here to stop us."

"I hope so, I want to skewer that Silver's heart for killing my Drago!"

snarled Mercury "I so desperately tried to kill him when we all fought at once earlier but the damage done to our ship forced me to abandon my battle with him! Well if he comes here again, I won't miss the opportunity to avenge Count Drago! I am going to shoot Silver with so many arrows there won't be any space left on him to so much as poke him!"

"I love the sound of that Mercury dear." said Natasha "For now though, we wait and see if any impudent Mobians actually come here and dare to stand up to us. I shouldn't imagine we'll be waiting for long."

"And imagine that you should!" cried a voice that caught them both by surprise for they weren't expecting a response to that statement.

Natasha and Mercury looked in the direction of the voice and they saw none other then Wilson and Mandy standing before them with their weapons at the ready. The two Martians were surprised at this for they had been expecting a bigger resistance then this but they shrugged it off quickly and they aimed their saucer's gun turrets at the two Mobians.

"Hold it right there Mobians!" snarled Natasha "Don't make us have to blow you two to smithereens!"

"You'll do it anyway you ugly old witch so we don't have to make you." snapped Mandy "Now then, my name is Mandy Mouse and this is my husband Wilson the Dog, we're here on behalf of the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters to bring down the Martian threat here in Grand Metropolis, which you've already desecrated."

"Surrender yourselves and things won't get needlessly unpleasant!" snarled Wilson in an uncharacteristically nasty tone of voice. Wilson often snarled or growled when he was seriously angry and it took a lot to cheese him off. Right now, he was downright furious with Natasha and Mercury.

Natasha and Mercury looked at each other and then they started snickering with laughter. Wilson and Mandy looked at each other and just sighed. They should have expected a reaction like this from a Martian.

"Us? Surrender? In your bleeding dreams!" cackled Natasha "We'll be way too much for you two twits to handle! Before we fight though allow me to introduce ourselves. I am Natasha, Marik's mother and I'm not particularly pleased to hear what you Mobians have done to him. Especially you, Wilson you said your name was, for he told me you've bitten him on the arm…twice."

"Well he asked for it!" retorted Wilson, his teeth gritted and his hands clenched tighter around his weapon "Especially as he tried to kill me and Mandy once!"

"Uh huh, and your star fighter "Sonic" crippled Marik's hand for life so you're asking for what we're doing now." sneered Natasha.

"As for me, I'm Mercury and I'm Mars' Champion Archer." boasted Mercury "I was hoping to fight Silver and Blaze so I can kill them in revenge for killing my boyfriend Count Drago but you two twerps will do just as nicely."

"Eesh, you guys are touchy." snorted Mandy "Blue-dude cripples Marik, unintentionally might I add, and Silver-dude kills this so-called "Count Drago" guy and that's enough for you to want to slaughter us all? I bet you'd raise a stink if we so much as poked Marik in the eye."

"I feel it fair to point out that Marik started this whole feud in the first place by coming to Mobius just to kill Cosmo." noted Wilson "Had he not invaded our planet in the first place then none of this would be happening."

"Well boy, it did and now we're going to make you suffer in the name of the Martians." said Natasha coldly "Besides, even if you didn't harm Marik or kill Drago, we'd still hate you anyway. We hate peace and you Mobians crave it, fight for it apparently and that is disgusting to us. Now enough stupid gossiping and let's get fighting!"

"I was gonna say the same thing sister!" sneered Mandy, raising her fists and getting ready to punch "I'm gonna make you cry for what you did to this city! Me and Wilson quite liked Grand Metropolis and we're not pleased to see you destroy it Natasha! Brace yourself for this is gonna hurt!"

She then jumped up into the cannon barrel to Natasha's saucer and ran across it. She drew her arm back and thrust it towards Natasha but Natasha whipped out her spiked nunchakus and wrapped them around Mandy's arm. She threw Mandy off the saucer and onto the road face-first by pulling on her arm with her nunchakus. Mandy was quick to get back onto her feet though and she jumped back onto the saucer. She socked Natasha directly in the face and knocked the Grand War Mistress out of her vehicle. The two girls came crashing down onto the road but Natasha threw Mandy off by pushing her off with her legs. Mandy hurled across the road and landed on a crack in it. Mandy picked herself up again and lunged at Natasha, the War Mistress spinning her nunchakus around and preparing to let Mandy have it with them. Natasha swung her nunchakus at Mandy but she missed as Mandy threw herself down onto the road and slid across it and through her legs. Mandy came to a stop behind Natasha and walloped her in the back. The power of her punch combined with the knuckle attachments made Natasha feel like someone just tried to smash her spine in with a hammer. Natasha fell down onto her knees and Mandy began to whale on Natasha as hard as she could. But Natasha managed to get back up and she kicked Mandy in the gut. She then clenched both fists together and slammed them on Mandy's head. Then to finish off, she roundhouse kicked Mandy into her hover-saucer. Mandy hit the saucer and knocked it to the side. The saucer spun around and it bumped into a destroyed building. Mandy grimaced in pain and she forced herself up onto her feet. Natasha spun her nunchakus around and sneered at the mouse.

"You're not bad Mandy." said Natasha sarcastically "I've seen much better of course but you're not bad. I like the knuckle attachments. They're effective weapons."

"Thank you." sniffed Mandy sarcastically "You're not bad either. Marik's tougher but you're a good challenge. I can see where he gets his skills from."

"Indeed rodent." said Natasha in a slimy voice "Marik gets his skills from my side of the family and he gets his strength from my husband Diablo's side of the family. But who needs strength when you have speed to go with it?"

She then quickly ran forward to Mandy and rammed her in the gut. Mandy coughed and spluttered heavily as she felt the wind getting knocked out of her by Natasha's ram. Natasha laughed at the coughing mouse.

"You see? I strike swiftly and vigorously." sneered Natasha "That in turn makes me a force to be reckoned with. Oh and one more thing, you should change your fur colour. Purple is a hideous colour for anybody to wear.

"Don't you DARE insult my fur colour you wretched little pig!" snarled Mandy.

Mandy uppercut Natasha in the face with BOTH arms meaning double the attack, double the impact. Natasha staggered backwards, dropping her nunchakus and clutching her face. Mandy then started whaling on Natasha as hard as she could. She punched her in the gut, the face, the arms, the legs and even the back. She then swept Natasha off her feet with a roundhouse kick to the legs and the Martian was brought down onto her back. Mandy tried to punch Natasha again but Natasha rolled out of the way, leaving Mandy to punch the road and leave tiny cracks in it. Natasha jumped back onto her feet and socked Mandy in the side of her head, a very good area to strike since the side of the head was quite sensitive and being punched in it guaranteed dizziness and a big headache for anyone unfortunate to get punched in it. Mandy yelped in pain and gripped her head as a whoosh of pain swept through it. She felt like she'd just gotten a migraine all of the sudden. Natasha then took the opportunity to upwards kick Mandy in the face and knock her down onto the ground while she was still recovering. Then she picked up her nunchakus and was about to smack Mandy with them but Mandy got up onto her feet and sucker-punched Natasha in the middle of her face with both fists. Natasha staggered well backwards and Mandy then rammed her with her shoulder, backhanded her across the face, punched her in the gut and then in the jaw, causing Natasha to spit blood out. Natasha was thrown onto the ground and Mandy brought both fists slamming down on top of her. Natasha however charged into Mandy's torso and grabbed her. She threw Mandy against the wall of a building and pinned her there by the throat. But Mandy kneed Natasha in the belly to make her let go.

Natasha keeled over and Mandy roundhouse kicked Natasha in the head. Natasha staggered back and her headwear fell off. Natasha quickly put it back on and linked arms with Mandy as Mandy attempted to attack her again.

As for Wilson and Mercury, they had their weapons ready and they circled each other, waiting to attack and make the first move. Mercury had her bow ready and a laser arrow already generated. Wilson slowly twirled his spinning blade around.

"I've gotta say, Wilson, you're not as hideous looking as the other Mobians." sneered Mercury.

"Thank you." said Wilson snidely "As for you, Mercury, you're just as ugly as all the other Martians out there."

"Oooh, I like a boy who can deliver snide remarks!" cackled Mercury "Makes them more pleasurable to stick an arrow into!"

She then fired an arrow at Wilson but the dog spun his weapon around like a flywheel and deflected it (the laser arrows aren't effective against fast spinning targets). The arrow hit an already destroyed building and exploded.

"I will say, your weapon is kinda scary." said Wilson "But effective. The exploding arrows are a nice touch. Just wait till you see my weapon though!"

He then threw the spinning blade at Mercury. Mercury yelped like a frightened cat and she dove for cover as the double-bladed pole soared past her, missing her by centimetres. The weapon boomeranged back to Wilson and he caught it into his hand. Mercury picked herself up and her bow generated another arrow, ready to fire.

"Impressive." said Mercury "Very impressive. Not many people are capable of wielding a weapon with two blades. No matter, I'll still destroy you Wilson! And since Mandy referred to you as her husband, I guess you're a married man. Good, I love to kill married couples, they're my favourite kinds of targets!"

She fired an arrow at Wilson and the semi-skittish canine dove for cover as it whizzed past him. Wilson threw his weapon at her again but Mercury dodged the deadly weapon and she shot at Wilson again. Wilson dodged the arrow but since he moved, that meant his spinning blade boomeranged back to where he had been and ended up embedding itself into the ground since Wilson wasn't there to catch it. Mercury then fired an arrow at the spinning blade weapon, destroying it immediately as it hit the embedded weapon. Wilson grew increasingly nervous. He was weapon-less now his spinning blade was destroyed and Mercury still had her arrow-generating bow at the ready. What was he going to do now since he couldn't fight back? Then Wilson knew what had to be done, he had to disarm Mercury like Mercury had disarmed him. Mercury fired another arrow at Wilson but Wilson jumped out of the way, leaving the arrow to strike the road and blow a hole in it, and he scampered on all fours towards Mercury. Mercury aimed another arrow at Wilson but before she could fire at him, Wilson jumped into the air and pounced on Mercury like a wolf pouncing on a stag. Mercury dropped her bow and was brought down onto the ground by Wilson. Wilson quickly snatched up her bow and pointed it directly at Mercury.

"Don't move or I'll use this on you!" growled Wilson.

"Oh I'm so scared, the mutt's stolen my weapon!" scoffed Mercury in a fake scared tone "Do you even know how to work it?"

Wilson's face fell as he looked at the hi-tech bow in his hand. He didn't know how to work it! The arrows generated into the bow and you could pull them back and fire it like any normal arrow but getting the arrows to generate into place was the big matter at this moment. There was a certain way to work it and Wilson didn't know how to. As Wilson stared at the bow and wondered on how he was going to work it, Mercury charged into Wilson and elbowed him in the gut. Wilson dropped the bow and Mercury kicked upwards, sending him flying away from the bow. Mercury then scooped up the bow and generated another arrow. You see, Mercury obviously knows how to work it and this is how it works. There's a button just above the hand section and you press that in order to generate a new arrow. The button is pressed and then slides in order for it to work. Wilson would never have worked that out by a long shot. Mercury aimed an arrow at Wilson and she fired at him. Wilson shrieked in fright and he rolled out the way, the arrow missing him by centimetres but going off with a loud bang that flung Wilson into Mercury's hover-saucer. Wilson landed directly in the cockpit seat and the saucer was sent spiralling towards a building. The saucer bumped into the building and rebounded off of it, still spiralling. Wilson picked himself up and the saucer stopped sinning around. Wilson gripped his head and slumped on the side of the cockpit. He felt a little dizzy and a little frazzled from the impact and his ears were ringing from the explosion of the arrow.

"Ooooohhhh…that didn't feel too good…" he moaned groggily "I feel like everything's rumbling around me…"

Mercury put her bow away and she charged towards Wilson. Wilson's ears were still distorted from the explosion noise earlier so he didn't even hear Mercury running towards him. Therefore Mercury was effortlessly able to leap into her hover saucer and kick Wilson straight out of it. Wilson hurtled out of the saucer and rolled roughly across the road. He moaned ever so sickly and he couldn't feel much of his body for he was still feeling groggy from the onslaught earlier. All he could do was lie there and wait for somebody to finish him off. Mercury decided to take the opportunity to finish off Wilson while he was weak. She aimed her bow at Wilson and readied herself to fire another arrow. Mandy, who was still in heated combat with Natasha, saw Mercury preparing to shoot Wilson and the mouse abandoned her fight. She ran over to Mercury and pounced on her before Natasha could try and stop her. Mandy knocked Mercury out of the saucer and onto the road. As they landed, Mercury accidentally fired an arrow as she hit the ground. The arrow whizzed through the air and hit a building. The arrow exploded and the building, which was already in a razed state, started to crumble down to the ground. Rubble, grit and debris began to rain down onto the ground like a meteor shower. Mercury ran for cover before she could get hammered by the crumbling debris that came crashing down to the ground all around. Mandy however ran through the falling grit and rubble and picked up the still feeling lame Wilson. She managed to carry her husband to safety just before a huge chunk of debris could come crashing down onto the ground and crush them. Mandy ran for her life with Wilson in her arms as the building began to crumble down. Debris began piling up as the finished building tumbled and a chunk of rubble crushed Mercury's abandoned saucer, rendering Mercury with no mode of transportation. She'd have to share a saucer with Natasha now should they need it. The building finally finished falling down and all that was left of it was nothing more then a huge pile of steelwork, frames, rubble and debris. The pile reached at least a storey high. Mandy looked back at the fallen building, sad to see that this is what had become of Grand Metropolis thanks to those demon dames from Mars Mercury and Natasha, and then she looked back at Wilson. Wilson's hearing was coming back to him and he was feeling a little better now the impact of the earlier attack was wearing off. He saw the fallen building and sighed with relief.

"Whew…that was a close shave wasn't it?" he said "I almost got crushed! Thanks for saving my neck out there Mandy."

"I saved more then just your neck honey." said Mandy sweetly "But you're welcome anyway."

Natasha strode over to Wilson and Mandy, spinning her nunchakus around menacingly as she advanced on them.

"You two are impressive I must say." said Natasha "You're surviving some of our best attacks and any dangers around the battlefield. No wonder my son had a tough time with you and the other fuzzy freaks of this world."

"Shows that you made the same mistake Marik did and underestimated us." sneered Mandy "A mistake that'll guarantee your defeat."

"Oh we didn't underestimate you." said Natasha "Marik described you all to us so we had a feeling on what to expect. You two just defied his descriptions. No matter, this battle isn't over yet and we're still going to kill you both."

"Just try it you witch!" snarled Mandy "Me and Wilson have survived much worse then you two measly Martians! We've survived the Devatrons as well as all our friends and they're worse then you Martians are! We'll stomp on you easily!"

"Oh will you?" sneered Natasha "Well we have the one thing the Devatrons didn't have and that was knowledge on the opponent. Marik told us everything about you two as well as the other Mobians. I believe he told me that Wilson's a scardey cat and you don't like to be called a rat?"

Mandy could feel her fists clenching and her eyelids twitching angrily as Natasha began to taunt her. Natasha smiled at Mandy, clearly pleased that Marik's information was helping her to tick off Mandy and allow her to use her weakness against her. After all, losing her wick was one of Mandy's weaknesses and Marik had made sure to tell the Martians that.

"Looks like I'm right." said Natasha "Well then Mandy, you're a rat, a filthy stinking rat and your fur colour is hideous. Why on Mars that mutt of yours married you as beyond my comprehension."

"Oy, you leave Mandy alone!" growled Wilson "Or you'll answer to me!"

"Oooooh, the dog's got a hot spot as he?" laughed Natasha "And I thought Marik told me you were a coward, a worthless, whimpering little coward who's always crying for mummy in the midst of the battle."

Wilson could feel himself getting angry at that remark but he fought hard to keep himself under control for he knew losing his temper was a bad idea. Mandy however, was not so good at that and she was clearly losing her wick right now. She was going red in the face.

"You had better stop insulting us or you'll be in for it you irritating little shank!" snarled Mandy.

"Why should I? I'm quite enjoying myself here…rat-girl." crooned Natasha.

"THAT'S IT!" shouted Mandy "You're going down you little hog!"

"Mandy, don't!" cried Wilson.

Too late, Mandy charged towards Natasha in blind rage but Natasha was ready for her. She spun her nunchakus around and then uppercut Mandy in the face with both of them. Mandy staggered backwards and Natasha decided to start dishing it out to her before she could recover. Natasha kneed Mandy in the gut, twice to make it really hurt, and then she walloped Mandy in the head with her nunchakus. She hit Mandy so hard that the mouse ended up with a nasty cut on her cranium and it started bleeding. Mandy winced in pain and fought back tears of pain that willed to trickled down her face. The pain in her head was so great that Mandy couldn't take her hands off of it. Mercury laughed at Mandy and then she kicked the stunned mouse down onto her side. Wilson was horrified to see his wife being beaten like this and he ran in to save her. Wilson grabbed Mercury in a chokehold and she hauled the archery champion away from the injured Mandy Mouse. Mercury however wrestled herself free from Wilson and roundhouse punched him in the face. Natasha joined in by whacking Wilson with her nunchakus. Wilson yelped a proper dog yelp of pain as he was hit by the nunchakus and Natasha and Mercury both kicked him away. Mandy staggered back onto her feet and tried to help Wilson but the pain in her head was too great for her to do much. She couldn't stop gripping her head in pain and she felt a little dizzy and light-headed due to the pain in her skull. Natasha had truly whacked her good and hard. Natasha could see Mandy was in distress and she decided to add insult to injury by kicking Mandy and sending her flying into a chunk of rubble from the fallen building. Mandy hit the chunk and she coughed heavily as she felt the wind in her lungs depleting from the sharp hit. Wilson saw this and he clasped his fists together. He bashed Natasha in the back of the head and knocked her headwear off her head. Natasha went pink in the face and she bent down to pick up her headwear. Before she could put it back on though, Wilson thumped her on the cranium and as you already know, Martians have sensitive bony lumps on their craniums that really hurt when you hit them. Wilson didn't know that for he'd never had the chance to do it on Marik of course, he just hit her there hoping to dish out some extra punishment. And that he just did for Natasha howled a blood-curdling howl of pain as pain flared through her skull. The pain was so great she swore even her amygdala was hurting. Wilson was surprised to see that punching a Martian in the cranium seriously hurt them that badly and he smiled to himself. He'd found a good Martian weakness that they could use against them. But before Wilson could punch Natasha in the cranium again, Mercury jumped in and kicked him aside. Natasha massaged her scalp better and she put her headwear back onto her head. She glared at Wilson coldly and she spun her nunchakus around.

"That hurt you son of a bitch !" snarled Natasha "Now I'm going to return the favour!"

She then proceeded to wallop Wilson in the cranium with her nunchakus. Wilson howled in pain and he cried a few tears of pain as his scalp began burning with pain. Natasha and Mercury then grabbed Wilson and they chucked him over to Mandy, who was still lying against the chunk of rubble. Mandy groaned as Wilson crashed into her and the two Martians advanced on them. Wilson and Mandy backed up against the rubble and they stared in horror at Natasha and Mercury as they advanced on them. Mercury had her bow at the ready and she had already generated an arrow ready to fire. Wilson and Mandy shook madly, their hearts pounding like a pair of drums, in fear.

"We win you two, now you'll die for your insolence." said Natasha wickedly "Mercury, finish them off!"

"With pleasure Grand War Mistress." purred Mercury "You two will be an example of what I'm going to do to Silver and Blaze when I get my hands on them!"

"No, please, don't kill us! Don't kill us!" begged Mandy "Please, we beg of you!"

"I don't wanna die!" whimpered Wilson "Please let us live!"

Mercury ignored them and she stepped a reasonable distance back so that she wouldn't get caught up in the explosion. She then pulled the bow string back, ready to fire the arrow. Wilson and Mandy just closed their eyes and waited for the inevitable blow that would finish them off. There was no chance of them surviving an exploding arrow at point blank range. They were dead meat once that arrow fired. And to think they hadn't even had really a chance to settle down and enjoy life as a married couple. They hadn't even had a honeymoon yet! Truly a shame for a couple that's been married for a while at most. Mercury prepared to release the bowstring and fire the arrow but before she could, something shot her bow and destroyed it. Mercury yelped and dropped the fried bow onto the ground. It's circuitry was exposed, the metal was blackened and it was no longer of use now for it was not going to work now. Natasha looked around wildly, wondering who or what had just shot Mercury's bow to bits. Wilson and Mandy opened their eyes, amazed to see they were still alive. They looked to the side and saw a sight they didn't think they would see. There standing before the Martians were a squadron of EggPawns all armed with laser cannons and the piece de resistance of the squad, Silver Sonic! Silver Sonic stomped forwards and towered over the two Martians, his red optics glowing malevolently and fixed firmly on the two Martians. Natasha and Mercury stared up in fear at Silver Sonic and almost wet themselves with horror.

"What the blazes is that?!" shrieked Natasha "That's not a Mobian!"

"No, but it resembles one!" cried Mercury "It looks like a giant robot! And it's got lots of other robots with it!"

Silver Sonic curled up into a giant, silver bladed ball and it whooshed towards Natasha and Mercury in a lethal spin-dash that could just as easily tear down a skyscraper with little effort. Natasha and Mercury dived for cover as the giant silver killing machine roared past them. Mercury picked up her bow and desperately tried to fire an arrow at Silver Sonic only she couldn't for the bow was busted. The Egg Pawns all stampeded towards the two Martians, firing madly at them with their laser cannons. Natasha and Mercury scattered like sheep and avoided the blasts. Wilson and Mandy watched in amazement as the Egg Pawns and Silver Sonic started sorting out the Martians with little effort. If only they had shown up earlier and they would have won this fight already! But why were Eggman's forces helping them? Why were they fighting the Martians? Maybe Eggman somehow found out about the Martian invasion and wanted to help stop it too? If that was the case then the Mobians were very fortunate right now. Natasha dodged some gunfire from the Egg-Pawns and growled furiously as the robots persisted in their attacks.

"Whoever owns these robots has earned my hatred already!" cried Natasha "Those things are ruining everything!"

"You're telling me!" shrieked Mercury as Silver Sonic tried to claw at her only to miss by centimetres.

"Well we'll deal with them easily!" growled Natasha, running over to her saucer quickly.

She leaped into her hover-saucer and aimed the cannon barrel at the Egg Pawns. She blasted a few of them away very easily, reducing them to tiny metal pieces, but Silver Sonic came in and spin-dashed the cannon barrel in two, destroying Natasha and Mercury's best weapon to use against the Eggman robots. Silver Sonic then attempted to spin-dash Natasha's saucer to pieces but Natasha dodged Silver Sonic's lethal attack and she sped off. Mercury leaped onto the saucer and Natasha drove off as fast as she could. The Egg-Pawns began firing at the fleeing saucer.

"This isn't over yet Mobians!" growled Natasha "We'll come back and slaughter you all! Just you wait!"

The hover-saucer flew off out of Grand Metropolis and headed on back to the Martian ship. The Egg-Pawns stopped chasing the saucer and they stood down. Silver Sonic stopped attacking too and Wilson and Mandy ran up to the robots.

"Thank you for saving our lives Eggman robots." said Mandy "But, why are you helping us defeat the Martians? And how did you know about us and the Martians being here?"

None of the robots could answer them for they could not speak. Instead, one Egg-Pawn played a pre-recorded message that Dr. Eggman had ordered them to play for any Mobians they encountered while stopping the Martians. The message played out like this:

"Hello there, if any Mobians are listening to this then listen carefully. I, Dr. Eggman, have learnt about the Martians' disgusting presence on Mobius and since I want to conquer the planet for myself, I am going to help Sonic and friends destroy the Martians and save Mobius. I do hope you appreciate my co-operation for I'm not usually this generous or willing to ally with my enemies am I? Please do not attack my robots for they're here to help you, not hinder you.

Understood? Sincerely, Dr. Eggman."

The message ended and Wilson and Mandy looked at each other. They were well gobsmacked by this.

"Well…Dr. Eggman's going to help us?" blurted Wilson "I'm not sure how I should feel about this."

"He helped us fight the Devatrons so I'm cool with him helping us stop the Martians." said Mandy casually "I'd rather have just Eggman to worry about at the moment so I'm OK with anyone wanting to get rid of the Martians. Tell your master that we're very grateful for the assistance and that we're glad he's helping us beat the Martians." she said to the Eggman Robots.

The Egg-Pawns and Silver Sonic nodded understandably and they all left to return to Dr. Eggman and inform him of what had just happened. As the robots left, Mandy switched on her communicator and spoke into it.

"Your majesty, mission's been accomplished, we need a warp ring home." said Mandy.

"OK, just hold on a second, Sonic and Tails are awaiting return at the moment." said Sally on the other side of the communicator.

Mandy nodded and she switched off the communicator. As they waited for the warp ring home, Wilson spoke.

"Well, I'm not pleased that we failed to save the city but I am pleased we stopped the Martians." said Wilson "I can only just imagine what Marik's reaction's going to be when he finds out his mother got chased out of the city by Eggman robots."

"We're lucky we're still alive." said Mandy, feeling the cut on her head that would later become a faint scar "I'm glad Eggman's assisting us and it feels good to be saved by him instead of endangered by him. That doesn't mean I'm going to start liking him though."

"No indeed." said Wilson "Say Mandy, while we're waiting for the warp ring home, why don't we see Marion's grave and see if it's alright?"

"Oh yes." said Mandy, suddenly thinking of Marion's grave "Let's see it. I do hope those two wretches haven't disturbed it or they'll be in for it."

With that said, Wilson and Mandy ran off to see the gravesite of the late Marion Mouse. They'd be happy to know that her gravesite was fine. But they wouldn't be since the Martians would be back to fight again. This battle was far from over and it was just going to get more hectic as they went along…

Divide and Conquer Part 3

Story 129: Divide and Conquer Part 3: Obsidian

"OK gorgeous, I'll be brave." said Wilson the Dog "But I'm still nervous about the Martians."

"I am too but my duty comes first so I don't let it bother me." said Mandy Mouse "Besides, we beat the Devatrons, those guys are a push-over compared to them."

"Let us hope so." said Queen Sally Acorn "Well then, I and everybody in the room wish you all good luck with all our hearts and may you come back to us safely you two. We do not want to lose two of our longest serving members."

"We'll be fine your grace." said Mandy reassuringly "When me and Wilson are together, we're tough to beat."

"Bye everybody." said Wilson "And don't worry, we'll stop the Martians in Grand Metropolis!"

"Bye Wilson and Mandy." said everybody in the room.

Wilson and Mandy gave a farewell wave and they ran through the warp ring into Grand Metropolis. The Royal Fighters were beginning to split up so they could deal with the Martians splitting up all around Mobius and causing a ruckus in seven different places around the globe. It was unknown to the Mobians that the Martians had been doing this in order to weaken them and pick them off easily but the Mobians were going to deal with the Martians regardless of what happened. Sonic & Tails had gone off to Holoska to deal with Dranzer and his men and right now, Wilson and Mandy had gone to Grand Metropolis where Natasha and Mercury were waiting for them. As the warp ring closed behind Wilson and Mandy, Sally turned around and pointed her bo-staff at the Royal Fighters still in the room.

"OK my valiant squadron of Freedom Fighters, who wants to go next?" asked Sally.

There was a brief pause and some murmuring between others before a spiked hand raised up and the owner of the hand stood forward. It was none other then the rough, tough rad red of the team, Knuckles the Echidna, Guardian of Angel Island. His co-guardian and love interest Shade the Echidna stepped forward with him. The two echidnas seemed keen to go next.

"We'll go." said Knuckles "Me and Shade are itching for some action right now. That and my fists are hungry for Martian faces right now!"

He bashed his fists together and smirked a cocky kind of smirk. Shade gave off a half-grin of amusement at her guardian's remarks and then returned to her usual grim expression.

"Please your majesty, allow us to deploy next." said Shade politely "We are anxious to join in the conflict."

"I'm glad to hear that you two." said Sally "But please remember that you are going to Black Acropolis, one of the worst hells on Mobius. You do know what it's like there don't you?"

"I do your highness." said Knuckles "It's got two volcanoes and lots of lava geysers. Few people survive the place. I've heard it all. It's also known as the Apocalypse Zone."

"The place was so deadly that even Imperator Ix dared venture into it." said Shade dryly "You wouldn't think that considering his hubris."

"Well I'm glad you're aware of the dangers in Black Acropolis." said Royal Fighter Miranda Mongoose of the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters "But believe me when I say it's a lot worse then you can dare imagine. Me and my team barely escaped with our lives when we last went there."

"Don't worry Miranda, me and Shade will be careful out there." said Knuckles reassuringly "We'll brave the volcanoes of Black Acropolis and come back with some good news."

"We should hope you do." said Sally "Please Knuckles and Shade, for everybody's sake, be careful out there. And come back to us safe and sound. We can't afford to lose the Guardians of Angel Island."

"Don't sweat it Sally." said Knuckles in his usual brash attitude "If I survived encounters with Imperator Ix, Eggman's worse creations and the Devatrons then a bunch of silly Martians aren't gonna be much of a problem."

"Do not underestimate them Knuckles." warned Shade "They could be worse than even Ix and the Devatrons. We do not know what awaits us when we get to Black Acropolis so don't be so arrogant."

"OK Shade, I won't." said Knuckles with a half chuckle in his voice "So then, we'll be off to the Apocalypse Zone. Silver, can you warp us there?"

"Sure thing." said Silver the Hedgehog, psychic time traveller of the future "You know, in my time zone, Black Acropolis is very different. Both volcanoes are gone and the whole thing's a wasteland of dried up lava. So much in fact that no new lava's been able to seep through it."

"Well then, I guess the people of the future don't have to worry about Black Acropolis anymore." said Knuckles, hoping to give Silver something to be happy about.

Silver sort of nodded agreeably all though his face was still visibly grim. Silver flicked the Super Warp Ring up into the air and it expanded to twice it's size in a golden flash. On the other side of the warp ring, Black Acropolis awaited them. It was like opening a gateway to hell pretty much. Knuckles and Shade stepped towards the Warp Ring but before they stepped through it, they turned around and waved to the others.

"Goodbye for now. And I promise you all, we'll come back." said Knuckles.

"Be safe out there." said Sally's lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx "And please, stop those Martians before they cause any havoc there."

"We will." said Shade, drawing out her twin blades and deploying her helmet "We won't rest until every last Martian there becomes part of the scenery."

Knuckles was disturbingly amused by the idea of the Martians being buried under tonnes of lava right about now (maybe he just really hates them).

"I seriously hope we're fighting Marik." said Knuckles "I owe that creep a lot of pain for bringing his folks here to Mobius."

With that said, Knuckles and Shade stepped through the warp ring and they warped from the sanctuary of Royal HQ into the horrors of Black Acropolis. Knuckles and Shade were in for one of the biggest fights of their lives now, and the Martians they were going to be dealing with were two Martians that would give them one heck of a battle in the volcanic land of obsidian…

Black Acropolis, one of the most fearsome places in all of Mobius.

It wasn't hard to see why so many people feared this place. Two volcanoes erupted 24/7 in the place and at times, they erupted simultaneously, upping the fearsome factor of the zone. Making this even worse were the fact random lava geysers often spouted out and sprayed lava everywhere and one could not predict when they would erupt or where they would shoot up from. Sizzling hot lava was always around the place for the volcanoes were always erupting and lava rivers stretched around the zone. Some of the lava sizzled out and set into hard, black rock and some of it seeped into the lava rivers. Sometimes lots of lava got into the rivers and made them even bigger, other times little got into the rivers and changed nothing about them. The lava rivers had been getting bigger and longer every year and eventually, it would completely seep over the sides and spread around the zone, stretching far and wide before sizzling and burning out and becoming hard, black rock. Not that it would matter since the volcanoes would erupt yet again and make new lava rivers. So all-in-all, there was an endless cycle with the lava in Black Acropolis. The Mobians were lucky that the lava wouldn't be getting out of the zone and around Mobius or that would be bad. Things were going to be bad anyway for two Martian leaders were in the zone and ready to cause havoc. They were Sycranna, the recently promoted pilot of the Martian fleet, and Obelisk, the twin brother of Dranzer whom was currently in White Acropolis fighting Sonic and Tails (and we already know the outcome of that one but in continuity, nobody does at this moment). Sycranna and Obelisk weren't alone though. They had brought a squadron of six Martians, three males and three females, and an enormous Martian tank. The tank had mammoth sized treads that were rectangular in shape and were standing on the short ends of the rectangle with the long ends facing up. There was a spherical shaped cockpit that could rotate so no matter which way the tank was up, the driver could simply rotate the cockpit to face the current direction it was in. Above the cockpit was a spherical gun turret that could slide up and down and face the front and the back of the tank so if it was on its back or upside down, it could rotate the gun barrel into the needed place and still shoot. The Martian tank was truly a surreal piece of science and at the same time, quite marvellous. Tails would be geeking out over the tank if he ever saw it. Upon arriving at Black Acropolis, Sycranna and Obelisk tricked anyone living near the place that they were going to attack the zone and destroy it, threatening to spill lava everywhere and destroy the nearby villages so that they could get the villagers to cry for help and send them a Royal Fighter or two to deal with. The lie had worked and right now, they were waiting for some Mobians to come and face them. It was all part of the "divide and conquer" scheme after all. They had been waiting for roughly fifteen minutes at the moment but they weren't getting impatient since Sycranna and Obelisk weren't that bad when it came to patience. They often thought waiting for an hour is the best time to wait for before losing your patience. While waiting, the two and their squadron had taken the time to observe their surroundings and see what there was. Needless to say, they were quite thrilled since Black Acropolis was their idea of a good place to hang out in (they like lava filled places with volcanoes in them). They thought this place would be a fitting graveyard for any Mobian that dared to face them. Sycranna could tell he was going to enjoy this little conflict. The Martian soldiers with them were a little nervous about Black Acropolis but they didn't show it. They remained tight-lipped and at ease with laser rifles in their hands. The tank had a pilot and the pilot was patiently waiting for his chance to get the tank going and start blasting something (one of the most important traits of being a tank driver in the Martian army is to have patience and a love for explosions greater then even Michael Bay heh, heh, heh). As the Martians patiently waited, Sycranna decided to stir up a conversation to pass the time (they've not said anything for fifteen minutes believe it or not).

"I do have to say, when I began having images of Mobius in my head after Marik described it's inhabitants, I could not for the life of me have ever pictured THIS being a place on the planet." he purred as a lava geyser erupted in the background and sprayed lava everywhere.

"Same here." boomed the terrifying Obelisk in his deep, masculine, booming voice that echoed around the zone "Mind you, New Mobotropolis looked different to what I initially thought so this planet could defy many expectations."

"I'll say it does." said Sycranna "Not only do the Mobians defy our expectations but the sights around us do as well. Who would have thought there'd be a place on Mobius with TWO active volcanoes, stretching lava rivers and lava geysers spouting out at random? If we weren't here to destroy this planet then I'd be quite happy to make a home here, this is my idea of the perfect habitat."

"You'll take that back when a lava geyser ends up scorching your armour and frying your skin." snorted Obelisk "Why would any fool live in a lava-filled wasteland?"

"Because I happen to like lava filled habitats and erupting volcanoes!" snapped Sycranna "That's why I built my home near Olympus Mons* back on our glorious home planet of Mars! An erupting volcano is music to my ears."

Then suddenly, a lava geyser shot up from directly behind Sycranna and scalded his backside (it is covered by his armour but the armour around his bum's so hot from the lava that it's scorching him now). The Martian soldiers ran for cover as the lava geyser finished and drops of lava rained down onto the ground. Surprisingly, Obelisk stayed where he was and didn't so much as flinch at that (it's hard to scare him). None of the drops caught anybody and they just splashed down onto the ground and sizzled away into the dried up lava earth they were standing upon. As for poor Sycranna, he clutched his bottom in pain and started running around in a comical, crazed manner reminiscent of a comical portrayal of somebody running around while their bottom's on fire (we've all seen it in the cartoons from our childhoods haven't we?). Sycranna looked VERY silly indeed, running around like this while clutching his bottom and trying to cool it off. Obelisk just stood there and remained straight-faced as Sycranna ran circles around him to cool his bum off. Deep inside, he was fuming like mad at Sycranna's insolence. After a minute of running around, the burns cooled down and Sycranna stopped running around. He patted his bum and he sighed with relief.

"Phew…I'm glad that's over with." puffed Sycranna "Goodness me, that was embarrassing." he muttered, going pink in the face over his gaff.

"You're lucky Diablo and the other lead Martians weren't around to see that or Diablo would have demoted you faster then he promoted you." sneered Obelisk, his face trying to twist into a smirk but he found it hard to do so since smiling isn't one of his professions.

"Be quiet Obelisk!" snapped Sycranna "I'd like to see you try and sneer at me when YOUR rear end gets scalded by lava!"

"Don't be so dramatic Sycranna and let it drop." ordered Obelisk "Diablo would not like to see us arguing when we have a job to do."

"Fair enough." hissed Sycranna, simmering down a little but still feeling a little angry right now "Let us put it behind us now. After all, one case of a Martian making a fool of himself is enough for today."

"Indeed." said Obelisk "Now, let's see if any Mobians have arrived to stop us yet."

Obelisk reached onto his belt and took off a device that was attached to it. The device was round and shaped like a lollipop with a black colour-scheme and a green screen on it. The device picked up non-Martian signatures and was often used when hunting for enemies and tracing down enemy spies. Obelisk peered at the device and waited to see if anything happened on the screen. The screen lit up and displayed some red dots on the screen. Quite a lot of red dots. The red dots symbolized any non-Martian signatures. The device had picked up either a bunch of Mobians or maybe some other kind of non-Martian signature. The device would pick up even robots for they were non-Martian and the device picked up any life-form that was non-Martian, real or robotical. Obelisk was surprised at how many dots were on the screen.

"This is surprising, the device seems to indicate we may have quite a lot of Mobians to deal with." said Obelisk in a surprised voice "There's a lot of non-Martian life-forms being picked up on it."

"The Mobians are resourceful I'll give them that." said Sycranna in a slimy, slithery tone of voice "Well, we'll just put them all down. Martians, let's go and terminate some Mobians! Obelisk, lead the way!"

Obelisk obeyed and he marched off, following the device's directions. Sycranna followed Obelisk and the Martian soldiers followed him. The tank started up and trundled slowly behind the Martians. The Martians all marched off through the rocky plains of Black Acropolis, heading to where the signatures were being picked up. Who knew what they were going to be up against when they arrived at the coordinates the device was leading them to…

Not too far away from the marching Martians, the Super Warp Ring opened up and Knuckles and Shade arrived in Black Acropolis. The warp ring closed behind them, sealing them off from Royal HQ and trapping them in the Apocalypse Zone until they called for a return home. Knuckles and Shade were pretty surprised at how hot it was in Black Acropolis and poor Shade felt the worst of it since she was wearing a full-body suit and an armoured helmet. Knuckles and Shade looked around the zone of hell and they could see they were quite close to a lava river. There were slabs of stone floating down the river but they wouldn't be intact for long. The lava's heat would melt the stone away and then it would crumble and sink down into the lava where the pieces would dissolve in the searing heat. Knuckles and Shade knew Black Acropolis was going to be deadly but they were amazed at just how much lava there truly was.

"Whoa…" said Knuckles "It's often said this place is worse then anyone can dare describe. This place defies all descriptions of the place I've heard!"

"Same here, and it's so hot in this place." moaned Shade, sheathing her helmet so she could get some air and cool off slightly "I hope we don't spend too long here, I'm not sure if I can take it here for long. The heat's already getting to me."

"Stay strong Shade, we'll have to be at our best here." said Knuckles reassuringly "This place is a death zone and there are Martians here that we have to defeat. Although I'm still wondering why the Martians would dare set foot in here. Being in Black Acropolis is often considered a method of suicide!"

"Knowing them freaks, they'd probably love this place." muttered Shade "Cosmo tells me that Martians are peace-haters, anti-pacifists and the like. This hell would be their idea of home I bet."

"I can't argue with you there Shade." said Knuckles grimly "And I can see why the locals who live near here would get so worked up about the idea of Martians attacking this place. I mean look at what could possibly happen if this place got ransacked. That lava could flow out towards the villages and burn them alive. And who knows how much damage could be done if they start bombarding the two volcanoes here!"

He pointed at the two erupting volcanoes that were just in sight from where they were. They weren't doing anything at the moment, just smoking a little. But it was only a matter of time before they began erupting again.

"I have a nasty feeling the Martians maybe crazy enough to do something like that, blow up the volcanoes or something." said Knuckles "We all know what Marik's like so I can just imagine what the other Martians are like."

"They're probably worse than he is." murmured Shade "After all, Marik would have been brought up by those Martians and made into the sadistic little psychopath he is now."

"You have a point there." said Knuckles agreeably "So who do you think we'll be fighting? Marik's mom? Marik's dad? Marik's brother or sister if he has any? Marik's mates?"

"We could be against anybody." muttered Shade, raising her blades and looking around for something preferably Martian-like to slash "I don't care who I'm against as long as it means getting rid of the Martians and their filth. Marik was bad enough, we don't need anymore Martians here."

"Eesh, what have the Martians done to rile you up so badly Shade?" asked Knuckles, puzzlement evident on his face "I mean, you've barely met Marik, you know little of the Martians and all you know came from Cosmo."

"Marik beat me up badly during the doctor's attempt ransacking of NewMobotropolis with his Egg Feet, which as we know has recently been terminated." explained Shade "I owe him a rematch. And the descriptions of the Martians given to me by Cosmo makes me vehemently loathe them with every inch of my body. Especially as they sound as bad as Imperator Ix." she looked down at the ground sadly as memories of Ix and her childhood came back to her "And the fact they…obliterated Cosmo's race just…sickens me. It makes me think of that terrible time he attempted to destroy Angel Island. I hated every moment of that and the Martians are just making me think of those terrible times."

Knuckles could feel Shade's discomfort right now so he decided to simmer his co-guardian down a little. He put an arm around Shade's shoulder and took her hand into his other hand. Shade looked up into Knuckles' eyes with her eyes and wondered what was going on.

"I can see your hatred now." said Knuckles softly "But don't let your hate of the Martians get too extreme. The only thing that matters now is stopping them and saving Mobius. Think you can do that for me Shade?"

Shade smiled at Knuckles.

"Yes guardian." said Shade "I shall not let our mission be clouded by hatred. The only thing that matters is stopping the Martians."

Knuckles nodded agreeably and the two echidnas began leaning towards each other as if they were suddenly about to kiss each other. But before they could start getting romantic with each other, the sound of approaching feet cut them off and they broke up their hug. Knuckles and Shade braced themselves for an inevitable battle and they looked around for anything coming towards them.

"What's that?" asked Knuckles "Martians?"

"I don't think so." said Shade "These footsteps sound…metallic. Robotical even. I think robots are coming towards us."

"And no prizes for guessing who they belong to!" snarled Knuckles.

He had a beady little idea on what robots were coming towards them. And as the clanking noise got louder and louder and the owners of the clanking feet stomped into view, his guesses were right. A horde of Eggman robots, all Egg-Pawns armed with jousts and pistols, were marching through the land of obsidian and heading towards Knuckles and Shade. The two got a very nasty surprise though as the Eggman robots got nearer and nearer. A robot was standing in front of the troops and the robot looked like a robotical version of Knuckles! It's head was shaped like Knuckles, dreadlocks and all only with a black visor lit-up with green optics instead of eyes and instead of actual hands, it had rectangular lower arms with huge spikes on them to resemble Knuckles' trademark fist spikes. Knuckles could not believe his eyes. First Metal Sonic and now Metal Knuckles?! Is there anything Dr. Eggman WON'T make?! Either way, Knuckles was not going to let Metal Knuckles stay functioning. No silly robot dares take on his image and gets away with it! Knuckles stampeded towards Metal Knuckles so suddenly and so swiftly you'd think somebody had just put him on a spring and had him spring out towards Metal Knuckles. Shade wasn't sure if that was a good idea and she hesitated. Knuckles and Metal Knuckles lashed out at each other and began punching at each other.

"A robot me?! Dr. Eggman had the ball-bearings to make A ROBOT ME?!" screamed Knuckles, punching Metal Knuckles in the gut "How dare he! When I get my hands on that fat monster, I'll tear him apart just like I'm going to do to you when I'm through with you faker!"

He then uppercut Metal Knuckles into the air and sent him hurling over the horde of Egg-Pawns and crashing down behind them. The Egg-Pawns quickly scattered for they knew better then to take on someone as ferocious as Knuckles. Knuckles charged through them all as they stepped out of his way and he and Metal Knuckles began punching at each other once again.

"Shade, you deal with the Egg-Pawns while I smash my Metal-Copy!" cried Knuckles.

"Certainly guardian." said Shade, rushing towards the Egg-Pawns with her blades at the ready.

Knuckles and Metal Knuckles began having a boxing match with each other while Shade darted towards the Egg-Pawns furiously. The Egg-Pawns strangely enough didn't bother to resist Shade. They all ran for their lives as Shade came at them with her blades ready to cleave them in two. Shade slashed one Egg-Pawn to pieces with one fell swipe of her blades but before she could prepare to attack another one, she noticed that the Egg-Pawns were running around like headless chickens as opposed to fighting them like they usually would. It was not in Shade's nature to attack an enemy who didn't want to fight so she didn't attack anymore of them. She began to wonder what was going on. Why weren't they trying to kill her? Why were they running around and not putting up a fight? Shade decided to see what was up. She ran towards another Egg-Pawn and grabbed it by the arm. The Egg-Pawn frantically tried to get out of her grasp but Shade held onto it tight and pulled it towards her. The Egg-Pawn pointed its gun at Shade and threatened to shoot her in hopes of making her let go but Shade kicked the gun out of its hand and glared into its frightened optics.

"OK little robot, what's going on with you? Why aren't you and your troops fighting me?" asked Shade.

"B-b-b-be-c-c-cause w-w-w-we a-a-a-aren't s-s-s-su-p-p-p-posed t-t-t-to f-f-f-fight you!" shrieked the Egg Pawn in a robotically enhanced voice (Eggman's given his Egg-Pawns voices now) "W-w-w-we're h-h-h-h-here t-t-t-to h-h-h-help y-y-y-you f-f-f-fight th-th-th-the M-M-M-M-Martians! P-p-p-please d-d-d-don't hurt me!" it whimpered, cowering down on it's knees at the mercy of Shade.

Shade couldn't believe her ears. Eggman's robots were here to… HELP…them?! How could this be? Eggman didn't know the Martians had invaded Mobius! Did he…? Shade wasn't entirely convinced by this so she held her blade at the neck of the Egg-Pawn. The Egg-Pawn shrieked like a frightened dog.

"You are lying to me!" snarled Shade "You're here to kill me and Knuckles and if you do not surrender yourself then I shall have to resort to needless violence, something I strongly oppose to!"

"P-p-p-p-please d-d-d-don't k-k-k-kill me!" screamed the Egg-Pawn "I-I-I-I'll p-p-p-prove it that I-I-I-I sp-sp-speak the t-t-t-truth!"

He touched a button on the side of his head and played out a pre-recorded message that Eggman had ordered him to play for the Mobians when the time was right. The message rang out from the Egg-Pawn's voice box and played like this:

The message ended and Shade relaxed her expression. She lowered her arm and let go of the whimpering Egg-Pawn. The Egg-Pawn crawled nervously away from Shade. Eggman has learnt about he Martian's presence and wants to HELP defeat them? Well, this was something they shouldn't exploit for Dr. Eggman could be very useful to them. After all, his creations were surely going to be able to stand up to the Martians. Silver Sonic in particular was strong enough to wound even the nefarious Devion so who knew what Eggman's robots could do to a Martian? Now Shade knew the truth, she had to calm Knuckles down and stop him from smashing Metal Knuckles since he was likely to be a key factor in Eggman's squadron here, a key factor that would be effective against the Martians. After all, Metal Sonic was one tough robot so a Metal Knuckles was bound to be just as effective. Shade sheathed her blades and belted over to Knuckles and Metal Knuckles to stop them fighting before they caved each other's heads in. The two were in a heated battle right now. Metal Knuckles didn't want to fight Knuckles since he wasn't supposed to but Knuckles was attacking him so he had no choice but to fight. At the moment, Metal Knuckles was on top. He slashed Knuckles across the chest with his metal claws and then punched him in the gut. Knuckles punched Metal Knuckles back but Metal Knuckles blocked the blow with his arms. Metal Knuckles uppercut Knuckles into the air with his right arm and Knuckles hurled through the air. He crashed landed near a shooting lava geyser and the lava shooting up into the air rained back down onto the ground, splashing all around Knuckles and hissing away into nothing. Knuckles was relieved to see he barely missed it and he leaped back onto his feet. Metal Knuckles clouted Knuckles across the face and then kicked him in the gut. Knuckles retaliated with a gut-kick of his own and then he uppercut Metal Knuckles into the air once again. Metal Knuckles landed with a sharp clunk on the rocky ground that almost shook him apart. Knuckles ran over to Metal Knuckles but before he could do anything, Metal Knuckles leaped up onto his feet and the two linked arms with each other. They pushed on each other and tried to overpower one another but Shade arrived on the scene and pushed the two away from each other. She stood between them with her hands held out and she yelled out.

"Stop! Stop this senseless fighting!"

"Shade?! What the hell are you doing?!" blurted Knuckles "Metal Knuckles and his goons are here to capture us or kill us for Dr. Eggman! Why are you stopping me?!"

"Because the Eggman robots are here to help us fight the Martians!" explained Shade "If you don't believe then allow the Eggman robots to tell you themselves! In fact, can you tell him yourself Metal Knuckles?"

Metal Knuckles lowered his arms, relieved to see that Shade understood their real motives and reason for being here right now.

He then looked at Knuckles with his glowing green optics. Instead of attacking him, Metal Knuckles just played the pre-recorded message Eggman had given to all his robots to play for Sonic or any of his friends so they could understand their reason for being here and prove that they're on their side. The message played out exactly the same as it did when the Egg-Pawn played it for Shade. Knuckles listened to the message and he was amazed at what he had just heard. Eggman found out about the Martians and was hoping to help the Royal Fighters stop them? Well this was an unlikely but surprising turn of events! Knuckles didn't really believe it though but he could see that fighting Eggman's forces was just going to slow him and Shade down as well as get them nowhere in this hell on Mobius. Martians were here and probably planning terrible things and all fighting Eggman's forces was going to do was distract them and prevent them from finding the Martians any quicker. So whether he believed it or not, Knuckles knew that allying with Dr. Eggman was the right thing to do at this moment. After all, the more the merrier as they say although Knuckles would have been quite content taking the Martians out on his own. But if Eggman was here to help then he should allow him to help. Knuckles looked at Metal Knuckles and he sighed.

"So you're here to help us after all." he said "Sorry about the beat down, I jumped to conclusions like I usually do. So Metal Knuckles, me and Shade take you up on your offer. You may help us defeat the Martians here but NO stabbing us in the back once they're defeated! Or I'll break you to pieces!"

Metal Knuckles nodded understandably. After all, he and his forces hadn't been given orders to backstab anyone they allied with so why would they do something like that? Eggman's robots only do what they're told, nothing more and nothing less. Shade smiled dryly at the reluctant Knuckles.

"Well, now that mess is sorted out, let's get finding the Martians." said Shade "We'll have to look hard for they could be anywhere right now."

"They wouldn't happen to be directly above you right now would they?" sneered a deep, slithering voice that came from nowhere.

Knuckles and Shade jumped a foot in the air and they looked around to see who said that. They looked up and saw none other than Sycranna and Obelisk standing atop a ten-foot high lump in the ground and glowering at them. Their squadron of six and the Martian tank was directly behind them and itching to start shooting at them. Knuckles and Shade were surprised at what they were up against and the Egg-Pawns all aimed their pistols at the Martians while Metal Knuckles just raised his metal claws. They all prepared to do battle with the Martians whereas the Martians just sneered at their opponents.

"So this is all we've got to resist us?" cackled Sycranna "Two red freaks with ludicrous looking hair styles and a bunch of robots with hideous designs as well as a robot that resembles the fist-spiked freak? This isn't going to be a challenge at all! This is going to be merely a warm-up exercise for us!"

Obelisk however pounded Sycranna on the head and made Sycranna groan in pain.

"You fool! We have been warned not to under-estimate the indigenous species of this planet!" snarled Obelisk "Marik has told us they're more powerful then their appearances would suggest and one Mobian he described was a powerful warrior named Knuckles whom was described as having spiked fists. Marik told us that Knuckles is one of the strongest Mobians out there so he is one we should not take lightly."

"Well it's nice that Marik remembered to point out that I'm strong and that I shouldn't be taken lightly." sneered Knuckles "And he was right to do so! For I am certainly NOT to be taken lightly!"

With that said, Knuckles belted towards where the Martians were standing but Obelisk reached behind him and pulled out his handheld rotary cannon. He pointed the cannon at Knuckles and began shooting at him furiously. Knuckles jumped in alarm and he turned around and fled for it as laser bullets showered the ground and sent chunks of the earth flying up into the air. Obelisk fired quite a few rounds at Knuckles furiously and he tried as hard as he could to hit the hot-headed echidna guardian. Knuckles did a surprisingly good job at dodging the furious cannon fire from Obelisk. But alas, he couldn't dodge everything for he wasn't as fast as Sonic. Obelisk managed to tag Knuckles on the arm with his cannon. The laser bullet skilled past Knuckles' arm and left a horrible cut across it. Knuckles cried out in pain and actually ended up blurting out a very dirty curse word that cannot be mentioned for the sake of the younger readers reading this story. The cut on Knuckles' arm was pretty severe and it was bleeding and stinging like mad. Knuckles fell onto his knees and he gripped his arm in pain.

"Argh! Ugh, son of a gun that hurt!" he moaned.

"Nice shot Obelisk." purred Sycranna "Now finish him off while he's down."

Obelisk obliged of course and he pointed his rotary cannon at Knuckles, ready to fire at him and kill him. But that shot would never happen for Shade jumped in front of Knuckles and swept the air with her blades. A pink wave of energy emitted from the blades and swept towards the Martians. This was her trademark attack of Blade Rush as we all know. The Blade Rush struck Obelisk in the face and made him stagger backwards, dropping his rotary cannon and clutching his face in pain. Sycranna growled at Shade and he pointed a long, thin, clawed finger at her.

"Martians, attack!" he bellowed at the top of his voice.

The six Martian soldiers obeyed and they all charged down towards the echidnas and robots. The Egg-Pawns immediately started firing at the Martians but the Martian soldiers dodged their gunfire and started shooting at the Egg-Pawns. Soon the battlefield was filled with flying gunshots all firing in different directions and striking various areas of the battlefield. Most of the shots fired at one another missed and hit nobody but some shots did manage to hit their target. Anyone who got hit though wasn't hurt that badly by the shot for it mostly it their shoulder or skimmed their arm rather then flat out hit them. Obelisk thundered down towards Knuckles with his rotary cannon in hand and he start shooting rapidly at the echidna. The barrel to the cannon spun so fast it looked like a black blur spinning around the cannon and bullets were firing so fast that it was a miracle Knuckles was even managing to dodge any of them! But Knuckles somehow managed to dodge all the firing bullets and he jumped up into the air. He glided towards Obelisk with the aid of his dreadlocks and he socked the Martian directly in the face. Obelisk dropped the rotary cannon and staggered backwards. Just at that moment, a lava geyser erupted up from beside Knuckles and Obelisk and Knuckles quickly kicked Obelisk's rotary cannon into the geyser. The shooting lava scorched and melted the cannon like an ice cream due to how hot it was, rendering it useless to Obelisk now. The lava geyser finished spouting up and drops of lava rained down onto the ground around Knuckles and Obelisk. Obelisk fumed at Knuckles for destroying his weapon and he clenched his fists.

"You insolent red dog!" growled Obelisk "That weapon is one of my most potent weapons in my armoury! I'll tear out your throat for that!"

"We'll see about that jerk!" growled Knuckles, bashing his fists together "I've taken on Devatrons and they're twice the threat you and your goons ever will be!"

The two potential rivals began to circle each other slowly as they prepared to attack and unleash hell on each other.

"I've had my fair share of powerful opponents too." crowed Obelisk "I fought Yellow Zelkova, one of the strongest warriors in the Seedrian fleet and his strength is matched by very few people out there."

"Sounds like my kind of guy." sneered Knuckles "Pity you Martian freaks killed all the Seedrians so I won't get to meet him! Which reminds me, I happen to be a good friend of Cosmo's and the fact you've destroyed her planet and rendered her the last of her kind makes me sick! For Cosmo and her world, you're going down Martian!"

"We shall see about that." retorted Obelisk "I'll make sure to bring your head to my twin brother Dranzer so I can show him what I've accomplished without him."

The two then pounded towards each other like gladiators and they punched at each other. Knuckles threw a very powerful punch at Obelisk's face and came pretty close to breaking his jaw. Obelisk staggered back and he rubbed his jaw better. Knuckles punched him in the gut but Obelisk's tough armour shielded him from much of the blow so it didn't hurt him as much as it could have. Obelisk then decided to start throwing punches of his own. A threw a punch that could best any superstar boxer on Earth at Knuckles and he walloped him squarely in the cheek. Knuckles was thrown five whole metres across the battlefield and he lay there on his side, stunned and unable to believe that punch he'd just received. Knuckles was so taken aback by how powerful that punch was that all he could do was lie there on his side, staring ahead of him and fighting the stinging pain in his cheek. Nobody had ever given him such a powerful punch, not even a Devatron. Obelisk was one tough Martian and Knuckles full realized that now. Obelisk cackled a booming, hearty cackle at Knuckles and he drew out his sword (he's like his brother Dranzer, he carries a gun AND a sword) from the sheath on his back. He raised the sword high above his head and he was about to bring it slashing down on Knuckles but Knuckles recovered from that terrific punch and he socked Obelisk in the face with both fists. Obelisk was brought down onto his back and he dropped his sword. Knuckles jumped onto Obelisk and he started to punch Obelisk all over his face as hard as he could. He managed to leave a few dents on his helmet as he punched him. Obelisk grabbed Knuckles though and tossed him off of himself. He picked himself up and braced himself as Knuckles jumped up and punched him again. His arms blocked the blow beautifully and Dranzer kicked upwards, walloping Knuckles and knocked him down onto his back. Knuckles picked himself up only to get roundhouse punched by Obelisk as he got back to his feet and Obelisk let Knuckles have it with a few powerful punches and then a terrific uppercut that could do some serious damage if he threw it just right. Knuckles was sent hurling through the air about twenty feet and he crashed down near a gaping hole in the ground about fifty meters away from Obelisk. That was one powerful uppercut he'd received from the powerful green-armoured Martian. Obelisk picked up his sword, sheathed it and then thundered towards Knuckles, his boots making loud stomping noises as he charged towards him and he had his hands held out. Knuckles picked himself up and looked behind him. There was a huge hole in the ground and at the bottom of the hole was a pool of lava. The hole was about one-hundred meters wide and went down very deep. This was one hole that Knuckles certainly could do without falling down. Obelisk reached Knuckles but before he could punch him down the hole, Knuckles rammed Obelisk in the gut and grabbed him. He carried Obelisk away from the hole and threw him across the battlefield. Obelisk scraped across the ground rather violently, leaving horrible scratch marks in his armour, and he came to a halt. Obelisk picked himself up and was furious to see his armour all scratched like it was now. Obelisk pounded back to Knuckles and the two ended up having a boxing match with one another. They punched each other as hard as they could all over their bodies and started trying to top one another's punch with every new punch they threw being harder than the old punch. Obelisk however uppercut Knuckles in the face again and brought him down onto his back. Obelisk lunged at Knuckles but Knuckles kicked him away with his legs and picked himself up. Knuckles then jumped up, spun around, and roundhouse kicked Obelisk in the face. Obelisk was almost thrown down onto his back but he managed to remain standing and he and Knuckles punched each other again.

As for Shade, she could see that Knuckles was having a bit of a tough time with Obelisk and she wanted to help her friend so she ran over to help Knuckles. But Sycranna had leaped in front of her and he drew out his rapier. He pointed it directly at Shade's belly and made her jump back in alarm.

"Nah, ah, ah my pretty." purred Sycranna "Your boyfriend has his opponent so I'll give you yours. I think I'll deal with you myself."

"Then so be it." said Shade, brandishing her blades and preparing to attack Sycranna "I won't be so merciful on you. You will be exterminated Martian scum!"

"Oh, ho, ho, ho, ho, ha, ha, ha, ha!" cackled Sycranna "I'd like to see you try girl!"

"The name is Shade and it'll be the last name you'll ever hear!" snarled Shade, deploying her helmet.

She jumped up at Sycranna and violently slashed the Martian across the face with her two blades, leaving horrific cuts on them that would later become scars. Sycranna howled in pain and he clutched his face, grimacing tensely. Shade then Blade-Rushed Sycranna and swept the Grand Pilot off of his feet. Sycranna landed with a heavy thud on his back. Shade pounded towards Sycranna, roaring a fierce battle roar as she did so. Sycranna suddenly leaped onto his feet and he slashed Shade across the belly with his rapier. Shade squealed a terrible scream and she keeled over onto her knees, grimacing tensely and clutching her gut. There was a long thin cut across it that was superficial at most but still bad. Sycranna laughed at Shade and he added insult to injury by dropkicking the injured echidna into the air and sending her rolling away from him. Shade grimaced tensely and curled up on her side as if she had a killer tummy ache. Sycranna cackled at Shade and he twirled the rapier around. He advanced on Shade, ready to kill the female, suited echidna with one swift stab. He stood over her and prepared to stab her in the heart with his rapier. But Shade quickly blocked the attempted stab with her blades. She jumped up onto her feet and Blade Rushed Sycranna. Sycranna stumbled backwards and Shade jumped up and drop-kicked him in the head. Sycranna growled furiously, rubbing his head, and he threw the rapier at Shade. Shade simply cleaved the rapier in two with one swift slash of her blades. Shade sheathed her blades and ran over to Sycranna. Sycranna however lashed out and kicked Shade in the gut, hitting her cut and making the attack more painful. Shade winced in pain and doubled-over, clutching her belly in pain. Sycranna cackled mockingly at Shade and then he uppercut the poor echidna into the air. Shade hurled through the air in a rainbow arc spanning thirty meters and she came down with a heavy thud. Shade slowly picked herself up just as Sycranna was running towards her. But before he could grab Shade, a lava-geyser suddenly shot up from directly under his feet and sent him hurling up into the air! Sycranna was thrown up into the air goodness knows how high and after the lava geyser died down, he came hurling back down to the ground like a falling star. Shade waited for just the right moment and then suddenly, she jumped up into the air like a jackrabbit and she give Sycranna a tremendous kick just as he was coming back down to earth. Sycranna hurled across the battlefield about thirty feet still in the air and he came down with a crash hard enough to break bones on the ground. His armour protected him from most of the impact but he still felt it very badly. Sycranna rolled across the ground like a football and he came to a stop a good distance away from Shade. In fact Sycranna was so far away from Shade that the echidna could only just see him. Sycranna picked himself up, grunting loudly and grimacing as he did so. His armour was dented and scarred in many places from that impact and he was having trouble standing. He reached onto his belt and grabbed a communications device. He was very far away from his troops and the tank so he needed the communications device to contact them for they would not be able to hear him at all. He contacted the tank driver.

"Marlon, this is Sycranna, start firing at the two Mobians and the robots!" he thundered into the device "We need the tank's incredible fire power right now!"

The tank driver, name Marlon, got the message and he obeyed instantly. He steered the tank to the left and he aimed the cannon barrel at Shade. The tank then fired a very powerful blast at Shade. Shade stared in horror at the firing tank and quickly jumped out of the way before the blast could hit her. The blast missed Shade by the skin of her teeth and it exploded upon hitting the ground. It was like a bomb going off as it hit the ground. Knuckles heard the cannon blast and he tried to run over to Shade to help her but Obelisk grabbed him by the dreadlocks and held him firmly back. The tank fired at Shade again but Shade dodged the attack again, the blast missing her yet again and exploding upon impact. Shade felt the force of the explosion sweep over her as she lay on the ground, her body tightly pressed down on it. The Egg-Pawns saw the firing tank and they abandoned their Martian soldier opponents. They started firing at the tank with the puny little pistols. But try as they might, their guns had no effect whatsoever on the heavily-armoured tank. The shots were all deflected by the tank's tough armour. The tank then trundled to the right and pointed it's long barrel at the Egg-Pawns. The Egg-Pawns didn't stop shooting though, they carried on in the vain hope of destroying the tank eventually. The tank however fired at the Eggman robots and with the exception of Metal Knuckles, who had flown out of the way before the shot even fired, they were all destroyed in seconds by the powerful blast. Metal Knuckles flew towards the tank and he smashed through the cockpit window, startling Marlon as he did so. He lashed out at Marlon and plunged his claws into his chest, killing him instantly and rendering the tank useless for it had no driver now. Metal Knuckles flew out of the tank and started flying towards the Martian soldiers. The Martian soldiers fired at Metal Knuckles but Metal Knuckles ploughed through them all effortlessly. He punched each and every one of them and then slashed them across the faces with a swipe of his metal claws. Sycranna ran back towards the fight and he roundhouse punched Metal Knuckles onto the ground. Metal Knuckles picked himself up and started to floor Sycranna at an incredible speed. He pounded Sycranna in the gut, then on the head and then he slashed him across the face. Sycranna screamed in pain and Metal Knuckles added insult to injury by upper cutting him into the air. Sycranna hurled through the air and landed on his stomach very hard. Sycranna picked himself up only to get Blade Rushed across the chest by Shade. Sycranna roared fiercely and dropkicked Shade in the head. Her helmet protected her from much of the kick but she still felt it. Metal Knuckles punched Sycranna but Sycranna kicked him back and then slashed him across the face with his long thin claws, leaving heavy scratches on Metal Knuckles' head. Shade and Metal Knuckles both lunged at Sycranna like a pair of pouncing wolves and they brought him down onto the ground.

Over to Knuckles and Obelisk, their fight was getting more and more hectic by the second. Knuckles roundhouse punched Obelisk in the head and then gave him a right and left hook each to the cheek but Obelisk struck back hard with a punch to the gut and then a backhand across the head. Knuckles staggered near the hole in the ground but he managed to save himself falling in and he rammed Obelisk in the gut with his shoulder. Obelisk doubled over and Knuckles clouted him across the face with the back of his hand. Obelisk was brought down onto his knees and Knuckles fist-slammed the top of his head with his fists. Knuckles decided to make it hurt even more by taking Obelisk's helmet off and punching him on the cranium but before he could even touch Obelisk's helmet, Obelisk clasped his fists together and uppercut him with both hands. Knuckles hurled through the air and came down with a heavy crash onto the ground a few feet away from the hole. The hole suddenly erupted with lava and lava blasted up into the air. The giant hole they were fighting near was indeed a massive lava geyser and it was going off right now. The lava geyser finished shooting lava up into the air and the lava rained back down onto the ground in huge drops of fiery hot lava. None of the drops hit Knuckles or Obelisk, they just splashed down onto the ground and hissed away into nothing. Knuckles struggled back onto his feet and he threw another punch at Obelisk. But that punch was much weaker than before. Obelisk's pounding of him was starting to weaken him and the heat of Black Acropolis was getting to him so he felt weak. Knuckles threw another desperate punch but after punching Obelisk again, he collapsed onto his knees, gasping for breath and feeling lame right now. Obelisk sneered at Knuckles and he kicked him over onto his back. Knuckles lay on his back, groaning and straining to get back up.

"Grrrr…come on Knuckles…you can do it!" he grunted.

But the heat of the zone combined with Obelisk's beating had left him too weak to get back up. He just lay there, waiting for Obelisk to finish him off. Obelisk smirked at Knuckles and he unsheathed his sword.

"You have fought honourably Knuckles." said Obelisk "And thus, I shall give you and honouree death. And that will be falling by my blade."

He raised the sword high above his head and was ready to kill Knuckles with one swift chop to the neck that would render him headless and dead. Shade however saw what Obelisk was about to do and she quickly Blade-Rushed the sword out of Obelisk's hands before he could kill Knuckles. Obelisk growled furiously and he raised his fists as Shade ran towards him. Obelisk uppercut Shade into the air just as she came to him and Shade landed sharply on her back. But as she landed on the ground, Metal Knuckles hammered Sycranna across the battlefield and sent him flying directly into Obelisk. Sycranna hit Obelisk and the two Martians ended up tumbling backwards down into the giant lava geyser! They both screamed a pair of blood-curdling screams as they plummeted to their seemingly inevitable deaths. But as they plummeted down into the geyser, the geyser erupted again and shot the two Martians up into the air. They rocketed up into the air a very great height and then they were sent plummeting down to the ground like falling meteorites. They hit the ground both together and they passed out from the impact. They lay there on their backs, seemingly dead and finished off for good. Their armour and skin was horribly singed by the lava geyser and their armour was also broken and cracked in many places. They looked dreadful and it was safe to assume that they were dead. Shade panted heavily and she retracted her helmet, getting some fresh air back to her lungs and she wiped some sweat off of her head.

"Phew…we've done it." she said "They're dead. Finished, it's done. Mission accomplished. Thank you for that Metal Knuckles, you helped us win the battle."

Metal Knuckles nodded and seeing as his mission was accomplished, he flew off back to Dr. Eggman. He flew off into the sky and left Black Acropolis behind. Now Metal Knuckles was gone, Shade wandered over to Knuckles and helped him up onto his feet. Knuckles could feel his strength coming back to him now he was being helped up by his co-guardian.

"Ugh…thanks for the save Shade." said Knuckles "I was nearly a goner."

"You're welcome guardian." said Shade with a smile on her beautiful face "Although Metal Knuckles helped us win that battle. I'm amazed we've survived."

"I'm glad we did." said Knuckles "Although…cough…you may have to tuck me in tonight. I feel awful now."

"So do I, the heat's getting to us I think." said Shade "And we both have wounds that need tending to. Since our mission is complete, we can get some medical treatment and some fresh air back at home."

She touched the side of her headband and switched on a comlink she had hidden under there.

"Royal HQ? This is Shade the Echidna requesting warp ring back home please. We've done our mission." she reported.

"No problem Shade." came the voice of Nicole the Lynx "We're bringing home some others first so bear with us for the moment."

Shade nodded and she switched off her communicator. Shade and Knuckles then sat down onto the ground to rest their weary legs as they waited for Silver's Super Warp Ring to open up and take them back home.

"Since we have to wait while they bring some others home first, I guess our friends are doing well in their locations." guessed Knuckles "That's good to hear."

Shade nodded agreeably.

"Since we're going to be waiting for a while at most Knuckles, there's something I want to give you." said Shade.

Before Knuckles could ask her what she wanted to ask him, Shade grabbed his shoulders and pulled him into a kiss. Knuckles was completely taken aback by this but he didn't mind. He instead just hugged Shade back and the two echidnas started embracing each other lovingly like a proper boyfriend/girlfriend couple would. They had secretly been harbouring romantic feelings for one another and it had taken them until now to finally let it out. Knuckles and Shade could fully confirm their love for each other now and they couldn't be happier. As Knuckles and Shade kissed and cuddled each other lovingly, they failed to noticed that Obelisk started to open up his charred, scorched eyes…

Story 130: Divide and Conquer Part 4: Warring on the Railroad

Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas vanished through Silver the Hedgehog's Super Warp Ring as they leapt through it and into the hell-hole that is Black Acropolis. The Super Warp Ring closed up after Knuckles and Shade went through it, sealing them off from Royal HQ until they opened it up again. Knuckles and Shade had been the third of many Royal Fighter teams that were departing from Royal HQ and going to a random country on Mobius to stop the Martian threat that was going on there. The Martians had invaded Mobius and had begun their onslaught by dividing their resources across the globe. Of course, the whole thing was a cowardly gambit suggested by Marik the Martian in order to divide the Royal Fighters and make them easier to pick off one by one. So far, Sonic & Tails had departed for Holoska, Wilson and Mandy had departed for Grand Metropolis and Knuckles and Shade had just departed to Black Acropolis. Martians were attacking all those places and right now, the heroes would be dealing with them and hopefully stopping them from causing much harm. Now Knuckles and Shade had left, Queen Sally Acorn turned to the other Royal Fighters in the room and pursed her lips.

"OK then, who wants to go next or will I be choosing who goes next?" asked Sally politely.

"Sally, if it's alright with you, can I pick who goes next?" asked Nicole the Lynx, the Acorn Family's lady-in-waiting and best friend of Sally Acorn "I have a good idea on who should go next."

"OK then Nicole, who should we deploy to the next location that has a Martian attack going on?" asked Sally.

"If it's alright Sally, I think we should send Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John and Ruben the Water Panther next." said Nicole "They could do with getting into the action anytime soon. I believe you said they're going to Rail Canyon?"

"I did indeed." said Sally "Well Bunnie, Geoffrey and Ruben, do you wish to deploy next?"

"We'd be more than happy to." said Geoffrey St. John, saluting Sally Acorn respectfully "I'm itching to give those blighters a good pounding for daring to invade Mobius."

"And I'm eager for a chance to redeem myself for my blunder earlier." said Ruben the Water Panther, still feeling bad about accidentally short-circuiting Bunnie Rabbot's robot limbs with his water powers earlier "I still can't stand the fact that a Martian made me drench Bunnie accidentally earlier."

"Oh Ruben hon, stop holdin' that over yerself." said Bunnie sweetly, patting Ruben affectionately on the head "It's all over and dun with now, you needn't keep beating yerself up just because ya'll accidentally short-circuited mah limbs in the earlier battle."

"I know, I know." sighed Ruben glumly "It's just, I hate making mistakes. It makes me feel awful inside when I mess up on something. I'm not used to making mistakes so when I do make one, I tend to let it get to me pretty badly."

"That's completely understandable mate." said Geoffrey with sympathy in his voice "I wasn't keen on making mistakes when I was a lad. Whenever I messed up, I'd proper whine and moan about it and feel like an idiot. But that's the fact of life, nobody's perfect and we all make mistakes. But the beauty of making mistakes is the ability to work off of them later. Mistakes can often set people up for success in the future. And that's the case with your mistake Ruben lad," he added "You see, now we know that Bunnie's robot limbs are prone to short-circuiting in water, Tails replaced her original robot parts with waterproof limbs so it can't happen again. Your mistake earned Bunnie a much needed upgrade mate."

That made Ruben feel much better now.

"Thanks Geoffrey, I won't let it get to me anymore." said Ruben softly.

"That's the spirit mate!" laughed Geoffrey, playfully slapping Ruben on the back "Now then, you ready to bash some Martians?"

"Oh yes!" cried Ruben eagerly "Especially after all the dishonourable crimes they've committed! Marik invading our world and trying to kill us all was enough but his kind destroying Cosmo's planet and then coming here to finish us off is crossing the line! I'll see to it that they all get defeated!"

Geoffrey sweat-dropped a little and put his hand over the back of his head, grinning nervously.

"Heh, I think I motivated the kid a bit too much." he chuckled.

"Oh well, it means he's ready to fight Martians like we are." said Bunnie casually.

"OK then, you three may be the next to go and fight the Martians." said Sally "You'll be going to Rail Canyon and please, for heaven's sake, be careful out there! Rail Canyon is a very dangerous place to be given how it's very easy to fall off there. If you fall off the rails or platforms, you will not survive."

"We gathered that from when we fought the Black Arms in Rail Canyon during their invasion." said Geoffrey "We sent them blighters plummeting to their deaths."

"We all understand the dangers at Rail Canyon Sally-girl." said Bunnie "Dun worry about us, we'll be fine. Ah can fly so fallin' off ain't a worry for me and if Geoffrey or Ruben fall, I'll be on hand to catch them."

"Indeed you will." said Sally with a smile "Let us hope that the Martians you're against aren't going to be too much for you three to handle."

"Ah don't care how many Martians we face or how tough they all are!" declared Bunnie, punching the air with her robot arm "We'll beat them all into submission ya'll see if we don't!"

"You got that right luv." said Geoffrey snarkily, loading his arm-mounted crossbow "Them blokes are gonna wish they'd never come here."

Sally just sort of half chuckled to herself. Boy it felt good to have so many eager heroes fighting for the greater good but at times, they really got in over their heads. Still, at least they're optimistic and always ready for action. Sally turned to Silver.

"Open up the warp ring to Rail Canyon Silver, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben are eager to depart." she ordered.

Silver threw up the Super Warp Ring and it opened up a portal to Rail Canyon.

"I've been to Rail Canyon in my time." said Silver more to himself than anybody "Most of the rails are unfortunately destroyed but thankfully, the canyon still exists despite the destruction of Mobius in the future."

"Good luck you three." said Sally "And be careful out there."

"Thank you your majesty and we will." said Geoffrey "OK mates, off to Rail Canyon and away!"

With that said, the skunk in the green combat suit eagerly charged through the Super Warp Ring and over to Rail Canyon where a bunch of Martians would be waiting for him, Ruben and Bunnie. Bunnie and Ruben jumped through the Super Warp Ring too and the warp ring closed up after they left. They had left the sanctuary of Royal HQ and to the high-up world of Rail Canyon. Who knew what dangers awaited the three of them when they started looking for the Martians that were attacking the place…

Rail Canyon, a tourist attraction for many a traveller on Mobius. Rail Canyon was one of those sights on Mobius where your first reaction is merely just "WOW!" when you see it. Canyons stretched for miles around, platforms were built proudly up high into the sky and above the canyons and rails branched all around the canyons, giving people a clear sight on everything around them. The trains of Rail Canyon were a sight for sore eyes too for they were pretty monstrous looking but many people enjoyed riding on them. There has yet to be a single person who's seen Rail Canyon and actually hates the look of it (I wouldn't be surprised if the Martians didn't like the look of it). The canyon sadly had had some damage to clean up after the whole fiasco with the Black Arms race yesterday. Bullet Station, the main station of Rail Canyon, was still destroyed and the trains were having a bit of trouble finding a station to go to since there were many trains and having so much as one station out of commission would mean at least one station would have about two trains queuing up and dropping off supplies to the places the rails in Rail Canyon lead to. Bullet Station was currently being rebuilt right now but building had ceased for the Martians were attacking and the place had been evacuated for the safety of the workers. For all they knew, the Martians might come to Bullet Station and attack since they'd likely know how to navigate the place. So far, the Martians hadn't touched Bullet Station. The work currently done on the re-building of the station was exactly as the evacuated workers had left it. The Martians weren't anywhere near Bullet Station, they were somewhere else in the canyon. If they had been at Bullet Station then chances are, they would have seen Bunnie, Geoffrey and Ruben arriving at the station through a Super Warp Ring. The warp ring had taken them straight to Bullet Station. After all three of them had jumped through the warp ring, it closed up behind them, stranding them in Rail Canyon for the time being. Rail Canyon wasn't a bad place to be stranded in, provided you hated heights that is. Geoffrey lifted up his goggles to let some fresh air into his eyes and get a clear view of what was around him. The skunk was wowed at the view he was met with. During their first outing in Rail Canyon, they hadn't really had time to appreciate the view or even see much of it so Geoffrey was happy to get a good view of what was around.

"Now that is a sight for very sore eyes." said Geoffrey to himself "Any bloke could enjoy a beautiful view like this."

"Ah'm sorry to say sugah-Geoff but we ain't here to sight-see so dun get too used to the view." said Bunnie grimly "We've got Martians to stomp on."

Geoffrey frowned and he turned away from the beautiful view he was looking at.

"Some days, you just don't wanna be a Royal Fighter." he muttered.

"So, if I remember from our battle with the Black Arms, this is Bullet Station isn't it?" asked Ruben, surveying the under construction Bullet Station they were standing in "This place looks familiar and most of the wreckage is still as it was when we left it."

"It is Bullet Station kid." said Geoffrey "Looks like the place is under refurbishment from when it was destroyed by the rock creatures the Black Arms summoned from the ground with that Doom's Sword thing of theirs. Them blighters really bloomin' messed up the place didn't they?"

"They sure did sugah." said Bunnie "And because of the Martians, the poor lil' workers haven't had time to get started on repairing the place. In fact, there aren't even any here but ah'm seeing a lot of toolboxes lyin' around. Where are all the workers then if there are tools around here?"

"Maybe they heard about the Martians attacking the place and they evacuated for their own good?" suggested Ruben "That's the only logical explanation for all this."

"I sure hope it was like that." muttered Geoffrey "If those Martians kill one Mobian, one single little Mobian, then I will give the blackguards what for!"

He clenched his fists and gritted his teeth angrily, his face turning red at the mere thought of the Martians killing people.

"Geoffrey hon, simmer down please." said Bunnie, putting her hands on the skunk's shoulders "Gettin' riled up and angry ain't gonna do us any favours."

"Sure thing babe." said Geoffrey, putting an arm around his girlfriend's waist "Sorry about that."

The two smiled at each other dreamily for a minute before breaking up the hug and getting back to business.

"It seems the workers evacuated the place, there's no bodies lying around here and there's no signs of a battle around." Geoffrey analyzed "The place would look pretty beaten up if there were Martians here I bet."

"I agree on that." spat Ruben "Marik loved to desecrate any place he visited and there's no signs of razing anywhere so the Martians can't be around here. They must be elsewhere."

"Well let's go and find the Martians then." said Bunnie eagerly "An ah seriously hope we'll be against Marik. Ah so wanna pound him for destroying Cosmo's planet and wipin' out her dang kind!"

"Same here luv." said Geoffrey "Poor little Cosmo didn't deserve that happening to her."

"I feel Cosmo's pain more then anybody else does." muttered Ruben sadly "The death of her kind and her planet reminds me much of the destruction of my home and the death of my clan. Unlike Cosmo though, my home's since been repaired and the water-panthers aren't down to one. It's almost unfair isn't it? The water-panthers are spared this kind of fate but the Seedrians aren't?"

"Well your kind didn't count on a bunch of Martians invading the home planet and destroying it." said Geoffrey "And fortunately for everybody, we're gonna stop that from happening. Bunnie, could you fly us off into the sky so we can search for the Martians?"

"Sure thing handsome." said Bunnie with a sexy little wink that made Geoffrey grin at her.

Bunnie tucked Geoffrey and Ruben under her arms and she her had robot arm extend all the way around her, Geoffrey and Ruben a couple of times for extra stability. The hand tucked itself between her ribs and Ruben, who was under her left arm to strength the hold. Now Geoffrey and Ruben were wrapped to her by her robot arm, she wouldn't be dropping them anytime soon. Bunnie then activated the rockets in her roboticized feet and took off from the platform. To her amazement, her acceleration into the sky seemed surprisingly faster then she was used to. But she didn't mind, she loved it already. She did a few somersaults in the air with Geoffrey and Ruben laughing and screaming respectively as she did so. Geoffrey was enjoying this but Ruben wasn't so much. This was too fast for him and he didn't like it.

"Yee-HAW!" she squealed excitedly, doing a little twirl around in mid-air "Tails gave mah new limbs some new rocket boosters! Ah'm faster than ever! Whoo-hoo!"

"That's great Bunnie but don't get too excited!" shrieked Ruben as she did another somersault "Me and Geoffrey don't wanna end up bringing up what we ate for breakfast this morning!"

Bunnie stopped showing off and resumed her normal flight pattern.

"Sorry lil' Ruben." chuckled Bunnie "Ah'm just excited that ah can fly faster then normal now."

"We'll go all around the canyon, even to the places the rails link to, and we'll keep going until we find the blighters attacking the place." said Geoffrey "If you get tired Bunnie, feel free to touch down at any time."

"Sho' nuff Geoffrey." said Bunnie understandingly.

So Bunnie rocketed of through the canyons, following the rails and keeping an eye out for anything that resembled a Martian. She'd find them soon enough but they'd be surprised at who they'd be up against…

Further through the canyon, a group of Martians were causing a riot in a city that Rail Canyon led to. This city was known by the name of Rail City for it was the base of operations for Rail Canyon. The people of the city were responsible for the canyon's trains and rails as well as the safety of everything and everybody in the canyons. The city was relatively small for a city, having about forty buildings in it at most but it was still an impressive looking city nonetheless. The tallest building in Rail City was the official headquarters for the city and Rail Canyon itself. The building was dark purple in colour (Rail City has unusually coloured buildings) and it had a very unique design. Everybody who worked there was constantly on their toes and working 24/7 to ensure the utmost care is put into Rail Canyon and the safety of its visitors as well as run the city itself. Rail City was a popular attraction for anyone in Rail Canyon to visit.

Unfortunately, nobody would be visiting the city now for Martians were attacking it. The Martians had arrived at Rail Canyon via Marik's Chaos Control with the only remaining Chaos Cluster fragments and they were storming the city. Being as Marik didn't know about Rail Canyon, let alone ever visited the place, it was just fortuitous that the Martians attacking Rail City just happened to show up here. After all, Marik had teleported the Martian squadrons to random places on Mobius with no real locations in mind (just imagine how horribly wrong THAT could have easily gone!) when he did the Chaos Controls. This Martian squadron was a squadron of ten Martians all armed with rifles and bombs and TWO Martian tanks trundled behind them as they razed the streets of Rail City and blasted the buildings. These two tanks were bronze in colour and had shiny gold tread covers for their treads. The Martian leading the squad was the one Martian nobody would want to be up against right now, Grand Warlord Diablo himself! Diablo was the headman of the Martian fleet and Marik's father. Diablo was quite happy to be destroying Rail City right now, even if it was merely just to stir up enough panic to make the citizens call for the Royal Fighters and give them some Royal Fighters to destroy. Diablo joined in with the destruction of the city, clubbing several areas and several people (ouch!) with his deadly mace. He also ordered the tanks on when to fire and what to fire at. The destruction was going well. Buildings were beginning to crumble like sandcastles and half the city was already in ruins. Diablo led the tanks up to the tallest building in Rail City and he gave the order to fire. The two tanks fired some cannonballs at the building and in a matter of minutes, the enormous skyscraper was brought crumbling down to the ground like an unstable Jenga tower. Diablo cackled maniacally as he watched the building crumble. He loved watching tall skyscrapers crumble down to the ground, especially if he was the one responsible for it.

"Oh yes, I love this!" he boomed in his powerful, booming voice that seemed to echo around the city as if he was using a megaphone to project himself "I love watching buildings crumble! It does my adrenaline levels so much good and gives me so much joy! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!" (he's not much different from his son is he?)

The building finally crumbled down to the ground and lay their in ruins and rubble. RailCity was now half destroyed with its tallest building now in complete ruins. The citizens of RailCity had fortunately evacuated the city and sent the call for help before the Martians started bombing the place although some fleeing citizens had unfortunately been killed by some Martians while they were fleeing for their lives. Diablo didn't care though, he'd get to the killing later once the Royal Fighters were killed by his hand. Diablo finished cackling at the falling skyscraper and he turned to face his squadron.

"Well my squad, we have done an admirable amount of damage to this city." he crowed gleefully "Half of it is already down to the ground in ruins and the tallest building in it has been destroyed!"

"If we keep this up sir, we can destroy the entire city." said a female Martian soldier who wore a helmet and red shoulder pads.

"Indeed we can Miko." said Diablo with a big smile on his face "I do hope the damage we've done is enough to attract attention from the Royal Fighters. If not then we'll destroy the rest of the city!"

"I hope we deal with this "Sonic the Hedgehog" guy." said Miko "I'm dying to shoot him after what he did to Marik."

"He will definitely pay." said Diablo reassuringly "But I don't really mind who I'm against as long as they're friends and acquaintances of Sonic."

"Hey sir, I don't mean to ask or anything," said a male soldier armed with a rocket launcher and with a voice similar to that of the late actor Lawrence Tierney "But are you sure you'll know who's a Royal Fighter and such? I mean, we haven't really had time to memorize their appearances or learn their names have we?"

"Marik described each of Sonic's friends to me and the other leaders." explained Diablo "I'll know who I'm up against. Many of them sound pretty fascinating though. I'm particularly interested in one Mobian he described to me as a cyborg rabbit named "Bunnie Rabbot" or something like that. The name is terrible of course but Marik described Bunnie as a powerful woman who knows how to use her robot parts to great effect. I'd like to see just how strong "Bunnie Rabbot" really is. She won't match up to me of course but still…"

"I think we get the idea Grand Warlord." said the male soldier gruffly "You know what would make our takeover of this mud ball a whole lot easier? If our first Grand Warlord Tyrahko was still around. That guy sure helped us in a lot of our conquests and destruction of peace-loving worlds everywhere."

Diablo's face fell into a solemn expression that looked kind of weird on him given how he was usually angry or happy, his two most prominent emotions.

"Ah yes…Tyrahko." he mumbled "Tyrahko was the greatest Martian of us all. He's the one who rightfully led us to a life of warfare and malice, he was the one that deduced that peace was bad and we couldn't agree more. He was said to have been a fine Grand Warlord back in the day…and that was over one million years ago now. Tyrahko only managed to survive that long thanks to a mystical suit of armour he'd found and put on. The suit made him godlike, giving him god powers and making him ageless so he could live forever. The Martians that followed him branded him a god, the god of Mars because of his power and thus, ever generation of Mars would refer to him as "Tyrahko, The God of Warfare". He'd seen centuries of Martian fleets, ours being his last one unfortunately before he was killed. I remember the last we saw of Tyrahko as if it were only yesterday. We were out in the vast cosmic entity of space, we'd gotten caught up in a battle and Tyrahko was blown up by a powerful planet-shattering bomb the enemy had. He couldn't have survived that, even with his suit of armour. The armour didn't grant him immortality so he couldn't have survived. If only he was still here now then we'd have this planet in pieces already."

He sighed loudly, suggesting that he thought Tyrahko's death was pretty tragic and that it had been hard on him.

"But as is, we can't dishonour Tyrahko by not keeping his memory and spirit alive." said Diablo "We'll do whatever it takes to vanquish peace lovers and peace-loving worlds everywhere. I'm sure Tyrahko is looking down on us all with pride."

"Yeah, I'm sure the scary, million year old, godlike Grand Warlord's really proud of us all." said Miko "But he won't be proud of our cowardly victory over the Seedrians."

"How I LONG to start that war all over again!" growled Diablo "That's why I'm not going to bother searching for the evacuated Seedrian children, so they can grow up, become fine soldiers and we can battle them all over again and win the war the right way!"

"But that'll have to wait. Right now, we've got this planet to raze." said the gruff voice Martian.

"Indeed we have." said Diablo happily "And I swear if it takes me for the rest of my life, I'll destroy this planet and make the Mobians pay for what they did to my poor little Marik…and especially for what they did to my brother, Count Drago."

He wiped away a tear that trickled down his eye. Count Drago's death had been pretty hard on him and it still burnt his mind just thinking about him. But his mind was about to focus on other things for Miko had taken a device off her belt and was looking at it. It was the same device that Obelisk had on him to track down any forms of life that were not Martian, robotical or organic. To Miko's surprise, the device was displaying three dots on the screen, suggesting that three non-Martian life-forms were coming to them.

"Diablo!" cried Miko "There's three non-Martian life forms heading to our location! I think we've got some Mobians coming!"

"Of course we have." said Diablo "They couldn't be anything else! And I bet they're Royal Fighters too. Good, that means Marik's plot is working. Shame we're only fighting three of them, I was expecting a good few hundred at least. Oh well, just means we kill them easier. Three puny Mobians will barely scratch the surface of our wall."

He then turned to his comrades and barked out at them.

"Martians, prepare for their arrival!" he ordered "Tanks and soldiers, hide yourselves and set up an ambush! You three," he pointed at three Martian soldiers "You stay here and we'll act natural to fool the Mobians into thinking there's no trap set up for them and that they haven't got much to deal with!"

"Yes sir!" said the entire squadron.

And thus, the squad split up to do what they had been told. Three Martians stayed with Diablo as ordered while the other seven ran off to hide and prepare the ambush for the coming Mobians. The two tanks trundled off and took shelter behind some buildings that hadn't been destroyed. Diablo and the three Martians remained where they were and started acting like they were continuing their destructive rampage. The act was pretty convincing, anyone could fall for it, it was that convincing. Anyone seeing this wouldn't suspect a trap at all.

While the Martians were setting up their ambush and preparing to catch whatever it was that was coming to them, Bunnie Rabbot flew through the canyons and spotted the half-wrecked Rail City in the distance. She instantly deduced that the Martians were there and she boosted up her rockets at full power as she headed towards it.

"Boys, ah think we've found where the Martians are!" cried Bunnie.

"What is that city we're heading towards?" shouted Ruben, trying to be heard over the whoosh of wind that swept past Bunnie as she flew quickly through the air.

"That's Rail City, the very place that runs the canyons!" Geoffrey called over to Ruben, trying to be heard of the whoosh of wind too "I've read all about it! Without Rail City, Rail Canyon would be in a right royal mess!"

"It looks like the Martians have attacked the poor lil' city!" shouted Bunnie "It's smokin' and some buildings look like they've been destroyed! Those dang Martians must be here!"

"And I guess that's why we're heading to the city!" called Ruben "I hope we're going to be fighting one of the important Martians! I'm itching to kick their butts for this desecration!"

Judging by the damage done to the place, I have a feeling we'll be facing a lot of Martians!" exclaimed Geoffrey "Oh well, just means we have more butts to kick!"

Bunnie just sort of chuckled supportively as she flew down towards Rail City. Bunnie raised up her feet and touched down onto the ground, blowing dust off the ground around with her jet boosters. As soon as Bunnie touched down onto the ground, She unwrapped her arm from around Geoffrey and Ruben and put them down. Ruben straightened his ruffled up fur, a result of the flight. Geoffrey straightened his goggles and he observed his surroundings. He was quite disheartened at the mere sight of wrecked buildings, fallen skyscrapers and heaps of rubble lying everywhere.

"Crikey…the blokes really messed up the city didn't they?" said Geoffrey in a sympathetic tone of voice.

"Half of it's already crumbled down to the ground!" shrieked Bunnie "And ah have a nasty lil' feelin' that the rest of the city ain't gonna be standin' for long!"

"Seeing this level of wanton destruction makes me sick!" growled Ruben, clenching his fists and twitching his tail in rage "How could the Martians do all this?! I'm disgusted at how heartless they all are! Destroying places just because they can, what have they got against peace-lovers anyway?!"

"I'll never understand mate." said Geoffrey, sighing "I never understood Marik so I'll never understand the rest of them."

"Well let's get to it boys before more of Rail City gets destroyed." said Bunnie determinedly, striding off without waiting for Ruben and Geoffrey. It was quite clear that she was keen to get into the action as soon as possible.

Geoffrey just smiled admirably at his beautiful girlfriend. No wonder he fancied Bunnie, he loved women with a great sense of passion for their duty and a keenness for action as great as his own. Geoffrey and Ruben followed Bunnie as she strode off into RailCity. The three Mobians all ran into the city and they took cover behind a giant chunk of rubble. They peered over the rubble and saw who they were up against, or so they thought. There was Diablo with three Martian soldiers strutting around as if they owned the place and smashing anything in fight. Diablo grabbed a fire hydrant and ripped it out of the ground with his bare hands. Water spouted up into the air because of the now missing fire hydrant and Diablo threw the hydrant away. The broken hydrant clanged off the ground and lay there like a piece of litter.

"You three! Destroy that building!" he ordered "And set your rifles to the highest level so the level of damage will be greater!"

"Yes sir." said the three Martian soldiers.

They set their rifles to the highest level of firepower they could reach (yes, their guns have settings. What about it?) and they aimed at a building that was still intact and hadn't been destroyed yet. Ruben looked like he was about to go mad as he watched the Martians prepare to destroy the building. He couldn't stand destruction of any kind as he believed destruction was ultimate dishonour and it was always heartbreaking watching innocent homes getting destroyed so savagely. Wanton destruction was the one thing that angered him more then anything. Bunnie and Geoffrey shared Ruben's horror but at the same time, they were wondering about something.

"Huh, I thought we'd be up against more Martians then that." mused Geoffrey "Four Martians seems a bit small doesn't it? Given the damage done to Rail City, I thought we've be up against a flippin' army or something. Still, four Martians seems to be a big enough threat, I mean look at all the damage they've done to Rail City!"

"Ah know sugah. And ah think ah recognize that Martian there." said Bunnie, pointing at Diablo "That's the dang leader of the Martians, Grand Warlord Diablo I believe his name is."

"It is babe." said Geoffrey, aiming his crossbow at Diablo and preparing to fire a stun dart at him "He even announced himself when the Martians landed earlier. He's also Marik's dad if we heard him correctly."

"Ah believe he did say he was Marik's daddy." said Bunnie "That just gives us more of a reason to take him down. But ah don't think we can do take him down as easily as we might think. He looks tough. We should take him down from the shadows."

"I agree." said Geoffrey "Which is exactly why I've loaded up me little crossbow with a stun dart. If I can get that dart to embed itself into the bloke's armour, it'll stun him and because he's wearing armour, it'll act like a conductor for the electricity in the stun and thus, knock him out in a matter of seconds. It can't possibly fail. Provided…the dart actually sticks into him."

"His armour looks tough sugah." said Bunnie "Ah recommend aimin' for his upper arm. That doesn't have any armour on it."

"Then upper arm it is luv." said Geoffrey, aiming his arm-mounted crossbow at Diablo's upper arm "Prepare to get sedated leader of the Martians..."

But before he could so much as activate his crossbow, Ruben suddenly jumped out of his hiding place and belted towards Diablo like an angry cat! You see, Ruben becomes a very out-of-control person when he loses his cool and right now, seeing so much wanton destruction REALLY made him lose his cool. Ruben maybe intelligent, mature and can keep his emotions in check most of the time but sometimes, even he could lose it and go mental. It took a lot to upset Ruben and when Ruben got upset and angry, he was like a wild cat. His mind was focused on one thing, beat the snot out of Diablo and his goons. Bunnie and Geoffrey panicked as they saw Ruben rushing towards Diablo.

"Oy! Ruben! Come back here at once!" shouted Geoffrey.

"Ya'll can't take Diablo by yerself! Come back!" screamed Bunnie.

But Ruben ignored them and he gave Diablo an enormous jet of water. Diablo turned around and before he knew it, he was drenched by a wave of water but somehow, he managed to remain standing as Ruben squirted him. The Martian soldiers jumped in surprise and they began shooting at Ruben madly with their laser rifles. The rifles were set to the highest firepower so if Ruben got hit by one, he'd be dead in two seconds flat. But Ruben used his martial art skills to dodge the shots with relative ease. Diablo, dripping wet with water, watched as Ruben dodged all the laser shots. He was amazed at the sheer agility and athletic ability of Ruben.

"That little pest is pretty good." said Diablo "And I believe I know who he is. Marik described him to me in great detail and he matches his descriptions. So…"

One Martian soldier aimed his rifle at Ruben but Ruben jumped out of the way before the Martian could get a clear shot at him, causing the Martian to miss and hit the ground instead. Ruben booted the Martian in the head and brought him down onto his back. Then he snatched the Martian's rifle and started beating the Martian up with it. He smacked it in the gut and the chest and then started pounding it on the head with the rifle as if it was a club.

"You desecraters! How dare you destroy an innocent city!" he screamed as he smacked the Martian on the forehead with the rifle "You've made me very mad with all your destruction! Senseless destruction and unwarranted desecration is ultimate dishonour and it sickens me! By the souls of my dead clan, I'll see to it that you never destroy anything ever again!"

He then gave the Martian one last wallop on the head with the rifle and that finished it off for good. Had Ruben been himself, he probably wouldn't have killed the Martian like that since Ruben doesn't like killing and strongly believes that killing is wrong. But when Ruben snaps, he's out of control and ends up being as wild as anything. Geoffrey and Bunnie were gobsmacked at what they had seen. They had NEVER seen Ruben so angry before. Then again, there hadn't been enough destruction to make him snap like this. The other two Martians shot at Ruben with their rifles but Ruben back flipped away from them and then squirted water at them. He knocked them both down onto their backs but he kept up the squirting. He advanced on them and made sure to aim for their mouths. He was attempting to drown them both on dry land. But before Ruben could do such a thing, Diablo walloped the angry water panther with his mace and sent him flying into a chunk of rubble. Ruben lay against the chunk, coughing loudly and wondering which part of him to rub better. He then slowly started to come back to himself after that hit and his temper died down. Diablo lumbered towards Ruben and he seized the water panther with a giant hand. Diablo's hands were so large that he was able to completely wrap his fingers around the puny little water panther he was now squeezing the life out of. Ruben squirmed in the grasp of Diablo, desperately trying to get free.

"Grrr…ugh…nyrggggh…let me go!" he cried.

"After you've just went on a wild rampage and drenched me, beat one of my soldiers to death, and tried to drown my other two soldiers?" snorted Diablo "Ha, ha, ha! You must think I'm mad!"

"Look Diablo, you've seen me when I lose my cool, although I regret it, don't make me lose it again!" warned Ruben "Or I will whup you so badly you'll never walk again!"

"No chance of that happening Ruben since I'll squeeze the life out of you!" snarled Diablo.

"How…how do you know my name?!" gasped Ruben worriedly.

"Marik described Sonic and his friends to me and told me each of your names." explained Diablo "You are Ruben the Water-Panther and he tells me you're a bit of a nuisance. I do have to wonder what that collar around your neck is for though…"

He then used his other hand to unclip Ruben's aqua-collar from around his neck and take it away from him, rendering him incapable of accessing his water powers.

"Hey! You give that back!" cried Ruben.

"Why? It's not like it's important is it?" sneered Diablo.

"That collar gives me my water powers! Without it, I can't so much as squirt a drop!" snapped Ruben.

"Well in that case I shall relinquish you of that power permanently!" crowed Diablo.

But before he could destroy Ruben's aqua collar (not that he can anyway since the Master Emerald's power has made it indestructible the time Knuckles used it to fix Ruben's collar), Bunnie and Geoffrey jumped out of their hiding place and ran over to Diablo with their weapons ready. Bunnie had her ever useful laser cannon deployed and she pointed it directly at Diablo's face. Geoffrey had his arm-mounted crossbow primed and ready and he pointed it at Diablo's upper arm. Diablo didn't seem too intimidated at the fact two Mobians were pointing their weapons at him.

"Ya'll drop Ruben now before we blast you to bits Diablo!" cried Bunnie threateningly.

"Trust me, we're deadlier then we look!" warned Geoffrey "Same goes to our weapons!"

"I know, Marik gave me a strict warning not to underestimate you Mobians since you're a lot stronger then one would suggest." muttered Diablo "But still, I will not let Ruben go. He's my prisoner and you two surrender yourselves before I snap him in two with my bare hands!"

"Oh yeah? Who's gonna make us?" sneered Geoffrey, itching to fire a dart at Diablo.

Then suddenly, Diablo's hiding squadron and the two tanks came out of their hiding place and they all pointed their weapons at Bunnie and Geoffrey, even the tanks! Seven Martians and two tanks all had their weapons pointed at Bunnie and Geoffrey. Even the other two Martians with Diablo picked themselves up from the beating Ruben had given them earlier and joined in with the others. Now nine Martians and two tanks had surrounded Bunnie and Geoffrey and were ready to start a fireworks festival with them. Diablo cackled at the two Mobians gloatingly. The look on their faces was priceless to them as they realized they'd walked into a trap. Geoffrey frowned at the Martians threatening to shoot them.

"Huh, no wonder I had a feeling we'd be up against more Martians then just four." he grumbled "Diablo had the rest of his squadron lying in wait for us!"

"And they've…gulp…got tanks!" shrieked Bunnie "Oh mah stars!"

"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! That's right Geoffrey St. John and Bunnie Rabbot, or so Marik says your names are, I set up a trap for you and Ruben and you've fallen for it!" crowed Diablo "Now you HAVE to stand down or be blasted to bits!"

"You tell your buddies to stand down or we'll blast YOU to bits!" snarled Bunnie fiercely.

"Go ahead, you'll only get shot once you shoot me!" laughed Diablo "You're surrounded by nine fine soldiers and two tanks! You can't possibly hope to survive all that!"

"It's worth a shot." said Bunnie smugly.

"Bunnie! Have you lost your mind?!" shrieked Ruben "We'll all get killed if you don't surrender!"

"Nah, we won't Ruben." said Bunnie, winking at him. The Rabbot actually had a plan and she'd be unleashing it any moment now.

"Well allow me to prove you wrong!" bellowed Diablo "Martians, kill Bunnie and Geoffrey now!"

The Martian soldiers did just that and they fired at the cyborg rabbit and skunk. But Bunnie quickly turned around and deployed her shield generator arm. Then she activated a force field around herself and Geoffrey, defending herself and him from all the shots. The laser shoots all bounced off of the force field harmlessly, shocking the Martians as they did so. Diablo himself was surprised to see this happen.

"A force field generator?! Why didn't Marik tell me Bunnie had a force field generator?!" he growled angrily.

"Looks like your plan's in jeopardy Diablo." sneered Ruben "You are so dead now."

"No I'm not!" snarled Diablo.

He strode up to Bunnie and banged on the force field to get her attention. Bunnie turned around and looked at the Grand Warlord.

"You may be able to defend yourself from my ambush, but can you stop me from killing your water-squirting friend?" growled Diablo, putting his hand on Ruben's head and threatening to snap his neck in two.

"No, don't do that!" shrieked Bunnie, switching off her force-field "Please, don't kill Ruben!"

"Then do as you're told and I'll let him live!" snapped Diablo "All you have to do is get down onto your knees and surrender, that's all!"

"Well how about you get down on your knees?" sneered Bunnie.

She suddenly extended her robot arm and wrapped it around Diablo's legs. She tripped him up by pulling on her arm and Diablo was brought down onto his back. He dropped Ruben and his aqua collar as he landed on his back. Ruben quickly picked up his aqua collar and he clipped it back around his neck. Diablo picked himself up and pulled out his trademark mace weapon.

"That's it! You've just signed your death warrants!" thundered Diablo.

"We'll see about that you blighter!" shouted Geoffrey, firing a dart at Diablo's arm.

But Diablo just raised a hand and caught the dart in his fingers effortlessly. He was very good at that kind of stuff. He crushed the dart and then swung his mace at Geoffrey. The skunk quickly leaped out of the way as Diablo's mace came crashing down onto the ground. Bunnie furiously threw an uppercut at Diablo with her robotic arm. Diablo barely felt that punch though. As powerful as Bunnie was, even her punches had little effect on Diablo. Diablo swatted Bunnie away with his arm. Bunnie hurled through the air and crashed through a steel girder. Geoffrey stared in horror as Bunnie crashed through the girder and he clenched his teeth angrily at Diablo. He loaded his crossbow again and tried to shoot Diablo in the upper arm again but Diablo deflected the shot by leaning his shoulder down and letting his shoulder pad take the shot. The dart pinged off of his shoulder pad like a pebble against a brick wall. Diablo swung his mace at Geoffrey and walloped the skunk with it. Geoffrey was sent hurling across the battlefield and he crashed into a tank tread. Ruben jumped in and threw water all over Diablo. But all that did was make him wet. Diablo punched Ruben and sent him hurling backwards. Getting punched by Diablo was like getting hit by a car. He was that powerful. Bunnie picked herself up from the earlier onslaught and she grabbed a chunk of the girder she'd crashed into. She flew towards Diablo and walloped the Martian leader with the girder, knocking him sideways and onto his side. Diablo picked himself up and he and Bunnie clashed weapons with each other. They swung at each other and their weapons made very loud clangs as they hit each other. Bunnie swung the girder at Diablo's leg and she hit it, bringing Diablo down on one knee. Then she walloped Diablo on his head with the girder chunk…and the girder chunk broke in two! Diablo's helmet could withstand hammer blows (bad news for Amy Rose) so no wonder that happened. Bunnie gasped and Diablo swung his mace at her. Bunnie ducked and then dropkicked Diablo in the face. Diablo took the blow easily and he slugged Bunnie in the stomach. Bunnie hadn't felt a punch THAT powerful since the time she got decked by Lord Sycorax during the Region of Rebellious Reptile's first ever attack on Castle Acorn*. Diablo then thumped Bunnie on the head and threw the bedraggled rabbit into Geoffrey as he was running towards him with his crossbow loaded. Bunnie and Geoffrey sprawled on the ground on top of one another. Diablo raised his mace up high, ready to kill them both with one swift blow to the head each, but before he could do so, Ruben jumped up behind him and kicked the mace out of his hands. The mace dropped down onto the ground with a heavy thud. Diablo growled and he punched at Ruben but Ruben dodged the punch and punched Diablo back…in the armour. The result was Ruben clutching his sore-first in pain. Diablo uppercut Ruben into the air and the poor water-panther landed with a thud atop a Martian tank. Geoffrey picked himself up and he pile-dived Diablo in the back. Diablo took the blow but Geoffrey climbed up Diablo's back and started thumping him on the top of his helmet. Diablo effortlessly grabbed Geoffrey and threw him off of himself and onto the ground. Bunnie retaliated by upper-cutting Diablo in the face and then roundhouse punching Diablo. Diablo however head-butted Bunnie directly in the forehead (ouch!) and the dazed rabbit ended up falling onto her bum with her hands clasped firmly over her head. She began to cry tears of pain from a blow like that. Diablo kicked Bunnie into the air and sent her rolling across the ground. Ruben gasped in horror and he jumped up to Diablo's height. He then began to rapidly kick Diablo in the chest, making sure he was hitting the gem in the middle of his armour. Diablo staggered backwards as Ruben kicked him and then Ruben back flipped and kicked Diablo over onto his back. A Martian tank suddenly fired at Ruben. The tank driver wanted to help his leader so he decided to shoot Ruben with a cannon blast. But Ruben re-used a technique he had used during the time he, Sonic, Tails and the Chaotix were on Eggman's oil rig. He grabbed the cannon blast like a proper kung-fu warrior and threw it directly back at the tank. The cannon blast hit the tank and blew it up in a millisecond. Ruben punched the air triumphantly but then suddenly, he was walloped in the back by Diablo. Ruben hurled across the battlefield and he crashed into the tank's remains. Diablo advanced on Ruben but Bunnie Rabbot ran in and decked Diablo in the back of the head. Diablo turned around and elbow-thrusted Bunnie down onto the ground. He then tried to stomp on her but Bunnie picked herself up, deployed her arm-cannon and then blasted Diablo. Diablo was thrown against a destroyed building and he burst through the wall, causing it to crumble into tiny pieces. Diablo picked himself up and he growled furiously.

"Martians, KILL THOSE MOBIANS NOW!" he bellowed with a voice like thunder.

The Martians obeyed instantly and they began shooting at Bunnie, Geoffrey and Ruben. But Bunnie deployed her force-field generator and blocked all the blows with a force-field. She then deployed her arm cannon and blasted the second tank to pieces with a couple of shots. Martian tanks aren't exactly the strongest tanks in the universe so a couple of powerful shots was all Bunnie needed to destroy it and blow it to smithereens. Fortunately for her, all the Martian soldiers had been near the tank so they were blown off their feet with the destruction of the tank and left lying around, wondering which parts of them to rub better. Diablo's entire squadron lay on the ground, too weak to get up from that explosion and the second tank lay on the ground in pieces. Bunnie punched the air delightedly.

"Oh yeah! Ah stopped them all real nicely!" she cheered.

But then suddenly, Diablo lunged at Bunnie and grabbed her by the hair. He hoisted Bunnie off the ground, his hand clenched firmly around the rabbit's beautiful, long flowing blonde hair. Bunnie screamed like a person trapped in a burning building. Geoffrey ran towards Diablo in hopes of saving Bunnie but Diablo just swung Bunnie at Geoffrey and walloped him with her. Geoffrey and Bunnie both lay on the ground, moaning in pain. Diablo cackled at them and he cracked his knuckles. But before he could do anything, Ruben squirted him with a jet of water and made him stagger backwards. Then Ruben let Diablo have it with some martial arts skills and he sent him backing into a wall. Diablo growled furiously at Ruben and he seized the water-panther. He punched Ruben as hard as he could but he didn't stop there. He began punching Ruben several times and all as hard as he could. Poor Ruben was left with bruises all over his body and his nose trickling with blood. Diablo then slammed Ruben against the wall and prepared to finish him off. But Bunnie and Geoffrey double-teamed Diablo in the back and made him drop Ruben. Bunnie punched Diablo and Geoffrey kicked him but Diablo grabbed their heads and bashed the two Mobians together. He then threw Bunnie and Geoffrey across the battlefield and the two Mobians came down with a crash a few feet away. Diablo grabbed Ruben and threw him over to Bunnie and Geoffrey. He then picked up his mace, which he'd not picked up yet after dropping it, and strode over to the three downed Mobians. They were all beaten and bruised from the battle and were having trouble getting back up. Diablo patted his hand with his mace wickedly.

"You've given me a good battle you three but now I emerge victorious." sneered Diablo "And you will face your sentences."

He then raised his mace up high and prepared to kill Bunnie, Geoffrey and Ruben. It seemed to be the end of the three Mobians for they could not get out of the way of Diablo's mace. They were too weak to move. Diablo swung the mace down…and then suddenly got walloped in the face by a hammer. Diablo hurled to the side and skidded to a halt near the remains of the two Martian tanks. Bunnie was well surprised at this and she looked up to see what had happened. To her surprise, she saw a robotical version of Amy Rose which had no legs and just hovered above the ground. It had arms that could transform into Piko-Piko hammers and it had green optics. This was another robot Eggman had built secretly along with Metal Knuckles and was saving for a another time and it was code-named "Metal Amy" (duh). Metal Amy didn't seem to notice Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben lying there. Instead, she flew off and started whaling on Diablo with her hammer arms. Diablo took most of the blows and he punched her away.

"What in the name of Deimos is that?!" he growled "Some puny robot with hammer hands? I'll make short work of it!"

But Diablo had more then just Metal Amy to deal with. Metal Amy had brought reinforcements with her. A swarm of Egg-Pawns all armed with various different weapons stampeded towards Diablo, showering him with laser blasts. Diablo stepped back as he was bombarded by laser fire. Metal Amy and the Egg-Pawns advanced on him menacingly and they let him have it with all their weaponry. Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben were speechless. They watched as Metal Amy and her Egg-Pawns fended off Diablo with relative ease. Diablo began smashing Egg-Pawns here and there with his mace but he was still getting overwhelmed by the Egg-Pawns and Metal Amy was making it harder for him by pounding him constantly with her hammer arms.

"Crikey…Eggman's robots are helping us!" cried Geoffrey.

"But why?" asked Bunnie "Eggman doesn't know about the Martian invasion! Does he?"

"I wouldn't be surprised if he did." muttered Ruben "And I know why he's helping us if that's the case. If the Martians destroy Mobius, he can't conquer it himself so he just wants to get rid of the oppression and be able to continue his conquest with no problems at all."

"Well for once, I'm glad he's on our side." said Geoffrey "Let's get outta here, I think Eggman's goons have this one under control."

Geoffrey and Bunnie picked themselves up but Ruben couldn't quite get up with them. He was too weak. So Geoffrey scooped Ruben up and gave him a piggyback ride. The three Mobians fled for it as Eggman's robots began to overpower Diablo. Diablo could barely take the hammer blows and the constant laser fire from the Egg-Pawns. He'd destroyed some of them already but he was beginning to lose his strength thanks to the Eggman robots. So, with great reluctance, he fled the scene as fast as he could. He knew when he was beaten. Surprise attacks were too much for him. Diablo fled the scene and the Eggman robots watched him as he fled for it. They could see that their mission had been accomplished and they had no further need here in RailCity. The Eggman robots all left RailCity and headed back home to Eggman's underground bunker. They were going home with some good news for their master and they were eager to deliver it to him.

Meanwhile, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben had gotten a good distance away from RailCity and Geoffrey switched on his comlink.

"Hello, your highness? It's Geoffrey." said Geoffrey "Our mission's accomplished…albeit with some outside help from a certain fat doctor. We need a warp ring back home."

"Just a second, I'm kinda occupied right now." came the voice of Queen Sally Acorn.

Geoffrey switched off the comlink and he, Bunnie and Ruben sat down onto the ground.

"Well, Diablo's a tough bloke isn't he?" asked Geoffrey.

"He's just so…strong." said Bunnie "It's like he's the ultimate warrior or somethin' His punches are incredible and he's so resilient. No wonder he's Marik's dad."

"This is all my fault." moaned Ruben, his eyes full of tears as he began moping about his second blunder of the day "This is all my stupid fault. If I didn't lose my cool and blindly attack Diablo then we could have subdued him and saved the day just like that. Instead…I snapped and…got us all beaten up and sorely defeated. I have shamed the Royal Fighter name today and I have dishonoured you all. I'm so, so sorry for my blunder Bunnie and Geoffrey."

Bunnie and Geoffrey looked at Ruben pityingly and they put their arms around him.

"Aw, don't be like that Ruben mate, you couldn't help it." said Geoffrey affectionately "You just lost it and went mad. It's a perfectly natural trait of all Mobians. Everybody loses their temper and goes mad sometimes."

"I know." wailed Ruben "But…I'm supposed to be better then this. I'm not supposed to lose my cool, I'm not supposed to get angry and I'm supposed to be level-headed. But yet, I still did it. I was supposed to make up for my earlier mistake and instead…I've poured more salt on the wound. I'm a disgrace to the team and I should just quit before I mess up again…"

"Don't ya'll dare talk like that Ruben!" snapped Bunnie crossly "You are not a disgrace to the team at all! Yer a great asset to us all. Yer martial arts skills help us in our battles, yer water powers are very helpful to us and you've helped us out on many occasions! Remember when you helped Tails de-roboticize everybody? Or how about when you and sugah-hog got the Raiju Clan to stop Zira? And you even helped Tails and Cosmo save a bunch of slaves under Eggman oppression and also helped us save sugah-hog from Eggman and Metal Sonic! And recently, ya'll helped us in our attempts to stop the Black Arms! You Ruben are far from a disgrace to the team! Just because you've made a couple of mistakes, it doesn't mean yer a disgrace! Nobody's perfect Ruben and that's the sad truth of life. But it doesn't mean we're bad people or what not, it just means we all have our pros and cons. We may want to be perfect but we can't be because that's impossible. But your good traits outweigh your bad traits Ruben. This is the first time you've ever lost your temper and now you know what bad it does, you'll know not to do it again next time."

"Bunnie's absolutely right Ruben." said Geoffrey "And besides, isn't bailing out just for making a mistake more dis-honouree then goofing up accidentally? I'm sure your clan wouldn't want to see you like this. Come on Ruben, please don't be like that."

Ruben looked at Bunnie and Geoffrey and he smiled at them. He truly did have some great friends around him and it made him feel honoured to have such great friends. He wiped away his tears.

"I don't deserve your sympathy." he said "But I'm honoured to have such wonderful, kind friends. I'm so glad you're forgiving me despite my blunders today."

"Think nothing of it mate." said Geoffrey softly "After all, not everything can go right for us, but we don't let that bring us down."

"Yes, we don't." said Ruben "I'm so sorry I let it get to me. I won't mope about it anymore."

"That's OK Ruben." said Bunnie "And who knows, maybe next time ya'll will finally get your chance to redeem yerself. Everybody gets a chance at redemption Ruben."

"I know." said Ruben "I was told that by my mother. And I'll remember that for next time."

"Good on you mate." said Geoffrey brightly "Now all we've gotta do is just wait for the warp ring home."

That would take a while as Sally was otherwise engaged. This mission hadn't gone quite how the Mobians had hoped but at least they'd won in the end since Eggman's robots had chased off Diablo. Diablo would be back though and he'd be furious. And who knew when he would strike again and if anyone would be able to stop him the next time he attacked…

Divide and Conquer Part 5

Story 131: Divide and Conquer Part 5: Silent But Deadly

"Thank you your majesty and we will." said Geoffrey "OK mates, off to Rail Canyon and away!"

With that said, the skunk in the green combat suit eagerly charged through the Super Warp Ring and over to Rail Canyon where a bunch of Martians would be waiting for him, Ruben and Bunnie. Bunnie and Ruben jumped through the Super Warp Ring too and the warp ring closed up after they left. They had left the sanctuary of Royal HQ and to the high-up world of Rail Canyon. The three were going to Rail Canyon for the same reason many of the other Royal Fighters had been going to several places around the world, Martians were attacking seven different places around the world simultaneously and the only way to deal with such a threat was to divide the team and send them to those places. Sonic, Tails, Wilson, Mandy, Knuckles, Shade, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben had all been sent out to places like Holoska, Grand Metropolis, Black Acropolis and Rail Canyon respectively to deal with the Martian threats and each of them had a deadly opponent to deal with when they arrived there. With the exception of Sonic and Tails, the Royal Fighters had had some assistance from Dr. Eggman in order to deal with the Martians there and chances are, Eggman was bound to be helping out some more Royal Fighters as the remaining ones prepared to depart for the remaining places that required their help. Only three places were left to go to and Queen Sally Acorn was ready to send the next team of Royal Fighters out to deal with the Martian threats. She looked at the remaining fighters and put her hands on her hips.

"OK everybody, we've just got three more places left to send some Royal Fighters to and then we've divided everybody." said Sally "The next place will be Kingdom Valley. Who wants to go to Kingdom Valley and deal with the Martians there?"

There was a brief pause before none other then Sonic's biggest fan and would-be-love interest Amy Rose stood forward with her trademark weapon, the Piko-Piko hammer, in hand.

"Please, your majesty, let me and my team mates Cream and Cosmo go to Kingdom Valley." pleaded Amy "I'm eager to get in on the action, especially as my Sonic and many of my good friends are now fighting for Mobius."

"Please can we go to Kingdom Valley Miss Acorn?" begged Cream "We want to fight some Martians now."

"Me especially." said Cosmo in an oddly cold voice, a voice that you'd be hard-pressed to hear her speaking in "After what they did to my world and my race, I wish to help prevent Mobius from suffering the same fate. I've lost Greengate, I don't want to lose Mobius too."

Sally was surprised, but pleased to hear such eagerness coming from three young girls like Amy, Cream and Cosmo. True it was natural for kids to be eager to get into the action and be wanting to do big things like thus but still, Sally couldn't help but admire such dedication.

"OK then, you three may go to Kingdom Valley since you asked so nicely." said Sally brightly "But I do hope you'll be careful out there. You three aren't exactly the most experienced fighters in the team, no disrespect intended."

"We get you Sally." said Amy "We may not be very strong but our team move always conquers all! I can't wait to give those Martians the Twirling Hammer Batter move!"

"We still need a better name for that attack." sighed Cream.

Amy fumed at the little rabbit and Cream recoiled quickly. Amy sure scared the daylights out of her when she was angry.

"OK then, you may depart now." said Sally "Silver, open up the warp ring to Kingdom Valley."

Silver the Hedgehog did just that and the Super Warp Ring opened up a portal to the beautiful but abandoned world of Kingdom Valley. Even in Silver's future, it's still a mystery as to why Kingdom Valley is no longer occupied. It's one of those things the world will never know.

"Right, you girls aware of any potential dangers that you'll come across as you wander into a Martian invaded territory?" asked Sally concernedly.

"Yes, we could get ambushed by Martians and we maybe up against many of them." said Amy "But don't you worry Sally, Team Rose will emerge victorious in this battle against the Martians!"

Team Adabat Leader, Scott Lynx, snickered at that statement.

"Ha, ha, ha "Team Rose"?" he snorted "That is so corny! Did you get that name from a video game or something?"

Amy scowled at the lynx in the blue shorts but she said nothing to him.

"Alright then, Team Rose, you may depart. And please, for heaven's sake, be careful out there." said Sally in a motherly tone of voice.

"We will Sally, don't sweat it." said Amy in a cocky tone of voice "Alright girls, let's go!"

With that said, Amy, Cream and Cosmo all ran through the Super Warp Ring like eager young children diving into a ball pool. The moment they jumped through the ring, it closed up behind them and Silver caught the Super Warp Ring back in his hand. Sally however seemed to be a little disheartened at all this and she put a hand over her heart.

"Those girls are going to die out there, I just know it." fretted Sally "I don't mean to undermine their bravery or deem them unworthy of carrying a mission out on there own but it's just…Amy's a little capricious and in over her head, Cream's dreadfully young and inexperience and Cosmo…oh I regret sending those three out on their own now! I should have sent Amy with Sonic and Tails, Cream with Wilson and Mandy and Cosmo with any of the others. They'd definitely be OK in their care."

"Your majesty, don't fret." said Silver's best friend Blaze the Cat, putting a hand on the young queen's shoulder "I'm sure Amy, Cream and Cosmo will be OK on their own. Me and Silver have read much about all of the Royal Fighters and what we've learnt about Amy gives me confidence that she'll lead her and the other two to a sound victory. If they need help, they'll call for it and we'll just simply warp over to them with Silver's warp ring."

Sally calmed down a little after hearing Blaze's words and she looked at the future Angel Island guardian.

"Thank you Blaze." said Sally brightly "I'm still worried for them though but what you've said has enlightened me a little."

"You're welcome your grace." said Blaze with a polite curtsey to Sally.

"Please, you don't have to do that because I'm the queen Blaze, you can treat me as a normal person." said Sally in a half-flattered manner "Ahem, OK, only two teams left to go. You and Silver and Shadow and Rouge. Who's going to Megapolis out of you two then?" she suddenly asked to the remaining four Mobians waiting to depart for the last two locations that were under attack from the Martians…

Five minutes earlier…

Kingdom Valley, a truly fascinating relic of Mobius. The Valley was once a highly prosperous, opulent, prodigious kingdom with unequivocal beauty and happiness everywhere among the people that lived there. And yet several years ago, the kingdom was suddenly abandoned and the valley is now full mostly of water with only ruins remaining of the once great kingdom. How this had happened and why the valley had been abandoned truly obfuscated many people. Was the valley flooded and everybody in it drowned? Did they all flee before it was flooded? Did they leave for other reasons and then a random flood came in after they left? And how did the flood happen? Why did it happen and where did it come from? Nobody knows and it's a mystery that mystifies even the most dedicated of researchers. The answers to those questions is debatable and even to this day, it seems the world will never know.

And right now, people were wondering something different about Kingdom Valley. Something very different indeed. And that thing they were wondering was what a singular, lone Martian was doing in such a place of ruination. They were worried that this strange creature they had not seen before might start desecrating the ruins and destroying a valuable tourist attraction. Not to mention, the ruins are all of Kingdom Valley that are left and they do not want to lose a valuable piece of history so the locals that lived near the kingdom had called for help. While they had been doing that, the Martian had been touring the place himself and taking notes about it. And that was none other then the sinister and creepy Zarondight, the brother of Natasha who was silent due to him being born without vocal chords. Zarondight was the messenger of the Martian fleet but he was also a very capable fighter, evident in how easily he floored the treacherous Rozarr back on Greengate when she had attempted to murder his beloved sister*. Zarondight had trained in combat during the times the Martians had gone out fighting and thus, was an efficient fighter as well as a spy. But he wasn't using those traits right now. He was using another one of his great skills. His strategic abilities. He had decided to rely on laying traps for any Mobians that he might come across in Kingdom Valley. He had arrived an hour ago and had been spending that precious hour setting up traps for any unsuspecting victims he was bound to come across while he was here. He was almost finished too. He was setting up what appeared to be a mine of some kind. He set it down on a bridge way and switched it on. The mine was metallic blue in colour with some white structures around it and in the centre was a red button. If that button was pressed and then released, the mine would go off instantly and give the person standing on it a one way ticket to the moon (albeit in a very bloody way and guaranteed to make the person lose a leg or two). Zarondight smiled to himself from behind his mouth plate. The place was booby-trapped top to bottom. No Mobian would make it through this abandoned place of ruins alive. Zarondight decided that since his work was done, the best thing to do now was wait and see what happens next. Zarondight jumped off the bridge he was standing on and clung onto a nearby ruin that didn't have any traps set on it. He then climbed up the wall like a spider, using his sharp, thin, long claws to dig into the wall and climb up it. He reached the top of the ruin and sat atop of it like a gargoyle glaring down below atop a rooftop of a spooky mansion. Zarondight kept his beady eyes open and he sat there, waiting for something to happen. He was a very patient Martian (he's a spy, what did you expect?) and he could easily wait here for hours, maybe even days for something to happen. Still, he was hoping it would happen quickly so he could return to the Martian fleet with some Mobian hearts in his hands…

Now…

Amy, Cream and Cosmo flew through the Super Warp Ring and landed on a long stretching bridge way that led to some of the ruins but looked old and crumbly. The Super Warp Ring closed up behind them, sealing them off from Royal HQ and trapping them in Kingdom Valley for the time being. Their only way back was a simple call to Royal HQ and then the Super Warp Ring would open up and let them back in. But now was not the time to be going back home. They had a mission to do and no matter what it took or what dangers they were going to face, they were going to find the Martians (or in their case, just a Martian but they don't know that yet) who were attacking Kingdom Valley. Amy kept her trademark hammer at the ready and kept a cautious eye out for any danger. Strange how Kingdom Valley looked surprisingly OK for a place that's under attack. It didn't look anymore ruined then it already was. Maybe the Martians haven't gotten down to the attacking yet? Or were they lying in wait for them. Experience had taught Amy to remain vigilant, no matter what the scenario is. Even if everything seems OK and completely normal, you should not let your guard down for the enemy could strike at any possible moment. Amy's ears were pricked up and listening for any sign of danger, her nose twitched for any scents out of the ordinary and her eyes took notice of every tiny detail of her surroundings, even cracks in the brick work of the ruins. The girls trekked slowly across the bridge with Amy up front and Cosmo trailing behind. Cosmo looked incredibly nervous as she trailed behind Cream and Amy. She knew the Martians better than anyone else and the mere thought of being in the middle of a bunch of ruins with possible Martian troops hiding out there worried her sick. She knew many of their tricks and trades and she had a horrible feeling in her stomach that the Martians were hiding and waiting to strike out at any possible moment. She couldn't bear the thought and it was more worrying for her since she was now the last of the Seedrians alive (we know that she isn't but she doesn't and will never know that will she?) thanks to the destruction of Greengate at the hands of the Martians. If she got killed out here then that was it, the Seedrians would be extinct forever. As the girls continued to creep slowly across the bridge, Amy looked around, sniffing the air and listening out like a watchdog.

"Hmm…for a place that's under attack from the Martians, it's eerily quiet." said Amy slowly and quietly, her voice a slight whisper "Heck, the place looks just fine. What's going on here?"

"M-m-maybe w-we got a false alarm and e-everything's fine?" asked Cream nervously.

"Don't be a twerp Cream, why would the locals who live near here call for help and tell us that Kingdom Valley's under attack if it isn't?" snapped Amy quite rudely "We Mobians know better then to cry wolf…most of the time…if Kingdom Valley's got Martians then it's got Martians. They're obviously hiding somewhere, I can feel it in my hair that they're somewhere around and just waiting to pounce on us."

"I bet that'd be just like those horrible, peace-hating jerks!" cried Cream "I mean, Marik liked to pounce on us a lot of the time! I bet the others are no better!"

"I don't even wanna THINK about what the other Martians are like!" blurted Amy, shuddering as if an icy hand had just gripped her by the throat "Marik was horrible enough, especially the time he almost killed me when we were hunting for Chaos Emeralds, I don't wanna think about how horrible the others can possibly be!"

"Well I don't care what the other Martians are like!" said Cream with determination in her voice "We're gonna stop those monsters before they destroy our world! Isn't that right Cheese?"

"Chao!" piped her ever faithful and helpful pet Chao Cheese. He looked just as determined as Cream was.

"Well it's nice to hear that you and Cheese are as determined as ever." said Amy brightly "With determination like that, we're bound to beat those Martians! Wouldn't you agree Cosmo?"

She looked over her shoulder only to see that Cosmo had stopped and was hugging herself in fear. She looked terrified and was shaking like a leaf (if you'll excuse the VERY obvious pun) a couple of bridge sections away from Amy and Cream. Amy's face fell into one of concern. She looked like a mother who's worried about her child. Amy and Cream ran back over to Cosmo and Amy put a hand around the Seedrian's shoulders.

"Hey…Cosmo. Are you OK?" asked Amy.

"No Amy. I am not OK." said Cosmo miserably, she looked like she was about ready to break down in rainfalls "I'm still effected at the fact that…that…I'm the last of my kind…thanks to those…those… those horrible Martians!"

She finally stopped resisting and just let the tears trickled down her face. She held her head in her hands and wailed ever so loudly. Her sobs tore Amy's heart in two and Cream looked like she was about ready to break down with her. Amy and Cream both hugged Cosmo affectionately to try and make her feel better.

"Aw don't cry Cosmo, we need to focus on stopping the Martians and I'm sure that since they destroyed your planet, you'll be willing to get some payback on them." said Amy softly.

Cosmo lifted her head out of her hands and looked at Amy.

"I know but, I just can't stop being sad about it." sobbed Cosmo "I was so hoping that my dad and his friends would win the war and that I would be able to come back to Greengate and yet…they lost, my planet is gone and I'm the last of my kind! Why did this have to happen to me? Why, why?!"

"I don't know Cosmo but we're gonna teach those Martians a lesson." said Amy supportively "We're gonna make them pay for giving you all this grief. We're gonna kick them out of Mobius and foil their plans…for you, for your kind and for your world Cosmo."

"I appreciate the thought Amy but I don't believe in revenge." said Cosmo, wiping away her tears "I know I hate the Martians with all my heart and I would like nothing better then for them to stop their evil way of life, I do not wish to get revenge on them. That makes me no better then them. And getting revenge on them won't make me feel better, I'm still going to be the last Seedrian whether we beat them or not. So as it is, I just want the Martians to be stopped and Mobius to be safe from their tyranny. I've already lost so much, I don't want to lose all I have left which is you, Cream, all my other friends and this beautiful world you live on. You're all very dear to me and I don't want to lose you all like I've lost everything else."

"Aww, that's very nice of you to say Cosmo." said Cream, feeling touched by the fact Cosmo cared so much about Mobius and its people that she didn't want to lose it "I'm glad you feel that way about us."

"You're welcome Cream." said Cosmo "I'm sorry for getting so emotional about this and slowing you all down but…"

"Cosmo." interrupted Amy, putting a finger to the Seedrian's lips "It's fine. We perfectly understand how you feel right now. It's OK to be upset. You're the last of your kind, you have every right to be sad about it. We feel for you Cosmo and we don't mind if you need a good cry about it. We may have a mission to do but that's not gonna stop us from letting you let out all your sorrows."

Cosmo smiled at Amy appreciatively.

"Thank you so much Amy." said Cosmo, hugging the pink hedgehog happily "I'm so glad to have a friend like you."

"Anytime Cosmo, anytime." said Amy brightly "Now, let's move on and see if we can find any Martians to smash!"

"Yes, let's." said Cosmo "The sooner we send those monsters packing, the better."

"That's what I like to hear!" cried Amy enthusiastically "Now let's move on and find those Martians. The sooner we find them, the sooner we kick them out of Kingdom Valley and…"

She started walking off as she was talking but before she could finish what she was saying, she suddenly stepped on something. The thing she stepped on felt hard and like it was made of metal. Amy looked down at her foot. Given how she was in a place being attacked by Martians, she wasn't sure if she wanted to lift up her foot or anything in case it was something bad. Something like…

"Um…girls? I think I've stepped on something." said Amy nervously.

"I think you have." said Cosmo gravely "And I think it might have been a mine! Look!"

She pointed ahead of her and the girls noticed that the whole bridge section ahead of them was full of landmines! Zarondight had set up plenty of those in hopes of killing any Mobians that dared wander into Kingdom Valley to look for him. There were mines all over an entire bridge section and it was going to be difficult to step past all of them without setting one off. And much to Amy's horror, she had stepped on one! If she lifted off her foot then it was lights out for her and she'd likely be scattered over a wide area. Zarondight watched from his perch gleefully as he waited for the Mobians to hopefully do something foolish and set off the mine. Cosmo got down onto her hands and knees and looked under Amy's foot. She could see what was unmistakeably a landmine under her foot. This in turn made Cosmo feel horrified all over. She looked up at Amy with an ashen face and fearful eyes.

"U-u-u-un f-f-fortunately Amy y-y-y-you h-h-h-have s-s-stepped on a m-m-m-mine!" gibbered Cosmo worriedly "I-I-I c-c-can s-s-see it u-u-under y-y-your foot!"

" I HAVE?! " screamed Amy at the top of her voice box, putting her hands to her head in agony "Oh no, oh no, no, no, no, no, no! I've stepped on a mine! But why haven't I been blown up yet?"

"Those kinds of mines ONLY go off if you lift your foot off of it." said Cosmo gravely, her leafy hair shaking like leaves on a breeze in fear "I should know, I've witnessed many of my kind fall victim to those things. Martians a very fond of mines and they love to use them in their conquests."

Cream looked like she was witnessing the end of the world right before her eyes. Her big chocolate brown eyes were wide open in indescribable fear and tears were raining down her cheeks like crazy.

"Oh no! Miss Rose is going to die!" whimpered Cream "If she lifts her foot off the mine, it'll go off and blow her up! Oh poor Miss Rose!"

"Chao, Chao, Chao!" squeaked Cheese fearfully, sharing Cream's horror.

Amy's heart pounded like a war drum as she desperately tried to think of a way out of this sticky situation. Her head rained with sweat and her mind was whizzing like a Le Mans Race Car.

"What am I gonna do?! What am I gonna do?!" whimpered Amy frantically "If I move, I'm history but I can't stay here forever! I'll die of malnutrition if I do and then when my dead body collapses, the mine will go off anyway! And what if I end up falling asleep?! And I can't have Cream fly me off of it or it'll go off and she won't be fast enough to get us away in time! No matter what we do, that mine's going off and it's taking ME with it!"

Cream threw herself into Amy's arms and squeezed her tightly as if this was the last she'd ever see of Amy Rose. The cries Cream emitted were enough to make even the most stone-hearted of people tear up.

"I don't want you to die Amy! We've gotta save you now!" howled Cream.

"If only my Sonic was here, he'd just zoom me off of this thing in the blink of an eye." wailed Amy, hugging Cream back "But he's not. We've gotta save me on our own. But what can we do?! I can't move and if I stay here, I'll collapse from exhaustion. How am I gonna get outta this?!"

As Amy and Cream desperately tried to think of a way out of this, Cosmo looked over at Amy's Piko-Piko Hammer which she'd dropped in alarm after freaking out over the fact she's stepped on a mine. She then suddenly had a bright idea. Cosmo stepped around behind Amy and grabbed her Piko-Piko hammer. She tugged on it and dragged it back around Amy and to where she had been standing a moment ago. The hammer was very heavy to her. She couldn't help but wonder how Amy was able to lift the thing. Amy and Cream stopped hugging each other and they looked over at Cosmo in confusion.

"Cosmo, what the cuss are you doing with my hammer?" asked Amy.

"I have an idea that'll save you losing a leg or two." said Cosmo, pushing the hammer towards Amy's foot "I'm going to place your hammer on the mine in place of your foot. Your hammer should be heavy enough to keep the mine pressed in and stop it from going off once we get it on there."

Amy's mind clicked and she realized that Cosmo had her survival in the bag. She beamed like a sunrise.

"Cosmo, you're brilliant!" cried Amy happily "So, what should I do?"

Cosmo edged the hammer slowly to Amy's foot until it was now pressed up against her foot. The hammer was on it's head and facing up right with the handle out to the side. It'd easily keep the mine pressed in if they could get it on there.

"Alright Amy, move your foot on the count of three." said Cosmo cautiously, ready to push the hammer onto the mine.

"OK Cosmo, you're my only hope now." said Amy.

"One…two…" counted Cosmo as she was ready to push and Amy was ready to move her foot off the mine "…three!"

Amy quickly moved her foot and Cosmo just as quickly moved the hammer onto the mine. The heavy head of the hammer kept the mine pressed in and stopped it from going off. If the hammer stayed where it was then the mine would never go off unless somebody moved it. Amy put a hand over her chest in relief and Cream grasped Amy in a relieved hug.

"Yay! You're safe Amy! We've saved you from being blown up! Oh how wonderful!" squealed Cream.

"Cosmo, you're a life saver." said Amy, hugging Cream back "I owe you big time."

"Please, don't mention it, I'm just saving the life of a friend I can't afford to lose." said Cosmo modestly.

Amy just smiled and grasped Cosmo in a thankful hug. Cosmo beamed graciously and she hugged Amy back. Zarondight watched from his perch and he glared at the girls. He couldn't believe that they've managed to save Amy from setting off a mine! No matter, he could easily put a stop to that. Zarondight remained on his perch and watched as Team Rose prepared to move on further down the bridge.

"OK, now we've got that horror out of the way," said Amy, summoning another hammer to her hands to replace the one keeping the mine from going off "Cream, fly us over the mines and onto that section of the bridge past them all."

"Yes Miss Rose." said Cream politely.

Cream took Amy and Cosmo by the hands and with a flap of her long, floppy ears, she took to the skies and flew her team mates over the horde of mines that were place all over a section of the bridge. Zarondight saw the perfect opportunity to try and catch them off guard. He jumped down from the ruin he was standing upon and landed on top of another ruin. Then he jumped off of that ruin and landed on a broken castle turret that was about ready to crumble. And then he jumped off of that and onto a section of a ruined temple near the bridge. He reached onto his belt and took out a stone he'd stored there. Zarondight was renowned for his contingencies. He liked to collect objects and keep hold of them for incase he'd ever need them. You never know what kind of use things like stones may be of when you're in situations like this. The stone Zarondight had in his hand was the size of his fist and could just as easily knock somebody out if he threw it at Team Rose. But that wasn't what he was going to do. He aimed the stone at the hammer that was perched atop the mine just as Cream finished flying everybody over the mines. He threw the stone at the hammer and the stone smacked it directly in the head. The hammer was knocked off the mine by the stone and the mine went off with a terrific explosion! The explosion ended up setting off all the other mines and thus, resulted in an explosion that was enough to make the entire bridge crumble! The brickwork of the bridge crumbled to dust in a matter of seconds as the colossal, mammoth explosion blasted it's way across it. Cream had already taken off with Amy and Cosmo in tow as the mines were going off but the force of the explosion sent the girls flying through the air and towards another bridge further away from their current position. Zarondight watched as the girls landed on the other bridge with a sickening crash. Any normal person would have some broken bones after going through this but Mobians are a little tougher then humans are so the girls managed to survive with their bones intact. They still felt like they'd been slammed against a giant wall by a giant hand though. The bridge they had been on was completely destroyed thanks to the terrific explosion that had been caused by all the mines going off. Had they not gotten away in time, they would all have been dead. Zarondight hopped off of the ruin section he was standing on and he dived down into the water down below. He then swam his way over to the over bridge and, using his long, thin claws, climbed out of the water and up the bridge like a spider scuttling up a wall. Zarondight hauled himself onto the bridge and looked at his victims from behind a wall that had once been part of a building near the bridge. He watched disappointedly as the girls slowly but steadily picked themselves up. Amy groaned and she clutched her head in pain.

"Oooooh…my ears are still ringing from that explosion." she murmured groggily. She sounded a little sick as she moaned in pain.

"What happened?" mumbled Cream "Why did the mine go off?"

"I heard something hit something and then suddenly, the mines went off." said Cosmo, shaking herself off and wiping dust off her skirt "I think something might have knocked the hammer off the mine and in turn, the mine went off."

"That's probably exactly what happened." said Amy, rubbing her ears to get the ringing out of them "I have a feeling the Martians probably know we're here and they're trying everything they can to kill us."

That made Cream and Cheese feel very nervous now. Cream hugged Cheese for comfort.

"Th-th-th-the M-M-M-Martians kn-kn-know w-w-we're here?" she whimpered.

"It's only a guess but I think they do." said Amy "Well that'll just mean we find them and beat the crap outta them faster!" she cried gleefully, swinging her hammer around.

"Amy, please don't be so eager to fight a Martian." said Cosmo sternly "Martians are not to be taken lightly. You've seen it all from just Marik himself but that was just one Martian, you have no idea what the others will be like."

"Oh, of course, I'm sorry Cosmo." said Amy, softening up a bit.

"It's OK Amy." said Cosmo kindly "Now I suggest we keep moving, we have no idea when the Martians will strike again."

"I agree, let's go." said Amy.

The girls walked up further across the bridge they were now standing on after the explosion on the other bridge had blown them onto it. Zarondight watched them walking off. He smiled to himself behind his mouth plate for he had a couple of traps set up here. And he was just about to set them off right now. Zarondight reached onto his belt and he pulled out a long metal stick with a button on it that was clearly meant to set something off. Zarondight pressed the button without a moment's hesitance and then something happened. Another trap set up by Zarondight were a multitude of rotating gun turrets that he'd set up on various walls, bridge ways and nearby cliff tops all around the area Team Rose were currently in. The guns all aimed at Team Rose and they started firing metal, serrated tipped arrows at them! The arrows whizzed out of the gun turrets and towards the girls. Amy shrieked in horror and she shielded herself with her hammer as a bunch of arrows embedded themselves into the hammer head. Cream and Cheese squealed in fright and they began flying around desperately whereas Cosmo threw herself down onto the ground.

"It's another trap!" shrieked Cosmo "Get down!"

"No, keep moving!" screamed Amy "We'll get past them all if we keep moving!"

So with that said, Amy ran off down the bridge, using her hammer to block the firing arrows that were shooting from all directions and threatening to impale one of them. Cream had flown up into the sky but the turrets just aimed up at Cream and start shooting arrows into the air. Because they were all aiming up at Cream now, Amy and Cosmo had a clear path to run through but poor Cream was getting showered by metal serrated arrows from up above. Cream could see she was no better on the sky then she was on ground so she started flying down towards the running Amy and Cosmo. Amy smacked a section of the bridge to break all the arrows stuck in them so she could defend herself from another flying batch of arrows. One arrow actually managed to scratch Cosmo across the arm and the Seedrian fell over in surprise and shock, clutching her arm in pain. The cut trickled with green blood (Seedrians have green blood, you surprised?). Cream could see Cosmo was hurt and she flew down to pick Cosmo up while dodging the arrows that just wouldn't stop firing at them. Amy and Cream then belted down the bridge as fast as they could run and fly respectively. The arrows kept on firing but the girls kept on dodging them. Eventually, the girls managed to get out of range although one arrow managed to scratch Cream across the leg just as they cleared the way. Cream clutched her leg in pain as she touched down, her white glove getting stained by the bleeding cut. Amy wiped sweat off her forehead.

"Phew…we made it." she huffed "I will say, that was a good trap the Martians set up. Almost got us. Not that I wish to compliment them or anything."

"Why are the Martians setting up traps to catch us?" asked Cream "I thought they loved to fight, why would they be hiding and relying on traps to catch us?

"I have a sneaky feeling I might know who's here." said Cosmo grimly, clutching her arm as it still continued to sting from the cut "I know a Martian who's primary method of attack is setting up traps and using strategic methods to catch his victims as opposed to just fighting them himself being as he seemingly cannot fight."

"Who might that be then?" asked Amy.

Before Cosmo could answer, Cream toddled off and looked at something. There was a metal ring device about 14 feet wide all around lying on the bridge. It didn't look like it could do much of anything. Heck, it didn't look like it could do anything at all. It looked completely harmless.

"Hey, what's this?" asked Cream, reaching up to pick up the ring.

Cosmo saw what Cream was doing and the Seedrian almost went berserk with horror. She knew what it was and it wasn't good.

"No! Cream! Don't touch that!" she shrieked at the top of her voice.

Too late. Cream touched the ring and then suddenly, the ring began to glow a malevolent dark blue colour as if merely touching it had just switched it on or something. The ring then suddenly floated up off the ground and over Cream's head about five feet above her. Then a cylinder shaped barrier descended down from the ring and over Cream, trapping her like a rat in a cage. Cream looked worried and she clutched Cheese so tightly to her chest it was a miracle Cheese hadn't suffocated yet. Amy looked horrified at this.

"Cosmo, what is that?! Another Martian trap?" asked Amy worriedly.

"It is, and a very deadly one at that." said Cosmo downheartedly "It's a Ring Barrier Emitter, a trap Martians often use when hunting livestock back on Mars. It floats above the victim, traps them in a barrier and…"

Then suddenly, as if the Ring Barrier Emitter knew what Cosmo was going to say next, it started electrocuting Cream from the inside of the barrier. Cream howled at the top of her voice as she was brutally electrocuted from the inside of the barrier. Cream's screams made Amy feel like a knife had been plunged into her heart and then taken out so it could be plunged in again. She had to act fast before Cream was electrocuted to death.

"It's gonna kill her! We have to get her out of there and fast!" screamed Amy frantically.

Cosmo thought fast on a way to save Cream. Luckily, she had seen those things in action before so she knew how to stop it.

"Hit the ring itself as hard as you can, it's the only way to stop it!" ordered Cosmo, pointing at the floating ring device that was emitting the barrier around Cream.

"Got it!" cried Amy, leaping up into the air with her hammer in her hands.

She walloped the ring device with her hammer as hard as she possibly could and sent it spiralling away from Cream, the barrier shutting off as it was knocked away. The Ring Barrier Emitter then landed with a clunk on the bridge and Amy promptly smashed it to pieces with her hammer so it couldn't be used ever again. As for poor Cream, she had collapsed after that terrible shock she'd received but she was still alive and barely conscious. Cosmo knelt down beside her and hugged her tightly.

"Oh Cream, I'm so glad you're OK!" cried Cosmo with relief.

"Thank you…for saving me…Cosmo." coughed Cream hoarsely "I… I'm sorry I…touched that thing…"

"It's alright Cream." said Cosmo "You're safe now, that's all that matters."

"That is until ANOTHER trap goes off and we end up in another life and death situation." grumbled Amy "The Martians sure have been busy haven't they? Going to all this trouble just to set up traps for us."

"This is sacrilege." said Cosmo in disgust "Those conniving monsters setting up booby-traps in this area of ruination, how could they desecrate this place? Hasn't it been ruined enough?"

"Not like they care that this place is a valuable piece of history." muttered Amy "The Martians would sooner see the world destroyed so wrecking this place is nothing to them. Well when I get my hands on those Martians, they will never wreck another place again!"

As the girls chatted to one another, Zarondight slowly crept out of his hiding place and he climbed down to the underside of the bridge and started creeping across the underside of the bridge like a big, golden armoured spider. He was sick and tired of his traps failing so he decided to do the old "If you want something done right, you have to do it yourself route" and finish the girls off himself. He crept along under the bridge until he eventually reached Team Rose. He the crawled out from under the bridge and leaped up onto it just in front of the girls. The silent Martian gave the girls an awful fright and they leaped back in surprise. Amy pointed her hammer at Zarondight and threatened to smash his face into mush.

"Well, well, well. A Martian FINALLY shows up after being a coward and relying on stupid booby traps to do his dirty work for him!" snarled Amy "You've got a lot to answer for pal. I nearly got blown up by a mine, we nearly got arrows in our bodies and Cream nearly got shocked to death! When I'm finished with you, there won't be enough of you to fill a Petri dish!"

Zarondight didn't say anything back to her for he can't. He just kept his gaze fixed on the pink hedgehog in the red dress.

"Amy, don't bother talking to him, he can't answer you back." said Cosmo hastily "He's mute."

"Oh really?" said Amy "That might explain how he crept up on us so quietly. So who is this clown then?"

"That," said Cosmo in a very glum voice "Is Zarondight, the deadliest spy and strategist in the Martian army. He's responsible for killing more people on the battlefield then even Grand Warlord Diablo. His strategic skills are unrivalled and his spy skills make him one heck of a dangerous Martian. I bet he was the one setting up all the traps for us."

Zarondight nodded as if to confirm Cosmo's statement.

"You set up those traps?! You bad, bad Martian!" yelled Cream "You almost killed us! How could you do such a thing?!"

Zarondight just narrowed his eyes and bared his claws. They glistened like knives in a drawer in the bright sunlight that shone down on Kingdom Valley. The sunlight was soon replaced by dark, grey clouds that started drifting in over the ruins. Cream stepped back at the mere sight of Zarondight's claws. Amy looked at Cream in a rather annoyed tone.

"Cream, don't bother reprimanding him, Martians live for killing people, he's not gonna feel remorse for it." muttered Amy "Well then, Zarondight, I've got a hammer with your name on it!"

"We might have an easy time with him since I do not believe he actually has any fighting prowess." said Cosmo.

"Well that's good to know." said Amy "Let's get him girls! For Cosmo, for her world, for all of Mobius, for peace-lovers everywhere, let's bash this Martian to bits!"

There was a loud clap of thunder and a flash of lightning as Amy screamed that. Then, it started to throw it down with rain as the stormy clouds blocked out the sun and loomed over KingdomValley. Amy was a little annoyed at the fact it was raining and she was getting wet (she hates getting wet) but she ignored it for the moment and decided to just focus on Zarondight. Zarondight and Amy glared at each other as rain poured down from the sky and trickled down their bodies. Amy then lunged at Zarondight, roaring like an Amazon Warrior and she swung her hammer at Zarondight. Zarondight effortlessly blocked the blow with his arm though and he struck Amy in the chest with a powerful punch. He then uppercut Amy with his other arm and sent her staggering backwards. Amy swung the hammer again but she only hit him on the shoulder and his shoulder pad cushioned the blow for him. Amy swung again and Zarondight blocked the blow with his arm. He then twirled around as Amy tried to hit him again. Amy swung the hammer at Zarondight and very narrowly missed his face. The hammer head just swept over him by millimetres (wow, what a dodge!). Amy then raised her hammer and tried to whack Zarondight again. Zarondight blocked the blow and Amy hit him several more times but Zarondight blocked the blows and then uppercut Amy in the face. Amy staggered backwards, dropping her hammer and she ended up nearly teetering off the edge of the bridge. She wafted her arms around to regain her balance before she could fall off and Zarondight picked up her hammer. Zarondight glared at the hammer, disgusted with it's rather glaring colour scheme of red and yellow (he doesn't do bright colours) and he chucked it Amy, hoping it would crash into her and knock her off the bridge. Amy merely summoned another hammer to her hands and walloped the hammer away, knocking it down into the water below. Amy ran towards Zarondight again but Zarondight ran forward and slugged Amy in the stomach. Amy gasped and wheezed ever so hoarsely by that powerful punch. Zarondight then grabbed Amy by the face and hoisted her up to his height. He tossed Amy further up the bridge and she landed with a heavy thud in front of Cosmo and Cream, who leaped back in alarm. Zarondight picked up Amy's dropped hammer and he threw it over the bridge into the water. Cream and Cosmo helped the poor pink hedgehog stagger back onto her feet.

"Cosmo…I thought you said he has no fighting prowess!" growled Amy "And yet he's kicking my butt here!"

"I'm sorry Amy, I said I do not believe he has any fighting prowess, I never said he doesn't have any!" snapped Cosmo "I've never seen Zarondight fight before so I had no idea he could fight!"

"Well, you've seen him fight now." muttered Amy, summoning another hammer to her hands "Our battle's not going to be as easy as we thought. But never mind, we'll beat him anyway! Let's go girls!"

Cream was all too happy to jump into the action. She flapped her ears and took to the sky. She flew towards Zarondight like an eagle homing in on its prey. She swung her feet forward and attempted to kick Zarondight in the face but Zarondight merely stood there and just smacked her away as if she was just a fly being swatted away. Cream spiralled away from the bridge but she regained her balance and flew towards Zarondight again. Zarondight threw himself over backwards and dodged Cream's aerial attack. Cream flew a great U-turn and flew back towards Zarondight. But the silent Martian lashed out and socked Cream in the face and sent her flying backwards. She crashed into Cosmo and knocked the Seedrian down onto the ground. Cream picked herself up and she and Amy both charged towards Zarondight. Amy swung her hammer at him but Zarondight grabbed the hammer and swung Amy down on top of Cream before she could do anything to him. Cheese was furious to see his friends getting hurt like this and he whizzed towards Zarondight like a fighter plane in the World Wars. Zarondight just held up his hand and caught Cheese in it as if he was a baseball. He threw Cheese at Cream and the Chao hit Cream in the eye. Cream yelped and she clutched her sore eye in pain. Zarondight loomed over Cream and Cheese and he raised his sharp claws, ready to kill them both. Cream lay down on the ground clutching Cheese to her chest and whimpering like a lost puppy. Lightening flashed in the sky and thunder boomed around KingdomValley. The lightening flash behind Zarondight made him look very sinister indeed. Zarondight lashed out to kill Cream and Cheese but Amy uppercut him in the face with her hammer. Zarondight staggered backwards and nearly fell onto his back. Amy was right ticked now.

"Don't you DARE threaten Cream's life like that!" snarled Amy, her face redder then the devil himself with rage.

She then ran forward and user her hammer to pole-vault herself into the air and she kick-slammed Zarondight directly in the face. The mouth plate shielded most of the impact but it was still a powerful kick and Zarondight felt it badly. Zarondight stumbled backwards, clutching his face in pain. He then felt his mouth plate and was horrified to find out that Amy had CRACKED it with that kick! Mouth plates weren't notorious for being very resistant but it was still an achievement for Amy to actually crack it like that. Amy smirked at Zarondight and raised her hammer up high.

"You thought that was hard? Then let me show you the hammer!"

she crooned with a rather devious smirk on her face.

She ran towards Zarondight but Zarondight gave Amy a sweep-kick to the legs and tripped her up. He then kicked Amy as hard as he could into the air and sent her rolling across the bridge. Cream gasped in shock and then she held Cheese in her hand and drew her arm back. She threw Cheese at Zarondight like a baseball and Cheese walloped Zarondight in the face. Cheese didn't stop there though, he uncurled from the ball he'd rolled into and then started punching at Zarondight, being sure to aim for his eyes as they were unprotected. But Zarondight grabbed the little Chao and threw him back at Cream. Cosmo decided she need to get involved in this rainy battle so she grabbed a nearby brick that had fallen lose from the side of the bridge and she tossed it at Zarondight as hard as she possibly could, and given she wasn't a very strong person, that is to say it wasn't a strong shot. Zarondight effortlessly dodged the feeble attack though for Cosmo had barely even thrown it that hard. Cosmo gasped and she started to back away from Zarondight. Zarondight however lashed out and clouted her in the chops. That in turn knocked Cosmo down onto the ground and she was now lying there staring into Zarondight's evil eyes. The silent Martian smiled from behind his cracked mouth plate and he aimed the spike on his helmet at Cosmo. Cosmo cried out in horror and she hid her face behind her hands. Zarondight was about to head butt her and given the spike on his helmet, that will definitely finish her off. Zarondight thrust his head towards Cosmo but before his head-butt could kill her, Cream and Amy both pile-dived him in the side and knocked him down onto the ground.

"You horrible, nasty Martian! How could you try to kill Cosmo like that?!" scolded Cream in her best impression of a stern mother.

Amy helped the terrified Seedrian back onto her feet.

"Are you OK Cosmo?" she asked.

"I'm fine, thanks." said Cosmo weakly "But…Zarondight's too powerful for us. We can barely land a blow on him."

"I know, and he's just so fast!" exclaimed Amy "It's like he's everywhere at once!"

"We have to stop him though." said Cream "We can't have him ruining this place anymore than he already has! Let's use our team move on him!"

"You've got it Cream, and I have a better name for it at last." said Amy in a determined manner "Girls, prepare to do the Team Rose Spin n' Strike Attack!"

Cream and Cosmo just giggled like a pair of school children.

"That's terrible Amy!" laughed Cream "I think "Twirling Hammer Batter" was better!"

"I think you should stop naming your attacks Amy!" chuckled Cosmo "Your names for them are silly!"

Amy fumed at the girls in annoyance.

"Let's just do the stupid attack shall we?!" she hissed fiercely.

Cream and Cosmo stopped laughing and they obliged to Amy's order. Cream flew up into the air and carried Cosmo who in turn carried Amy. Zarondight picked himself up and watched as Cream spun Cosmo and Amy around in a big circle. Amy held her hammer out and Cream edged towards Zarondight ever so slowly and carefully. But before Amy could even hit Zarondight, Zarondight leaped backwards, causing Cream to edged to close to the bridge and the girls ended up rather comically crashing into it and lying in a heap on the ground. The girls all groaned in pain and they wondered which way was up. If Zarondight had vocal chords (which he doesn't) then he'd be laughing his head off right now. As is, all he could do was laugh inaudibly to himself (think of it as someone miming laughing but not making any noise). Zarondight then strode over to Team Rose and he grabbed Amy by the neck. He hoisted her up to his height and began throttling her as hard as he could. He then strode over to the side of the bridge and held Amy over the edge, preparing to drop her into the water below. Amy struggled in Zarondight's grasp.

"Ack…let me…go…!" she choked.

Poor choice of words as that is exactly what Zarondight did! He let go of Amy and the pink hedgehog began plummeting down into the water below. Cream cried out in horror and she flew down off the bridge and towards Amy as fast as she possibly could fly. Zarondight watched as Cream tried to save Amy. While they were busy, he advanced on Cosmo with his claws bared. Cosmo had backed up to a bridge post and stared into Zarondight's eyes. The Seedrian couldn't move. She was petrified with fear right now. She could see her life flashing before her eyes as Zarondight prepared to kill her and render the Seedrian species extinct forever. Cosmo closed her eyes, her heart pounding madly, and awaited her doom. Zarondight prepared to lash out at Cosmo but suddenly, something yellow flew into him and sent him hurling across the bridge! Cosmo opened her eyes and wandered what had happened. That was when she saw the most surprising thing she had ever seen in her life. It was a robot duplicate of Tails! It was (of course) named Metal Tails and it looked like Tails only the twin tails were a pair of metal tails that could form into a propeller blade, he had a black visor with blue optics and the lower legs and feet were completely white. It had pretty much all of Tails' features, including his fringe. Zarondight picked himself up and stared at Metal Tails as if to say "What is this?!". He had never seen a robot before so he had no idea what he was up against. But Zarondight wasn't about to give up so easily. He lashed out at Metal Tails and socked him in the face. Metal Tails socked him back and then tail-whipped him with his metal tails. As for Cream, she had managed to catch Amy and she flew back up to the bridge with Amy in her arms. The girls were in for a surprised though for they saw Metal Tails shooting Zarondight with his torso laser. Amy was so surprised her eyes nearly popped out of their sockets.

"Oh my gosh! A Metal Tails?!" she squeaked "Where did that come from?"

"I bet it's an Eggman robot." said Cream grimly "But it seems to be helping us. It's fighting Zarondight."

"It's probably hoping to kill us too and is just getting rid of Zarondight so he can have us all to himself." muttered Amy "Oh well, we'll deal with Zarondight first and then we smash Metal Tails."

Cream nodded agreeably. She and Amy ran towards Zarondight just as Zarondight clawed Metal Tails across the face. Amy jumped behind Zarondight and walloped him with her hammer. Zarondight was sent hurling across the bridge and he lay there, clearly pained but being unable to groan in pain as he has no vocal chords. Zarondight picked himself up and stared at Team Rose and Metal Tails standing there.

"Give it up Zarondight! You're outnumbered!" sneered Amy "Either you get outta here alive or you get smashed by us!"

Zarondight hated to admit it, but he WAS outnumbered. He hadn't been training much on fighting large groups. He was more used to singular opponents. Metal Tails was the only one he had to worry about but Amy and Cream were still going to be a handful and give Metal Tails the chance to get the drop on him and finish him off so he decided to do the only logical thing: retreat. Zarondight dived backwards quite gracefully off the bridge and into the water below. He then started swimming away from the bridge and heading off back to the Martians in Megapolis. Team Rose watched as Zarondight swam away as quickly as he could. Amy stuck her tongue out at Zarondight and then turned away.

"Well that's him dealt with." said Amy "Now, time to smash you to itty-bitty pieces Metal Tails!" she snarled, holding up her hammer and preparing to turn Metal Tails into a metal pancake.

"No Amy, he saved our lives, you can't smash him!" cried Cosmo.

"He's only here to get rid of Zarondight so he can have us to himself." retorted Amy "Eggman clearly sent him here to deal with us, why else would he be here?"

Metal Tails provided the answer to Amy's question by playing the pre-recorded message that Eggman had given his robots to give to the Mobians.

"Hello there, if any Mobians are listening to this then listen carefully. I, Dr. Eggman, have learnt about the Martians' disgusting presence on Mobius and since I want to conquer the planet for myself, I am going to help Sonic and friends destroy the Martians and save Mobius. I do hope you appreciate my co-operation for I'm not usually this generous or willing to ally with my enemies am I? Please do not attack my robots for they're here to help you, not hinder you. Understood? Sincerely, Dr. Eggman."

Amy couldn't believe her ears. Dr. Eggman had found out about the Martians and was helping to get rid of them?! She wasn't sure if she should believe that but she also knew she couldn't ignore some much needed assistance. Eggman had just saved them from Metal Tails right now so there was no reason to be ungrateful about it. Amy put her hammer away and softened her expression.

"I understand why you're here now." said Amy "Thanks for helping us beat that Martian. But don't get the idea that we and Eggman are allies, OK?"

Metal Tails nodded understandably. Seeing as his work here was done, he took to the skies with his metal tails forming a propeller blade and spinning around and he flew off away from KingdomValley and back to Eggman's base. Team Rose watched as Metal Tails left the Valley.

"Well that was awful nice of Eggman to help us." said Cream "I'm thankful to him for his generosity, even if he is doing it for his own needs."

"Well, he's on our side for this one, that's good enough for me." said Amy "Now let's get outta here and back home, I can't stand this rain any longer!"

She switched on a comlink she had stored in the cuff of her gloves and she spoke into it.

"Hey Sally, mission accomplished, we'd like to come home please." said Amy "And get some towels ready, we're a bit wet."

"OK Amy, just hold on, some of the others are coming back right now." said Sally on the other side of the comlink.

Amy sighed in annoyance and she switched off the comlink. Team Rose would have to stand around waiting in the rain until the warp ring came for them. Oh well, at least they'd get home eventually, satisfied with the outcome of their mission and with some news to tell everybody. Their mission had been deadly but Team Rose had made it out alive and Amy couldn't wait to hear what her precious Sonic had to say about all this…

Footnotes:

We all remember that moment from Tales from Mobius Arc 16: The Final Frontier don't we?

Well that's it for Team Rose's chapter! Just two more parts left and "Divide and Conquer" is over! So how did this part go? Was it good? Was it "meh"? Do tell, I'm eager to hear your feedback! And get ready next time for things are about to get REAL intense in Part 6 of "Divide and Conquer"...

So all my readers, which battle in the Martian saga so far has been the best?

Divide and Conquer Part 6

Story 132: Divide and Conquer Part 6: Fatal Attraction

"Right, you girls aware of any potential dangers that you'll come across as you wander into a Martian invaded territory?" asked Queen Sally Acorn concernedly.

"Yes, we could get ambushed by Martians and we maybe up against many of them." said Amy Rose "But don't you worry Sally, Team Rose will emerge victorious in this battle against the Martians!"

Team Adabat Leader, Scott Lynx, snickered at that statement.

"Ha, ha, ha "Team Rose"?" he snorted "That is so corny! Did you get that name from a video game or something?"

Amy scowled at the lynx in the blue shorts but she said nothing to him.

"Alright then, Team Rose, you may depart. And please, for heaven's sake, be careful out there." said Sally in a motherly tone of voice.

"We will Sally, don't sweat it." said Amy in a cocky tone of voice "Alright girls, let's go!"

With that said, Amy, Cream and Cosmo all ran through the Super Warp Ring like eager young children diving into a ball pool. The moment they jumped through the ring, it closed up behind them and Silver caught the Super Warp Ring back in his hand. Amy, Cream and Cosmo were among many Royal Fighters who had just departed to stop the Martian threat that had come to Mobius. Seven locations all over Mobius were under attack and the Royal Fighters had been dividing their resources to stop the Martians. Sonic, Tails, Wilson, Mandy, Knuckles, Shade, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben had all been sent to the places under attack from the Martians. Now Team Rose had joined them and were off to Kingdom Valley to stop the sinister Zarondight. Sally however seemed to be a little disheartened at all this and she put a hand over her heart.

"Those girls are going to die out there, I just know it." fretted Sally "I don't mean to undermine their bravery or deem them unworthy of carrying a mission out on there own but it's just…Amy's a little capricious and in over her head, Cream's dreadfully young and inexperienced and Cosmo…oh I regret sending those three out on their own now! I should have sent Amy with Sonic and Tails, Cream with Wilson and Mandy and Cosmo with any of the others. They'd definitely be OK in their care."

"Your majesty, don't fret." said Silver's best friend Blaze the Cat, putting a hand on the young queen's shoulder "I'm sure Amy, Cream and Cosmo will be OK on their own. Me and Silver have read much about all of the Royal Fighters and what we've learnt about Amy gives me confidence that she'll lead her and the other two to a sound victory. If they need help, they'll call for it and we'll just simply warp over to them with Silver's warp ring."

Sally calmed down a little after hearing Blaze's words and she looked at the future Angel Island guardian.

"Thank you Blaze." said Sally brightly "I'm still worried for them though but what you've said has enlightened me a little."

"You're welcome your grace." said Blaze with a polite curtsey to Sally.

"Please, you don't have to do that because I'm the queen Blaze, you can treat me as a normal person." said Sally in a half-flattered manner "Ahem, OK, only two teams left to go. You and Silver and Shadow and Rouge. Who's going to Megapolis out of you two then?" she suddenly asked to the remaining four Mobians waiting to depart for the last two locations that were under attack from the Martians. Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat stood forward and they had their hands raised.

"We will go to Megapolis." said Shadow "I believe I've waited long enough and it's time I got into the action now."

"I think Shadow boy's keen to get into the action so he can keep up with Sonic boy." teased Rouge coyly, lightly playing around with one of Shadow's quills "After all, Shadow can't have Sonic hogging all the glory can he?"

Shadow glared at Rouge. He didn't half hate it when the bat taunted him like this, even if it was for laughs.

"Rouge, since I am now another hero fighting for Mobius' freedom, I no longer have any competitive behaviour towards Sonic." said Shadow coldly "Me and him are no longer enemies or rivals, we are allies so why would I be keen to get into the action just because Sonic is?"

"Eesh, I was just fooling with you Shadow, I didn't mean to get on your nerves." sighed Rouge "You'd think with him finally finding out what his purpose is, he'd simmer down and get a sense of humour."

"Rouge, please, not everybody has a funny bone in them." said Sally sternly "Anyway, Shadow and Rouge, since you asked so politely, you may go to Megapolis and deal with the Martians there. Shadow, you've helped us survive the Black Arms, now you may help us survive the Martians."

"Indeed Sally." said Shadow with a confident smirk on his face "These Martians will be nothing compared to Black Doom and his flunkies. I still relish the time I broke Marik's arm. Maybe I can break another Martian's arm while I'm kicking their butts."

Sally smiled rather uneasily at that, not really knowing how to reply to that rather awkward statement.

"OK then…Silver send these two off to Megapolis." said Sally quickly.

Silver flicked the warp ring up into the air and it opened up a portal to Megapolis, the very place that Eggman was hiding in and the very place the Martian ship had taken refuge after taking damage from the Royal Fighters earlier. Shadow and Rouge eagerly ran through the warp ring and they warped over to Megapolis. Shadow had no idea what was in store for him when he arrived but he hoped that he'd be against Marik at the most. He so wanted to break his arm again for bringing his kind to Mobius, the very planet he'd decided to call home after finding out his origins and realizing what he truly was. But Shadow wouldn't be facing Marik unfortunately, he'd be facing someone who might be able to overpower even him…

The Northern Border of Megapolis: Eggman's Secret Bunker: A Few Minutes Ago before the departures of Wilson , Mandy, Knuckles, Shade, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Ruben, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Shadow, Rouge, Silver and Blaze…

It hadn't been long since Eggman had found out that the Martians had invaded Mobius and were plotting to destroy it and already he had a squadron of Eggman robots prepared to go out into the world and give the Mobians some much needed assistance in this battle against the Martians. A horde of Egg-Pawns were all ready and on standby as well as a bunch of leader robots to go with them. Eggman had rebuilt Metal Sonic and Silver Sonic and was going to send them to assist the battling Mobians in their battles against the Martians. As well as those two though, he had three new robots to go out and assist the Royal Fighters. These robots were new ideas that Eggman had been dying to try for ages on end and he deemed this time to be the most appropriate time to give them a test drive. These new robots were Metal Knuckles, Metal Tails and Metal Amy. Eggman decided that since Metal Sonic wasn't as good as he used to be (He hasn't been any good since Episode 70 readers, how the mighty truly have fallen eh?), he needed some more "Metal Robots" to join him and he had decided to model them after Tails, Knuckles and Amy since he felt their designs would be the most interesting and fun to build. He already had plans for other robots in the "Metal Series" and was going to get building them once he had any spare time and once he saw how effective Metal Knuckles, Metal Tails and Metal Amy were. Eggman stood in front of his horde of robots like an army general and spoke aloud.

"OK then my marvellous metal minions, your master Dr. Eggman has a VERY important job for you!" he bellowed out to the robots "The Martians had invaded Mobius and are plotting to take away what's mine, Mobius itself! Sonic and his friends are going to stop the Martians but they're dividing up to fight the Martians since they have also divided up and I fear that anyone who isn't Sonic the Hedgehog will struggle out there so to make sure they win, I'm sending each and everyone of you out into the world to fight the Martians and beat them!"

He pointed at Metal Knuckles.

"Metal Knuckles, you will take a squadron of Egg-Pawns and go to Black Acropolis to fight the Martians there!" barked Eggman.

Metal Knuckles nodded approvingly, pleased with his assignment.

"Metal Tails, you will go alone to KingdomValley since my scanners and the satellite footage of Mobius Katherine's managed to display for me thanks to her expert hacking skills indicate there is only one Martian there." said Eggman, pointing at Metal Tails.

Metal Tails clenched his fists eagerly, ready to get into the action.

"Metal Amy, you will take a squadron of Egg-Pawns and go out into RailCanyon to fight the Martians there." said Eggman, walking past Metal Amy and assigning her mission.

Metal Amy did a little gleeful dance in the manner of Amy when she dances about with joy with excitement (Eggman did make the Metal Series similar to their organic counterparts after all). Eggman strode over to Metal Sonic.

"Metal Sonic, you and a squadron of Egg-Pawns shall go over to Soleanna and deal with the Martians there." ordered Eggman.

Metal Sonic saluted Dr. Eggman loyally, clearly happy to be given an assignment of some kind.

"And finally…Silver Sonic. You shall go to Grand Metropolis." announced Dr. Eggman, pointing at the giant silver killing machine with the bladed quills "You will make mincemeat out of those Martians with your size and power."

Silver Sonic nodded understandingly.

"All of you will deploy…now!" barked Dr. Eggman "And don't you dare come back to me unless the Martians are either sent packing or dead! And please for the love of all things scientific, come back with all your limbs intact!"

The Metal Series all obeyed their master and they ran off to get to their missions. They all left Dr. Eggman's bunker and they flew off to their respective places all over Mobius. The Egg-Pawns were all equipped with jet-packs so they could fly after the Metal Series robots. In a matter of minutes, the robots had all flown away to deal with the Martians attacking the various regions of Mobius and to make sure the Mobians win their battles. Back down in the bunker, Dr. Eggman turned to his remaining two minions with his hands behind his back. The only robots left with him now were Devion the Devatron Leader, who had been reborn under his control and was the only Devatron still alive now the Startrons had wiped them all out with their chrome-eating virus they'd been developing over the years, and Katherine, Eggman's servant bot who was as silent as a graveyard and a keen fighter.

"Now there's only two jobs left to assign some robots to…" purred Dr. Eggman in a smooth, crooning voice as he stared at Devion and Katherine "And I know just the bots for those two jobs. Devion!" he shouted, pointing at the Devatron-turned-Eggman ally "You will go up to the surface and deal with the Martians outside of this border! The satellite feed Katherine has given me states there's a Martian in the region of Megapolis itself."

"I shall comply to my given task immediately Dr. Eggman." said Devion with a loyal bow to the fat scientist with the big bushy moustache "No Martian shall remain alive when I am through with them."

"Good." said Eggman coldly "Because I do not want any Martians wondering into the Northern Border of Megapolis and finding us! The fact there's Martians so close to us at this very moment worries me dearly!"

"Do not fear on this imperative situation doctor, I shall make sure the Martians do not get anywhere near your grand base." said Devion in a loyal tone of voice (he wouldn't be like this if he was his normal self!)

Devion then stood up straight and marched out of the room to get to his task. He did not want to stand around for a minute longer, he wanted to get out there and please his master by stopping the Martians from taking over the planet he so wished to conquer. The moment Devion left, Dr. Eggman smiled to himself brightly.

"I'm so glad I took his body and refurbished him as a minion of mine." said Dr. Eggman in a prideful manner "Having a Devatron on my side certainly makes me feel like the most powerful man in all the universe."

Katherine nodded agreeably. Having a Devatron on their side truly was one of the greatest fortunes that Eggman had ever gotten in his on-going battle with the Mobians. Pity he hadn't really had the chance to be put to good use yet but fate had been throwing things in the way so it couldn't be helped really. Devion had performed quite admirably when fending off the Black Arms and he was bound to impress again when he fought the Martian that was in Megapolis. Dr. Eggman turned around and put an arm around Katherine in the manner of a gentleman putting his arm around a lovely lady.

"As for me and you my sweet little Katherine, we're going for a little ride." purred Dr. Eggman "A ride to New Mobotropolis. We're going to team up with the Royal Fighters and give them valuable information. And that information is the whereabouts of the Martian's ship. Thanks to your hacking skills getting us into Mobius' satellites, we've pin-pointed that the Martian ship itself is here in Megapolis about a hundred miles from where Devion will be going. This'll be an offer the Mobians can't refuse and I'll get the pleasure of destroying their very ship!"

He then started cackling like a madman and Katherine played a clip of someone cackling as if she was laughing with him. The two then walked off to board a hover-saucer and fly off to New Mobotropolis where they would meet with Queen Sally Acorn and make a temporary alliance with her and the remaining Royal Fighters in order to ensure that the Martian ship gets destroyed…

Megapolis: Now…

The Super Warp Ring opened up in the middle of the plains of Megapolis and Shadow and Rouge leaped through it. After they had leapt through the warp ring, it closed up behind them, sealing them off from Royal HQ for the time being. After they had leapt through the warp ring, they looked around only to see that there was nobody around at the moment. There was nobody around but Shadow and Rouge at this very moment although given there was a Martian in Megapolis too, it's likely they weren't going to be alone for long. Time would tell when Shadow and Rouge were suddenly going to be fighting any Martians. It could take them a while, they could end up fighting immediately, who knew? But for now, Shadow and Rouge had to find the Martian that was attacking Megapolis. There may not be much to attack in Megapolis for the place was mostly plains and rocky hills but there were civilizations in Megapolis. There was a city somewhere around although it was a pretty small city and it was located in the west of Megapolis, a few miles away from the plains where Shadow and Rouge were right now. Give the Martians long enough, they'd probably discover that there's a city in Megapolis and then they'd go over to the city and destroy it. So that was why Shadow and Rouge were here, to stop the Martians before they get a chance to harm any civilizations in Megapolis. Shadow couldn't help but wonder how many Martians they'd be up against. He kept having the feeling he and Rouge would be up against a lot of Martians. Not that he was worried since the Martians didn't intimidate him in anyway. They could send as many as they liked, he'd just Chaos Blast them all to smithereens easy as that. He was the most powerful "Mobian" on Mobius now he'd accepted his place on the planet so the Martians would be in for one heck of a battle once he got involved. Shadow and Rouge started trekking through the plains and keeping an eye out for any Martians. The moment Shadow sees one, he'd be on that Martian in the blink of an eye.

Shadow and Rouge started trekking through the plains and keeping an eye out for any Martians. The moment Shadow sees one, he'd be on that Martian in the blink of an eye.

"OK Rouge, those Martians could be anywhere so stay alert." said Shadow as he looked around to see what was all around him and where Martians could possibly be hiding.

"Certainly Shadow." said Rouge "And don't worry about me, my senses are ALWAYS alert. My ears are already listening out for any Martians right now."

"That's good to know." said Shadow "And I gather that bats like you have very good hearing given the size of your ears."

"Oh indeed, there's no noise we bats won't hear. We can hear even the smallest of noises." said Rouge, stroking her ears as if she was proud to have them.

"Then there's no chance of a Martian sneaking up on us if your hearing's as good as you say it is." said Shadow with a smirk on his face "I think being paired up with you is going to be quite fortunate for both of us in this battle."

Rouge was quite flattered to hear Shadow say that. It was even better for her since she secretly had a crush on Shadow. She wasn't sure what it was about Shadow that appealed to her though. Was it his rather dark, brooding attitude? Was it his sinister voice that made him sound rather sexy to her? Was it his general appearance that made her like him? She had no idea. But there was something she admired about Shadow and she would love to let him know that she fancied him but at the same time, she didn't really want to in fear of Shadow reacting quite violently or taking it the wrong way. After all, being as he was a genetic experiment originally conceived by Dr. Gerald Robotnik of the planet Earth (and the grandfather of Dr. Eggman) and then stolen and built to be a violent killing machine by Black Doom, Shadow likely had no concept of love in his heart and even likelier, wouldn't understand the concept in general so it was best to keep her feelings to herself instead of chance a love that likely, can never work. Shadow was not the kind of character who'd be interested in love as he's one of those "duty calls" people, meaning he's more happy to be fighting villains and keeping the world safe more than anything. Now Shadow had accepted his place on Mobius, Rouge hoped that Shadow would simmer down and become more like a Mobian and less like a soldier. For now though, she'd have to put up with his dark personality and strong sense of purpose and see how he develops from here. Even Shadow won't be immune to change after all. As Shadow and Rouge wandered through the plains and kept their senses alert for even the tiniest signs of Martian life, the wind began to slowly blow over them and Shadow could feel the cool breeze blowing through his black fur. He'd become very happy ever since he decided that Mobius was now his home planet after discovering his true intentions were to be somebody's pet and then suddenly changed to be a weapon. It felt good to him to have a place to call home and to have a purpose that best suited him. He'd never really felt that his life with Eggman was right for him and he didn't feel like the purposes intended for him by Gerald and Black Doom respectively were right for him either. Living a life among Mobians and saving the world felt just right to him. It may be the Mobian DNA in his bloodstream and the fact he'd woken up on Mobius that made him feel like he belongs here but whatever the reason, Shadow didn't mind since he was just happy to live here and defend his home from any villains who seek to take it away from him. And Shadow knew who he had to thank for all of that: Rouge the Bat. Had Rouge not woken him up from his capsule then he never would have discovered what he was truly meant to be and would just be stuck in suspended animation for the rest of his life. It was precisely this that made Shadow like Rouge more then any other Mobian. He didn't have deep feelings for Rouge though, he just saw her as a good friend and the one who woke him up from his slumber. He often liked to wonder what Rouge thought to him and why she seemed pretty fond of him at times though but he didn't bother asking as he didn't think it was worth bothering about. Suddenly, Shadow heard a noise and he stopped dead in his tracks. He looked around, wondering what the noise was and what had made it. Rouge stopped and she listened too for she had heard the noise as well.

"Hey Shadow, what do you think that was?" asked Rouge.

"I don't know." said Shadow "But it's definitely near. You take flight and look around from the skies while I search on the ground. One of us is bound to find something if we do that."

"I agree on that Shadow boy." said Rouge coyly "Bats are renowned for having eyesight as good as their hearing so I'm bound to see something from up in the sky."

She then flapped her wings and took flight. She flew up into the sky and started looking around from all the way up in the sky. Rouge could see all around her and she looked around in every direction to see if she could see something. Shadow activated his hover shoes and skated through the plains of Megapolis at top speed to see what he could find down on the ground, his shoes sending dust off the ground flying up into the air behind him in a big dust cloud as he skated. Shadow skated for quite a while and Rouge was up in the sky for quite a while until eventually, Rouge spotted something. On top of a rocky hill not far from where she and Shadow were, there was something standing on top of it. And that something was a Martian! But not just any Martian, it was Myra, one of the most feared Martians of all time. It certainly wasn't because she was an intimidating looking Martian though, it was because she wielded the deadly magnetism hammer. The hammer had granted her many victories and was the reason people even remotely feared her. Also the fact she was married to the equally as feared Dranzer, who was in Holoska fighting Sonic and Tails at this very moment, made her a name worth remembering. Myra was standing on top of the rocky hill and overlooking the plains of Megapolis. Strangely enough, she didn't seem to be causing destruction of any kind. She was just standing there as if…she was admiring the view. Strange for someone who's part of a war-loving race of aliens. Rouge didn't quite understand it but she didn't let it distract her. They had to stop Myra before she could do any damage to Megapolis. Rouge called down to Shadow who was just running back to where he'd set off from.

"Hey, Shadow! I've found a Martian!" cried Rouge from up in the sky.

Shadow skidded to a halt and he looked up at Rouge as the bat started flying down towards him.

"You've what?" asked Shadow for he had not heard Rouge properly due to her being high up in the sky and thus, being hard to hear down on the ground.

"I said I've found a Martian." repeated Rouge "It's up on that hill over there and…"

"A Martian? A Martian?" said Shadow, clearly looking puzzled "Huh, I thought we'd be up against more Martians than that. Maybe there's some lying in wait. Never mind, we'll take down that "one Martian" and see if there's anymore lurking around."

"I hope there's only one, I'm not in the mood for having a big battle right now." said Rouge dully.

Shadow and Rouge then ran and flew off respectively towards the rocky hill that Myra was standing upon. In a matter of seconds, they were up on the hill and standing before her in battle ready stances and getting ready to beat the living daylights out of her. Myra just glared at the two as if they were interrupting something and she lifted her hammer up onto her shoulder and put her other hand on her hips casually as if she wasn't even interested in them.

"Oh why am I not surprised I've got resistance?" she snorted "Well, just shows that wandering near that city in this place and scaring the crap out of the locals was well-worth it."

"You hold it right there Martian scum!" growled Shadow "We're well aware that you're here to cause trouble and harm innocents! So we've come all the way over here to stop you from razing this place!"

"And you'd better not have a bunch of soldiers hoping to ambush us because we're already expecting one." crooned Rouge slyly "It'd be just like you Martians to be so predictable."

"Well we don't do "predictable" batty-girl." sneered Myra "There's only me here and I'm all that's needed."

"You're the only one here?" scoffed Shadow as if this was a stupid idea "Then this means our mission just got a whole lot easier!" he added, cracking his knuckles and smirking confidently.

"I think not red-eyes." said Myra gloatingly "For I'm not a Martian that can be taken down that easily. Allow me to introduce myself. I am Myra, hammer-expert of the Martian fleet."

"We gathered given the enormous hammer." said Rouge coyly, pointing at Myra's hammer.

Myra lowered the hammer, held it upside down and rested it on top of its head with her hands on top of the handle.

"I am one of the Martian fleet's most feared warriors." boasted Myra "And it's all thanks to this hammer of mine. You'll see what it does in a minute for I'm about to show you what it can do."

"No need since we'll stomp on you BEFORE you get to use it!" snarled Shadow, rushing towards Myra and upper cutting her in the face.

Myra just simply did an amazing gymnastics move and landed on her hands and then flipped over back onto her feet. Myra was quite acrobatic after all and could often recover from being sent flying by a punch because of this. Shadow lunged at Myra again and tried to punch her but Myra lashed out, put her hands on Shadow's head and thrust herself over him as if she was playing leap frog and she ran over to pick up her hammer. Rouge flew towards Myra and attempted to screw-kick her but Myra walloped Rouge with her hammer and sent her hurling off the hill and onto the ground. Shadow seemed to be horrified at the sight of Rouge getting hurt and he retaliated by spin-dashing Myra clean off the hill and down onto the ground down below with her hammer falling beside her. Shadow slammed Myra down into the ground, causing the Martian to wheeze loudly as she was slammed into the ground by Shadow's spin-dash. It was almost like a giant hand had grabbed her and slammed her against a giant wall. Myra picked herself up, coughing vigorously and she picked up her giant magnetic hammer. Shadow helped the stunned Rouge back onto her feet. Rouge seemed a little shaken by Myra's hammer attack but she was alright. Rouge shook herself off and realized Shadow was helping her up. Maybe Shadow did care for her after all…Shadow could see that Rouge was alright so he turned his attention back to Myra. Myra just dusted herself off from the earlier onslaught and managed to crack a dry smile at him.

"Wow, nice moves dark boy." she purred "I've never seen opponents like you before. I guess our pointless conflict with peace is finally going to get more interesting."

Shadow and Rouge looked at each other in astonishment. Did Myra just call the Martian's prejudice against peace…pointless? There must be a little more to Myra then meets the eye but they couldn't ask questions yet, they had to defeat her first. Still, Shadow was quite interested in seeing what Myra meant by calling the Martian's conflict with peace "pointless". Maybe she was not like the other Martians.

"Thank you Myra." said Shadow, summoning a Chaos Spear into his hand "Now let me show you how "interesting" I can be."

He then threw the Chaos Spear at Myra but Myra held her hammer upside down, put it down on the ground upside down and pole-vaulted herself into the air with it. She hurled over the Chaos Spear and she landed directly in front of Shadow. She whacked Shadow with the hammer but given his genetically engineered and half alien body, he took most of the impact as if it was nothing and he skidded backwards across the battlefield. He then curled up into a ball and he spin-dashed Myra but Myra held up her hammer to shield herself from the attack. Because of this, all Shadow did was just send Myra skidding backwards a little and make him ricochet off of it. Rouge jumped into the air and she screw-kicked Myra but again, she let the hammer take the blow for her. The hammer was made of a very strong titanium alloy that was near impossible to break so Rouge's attack didn't even scratch the hammer. Myra could see that she needed the hammer's infamous ability so she pointed the hammer at Shadow and Rouge just as they prepared to attack again. Her hammer fired a pair of metallic, magnetized collars at Shadow and Rouge. The collars clipped around their necks each and the two gagged a little for they were a little small for them. Shadow gripped his collar and tried to break it off of his neck. He pulled and he pulled on it but he couldn't seem to get it off. Once that collar was clipped on, it wasn't coming off and given how it was hard to grip it sufficiently and apply the right amount of force needed to break it off, that was not surprising. Not to mention trying to break it off just guaranteed hurting your neck and maybe unintentionally choking yourself to death if you tried to hard to remove it.

"Ack! Hurk! What is this thing?!" grunted Shadow "I can't get it off!"

"Neither can I!" Rouge gagged slightly as she tired to break her collar off "Myra, what did you do to us?!"

"Make you prone to my magnetism hammer." crowed Myra "You see, that's why my hammer is such a fearsome weapon and it makes me such a fearsome warrior, it is a magnetic hammer. It has magnetic abilities and it clips collars onto non-magnetic specimens like organic life forms so they can be magnetized too. And now you two will join the many life forms who have faced my magnetism hammer and fallen to its mighty power!"

She then pointed the hammer at Shadow and Rouge and activated it's magnetic power. Shadow and Rouge could feel themselves being dragged towards Myra's hammer all of the sudden. The magnetic powers of the hammer were attracting the collars around their necks to it. It was as if something had grabbed them by the neck and was pulling them towards itself. Shadow and Rouge tried to stop themselves being pulled but they just couldn't. The hammer's magnetic pull was impossible to break out of. Shadow and Rouge were pulled directly towards the hammer and they stuck to it just like glue. Due to the fact it was the collars on their necks that were making them magnetized, their faces were pressed tightly against the hammer. They looked a little funny like that. Myra cackled at the two helpless Mobians and she switched her hammer from attract to repel so she ended up sending Shadow and Rouge hurling backwards through the air. To them, it felt like a giant hand had just pushed them away and sent them flying. Shadow and Rouge came down with a crash onto the ground several feet away from Myra. Myra held her hammer upside down and rested herself onto it casually as if this was just another day for her.

"So you see Mobians, my hammer is a forced to be reckoned with." she gloated "As long as those collars are clamped around your puny little necks, you'll be prone to my hammer's magnetic abilities. I can attract you and repel you. And don't think about trying to break the collars off because you're wasting your much needed strength. The collars cannot be broken. They'll come off when I deem the time necessary for them to come off."

"In that case, I'll MAKE you remove them!" growled Shadow, rocketing off towards Myra like a charging bull and getting ready to floor her.

Myra just held up the hammer and since it was still on repel mode, Shadow ended up being pushed away by the hammer. Shadow skidded backwards and he tried to grab Myra but the hammer's magnetic push was too strong for him. As long as it was on repel mode, Shadow couldn't get anywhere near Myra. Myra laughed at Shadow as he feebly tried to grab her. Myra then increased the force of the magnet's repel. Because it was done so suddenly, Shadow was pushed away by the magnetic repel of Myra's hammer. Shadow rolled across the ground on his back after that push. Rouge jumped into the air and attempted to screw-kick Myra but Myra held up the hammer in the direction Rouge was heading towards her and Rouge ended up ricocheting away from her. It was like she'd bounced off an invisible wall around Myra. Rouge landed painfully on the ground and skidded to a halt after that. Myra then aimed the hammer at Rouge and set it to attract mode. The magnetic pull of the hammer pulled Rouge directly towards the hammer and she stuck to it thanks to the collar on her neck. Rouge tried desperately to break free, squirming and writhing about madly as she tried to get away. But Rouge's attempts were about as vain as a fly trying to break free from flypaper. It was impossible to break free of Myra's hammer once you were stuck to it. It was like trying to get a nail out of a wall using only your fingers, impossible to do and a waste of strength. Shadow could see that Rouge was in trouble so he skated over to the distressed bat and tired to help her. Myra however switched the hammer to repel mode just as Shadow was running towards her and Rouge was sent shooting straight into Shadow like a cannonball. Shadow and Rouge ended up sprawling across the ground on top of each other and they came to a halt with Rouge lying on top of Shadow. If they weren't fighting for their lives right now, Rouge probably would be liking this and not wanting to get up from Shadow (if you know what I mean…hee, hee, hee). Shadow and Rouge both picked themselves up but Myra activated her hammer's power again. Instead of attracting or repelling them though, it seemed to do a bit of both. They weren't attracted straight to the hammer but they were being moved around as if they were attracted to it. Myra was merely using the hammer's magnetic force to lift them up off the ground. Myra smiled as they were lifted up by her hammer's magnetic force.

"Now wait till you see what I'm about to do to you two right now." she sneered.

She then used the power of the hammer to bring Shadow and Rouge towards each other and slam them together as if a pair of hands and grabbed them and slammed them together. That attack left the two feeling a little stunned and pain swept over their bodies like a wave after that slam. Myra wasn't finished with them yet though, she swung the hammer down and the magnetic force clinging onto them pulled them straight down and slammed them into the ground like a giant flyswatter. Myra then swung the hammer up again, lifting Shadow and Rouge off the ground and then she slammed them down onto it again. And again. And again. But before she could do it a fifth time, Shadow summoned a Chaos Spear to his hand and he threw it at Myra. The Chaos Spear struck Myra and sent her flying backwards but she still had hold of her hammer so she ended up dragging Shadow and Rouge with her. Myra landed on her back and Shadow and Rouge landed on the ground feet first. Shadow and Rouge could see that they were in major peril thanks to Myra's deadly hammer and the magnetic collars around their necks so the best thing for them to do right now was run for it and think of a way to counter-attack it. Shadow and Rouge tried to run and fly away respectively but Myra picked herself up and pointed the hammer at them. She'd set it to attract so the hammer pulled the two back towards her. Myra's hammer had unlimited range when it came to its magnetic powers so Shadow and Rouge could go as far as they liked, they'd never get away from Myra and her magnetism hammer. Shadow and Rouge were pulled back towards Myra and the hammer by a strong magnetic force that tugged on their collars. Shadow and Rouge gripped the ground and they tried as hard as they could to stop themselves from being pulled backwards by Myra's hammer but their attempts were ultimately futile for the hammer's pull was too strong. Shadow and Rouge were pulled back towards the hammer and they soon became attracted to it thanks to the magnetic collars around their necks. Shadow groaned in annoyance for he was getting annoyed to no end at Myra constantly attracting and repelling him and Rouge with her hammer. Myra laughed at the two and then she repelled Shadow and Rouge by switching the magnet from attract to repel. Shadow and Rouge were sent shooting away from her as if they were being shot out of a cannon and they skidded quite roughly across the ground. Their bodies were laden with scrapes after that onslaught. Shadow picked himself up and rubbed his sore chest.

"Ugh…I don't know about you Rouge but that Myra's getting on my damn nerves with that damn hammer of hers!" growled Shadow furiously, his voice as low and growly as a demon.

"I couldn't agree more!" grunted Rouge, tugging on her collar "We can't get away from her, we can't touch her, she's got us on the ropes Shadow!"

"So she thinks!" snorted Shadow "I'm not giving up that easily. I'm going to destroy Myra or my name isn't Shadow the Hedgehog!"

"Your name's Shadow the Hedgehog regardless of what happens." sneered Rouge slyly.

Shadow scowled at her for making that bad joke but he didn't say anything more. He merely turned around and ran towards Myra. Myra just pointed her hammer at Shadow and prepared to repel him for her magnetism hammer was still set on repel but Shadow warped away into thin air as he was nearing Myra. Myra gasped in horror and she looked around wildly for any sign of Shadow.

"No way?!" blustered Myra "The dude can teleport?! Well this doesn't bide well for me!"

Shadow then suddenly reappeared behind Myra and spin-dashed her directly in the back. Myra was sent hurling across the battlefield like someone who's been shoved off a train. Myra landed on her stomach with her hammer just lying in front of her. Shadow saw his chance and he sped towards Myra as quickly as he could. Too late though, Myra grabbed her hammer and quickly activated its power. This in turn caused Shadow to bounce straight backwards like a rubber ball bouncing away after being thrown at a wall. Shadow landed on his back and skidded to a halt. Myra picked herself up and aimed her hammer at Shadow. She brought Shadow to her with the hammer's magnetic pull and then she swung the hammer around at Rouge as the bat flew in close to attack her. She ended up walloping Rouge with Shadow and thanks to Rouge's collar, she ended up sticking to the hammer so Myra had bother Shadow and Rouge stuck to the hammer once again. Myra started spinning around on the spot like a spinning top with her hammer in hands and Shadow and Rouge firmly attached to it. She looked like she was throwing the hammer at the Olympics only her hammer wasn't one she was going to throw around. Myra kept on spinning and spinning until she suddenly switched her hammer to repel and because she was spinning around, Shadow and Rouge were sent hurling through the air like a pair of tossed stones. They shot up into the air and they soared through the sky and came hurling back down towards the ground in one enormous arc. They covered a distance of at least one-hundred yards! Shadow and Rouge came down onto the ground with a terrific crash. The resulting onslaught left the two lying on the ground, unconscious but alive and with only a few bruises and scrapes. Mobians are better at surviving falls than humans are so their bones remained intact amazingly despite such an attack. Myra was amazed at how far she'd thrown Shadow and Rouge and she used her magnetism hammer to just simply bring them back towards her (like I said, it has no range limit). Shadow and Rouge were dragged one-hundred yards all the way back to Myra and she dropped them down at her feet. She looked down at the two Mobians with a strangely sympathetic look on her face.

"You two freaks gave me a fun battle I will say." she said "It's a shame I have to kill you. I may not want to as I hate killing people but Diablo demands that we Martians come back with a Mobian body in hand as evidence of their demise. Pity really, you guys are too cool to die."

Myra then raised her hammer up high and prepared to bring it crashing down onto Shadow's head. The hammer was large and very solidly built. She'd easily crush Shadow's head with it once she made the final swing. But before she could even do that, she was blasted away by a powerful laser cannon blast that ended up singing her clothes a little. Myra was sent hurling backwards and she crashed back first into a nearby rock. Myra grunted in pain and wondered what had hit her. She opened her eyes and got the shock of her life. Devion was standing before her with his arm-gauntlet blades deployed and his red V-shaped visor was narrowed to a evil slit of pure creepiness. Myra almost lost her mind with horror.

"N-n-n-n-no w-w-way!" she blustered "The-the-the M-M-M-Mobians h-h-have a D-D-D-Devatron on their s-s-side?! And D-D-Devion h-h-himself n-n-no less?!"

"That statement that you so feebly spill out of your mouth is highly incorrect." said Devion in his usual cold manner "I am not on the Mobian's side at all. I am working for the sworn enemy of the Mobians, Dr. Eggman, and he wants to conquer Mobius himself so he's sent reinforcements all over the world to aid the Mobians in making sure you Martians fail in your attempted conquest of Mobius."

"I must be going mental!" shrieked Myra "Devion the Dreaded, leader of the freaking Devatron race, is actually working for somebody?! This can't be! Or are you plotting to take Mobius for yourself Devion?"

"I tried and failed to do so actually." said Devion "And I'm all that's left I believe. No matter, I'm sure Dr. Eggman can rebuild the Devatron race and restore my former glory. Until then, I have to get rid of you Martian vermin and prevent you from denying him his rightful place as ruler of Mobius."

"We'll see about that Deva-dork!" cried Myra, picking up her hammer and aiming it at him.

She activated her hammer's power and attempted to pull Devion towards her and attract him to the hammer. But nothing happened. Devion stood there as if nothing was happening to him! The hammer didn't seem to have any effect on him! Devion cackled at Myra and he raised his arm blades.

"You foolish, simple minded cretin." he crowed "Devatrons are made of a non-magnetic chrome, magnets have NO effect on me! Your hammer's power is useless against me!"

Myra almost had a nervous breakdown at the mere sound of what Devion had just said to her. Devatrons are immune to magnets?! So much for using her hammer to attract or repel him! Oh well, her hammer had other uses so this battle wasn't lost for her yet.

"I may not be able to use my magnetic powers on you…but I can still clobber you with my hammer!" screeched Myra desperately.

She swung the hammer at Devion but Devion jumped out of the way, leaving Myra to smash the ground instead. Myra growled furiously and she used her hammer's power to attract the still unconscious Shadow and Rouge to her. She then used the hammer to repel Shadow and Rouge straight into Devion. Devion just simply caught them in his hands and he put them down onto the ground. He grabbed the collars and broke them in two, freeing Shadow and Rouge from Myra's magnetism hammer. Myra almost went giddy with shock and she decided to desperately try one last thing. She aimed the hammer at Devion and fired a magnetic collar at him but Devion blocked the blow with his arm. The collar pinged off of his arm and landed on the ground. Myra almost lost her sanity with horror at the sight of her precious collar failing to clip around Devion's neck and make him prone to her hammer's power. Myra wasn't willing to give up though. She rose her hammer up high and ran towards Devion, hoping to smash his head in with the hammer. Devion just lunged forward and slashed her with his arm blades. Myra gasped and she dropped her hammer. She fell down onto her knees and clutched her bleeding ribs in pain. Two long cuts spread out across her ribs and they were bleeding heavily. Myra began gasping for breath as if she was drowning on dry land. That attack had left her feeling very weak and in need of medical attention. It seemed she wouldn't get a chance of receiving any though for Devion advanced on her and prepared to finish her off. Shadow and Rouge woke up suddenly and they got back up to their feet. They looked around and to their surprise, they saw Devion standing behind the injured Myra and preparing to kill her.

"Devion?!" exclaimed Shadow "What?! This can't be! Me and Sonic destroyed him and the other Devatrons! How can he possibly be alive?!"

"I don't know, I was wondering that after I saw him fighting Black Arms while you were fighting Black Doom." murmured Rouge "Hey Devion, how are you still alive despite the fact Sonic and Shadow sent you to the scrap yard?" she called over to him.

Devion stopped what he was doing and he lowered his arm. He sheathed his blades and he answered Rouge's question.

"I am alive thanks to the generous actions of Dr. Eggman." he explained "He took my body and rebuilt me. Now I serve him faithfully and I'm here to help stop the Martians from destroying Mobius since Eggman wishes to conquer it."

"Well that's good to know, you're on our side for this one." said Shadow grimly "I bet you're the one who broke our magnetic collars." he mused as he felt his neck, relieved to see that the collar was now gone and his neck was alright again "Once the Martians are dealt with though, I'll destroy you all over again Devion!"

"We'll see about that." said Devion coldly "Right now, I'm going to kill this Martian and bring it's body back to Dr. Eggman just to see what he thinks to it."

He deployed his blades again and prepared to kill Myra. Myra gasped in horror as she saw Devion preparing to make the killer blow and she closed her eyes, expecting to be killed any moment now. But Shadow for some reason held his hands out and ordered Devion to stop.

"Devion, wait!" cried Shadow quickly "Don't kill her yet, I've got something to ask her!"

Rouge looked dumbfounded. What could Shadow possibly want to ask Myra? And why was he suddenly sticking up for her? What was getting into that black hedgehog? Devion seemed equally as dumbfounded as Rouge was but he sheathed his blades and glowered at Shadow.

"Make it quick or I will kill you as well." he warned.

Shadow ignored Devion and he looked at Myra.

"Myra, why did you call the Martian's hatred of peace "pointless" before the battle started?" asked Shadow curiously "I mean, I thought Martians were a war-loving race."

Myra looked at Shadow with rather sad eyes, a strange expression for a Martian to have.

"I call it that because it IS pointless." said Myra "I mean, what point does our stupid vendetta have anyway? We'll never permanently get rid of peace anyway. I'm one of the few Martians that wanders "There must be more to life then trying to eliminate peace". Not every Martian's a peace hater believe it or not."

Shadow, Rouge and Devion all looked amazed to hear that. Shadow was intrigued to know more about this so he decided to make Myra talk some more.

"Tell us more Myra, we're quite interested to hear more about his." said Shadow.

"OK then. Devion beat me fair and square so you've earned this much." said Myra grimly "Not all Martians hate peace. There are a select few that actually think our way of life is wrong and thus, have objected to join the Martian fleet and remain in the darkest corners of Mars, living their peaceful lives secretly while the Martian fleet, that's us, goes around desecrating world after world. I was somewhere in the middle, wondering who's side to be on. I decided to join the Martian fleet after my husband Dranzer joined up to see if it would seal who's side I'm officially on. At first I quite enjoyed massacring innocents and destroying cities. But in the end…it wasn't worth it. I never felt that good about myself after we'd won our battles and destroyed those worlds. I began thinking to myself "What is all of this going to accomplish?" and I just couldn't find the answer. I've been dying to quit the army for ages but…Diablo has made it law to quit the army. Once you're in, you're not getting out and I can't try and desert the Martian fleet or Diablo will hunt me down and kill me. So I've been forcing myself to stay with the Martians and continue massacring planets and destroying peace-lovers everywhere for a pointless cause. I pretend to enjoy it in order to keep up appearances but secretly I dream…dream of leaving the Martian fleet for good and going back home to Mars to live with the peace-lovers. This pointless conflict has sealed it for me that I'm on the peace-lover's side. It was fun at first but in the end…it just isn't me. Oh how I wish and wish I could just leave the fleet already! Instead, I'll forever be wrapped in its chains and shackled to the insidious fleet as long as I live."

Shadow and Rouge looked at each other in wonder whereas Devion bent down to Myra and pointed his blades at her.

"You had better not be leading us all under a foul pretence Martian." snarled Devion "If you are then you will have your heart carved out without hesitation."

"Please, I beg of you, please believe me." begged Myra "Every word of what I said is true, honest it is. Please believe me."

Shadow and Rouge looked back over at Myra and Shadow knelt down to Myra's height.

"I'm not fully sure if I believe you." said Shadow "But I know nothing about Martians and I'm not one to jump to conclusions so I'll give you a chance. Prove yourself truthful to us by leaving this place and returning to the Martians empty-handed. And wear this comlink…"

he added, taking off the wrist-mounted communicator device he had around his wrist under his glove and giving it to her "…when you get back to the Martian ship, have the comlink switched on so we can hear what the Martians are up to and whatever plans they have. If you do then you'll prove that you're what you say you are."

"Oh I will, I promise I will!" cried Myra eagerly "Oh thank you for your mercy shadow dude! Thank you! I'll do ANYTHING to betray the Martian fleet and you've given me the opportunity to backstab them! If you hear what they're up to through this comlink I'll be wearing, you'll know their every move before they make it and be able to stop them! When they get sent packing, I'll sneak off the ship and stay down here and maybe borrow a spaceship from this planet and fly off back to Mars. That is, if you Mobians have spacecraft."

"We do indeed." said Shadow "Sonic and Tails used one to find out how to defeat the Devatrons. I'm sure we can spare one for you."

"Oh sir, you're forever in my debt." said Myra happily "Thank you so much for being so generous despite what I've done to you."

"You're welcome." said Shadow casually "And you may call me Shadow by the way."

"OK then, "Shadow"." said Myra "I'll get back to the Martian ship immediately. It's not far from where we are right now."

"It isn't?" said a very surprised Shadow and an equally as surprised Rouge.

Devion looked the most surprised of them all. The Martian ship was so near to them right now it was unbelievable! It seems Eggman was closer to the Martians then he thought!

"It isn't." said Myra "You carry me and run to the ship, I'll direct you to it."

"Very well." said Shadow, scooping Myra up bridal style "I have a feeling I'm going to enjoy this little alliance."

"I have a feeling I'm going to enjoy having a Martian on OUR side." said Rogue snarkily "So where do we go Myra?"

"That way." said Myra "Run straight on until I say otherwise."

With that said, Shadow rocket off on his jet shoes with Myra in his arms and Rouge flying off after the two. A cloud of dust billowed out behind Shadow as he ran off to the Martian ship. Devion just watched the two Mobians run off and he decided to just go back to Eggman's base seeing as he had nothing else to do. He was pretty surprised at everything he had heard from Myra and he had one heck of a story to tell Dr. Eggman.

"So one Martian actually opposes their way of life?" he mused to himself "That is certainly…surprising. I shall have to inform Dr. Eggman of this…"

He had a feeling the good doctor was going to be pleased with this turn of events once he told him everything…

OMG, A Martian that hates the Martian way of life?! Admit it, none of you guys EVER saw that coming! So how was this chapter? Was it good? Was it bad? Was it meh? Feel free to leave a review as you read this chapter. Join me next time though as "Divide and Conquer" comes to a close with Silver and Blaze going off to fight Marik and Sierra and Soleanna...

Divide and Conquer Part 7

Story 133: Divide and Conquer Part 7: The City of Water

"We will go to Megapolis." said Shadow the Hedgehog, the Ultimate Life-form and Mobius' newest resident "I believe I've waited long enough and it's time I got into the action now."

The Martians had invaded Mobius and had divided their resources all over the world in order to thin out the Royal Fighters and pick them off easily. Many Royal Fighters had already gone to deal with those Martians, those Royal Fighters being Sonic the Hedgehog, Tails the Fox, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Knuckles the Echidna, Shade the Echidna, Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie Rabbot, Amy Rose, Cosmo the Seedrian and Cream the Rabbit and right now, Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat were willing to go next and they were going to go over to Megapolis to deal with the Martians there.

"I think Shadow boy's keen to get into the action so he can keep up with Sonic boy." teased Rouge coyly, lightly playing around with one of Shadow's quills "After all, Shadow can't have Sonic hogging all the glory can he?"

Shadow glared at Rouge. He didn't half hate it when the bat taunted him like this, even if it was for laughs.

"Rouge, since I am now another hero fighting for Mobius' freedom, I no longer have any competitive behaviour towards Sonic." said Shadow coldly "Me and him are no longer enemies or rivals, we are allies so why would I be keen to get into the action just because Sonic is?"

"Eesh, I was just fooling with you Shadow, I didn't mean to get on your nerves." sighed Rouge "You'd think with him finally finding out what his purpose is, he'd simmer down and get a sense of humour."

"Rouge, please, not everybody has a funny bone in them." said Queen Sally Acorn sternly "Anyway, Shadow and Rouge, since you asked so politely, you may go to Megapolis and deal with the Martians there. Shadow, you've helped us survive the Black Arms, now you may help us survive the Martians."

"Indeed Sally." said Shadow with a confident smirk on his face "These Martians will be nothing compared to Black Doom and his flunkies. I still relish the time I broke Marik's arm. Maybe I can break another Martian's arm while I'm kicking their butts."

Sally smiled rather uneasily at that, not really knowing how to reply to that rather awkward statement.

"OK then…Silver send these two off to Megapolis." said Sally quickly.

Silver the Hedgehog, future resident of Mobius, flicked the warp ring up into the air and it opened up a portal to Megapolis, the very place that Eggman was hiding in and the very place the Martian ship had taken refuge after taking damage from the Royal Fighters earlier. Shadow and Rouge eagerly ran through the warp ring and they warped over to Megapolis. The warp ring closed up behind them and Silver caught it in his hand.

"I hope Shadow and Rouge have good luck over in Megapolis." said Sally somewhat downheartedly "I hope EVERY BODY'S having good luck in the places where they are now. Those Martians are bound to be tough opponents. I know our heroes will defeat them but I still can't help but worry for them. Marik alone was a tough Martian according to the Royal Fighter records I often read to see what the service is up to so there's no telling how tough more Martians are going to be."

"I understand your worries Your Highness." said future guardian of Angel Island Blaze the Cat "Me and Silver are equally as worried since we fear that the Martian invasion is what causes the destruction of Mobius and leaves me and Silver in a world of ruination. We may have come back in time to warn you about the invasion and yet our intervention may not make a difference. But if we fail here then me and Silver will go back in time again and find another way of preventing the Martian invasion from happening."

"Blaze has the right idea you know." said Silver, twirling the Super Warp Ring around his finger casually "If we fail to stop the invasion now, we'll go back in time again and find another way of preventing it. There's a lot of things we could do. Go to the Martian ship and sabotage it before it can go to Mobius, make sure they never find Mobius or heck, we could even go so far back and prevent Marik, the one Martian that started all of this, from ever COMING to Mobius in the first place. There's many possibilities we have here so it doesn't matter if we don't win this invasion, there's other methods me and Blaze can try to prevent this from happening. This is no-win situation for the Martians."

"I see." said Sally "But I'd be careful on how you use your time-travelling abilities. Altering the past in any way could be disastrous you know. If you two go back ever further to prevent the Martian invasion from happening then you'd better be careful how you go about it. You don't want to end up causing more harm than good."

"We know, we know all the risks and dangers of time-travel." said Silver "Me and Blaze have studied time-travel for years. We're likely not to cause any damage as we go to the past and try to fix our future."

"That's good to know." said Sally with a smile "But do keep in mind that even the most skilled or even the most prepared can make mistakes so still take great care when you time-travel."

"We will Queen Sally." said Blaze reassuringly "We've constantly got it on our minds so we will remember. So, I take it it's just me and Silver next to go and stop the dividing Martians?"

"It is." said Sally "You two will be going off to Soleanna to stop the Martians attacking that place. Soleanna is not a good place to be under attack from anything, it's mostly surrounded by water and if too much damage is done, the water could flow into the city and flood it. Or worse…"

"We know what you mean Your Majesty." said Silver "We've studied all the locations of Mobius and we've read all about Soleanna. That's a city you don't want anything to attack. It wouldn't take much effort to bring Soleanna down."

"So we will prevent the Martians from ruining such a fine city." said Blaze "Silver, send us over to Soleanna and let us contribute to the downfall of the Martians."

"Indeed Blaze." said Silver, flicking up the warp ring "For Mobius' past, present and future, we will stop those Martians dead in their tracks!"

The Super Warp Ring expanded to twice its size and opened up a portal from Royal HQ to Soleanna, the City of Water. Silver and Blaze hopped through the warp ring eagerly and were instantly warped from Royal HQ to Soleanna. They didn't know for sure if the Martian invasion was the cause of their future being such a wreck and Mobius being a post-apocalyptic world for them but they were here to find that out and they were going to battle the Martians and save Mobius from their wrath. They prayed and prayed that the Martian invasion was indeed the event they were looking for in order to stop Mobius from coming to an end in the future. If it wasn't then they'd just have to study some more of Mobius' history and try again…

Soleanna: A Few Minutes Ago…

Soleanna was one of the most beautiful places you will ever visit in all of Mobius. The city was very much like the city of Venice, a city in Italy which was a country of the planet Earth, the very planet Dr. Eggman originated from. That is, it was a city surrounded mostly by water. It wasn't a terribly modern city, it was very vintage in appearance but no less beautiful. There were a lot of river-ways for people to go rowing along the water in rowing boats and the city was notorious for its three bell-towers and beautiful scenery. The citizens of Soleanna worshipped a mythical creature known as "Solaris", The Eternal Sun God. Every year on a certain day, they held the "Soleanna Sun Festival", a festival that is meant purely to worship and pay tribute to Solaris. Whether Solaris was real or just a myth was anyone's guess. Nevertheless, the citizens worshipped Solaris and were always happy to celebrate the Day of the Sun God when the Soleanna Sun Festival arrived. Soleanna was also quite happy, peaceful and prosperous and was rich in romance and beauty.

Soleanna was known for having the most amount of weddings held in it a year than any other country on Mobius (that's a lot of love isn't it?). But unfortunately, Soleanna was under attack from a bunch of Martians. These Martians were Marik the Martian and his sister Sierra the Martian. They weren't the only ones though, they had taken a squadron of Martians with them and they had also brought a Martian tank with them. The squadron alone had already started causing considerable damage to the City of Water and the tank was just pouring salt on the wound by blasting various buildings in the city and sending the citizens of Soleanna into a crazed frenzy, running around like a swarm of panicked ants and trying desperately to get away from the attacking Martians. A news reporter was reporting this madness to the media. He had a camera crew already set-up and filming him live right now. The whole world was seeing this for it was being transmitted to the news stations of the world. The news reporter was a bobcat in a blue smart suit and red tie and he looked very frantic and scared as he reported this news to the world. He spoke nervously into a microphone he held in his hand.

"Hello there people of Mobius, this is Derek Bobby reporting to you live from Soleanna." he said, his face raining with sweat as the Martians were getting closer to him and wrecking more of Soleanna "Our home city of Soleanna, as you can see behind me, is under attack from some strange creatures that clearly look otherworldly and not from around here. We're hoping that the esteemed Royal Fighters Service will come to Soleanna and help save us from the tyranny of these creatures…"

His voice trailed off as he looked to the side and noticed the nefarious Marik the Martian storming up to him with his metal hand crackling with electricity menacingly. Marik had a look of certain death on his face and he grabbed Derek by his tie and pulled him down to his height.

"Hello there, I'm Marik the Martian." snarled Marik "I trust the people of Mobius are familiar with me since I'm the one who killed the former King and Queen of Mobotropolis last year?"

"Eep!" squealed Derek in worry "I-I-I-I-I k-k-k-know w-w-wh-who y-y-you a-a-are! I've h-h-h-heard of y-y-y-you! I-I-I-I-I e-e-e-even c-c-covered a n-n-news s-s-story about y-y-you last year a-a-after h-hhearing a-a-all a-a-about y-y-you f-f-f-from m-m-m-my friends in the-the-the M-M-Mobotropolis n-n-news crew!"

"Oh good, you know who I am." said Marik sarcastically "Now hand over that microphone so that I may give your news crew something truly brilliant to broadcast!"

Derek looked at his video-camera and spoke into his microphone.

"Here in Soleanna, some strange creatures are attacking the village and one of them looks like the Martian thing that was reported to have killed the former King and Queen of Mobotropolis and attempted to do the same to Sally Acorn who is the current Queen. He's demanded to allow him to make an announcement to everybody so I'm now passing you over to that Martian." he said, his voice dripping with worry.

He then handed the microphone over to Marik to which Marik snatched it off of him and spoke into it, glaring directly into the lens of the video-camera.

"Attention Mobius! I am Marik the Martian, the one who killed the former rulers of Mobotropolis and the attempted murderer of the current Queen Sally Acorn. I'm also the one who's tried to destroy Mobius several times before. I've come back with my friends and family at my side and if you do not cede to the Martians, we will destroy you all! If any Royal Fighters dare to face us then kindly do so, we need the exercise before we conquer your world!" he announced into the microphone whilst standing in front of the television camera.

Every radio station, every television, every news-site would be hearing this announcement of Marik and that was how the Royal Fighters came to know of their presence in Soleanna. Marik tossed the microphone onto the ground after giving his announcement and he suddenly lashed out at the news crew. He destroyed the video-camera in a matter of seconds by stomping on it and ripping it apart with his metal claws. The news crew ran for their lives after Marik did that to their equipment, even Derek. Marik laughed as he watched the news crew run for their lives and he kicked the destroyed camera into the water. The wrecked camera landed into the water with a splash and sunk quickly down to the bottom.

"Aaaah, nothing like wanton destruction on a nice day like this." purred Marik evilly "And the best thing is, I've got family and friends on my side to join me! I will say, I've NEVER seen this disgusting city before and I'm glad to be destroying it. So much water, this may as well be an underwater city since so much of it surrounds this place! Truly a pathetic excuse for a city!" he scoffed, screwing his face up as he observed his surroundings.

Marik clearly did not seem to like the City of Soleanna at all. He was a bit put off by the fact the city had so much water surrounding it. He didn't like cities that were built this way, they didn't look appealing to him but then again, anything that looks beautiful and peaceful doesn't appeal to Marik. Sierra walked up to Marik and she observed all the damage being done to Soleanna around them.

"Oh Marik, this is so wonderful!" squealed Sierra happily "I'm with you, the best brother in the world, destroying a city and taking part in your brilliant plan to pick off those vile Royal Fighter guys that dared to do harm to you and take your hand!"

Marik looked at his metal hand and wriggled his metal claws. The metal hand glistened in the sun like knives in a drawer.

"I still resent Sonic for crippling my hand and forcing me to take drastic measures to get it working again but I quite like my metal hand." said Marik casually "I actually thank Sonic for giving me this."

"I like it too Marik, it looks cool on you and is a very potent weapon." said Sierra, admiring the hand "You can electrocute people with it and claw people to death. If anything, Sonic made you a better Martian by crippling your hand and make you install that metal hand to make it work again."

"I see your point Sierra." said Marik "But even my metal hand hasn't helped me defeat the Mobians. They are very powerful creatures after all and my underestimation of them was to be my undoing as I ended up suffering pretty bad defeats at the hands of the Mobians. I realize that mistake of mine and I shan't repeat it again. And don't you make the same mistake Sierra!" he yelled, turning around sharply and pointing straight at Sierra with his metal hand "I don't want my little sister to suffer the misfortunes I've done! Should any Mobians come to stop us, don't underestimate the Mobians! They're as unpredictable as us and some have great power."

"OK Marik, I promise I won't get in over my head." said Sierra "I'll take the Mobians seriously like any serious threat should."

"Good girl." said Marik with a smile on his face, patting his sister on the back "When the Royal Fighters come, we shall do whatever it takes to bring them down."

They were suddenly interrupted by a squadron of Martians marching towards them and they were carrying something. That something was a Mobian jaguar with golden brown fur and black spots. It was a female Mobian and it wore a short white dress with a feather trim around the hem, short sleeves and long white gloves that also had a feather trim. She wore nothing on her feet or her legs and she had short red hair with a feather crown around her head. She was quite slender and beautiful in appearance. The jaguar had her hands cuffed behind her back and the Martians threw her down onto her knees at the feet of Marik and Sierra. Marik glared at the jaguar and wondered what she was being brought to him for.

"What the heck have you brought me this filth for?!" snarled Marik "She's not a Royal Fighter or anything important is she?"

"She is actually." said one of the Martian soldiers "You there, tell him who you are and what you do!" he ordered, kicking the jaguar in the back.

The jaguar growled a proper jaguar growl at the Martian and then faced Marik, still remaining on her knees.

"I am Princess Elise, the Princess of Soleanna and I am not gonna standby and let you monsters tear my city apart!" yelled the jaguar in a very tomboyish manner "Instead of fleeing with the citizens, I opted to stay behind and fight you off! Unfortunately you've managed to capture me and I'm warning you now, if you don't let me go you are going to be toast at the end of the day!"

Marik bared her claws at the impudent little princess. He couldn't stand tomboy women that dared to stand up to him like this. In his experience, a woman with an a attitude was more impertinent then a helpless woman. Princess Elise did not seem the least bit intimidated by Marik at all. Elise was a girl with the heart of a lion and she was rarely scared of anything.

"Oh help, the big freak's baring his big sharp claws at me, ooh I'm so freaking scared!" sniffed Elise sarcastically "You monsters don't scare me freak, when I get outta these manacles, I'm gonna send you all packing with a very sore backside!"

"Please stop calling us "monsters" you stupid little imp of a girl!" roared Marik "We are Martians, got that?! Martians, not monsters, "MARTIANS!"

"What's the difference?" scoffed Elise, smirking bravely at Marik.

Marik was about to tear Elise's heart out of her chest for that but he restrained himself (OMG, he restrained himself?! What bizarre world is this?!) and resisted the urge to hurt Elise. The princess seemed quite amused by that for some reason, amused at the idea that her taunting was making Marik mad and the fact he wasn't reacting amused her even more.

"You know Elise, if you were just some ordinary simpleton wandering this disgusting city, I would slaughter you without hesitation." growled Marik, jamming his face into hers and spitting into her face (ugh!) as he spat every word out of his mouth "But since you're a princess, you're going to be more valuable to me alive than dead!"

"What are you gonna do? Take me hostage?" sighed Elise in a very bored manner "How cliché of you freaks. Besides, what good will I be as a hostage? I'm not that important in all honesty, the Princess of Soleanna isn't the highest rank in the world after all."

"Rank bears no weight in the reasoning behind you being a hostage." said Marik coldly "You see, before you came onto the scene you ignorant little girl, I made a news crew transmit a message of mine to the world. In that message, I demanded the Royal Fighters Service send it's best men over here to stop me, Sierra and my squadron. When they come onto the scene and see that you're our prisoner, we'll threaten your wretched life and make them stand down. They'll easily back down if a royal authority figure like you is our hostage. And when they stand down…"

Marik then proceeded to claw a chunk of stone out of a wall of a building near to him to give Elise the idea on what would happen to the Royal Fighters who faced him. Elise gulped. She wasn't too bothered about being a Martian hostage but the fact she was being used as a hostage to bring down Royal Fighters scared her. She knew the Royal Fighters Service very well and had made good friends with some of the members. She couldn't bear the idea of them getting killed so it wasn't hard to see why she was looking worried about all this. Marik glowered back at Elise with evil eyes.

"I bet that worries you doesn't it?" he sneered at the worried princess "Soldiers, gag the prisoner so she doesn't give our plan away when the enemy arrives!"

The soldiers obeyed and one of them gagged Elise by tying a cloth around her mouth. The Princess of Soleanna couldn't speak now she was gagged. She mumbled angrily behind her gag as the soldiers hauled her onto her feet and held her close to themselves to prevent her from getting way. Marik smiled widely to himself and he began to have evil thoughts of killing any Royal Fighters that come to Soleanna after forcing them to stand down for the sake of Princess Elise.

"This scheme of mine is going to work perfectly." crooned Marik "I can't wait to hear how everybody else does with the Mobians they deal with in the other parts of the world. I know I'm going home with some good news for my friends and family. I wonder who I'll be up against though…"

He'd soon find out for in a few minutes, his resistance was going to arrive and attempt to stop him and Sierra…

Soleanna: Now…

The Super Warp Ring opened up in the middle of the town centre in Soleanna and Silver & Blaze leaped through it and into the City of Water itself. The warp ring closed up behind them and right now would be in the hands of Sally Acorn as they agreed. Once their mission was complete, they'd just give Sally a call and she'd bring them all back to Royal HQ where they would then brief everybody on their mission in Soleanna. After Silver and Blaze landed on the ground, they stood up straight and they took it upon themselves to observe their surroundings. They were in an area of Soleanna that was still intact for the Martians hadn't attacked every square-inch of Soleanna yet. The town centre hadn't been touched by the Martians as of now so Silver and Blaze could get an idea on what Soleanna truly looks like for in their future, they'd never seen Soleanna. They wandered through the square, eyeing the beautiful architecture, the nearby river ways with bridges over them for people to cross and the lovely stone work on the ground beneath their feet. The city looked absolutely gorgeous to them. True anything would look glamorous to them since they live in a post-apocalyptic world but Soleanna in particular struck a few chords with them, especially Blaze as she was quite fond of beautiful architecture. Just nearby, they could hear one of the three bell-towers all around Soleanna ringing a beautiful, echoing ring. There was a bell-tower in the place they were in right now so they could hear it clear as daylight. The bell's dongs were simply beautiful sounding to Silver and Blaze. They had never heard a bell ring before so this was a treat for them.

"That's such a beautiful sound." mused Blaze "I've never heard a real bell-tower ring before. Now I'm back here in the past, it's as beautiful as I thought it would sound."

"I agree." said Silver "This whole city is wonderful. So beautiful, so… peaceful looking even. Unfortunately, Soleanna doesn't exist in our timeline anymore." he said glumly, his head drooping down in sorrow.

"I know." said Blaze, looking equally as sad about it "Soleanna's now a giant crater of where it once stood. According to history books, Soleanna did survive the initial apocalypse but then a meteor crashed down onto Mobius and wiped out what was left. It burns my mind just thinking about it. How horrible that must have been for any survivors living in Soleanna's remains. Especially as they were all wiped out by the meteor along with the city."

"Even though we weren't born at the time that happened, I can still imagine what the whole thing must have been like." murmured Silver "Those terrified citizens running for their lives as the meteor comes in towards them and then…nothing more then an explosion and a wave of destruction for them. The meteor itself is still sitting in that crater to this day. I wouldn't mind going back in time to prevent Soleanna from being wiped out but my psychokinesis won't be strong enough to stop a meteor from crashing. Besides, why bother saving Soleanna from a meteor when we can save it, as well as the rest of the world, from being destroyed anyway?" asked Silver "Hopefully stopping the Martian invasion will be the thing we need to do in order to give Mobius a better future."

"I'm with you on that Silver." said Blaze, wandering over to a nearby bench and sitting down on it "So, is the invasion going is written in that book of yours?"

Silver took out the book that he had been studying in order to learn about Mobius' past and he leafed through it until he got to the pages about the Martian invasion. He read them thoroughly for a moment and he looked back at Blaze.

"It is for the most part." said Silver "The whole "Divide and Conquer" thing they're doing is exactly how it went before and when I read the book the first time, it mentioned Count Drago being part of it. Had we not killed him*, he would be attacking Empire City right now according to the book. Of course, since we changed history, the book I have now doesn't state that but before we changed history and unintentionally killed Count Drago, the book stated that so we must have changed one thing at least about the invasion."

"So I guess we're making some kind of impact on the whole Martian invasion then." said Blaze brightly "Less Martians are out attacking the world and the Royal Fighters are less spread out. But who would have been fighting the Martians in Soleanna if we didn't show up?"

Silver looked at the book again.

"Apparently…Sally and Nicole." said Silver, looking at the page he was on "They end up getting defeated though so we may end up changing history again. It's like our very presence in this invasion is leaving a huge impact on it. I almost feel like we're the key to foiling this whole thing."

"Wow…that is amazing when you think about it." said Blaze, her eyes widening a little "So, who should we be up against while we're here then?"

"According to the book…we should be fighting Marik, his sister Sierra, a squadron of Martians and a tank." said Silver, reading a few of the details from the book.

Blaze looked a little surprised to hear that. They're going to be up against Marik the Martian once again? The pyrokinetic cat stood up from the bench, her eyes fixed into a steely gaze.

"We're going to be fighting Marik?" gasped Blaze "My feelings on that matter are rather mixed. On the one hand, I'm glad we'll be getting the chance to kick his butt one again but on the other hand, it sickens me that a freak like him is attacking such a radiant, prosperous city such as this one!"

"I think I feel the same way." said Silver grimly "Well I've gotten the drop on him twice already. I ruined his jet shoes and then I ruined his metal hand so now I'll get the chance to ruin something else of his. I will say, I'm surprised to read right here that Marik has a sister. I thought he was an only child."

"I thought the same too." murmured Blaze "Where was Sierra during the time we ended up unintentionally killing Count Drago?"

"Elsewhere?" suggested Silver, taking a wild guess "Never mind, Marik will still be defeated, sister or not. Now where are we gonna find him I wonder?"

Then suddenly, as if right on cue, a huge explosion boomed from nearby their current location and made the ground tremble beneath their feet. The two ended up grasping each other into a sudden hug in shock as the explosion made them jump nearly out of their fur.

After the explosion settled, Silver and Blaze realized they were suddenly hugging each other and they quickly let go, blushing bright pink both at once. They did secretly harbour feelings for each other but Silver was a little nervous about admitting his love for Blaze and Blaze wasn't sure how to express herself for she wasn't a very emotional person. Silver quickly decided to say something to stop the situation from becoming more awkward.

"Uh, heh, heh…I think we've just been given a very big clue." said Silver "That explosion came from over there." he noted, pointing in the direction of the smoke drifting up from behind the building where the explosion happened "I bet the Martians are over there."

"Let's check it out." said Blaze "If they are there then I'm going to roast every last one of them alive!"

Blaze was not a woman to mess with when she was in a bad mood and Silver knew it. The Martians were in for it now he and Blaze were on the scene. Silver and Blaze quickly ran on ahead and headed to the source of the explosion. They turned a corner and found themselves in another section of the town centre. This area had been razed very badly by the Martian squadron. There were five Martians blasting buildings and scaring citizens away and the Martian tank they had brought was blowing buildings down by the second. This whole section of town was crumbling down to the ground thanks to the attacks of the Martians and Silver and Blaze felt sick just watching it. It started to make them think about the fate of Soleanna in their time now. But now they were here, they were going to make sure Soleanna lives to see another day before Mobius comes to an end and leaves he and Blaze in their current situation.

"There's the tank the book mentioned!" gasped Silver "And it looks very powerful! We have to be careful of that thing!"

"With your psychic powers Silver, that tank will be a breeze." said Blaze "Now let's stop those monsters before they raze this place anymore than they already have!"

"No wait, we need a…" began Silver.

But Blaze already leaped out of her hiding place and blazed towards the Martian soldiers. The five soldiers with the tank gasped in horror at Blaze rushing towards them, her body alit with flames as she ran to them.

"What in the pits of Olympus is that?!" shrieked one Martian soldier.

Blaze ploughed through the Martians in a fiery tornado, sending them all flying across the area they were in and they all crashed down onto the ground face first. Silver sighed, seeing that Blaze wasn't in the mood for playing it safe like any smart person would be right now and he ran in to join his pyrokenetic friend in the battle. The Martians picked themselves up and began shooting at Blaze but before any of their shots could even so much as touch her, Silver caught all the shots with his psychokinesis. He then proceeded to throw the shots into the water were they sizzled out and disappeared harmlessly into the water flowing nearby the battlefield. The Martians gasped in shock at that and something in their minds clicked as they realized who they were up against.

"Wait a minute…I know that freak with the funny hair-do!" shrieked on soldier "He's the one who killed Count Drago! And the fiery kitty with him is his accomplice! They butt into our war with the Seedrians and the silver one killed Count Drago!"

"In that case, they deserve a quick death!" growled another soldier "In the name of our fallen Count Drago, make sure these two cretins don't live this place alive!" he bellowed to his comrades.

The five Martian soldiers all began shooting at Silver and Blaze with their laser rifles but Silver caught all their shots with his psychokinesis and he threw them back at the Martians. The shots landed at the feet of the Martians since Silver didn't want to kill them and the shots made the Martians stagger backwards as they tried to avoid getting shot. The tank aimed at Silver and attempted to blast him away with a cannon blast but Blaze jumped in the way and started blazing the tank with her fire-powers. The tank did not catch fire of course for it wasn't flammable. All it resulted in was the driver of the tank being unable to see what he was aiming at and he began to feel very hot for the tank was being heated up by Blaze's fire. As you all know, metal heats easily so the tank was becoming a cooker for the poor driver inside. The driver steered the tank away from Blaze and started backing off but Blaze continued to throw fire at it. She was hoping to keep it up until the tank's armour began melting for metal eventually melts when it gets too hot. But the tank was heavily armoured so it would take a while before Blaze even remotely gets close to melting it. A couple of Martian soldiers ran in towards Blaze and they tackled her by ramming her in the side with a head-butt each. Blaze was thrown against the wall of a crumbling building by that attack and the Martians decided to add more to it by ramming her with their sides. Blaze was up against the wall and being slammed repeatedly by a couple of Martian soldiers. The poor cat grimaced and grunted as she was slammed by the Martians. She felt like a nail being hammered into a wall they were ramming her so hard. Silver jumped into help Blaze by grabbing the two soldiers with his psychokinesis. He threw then away from Blaze and they landed onto a bridge nearby. The Martian tank saw its chance to kill two birds with one stone as Silver helped Blaze stand back up. It aimed its long cannon barrel at Silver and Blaze and then fired at them. Silver gasped in shock and he and Blaze quickly ran for their lives. The cannon blast hit the ground and blew Silver and Blaze off their feet as the force of the explosion spread out and hit them like a wave. Silver and Blaze landed a few feet away and they rolled to a stop as they nearly ended up falling into the water. Silver picked himself up and shook himself off. That explosion was terrific and he felt a little shaken from the impact. The tank aimed at them again and fired another cannon blast. Silver was ready for it this time, he thrust his arms forward and stopped the cannon blast with his psychokinesis. He then proceeded to hurl the cannon blast directly back at the tank. The Martian driver inside the tank yelped in horror and he bailed out of his soon-to-be-doomed machine as quickly as possible. The Martian tank was hit by the cannon blast and was destroyed in a matter of seconds. Silver punched the air triumphantly.

"Oh yeah! I destroyed the tank! The Martians have no chance against us now!" cried Silver.

Then suddenly, both Silver and Blaze were stuck from behind by an electrical attack. They screamed in pain as they were electrocuted from behind by somebody. It was Marik the Martian. He had decided he'd had enough standing by and watching Silver and Blaze make mince meat of his squadron so he decided to jump out and join in the fight. Marik threw Silver and Blaze into a wrecked building, the two crashing straight through the crumbling walls of the building and scattering debris everywhere. The future couple picked themselves up and they jumped out to face Marik once again. Marik had his arms folded and he was grinning like a demon from a horror movie.

"Hello Silver and Blaze." he crooned "I was hoping I'd come across you two again."

"Marik the Martian, you're just as hideous as you were the last time we met." muttered Silver coldly "And we're here to make you wish you'd never come to Mobius in the first place!"

"I gathered as such." snorted Marik "After all, I did demand that some Royal Fighters come and face me. You two may not be Royal Fighters but you will do. Especially as you two heathens killed my Uncle Drago!"

"Big deal, your kind killed the entire Seedrian race!" retorted Silver "You're hardly one to talk about us murdering your stupid uncle when you Martians have wiped out races by the dozen just because they don't agree with your ways of life!"

"Our way of life will do more good for the universe then a peaceful way of life!" snapped Marik "Peace is overrated and is hardly worth fighting for! We're only trying to help the universe see that peace does more harm than good! I mean, wars are often fought just to bring peace back to the world and following a life of peace guarantees that you will be unprepared for any attacks from any evil races and if you're too pacifistic, you'll end up abandoning your comrades and selfishly not contributing to the war at hand! Our Warlord Tyrahko, the God of Warfare and the first ever Warlord of Mars, found that out the hard way when back in his day, which is millions of years ago, the Martians were nearly wiped out because we craved peace too much and were barely able to fight back when an evil race of aliens invaded our home planet and attempted to conquer it! What does that tell you? Peace nearly brought our race to extinction and we're only trying to help other races avoid the same fate by showing them how bad peace is! But no, they don't listen to us and they ignore us like the ignorant worms they are, so we kill them to set an example to other races out in the universe! Someday soon, they'll get the message and the universe will realize peace is bad and our way of life is the way to go!"

Silver and Blaze were taken aback by what Marik had just said. So that's what this was all about? Their hatred of peace stemmed from the fact they used to crave peace and were nearly wiped out because of it and they only wanted to help other planets avoid the same thing happening to them? While those reasons had some weight behind them, what they were doing was still wrong and still immoral on many levels.

"So you feel that just because a life of peace nearly brought your race to extinction that other races should not be allowed to live how they want to?" said Silver crossly "You aren't doing the universe any favours Marik, you and your bunch of freaks are being dictators! You have no right to decide how those planets live their lives Marik!"

"What you're doing is far from good Marik!" growled Blaze "A life of warfare is far likelier to get your race wiped out than a life of peace!"

"Is it heck?!" snorted Marik "If that's the case then why are we still alive and still around right now you morons? Our way of life has guaranteed our survival, not made us likelier to get killed!"

"You'll meet your match one of these days Marik." said Blaze coldly "And this planet is where you shall meet that match."

"We shall see about that." said Marik with a devil's smile on his face "For I have a valuable hostage in my hands…"

The moment he said that, the rest of his squadron, which was ten Martians, and his sister Sierra all marched onto the scene. They were carrying Princess Elise with them and they threw her down onto the ground beside Marik. Sierra loaded her arm-mounted crossbow and she poked Elise in the back of the head with it, threatening to shoot her. Silver and Blaze were gobsmacked at the sight of Elise. Silver quickly looked through his book and managed to find out who she was.

"I know who that is!" shrieked Silver "It's Princess Elise, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Soleanna!"

"It is indeed." said Marik "Now you two cretins surrender now and stand down or Elise ends up with her brains scattered all over the ground!"

Sierra threatened to shoot Elise by poking her in the head with the crossbow again and itching to pull the trigger. Elise mumbled worriedly behind her gag, trying to tell the two not to surrender for it was a trap. But Silver and Blaze couldn't understand her of course and they wandered what to do. They couldn't surrender or the Martians would quite simply just kill them. But they couldn't let the life of Princess Elise be pointlessly wasted. Silver then suddenly had an idea. He knew how to deal with this easily. He put his hands behind his head and knelt down onto the ground.

"OK, I surrender." said Silver "Just let the princess go, she's innocent in all of this."

Blaze decided to just go with Silver since she had the feeling Silver had a plan. He maybe a little naïve and reckless at times but he certainly wasn't stupid. Blaze knelt down onto the ground too with her hands behind her head.

"I surrender too, just please leave Elise alone." said Blaze.

"Good little Mobians." crowed Marik "It's nice to know you've got some common sense in you. Now since you've surrendered, you may now face your sentences. You two are guilty of killing my Uncle Drago and therefore you are sentenced…"

"PSYCHE!" crowed Silver, jumping up into his feet and suddenly grabbing everybody in a psychokinetic hold.

The Martians were all suddenly frozen to the spot thanks to Silver's psychokinesis. They could not move at all. Elise watched in wander as the Martians were suddenly frozen by Silver's psychic hold. She'd seen many weird and amazing things in her life but none as weird and as amazing as this. Silver then thrust his arms out and sent the Martians hurling backwards and into a building a few yards away from where they were now. Now that they were safe, Blaze ran over to Elise and freed her from her cuffs by breaking them. She took Elise's gag off and helped the jaguar stand up on her feet.

"Are you alright your highness?" asked Blaze politely.

"I am now thanks to you two awesome people!" cried Elise delightedly "Thank you so much! So who are you two then? New recruits of the R.F.S.?"

"No, we're from the future." said Silver "I'm Silver the Hedgehog and this is my friend, the beautiful Blaze the Cat."

"Nice to meet you two." said Elise with a polite curtsey "You already know who I am so no introduction needed. I'm so glad you're here to help stop those freaks from desecrating more of my city. Everything's been a nightmare since they came! People running in terror, buildings being blown up, my mom and dad have evacuated along with everybody and I stayed behind to help fend the Martians off and buy the escapees some time to get away but I got overpowered and…"

"Wait, you can fight?" said a very surprised Silver.

"Sure I can!" crowed Elise confidently "I practice judo in my spare time. I'm the judo champion of Soleanna! Mom and dad are very amazed at what I can do. But even I'm no match for all them Martians. As I said, they overpowered me and then decided to take me hostage. I'm glad their attempts to make you stand down failed though, that psychic trick of yours is real handy Silver."

Silver blushed with pleasure.

"Eh, heh, heh…thank you Elise." said Silver "My power is useful indeed isn't it?"

But their discussion was rudely interrupted by all the Martian soldiers coming back towards them. Marik and Sierra looked furious to say the least and they were about ready to unleash hell on the Mobians. Sierra loaded her arm-mounted crossbow and prepared to fire it.

"You tricked us you silver freak!" exclaimed Sierra "Now you will die for that!"

"Martians, GET THEM!" thundered Marik loudly.

The Martians all charged into battle. Silver, Blaze and Elise did the same. They all charged towards each other and soon a big battle erupted between the Mobians and Martians. Elise got well into the battle with her judo skills. She ran towards one Martian and kicked one of them straight in the face as hard as she could. The Martian was pretty amazed at such a powerful kick. Then Elise tripped up the Martian and brought it down onto its back. Another Martian tried to grab her but Elise back-flipped over the Martian, landed behind him and pile-dived it in the back. The Martian was brought down onto his front and Elise kicked it in the back of the head to knock it out. The judo champion smirked at the Martian and the proceeded to fight another one. As for Blaze, she threw fire at a lot of the soldiers and made them back off. Sierra fired a laser arrow at Blaze and it skimmed her across the arm. Blaze cried out in pain and clutched her arm, her face tensing up as the pain began to sting her arm. Sierra cackled at Blaze and she ran towards her. She kicked Blaze in the face, then in the stomach and then proceeded to roundhouse punch Blaze in the face. Sierra then added a kick slam directly on top of Blaze's head (ouch!). Blaze screamed a pained scream as her head flared with pain. Sierra sneered at Blaze and then pointed her arm-mounted crossbow at Blaze's face. Blaze merely threw a wave of fire directly into Sierra's face. Sierra screeched in pain as her face was scalded by the fire. Blaze then leaped back onto her feet and went to town on Sierra. As for Marik, he was fighting Silver. Marik zapped Silver with his metal hand but Silver retaliated by grabbing a soldier with his psychokinesis and throwing him at Marik. The soldier and Marik both sprawled across the ground as the soldier crashed into Marik and knocked him over. Marik threw the soldier off of himself and swiped the air with his arms. Silver was swept off his feet by the resulting energy wave that followed Marik's arm-swipe. Marik cackled at Silver and he ran towards the psychic hedgehog. Silver however jumped onto his feet and gave Marik a psychically enhanced uppercut to the face. Marik staggered backwards and Silver then jumped in and dropkicked Marik. Marik tried to fight back but Silver grabbed him with his psychokinesis and threw him into the water. Marik jumped out of the water and he hit Silver with another energy wave. Silver was knocked down onto the ground and Marik grabbed him by his quills. He threw Silver over onto his back and slammed him on the ground like a giant fly-swatter and, while still holding his quills, picked him up again and threw him into a bridge. Silver hit the bridge and then ended up falling into the water. Silver came back to the surface and flew out of the water only to be met with an electric shock by Marik. Marik zapped Silver so hard that Silver ended up falling down onto the ground with a heavy thud. Marik laughed at Silver and he grabbed him by the face with his metal hand.

"Ha, beat you Silver!" he crowed "Now let's see what happens when I give you an a electrical shock while I'm holding you by the face…"

But before he could do that, Elise quickly jumped in and kicked Marik away. Marik was thrown down onto the ground by the judo loving jaguar but Elise didn't stop there. She ran towards Marik and started pummelling him as hard as she could. She gave Marik a left and right hook each, then a judo-style kick to the face and the gut respectively and then she grabbed Marik's arm and twisted it to one side. Marik yelped in pain and he tried to wrestle himself free from Elise but Elise's grip was too strong for him. When you know martial arts of any kind, you have a grip like steel. Elise stuck her tongue out at Marik mockingly and then proceeded to throw him over onto his back. Marik grunted in pain and Elise added insult to injury by kicking him away. Silver's jaw dropped at the sight of Elise using her judo on Marik. Elise flipped her hair around and she looked over at Silver.

"Impressed?" she said.

"Very!" gasped Silver "You really are good aren't you Elise?!"

"Well I am a judo champion after all." said Elise smugly "But I only use my skills when I have to. And in this case, I REALLY have to. I hope Marik felt that because I was only going easy on him!" she added with a smirk on her pretty face.

Marik picked himself up, grunting and panting heavily.

"You Elise, have just ended up on my list of Mobians who really need to die right now!" growled Marik "I will eviscerate you for that!"

"Bring it on you freak!" snarled Elise "I've got even more powerful moves to unleash on you!"

But before the fight could continue, a laser blast from nowhere hit Marik and sent him flying backwards across the battlefield. Silver and Elise looked stunned to say the least and they looked around to see who did that. To their surprise, it was none other than Metal Sonic! He and a bunch of Egg-Pawns had been sent to Soleanna to stop the Martians there. Marik gasped in horror at the mere sight of Metal Sonic whereas Silver and Elise didn't know how to react.

"No…Metal Sonic is back?!" shrieked Marik "Don't tell me that fool Dr. Eggman's helping the Mobians to defeat us!"

"Reply to questioning query: You are indeed correct little Martian." droned Metal Sonic "Dr. Eggman has found out about your invasion and has sent me and my comrades out into the world to stop all the Martians attacking Mobius. He will not allow you to destroy Mobius before he can conquer it."

"Well that's convenient." said Silver "Eggman's helping us? True it's for his own gain but still, that's nice of him to help us out."

"It feels weird right now we've got Eggman robots fighting for us instead of against us." said Elise with a chuckle.

Metal Sonic then suddenly lashed forward and grabbed Marik by the neck. He quickly scanned Marik's data so Marik couldn't be able to defeat him and he threw Marik down into the ground. He kicked Marik as hard as he could and sent Marik hurling into Sierra. Marik and Sierra ended up sprawling across the ground and they groaned in pain. Blaze added insult to injury by throwing fire at them. Marik and Sierra both yelled in agony as they were torched by Blaze. They both leaped up onto the feet and dived into the water to cool off. They climbed out of the water the moment they cooled down and they looked over at their squadron. They were toast in this match right now. Silver, Blaze and Elise were fending them all off with ease and Metal Sonic and his goons were providing great help in bringing the Martians down. This battle was lost to them, they had no chance of winning at all.

"Damn it to Tyrahko!" yelled Marik "We've lost this one, the plan's not going to work after all!"

"What do we do now Marik?" asked Sierra.

"Retreat you stupid girl!" snapped Marik "We can't stay here or we'll be pummelled to death! We have to leave here now!"

"But I hate retreating!" whined Sierra.

"You will do as you are told Sierra!" snarled Marik "We're leaving and that's that! I hope the others are doing better than we are!"

With that said, Marik and Sierra, reluctantly, retreated. They ran for their lives, leaving their squad behind to bear the wrath of the heroes (what cowards). As for the Mobians and Eggman robots, they knocked out the last Martian soldier and Elise dusted her hands off.

"This was too easy." she crowed "These Martian jerks aren't even a real threat, especially as that tank of theirs is gone."

"That was my doing." said Silver proudly "So Metal Sonic," he said, turning to Metal Sonic "What are you and your Egg-Pawns gonna do now?"

"Prioritizing: We shall remove ourselves from this area." droned Metal Sonic "We have no other orders now. We shall return to our base and await further orders."

Silver and Blaze smiled, happy at the fact they wouldn't have to deal with Eggman's robots as well as the Martians they'd just fought. Metal Sonic and the Egg-Pawns all left Soleanna and headed off back to Eggman's hidden bunker in the Northern Border of Megapolis. The moment they left, Elise suddenly grasped Silver and Blaze into a hug. Silver and Blaze hugged her back.

"Thank you so, so, so much for saving my city from those Martians!" squealed Elise happily "I can't begin to tell you how grateful I am for your selflessness today."

"It…it was nothing." said Silver casually "We're here to save lives and stop evil after all."

"I'm very glad to hear that." said Elise "Say, as a way of saying thank you, how about you come to my palace for some lunch? I promise you, a banquet at my palace is not to be missed. Think of it as a way of saying thank you."

"That's very kind of you Elise and we'll take you up on your offer." said Blaze with a little smile on her face "After all, we're in no hurry to get back to New Mobotropolis. We've stopped the Martians so we may as well rest a moment."

"Cool." said Elise happily "First, we'll have to tell everybody the city's safe to come back into now and…get started on repairing the damages." she said, her face falling as she noticed the damages done to Soleanna.

Silver and Blaze wore the same expression on their faces as they noticed the damages done to Soleanna by the Martians. It was going to take a while to get the city fixed but at least the Martians were gone and the city wasn't as wrecked as it could have been. Silver and Blaze could maybe help with the repairs before they had lunch with Elise and her parents, the Duke and Duchess of Soleanna. When the two got back to New Mobotropolis, they had once heck of a story to tell everybody…

The Wrath of Tyrahko Part 1

Story 134: The Wrath of Tyrahko Part 1

Failure.

Nothing in the world was more humiliating to a Martian than failure. Failure of any kind was bad to a Martian, even if they had lost to powerful opponents. And now, the Martians had experienced failure on a great scale. They had divided their resources all over the world in an attempt to bring out the Royal Fighters, divide them up, and make them easier to pick off. And all that resulted in was failure for each of them, mostly because Dr. Eggman had decided to interfere and help the Mobians. Even the Martians left behind to deal with New Mobotropolis had failed to defeat the Royal Fighters* and quite a lot of them had been left behind. Count Nyder had retreated in the Martian ship and went around picking up all the Martians from the places they had invaded and attacked. All the Martians had been picked up at last and the ship touched down back in Megapolis but in a different location to where they had landed before. The ship had landed miles away from where Dr. Eggman was hiding and since Eggman could no longer had any access to Mobius' satellites thanks to Nicole's meddling, he wouldn't be able to find them again so for all Eggman knew, they could be anywhere right now. After the Martian ship had landed, Grand Warlord Diablo had gathered everybody around outside the ship (except for Sycranna and Obelisk, they're receiving medical attention for the damage they received in Black Acropolis is life-threatening) for a meeting. And needless to say, Diablo was raging his head off right now. Diablo had little tolerance for failure and the fact that everybody, including himself, had failed their given tasks was overwhelming for him.

"How is this POSSIBLE?!" screamed Diablo "All us Martians, the best in the fleet, go out into the world to draw out those pesky Mobians and kill them and yet all you lot have come back with is an excuse?! This failure is unacceptable, especially as Sycranna and Obelisk are just about dying after being burnt alive by lava! You should all be ashamed of yourselves for embarrassing the Martian fleet you useless bunch of worms!" he thundered, pointing at all the Martians.

"You're one to talk hunky-chops." sniffed Natasha "I mean, you fared no better than any of us. You failed as well so don't you dare put us down when you yourself have ALSO failed to do the given task."

Diablo glared at his wife, his eyes narrowed into a frightening death glare that could make your heart stop.

"You shut up you stupid witch!" snarled Diablo, pointing at Natasha sharply "Or I'll snap you in two!"

"Yeah right, you can't even catch me Diablo so you won't get anywhere near snapping me in two." scoffed Natasha.

"I said SHUT UP!" roared Diablo, his voice like a megaphone down Natasha's ears. The female Martian warrior did not seem to be phased by Diablo shouting at her though. Natasha had grown used to it over the years.

"Dad, mother has every right to speak as much as you do!" snapped Marik "And she's right to call you out for putting us down when you yourself have done no better than us!"

"You shut up as well Marik!" retorted Diablo "Before you lot started gobbing away, I was GOING to bring up my humiliating defeat as well! I was up against three Mobians known as "Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John and Ruben the Water Panther", going by my son's descriptions, and I managed to beat them all. But before I could kill them, a bunch of robots came in, one of them resembling the pink hedgehog with the big hammer that Marik describes to me as "Amy Rose", and they all managed to beat me and force me to retreat! How humiliating a defeat is that?! Being beaten by robots?!"

"Don't get your armour in a twist Diablo, we were beaten by robots too." noted Mercury "Me and Natasha had Wilson & Mandy at our mercy but then a bunch of robots came in and fended us off."

"Same with me and Sierra." muttered Marik "And they were all Eggman robots and a Metal Sonic too, even worse."

"I was beaten by Mobians AND robots." fumed Nyder, scowling angrily.

"Zarondight seems to imply he was beaten by a robot too and he seems to tell us only ONE robot attacked him." said Natasha, reading her silent brother's sign language as he signed to the Martians what happened to him "Is that right dear brother?"

Zarondight nodded to confirm that Natasha was right.

"I did not encounter any robots in my battle." boomed Dranzer "I was beaten thanks to an interfering avalanche caused by my battle with Sonic."

"Sycranna and Obelisk told us that robots helped their opponents in their battle but it was the lava of their location that defeated them." noted Sierra "So not all of us were beaten by robots at least."

"I was beaten by Devion himself." said Myra "Apparently, some guy named "Dr. Eggman" has him under his control now. Don't ask me how that's possible, I'm just as amazed as you lot probably are."

The Martians all gasped in astonishment at that.

"You can NOT be serious!" shrieked Sierra "Devion's working for the Mobians?!"

"No, Myra said he's working for Dr. Eggman." sighed Marik "I told you all who he is as well. He's the Mobian's sworn enemy who loves to make robots and giant ships and he's also a human. A grotesque looking one that is. I cannot believe the fact he's managed to get Devion on his side though. I bet after the Mobians defeated him, Eggman took Devion's body and brought him back alive. How unfortunate for us."

"Well Marik sweetie, if this "Dr. Eggman's" the sworn enemy of the Mobians then why is he helping them?" asked Natasha curiously.

"If I were to guess, I'd say Eggman doesn't want us to destroy the world otherwise he can't conquer it himself so he wants to make sure we lose as much as the Mobians are making sure of that." suggested Marik "Either way, this is not good for us at all. The Mobians AND Dr. Eggman are allied against us, and Eggman has the freaking Devatron leader on his side, and thus we have twice as much enemies to fight! This invasion's going to be harder than we dared imagine!"

"And here's me hoping we'd have an easier time with this battle." muttered Diablo "The Mobians are proving tougher than the Seedrians ever were! We'll be defeated in no time at the rate they're going!"

"If this pleases you Diablo, I have managed to find the location of the Chaos Emeralds." announced Count Nyder.

"You have?!" blurted Diablo "Where are they then?!" he asked eagerly.

"I found out by using the Visual-Mind Reader Link on a Mobian insect named "Charmy" that the emeralds are located on a floating island called "Angel Island"." explained Count Nyder "The island also seems to house a rather large Chaos Emerald that appears to be known as "The Master Emerald". Unfortunately, the insect was rescued along with two other prisoners I had so they're probably telling their friends back home that I've found out where the Chaos Emeralds are."

Diablo sighed a heavy, annoyed sigh at that revelation.

"So the Mobians will likely be preparing for our arrival on this "Angel Island" and will be ready to fight us off." fumed Diablo "So much for element of surprise! We're going to be fighting a losing battle as we go along it seems. We seriously need a decent plan or we're going to lose to a bunch of furry creatures! And I do not want that kind of humiliation!"

"If only Tyrahko were still alive then he could help us." said Dranzer grimly "We won every battle with him on our side. Ever since his death, our success rate has been declining sharply."

"Yeah, we could do with Tyrahko alive right now." grumbled Diablo "We were invincible with that god-powered Martian leading us. As is, he is not alive right now and thus, we have to fight this battle without him, much like we have been doing for a year now since his death…"

"Diablo! Something's coming from up in the sky!" cried Natasha, pointing up at the sky frantically, her eyes locked on the thing directly up in the sky that was supposedly coming towards them.

All the Martians looked up at the sky and they could see something coming down towards them. It was too far away for them to make out what it was at the moment but it was coming in fast so the Martians would soon work out what it was as it came down to Mobius. Diablo squinted at the sky, trying to make out what it was.

"Is it a Mobian?" he asked.

"Hmm…too big." said Natasha, squinting at the sky along with Diablo "Must be something else."

The thing in the sky was getting closer and closer as it flew down towards the ground. As the thing continued to fly down and get closer, the Martians could start making out what it was. To their surprise, it was the last thing they had expected to show up. Diablo and Natasha both gaped in amazement at what the thing was.

"By Tyrahko…!" gasped Natasha "It-it-it's him! It-it's really him!"

"But it can't be!" cried Diablo "He-he-he perished during a battle in space! We were there! We all saw what happened to him!"

The thing continued soaring down to the ground and it raised its legs up, ready for a landing. The Martians all stood back quickly in order to clear the landing for the thing that was coming down towards them. The thing landed on the ground quite heavily and made the ground shake beneath their feet from the impact. A cloud of dust rose up from the thing's landing and the Martians all covered their eyes as dust and sand swept over them. Once the dust cloud settled, the Martians uncovered their eyes and saw what had landed in front of them and caused the dust cloud. The Martians all gasped in amazement at what it was. It was a huge monstrous looking creature with an incredible suit of armour that dazzled like a million stars and it was casually walking up towards the Martians as if nothing had happened, its footsteps like thunder. The suit of armour was black, silver and purple and it had a very majestic, opulent vibe to it that truly made the creature look terrifying. It wore a helmet with five enormous spikes on it, one on the top and four behind it, the helmet itself had a crown like structure that was jade-green with purple gems in it. It wore a face mask with red, ominous glowing eyes that made it look like a demon. It had shoulder pads with three curved up spikes on each shoulder, four wing like structures that draped from its shoulders and back in the manner of a cape, sharp clawed hands with spiked wrists and the armour had a glowing Energy Diamond in the chest. There were a lot of decals all around the armour and an armoured tunic around the waist. The creature was very tall too, seven feet to be exact. It was tall than even Diablo and much more broad and muscular too. This was a terrifying looking monster and the Martians all knew what it was. For it was not just a monster…but a Martian, an actual Martian. And this Martian was the most special Martian of all. As the Martian strolled up to Diablo and the others, they all stared in amazement at it, unable to believe what they were seeing.

"Great Rings of Saturn…it's him!" shrieked Marik "The God of Warfare himself! Tyrahko! Alive and well!"

"Sure looks like it!" gasped Myra, switching on the communicator Shadow had given her as a method of giving the Mobians an edge on the Martians. She had the communicator hidden on her belt and luckily, the Martians hadn't seen it yet so she was in the clear. The Mobians would get a kick out of hearing what was going on with her and the other Martians right now.

Tyrahko finished strolling up to the Martians and he stood ominously before them all. He towered over the Martians, even Diablo, and he peered down at them with his luminous eyes glowing brighter than the stars and redder than the devil himself. One would almost assume that Tyrahko WAS the devil himself given his monstrous appearance and red eyes.

"Martians! Your rightful lord and master has returned!" thundered Tyrahko, his voice powerful and raspy and booming through the plains like an earthquake.

The Martians all instantly threw themselves down at the feet of Tyrahko, bowing graciously to the insidious Martian Warlord.

"Lord Tyrahko, God of Warfare! You're back in the fleet and…and… you're alive!" cried Diablo "Praise the war-torn heavens above! It is a miracle!"

"Hardly a miracle considering my god-like attributes." snorted Tyrahko, folding his arms and glaring at the Martians that knelt before him "So, my war-craving disciples, why might I ask was I abandoned at the site of our last battle with me as your Grand Warlord?!" he snarled, making everybody shudder "You had better have a good explanation for this or I will single-handedly tear you all to pieces!"

Everybody started shaking with fear as Tyrahko's evil eyes began glowing brighter and his hands began to glow green as he prepared to give them an energy-enhanced attack.

"Please Tyrahko! Forgive us!" shrieked Diablo "When the Sprites of Mor-Doon launched that planet-shattering bomb at you, we assumed the worst! We thought you were dead! We couldn't see your body anywhere, we assumed you had been wiped out!"

He then put his hands on his head and curled up fearfully, awaiting Tyrahko's inevitable punishment. He had bore the wrath of the god-powered Martian before and the very idea of being punished by Tyrahko always terrified him. But Tyrahko didn't do anything to him. Instead, he relaxed himself and his hands stopped glowing. His face-mask lifted up into his helmet, revealing an old, wrinkly, aged looking face underneath. The glare in his eyes was still as eerie as ever and his mouth was crammed with razor-sharp teeth. One would think he filed all his teeth in order to make them look that way. The look on his face suggested he was indeed a very old Martian.

"Your response is very reasonable Diablo." crooned Tyrahko, his face still contorted into a scowl "I comprehend why you all left me there in the vast entity of space. But do understand that by "god-powers" it means that I have go-like attributes, INCLUDING immortality. Did it not occur to you that I am immortal with this suit of armour on?"

"Uh…yes actually." said Diablo "We all knew that. But you need to remember that if the armour gets destroyed, you die for the armour contains all your god-like powers AND is the only reason you're still alive now given you've exceeded the usual Martian life-span and that bomb looked like it completely destroyed you, armour and all so can you blame us for thinking you had perished in the battle with the Sprites of Mor-Doon last year?!"

Myra grinned to herself as Diablo and Tyrahko talked. Thank you for stating Tyrahko's weakness Diablo! she thought to herself If anybody's listening on the end of this communicator, they'll now how to defeat Tyrahko! As for Tyrahko, he glowered at Diablo and he continued to talk.

"No, I cannot." sighed Tyrahko "So I shall explain how I survived such a powerful bomb: I almost very nearly didn't. The bomb blasted me away and even though my armour wasn't destroyed, it was severely weakened by the blast. The armour was damaged after the blast ended and I was rendered unconscious. I was left alone, floating around the vast entity of space with no Martian around to help me. After I awoke, my first instinct was to return to Mars and repair my armour. I returned to Mars only to find that you lot hadn't returned to it. I assumed you were on another world, razing peace-lovers and desecrating peaceful worlds in my absence. So during my time of solitude, I repaired my broken armour and nursed myself back to health. My armour sadly is not as strong as it used to be but all my powers are back at their strongest at least. So after repairing my armour and healing my wounds, I took to the stars, searching for you all. I came across the remains of Greengate, your doing I assume, and I flew on from there to find you. And now I've arrived here, an unknown planet that I have never seen, nor heard of, and find you all here as well. Tell me Diablo, what is this world and why are you all here? Is it another peace-loving world that needs to be tempted to our way of life?"

The Martians all got up onto their feet and Marik stood forward.

"I will provide the necessary exposition on our presence here Tyrahko." he said "I have been on this world already so I knew it better than anybody."

"Marik, you have grown since the last time I saw you." said Tyrahko, a brief smile appearing on his face "You are growing into a very fine young soldier you are. So Marik, where are we, or should I say where am I since the rest of you probably know where you are anyway?"

"This is the planet "Mobius" my lord and we are here for many reasons." explained Marik "Let's start at the beginning: we were at war with the Seedrians and the children were all being evacuated to the Seedrian twin planet. Earthia, the ruler of Greengate's youngest daughter Cosmo was sent flying off course thanks to me giving chase and she ended up here. I landed and attempted to take over the planet through political manipulation and murder. I failed sadly and…lost my hand in the process." he muttered, showing Tyrahko his metal hand.

The god-powered Martian seemed surprised to see that Marik had a metal hand. But since he often kept his emotions in check, he didn't act shocked or blurt out in surprise at it. He just took it in stride as if it wasn't much.

"Hmm…how did you come to requiring a metal hand then?" asked Tyrahko.

"I was sent flying off a cliff and crippled it in the impact." said Marik "I gave it cybernetics in order to get it working again. This robot hand is merely my original hand encased in a metal shell. But we're digressing, after months of attempts to take over the world and destroy it, I eventually fled the planet and came back to my dad and his men. I told them everything and we plotted to destroy Mobius next. After we destroyed Greengate, we moved onto Mobius and here we are now."

"I see." said Tyrahko "Well then, I will be happy to join you in this conflict and unleash wanton destruction on this planet. So where is Count Drago then? Shouldn't he be here with you as well?"

"He should be but he can't be." said Mercury sadly "He's dead. Marik told us a pair of Mobians named Silver and Blaze killed him."

Tyrahko's eyes widened at that but, as I already said, he often kept his emotions in check and rarely ever let himself get shocked. Deep inside though, he was outright furious to hear this had happened.

"So Count Drago is dead?!" growled Tyrahko "And if I am to guess, Silas, Rozarr, Sycranna and Obelisk are also dead too for they are not with you?"

"Yes and no." said Marik "Silas and Rozarr are both dead. Silas was killed by a Seedrian warrior and Rozarr was executed for attempting to kill my mother. Sycranna and Obelisk were badly injured by a jet of lava while fighting Mobians apparently and are in the medical bay receiving medical treatment right now."

"So it is just you lot and me in this battle then?" said Tyrahko, not sounding very pleased at this "Very well, we shall avenge Drago and Silas' deaths and the unfortunate outcome of Sycranna and Obelisk's battles by taking over this world and razing it to the very last atom!"

"We're so happy to hear that Tyrahko." said Diablo happily "You truly haven't changed a bit since we last met you."

"So Tyrahko, allow me to tell you about Mobius and its inhabitants." said Marik "You'll need to know who you'll be up against, not that it matters given even the Mobians will be no trouble for you."

"Tell me everything you know of this world." said Tyrahko, clearly interested in what Marik had to say to him.

Marik smiled happily and he began to provide the necessary exposition for Tyrahko. As for Myra, she grew increasingly worried as her communicator picked up every word that was being spoken. Would Sonic and friends be able to defeat Tyrahko? Or was Tyrahko going to be the Martian to destroy them all? And would her chance at redemption be…diminished…?

Meanwhile, back at Royal HQ, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat stepped through the Super Warp Ring and transported back from Soleanna into Royal HQ. They were the last of the Mobians sent abroad to deal with the Martian threats to come home. Over the past few minutes, Queen Sally Acorn had just opened up the Super Warp Ring to one location at a time in order to bring home the Royal Fighters. Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat were already home in Royal HQ given how they ended up joining up with Sally and the others after putting up a fake-fight to leave the Martians known the wiser about Myra. The first to come home through the warp-ring had been Sonic the Hedgehog and his best friend Tails the Fox. They had dealt with Dranzer in Holoska and were thrilled to be back in the warmth of Royal HQ after putting up with the cold of Holoska for so long. Next had been Wilson the Dog and his wife Mandy Mouse. They had had a tough battle with Natasha and Mercury in Grand Metropolis and now they had come back home with quite a story to tell. Next had been Knuckles and Shade. They had had a fiery encounter with Dranzer's twin brother Obelisk and the recently promoted Sycranna. The battle had ended with Sycranna and Obelisk up in flames and Shade confessing her love for Knuckles and now the two echidnas could tell everybody about their battle. Next were Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John and Ruben the Water Panther. They hadn't had a great battle with Diablo in Rail Canyon. It had mostly ended in tears, especially for Ruben as he felt their so-so victory was his fault. But they had survived at least and could tell everybody what happened in Rail Canyon. Next were Team Rose (Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit & Cosmo the Seedrian). They had had one deadly encounter with the silent but deadly Zarondight who's primary method of snagging them was traps laid out strategically all around Kingdom Valley. It had been tough but the girls survived in the end luckily and right now, they were getting a thorough dry-down for it started raining during their fight and they were very wet. And right now, Silver and Blaze had finally returned home. They had just defeated Marik and Sierra, and also had a nice dinner with the Royals of Soleanna so you can imagine they had been over at Soleanna for quite a while. But they were back now and were eagerly waiting to tell everybody how they had done. Now everybody had returned home, Sally graciously welcomed them all expressed everybody's delight at their return.

"Welcome home everybody." said Sally brightly "We're so glad to see that you've all managed to come back, alive and well, after all your encounters with the Martians."

"Thank you your highness." said the Royal Fighters that had just come back home.

"Thanks Sal." said Sonic casually "But really, did you think for a minute we wouldn't return home? I mean, this is us we're talking about, since when do we never crawl out of a conflict alive?"

"Don't get so full of yourself blue dude, some of us very nearly DIDN'T make it out alive." said Mandy grimly "Me and Wilson being two of them."

"Oh." said Sonic, rubbing his quills "Uh, sorry about that, I should have been more thoughtful. I need to remember that just because we've survived many conflicts before, doesn't mean that we will survive every conflict we get into."

"That was very well said Sonic." said Sally brightly "You're definitely maturing that's for sure."

"Thanks Sal." said Sonic "So, who's up for a little story-telling then?" he asked, addressing everybody in the room "Me and Tails are just itching to tell you how our battle went."

"Tell us Sonic!" cried Amy eagerly "I'm dying to hear all about your heroic encounter with those dastardly Martians over in Holoska!"

"Thanks Amy." said Sonic, not really meaning it "So, me and Tails arrived in Holoska and we started looking around for Martians."

"Then I ended up getting caught by one and held hostage." added in Tails "The Martian we were up against was named Dranzer and he was one serious Martian. But Sonic managed to defeat him by causing an avalanche that buried Dranzer alive. We assume he's dead because nobody can survive being buried alive by snow."

"Wow." said Nicole "That sounded intense. Thank goodness you didn't get buried alive you two."

"Yeah, thank goodness indeed." said Tails "So, how did all of you do?" he asked everybody else.

"Me and Mandy were against Marik's mother, Natasha and an archer named Mercury." explained Wilson "The two she-devils had levelled Grand Metropolis by the time we got there and they gave us a serious fight."

"We were almost dead meat until Eggman robots led by Silver Sonic showed up and saved our lives!" exclaimed Mandy "Apparently, he knows about the invasion and sent robots around the world to help us and make sure we defeat the Martians."

"Oh mah stars! The same thing happened to me, Geoff and Ruben sugah!" cried Bunnie in surprise "Eggman robots saved our lives too!"

"Same with me, Cosmo and Cream!" added Amy.

"Same with me and Shadow, but we were saved by just Devion and not Eggman robots." explained Rouge "Devion sure saved mine and Shadow's necks out there, Myra and her magnetism hammer had us on the ropes."

"Me and Shade ended up getting helped by Eggman robots, one of them being a metal version of me, but they didn't save our lives for me and Shade weren't in trouble when they arrived." explained Knuckles "They just ended up joining us in our battle."

"Me and Blaze weren't saved by Eggman robots either, just helped by them." put in Silver "Not that we really needed it, we had the Martians in Soleanna in the bag."

"Whoa…" said a very surprised Mandy "So me and Wilson weren't the only ones to receive a little help from Eggman. Well his message did say he was helping Sonic and friends so I should have expected that."

"Well why didn't I get any help from Egg-Breath?" asked Sonic "Not that I needed any help anyway, me and Tails had it in the bag from the start."

"Maybe Eggman sent some help but it didn't get to us by the time we defeated Dranzer?" suggested Tails "I dunno, doesn't matter anyway. I'm just glad Eggman's on our side again. Even if it's only for his own gain and to make sure the Martians don't destroy the very planet he wants to conquer." he added bitterly, remembering past alliances with the fat doctor.

"Well Eggman's assisting us and we're not going to put his aid down." said Geoffrey "He helped us fight the Devatrons so we'll let him help us beat the Martians. Then after that, we can focus on him."

"Indeed Geoffrey." said Ruben "So, your majesty, how did you and the others do back here then?" he asked Sally.

"Well me and the others dealt with a Martian named Count Nyder and we had a relatively easy time." said Sally "I got involved in the action too and performed better then I had anticipated."

"And you got yourself a new outfit." said Sonic, winking at her "I love it, you look not only hot, but adventurous in it. Just perfect for a queen who's getting into the battle with us."

"Aw, thank you Sonic." said Sally with a rosy red blush on her cheeks "Anyway, we weren't without problems though. Nyder captured Scott, Kiara and Charmy and using some mind-reading device or whatever they said it was called, he managed to find the location of the Chaos and Master Emeralds."

"No way!" cried Sonic in surprise.

"They did not!" growled Knuckles "They did not just find the location of the emeralds did they?!"

"I'm afraid so." said Sally grimly "Charmy was the one who provided such information apparently given how he's been on Angel Island before and thus, will have the location stored in his mind."

"Well in that case, we'll have to put Angel Island on full alert." deduced Shade "We'll need to set up defences and protect the emeralds from an inevitable Martian invasion. We cannot let the Martians get all eight Chaos Emeralds or the Master Emerald."

"I know." said Sally "That's what I thought too. I strongly feel that the Martian's next move will be to search for Angel Island and find the emeralds so we will all go over to the island and prepared for their arrival."

"Sounds good to me Sally." said Sonic "I look forward to kicking Martian butts once again. Given how well we've done in this battle so far, we're gonna beat the Martians again and send them out of Mobius for good!"

"Yeah!" cried everybody in the room.

"That's what I like to hear." said Sonic proudly.

He then looked around the room and noticed that Shadow was nowhere to be seen.

"Uh…where's Shadow?" he asked.

"He's gone into another room." explained Rouge "He's listening to a communicator to see if he can hear what's going on with the Martians. You see, one of them actually hates the Martian way of life and is going out of her way to help us beat them. Her name's Myra and she isn't keen on hating peace and sees the Martian's vendetta as pointless so Shadow gave her his communicator and is now listening through another one to see if Myra's switched it on and thus, is allowing him to hear what's going on around her."

Sonic and friends started murmuring amongst each other.

"You mean…Myra, the hammer-wielding menace of the Martian fleet…is a traitor to the Martians?" gasped Cosmo "She hates the Martian way of life? I….I'm speechless!"

"Well I'm happy to hear that one Martian's got more sense than the others." said Cream "I'll be sure to thank Miss Myra for joining our side should we meet her."

"Just a pity not all the Martians have common sense like that "Myra" person." said Ruben grumpily "Oh well, one Martian that is against peace-hating is better than none at least. Maybe not all Martians are bad after all."

"According to Myra, she's not the only one that hates the Martian way of life." added Rouge "She told me some Martians still like peace and opted not to join the fleet and stayed back on Mars. So there maybe hope for those monsters yet."

"Yeah…there maybe." said Cosmo glumly "Still won't change the fact they destroyed my planet and my kind though…"

Then suddenly, Cosmo's sentence was interrupted by the sudden appearance of Shadow the Hedgehog. He burst into the room, startling everybody, and he looked like he had urgent news to tell everybody.

"Hey everybody! You're not gonna believe this!" cried Shadow, his voice sounding oddly frantic.

"So I guess your little Martian spy's been relying information to ya Shadow?" asked Sonic "What did you find out from her?"

"I put my communicator on," said Shadow, showing the Mobians the device "And I sat listening to it to see if Myra would switch the one I gave her on. Good thing for me, she did and I ended up over-hearing a discussion between the Martians. It doesn't sound very good though for apparently, another one's just come to Mobius and it's a Martian named Tyrahko…"

Silver and Blaze gasped, their eyes widening so much they nearly popped forward and out of their sockets.

"Tyrahko?!" cried Silver, getting out the book he had and quickly leafing through it "I saw that name mentioned several times throughout this book! There's little information about him though as most of the pages with him in it are smudged, illegible thanks to deterioration or missing. I was wondering who the heck he was and if he's important or not."

"I fear that he maybe important, maybe even the key Martian in this invasion." said Shadow, his eyes narrowed to a grey looking expression of concern "From what I overheard, Tyrahko wears a suit of armour that supposedly gives him god-like powers and is the reason the Martians won their conflicts in the past. BUT, I also managed to overhear his weakness. During the discussion I overheard, Diablo reminded Tyrahko that if his suit of armour's destroyed, he'll die instantly. So we know how to defeat the guy at least."

"Puh, he dies the moment we break his armour?" sniffed Sonic "Lamest. villain. EVER! Why on Mobius is that his weakness?"

"If I were to guess faker, he's probably a very old Martian, maybe even ancient, and that suit of armour's the only thing keeping him alive considering it gives him god-powers, and thus probably gives him immortality too." suggested Shadow "Still, I'm happy he HAS a weakness so we can stop him. A god-powered Martian is going to be the end of us all if we can't stop it."

"So when are the Martians preparing to attack?" asked a very worried Cosmo.

"Right about now." said Shadow darkly "They left just before I came in to tell you everything and are on their way now as we speak."

"Well then, let's prepare to deal with a god-like Martian guys!" cried Sonic "We've beaten regular Martians, we'll beat god-like Martians too!"

"Wait Sonic, you do realize what "god-like" means don't you?" asked Sally hastily "If this "Tyrahko" has god-powers, he can do just about anything to us. I bet he could send us all flying into the air with a wave of his hand. We'll have to be careful about all this."

"Aw come on Sally, we know how to beat him, just smash his armour to pieces." said Sonic cockily "We can do that easily."

"I don't think so Sonic." said Blaze, her face the embodiment of greyness "His armour may be tough to destroy. I wouldn't be too surprised if his armour CAN'T be destroyed, this won't be as easy as we think it'll be."

"It can be destroyed." noted Shadow "From what I heard, Tyrahko very nearly lost his life and he had to repair his armour after being hit by a planet-shattering bomb and it's not as strong as it used to be. But still, it may be tough to even so much as dent. We will have to put our all into this battle."

"I agree." said Blaze "Especially as mine and Silver's futures are at stake and we must make sure the Martians do not conquer Mobius otherwise us coming back here to warn you all of the pending invasion would have been all for nothing."

So with that all said and done, the Royal Fighters ran outside to deal with the oncoming Martians. The only ones not joining in this fight were Scott, Kiara and Charmy for they were still receiving medical treatment for their injuries under Count Nyder. The Royal Fighters left the sanctuary of Royal HQ, out through the city of New Mobotropolis and out into the surrounding grasslands that stretched out onto the forests of Green Hill Zone in the distance. The Mobians all stopped dead in their tracks and they stood and waited for the Martians were coming. They could see the oncoming ship in the distance and it was coming towards them. The ship hovered over Green Hill Zone and flew on until it completely cleared the forest and it touched down not far in front of the forest. Sonic looked confused. The Martians were keeping their distance for some reason. You would have thought they'd want to come up close and personal wouldn't you? And yet they were parking their ship about thirty feet away from them. Maybe this "Tyrahko" was dangerous and the Martians had to keep their distance while he fought? It could possibly be the reason why they were parking so far away. After the Martian ship touched down and landed, the boarding ramp lowered and something walked down the ramp and out into the open air, glowing red eyes being the only things the Mobians could work out. This of course was Tyrahko, his face-plate down once again, and after leaving the ship, he spread out his four wing capes and he took to the skies. He flew over to the Mobians and he landed just ten feet in front of them, his touch-down like a helicopter landing and making the Mobians stand back. Some of them like Wilson, Tails, Ruben, Amy, Cream and Cosmo grew nervous at the sight of the terrifying Martian but the rest just kept their cool, especially Sonic. Tyrahko's wing capes drooped back down behind his shoulders and back and he glowered at the Mobians with his ominous, blood-red eyes glowing like lit candles in a church.

"Citizens of Mobius, I am Grand Warlord Tyrahko of the Martian fleet, also know as the God of Warfare." announced Tyrahko in his sinister, raspy voice "I have journeyed from afar to reunite with my Martian brethren after I was left behind, presumed dead by them. I have arrived on this planet only to hear that the Martians have had a nasty experience with you all. Thus, I am here to relieve you all of your lives and make this planet a war-loving world of chaos, like the universe SHOULD be! You are best recommended surrendering now and saving yourselves a callous beat down. What is your response to this testimony?"

"I'll tell you what it is!" yelled Sonic "This!"

Sonic curled up into a blue, spiky ball and he spin-dashed directly at Tyrahko, hitting him squarely in the chest, most notably, the Energy Diamond in his chest. Tyrahko didn't even feel that attack though. He didn't even so much as flinch at that attack. It was as if Sonic hadn't even hit him! Sonic landed back on the ground and gaped at Tyrahko, unable to believe his attack hadn't worked. Tyrahko erupted into crazed, maniacal laughter at that.

"Do you seriously believe that a puny attack like that can harm a god-powered being such as myself?" he crowed "I am invincible with powers like the ones I have now and I shall use such powers to take you all to your graves. Do not say I didn't give you a chance to surrender peacefully like you peace-lovers usually do."

"We've taken on enemies much worse than you Tyrahko!" yelled Sally "We took down the Devatrons and they were much worse than your stupid Martians! We're winning this battle with the Martians and your presence here won't change a thing!"

"We'll see about that you foolish little child…" snarled Tyrahko, his voice like a thunderstorm.

Tyrahko suddenly lunged forward like a pouncing wolf and he drew his arm back, ready to give the Mobians a right good punch. The Mobians all quickly scattered and ran out of the way, leaving Tyrahko to just punch the ground instead. Tyrahko's punches however were no ordinary punches. When he punched the ground, he created shockwaves that spread out and blew his opponents of their feet. This shockwave did just that. The Mobians were sent hurling off their feet by the attack. But they weren't down for long. Sonic picked himself up and ran up to Tyrahko. The heroic blue hedgehog spin-dashed Tyrahko in the face but the god-powered Martian didn't even feel that blow. When you have god-powers, it is very difficult for someone to hurt you. Tyrahko responded to Sonic's attack by punching him as hard as he could. He sent Sonic hurling backwards and he crashed slap-bang into the wall surrounding New Mobotropolis. Shadow decided to go next and he spin-dashed Tyrahko in the back. But Shadow had more to offer then simply spin-dashing Tyrahko, he unleashed a shower of Chaos Spears on the Grand Warlord and then warped directly in front of them and unleashed a plethora of attacks directly in front of him. Tyrahko took all the blows though and he punched Shadow down onto the ground. Before Shadow could get up, Tyrahko kicked him away, sending Shadow skidding across the grass and getting a face full of dirt. Tails gasped at the downed hedgehogs and he decided to go next, even though he was downright terrified of Tyrahko. Tails flew towards Tyrahko but the Martian decided to show the Mobians just what kind of powers he has. He transformed himself into a mist of smoke, causing Tails to pass directly through him and after Tails did that, Tyrahko whooshed towards him and turned himself solid as he headed towards Tails. He rammed the fox down onto the ground and changed back to his normal self. Tails groaned in pain as he lay at the feet of Tyrahko. Knuckles and Shade were next to attack the insidious warlord and they let Tyrahko have it with their strongest attacks. Knuckles punched Tyrahko as hard as he could, making sure he was aiming for the Energy Diamond in his chest as he had a feeling that was Tyrahko's weak-spot, and Shade Blade-Rushed Tyrahko as hard as she could. Tyrahko took the attacks though and activated a barrier of energy that pushed Knuckles and Shade away from him and sent them flying backwards across the battlefield. Tyrahko cackled at the two echidnas and then he thrust his hands forward. He spouted out jets of fire from his hands and aimed them directly at the echidnas, hoping to roast them alive. But Ruben jumped in front of the echidnas and he thrust his hands forward, sending jets of water directly in the path of Tyrahko's fire. Ruben's water easily beat Tyrahko's fire but of course, Tyrahko had a counter-attack. He simply electrocuted Ruben and since water doesn't conduct electricity, Ruben got a pretty nasty shock from the god-powered engine of destruction that is Tyrahko. Ruben was shocked to the point of near-unconsciousness and Tyrahko was prepared to let him have it again but Blaze jumped in and threw huge spurts of fire at Tyrahko, making him back away. Tyrahko easily countered Blaze's attacks by throwing water at her and drenching the poor cat. Amy was next in the battle. She jumped up into the air and hammered Tyrahko directly on his helmet with her Piko-Piko Hammer. Tyrahko took the blow and he whacked Amy down onto the ground. Cream decided to provide a distraction for Tyrahko and she flew around him like a buzzing fly. Tyrahko growled at Cream as she flew around his head and he tried to hit her but he missed as Cream flew out of his way. Rouge took advantage of that by screw-kicking Tyrahko in the diamond on his chest. That attack seemed to have effected him for he growled in pain as she hit him. Looks like Knuckles had been right to think that the diamond in his chest was a weak spot. Tyrahko fumed at Cream and Rouge and he struck them both down with lightning. The two girls were brought down onto the ground by that attack. Silver made the next attack by grabbing Tyrahko with a psychokinetic grip. But Tyrahko effortlessly broke out of Silver's psychic grasp and he threw flaming rocks at Silver. Silver grabbed them with his psychokinesis and threw them back at Tyrahko. The rocks hit Tyrahko and the god-powered Martian seemed to be pained by the attacks. Silver began to wonder if his own attacks were his weakness too. Tyrahko growled at Silver and he threw fire at him. Silver couldn't grab fire with his psychokinesis so he was hit by the flames and sent hurling backwards. Bunnie Rabbot was next to attack. She flew in and walloped Tyrahko in the diamond on his chest with her robot arm. She had taken note of Rouge's earlier attack on said diamond and decided to hit him there. Tyrahko however retaliated by clasping his hands together and he fist-slammed Bunnie down onto the ground as hard as he could. As Bunnie hit the ground, Tyrahko also kicked her away. This made Geoffrey mad as he hated to see any harm come to Bunnie and he ran in, shooting darts at Tyrahko like mad. But alas, his efforts were futile for Tyrahko's armour was way too strong for mere stun-darts to penetrate. Tyrahko laughed at Geoffrey's futile attempts and he thrust his hands forward. Geoffrey was suddenly whisked off his feet by a powerful gust of wind that blew out from nowhere after Tyrahko thrust his hands forward. The skunk was sent flying a good distance across the battlefield by that gust of wind. Wilson and Mandy were next to attack and they bombarded Tyrahko with their respective weapons. Mandy punched him as hard as she could with her brass knuckle attachments and Wilson slashed at him with his spinning-blade but the weapons did no damage to Tyrahko. His armour was simply too strong for them. Tyrahko lashed out and kicked Mandy as hard as he could and then he spun around and kicked Wilson away. The dog and mouse hurled backwards a good distance across the battlefield after those kicks. Tyrahko cackled like a demon at his downed opponents but he wasn't done yet, there were still more to go. Sally, Nicole, Espio, Vector, Team Adabat and Team Nekronopolis were still left and they prepared to get into the battle too despite all what Tyrahko had just done. Over with the Martians, they were cheering like crazy for their warlord.

"Oh yeah! Give to them Tyrahko!" cried Marik.

"Show those Mobians why you're the most feared Martian ever!" cackled Diablo.

Myra wasn't cheering of course; she was standing at the back of the crowd and watching nervously as the Mobians put up their futile resistance against the invincible Martian in the black, red, gold and purple armour. She began to worry about the Mobians. Would they defeat Tyrahko? Or had they met their match with this one? As much as she was willing to help the Mobians fight off Tyrahko, she knew that fighting Tyrahko was suicide so she rightfully stayed put and didn't dare raise a finger to him. Back over to the fight, Sally and Nicole jumped in and decided to give Tyrahko what for. Sally had a new staff as her weapon, the staff now having a blade at the end like a naginata, whereas Nicole still had her usual fighting prowess. Sally twirled the staff around and stabbed at Tyrahko with it…to which the blade ended up breaking in two as it hit him. Sally gasped in horror and Tyrahko grabbed her by the head. He threw Sally at Nicole and the two girls were sent sprawling across the ground. Miranda Mongoose and her team decided to attack next. Miranda blasted at Tyrahko with her plasma cannon and the shots hit him quite heavily for they were powerful blasts. As Tyrahko was being blasted, Thunder & Bolt took the liberty of firing lightning bolts at him. Tyrahko maybe resilient but even he wasn't immune to being bombarded quite heavily. Miranda and the chipmunk brothers' shots were beginning to overwhelm him slowly but surely. Tyrahko however put an end to it all by summoning water from nowhere and sweeping the three off their feet with a giant wave of water. Kari the Rat ran in behind Tyrahko and walloped him with a huge wrench she often used as a weapon. Tyrahko took the blow and he backhanded Kari across the battlefield. Jessica the Cougar, Taran the Lynx and Felix the Peacock all ran in next and bombarded Tyrahko with attacks. Jessica through energy spears at him and also gave him energy enhanced punched, Taran shot at him with a new gun he got from the R.F.S. armoury and Felix battered him with feather clubs. But Tyrahko took all the blows as if they were nothing and he uppercut Jessica in the face to send her away from him. He then kicked Taran in the gut and elbowed Felix onto the ground. Vector lumbered onto the scene and he clasped his jaws around Tyrahko's arm. His powerful jaws didn't leave any dental impressions on Tyrahko's arm at all but he held on tight. Tyrahko yanked his arm out of Vector's grasp and walloped him with a fiery punch to the face. Espio was next and he gave Tyrahko his best round of ninjitsu moves. Tyrahko wasn't effected though and he punched Espio as hard as he could across the battlefield. Espio was sent flying backwards and he landed a good distance away from Tyrahko. Tyrahko cackled at all the Mobians as they struggled back onto their feet.

"Now you can see why I am the Grand Warlord of the Martians." he crowed "In my time, which to your undoubted amazement is a million years, I have brought citizens to their knees, reduced worlds to ashes and peace into warfare. Your planet will now share the same fate Mobians. You shall grow to marvel our way of life and you will realize that your beloved peace is truly overrated and a life of malice and mayhem is how the universe SHOULD live."

"We're not letting any stupid Martians take away our well-deserved freedom and happiness!" growled Sonic "We've fought long and hard to keep our world happy and free and you will not take all that away from us! Shadow, Chaos Blast him NOW!" he bellowed.

"Hope your stupid armour can withstand this Tyrahko for this is going be deadly!" sneered Shadow, taking off his inhibitor rings and handing them to Sonic.

With that said, Shadow rushed up to Tyrahko and unleashed a colossal Chaos Blast on him. Tyrahko was blown backwards by the powerful blast but he still remained standing and he tried his best to fight through the attack. Shadow was letting it all out on him and even a god-powered being like Tyrahko was having trouble withstanding it. But given his immortality, the blast wasn't going to kill him. Tyrahko shielded himself with his arms and then activated an energy barrier around himself to save himself from any damage he could potentially sustain from the onslaught. He then tried to fight against Shadow's Chaos Blast by expanding the barrier. Tyrahko was beginning to overcome the blast thanks to his superior power and Shadow was beginning to falter since his Chaos Powers were beginning to run out. After a while, the Chaos Blast finally died down and Tyrahko blew Shadow away with his energy barrier. Shadow landed down beside Sonic and Sonic quickly clipped his inhibitor rings back onto his wrists. Tyrahko took note of that for he was one to use weaknesses to his advantage and Sonic helped Shadow stand back up.

"That was a good effort Shadow." said Sonic "But not quite enough. We'll have to bring him down and then try again."

"I agree Sonic." said Shadow "Let's all charge him and bombard him at once! Even he won't be able to take us ALL on at once!"

With that said, all of the Royal Fighters charged towards Tyrahko and attempted to unleash all their might onto him. But Tyrahko was well prepared for that. He raised his arms above his head and a huge ball of magical energy began to form around his hands just above his head. Just as the Mobians all pounced on him, the energy ball fired enormous jolts of magical electricity and the Mobians were all blown back by them. They were all sent scattering across the battlefield and Tyrahko stood triumphantly above them all, cackling like a fiend from hell as he admired his downed opponents.

"You're just delaying the inevitable Mobians!" he laughed "You cannot defeat me! I have powers of the gods! No mortal being can begin to stand up to me and hope to make it out alive! You have all been defeated and now I shall take it upon myself to slaughter you all one by one!"

He strode over to Sonic and grabbed him by the neck. He hoisted Sonic up to his height and glowered at him with his glowing, blood red eyes.

"I'll start with you first Sonic the Hedgehog." growled Tyrahko "You are the main Mobian, the one that we should worry about the most so you can die first."

"Huh? How do you..ack…know my name?!" gagged Sonic.

"Marik told me everything about you, even your names and appearances so I know who you all are." explained Tyrahko "Now, how should I kill you? Burn you alive? Drown you on dry land? Electrocute you to death? Simply crush you with my bare hands? I'm spoilt for choice I am. Ha, ha, ha, ha…"

But suddenly, Tyrahko was attacked from behind by a giant silver bladed ball that spin-dashed him in the back and sent him hurling across the battlefield. He dropped Sonic as he was hit and he was thrown down onto the ground. Tyrahko picked himself up and he gazed in surprise at what had hit him. It was none other than Silver Sonic, one of Dr. Eggman's deadliest creations! The Mobians were all rather surprised to see him here too. What was he doing here? But Silver Sonic was not alone. He had friends with him. Metal Sonic, Metal Tails, Metal Amy, Metal Knuckles, Devion and Katherine were all with the giant silver killing machine and they were all ready to attack. Marik and the other Martians were shocked to see that Eggman's machines were here to give Tyrahko a hard time but they knew that Tyrahko would be able to deal with Eggman robots easily so it was no worry. Up in the sky above the robots floated Dr. Eggman in his Egg-Pod machine. Dr. Eggman had decided to join in with this battle and he had all his heavy artillery with him. Dr. Eggman smiled down at the Mobians and he waved at them as they gazed up at him.

"Hello Sonic and friends! I'm here to deal with a little "pest problem" you're all having right now!" he announced, cackling his usual, loud, demented cackle as his robots prepared to unleash hell on Tyrahko…

Story 135: The Wrath of Tyrahko Part 2

Things had taken a turn for the worse for Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends. True the Martian invasion wasn't proving to be much of an endgame scenario for the heroes given how they were winning the battle against the Martians so far but right now, the God of Warfare himself, Tyrahko had arrived on Mobius after searching for the Martians for a while now and he was about to bring his reign of terror to the world. Tyrahko had just gotten into battle with Sonic and friends and he had beaten all of them with little effort (he's got god powers, what do you expect?!). But before he could finished them all off, Dr. Eggman had arrived on the scene with his robotic minions. He had brought Metal Sonic, Metal Tails, Metal Amy, Metal Knuckles, Silver Sonic, Devion AND Katherine all at once with him and right now, they were preparing to sock it to Tyrahko and bring him down. Tyrahko glared at his new opponents and he narrowed his glowing red-eyes down to evil slits that truly made him look diabolical. The Mobians however were strangely happy to see Dr. Eggman here to help them out.

"Hey Eggman, you've given me a new experience today!" Sonic called up to the fat scientist "Being pleased to see you!" he added and he started laughing at his little joke.

"I hope you enjoyed that experience because it shall not happen again." sneered Dr. Eggman, looking down at Sonic and then looking back over at Tyrahko "Now then, who am I up against this time? A Martian who's not shown up in this battle yet or is this something differently entirely?"

"I am a Martian you flaccid, fatuous little human." snarled Tyrahko, glowering up at Dr. Eggman "I am Grand Warlord Tyrahko, the first ever warlord of the first ever Martian army and I am the weapon of mass destruction that proves to be our opponent's final curtain calls in our battles! I have powers of the gods and I am going to use my powers to bring Mobius to its doom! If you are helping the Mobians then you will be destroyed as well."

Dr. Eggman's face fell as he heard Tyrahko say all that. He had god-powers? Well this wasn't good, Dr. Eggman had not had any experience with god-powered beings before and if Tyrahko had god-powers, he could quite easily smash all his robots. But nevertheless, Dr. Eggman was not a man to give up so easily. He stood up to the Devatrons themselves and they were beyond any robot he'd ever made before so he was not going to let a god-powered being destroy him and his robots now. He was going to bring Tyrahko down or die trying. He'd helped to stop the Martians already, he was helping to stop this one.

"We'll see just how almighty and powerful you really are Mr. "I-have-god-powers-therefore-I-must-be-unbeatable" !" sneered Dr. Eggman "My Eggman robots will take you down Tyrahko! Heck, I even have the Devatron leader himself under my control so that alone makes me a force to be reckoned with!"

Sonic sighed as Eggman started gloating at Tyrahko like the egomaniac he is.

"Huh, those two may as well start having an ego contest while they're at it." groaned Sonic, wishing Eggman would stop gobbing away like he always does and just get on with killing Tyrahko already.

"Fifty Mobiums says Tyrahko loses it and then goes nuts on Eggman." muttered Tails, sharing Sonic's annoyance and disinterest in this battle of the egos that was going on right now.

As for Tyrahko, he glared at Devion and sneered at him. It was as if the very idea of a Devatron daring to stand up to him didn't phase him whatsoever. He remained as confident as ever about himself and this battle.

"A mere Devatron will not be enough to bring me down." crowed Tyrahko "They maybe invulnerable but invulnerability does not mean unbeatable. I will destroy your little Devatron pet human just as I will all your over infernal robot creations."

"We shall see Tyrahko for these robots are among the best I've built AND they bested your Martian soldiers before you arrived!" gloated Eggman "And now they'll bring you down just like…"

"WILL YOU TWO JUST FIGHT ALREADY?!" bellowed Sonic, finally losing his patience with the two gloating villains.

Dr. Eggman frowned rather comically at Sonic and he pointed directly at Tyrahko, taking Sonic's order to heart since having an ego-battle wasn't going to get anybody anywhere.

"Metals, Devion, Katherine, ATTACK!" screamed Dr. Eggman.

With that said, ALL the robots charged directly at Tyrahko at once and they all pile-dived him down onto the ground. Tyrahko maybe powerful beyond belief but even he can't fend off so many opponents all attacking him at once. Tyrahko was brought down onto the ground by the attacking robots but he managed to get out from underneath them by transforming into mist and seeping out from between the robots. He drifted away from the robots and reappeared in his proper form a good few feet away from them. After transforming back to normal, Tyrahko threw bolts of lightning at the robots. Katherine protected them all by activating her force-field and expanding it to a size great enough to shield all the robots, even Silver Sonic. After that was done, Katherine lowered the force field and Silver Sonic rocketed forward to attack Tyrahko. He curled up into a giant silver bladed ball and he spin-dashed towards Tyrahko. He hit Tyrahko and threw the god-powered Martian off his feet. Tyrahko however landed on his back and immediately flipped himself up and over back onto his feet after that hit. Silver Sonic hurled back towards Tyrahko and attempted to cleave him to pieces by Tyrahko jumped forward and punched at Silver Sonic. His punch was so powerful that he ploughed STRAIGHT THROUGH Silver Sonic like a car driving through a brick wall! The attack completely destroyed Silver Sonic and reduced him to smithereens littering the grasslands all around. Dr. Eggman was a little surprised that Tyrahko had strength like that. One punch reduced the biggest of his robots currently in the battlefield to smithereens? He definitely had to make a robot capable of withstanding punches that strong! Where was Titan Metal Sonic when you needed him? He could easily stand up to Tyrahko given his colossal size and power. But Eggman didn't have him available right now so he had to make do with what he got. Metal Sonic and his buddies Metal Tails, Metal Amy and Metal Knuckles flew in towards Tyrahko and they all clawed at him as viciously as they could. Their attacks didn't do much damage and Tyrahko smacked them all away with lightning whips he summoned from his hands. He rose his arm up high and he attempted to whip the Metal series robots but they all flew out of his way and they charged at him again. Metal Sonic scanned Tyrahko's data so he'd be able to withstand some of his attacks as he flew towards him. Metal Amy transformed her hands into Piko-Piko hammer hands and she walloped Tyrahko in the face with them. She then walloped him on the chest with both hammers, attempting to break the Energy Diamond in it for she sensed it was a weak spot. Tyrahko however didn't give Metal Amy the change to see if it was a weak-spot for he uppercut Metal Amy in the face and nearly took her head off in the process. He didn't give Metal Amy a chance to recuperate though, he punched her in the gut and completely destroyed her with that one punch. Metal Tails flew in behind Tyrahko and he inched his spinning propeller blades towards Tyrahko. He struck Tyrahko in the back and started churning away at his armour with his ferocious propeller blades spinning away dangerously. Tyrahko didn't feel the attack though for it wasn't enough to hurt him and Metal Tails' tail-mounted propeller blades weren't even enough to cut through his armour. Tyrahko turned sharply around and he swatted Metal Tails onto the ground as hard as he could. He then raised his foot and stomped on Metal Tails, smashing him to pieces instantly. Metal Knuckles jumped in and he began to unleash a juggernaut of punches on Tyrahko and he launched them all good and hard. Tyrahko took most of the punches from Metal Knuckles and he punched him back. Metal Knuckles' tough hide allowed him to withstand that punch though for he was still able to fight again. Metal Knuckles uppercut Tyrahko in the face and then attempted to plunge his clawed hands into Tyrahko's eyes. But Tyrahko summoned fire to his hands and he blazed Metal Knuckles back with a spurt of flames. Metal Knuckles ploughed through the fire but Tyrahko had already shifted position while he was blazing the robot Knuckles clone. Tyrahko fist-slammed Metal Knuckles on the top of his head and knocked him down onto the ground. Then he grabbed Metal Knuckles with both hands and proceeded to rip him in two with his bare hands. Metal Knuckles was now a pile of scrap. Tyrahko threw his remains on the ground and turned around to face Metal Sonic. Metal Sonic spin-dashed Tyrahko in the face and sent him staggering backwards. Then Devion crept up behind Tyrahko and began blasting him in the back with his gauntlet blasters. Tyrahko took the blasts but they did send him staggering from how powerful they were. Metal Sonic joined in with the blasting and Katherine drill-attacked Tyrahko just to add insult to injury as he was being bombarded.

"I have encountered the Martians before Tyrahko." purred Devion as he blasted him in the chest "I managed to raid their ship's fuel-supply with no problems at all and I killed two Martians named Jupiter and Thor while raiding the fuel. I will add you to my Martian body count."

"In the name of Dr. Eggman, you will be destroyed." droned Metal Sonic as he blasted Tyrahko's head with his torso laser.

Tyrahko couldn't take the bombardment he was receiving a minute longer so to save himself further punishment, he transformed into a cloud of mist yet again and he drifted towards Devion and Metal Sonic. His upper body reappeared and he walloped the two with both hands each as hard as he could. Metal Sonic spiralled through the air but remained airborne and Devion flipped himself over onto his feet and skidded to a halt. Tyrahko bared his claws and prepared to attack again.

"Your mechanical inventions are prodigious human, I commend you on their prowess and strength." crooned Tyrahko "But ultimately, your attempted termination of me is injudicious. For even they do not stand a chance against me."

"You'll change that tone of yours when Devion, Metal Sonic and Katherine separate your head from your body!" yelled Dr. Eggman "Finish him off now!" he bellowed down at Devion, Metal Sonic and Katherine.

"With pleasure master." crooned Devion, deploying his arm blades.

Devion rushed over to Tyrahko and began slashing at him with his arm blades. The blades didn't seem to be doing any damage to Tyrahko's armour unfortunately and Tyrahko uppercut Devion in the head to make him back off. Then he pounded Devion in the gut and shoulders but Devion retaliated with a swipe to the face, an uppercut and then a double slash to the faceplate. The faceplate was one of Tyrahko's weaker spots on his armour and it showed for Devion actually managed to leave some scratches on it. Tyrahko roared furiously and he pounded the ground with both fists. That caused an earthquake directly under Devion's feet and it made him stagger down onto the ground. Tyrahko then grabbed Devion by the head and tried to yank it directly off his body but given Devion's invulnerability, he couldn't. One cannot just simply yank a Devatron's head off its body after all. Devion just blasted Tyrahko in the face and made him drop him. Then Devion spun around and kicked Tyrahko directly in the face. The Mobians watched on tensely as the fight went on. This was weird for them all but they were actually rooting for the leader of the very race that gave them the hardest time of their lives right now. That was only because Devion was with the Mobians then against them right now and a god-powered Martian was easily the bigger threat of the two. Sonic in particular had his fists clenched and he was saying under his breath "Come on Devion, beat him, beat him!" repeatedly as the fight went on. Devion leaped up at Tyrahko and slashed at him, catching him across the face again but Tyrahko threw a ball of dark energy at Devion and blasted him off his feet. Then he summoned fired to his hands and started blazing at Devion with it. But Devatrons were heat-proof (of course) so Devion wasn't effected by the blaze. He picked himself up and slashed his way through the fire. But the fire was only a distraction. As Devion reached Tyrahko, the powerful warlord just slugged him as hard as he could in the gut and then he uppercut him in the face with both hands. Devion was sent hurling through the air by that blow and he was sent flying so high-up he almost landed on top of Dr. Eggman. Eggman moved out of the way, leaving Devion to plummet back down to earth with a heavy crash. Devion picked himself up only for Tyrahko to smack him back down with an energy-whip. Metal Sonic and Katherine decided it was time they got involved already so they joined in with this battle. Tyrahko spun around and swung the whip at the two robots but Katherine shielded herself with her barrier and Metal Sonic flew-up out of the way. Metal Sonic spin-dashed Tyrahko in the forehead, hitting the crown like structure above his eyes on his helmet and denting it. That attack legitimately hurt Tyrahko for getting hit in the forehead was a big blow to even someone like him. Metal Sonic then did a U-turn and he spin-dashed Tyrahko in the back. Katherine threw a lot of bladed discs at Tyrahko, none of them actually taking any effect on him, and then she drill-attacked him. Tyrahko shrugged off her blows and he threw balls of fire at her. Katherine's barrier protected her but the attacks were pretty powerful so they made her stagger a little as they hit the barrier. Tyrahko ran up to Katherine and punched her barrier. The punch was so powerful it made her shudder like mad inside the barrier. It was like being a fish in a tank with somebody just pounding on it as hard as they can. Tyrahko then punched the barrier again, this punch shaking Katherine so much that the barrier ended up switching off. Now she was unprotected, Tyrahko roundhouse punched Katherine across the battlefield. Katherine hurled a few yards away from Tyrahko after that attack and she lay on the ground face-down, wondering which part of her to rub better. It was amazing that Katherine hadn't fallen apart yet. Metal Sonic fumed at Tyrahko and he spin-dashed him as hard as he could. Tyrahko took the spin-dash as if it was nothing but Metal Sonic blasted him in the chest with his torso laser. More specifically, the Energy Diamond in his chest. Tyrahko bellowed in pain and he clutched his chest. It was as if the Energy Diamond was a part of him, literally a part of him and hitting it seemed to cause him great discomfort. Dr. Eggman observed this and put a thoughtful finger to his lips.

"That diamond in his chest seems to be a weak-spot." he noted "I wonder what would happen if it was removed…?"

He smiled to himself and then gave Metal Sonic and Devion an order.

"Devion, Metal Sonic! Rip that diamond out of his chest!" he roared "It seems to be his weakness so remove it immediately!"

The two obeyed and Metal Sonic got to it immediately for he was already at Tyrahko. Metal Sonic grabbed the diamond and yanked on it. Tyrahko yelled out a roar of pain as if just trying to remove the diamond was physically hurting him. As a matter of facts, it WAS physically hurting him. Tyrahko however grabbed Metal Sonic and threw him away like a baseball.

"Argh! How dare you try to remove this Energy Diamond?!" roared Tyrahko "That diamond has fused with my chest as of putting this armour on so it is now a part of me! Removing it will prove fatal for me!"

"Thanks for giving us the hint Tyrahko." sneered Sonic "So now we know how to defeat you once and for all. Royal Fighters! Let's get him!"

With that said, the Mobians all ran towards Tyrahko, ready to help defeat him for they felt that they had stood by long enough. Devion and Metal Sonic ran towards Tyrahko too. Tyrahko however just tensed his body up and clenched his fists. His body began to glow a malevolent shade of purple and black energy started surrounding him like a snake coiling around its prey. His eyes seemed to glow a brighter red colour as he tensed up. The Mobians, Devion and Metal Sonic all leaped towards Tyrahko, ready to pile-dive him and take the Energy Diamond out of his chest but Tyrahko thrust his arms into the air and let out all of the energy he was building up. Energy seemed to explode from his body and spread out in a wide sphere of chaos like a nuclear explosion. The blast blew everybody away and sent everybody hurling a great distance across the grasslands. Some Mobians landed near New Mobotropolis, some landed near the Great Forest, some landed near Green Hill Zone and some landed further away from the three locations. Dr. Eggman's jaw dropped at what Tyrahko had just done whereas the Martians all cheered happily (except Myra).

"Whoo-hoo! That's the way to do it Tyrahko!" cried Marik "You've beaten them all!"

"No wonder we always win our conflicts when he's around!" laughed Diablo "Tyrahko is truly an unstoppable force of mayhem!"

"This battle is in our favour now." crowed Natasha "And there's nothing anybody can do about it."

As for Tyrahko, after his attack had finished, he lowered his arms and started panting. Using a powerful attack like that really wore him down. Even god-powered beings weren't opposed to exhaustion. But Tyrahko still managed to remain standing and after catching his breath, he let out a titanic, maniacal laugh that was enough to make anybody's spines shiver. His laugh boomed all around like thunder and echoed ominously as he celebrated his obvious victory. As soon as he stopped laughing, he looked all around and saw all his opponents weakly trudging back towards him, trying their best to stay standing.

"I have won this battle you foolish little creatures." crowed Tyrahko "You may have fought prodigiously and your attempts are valiant and commendable, but ultimately you fall at the hands of Grand Warlord Tyrahko, the God of Warfare! Now you get the honours of sitting back and watching as I make this world quiver before me and remake it into a world of chaos, mayhem and warfare!"

"No…you won't!" grunted Sonic "For we've got a sure-fire ace up our sleeves! An ace that will guarantee your defeat spike-head!"

"They wouldn't happen to be seven mystical emeralds known as "Chaos Emeralds" would they?" sneered Tyrahko.

Sonic gasped in horror. How did Tyrahko know what the Chaos Emeralds were?! And how did he manage to guess that was what he was on about?

"Marik told me everything of this world, Chaos Emeralds included." explained Tyrahko "He tells me that they're full of great power and that they have the ability to control time and space. He described to me a time where he used one on you Mobians. He described to me that with a simple yelling of the words "Chaos Control" he could freeze time around you and also warp out of existence and back again. He also tells me that he learned from you Mobians that should all seven come together, a miracle should happen. And how fortuitous it is that Count Nyder apparently found out their location. Perhaps I should go over to this "Angel Island" and find your Chaos Emeralds and use them against you?"

"You stay away from Angel Island you freak!" roared Knuckles.

"Yeah! You're not getting our Chaos Emeralds!" yelled Sonic "Not a single one! Not even the new White Chaos Emerald we retrieved from the Black Arms!"

Tyrahko looked at Sonic in wonder. New Chaos Emerald? Did that mean there was actually eight Chaos Emeralds and not seven? Even Marik seemed surprised to hear this.

"The Mobians got a new Chaos Emerald?" he asked himself "So now they have eight Chaos Emeralds instead of seven? How?"

"Sonic said he got it from the Black Arms, whoever the heck they are." noted Natasha "I guess those "Black Arms" things probably stole one and they got it back?"

"Possibly." said Marik "Still, eight Chaos Emeralds is going to be a much bigger prize then seven. I bet eight Chaos Emeralds are going to be stronger then seven Chaos Emeralds." he added, rubbing his hands eagerly.

"This planet is full of surprises it seems." crooned Tyrahko "You have an extra emerald? Very well, I shall have to steal all eight of your Chaos Emeralds and use them against you."

"You won't be getting a single one you monster!" yelled Tails.

"We'll break that armour of yours open before you get a chance!" snarled Shadow.

With that said, Tyrahko suddenly raised his arms up and did something that nobody expected. He ended up trapping all the Mobians, Devion, Metal Sonic, Katherine and EVEN Dr. Eggman in green energy balls! Tyrahko had imprisoned them all with the simple use of his powers. Sonic tried to move in his energy ball but he quickly found out that he couldn't move all of the sudden. He was fixed in place by the ball of energy he was trapped in.

"Urgh…what gives?!" grunted Sonic, trying to break free of his energy ball but to no avail "I…can't…move!"

"Tyrahko's got us completely immobilized!" cried Sally "He's trapped us in some kind of magical energy sphere!"

"How astute of you to notice you simple-minded woman." sneered Tyrahko "Since you Mobians refuse to stand down, even though you KNOW you're beaten, I've decided to just stop you all dead in your tracks."

"Why don't you just kill us all?" growled Shadow furiously "Wouldn't that be a more logical idea than simply imprisoning us?"

Tyrahko glared at Shadow as if he'd just asked him a stupid question.

"Yes, killing you all would indeed be a more logical approach to end you all." purred Tyrahko, his voice rumbling like an earthquake as he spoke in a low pitch "But you Mobians have impressed me with your valour and resilience. So I am going to let you all live…as my little pets. And as I transform this world into a war zone, I will corrupt you all and make you all war-loving monsters that will live like a Martian and aid us in destroying peace everywhere."

"You can't do this to us!" shrieked Tails "You sick, twisted demon! You can't jus turn us all into war-loving monsters! We won't let you!"

"And what position are you in to tell me that I am not able to commence with whatever action I wish to perform?" snarled Tyrahko "You're all prisoners of the Martians, you are in no position to stand up to me."

"And you're not the boss of us so you're in no position to tell us how we live our lives, so we're even." retorted Sonic.

Tyrahko pretended he didn't hear Sonic's little quip. He couldn't be bothered to retort at Sonic for he knew that little jokers like him loved to be annoying with their little quips and smart mouths. Instead, Tyrahko just decided to continue crowing to his imprisoned victims.

"Once I reshape this world into a REAL world and make you all my pets, you will learn to embrace our way of life." said Tyrahko coldly "That is what we Martians have dedicated our lives to, waking the universe up and making it realize that peace is bad and a life of warfare is how one should live. Some planets have headed our words and joined us in our chaotic lifestyle, some have foolishly chosen to ignore us and seal their fates and you Mobians are among the ones who refuse to listen to our reasoning. Thus, by force, we will MAKE you like us!"

"Tyrahko, please, don't do this to us." pleaded Sally "We're innocent, freedom-loving beings who just want to live a life of peace and tranquillity. We don't wanna become savage, feral, destruction craving monsters like you Martians are. Please have a heart and just let us live how we want!"

Tyrahko just did the "come here" gesture with his index finger and brought Sally's ball over to him so he could look her squarely in the eyes. Sally began to grow nervous as Tyrahko stared her down. Never in her life had somebody looked so terrifying to her and made her feel so intimidated. Tyrahko was quite simply the most terrifying thing Sally had ever come face to face with.

"Do you know why we Martians are trying to get peace-lovers to see things through our eyes?" said Tyrahko, his voice almost a dangerous whisper "Because we do not want other races in the universe to suffer the same fate we ALMOST suffered ourselves."

"What in the world are you talking about?!" asked a very confused Sally "Is this to do with your deep prejudice against peace?"

"It is indeed dear child." Tyrahko said softly "You know that "All it takes is one bad day and you change forever"? Well I was one of the unfortunate people to suffer through one of those bad days…A million years ago, I was one of the first Martians to ever walk upon Mars…"

"Wait, what?! You're a million years old?!" blurted Sonic, clearly unable to believe he just heard Tyrahko say that "Whoa, never would have expected that! If I were to guess, that god-armour's been keeping you alive all those years hasn't it?"

"I will overlook your unwarranted interruption for now you impertinent little imp." snapped Tyrahko, glaring at Sonic but quickly turning back to Sally "Now as I was saying: A million years ago, I was one of the first Martians to ever walk upon the planet of Mars. The Martians were a peaceful, prosperous race back then, me included. I was one of the more violent Martians but not to the extent I am now. For over 100 years, the Martians lived a peaceful live of prosperity and tranquillity. Until the day we were nearly exterminated by a race of war-lovers. They were known as the Hyadarnns and they loved to prey upon the weaker races for sick, twisted, mindless entertainment. We were so pacifistic that we were ill-prepared for combat. I became the Martian to rile up an army and thus the first ever Martian army was born with me as the exemplary figure of the army. I designated myself Grand Warlord and battled against the Hyadarnns. But are efforts were ultimately in vain. We had just geared up too late to make a difference. The Hyadarnns spared us for they ultimately decided we were not worth wiping out and that the efforts made by the army made us worth sparing. After they left, I went insane with grief. Mars was desecrated all over and only the members of my army and me were left. Innocent lives all over had been heartlessly and ruthlessly taken away from us with relentless fire and barbaric destruction. Something snapped in me that day and I realized why all this had happened to us. Our pacifistic ways had rendered us weak and defenceless and thus, we were incapable of saving ourselves from this unwarranted destruction that befell our world. So I riled up the last remaining Martians with my strong words of eloquence and decided that we would not be pacifists anymore, we would be war-lovers and be the masters of warfare. So over the years, the Martians began to repopulate for nothing arrived to wipe the remaining ones out, then we began taking vigorous exercises and gruelling trials over the months until finally, we became what we are today, war-lovers and anti-pacifists. Our first act was to exact revenge upon the ones who rendered us an endangered species for a while. We wiped the Hyadarnns out in days thanks to our newfound fighting skills and battle tactics. Shortly after defeating the Hyadarnns, I ended up finding the thing that changed me forever… this suit of armour. Said to have been made by god-like entities that have long since vanished, I put it on myself and it gave me powers of the gods. I became immortal and given power beyond anything I ever imagined. The only catch was because of my deteriorating health at the time of finding it, I am forever encased in it for should I remove it, I lose my powers, time will catch up to me and I will become nothing but dust. It was a worthy price to pay for having such power though for over the million years I've been alive, I've brought the Martians victory in every conflict we had. I got some worlds to turn against peace and crave our life-styles. Some worlds that said no to us were forced to become like us and if that didn't work, we simply destroyed them. And so that is the story of how the Martians became what they are now and why we so rightfully hate peace. We hate peace because we were almost killed by it and we only wish to spare the rest of the universe a similar fate."

The Mobians had listened to Tyrahko's story and they were all pretty surprised to hear all this (except Silver and Blaze, they already knew the story for Marik had told them it but not all the details).

"So that's why you hate peace…" said Cosmo "You were too peaceful to the point you were almost wiped out."

"Yes…but that does not justify your actions in the slightest." said Sally in a very cold manner "You could still be peace-lovers you know. All you had to do really was make strongholds and defences to protect yourselves from total annihilation in the future. Just because you were nearly wiped out, it doesn't mean you have to be anti-pacifists. Look at us, we're peace-lovers but we have an army to fight off any problem we encounter. All you had to do was do the same Tyrahko. Please understand what I'm saying."

"I do understand what you are saying." said Tyrahko coldly "And I do not heed your pontificating in anyway. Why should I go back to the life that almost got my entire race killed?! And what good would reforming do? The races we've terrorized over the years will just turn on us and attempt to exterminate us all! Not to mention, nobody would be willing to trust us and they would keep waiting for us to stab them in the back. So it is saddening to say that it is much too late for redemption now little girl."

"No, it is not too late!" cried Sally "Please Tyrahko, anyone can redeem themselves, no matter how barbarous they are! Please, listen to me and…"

"This discussion is at an end!" snarled Tyrahko, shoving Sally back in line with all the other imprisoned Mobians.

"When are you gonna learn Sally that sweet-talking baddies just isn't going to work?" sighed Sonic pitifully, remembering Sally's failed attempt to redeem Devion just like she'd just failed to redeem Tyrahko right now.

Sally scowled at Sonic but said nothing. Next time she was face to face with a bad-guy, she was not going to try and redeem them at all. It just seemed like her attempts will forever be in vain. Now that the discussion was over, Tyrahko re-addressed all the Mobians.

"Now then, my first act of dooming you all and subjugating your world to malice and mayhem will be to find your "Chaos Emeralds" and see what power is in them." he announced "If they are powerful gems, I shall use them in my attempts to reformat the universe into a life of warfare, a life that everybody SHOULD be living."

"Might I suggest that we use Sonic to find the Chaos Emeralds?" asked Marik, standing forward "He'll know where this "Angel Island" is and where on said island the emeralds will be located. Allow me to be the one to keep an eye on Sonic as he fetches the emeralds for us."

"Very well Marik, I shall grant you the task of being Sonic's supervisor as he gets the Chaos Emeralds for us." said Tyrahko, bringing Sonic towards him.

"Don't bother because I'm not gonna do it." muttered Sonic "I'd rather rot in this energy-bubble thingy then doom my own planet."

"If you do not give us the Chaos Emeralds Sonic then I will change my mind about letting you live and instead, simply destroy you all." said Tyrahko coldly.

"I'd rather be dead then be a monster like you!" shouted Sonic "I will not take any of you to Angel Island and…"

Then Sonic stopped dead in his tracks and suddenly thought on something. Wait a minute…why not go over to Angel Island and get the Chaos Emeralds? The Chaos Emeralds were just what they needed to win this battle with Tyrahko. If he could just get them and turn super then he could just as easily go to town on Tyrahko and destroy his armour, defeating him for good and rendering the Martians the losers of the war. Sonic thought on this matter and realized that he had just come up with a brilliant idea. An idea that would guarantee the Martian's defeat and Mobius' third victory against alien invaders. Sonic smiled to himself and realized what he had to do. He suddenly changed his expression to an apologetic one and looked up at Tyrahko with innocent eyes.

"Actually, I will take Marik to Angel Island and show him where the Chaos Emeralds are." said Sonic "I'm sorry I tried to defy you but I've realized that I'm making a mistake and now I'm gonna rectify it. I'll do as you command Tyrahko."

" WHAAAAATTTT?! " screamed all the Mobians from inside their energy ball prisons.

They could not believe what Sonic was doing. Had the supersonic hedgehog lost his marbles at last? Even Marik raised an eyebrow of suspicion at this. Why did Sonic suddenly change his attitude? Something was wrong here and he could sense it. But he wasn't going to let himself be foiled by Sonic. He'd keep a close eye on Sonic and make sure he doesn't do anything dodgy. Tyrahko stared at Sonic in a moment of incredulousness but he shrugged it off and turned to Marik.

"Well…it seems Sonic has finally come to his senses." he said "But just to be on the safe side, get the laser cuffs, the wrist and ankle models. He must have some form of restraint so we can be double sure he isn't trying to trick us."

Marik hurried off back to the Martian ship to obey his order.

"If it helps Tyrahko, I know a REALLY quick way of getting to Angel Island." said Sonic, adding more to his little act in order to keep the Martians in the dark about his true motives "My friend Silver has a warp ring and I can use that to warp over to Angel Island. Consider it like "opening a door to another location in thin air" if you will."

"Are you crazy Sonic?!" screamed Silver "I'm not letting you have my warp ring so you can go over and…"

He quickly stopped himself when he caught Sonic's face and saw that the blue hedgehog was winking to him. Silver quickly grasped what Sonic was up to. The hedgehog had a plan and it seemed like a very good plan too. Silver decided to go along with Sonic's idea since he was getting some idea on what Sonic was plotting.

"…uh I mean, OK Sonic, I'll give you my warp ring." said Silver, playing along with Sonic's act "It'll make your trip to Angel Island a lot faster and Tyrahko gets the Chaos Emeralds faster."

"Silver?! You cannot be serious!" shrieked Blaze "Are you trying to make sure our future stays the way it is?! We came here to PREVENT it from being doomed, not reinforce it's doomsday moment…"

Silver then winked at Blaze to give her the idea that he knew what he was doing and that he was going with what Sonic said. This caused Blaze to instantly silence herself and say nothing more than.

"…uh ahem, excuse my outburst. I was wrong to do so."

The other Mobians looked baffled by this obfuscating thing that was going on right now. What was going on all of the sudden? Sonic has a change of heart, then Silver changes his attitude and now Blaze is doing so?! What the heck was up with those three?! Was something coming over them at this moment? As for Tyrahko, he did seem to pick up on what was going on and he released Sonic and Silver from their energy balls so that Silver could give Sonic the warp ring and Sonic could go over to Angel Island with it. Silver walked over to Sonic and handed him the warp ring. He kept his head close to Sonic's and whispered into his ear as Sonic took the warp ring.

"This idea of yours better work or we're doomed!" hissed Silver.

"Trust me Silver, the hedgehog has this completely under control . " whispered Sonic confidently.

"Do not silently converse to each other!" snapped Tyrahko "You're arising suspicions within me as you do that!"

"Sorry." lied Sonic.

Now Silver had given Sonic his warp ring, Tyrahko resealed Silver back in the energy ball and put him back with the others. Sonic stood patiently around, waiting for Marik to come back with the laser cuffs. After a minute of waiting (which to Sonic is too long to be waiting for as he's not much of a waiter), Marik eventually returned with two metal spheres in his hands. They were the generators for the laser cuffs and all Marik had to do was place them between Sonic's wrists and ankles. Sonic held his hands out and Marik placed one sphere in between his wrists. The sphere generated a pair of blue lasers that wrapped around Sonic's wrists like a pair of handcuffs and they held his hands tightly together. Then Marik placed the other sphere around Sonic's ankles and the sphere generated lasers that wrapped around his ankles. Sonic wouldn't be able to run now. Marik grabbed Sonic by the arm with his metal hand and he jammed his face into Sonic's face, the blue hedgehog now showing any signs of being intimidated.

"Don't get any ideas while we're on Angel Island!" snarled Marik "Or you're dead!"

He then proceeded to give Sonic a nasty jolt of electricity just to further enhance his warning. Sonic yelped in pain but luckily for him, Marik didn't keep it up for long so he didn't get much pain from him. Sonic was tempted to rub his arm better but given the laser cuffs around his wrists, he wouldn't be able to rub his arm better.

"Yeah…ouch…I think I get the hint rocks-for-brains." grunted Sonic "Just keep your claws off me as I lead you to the emeralds!"

"Whatever." sighed Marik "Just get on with it Sonic!"

Sonic frowned at Marik but he didn't bother retorting as all that would end up doing is wasting valuable time, time that should be spent getting rid of the Martians. So Sonic flicked Silver's warp ring up into the air and the warp ring expanded to twice its size. It opened up a portal from the grasslands around New Mobotropolis to Angel Island and Marik eagerly stepped through it. Sonic stepped in after him and the warp ring shrunk down into nothingness after Sonic stepped through, leaving no trace of its existence. Tyrahko was quite surprised at this. He'd never seen anything like a warp ring before. The Mobians certainly have some fascinating gear don't they?

"That warp ring is intriguing…" purred Tyrahko "I may have to steal one and use it for myself."

That gave Blaze some very bad visions right now for Silver's warp ring was a Super Warp Ring, meaning it can open portals to other zones as well. If Tyrahko had something like that, he could probably warp to alternate universes and bring his reign of terror to other parts of the multi-verse. But hopefully, that wouldn't happen since Sonic seemed to have a plan and Silver was contributing to it by letting Sonic have the warp ring. The other Mobians didn't seem to know what to think about all of this. Was Sonic out of his mind or did he have a plan of some kind? Whatever it is though, the Mobians would have to wait for there was no way of seeing what was going on over at Angel Island and they couldn't come to Angel Island and see what was happening for they were trapped in Tyrahko's energy ball prisons so all they could do was wait. It would be an agonizing wait with suspension rising as time went by but that was all the Mobians could do right now, there was nothing else they could do so waiting was all there was to it. They just hoped that Sonic hadn't gone off the deep end like it seems he has at the moment…

Angel Island, a true historical relic and valuable tourist attraction on the face of Mobius. Once part of the earth, it now floats above the ground and is an amazing sight for anybody who sees it. Ever since Knuckles and Shade had left the island to help fend off the Black Arms and fight off the Martians, the island had been floating around peacefully and had remained undisturbed since Knuckles & Shade's departure. But now, the peace was about to be broken for a warp ring opened up and out stepped Sonic and Marik. Sonic had chosen his position carefully so that he wouldn't warp him and Marik near the Master Emerald and let Marik see it. He could do without Marik trying to steal the Master Emerald after all. The place they had warped to was a fair distance away from the Master Emerald so Marik would never see it. After they had stepped through the warp ring, it shrunk back down to size and Marik seized it so Sonic couldn't use it as a quick get away or attempt to sneak off with it. Sonic didn't mind this though for he had a plan and it was going to work to perfection once he executed it. As Marik put the warp ring in his pocket, he looked around and gaped at what he was seeing. When Nyder had mentioned Angel Island to him, he did not picture an island that floated above the ground like it was doing now. This was beyond what he had seen on Mobius before. He'd seen so much and yet so little at the same time during his time on Mobius. Marik gazed out into the horizon and look down at the ground, which was a few feet down from where they were now.

"Well, I'll be blown…" gasped Marik "Angel Island…floats in the sky?! How can an island like this just float in the air like it is doing now?!"

"That's for me to know and you to find out." said Sonic grimly "Now come on, the Chaos Emeralds are this way."

Marik did not wait to be asked twice. He eagerly followed Sonic as the blue hedgehog headed off into the woods to lead Marik to the tomb where the Chaos Emeralds were kept, all eight of them. Given how Sonic had laser cuffs around his ankles, he couldn't just simply run to the tomb and get the Chaos Emeralds, he had to walk to the tomb with Marik following his every step. It really irked Sonic that Marik had to be following him like this but he was going to play along with it for now since he had a plan and he knew what he was going to do. Sonic trudged slowly through the woods with Marik just behind him, pushing plants and vegetation out of the way. As they headed on through the woods, Marik began to grumble to himself since he hated plants and pushing through them was an annoyance to him. What he wouldn't give to have some Toxic Marsroth on him right now, he'd be able to kill the forest in seconds with some of the deadly substance on him right now. Marik pushed through a tree branch only for it to swing back and whip him across the face as he pushed through it. Sonic couldn't resist the urge to laugh at that so he chuckled at Marik. Marik ignored Sonic and continued following him. After a good few minutes of walking and trudging through plant life, Sonic and Marik eventually arrived at the tomb where the Chaos Emeralds were kept. He remembered it all so well, that huge slab of stone in the ground that hid the Chaos Emeralds deep down underground and masked their energy signatures so they couldn't be tracked by anything. Sonic pointed at the slab of stone.

"They're down in that tomb." said Sonic "All eight of them."

"Thank you, now open it for me." ordered Marik, not willing to trust Sonic to go down and get the emeralds himself "I'll go down and get them once you've opened the tomb."

"Fair enough." said Sonic, pressing on the slab of stone and opening the tomb up for Marik.

The tomb opened up slowly but steadily and the bright, luminous light of the Chaos Emeralds shone out from deep down. Marik's face brightened at the sight of the Chaos Emeralds and he eagerly jumped down in order to get the emeralds. He had no seen them since the Chaos Emeralds hunt last year so he was quite happy to be seeing the emeralds again. He was still surprised at the fact Sonic and friends now had eight Chaos Emeralds but he didn't care, eight Chaos Emeralds was bound to be better than seven. As Marik collected up the Chaos Emeralds, Sonic saw to freeing himself from the laser cuffs. He found a large stone and he slammed it on top of the laser-cuff sphere between his ankles, destroying it immediately and freeing his legs. The one between his wrists was going to be harder considering he couldn't just simply raise his arms and smash the stone on top of it. Instead, Sonic started banging the laser-cuff sphere on the stone as hard as he could. He gave it a good few pounds before finally breaking it and freeing his wrists. He could now move his arms and legs as perfectly as he could before. He had managed to free himself from the laser cuffs just in time too for Marik had just come out of the tomb with all eight Chaos Emeralds in his arms.

"Aah…I've got all the Chaos Emeralds." crowed Marik "Especially this new, white Chaos Emerald you got from these "Black Arms" things you spoke of, whatever they are. I wonder how much power eight Chaos Emeralds hold?"

"You're not gonna find out because I'm gonna use them!" yelled Sonic, spin-dashing Marik in the back and knocking him down onto the ground, causing him to drop all the Chaos Emeralds.

Marik groaned in pain and he clutched his aching back. He had almost forgotten how much a spin-dash from Sonic hurt given how he hadn't fought him for a while. Sonic quickly grabbed the Chaos Emeralds and was ready to turn super with them but Marik picked himself up and electrocuted him with his metal hand.

"I knew you were plotting something Sonic!" growled Marik "Well that trick of yours isn't going to work so you've just wasted both of our times! Before I take the Chaos Emeralds to Tyrahko, I'll get rid of you first!"

He kept up the electrocution in hope of finally finished off Sonic. It would take a while though since Marik's electrocution wasn't strong enough to kill someone very quickly but Marik was willing to keep it up until Sonic was dead. Besides, Sonic couldn't do anything about it, nobody could stop Marik from shocking Sonic and Sonic was being electrocuted, what could he do about it? Nothing, that's what! Then suddenly, Sonic did something that Marik never would have expected. He actually fought Marik's electrical attacks and got back up onto his feet! It was paining Sonic dearly but he was putting all his strength into just fighting Marik's attack. Sonic then curled up into a ball and spin-dashed Marik away, sending the Martian hurling backwards into a tree. Sonic grimaced and he clutched himself, the electricity still crackling through his fur but he was mostly alright for the moment.

"Man, I almost forgot how bad that felt!" grunted Sonic "Well, Marik's down now so I can get the Chaos Emeralds, turn super and deliver Tyrahko's big send off."

But Sonic wasn't safe yet. Marik picked himself up and tried to zap him again but Sonic jumped out of the way just in time. Marik then zoomed in on his jet shoes (he got a new pair after Silver wrecked his old ones remember?) and he karate-chopped Sonic across the face. Sonic punched Marik back and then grabbed Marik by wrapping his arms around Marik's arms. But Marik head-butted Sonic in the face to make him let go of him and Sonic staggered backwards. Marik then spun around and walloped Sonic across the cheek with a powerful punch and kneed him backwards towards the now empty tomb. Marik then attempted to dropkick Sonic but Sonic jumped out of the way and kicked Marik down into the tomb. He quickly pushed the stone slab over the tomb in an attempt to trap Marik inside the tomb but Marik wasn't trapped for long for he simply used Silver's warp ring to warp himself out. The moment he stepped out though, Sonic punched him across the battlefield and sent him head first into a tree. The warp ring ended up shrinking down back to normal size and lying down on the ground for nobody was there to catch it. Then Sonic spin-dashed Marik five-times over and threw him into another tree. Marik lay against the tree, grimacing but still very much on his feet and able to carry on fighting. Sonic ran towards Marik only for Marik to step out the way and leave Sonic to run accidentally into the tree. Then Marik jumped up and grabbed a low hanging tree branch. He swung himself forward and kicked Sonic in the face. Sonic swiped helplessly at him like somebody trying to swat a fly but Marik raised his legs up out of the way so Sonic couldn't get him and he kicked Sonic directly on top of his head. Sonic ignored the pain long enough to spin-dash Marik directly in the gut and knock him down off the branch. Marik landed down on the ground away from the tree but he saw a log lying nearby. A very big log that could easily crush somebody if it landed on top of them. Marik picked up the log and threw it at Sonic. The log was hurling towards Sonic in a vertical position. Luckily for Sonic, the log had was hollow inside and had holes so Sonic merely spin-dashed directly through the log like a marble running through a tunnel. He went straight through the log and ended up spin-dashing Marik in the gut. Marik fumed angrily at Sonic and he ran towards another tree. Sonic followed Marik and the Martian jumped up and grabbed onto a huge tree branch. He pushed hard onto the branch and caused it to snap at the base but not completely break away. The branch ended up swinging down and smacking Sonic in the face like a golf club. The blue hedgehog staggered backwards and Marik kicked the branch as hard as he could, breaking it off completely and sending it crashing down on top of Sonic. Marik crowed at Sonic as he jumped down from the tree and stood over him.

"You're finished! And your pathetic friends are next!" crowed Marik.

He grabbed Sonic by the neck and prepared to electrocute him but Sonic socked him in the eye, making Marik let go of him and allowing him to push Marik off of him and stand back up. Sonic then spin-dashed Marik as hard as he could into another tree. The attack left Marik winded and finding it hard to stand up. Sonic then turned around and ran to grab the warp ring. He picked it up but Marik zapped him in the back and made him drop it. Sonic just retaliated with a homing attack to the head that knocked his helmet off. Sonic then kicked Marik in the cranium, causing Marik to scream at the top of his voice for Sonic had hit the sensitive bony lumps on his head. Marik felt like his head was on fire due to how much the pain in his skull was hurting. Now Marik was stunned, Sonic grabbed the warp ring and opened it up behind Marik. He grabbed Marik by the jacket just after the Martian put his helmet back on and threw him directly through the warp ring. The warp ring was opened up to where they had been before they left so Marik would end up back with Tyrahko, the Martians and his friends. The warp ring closed up after Marik vanished through it and Sonic grabbed it so it would stay on his side and not go to Marik. Sonic sighed happily to himself and he twirled the warp ring around his finger.

"Whew, got rid of him at last." he said "Now where was I? Oh yes, Tyrahko's big send off…"

Now Marik was gone, Sonic scooped up the dropped Chaos Emeralds and he held his arms out. The eight Chaos Emeralds all levitated slowly up from his hands and started to spiral around his body. Sonic beamed happily for he always loved it when he super-powered. Sonic tensed himself up as the Chaos Emeralds began to spin around his body slowly but steadily. The speed of the spiralling Chaos Emeralds began to slowly but steadily increase as they spun around Sonic until the Chaos Emeralds became nothing more than a coloured blur all around him. Sonic's fur then changed from blue to gold and his quills pointed up. Super Sonic was here once again and he was ready to give Tyrahko a right royal beat down! Super Sonic felt a little different than usual though. The eighth Chaos Emerald had added some extra-power to him in his transformation so he was a little stronger than before. Super Sonic took to the skies gleefully and he stretched his arms out wide, the power of the Chaos Emeralds pulsing through his veins.

"Oh yeah! It's good to be super again!" cheered Sonic "Now let's give Tyrahko a little supersonic showdown…"

With that said, he rocketed off through the skies and headed back to New Mobotropolis. Boy the Martians would be horrified when he came onto the scene and boy would they be defeated at long last! The Martian's reign of terror was about to end now Super Sonic was here…

Oh boy, oh boy, oh boy! This is it folks, the exicting Martian saga comes to a titanic conclusion for the super showdown with Tyrahko is coming next time and there's more than just Sonic joining in with this battle! :D Tune in next time for the Martian saga's thrilling and EPIC conclusion! :D :D :D

The End of the Martians

Story 136: The End of the Martians

Things were getting tense for the Mobians as time ticked slowly by and they waited for Sonic the Hedgehog to come back with the Chaos Emeralds and Silver the Hedgehog's Super Warp Ring. Sonic had been sent over to Angel Island with Marik the Martian monitoring him under the notion of getting the Chaos Emeralds for Grand Warlord Tyrahko, the God of Warfare. Unbeknownst to all but Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, they had no idea that Sonic actually had a plan. A plan to get the Chaos Emeralds without losing them to the Martians and having them end up in Tyrahko's grasp. They had been hoping that Sonic knew what he was doing but given how they had no idea what Sonic was up to, they couldn't be so sure about all that. Silver and Blaze were the only ones who had any idea though for Sonic had given a hint to Silver and Silver had passed it onto Blaze. And yet even they were sharing the other's anxiousness in this waiting moment. Would Sonic get the Chaos Emeralds and slip past Marik? Or was he bound to fail given the fact he had been fitted with laser cuffs and thus, wouldn't be able to do anything to resist Marik? One thing was for sure, this wait was getting more and more tense and agonizing as it was going on. That was always the sinister thing about waiting, you never know when it'll end and how suddenly it will end, making it an unpredictable force to be reckoned with. Patience maybe a strong virtue but patience doesn't make a wait any less tense. Tyrahko seemed to be quite patient though for he was just standing around with his arms folded, the wind softly blowing over him and spreading his capes out. Tyrahko was renowned for his patience. He often stood still for hours just waiting for his victim to show up, often perched upon something like an owl in a tree when waiting.

"Oh man…the suspense is killing me!" whined Tails the Twin-Tailed Fox "What's taking Sonic and Marik so long to get back?!"

"Knowing Marik, once he finds the sodding tomb, he'll dispose of Sonic and make off with the emeralds himself." muttered Knuckles the Echidna "It'd be just like that little creep to do something like that."

"I hope he doesn't do that." said Cosmo the Seedrian worriedly "I've lost my kind, I don't want to lose a good friend of mine too."

"You got that right Cosmo." said Amy Rose "I hope my Sonic knows what he's doing. I mean, why would he willingly give Tyrahko the Chaos Emeralds? That's way out of his character, my handsome hero's got a plan and I know he has!"

"Oh really?" said Mandy Mouse, her face the embodiment of grimness "What are you, psychic all of the sudden? I don't think even you can tell what goes on in the blue-dude's head Amy."

"Well Mandy, Amy does have a legitimate point." said Tails "Sonic would never give the Chaos Emeralds to his worst enemies. I bet he's got something in mind."

"Not that it'll do him any good now he's restrained." sighed Blaze "I have a nasty feeling Tyrahko probably had Marik do that as an act of contingency. Make sure Sonic can't back-stab Marik and just take the emeralds himself."

"Well, we'll just have to see what happens." said Silver "I do hope that Sonic comes back alive or I've just lost mine and yours' ticket back home. If I can't get that warp ring back then we won't be able to leave this time, go back to the past again and try again to make sure the Martian invasion never happens or goes in the Martians' favour."

"Indeed." said Blaze sadly.

Tyrahko unfortunately was eavesdropping on the Mobians' conversation and what Silver had just said to Blaze caught his attention.

"Go back to the past again…? Are you saying that you and the feline woman aren't from this time period?" asked Tyrahko.

"Yes, I am. We're from the future and we came back here to make sure this invasion goes belly-up for you." explained Silver.

"Mobius' future is a wreck and we're from 200 years in the future." added Blaze "We're constantly striving to fix the catastrophe that ended the world and has left Mobians dying out and we're theorizing that the Martian invasion is the key factor in Mobius' doom so we've come back in time to help prevent you and the Martians from winning."

"We seem to have changed a good few things about the invasion already." said Silver, looking at the book he had with him "For starters, Count Drago isn't here because I ended up unintentionally killing him*, second me and Blaze ended up fighting Marik and Sierra in Soleanna instead of Sally & Nicole and there's a part where the Martians take over Castle Acorn but that hasn't happened yet. Mind you I think its just because they're all waiting around waiting for Sonic to come back with the Chaos Emeralds. Speaking of Chaos Emeralds, they're not mentioned at all in the book although it is missing a few pages so as well as you Tyrahko, the book might be missing pages detailing the Chaos Emeralds' role in this invasion."

"Interesting." purred Tyrahko "I guess that's how you Mobians managed to give the Martians a hard time. You and your female accomplice obviously came back in time to warn them about us coming and prepare the Mobians for our arrival."

"We did but I don't think we made that much difference." said Blaze dully "The events of the invasion have still mostly gone as foretold in the book. If Silver manages to get his Super Warp Ring back, we'll have to go EVEN FURTHER back in time to make sure that you monsters never win this battle."

"Well in that case, I will see to it that your "Silver" friend never gets his warp ring back." growled Tyrahko "When Marik and Sonic return, I will take the warp ring and keep it for myself. You will never interfere with time again…"

Then suddenly, much to everybody's surprise, a warp ring opened up not far away from Tyrahko and out of the warp ring shot Marik the Martian! After stunning him in the fight on Angel Island, Sonic had taken the warp ring and thrown Marik back through it to get him out of the way while he got the Chaos Emeralds and turned super with them. Marik hurled across the grass and he skidded to a rather painful halt across his side. The Martians all gasped in amazement at what had just happened and Tyrahko just stared at Marik in astonishment. Even the Mobians were surprised and at the same time, getting hopeful since it seemed that Sonic DID have a plan after all and DID know what he was doing all along. If Marik's been sent back here then Sonic MUST have the Chaos Emeralds! It seemed things were going to turn in the Mobian's favour once again.

"Marik?!" blurted Tyrahko "Why in the volcanic pits of Mount Olympus have you come back here empty-handed?!"

"Grrr…Sonic broke free of his binds and ambushed me!" grunted Marik "I tried as best as I could to fight him off but he beat me and threw me back through the warp ring! I bet he's got it now and he's now going to use the Chaos Emeralds to destroy us! I bet he's going to do the same thing Silver did when he fought Uncle Drago, turn super!"

The Mobians all beamed with delight (and so did Myra from behind the Martian's back for this meant the Martians were going to be defeated after all).

"Oh yeah! I knew my Sonic had a plan!" cheered Amy "Oh Tyrahko, you're dead meat now!"

"Yeah! Nothing can stop the might of Super Sonic!" cried Tails excitedly "The Martians are gonna be dead now he's coming!"

Tyrahko was so furious with Marik that he picked up the tiny three-foot Martian (he's seven feet and Marik's three feet so imagine someone that size picking on someone that small!) and threw him directly into the arms of Diablo.

"You miserable, incompetent, impertinent little imp!" roared Tyrahko "You allowed Sonic to get the Chaos Emeralds?! Now he has them, he'll use whatever power they have to destroy us all!"

"I'm sorry Tyrahko!" retorted Marik "But you shouldn't worry, I mean you have god-powers! You're already super! I bet you'll still be a match for Super Sonic!"

"Maybe so." said Tyrahko, calming down a little "And I do have a little recourse to aid in this situation…"

The Mobians' expressions fell. This didn't sound good. They knew what Tyrahko meant by "recourse". He meant he must have some kind of trick up his sleeve (or in his case, his armour) and that might give him an edge in this forthcoming battle with Super Sonic. Maybe the day wasn't saved after all. Then suddenly, out of the blue, a golden flash of light appeared from nowhere and rocketed down from the sky and towards Tyrahko like a speeding bullet. Tyrahko saw the golden light but he was too late to defend himself. The light charged directly into Tyrahko, squarely in the gut and sent him hurling backwards a very far distance. Tyrahko hurled about 100 yards away from where he originally stood and landed down with a heavy thud. Due to the fact Tyrahko had just been hit, the energy balls trapping the Mobians disappeared like popping bubbles for Tyrahko's concentration to keep them active was broken by the sudden attack and the Mobians were all free at last. They all looked up at the luminous golden light that dazzled everybody and they all beamed with glee for they knew who it was. It was Super Sonic, here at last and he was looking as marvellous as ever. Diablo and Natasha just stared at Super Sonic worriedly.

"No, no, NO! It's Super Silver all over again!" wailed Diablo "And we don't have any Energy Diamonds to do what Drago did so we won't have a chance against him!"

"Don't worry Diablo, we already have our winning card in this game." noted Natasha "Tyrahko will be enough to take that golden, spiny freak down. He is god-powered after all."

That statement made Diablo relax a little but not by a whole lot. Super Silver was still able to eventually finish off Drago despite being super-powered so Super Sonic might be able to finish off Tyrahko despite his prodigious levels of power. As for the Mobians, they were going mad with joy right now at the sight of Super Sonic. They were acting like they'd just seen an angel come down from the heavens to bless them all.

"You did it Sonic, you got the emeralds and turned super again!" cheered Tails "The Martians have no hope of beating us now!"

"You got that right Tails." crowed Super Sonic "But I'm not the only one who's fighting Tyrahko. Hey Shadow, wanna join me in an epic Martian beat down?"

"Do I ever!" laughed Shadow eagerly "I'm gonna join you in this battle too!"

"And so am I." said Silver, standing forward "I am capable of turning super as well. Allow me to help bring down Tyrahko."

"You can turn super too?" blurted Super Sonic "Cool. Alright then, Shadow and Silver can join me for the Martian's final hour on this planet!"

"And you can count me in too." said Blaze, standing forward also.

"Wha…Blaze, you can't turn super can you?" asked Silver doubtfully.

"While I don't have a super form in the general sense of the term, I do have a powerful transformation." explained Blaze "With the Sol Emeralds, I can become a burning entity that is like a pyrokinetic person's equivalent to a super form. I become known as "Burning Blaze" when I turn into that entity."

"Really? Why didn't you use it when I fought Count Drago in his Metal Form?" asked Silver.

"You didn't offer me the Sol Emeralds." retorted Blaze "You didn't give me a chance to use the Sol Emeralds to turn into Burning Blaze. That and I didn't think my burning form would be required since you seemed to have the fight under control. I didn't think I needed to become Burning Blaze and help you beat Metal Drago. In this case though, I am all too happy to provide an extra edge over Tyrahko in this battle."

"OK then." said Silver "But the Sol Emeralds are back home so you'll need to warp back home and get them."

"I got that covered." said Super Sonic, tossing Blaze the Super Warp Ring "While Blaze gets the Sol Emeralds to use her transformation, I'll just get Shadow and Silver ready for transformation."

With that said, Blaze instantly opened up the Super Warp Ring and opened up a portal from the present timeline to the future timeline. Blaze jumped through it and warped back to her timeline. She had warped herself onto Angel Island's Emerald Shrine where all seven Sol Emeralds were sitting neatly in a slab of rock she had made for them. Blaze scooped them all up into her arms and warped herself back into the present timeline with the Super Warp Ring. As she arrived back, she saw Super Sonic handing out the seven Chaos Emeralds to Shadow and Silver. Shadow and Silver took the Chaos Emeralds and they both stood up straight with their hands held out wide, ready to begin the transformation into their super forms. The Chaos Emeralds slowly circled around Shadow & Silver as they levitated at about their shoulder height and began to apply the transformations. Shadow and Silver tensed up as the Chaos Emeralds picked up speed and became a colourful blur circling around the two hedgehogs. Shadow's spines all began to point upwards and his fur became a dazzling lemon-yellow colour. Silver's spines on the back of his head pointed upwards and his fur became a radiant golden colour much like Super Sonic's fur. Super Shadow and Super Silver were here and ready for action. Super Sonic and Super Shadow were both amazed at Super Silver and how he looked in his super form. Super Silver was equally as intrigued with Super Sonic and Super Shadow, given how he'd never seen another super form before. Now that Shadow and Silver had transformed, Blaze was next to turn super. She held the Sol Emeralds out ahead of her and the seven gems all slowly lifted up out of her hands and started slowly circling around her. As the Sol Emeralds did that, they all began to go ablaze like lit-candles and as they circled around Blaze, they became a huge, dazzling, spiralling ring of fire that whirled around Blaze like a fire-eater's act. Blaze tensed herself up tightly and then transformed into Burning Blaze as the Sol Emeralds engulfed her with flames. Burning Blaze had no physical differences to normal Blaze other than pinkish-coloured fur, a red coat, a red tail tip and magenta flame cuffs around her wrists and ankles. She was surrounded by a flame like aurora. The super-hedgehogs all stared at Burning Blaze in amazement, all completely awed by her appearance. Even the others were amazed by Blaze's transformation and they could all agree on one thing, it certainly was unique compared to the super-hedgehogs.

"Whoa…I think Blaze's super-form brings the word "hot" to a whole new level!" cried Super Sonic in astonishment "You look incredible Blaze!"

"Totally in agreement there!" laughed Super Silver, thinking that Blaze somehow just got "hotter" in her super-form (no pun intended).

"Thank you." said Burning Blaze "Now, let us bring the light that will chase away the darkness that threatens to consume our world!"

"I'm up for that!" cried Super Shadow eagerly "Let's crush those Martians!"

Before anybody could do anything though, Tyrahko had picked himself up and he flew back towards the Super Mobians as fast as he could. He ploughed straight through the four supers like an elephant rampaging through the jungle in a frightened stampede and he knocked them all down onto the ground for the moment. The supers picked themselves up almost immediately after they had been knocked down and they flew towards Tyrahko. Tyrahko just flew up out of the way and he ascended a great distance up into the sky with the supers following him. Tyrahko decided that he would take this battle up into the sky so that there would be no interference from anybody around and that he had all the space he needed for a battle with four super-powered Mobians. Super Sonic, Super Shadow, Super Silver and Burning Blaze all lined up together and they glowered at Tyrahko. The Mobians and Martians down on the ground all looked up at the sky, anxious for the battle to begin. Once this battle got going, there was no telling who was going to win and who will emerge victorious in this super-powered showdown.

"Tyrahko, you have shaped your own race into a race of feral, short-sighted, hypocritical monsters who seek to throw the universe into relapse!" yelled Burning Blaze "We are gonna put an end to your reign of terror and render the universe free from your sacrilege and desecration!"

"Your kind has done many bad things to us over the past year and so! Time to put it to an end!" growled Super Sonic.

"And don't expect any lenience from us! We will not hold back!" snarled Super Shadow.

"We will crush you and give Mobius a prosperous future, not just for me and Blaze, but for Sonic and his friends and everybody around!" declared Super Silver "The universe will sigh with relief when we put and end to your tyranny!"

Tyrahko narrowed his eyes down at the Mobians and glowered at them. Their words of motivation fell short on him and he did not care at all what they had said.

"Your hubris comes too early Mobians." sneered Tyrahko "It is unwise to claim something before it happens."

"Look who's talking." snorted Super Sonic "Now put them up or chicken out Tyrahko! This fight is about to begin!

"Indeed it is and it'll end with you all headless before me and the Martian race." said Tyrahko, his voice a soft growl as he spoke.

He reached behind his back and proceeded to, what appeared to the Mobians, pull something out of his back as if he had something stored in it. It started off as a long streak of sparkling, luminous light but when he pulled it all out, the light died down and became a solid entity in Tyrahko's hands. It was a huge, beastly looking sword that was beyond anything the Mobians had ever seen or encountered in their entire lives. The sword had a sharp, diamond like point and twelve serrated spikes that ran down the blade of the sword, some pointing up and some pointing down. Even the hand-guard had curled, serrated spikes that could easily penetrate someone's hand without proper protection around the hands like Tyrahko did. The blade of the sword was red and purple and it had a malevolent aurora that surrounded the blade like a blazing fire. The Super-Mobians gaped at the sword, unable to believe what they were seeing.

"By New Mobotropolis! What is that?!" cried Super Sonic "Looks like the world's beastliest looking sword!"

"That is exactly what it is Sonic." crowed Tyrahko "This is my weapon of mass destruction, a weapon I forged out of leftover Martian weaponry and Energy Diamonds. I call it the Solar Sabre, a weapon I forged in the emptiness of space and a weapon that has brought doom to any planet I have destroyed in my time! And now the Solar Sabre will claim your pathetic lives! Nobody has faced this prodigious weapon of cosmic brilliance and survived to apprise anybody on its existence so you "super-powered" creatures will stand no chance against it!"

"We'll see about that!" shouted Super Silver "Let's go everybody!"

With that said, Super Sonic, Super Shadow, Super Silver & Burning Blaze all charged towards Tyrahko like the Red Arrows all lined up and rocketing through the sky. Tyrahko just cackled at his opponents and he swiped the Solar Sabre at them. A huge wave of malevolent, dark energy whooshed towards them like a sweeping ocean wave and it hit the four supers, blowing them all backwards across the sky. They all shrugged it off easily though and whooshed back towards Tyrahko.

"Nice toy Tyrahko, but we'll still beat it!" declared Super Sonic "Here we come!"

What followed that little statement was Super Sonic curling up into a golden ball and spin-dashing Tyrahko as hard as he could in the abs. Tyrahko hurled backwards after that powerful blow but he recovered quite quickly and he pointed the Solar Sabre at Super Sonic. He fired a huge ball of fiery energy at Super Sonic but Super Sonic dodged the attack. Part of the Solar Sabre's feature was that it had powers in relation to the Solar Systems of the universe. It had the fiery inferno of the sun, the whooshing waters and winds of Neptune, rock-related attacks in reference to the various moons of the universe and acidic powers in relation to Venus' acidic atmosphere and rains. This is why the Solar Sabre was a weapon to be reckoned with, its powers were on an apocalyptic scale and the Super-Mobians would have to fight hard in order to make sure they did not fall foul to it. Tyrahko fired waves of flames at Super Sonic with his Solar Sabre but Super Sonic flew out of the way and Burning Blaze flew in to tackle Tyrahko's fiery inferno. Burning Blaze let out waves of fire from her hands and she and Tyrahko ended up in one heck of a blazing match. The two put all their effort into making sure that either one would win, the flames getting bigger and dancing away most brilliantly as the blazing attacks clashed with each other.

"My flames will consume yours, and you as well pyro-form!" growled Tyrahko "You are foolish to dare resist me!"

"And you are foolish to dare underestimate me!" snarled Burning Blaze, cranking her flames up a little more.

Unfortunately, Burning Blaze had reached her limit and wouldn't be able to burn any hotter and fiercer than she already was. Tyrahko had reached his limit too and the two powerful beings were at a stalemate at the moment. Neither fire attacks were going to overcome the other. That is until Super Shadow zoomed in and threw a plethora of Chaos Spears at Tyrahko like a bunch of darts. The Chaos Spears all struck Tyrahko all over is body and given Super Shadow's enhanced powers, these Chaos Spears were worse than before. The Chaos Spears caused Tyrahko to lose his concentration and cry out in pain, leaving Burning Blaze's pyro-attacks to whoosh into his face and blaze him all over. But given his immortality, he survived the impact and his armour didn't take any damage from the attack for it was immune to flames. It didn't stop the attack from hurting Tyrahko though. Tyrahko roared furiously at Super Shadow for interfering and thus, he pointed the Solar Sabre at Super Shadow and sent a shower of meteor rocks hurling towards him. Super Shadow just ploughed through the rocks with ease as they soared towards him. But as Super Shadow ploughed through the rocks and reached Tyrahko, Tyrahko walloped him across the face with his Solar Sabre and made him cry out in pain. Had he not been super-powered, Tyrahko would have cleaved a deep wound into his face but Super Shadow's invulnerability had prevented him from receiving bodily harm of any kind after that attack. Super Shadow growled furiously at Tyrahko and he tried to punch him but Tyrahko swung the Solar Sabre upwards and slashed Super Shadow with it as he neared him. Then Tyrahko kicked Super Shadow down into the ground where he crashed near the Mobians and Martians watching the epic battle from below and made a small crater in the ground. Tyrahko pointed the Solar Sabre down at Super Shadow but before he could do anything, Super Silver used his psychokinesis to grab Tyrahko and hold him in place. Given his super-enhanced telekinetic abilities, Tyrahko couldn't break free of his psychic grasp as easily as before. Tyrahko fought against Super Silver's psychokinetic hold but just as he was beginning to break free, Super Sonic and Burning Blaze both pile-dived him in the back with a spin-dash and fiery tornado respectively. Tyrahko was sent hurling forwards by the two and Super Silver added to the already powerful attacks by clasping his hands together and giving Tyrahko a psychically enhanced fist-slam to the head that left a dent in his helmet and sent him hurling down almost into the ground. Super Shadow picked himself up and he spin-dashed Tyrahko in the chest, making sure he hit the Energy-Diamond embedded in there so as to add more pain to him. Tyrahko bellowed with pain as he was hit in the chest by Super Shadow and he clutched it tightly as if he had chest pain. The roar was so loud and the battle was so colossal that the citizens of New Mobotropolis all came out of their homes and looked up at the sky to see what was happening. In Royal HQ, Scott the Lynx, Kiara the Cheetah and Charmy Bee struggled out of their medical beds (they're still recovering from Count Nyder's earlier torture) and staggered over to the window to see what was going on. What they saw was beyond anything they had seen before and they could hardly believe what they were watching. They were so amazed that the three hospitalized Mobians couldn't speak and just decided to stand by the window and watch the action. Back over to the battle, Tyrahko catapulted himself back into the air with Super Shadow perusing him and he swung the Solar Sabre at the heroes, but this time he spun around a full 360 degrees and he did so several times like a spinning top, so waves from every direction emitted from the Solar Sabre and swept over the Super-Mobians. They took most of the attacks but the waves still sent them back a little. Tyrahko stopped spinning around after a few hundred waves had been sent out and he pointed the Solar Sabre at them again.

"You have fared well so there, but can you handle the acid rain that hungers for your bodies Mobians?!" roared Tyrahko, lifting the Solar Sabre up at the sky and emitting a yellowish streak of energy.

As he did so, he created a yellowish cloud of energy that loomed ominously above the Super-Mobians. Then as the cloud finished forming, it began to shower the Mobians with a heavy downpour of acid rain, a faithful homage to the planet of Venus in the human Solar System. The rain poured down on top of the Super-Mobians. Their invulnerability prevented the acid from dissolving them and burning straight through their skin of course but the drops still burnt severely and made them all cry out in excruciating pain. To make matters worse, the acid rain was also beginning rain down onto the ground below. The Martians had all stood well back from the ferocious attack whereas the Mobians were just beginning to scramble out of the way of the falling drops of acid that rained down from the sky above them. Super Silver gasped in horror and decided to put a stop to Tyrahko's madness. He used his psychokinesis to halt the cloud and stop it from raining anymore acid. Tyrahko gasped in astonishment at what Super Silver had just did and he swung the sword at him, sending an energy wave hurling towards Super Silver. Super Silver just simply brought the acid cloud down in front of the wave and let the wave destroy it, stopping the acid rain for now. Now that horror was over, Super Sonic and Super Shadow both rocketed towards Tyrahko in a super-powered spin-dash each and they both walloped Tyrahko as hard as they could, sending him hurling backwards through the sky. They both turned around and spin-dashed him again but as they tried again a third time, Tyrahko held up the Solar Sabre and blocked the blow. He then pointed the cosmic sword at the two hedgehog and blew them away with a heavy gust of wind, its speed and force on par with the deadliest of hurricanes. Burning Blaze whooshed in and threw a shower of fireballs at Tyrahko but Tyrahko knew how to counter that attack. He just simply waved the Solar Sabre and put out the fireballs with a gush of water. Burning Blaze stared in amazement and horror at this and she jumped out of the way as Tyrahko tried to throw a wave of water over her. Super Shadow zoomed in and threw a bunch of Chaos Spears at Tyrahko, the shots all make him fall back a little. Tyrahko raised the Solar Sabre, poised to make another attack but Super Sonic put a stop to that by unleashing some lightening fast spin-dashes on him, the finishing spin-dash being on top of his head once he'd unleashed it all. Tyrahko just walloped Super Sonic across the face with the Solar Sabre and then he unleashed the powerful blast from the Energy Diamond in his chest, blowing Super Sonic miles through the sky as it hit him. Tyrahko quickly finished the attack though in order to tire himself out less and he aimed his Solar Sabre at Super Shadow, Super Silver and Burning Blaze.

"Let's see how well you handle all the Solar Sabre's attacks at once Mobians!" he growled menacingly as he prepared to make his next move.

He then proceeded to do just that, fire a combination of fire, water, rocks AND acid all at once at the three Super-Mobians! Super Shadow however just performed a Chaos Control and stopped the attack directly in its path. Tyrahko couldn't believe his eyes. The Mobians had the ability to stop time in their super-forms?! How powerful did those Chaos Emeralds make them?! One thing was for sure, Tyrahko had to take them down good and hard. Super Shadow whooshed towards Tyrahko and punched him in the cheek with both fists, then he uppercut Tyrahko in the chin and then kick-slammed him in the Energy Diamond in his chest. That attack left Tyrahko feeling very pained indeed and before he could recover, Super Silver grabbed him with the psychic grasp of his psychokinesis and he threw Tyrahko in the frozen combination attack just as the Chaos Control was beginning to wear off. That left Tyrahko screaming in pain as he was blazed by the flames, hit by the rocks, hit with the water and scalded by the acid in that attack Super Shadow had frozen in time. The impact rendered Tyrahko with bits of his armour scalded and some tiny cracks appearing on it. His armour was beginning to get damaged now, if they kept it up a little longer then they could destroy his armour and kill him. Super Sonic returned to the battle and saw the damage that had been done to Tyrahko while he was catching back up.

"Wow! We're getting through his armour at last!" blurted Super Sonic, observing the cracks on Tyrahko's armour "Keep it up guys, we'll penetrate him eventually!"

"Fools! It took a planet-shattering bomb to so much as render my armour heavily damaged and me half-dead!" snarled Tyrahko "You will take forever to break my armour! In fact, I wager that you will run out of super power before you can break me! I've seen many super-forms in my time and they all have one thing in common, they do not last forever and yours will undoubtedly be the same."

"You got that right Tyrahko, which is why we will make sure we destroy you before we run out of juice!" declared Super Sonic "And if we run out, we will just power ourselves up again so don't count on us running out being helpful to you!"

He then spin-dashed Tyrahko in the gut and knocked him backwards. Tyrahko however retaliated with a swipe of the Solar Sabre and an energy-wave sweeping over Super Sonic and knocking him down. Burning Blaze whooshed directly into Tyrahko's chest and spun around in a fiery tornado, making Tyrahko grimace in pain as she blazed away at him. Tyrahko however put a stop to her attacks by clasping his fists together and slamming her on the head, knocking her down into the ground like a bird that's been shot dead. Super Silver cried out for Burning Blaze and he rocketed towards Tyrahko. Tyrahko aimed the Solar Sabre at Silver and he fired huge moon rocks at him. Super Silver merely caught all the moon rocks with his psychokinesis but as he reached Tyrahko, Tyrahko threw another one directly at his head and it hit him, making him lose his focus and drop all the rocks he'd just caught down onto the ground below. Tyrahko then fired another shower of moon rocks at Super Silver and they all hit him for he wasn't ready to defend himself in time. Super Sonic and Super Shadow however whizzed around behind Tyrahko and they spin-dashed him directly in the back. Tyrahko cried out in pain as he was hit and he swiped at the two hedgehogs with the Solar Sabre. Super Sonic and Super Shadow dodged the attack though and they spin-dashed him again. Then Super Shadow let loose another shower of Chaos Spears on Tyrahko and the spears made Tyrahko cry out in pain. Super Sonic spin-dashed towards Tyrahko but Tyrahko caught him in an energy ball and he threw him at Super Shadow, sending the two super hedgehogs crashing down into the ground and sprawling across it. Burning Blaze rocketed back up in to the air and she whupped Tyrahko with a fiery tornado that moved far too fast for him to block. Tyrahko however just squirted Burning Blaze with a jet of water from his Solar Sabre. The water drenched Burning Blaze and put her fire out briefly but she soon ignited herself again. Super Silver joined up with Burning Blaze and the two launched a pair of punches each. Burning Blaze's punch was enhanced by her pyrokinetic powers and Silver's was psychically enhanced, making the attacks very powerful and enough to make Tyrahko double over in pain. Tyrahko shrugged off the attack and he spun around with the Solar Sabre held out straight. He sent energy waves sailing out from the sword as he did so and some of the waves hit Super Silver and Burning Blaze. Super Sonic & Super Shadow however put a stop to that by rocketing up underneath Tyrahko and spin-dashing him (let's hope they didn't spin-dash him in the crotch!). Tyrahko was thrown upside down by the attack and he ended up dropping the Solar Sabre onto the ground. Now he was weapon-less, the Super-Mobians seized the opportunity to attack Tyrahko as viciously as possible while he was defenceless. Super Sonic & Super Shadow both spin-dashed him, Burning Blaze threw fireballs at him and Super Silver psychically punched him all at once and they kept it up for a good whole minute, leaving Tyrahko wailing like a pained tiger as he was bombarded by all these attacks. But Tyrahko soon put a stop to that bombardment by activating an energy barrier around himself and pushing the Super-Mobians all away. Now he finally had a moment, Tyrahko flew back down to the ground and retrieved his Solar-Sabre, only for Super Sonic & Super Shadow to pile-dive him in the back as he grabbed it. Tyrahko spun around and tried to cleave their bodies in two but Super Sonic & Super Shadow dodged the attack and both gave him an uppercut to the face each. Tyrahko growled at the two and he flew back up into the air. What he did next was unbelievable. He pointed the Solar Sabre at the ground and fired a beam of light at it. Then, a HUGE chunk of the ground suddenly levitated up into the air! This whole thing made everybody stand well back as chunks of the ground began to rise up from the ground below. The Super-Mobians all gasped in surprise at this incredible feat.

"No way! How are you doing that?!" cried Super Sonic.

"I didn't mention that the Solar Sabre can also control gravity." explained Tyrahko, his voice like a banshee's "I can make things raise up like I am doing now, or I can increase the gravity and squash my enemies into the dirt! Something that even you will not be able to counter."

With that said, Tyrahko lunged forward with the sword and sent the chunks of ground he'd picked up with the Solar Sabre hurling towards the Super-Mobians. They all ploughed through the chunks with ease but they were only a distraction while Tyrahko prepared for his next move. Super Sonic, Super Shadow, Super Silver and Burning Blaze all crushed their way through the earth and sped towards Tyrahko at top speed. But Tyrahko was ready fro them. He pointed the Solar Sabre at the four supers and he activated the sword's gravity powers. This time though, it wasn't taking away gravity and making things raise up, it was increasing the gravity around the supers and pushing them down! It was like a giant hand had ascended down from the sky and was pushing down on the Super-Mobians. Slowly but steadily, the Super-Mobians were being pushed down towards the ground by the increasing gravity.

"Grrr…what…is he…doing?!" grunted Super Sonic, trying to fight back.

"He's…making the…gravity around…us…more tense…he's pushing…us down!" spluttered Super Silver, trying to fight back with his psychokinesis but alas, not even a psychokinetic can fight gravity.

"We've…gotta…stop him…before he crushes us!" cried Super Shadow.

"He…can't crush us…as long as…we're super-powered…but if he…keeps us…trapped down on…the ground…long enough…we'll run out…and THEN he'll crush us!" grunted Burning Blaze.

That was the idea Tyrahko had, press them down with increased gravity and keep them there until their power runs dry and then crush them. Tyrahko had brought many worlds to their knees with the sword's gravitational abilities and now Mobius was going to suffer its wrath once this fight was over. Tyrahko kept up the gravitational push until the Super-Mobians were pressed firmly down onto the ground below. He didn't push down any harder for that was the hardest he needed to push. The gravity around the Super-Mobians was so great that they couldn't even move. They were firmly pressed down on the ground, the gravity around them too great for them to so much as wriggle a finger. Super Sonic & Super Shadow tried desperately to use a Chaos Control and warp out of the way of this death attack but the gravitational push on them was so great that they were struggling to speak. They were completely trapped by Tyrahko's immense power. The Mobians all watched on nervously, wondering how the Super-Mobians could get their way out of this one. Tyrahko and the Martians (except Myra) all cackled at what was happening.

"That's it Tyrahko! Crush them with your gravitational push!" cheered Marik "Once their super-forms expire, they'll be nothing but flattened bodies on the face of the earth!"

"Indeed." purred Tyrahko triumphantly "And once I've finished with you, I shall take the Chaos Emeralds from your flattened corpses and then my ruination of this world can begin!"

"NO!" cried Sally helplessly "Tyrahko, please don't kill them!"

Tyrahko ignored the simpering queen and he continued to keep the Super-Mobians pressed firmly down onto the ground. It seemed that the end had come for Sonic, Shadow, Silver & Blaze. They were stuck on the ground thanks to Tyrahko making the gravity around them stronger and because they couldn't move, their super forms would eventually run out and their invulnerability won't save them from being crushed any longer for it would be gone. Their super-forms really were just delaying the inevitable. Knuckles decided to give the Super-Mobians a hand by running up to Tyrahko and getting ready to punch him. The idea was to knock Tyrahko down, make him drop the sword and in turn, stop him from doing what he is doing to the Super-Mobians right now. But unfortunately, Tyrahko was prepared for that. He trapped the Mobians in energy balls to keep them back and stop them from interfering with him. All they could do now was helplessly watched as their only hope was minutes away from being crushed by gravity. But fortunately, that was never going to happen. For Myra had decided she'd had enough of watching innocents get hurt or killed and decided to let her treachery become known to the Martians. She ran out away from the others, got out her magnetism hammer and aimed it at Tyrahko as she ran behind him. The magnetic pull of the hammer grabbed his armour and started to drag Tyrahko away from the Mobians. As Tyrahko was pulled away, the Solar Sabre's gravity powers were aimed away from the Super-Mobians for Tyrahko's arms were flailing madly and he was swinging the Solar Sabre around, giving the Super-Mobians the perfect opportunity to get back up at last. As Tyrahko was pulled towards Myra's hammer, the Super-Mobians all whaled on him as callously as they could until he was firmly attached to Myra's hammer.

"Myra! What are you doing?!" snarled Tyrahko.

"Something I SHOULD have done a long time ago freak!" yelled Myra bravely.

She then set the hammer to repel and sent Tyrahko rocketing towards the other Martians. Tyrahko ended up knocking them all off their feet and sending them sprawling on the ground. This caused the energy balls around the Mobians to disappear once again and they all cheered for Myra.

"Wow Myra, that was gutsy of you, but we appreciate it!" cried Super Sonic happily "You saved our necks out there!"

"Looks like I was right to trust you after all." said Super Shadow with a dry smile.

"You're welcome." said Myra "Now let's finish off Tyrahko shall we?"

Super Sonic nodded and they prepared to fight again. Tyrahko picked himself up and he glowered at Myra, his eyes a hardcore scowl of fury.

"Myra! What has gotten into you?!" he demanded fiercely "Why have you betrayed us?!"

"I'm betraying you all because I care about ourselves!" retorted Myra "Our stupid vendetta is nothing short of nihilism and all we're gonna do is ruin the universe if we keep on destroying peace and happiness! I thought I was gonna enjoy destroying peace-lovers everywhere…but I was wrong! I'm sorry I ever joined this moronic fleet and this idiotic vendetta in the first place and I wish to help contribute to your downfall! Then once you're gone, I will go back to Mars and make the Martians a race worthy of being part of! A race that will no longer loathe peace and instead, embrace it! I will turn the Martians back to the way they apparently used to be before you lost your mind and turned us all into mindless brutes with a mindless agenda!"

The Martians all looked stunned to hear Myra say that. Dranzer was the most hurt of them all though for he was married to Myra. Even the Mobians, although they already knew of Myra's subversive ways, were amazed to hear her say those words. Tyrahko was so furious with Myra that he went berserk with rage.

"HOW DARE YOU BETRAY US ALL MYRA!" he thundered "I WILL SEE TO IT THAT YOU NEVER LIVE TO SEE ANOTHER MARTIAN WAR YOU TRAITOR!"

Tyrahko then lunged towards Myra with the Solar Sabre raised high above his head but Super Sonic and Super Shadow performed a Chaos Control to freeze him into place. Tyrahko was now completely frozen into place by the Chaos Control, rendering him helpless and prone to any attack the Super-Mobians could possibly do to him. Thus, the Super-Mobians all bombarded Tyrahko with several different attacks and even Myra joined in the frenzy. Super Sonic spin-dashed him, Super Shadow spin-dashed him and Chaos Speared him, Burning Blaze unleashed a fury of fire attacks on him, Super Silver psychically punched and kicked him and Myra hammered him. The Martians all watched in terror as Tyrahko was being pulverized by all the attackers. The Super-Mobians and Myra kept all this up for a minute just as the Chaos Control wore off and Tyrahko was thrown down onto his back by the attacks as he was unfrozen. Super Shadow then decided to deliver the punishing blow that would surely finished off Tyrahko. He unclipped his inhibitor rings, handed them to Super Sonic and he jumped onto Tyrahko as he was standing back up. Everybody cleared the area for they knew what was coming next. Super Shadow turned a blazing, crimson red colour and he unleashed the all mighty Chaos Blast on Tyrahko. Shadow's Chaos Blast was powerful enough but Super Shadow's was devastating. The Chaos Blast completely engulfed Tyrahko and Super Shadow as it was unleashed and everybody shielded their eyes from the dazzling light of the blast. After a minute or so, the Chaos Blast died down and Super Shadow panted for breath. He fell down onto his knees and Super Sonic handed him back his inhibitor rings. Super Shadow clipped them back on and the Super-Mobians all stared at Tyrahko. To their amazement, he was still alive! But not for long. His armour was heavily damaged by the blast now. There were cracks galore and a few holes had appeared in it. But that wasn't all, the cracks on the armour began to increase and chunks of it started falling apart! Tyrahko's armour had truly been damaged to the point of destruction by that Chaos Blast! Tyrahko gasped in horror as his armour began to crumble to pieces, his powers slowly fading away and his life slipping between his fingers. All the armour around his arms fell off of him and broke to pieces on the ground, his helmet began to fall apart and the armour around his upper-body was crumbling too.

"NNNNNOOOOOOOOOOO!" bellowed Tyrahko as his armour began to crumble "I…I cannot lose to a bunch of animals! I am Tyrahko, the God of Warfare! I cannot have my flawless reign of terror marred by these Mobians! No, No, NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO…"

His voice soon trailed off as all the armour around his upper-body broke away and his body began to start rotting for his immortality had deteriorated along with his armour and time was catching up to him. His skin turned into dust and his flesh became atoms as he started to rot and fade away. Everybody watched the gruesome sight in disgust and some people like Sally, Nicole and Cosmo turned away, unable to watch it anymore. Tyrahko's agonized wails were finally silenced after his skin and flesh had all deteriorated away and his bones were left to lay there, weak and fragile and crumbling to pieces the moment the skeleton fainted down onto the ground. All that remained of Tyrahko now was a broken skeleton and pieces of his marvellous armour. Tyrahko was finally finished after a million years of ruination. His reign of terror was over. The Mobians all instantly began to cheer whereas the Martians all wailed in fury.

"NNNNNNNNNNNNNNNNNOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

"Why should we?! You never did!" snarled Super Silver "Now say goodbye to the universe Diablo!"

With that said, all three super hedgehogs performed a Chaos Control which opened up a huge portal that led to the void. The portal spiralled around and began to suck all the Martians but Myra towards itself. Myra was obviously being spared given she had betrayed the Martians and she was well out of the way. But there was one thing she quickly needed to do. Myra ran back into the Martian ship and after a couple of minutes, returned with the charred and unconscious bodies of Sycranna and Obelisk (they still haven't healed from their encounter with Knuckles and Shade). Myra threw them into the path of the portal and they were sucked in instantly. The Martians tried as hard as they could to prevent themselves from being sucked into the Chaos Portal but their efforts were ultimately futile. They were all sucked in one by one. Diablo, Natasha, Mercury, Dranzer, Sierra, Zarondight and Count Nyder were all dragged into the portal. Even the Martian soldiers were dragged into the portal too, every single one of them. Marik was the only Martian left to get sucked in and he was just losing his grip on the ground.

"You'll pay for this!" roared Marik "We'll escape the void somehow! We'll come back Sonic! You have not heard the last of me! We will come back and I promise you that! We will come baaaaaaaaaaccccccccccccckkkkkkkkk…"

His voice trailed off as he finally lost his grip and he was sucked into the portal with all the others. The Chaos Portal sealed itself and vanished into thin air, leaving no trace of its existence. The Martians were now permanently trapped in the void, never to disturb anybody's peace ever again. The Martians were finished at long last. Now the deed had been done, Sonic, Shadow, Silver and Blaze all powered down and returned to their normal selves, complacent with the fact the battle was finally over and the Martians were no more. Now all that was over, the Mobians all exploded into applause and cheer.

"YES! We did it again!" yelled Tails, punching the air triumphantly "We've stopped our THIRD alien invasion!"

"The Martians are gone for good!" cheered Cosmo "Now we peace-lovers never have to fear their tyranny again!"

"I knew you four could do it!" squealed Amy happily "Now we never have to worry about Marik the Martian or his cronies for the rest of our lives!"

"As begrudging as I am to say…well done all of you." said Dr. Eggman brightly, happy that the Martians couldn't threaten his position as conqueror of Mobius anymore.

"Ah thank you, thank you. You're all too kind." said Sonic casually "I'm glad the Martians are all gone too."

Then suddenly, much to his surprise, somebody grasped him into a hug. But it wasn't Amy for once. It was Sally. The squirrel queen was so over-come with joy that she just had to do that to Sonic. Her eyes were brimming with happy tears.

"Thank you so much for stopping them all." said Sally, giving Sonic a congratulating kiss on the cheek without really realizing it "You, Shadow, Silver and Blaze cannot be commended enough for what you've done today."

"Aw, thanks Sal." said Sonic, actually enjoying being hugged and kissed by a woman other than Amy for once "But we don't deserve all the credit. Myra saved us all from being crushed by Tyrahko so I think she deserves some compensation too."

"I agree." said Sally, breaking up the hug and turning to Myra "Thank you for helping our heroes win. And well done for coming to your senses too Myra. You truly are better than the other Martians."

"Ah don't mention it, the pleasure's all mine." beamed Myra "I was sick of all this mindless violence over something that will never truly be destroyed so I decided I had to do something about it. And you Mobians gave me the inspiration and motivation to do so. I should be thanking you all as well."

"You're welcome." said Sally "So what will you be doing next?"

"I'll be going back to Mars." said Myra "Now the Martian fleet, which had ALL the war-loving Martians you've just gotten rid of, is gone, I can come home to any of the peace-loving Martians that neglected to join the fleet like I should have done. The peace-loving Martian population is only a quarter of the overall Martian population but it'll do. I will become the ruler of Mars and reformat the Martians into the race we used to be a million years ago, or so historical records say. Once I leave here, you will never see me again. I will be spending the rest of my life fixing the Martian's mess and redeeming our race. Thank goodness our life-spans go up to 200 and I'm only 34 now so I've got plenty of time to fix everything."

"Very well Myra." said Sally "Just remember that we are eternally grateful for your help in defeating the Martians."

"Will do sunshine." said Myra "Well, it's back home to Mars for me. Bye everybody, and thank you for providing the Martians this opportunity for redemption!" he said cheerfully, waving to everybody.

"Bye Myra!" said all the Mobians happily, waving goodbye to her.

Now that farewell was done with, Myra ran off back into the Martian ship and sat down in the pilot's seat. She took the controls and got the ship up and running. The Martian ship took off into the sky and Myra flew it out of Mobius and into space and beyond. She was now off to Mars and once she arrived, her cleanup of the Martian fleet's mess could begin. The moment Myra left, Sonic looked over at Dr. Eggman.

"OK, should we bother about you egg-brains?" he snorted.

"No Sonic. This day has been too long and tiring for all of us." said Dr. Eggman "That and I do not wish to take down the weary. That is beneath me and way too ruthless for me. I'm letting you all rest and recuperate for now but I'll be back and this time, no other villains will be taking my spotlight! I may have lost my edge thanks to somebody hacking my network and making me lose control of your satellites permanently but I'll still be ready to finish you off Sonic the Hedgehog!"

"Sure thing Egg-Head." said Sonic casually "I look forward to when we meet again."

Dr. Eggman just smiled maliciously at Sonic and he took flight in his Egg-Pod. He left the Mobians behind and headed off back for home in Megapolis with Metal Sonic, Devion and Katherine all following him. The moment Dr. Eggman left, Sonic turned to Silver and Blaze.

"One more thing left…" he said "You two. Will you be off home to your timeline now?"

"Yes." said Silver, opening up the Super Warp Ring "Our work here is, hopefully, done. We've stopped the Martians from taking over Mobius so now we're gonna see if our future's changed."

"I'm sure it has." said Sonic "Thank you two for preparing us prematurely for the invasion."

"You're welcome." said Blaze "Goodbye for now Sonic and friends. We will meet again soon."

"Oh yes…some time soon." said Sonic "Goodbye you two. See you again next time."

Silver and Blaze smiled graciously and they both walked through the Super Warp Ring, warping themselves back home to their future. The Super Warp Ring vanished behind them, closing the gap between zones and leaving no trace of their existence. Now that was done with, Sonic turned to the others.

"OK…who's up for a celebration party?" he asked "I think we're all deserving of one after dealing with THREE alien invasions these past weeks!"

The others couldn't agree more and were totally onboard with the idea. So now Mobius was at peace for the moment, the Mobians could party and feast away and celebrate this glorious moment as much as they liked…

But unfortunately, not every Mobian was going to be happy at this moment. For Silver & Blaze had come back home and much to their indescribable horror…the future was EXACTLY the same was it was when they had left it! It was still in a post-apocalyptic state! It was still wrecked and still lingering for life! Nothing had changed whatsoever! This could only mean one thing: the whole Martian invasion was NOT the cause of Mobius' doom in the future! Silver and Blaze had just wasted their time over nothing! The two Mobians were so shocked that they couldn't believe it.

"I…I don't believe it!" wailed Silver "Everything…is…is…"

"It's exactly the same as it was before!" gasped Blaze "Nothing's changed! The Martians WEREN'T responsible for the end of the world after all! I had a nasty feeling that that would be the case! Oh Silver, we've changed nothing at all! Our attempts have been in vain!"

Silver was so devastated at all of this that he began to get angry. He tensed himself up tightly and he began to glow a brilliant, luminous teal. Blaze knew what happened when Silver did that and was in a bad mood, she had experienced this behaviour from her friend before.

"Blaze…run away! Run far away from here now!" ordered Silver.

"I will." said Blaze "Just don't hurt yourself again like last time!"

With that said, Blaze quickly legged it and rocketed off as far away from Silver as she possibly dared to go. Silver finished tensing himself up tightly and he let out his frustration in a single, anguished cry of despair.

"RRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA
AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRR
RRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRGGGGGGGGGGGGGGG
GGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGGHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH HHHHHHHHHHHHH…"

And what followed this loud wail was an eruption of psychokinetic energy that exploded from within Silver and spread out a large distance like an atomic bomb, completely destroying and blowing away anything in its path and causing havoc all around the disdained hedgehog…

The Key of Opulence 1

Story 137: The Key of Opulence Part 1

No sooner had Rouge the Bat and the young super-spy Sora Sumdac had arrived back from the Tropical Jungle*, Sora had directed Rouge to M.S.I.U. (Mobian Spy and Intelligence Unit) headquarters to which she quickly ran inside and gave herself some tools that would be adequate for a search-and-capture mission. She still had her usual utility belt of course but other things she was taking with her were a taser, three sets of earphones and four laser-cuff spheres. The taser would be useful in a case of getting captured herself and she needed to get out of someone's grasp and the laser-cuffs would be perfect for subduing all four members of Team Diamond. The headphones were for her, Rouge and a friend of hers named Joel Nutmeg to wear while on the mission so they could communicate between each other. Speaking of Joel, after making a short stop to her headquarters, Sora had asked Rouge to take her to the S.I.I.D. (Secret Intelligence and Information Department) headquarters so that she could recruit her good friend Joel Nutmeg into this mission too. This mission would require a few agents to carry out after all. Sora, Joel and Rouge were bound to make a good spy-team for this mission they were on. And the mission was simply this: locate Team Diamond and apprehend them and retrieve the recently uncovered Key of Opulence before Team Diamond end up using it too many times and becoming golden entities that turned everything they touched into gold. This was a mission that had more importance then any of them dared to realize. After getting ready and recruiting Joel to join them on the mission, Rouge, Sora and Joel caught a hover-car and Joel drove it since he was the only out of the three who had a driver's license. Joel started up the car and it hovered off out of S.I.I.D. headquarters and on to Team Diamond's location. Sora had slipped a tracking device onto their hover-saucer while Team Diamond were fighting Rouge and now the three spies were heading to where they had fled to. Rouge's first instinct was to guess that they were back in the secret office behind the ally-wall but to her surprise, Team Diamond were not at home. Sora looked at the little computer screen she held in her hand and deduced where the tracker was saying Team Diamond was. She directed Joel as he drove the hover-car and at long last, they reached Team Diamond's location. It was an old factory located in the middle of nowhere and it was old and run down, suggesting that it hadn't been used in some time. More evidence of this included the doors being chained shut and the windows being boarded up. Sora looked at the screen and it showed her that Team Diamond were definitely in the factory. They had found the insidious treasure-hunters at last.

"They're in that factory." said Sora "We've got them."

"That's great Sora, so what's the plan?" asked Rouge.

"Me and Joel will go in that factory and see what we can find." said Sora "You will stay outside and keep watch and if we need your help, we'll give you a call and you just come straight in and assist us."

"OK. Why do I have to stay out of this though?" asked Rouge "I mean, this is as much about me as it is about the whole world you know. The Key of Opulence is MY find after all."

"I know it is Rouge but you're most at risk out of us three because Team Diamond know you all too well." said Sora sympathetically "And you're easily the best fighter out of us so we could do without you getting into trouble should we need your help."

"Ah alright, I get what you mean." said Rouge dully "Just make sure that I get that key back OK?"

"Indeed we will Miss Rouge." said Joel politely "OK Sora, you ready to go?"

"Ready as I'll ever be old friend." said Sora, putting on her set of earphones that had an attached microphone to them "There's more at stake here than we know."

"Indeed so Sora." said Joel, putting on his earphones.

Rouge put on her earphones and the three spies switched them all on. Now they'd all be able to communicate with each other by speaking through the microphones attached to them and receiving the messages through the earphones themselves. Sora, Joel and Rouge all stepped out of the car and ran up to the factory as silently as they could. They came up to the door of the factory and they looked around for a way in. The door was chained shut but Sora had an easy way of fixing that. She could simply use her laser-stick to cut through the chains but they'd likely make too much noise and give her away so she didn't want to risk using that method. Instead, she looked for another way inside. Joel spotted a potential way into the factory. There was a window which had fallen boards so the window wasn't boarded up and they could easily get inside through that window. Rouge took them each by the hand and flew Sora & Joel up towards the window. Once up there, she neared the two spies to the window, close enough so that they could reach out and grab the windowsill. They then pulled themselves up to the window and crawled through it into the factory. Sora and Joel looked around as they entered the factory. Rouge merely flew back down to the ground and waited for her signal. There were a lot of chains hanging from the ceiling, there were holes in the ceiling and the walls looked like they were about to cave in. There was a lot of machinery around too, all rusting away and completely incapable of use. Sora held her nose as a foul, malodorous stench drifted up her nostrils. It was very smelly in this old factory and the smell made her feel sick.

"Oh god, it stinks in here!" gagged Sora "No wonder Team Diamond chose this as their hideout! The smell would make everybody hesitant to enter!"

"Indeed Sora. We cannot however let a few bad smells distract us so I'd try my best to ignore it if I were you." suggested Joel, holding his nose as well.

Sora nodded, trying hard not to let the smell bother her. She had a job to do and an odoriferous scent was not going to stop her from doing it. So Sora and Joel crept along the walkway they were on and they looked down at the floor below. To her surprise, she could see just who they were looking for. Well, sort of. For down on the floor of the factory below them, Sora and Joel could see Owen Pounder and Roxy the Raccoon, both members of Team Diamond and they seemed to be studying the Key of Opulence. Owen was sitting at a desk in a rickety old chair that seriously looked uncomfortable and he had the key in his hand, looking at it and trying to work out how it possibly worked. His brilliant brain was working like mad. You could practically hear the cogs turning in his head as he tried to work out how the key worked since it was rumoured to have some kind of power. Roxy on the other hand was just wandering around like a lost sheep as if she was impatiently waiting for Owen to just do something already.

"Tick-tock Owen! Tick-tock!" whined Roxy "The convoy will be arriving any minute now to pick up our recent steals and ship them off to our boss! Lennox can't afford to have us wasting any time and he said we have to be ready soon so hurry up and find out how that bloody key works! We were given the task of finding out what power it has, if it has any power at all, and how it works you know!"

"We?!" sniffed Owen as if the word sounded foreign to him "Unless "nagging" counts for anything, I haven't seen you lift a finger!"

"Owen, I'm just a dumb little girl remember?" snorted Roxy sarcastically "It's not my job to decipher how these ancient relics are supposed to function since my brain isn't skilled in that kind of stuff. You're the one who works out how things work, you're the brainy one out of us two."

"Well, if I wasn't being sidelined by SOMEONE'S constant moaning, I might be further along right now!" shouted Owen, clearly irritated by Roxy's constant moaning and the fact she wasn't being very helpful right now.

"Grrr…oh just give it here!" grumbled Roxy impatiently, snatching the key off of Owen.

Owen could only stare at Roxy as she dared to snatch the Key of Opulence off of him. Roxy didn't often stand up to him, something must be up with her. Roxy grabbed the centre of the key and tried twisting it to see if anything moved. But nothing did, it was as solid as anything. Roxy then grabbed both ends of the key and started trying to twist them as if she was expecting something to move on the key. But nothing did. It was just a big, golden, solid, jewelled key. Nothing twisted or bent or curved or anything on it, it was just completely solid. After trying and failing to get something to move, Roxy lost her temper and began banging the key as callously as she could against the desk like a bratty little child who's whinging because his toy's broken and he's trying to make it work again.

"DO. SOME. THING!" bellowed Roxy as she thumped the key as hard as she could against the desk.

One would think the bodacious raccoon was deliberately trying to break the key to pieces or something due to how hard and angrily she was bashing it on the edge of the desk. Owen Pounder could only sigh at that as Roxy resorted to the most childish way of getting something to work, banging it on something.

"Oh gee, why didn't I think of that?!" scoffed Owen in annoyance.

That did it. Roxy really lost her wick and she lashed out at Owen with the key, slashing him across the cheek with it as if she was wielding a sword. The Key of Opulence did have sharp edges after all so swiping it at somebody and actually hitting them was bound to hurt. Owen winced in pain and he clutched his throbbing cheek, which now had a long thin cut across it thanks to Roxy slashing him with the key. Owen took his hand off his cheek and noticed that his glove was now stained with blood. Owen gasped at this and he instantly flipped.

"I'm gonna snap your arms in two for that!" he thundered, raising his fists and preparing to deck Roxy ten times over.

Roxy instantly fell over onto her back and covered her face in terror with her arms, the Key of Opulence still in her hands, as Owen advanced on her menacingly, his muscles bulging as he flexed them.

"No, no, no! Please don't hurt me!" whimpered Roxy, cowering on the floor in fear as Owen prepared to beat her up.

Owen looked like he was about ready to ignore Roxy and punch her anyway but before he could hurt the poor raccoon, a sharp voice stopped him dead in his tracks.

"OWEN! Lower your fists this instant!" snarled the voice.

It was none other than Lennox Meers the Meerkat, the leader of Team Diamond and he looked furious to see Owen daring to try and hurt poor Roxy. Alistair Drakken the Bat was beside him and he gave Owen an ominous glare that suggested "Dare hurt Roxy and rile Lennox Owen and you're dead!". Owen knew better than to rile Lennox Meers so he did as he was told. He lowered his fists and put them behind his back apologetically, stepping away from the terrified raccoon he loomed over to add to that. Roxy's breathing began to calm down a little and her whimpers died out after that. Lennox strode over to Roxy and respectfully held out a hand for her to take. Roxy took Lennox's hand and Lennox helped the raccoon up onto her feet.

"Th-th-thank you Lennox." stammered Roxy, still shaking from that threat.

"Anytime Roxy." said Lennox somewhat graciously as if he was glad Roxy didn't get hurt "Now then, what was all that nonsense about Owen?"

"I was just trying to work out how this damn key works and Roxy just snatched it off of me and started banging it against the desk!" retorted Owen "I then commented on how silly that was of her and then she slashed me across the face with it! Look what she's done to me!" he added, pointing to the stinging cut on his cheek.

"Spare me the dramatics Owen, it's merely a scratch." muttered Lennox, not really fussed since he knew Owen was a tough guy and a scratch shouldn't really bother him.

"But Lennox…" protested Owen.

"Enough!" snapped Lennox "Owen, you should control your temper for once in your life and Roxy, don't bang priceless treasures like that key on the desk please! They're valuable to us and we can do without them getting broken!"

"I'm sorry Lennox." said Roxy in an overly-exaggerated apologetic tone of voice that made her sound like a five-year old girl "I promise I won't do it again."

"Don't talk like a child for god's sake!" sighed Lennox in annoyance "Now then, have you worked out how it works yet Owen?" he asked, looking at the rabbit.

"No sir." said Owen "I've studied it thoroughly but I have no idea how to activate the so-called "power" it has. I'm beginning to wonder if all that nonsense about it having power was all just a pretence."

"Maybe it is." murmured Lennox, taking the key off of Roxy and looking at it himself "Not that it really matters since we don't often use a jewel's power should one have any. Still, it would be intriguing to see what power the Key of Opulence could possibly wield if it has any power."

"You know what Lennox, didn't it occur to you that the way it works might be to use it the way an actual key works?" suggested Alistair "Here, let me show you what I mean."

Lennox unsurely gave the key to Alistair. Sora and Joel watched all of this from atop the walk way and they were beginning to worry. Sora's heart began to pound as Alistair took the key from Lennox. Had he managed to work out how the key works? If so then he may have just found out what power it has. The little fox could only watch and wait as Alistair prepared to use the key. Alistair pointed the key directly ahead of himself and then slowly pushed it ahead of him as if he was inserting it into an invisible lock in front of him The key began to glow a radiant red colour as he slowly pushed it forward. He kept on doing it until the key suddenly stopped dead in its tracks and it wouldn't go any further. The key began to glow even brighter as it was "inserted" the furthest it would go. Lennox, Roxy and Owen held their breath as the key seemed to be doing something. Sora and Joel did the same. Alistair titled his head to one side in interest and he crooned to himself as he appeared to have worked out the puzzle. He then twisted the key to one side as if he was unlocking an imaginary door. The key glowed the brightest it could possibly glow after it was turned and Alistair pulled the key backwards. And as he pulled on the key, the very air in front of them seemed to open up like a doorway to another world. It was as if Alistair had just unlocked an imaginary door directly in front of himself. Lennox, Roxy and Owen were gobsmacked as they stared at the open "door" in front of them. What made their jaws drop so low they were about to break away from their faces was what was in the "doorway". In the doorway was a horde of jewels and they ranged from necklaces to tiaras, to diamonds, to rubies, to sapphires, to emeralds and many, many more! The greedy treasure hunters eagerly leaped at the treasures in the "doorway" and started piling them all out of the door and onto the floor like a bunch of kids pulling all of their toys out of the toy cupboard eagerly. Sora and Joel were amazed at all of this. Even though Sora already knew what the Key of Opulence could do, it was still amazing to see its power function in real life. After they took out all the jewels, they piled them all onto the desk and after all the jewels had been taken out, the key popped out of the lock in the imaginary door and clunked down onto the floor. Alistair picked it up and stared at in amazement.

"Unbelievable…" he mused to himself "The key seems to open up imaginary doors that contain treasures behind them."

"It's incredulous indeed Alistair." said Lennox "How does it do that I wonder?"

"Simple, it's an ancient treasured relic." sniggered Roxy "They always have weird powers."

"Well all I know is I'VE got to try it!" cried Owen happily, snatching the key off of Alistair and activating the key's power.

He opened up an imaginary doorway much like Alistair did earlier directly above the desk and a whole new bunch of treasure was revealed inside the doorway. Team Diamond eagerly rummaged through the treasure and started piling it all out onto the desk. Once they emptied that doorway, Roxy took the key and used it herself. She opened up a doorway in thin air with the key and got a new bunch of treasure from the doorway. Team Diamond emptied that one and then Lennox finally decided he should use it himself. Lennox took the key after they had emptied Roxy's doorway and he opened one up himself. A new bunch of treasure was in that doorway and they took it all out of the doorway as it was opened. The desk was now overflowing with treasures and jewels because of the Key of Opulence's power and some jewels ended up falling off of the desk and clattering across the floor. Once Team Diamond had finished their little craze with the Key of Opulence's power, Lennox stuffed it into his cloak pocket.

"OK Team Diamond, let's not go overboard with the key's power." said Lennox "While we're getting more treasure then we've ever gotten before, we don't have enough resources right here with us right now to store it all so we will not use the key's power until we get this lot split up between us and shipped off to our boss and other teams in the organization."

"Fair enough." said Roxy "Once we get rid of this lot, we can go nuts with this key. We'll never need to treasure-hunt again now we have a key that just gives us more and more treasures then we can ever hope for!"

"Indeed so Roxy." purred Alistair "Instead of hunting for treasures, we can just use the key's power to give us more and more treasures day after day. H.U.N.T. will soon have enough treasures to last every member of the organization a life time."

That alone made Sora and Joel shudder as if an icy hand had gripped them by the throat. They had studied about the Key of Opulence and knew the deadly side effect of its power. They had to get it back before any member of Team Diamond used it more than three times. Each of them had used it once so each of them could use it another two times without any effect. Once they used it a fourth time though, the side effect kicks in and the end of all life will begin for the first member of Team Diamond to use it more than three times would turn into a golden entity and turn everything into gold. The only problem was, Sora had no idea how they were going to get the Key of Opulence without being spotted. Team Diamond would see them easily since they were around and Lennox had just stuffed the Key of Opulence into his cloak pocket so they couldn't just grab it off of him as easily as that. They had to think of a way to get the key without risking their lives.

"Hey Joel, any ideas on how to get the key from them?" whispered Sora desperately "I have no idea how we're going to get that key off of them without them catching us. Lennox has got it in his cloak, how will we get it out of there secretly?"

"If we had a smoke bomb or two, we could probably distract them with the smoke bombs and steal the key from Lennox while they're preoccupied." suggested Joel "I do not believe I have any on me though."

"Me neither." muttered Sora "I forgot to get some more after using one to save Rouge earlier. Maybe we could wait until Lennox is all alone and we ambush him while his buddies are gone? I could get the taser I have on me and knock him out simple as that."

"You could indeed." said Joel "Let's see how well that plan works."

But unfortunately, that plan was never going to be tested. For all of the sudden, the section of the walkway they were standing on suddenly gave way and broke directly underneath their feet! The walkway was old and deteriorating after all and the weight of a kid fox and adult squirrel was too much for it to take (it is old and weak after all). Sora and Joel found themselves plummeting down towards the floor with a heavy crash, bits of walkway raining down all over them as they landed on the floor. Team Diamond were so shocked by all of this they nearly fell over in surprise. Sora and Joel picked themselves up from the walkway pieces and they brushed themselves off. Sora was clutching her head in pain and wincing as it ached. Joel was fumbling around looking for his orb-cam eye for it had fallen out in the impact. Lennox instantly whipped his revolvers out and pointed them at the two.

"Spies?! In our territory?!" he shrieked "What the hell are you two heathens doing here and what are you after?!"

"Rouge! We could do with some assistance right now!" Sora shrieked frantically into the microphone in her earphones.

"Rouge?!" blustered Owen "But it can't be, she was poisoned by the smoke-bomb that made us flee for it!"

"It wasn't poisonous you idiot." sneered Sora "Rouge is very much alive and here she comes right now." she added, pointing up to the window that she and Joel had managed to sneak through.

Rouge had gotten Sora's message and had instantly flown through the window and into the factory. She zoomed down towards Lennox and screw-kicked him away from Sora and Joel.

"Hello boys. Thought you saw the last of me didn't you?" smirked Rouge "Now give me back the Key of Opulence and I won't kick all your butts."

"We have worked too long and too hard to get that key!" growled Lennox "We will not relinquish it to you at all! Team Diamond, get them all!"

The insidious treasure-hunters didn't wait to be asked twice. They all charged into action the moment Lennox gave that order. Rouge, although still a little weak from the beating she'd received earlier, was all too happy to have another rematch with Team Diamond. Rouge jumped into the air and screw-kicked Owen, the first one to get near to her. The rabbit was sent flying backwards across the room and he crashed down heavily on the floor, groaning loudly. Roxy swung her baton at Rouge but the bat effortlessly managed to dodge the attack and she dropkicked Roxy directly in the head. Roxy staggered backwards and she clutched her head in pain. It was hurting so much that she thought she was going to pass out. But Rouge was about to lose whatever luck was on her side right now for Alistair pounced on her from behind and grabbed her by the arms. He flew up into the air with her and then flew all the way back down and threw her directly into the desk of jewels and treasures. You can imagine just how much hurt landing on a desk full of treasures is going to give you. The resulting impact left Rouge feeling sore all over her body and a pile of treasure scattered all over the floor. Rouge was so sore from the impact that she had no idea which part of her to rub better. This gave Owen the perfect opportunity to grab and warp his arms around her in a bear-hug once again. This time, he was going to make sure Rouge gets crushed to death without any interferences. But Sora leaped in to help Rouge by whipping the taser off of her belt and thrusting it into Owen's back. The rabbit screamed in pain and he dropped Rouge immediately. Unfortunately, he managed to fight the pain in his back long enough to turn around and grab Sora by the arm. He snatched the taser off Sora and zapped her in the neck with it but only for long enough to make her feel weak and lame, not to knock her out or anything. After he'd finished zapping Sora, he dropped her carelessly onto the floor and crushed the taser directly in his hand. Joel was horrified at this and he wanted to do something but he wasn't a very skilled fighter so at the same time, he was kind of reluctant to do anything. Lennox however sneaked up behind Joel and butted him in the back of his head with his revolver, knocking him clean out. Rouge stared in horror at the injured Sora and knocked-out Joel and wondered what to do. She could try and save them but Team Diamond were just too strong for her. She didn't want to abandon them either for Team Diamond would likely kill them. Then suddenly, Rouge knew what she had to do. As she came up with an idea, Lennox pointed his revolvers at her.

"Alright Rouge, it's time you FINALLY say goodbye to your life." he said coldly.

"More like it's time to say goodbye to you idiots!" sneered Rouge, screw-kicking Lennox and then flying away out of the un-boarded window, leaving poor Sora and Joel at the mercy of Team Diamond.

"Rouge! Wait, don't leave us!" cried Sora as Rouge flew out of the factory and fled for her life.

"I'll be back kid, I promise!" Rouge said to her via the microphone on her earphones "I'm going to get help! A LOT of help! Just hang on for me will ya?"

Sora understood what Rouge was telling her and she hoped that she could survive long enough for Rouge and her back-up to arrive. The stakes were too high for Rouge to try and flee with her life and the spies after all so she had to get out before things got too unpleasant for her. Sora had had to abandon people before just to get back up so she knew what it felt like to be in this situation. Now Rouge had gone, Owen picked up Sora and Joel by the scruffs of their necks.

"Hey! Put me down you overgrown ape in rabbit's clothing!" cried Sora, furiously swinging her arms at Owen.

"Don't call me an ape!" snapped Owen "Now, who do you disgusting spies work for and what are you doing here?!"

"Go take a hike, I'm not telling you a goddamn thing!" snapped Sora "Now let me and Joel go or you'll suffer the consequences!"

"No chance of that you little brat." snarled Lennox "Owen, get the chains. I think a torture session's in hand for these two."

Owen obeyed and he carried Sora and Joel over to some low hanging chains that dangled from the ceiling. He raised Sora up to the chains and he wrapped them around her wrists, her arms spread out and her feet dangling a foot above the floor. After wrapping the chains around Sora's wrists, he padlocked the chains to keep them in place. There was no escape for poor Sora now. She was as trapped as anything now. Owen then proceeded to do the same to Joel. He chained Joel up about ten feet away from Sora and he was facing her directly in front of her. Joel was still knocked out though so he had no idea what was going on. All Sora could do now was feebly struggle in her chains as Lennox got out a trolley full of terrible torture weapons. There was a taser, a blowtorch, a knife, a nunchaku and Roxy had added her baton to the collection. Sora gulped in fear at the mere sight of such cruel weapons. She was in for a minute of hell it seemed.

"Right." said Lennox glaring directly at the chained up Sora "Since your friend is knocked out, I'll only focus on you. Who are you child, who do you work for and why are you here?"

Sora remained tight-lipped and she refused to speak. Lennox growled furiously and he walloped her across the face with his revolver, making her spit out a bit of blood.

"Who are you, why are you here and who do you work for?!" thundered Lennox.

Sora still refused to talk and she fought the pain in her cheek. That revolver had left a nasty bruise on it and it looked really painful. Lennox scowled at Sora's resilience and he sheathed his revolvers in his holsters. He picked up the blowtorch and switched it on. The blowtorch hissed loudly as a small blue flame emitted from it.

"Fine, you're asking for this." muttered Lennox.

Sora braced herself as Lennox neared her with the blazing, roaring blowtorch, the flame just inches away from her body as Lennox neared it to her…

New Mobotropolis was finally at a moment of peace, the first real moment of peace it had since the recent alien invasions. So as of this moment, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were making the most of this peace they had now. Most of them were either in their homes and relaxing or wandering around the city and admiring the sights (except Shadow the Hedgehog, he's gone off to see if there's anything interesting going on). Sonic the Hedgehog and his best friend Tails the Fox were doing just that and Tails has his girlfriend Cosmo the Seedrian with him. Tails and Cosmo had been so happy since they had finally revealed their love for each other and they had made sure to tell everybody about it. The Royal Fighters and even Queen Sally herself were all awed and thrilled to hear all of this and Sonic was well pleased that Tails had finally admitted his love for Cosmo. He felt the two were a perfect couple and right now, he was taking Tails and Cosmo for a walk around the local park. Cosmo loved it of course and Tails was grateful to Sonic for taking them around it. Right now, Sonic and Tails were sitting on a bench and enjoying the peace and quiet the park offered them. Cosmo was kneeling by the pond that was nearby and admiring the beauty of it. Sonic smiled contently to himself. It sure felt good to FINALLY have a moment of peace. He had to make the most of it though since Dr. Eggman was liable to return at any time and unleash his new band of craziness into the world.

"This park is beautiful Sonic. Thank you for taking me and Cosmo here." said Tails gratefully, smiling at his best friend.

"Ah, it was nothing Tails." said Sonic happily "Since you and Cosmo have officially become a couple, not a married one of course, I thought I'd bring you to this place. It's perfect for a boyfriend and girlfriend couple I say."

"It certainly is." said Cosmo, beaming so much that you'd think she was turning into the sun all of the sudden "I love it here. I might come here more often."

"Well, it's always available after all so you can come as much as you like." said Sonic "Pity you didn't see this park sooner but then again, we have had a lot on our plates recently so we're still kinda settling into New Mobotropolis and learning everything about it."

"Yeah." said Tails "Oh well, we've finally seen everything in the city now so we can properly make ourselves at home. It really is a beautiful city and I think it's the perfect replacement for the original Mobotropolis."

"It is. It's BETTER than Mobotropolis I say." said Sonic "Mainly because of the shields we have to protect us from harm and it's just such a beautiful city."

"I agree." said Tails "So Sonic, when can we expect you and Amy to reveal your love for each other just like me and Cosmo have done so?" he added teasingly.

Sonic's quills straightened in surprise at that question and his face went red with embarrassment.

"Uh…to be honest Tails, I'm not sure what to say about that." murmured Sonic.

"What do you mean?" asked Tails curiously.

"Well you know that I kinda like Amy and I think she's cute and all." said Sonic "But at the same time, her slightly annoying nature stops me from loving her shall we say so I'm more cool to have Amy as a friend than anything. That and, I don't think I'm ready to settle down and have a girlfriend yet."

"Oh, I see." said Tails "I understand you though. You do have a lot of responsibilities and your duty as hero of Mobius is a heavy enough burden on your shoulders as it is so I don't think you need a love-life tying you down as well."

"Yeah." said Sonic "Maybe when we finally defeat Eggman and my hero days are over, I might consider finding the right girl for me. Right now, I'm just happy to be single and watch other couples enjoy their love for one another."

"I'm sure you'll find the right girl someday, even if it does end up being Amy." said Cosmo supportively "But I think you have the right mindset right now Sonic, just focus on your duties first and worry about that stuff later."

"Thanks Cosmo." said Sonic "As for you, I hope you and Tails be very happy together. I'm glad you're a couple at last."

Tails and Cosmo just beamed happily and Tails stood up from the bench just to kneel down beside Cosmo and give her a little kiss. Cosmo hugged Tails and kissed him back. Sonic couldn't help but give off an "Awwww" expression as he saw the two young couple kissing each other. Tails and Cosmo were so cute together that he just smiled whenever he saw them hugging each other. But this lovely moment wasn't going to last for long for Sonic heard the flapping of wings and he looked around to see who was making that sound. He looked up at the sky and saw a frantic and bruised looking Rouge the Bat flying exhaustedly towards New Mobotropolis. She spotted Sonic from up where she was and she flew down towards him, gasping for breath as she panted exhaustedly from how tired she was. Sonic got up from the bench and wondered what Rouge might be here for. Rouge landed down on the ground and bent over forward with her hands on her thighs and panting ever so heavily. Sonic, Tails and Cosmo all ran up to her and Sonic patted her affectionately on the back to clam her down while she got her breath back.

"Hey Rouge, wasn't expecting you to show up again so soon. What's up?" asked Sonic.

"Oh Sonic, you've gotta help me!" blustered Rouge, grabbing Sonic by the shoulders and looking him directly in the face "I was out treasure-hunting but then I got my recent find stolen by Team Diamond so I teamed up with a kid-spy named Sora Sumdac to get it back but then the plan backfired and now Team Diamond's got Sora! You have to help me rescue that poor kid before they kill her!"

Sonic, Tails and Cosmo were astonished to hear this and they all have Rouge an incredulous look as if they had a hard time factoring all of this in.

"Team Diamond are back?!" gasped Sonic.

"And they've got Sora?!" cried Tails "Oh no! We've gotta save her immediately!"

"So I guess you know Team Diamond then?" asked Rouge.

"We do." said Sonic grimly "Barely though. We met them last year where they worked with Lola Gunn to try and kill me. They ended up killing her instead and they got away and I've been wondering where they've been since then. Seems like they're doing something at last."

"Indeed." said Rouge "They stole the treasure I found and they've got Sora. Will you please help me save her and get my treasure back?"

"Sure thing." said Sonic "We owe Sora big time for all she did to stop the Region of Rebellious Reptiles from wrecking last year's Annual Acorn Awardsso I'll be happy to help save her from Team Diamond."

"Especially since I've been dying to see her again." added Tails, remembering how Sora looked familiar to him somehow but he couldn't quite work out why.

"Believe me when I say Sora's got something incredible to tell you." said Rouge, winking at Tails slyly "Anyway, I can tell you everything about Team Diamond since I'm an ex-member of theirs and I know where they are right now…"

"Wait a minute, YOU are an ex-member of Team Diamond?" asked Sonic in obfuscation.

"Yes." said Rouge glumly, obviously not pleased with that fact "I'll explain everything on the way, we've got to get going now before Team Diamond kill Sora!"

"I'm on it! You coming too Tails?" asked Sonic.

"Sure I am." said Tails "I've got something to ask Sora anyway. Cosmo, it'll be best if you stay here since Team Diamond are too dangerous for you." he said, putting his hands on Cosmo's shoulders and looking at her with a concerned expression on his face.

"OK Tails, I'll wait here for your return." said Cosmo, hugging her boyfriend in a farewell manner "Please be careful out there and come home to me safely."

"I will Cosmo." said Tails, hugging her back "I'll be back soon, don't worry."

"Wow, the two seem real cosy with each other don't they?" sniggered Rouge.

"They just became boyfriend and girlfriend Rouge so you can see why they're being like that." said Sonic "OK Rouge and Tails, let's do it to it! We've got a treasure for Rouge to retrieve and a super spy friend to rescue!"

With that said, Sonic zoomed off out of New Mobotropolis with Tails flying after him and Rouge flying ahead of him so she could lead the way to Team Diamond's hiding place. As the three left New Mobotropolis, Cosmo put her hands to her chest in concern and worry.

"Please let Sora be alive when they get there…" she said to herself, worried more for Tails than anything since he had been hoping to meet Sora again sometime soon…

The next few minutes had been complete hell for poor Sora. Lennox had used EVERY torture weapon on the trolley on her just to make her talk. She had scorch marks from the blowtorch, slight burn marks from the taser, small cuts from the knife and bruises from the nunchaku and baton. Sora had cuts, burns and bruises all over her body and she was so injured from that horrible torture session that she was barely conscious. All the poor spy could do was dangle from her chains helplessly and stare at the floor in utter pain, barely able to stay awake and keep her eyes open. Despite all of this though, she still refused to talk and tell Lennox anything about herself. The angry meerkat slammed his fists in rage on the trolley and he kicked it away in anger, sending it rolling across the floor and crashing loudly into a huge, dormant machine that was coated in cobwebs that had been made by moving-in spiders since it had stopped working. The contents on the trolley all fell off of the trolley as it hit the wall. Lennox grabbed Sora by the face.

"I've given you every single torture weapon on the trolley and you still resist me!" he snarled "Talk to me you little brat, goddamn it TALK TO ME!"

Sora just gave him a pathetic look and coughed in his face. Lennox screwed his face-up at Sora and he backhanded her across the face. The smack left a stinging mark on her cheek.

"I am losing my patience with you girl…who do you work for, what are you after and who are you?!" bellowed Lennox "You tell me right now or I'll put a bullet in your head!"

Sora still refused to talk. She just glared at Lennox like the brave little girl she was and glared at him rather ominously, fighting the pain in her cheek from that smack. Sora had been trained vigorously on keeping your mouth shut when being tortured by an enemy (no, the training exercise did not involve torture at all! Why would they do that?!) and she had been told by her foster father NEVER to give in to your enemies, no matter how much they torture you. She had vowed to follow her foster father's teachings to the letter so she was not about to let him down and squeal to Lennox. Lennox growled at Sora, visibly riled by her resilience. Lennox began to wonder if no matter what he did to Sora, she'd never crack. Just his luck to had such a resilient prisoner wasn't it? Lennox threw his arms up in defeat.

"Whatever! If you won't talk then I guess I'll have to kill you." snarled Lennox "If you don't want to die then I suggest you talk little girl."

"I'd…rather…cough, cough, cough…die…then…talk…about…ugh…anything…to you!" rasped Sora, her voice as hoarse as anything as the pains from her torture began to take their toll on her.

"Very well, I'll grant that wish." said Lennox coldly, getting out one of his revolvers and pointing it at Sora's heart.

"Or you can do the sensible thing and leave her alone." said Roxy, grabbing Lennox firmly by the spiked collar around his neck and yanking him back "Dead prisoners can't talk you know. Only an idiot kills people he wants information out of."

"Yes Lennox, don't kill the kid yet." said Owen "We can't learn anything from her if you kill her."

"I have an idea." purred Alistair "How about we kill her accomplice? I mean, he's useless to us isn't he?"

Lennox thought to himself and smiled at Alistair's suggestion. He knew what he was really hinting at here. He'd just suggested a good idea on how to make Sora talk. Lennox looked over at Sora again.

"Listen to me you festering canaille, if you don't answer my questions then your friend won't live to see another sunrise." snarled Lennox "And believe me when I say I mean what I'm saying here."

Sora gasped in horror as Alistair put his claws menacingly around Joel's neck, the squirrel just waking up from being knocked out earlier and looking worried as Alistair threatened to slit his throat with a clawed finger. The fox thought she was going to pass out in shock.

"No…please…don't…ugh…don't kill…Joel! Please…anything…but that!" wailed Sora desperately.

"Then tell me what I want to know and I promise he'll live, along with you." said Lennox furiously.

"I…I…I…can't!" cried Sora "I…promised…my foster…father…I would…never talk…in a situation…like this! Cough, cough, cough…I can't…betray my promise!"

Lennox glared at Sora in fury, the fox feeling a little nervous.

"Fine, your comrade dies." muttered Lennox, twirling the revolver in his hand menacingly.

"No! Please, I beg…of you! Please, don't…kill him…please, please…no!" begged Sora frantically "Please…don't kill him!"

Lennox ignored the pleading fox and he pointed the revolver at Joel's head. Alistair let go of Joel's neck and stood well back as Lennox pointed the gun at his head. The squirrel trembled in fright as his life began to flash before his eyes. and Lennox prepared to let him have it. Sora could feel herself beginning to cry as Lennox prepared to do the deed. Her lips wobbled and her eyes welled up with tears as Lennox clocked the revolver and curled his finger around the trigger. If she wasn't in chains right now, she'd be pinning Lennox to the floor and snatching the revolver from his hand. But she was restrained and helpless and she couldn't do anything about it. Lennox flashed Sora a nasty grin of sadistic glee as he pulled the trigger. The revolver fired the bullet with a terrible bang and Joel was instantly killed by the blast. Sora instantly went mental with horror.

"JOEL!" she screamed in anguish as the squirrel's head flopped down lifelessly and blood began to seep from the wound in his forehead.

One of her best friends in the spy-business was dead and it was all her fault for not talking already. Sora began to feel very bad about all this and she wailed her heart out over all of this. Roxy was the only one who seemed affected by all of this. Sora's cries began to make her feel sorry for the poor super spy. Sora was only a young girl and already she was witnessing something as horrible as this. Not that it mattered since Sora lost her innocence the moment she became a super spy but it still must be horrible for a twelve-year old like her. As Sora sobbed like a weeping willow over Joel's death, Lennox put his revolver away and strode up to her.

"That will happen to you if you don't talk." snarled Lennox "And if you don't talk then maybe I'll take more innocent lives away. And maybe one of them will be another friend of yours."

Sora ignored Lennox and continued weeping away as if she'd just lost someone more precious to her than life itself. Lennox decided that Sora wasn't worth his time anymore so he threw up his arms and strode off.

"Let's leave the little brat to come to grips with herself." said Lennox "When she's finished crying, we'll see if she's more willing to talk right now. Owen, dispose of that dead body, Roxy and Alistair, you help me get ready for the convoy trucks. They should be here any minute now."

"Yes sir." said all the members of the team.

Owen unchained Joel's dead body and he draped him over his shoulder like an old, dusty carpet waiting to be taken outside and beaten. He carried Joel out of the factory, leaving Sora to still cry over his death. While that was happening, Lennox, Roxy and Alistair left the factory too and went outside to prepare for the convoy trucks that were supposedly coming to pick up their latest raids and the Key of Opulence. The moment everybody had left though, Sonic, Tails and Rouge arrived at the factory and they had sneaked inside through the window. After a while of running, they had finally arrived and were now ready to rescue Sora. As they sneaked inside and crept across the walkway, Sonic and Rouge were conversing silently to one another.

"So let me get this straight, your dad got killed by Team Diamond when you was eight years old, then when you were sixteen you joined them and shortly after, found out they killed your dad and then you betrayed them and went solo and now you're battling them for a jewelled key you promised your dad you'd find?" whispered Sonic.

"Yes." whispered Rouge "Bet you're surprised that my inspiration my jewel-thieving career was a promise I made to my dad."

"I am really." said Sonic "And because of what you've told me, I'm going to make sure you get your key back so you can fulfil that vow you made to your dad."

"Thanks Sonic boy, that's real nice of you." said Rouge graciously "Now, keep your senses alert. Sora could be anywhere in this place…"

"There she is." hissed Tails quietly, pointing down to where Sora was dangling by chains around her wrists.

Sonic and Rouge looked over at Sora and Rouge felt her heart sink as she saw what had happened to her.

"Oh no…I shouldn't have left her behind!" she wailed guiltily "She's been busted up pretty badly and it's all my fault for abandoning her!"

"Rouge, if you didn't flee and get us, Sora wouldn't have anyone to call for help." noted Sonic "You did a good thing escaping and coming to us. Now let's get her out of there and fast."

With that said, Rouge and Tails flew down to the floor with Tails carrying Sonic and they ran over to Sora as quickly as they could. Sonic spin-dashed Sora's chains to pieces and the tortured fox just slumped down onto the floor, exhausted from all the pain she'd received and barely able to stay awake. Tails knelt down beside Sora and lifted her head up. It felt good to see her again, especially as he had something to ask her. Sora weakly opened up her eyes, which were no longer flowing with tears and the fur under them was stained horribly from crying so heavily, and she looked up at Tails.

"Ugh…uh…Tails…?" she whispered weakly.

"Sora Sumdac. It's good to see you again." said Tails "Although I'd have preferred happier circumstances. What happened to you?"

"Team…Diamond…cough…wanted me to…talk…" croaked Sora "I…refused…and bore the…brunt of their…anger…"

"I'm so, so, so sorry I left you to get this undeserved punishment honey." said Rouge guiltily "I had to get help, I really did. I'm so sorry I…"

"It's…OK Rouge…I understand." rasped Sora, clutching her side in pain "I'm glad…help's arrived at last. I'm…especially glad that…Tails is here…too…for I have something…he needs to hear…"

"Me?!" cried Tails "Something I need to hear? What do you mean?"

"Tails…this is going to…sound incredulous…but…I am…your sister." whispered Sora, fighting hard to say those words.

Tails gasped in surprise at this. Sora was his sister? How could this be? He didn't remember having any siblings at all! What was she on about. Sonic however, was less then pleasant about his reaction.

"Whoa…I think Team Diamond let her have it too hard." said Sonic "You can't seriously expect Tails to believe that can you? Tails doesn't have any siblings Sora, you can't possibly be related to him."

"No Sonic, I think she's telling the truth." said Tails "I can vaguely recall someone from when I was just a baby. I think you might be that person Sora. No wonder I kept thinking you look familiar. So if I'm really your brother…then why don't I remember you like I should do?"

"Because…fate tore us apart." said Sora sadly "You see, when you was born, I was the happiest girl in the world. I was always wanting a brother and I finally got one. I was four years old when you were born and I loved you immediately. I adored you and wanted to be the best sister…a brother could ask…for. Unfortunately…fate happened. For…our parents couldn't afford to keep us both. They were…seriously having money troubles and they couldn't keep us both…they just couldn't afford it. They had to give one of us up…or face a life of poverty. I gave myself up…for your sake. You were only two months old when this happened and…poverty was no life for you…so I gave myself up and became an orphan…all for you my lovely, dear brother…"

Tails felt like he wanted to cry hearing all of this. He had a sister all this time and because of financial problems, he lost her before he even knew her? How horrible was fate to him half the time?! But it seemed that fate liked to smile on him at other times since he was now reunited with Sora at last. Even Sonic looked amazed to hear all this but he seemed to be buying it luckily.

"Oh my gosh…I'm so sorry to hear all that Sora." said Tails "You had to be orphaned just so I could live and our parents could afford to look after me? I…I don't know what to say…"

"You're welcome…Tails." said Sora "Believe me when I say…mom and dad were heartbroken when I had to be orphaned for your sake. They made a promise…that once they had enough money…they would get me back. But then my spy-life happened…I was adopted by a super-spy named…Martin Sumdac. He was an amazing…man and a great foster father and…mentor to me. I enjoyed my life…with him and learning…how to be a super-spy so much…that I forgot all about you. I even…had my name legally changed…from Sora Prower…to Sora Sumdac. I forgot I even had a brother for a while…until the Region of Rebellious Reptiles happened…and then you saw me and lit a spark…in my memory and I…looked at a family photo…I forgot I had…and remembered that you're…my brother. I'm so…sorry that I forgot all about you and never…got to see you again Tails. I'm so, so sorry."

"It's alright Sora." said Tails, on the verge of tears after hearing all of this "You had your duty, you didn't have time for a brother. But now we remember each other we can reunite and bring the family back together again! If only mom and dad were here to see this…" he added sadly.

"I know…what happened to them unfortunately…" said Sora grimly "They…were killed during a raid…in an Eggman base two months…after the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters…formed.

"No!" cried Tails "Mom and dad are…really gone?! Now our family will NEVER be reunited! First I lose you, now we lost mom and dad! I also lost my cousin Ginger but I don't care about him, he was a jerk to me! He got what was coming to him!"

"Yes…I hated Ginger too…" muttered Sora "Glad to hear…he's dead. Anyway…we may never have the family…we always wanted…but me and you can…keep the Prower family alive…at least. Now we're back together again. I'm…so happy to see my little brother again…after being taken from him before…his life really began."

"And I'm glad to know that a super-spy as awesome as you is my sister." said Tails, hugging Sora happily "And now I know you're related to me, I'm never going to lose you again!"

Sora hugged him back and the two siblings had a good, happy cry with each other over what had just been spoken. Sonic and Rouge watched this in awe and Rouge put her hands over her heart, delighted for the two young foxes.

"Aww…that's so cute." said Sonic "Tails got his sister back after all those years of being separated from her. I'm amazed to hear he even HAS one but it makes sense why he's never mentioned her or said he has any siblings before at least."

"Yeah." said Rouge "I already knew this believe it or not since Sora told me she was Tails' long-lost sister when she saved me from Team Diamond."

"And you didn't tell us since you think it would sound more believable coming out of Sora than you I bet." said Sonic "Thanks for letting Sora tell Tails herself, that was very nice of you."

"Don't mention it." said Rouge "Now, let's get Sora outta here before…"

Then suddenly, the factory doors swung open again and Team Diamond stormed inside to see what was going on, startling Tails and Sora and making them clutch each other in fear…

Well...Tails has discovered he has a sister but it looks like the reunion's about to end as quickly as it happened! Can Sonic, Tails, Sora and Rouge survive Team Diamond? Or are they wlell and truly dead now...? And what of the Key of Opulence? Will its power come to fruition in the ensuing battle?

I apologize for the disturbing nature of Sora's torture. What can I say? Team Diamond are mean, they would do something like this. Please don't get too worked up over it if it's disturbing to you, I'm not trying to freak anybody out after all.

The Key of Opulence 2

Story 138: The Key of Opulence Part 2

What had just been a sweet, loving, tender moment between two reunited siblings had just been destroyed in a matter of seconds.

The sneaky but good-hearted Rouge the Bat had gone off to the Tropical Jungle to find a legendary relic known as "The Key of Opulence", a jewelled key with a power of apocalyptic capabilities, only to then lose it to the nefarious Team Diamond, treasure hunters working for the insidious organization known as H.U.N.T.* Then Rouge ended up teaming up with the amazing super-spy, Sora Sumdac, and her friend Joel Nutmeg to get the key back, only for the spies to get captured and Rouge being forced to retreat and call for help. She'd brought Sonic the Hedgehog and Tails the Fox to the factory Team Diamond were hiding in to save Sora but they were too late to save Joel since he had been coldly executed in an attempt to make Sora talk. So only Sora was there to be rescued now. Sonic had unchained Sora and Sora had revealed to Tails that she was her sister. Surprised at first, Tails was quite thrilled to be reunited with one member of his family at last and the two were happily hugging each other, thrilled to be back together after being separated by a cruel twist of fate all those years ago. But unfortunately, Team Diamond had come back into the factory to collect all the jewels they had gotten from the Key of Opulence's power. Their convey had finally arrived and they had started loading it all the time Sora had been talking to her rescuers. The convey was a fleet of trucks that was going to take all the jewels to a shipyard and ship them off to other regions of the world so other members of H.U.N.T. could get some fair shares and the boss behind it all would get some jewels too since H.U.N.T. had a strict policy on sharing with other teams and members. Made the group more organized and strengthened the teamwork and friendships between them all. The moment Team Diamond had returned to the factory to pick up their jewels from the Key of Opulence, they all stared in horror at the fact Sonic was here and Tails and Sora were hugging each other fearfully. Lennox Meers the Meerkat, leader of Team Diamond, whipped out his revolvers and pointed them at Sonic and Tails.

"Sonic the Hedgehog?! And his twin-tailed accomplice?!" shrieked Lennox "How did you get here?!"

"A little bat told us and she's standing right next to me." sneered Sonic, pointing at Rouge with his thumb.

"Did you honestly think that I would retreat and let you goons harm an innocent, twelve-year old girl and her friend?" scoffed Rouge "I went to get help and I got the best help I could possibly ask for, Sonic and Tails."

"Well you're too late to save the girl's friend, we killed him to try and make her talk." said Lennox coldly.

"Wha…? Oh no…" said Rouge, shocked to hear that Joel was dead and that they weren't in time to save him too "Oh Sora, I'm so sorry we didn't get here in time to help Joel!"

"It's…OK Rouge. When you're a super…spy you get used…to losing your friends…" grunted Sora "Although…Joel's death will be…hard for me to get over. He was…a really good friend to me."

"So not only did you torture Sora, who's a friend of ours, you killed one of her friends?!" shouted Sonic in disbelief "You're really asking for it Team Diamond! I'm gonna see to it that all four of you rot in prison for this!"

"Just try and get us hedgehog!" snarled Lennox, shooting rapidly at him and Tails with his revolvers.

The Mobians all scattered with Sonic dodging the bullets with ease, Rouge flying into the air and Tails carrying Sora bridal style and flying her out of harm's reach. As Tails flew up, Sora held on tightly to her brother and she gasped as she watched his tails spinning around like propeller blades.

"Oh my gosh! You…you can fly with those tails?!" cried Sora in surprise.

"I sure can sis." said Tails brightly "I can fly faster than most fliers in the world and they've helped me a lot in my adventures."

"I always…knew you were born…with two tails for a reason brother." said Sora happily "Not only did they make you more special but… they've given you an incredible ability.

"Heh, heh, thanks Sora." said Tails, landing down beside a huge machine and putting Sora down "Now stay behind here while we fight Team Diamond. You're in no condition to help and they'll surely kill you if you try and fight them. I can't bear to lose you just so soon after getting you back."

"Be careful brother, whatever you do." said Sora, hugging Tails as if this was going to be their last hug ever "Please…bring them to justice for what they've done to me…and many others."

"I will Sora, that's a promise." said Tails, hugging her back.

Now that was done with, Tails took to the air again and flew off, leaving Sora to just observe the whole fight from behind the machine. She really wanted to join in with the fight but her injuries from the torture she'd received were too great. She just couldn't join in at all so Sora was stuck on the sidelines. Still, she was quite happy to watch her brother in action and watch him bring down Team Diamond. Lennox was still shooting at Sonic and Rouge but they kept dodging his shots. Sonic eventually put a stop to Lennox's shooting craze by spin-dashing him in the gut and making him drop the revolvers. Rouge stomped on them both, breaking them and rendering them useless to the meerkat now. As for Sonic, he was pinning Lennox down to the floor by putting his foot on his chest. He glared at Lennox and the meerkat glared back at him.

"I remember you gun-happy." he said darkly "You're the ring leader and you gave me a good kicking despite me smashing your guns to bits. Well you won't be leading Team Diamond to anything anymore when I put you behind bars. And Rouge tells me your name is "Lennox Meers". So now I know who I'm up against this time, something that'll help us beat you and your team."

"Grrr…this is why we often memory-wipe or kill deserters and traitors to H.U.N.T.!" growled Lennox "Thanks to Rouge, you and your whole team will know our names and secrets! No matter, the subtlety maybe gone but we're still as threatening as we always are hedgehog!"

"Yeah, sure, whatever." muttered Sonic "You and your team are going to jail and that's the end of it."

Then suddenly, Sonic was grabbed from behind by an enormous gloved hand and yanked away from Lennox, allowing the meerkat the chance to get back up. The hand that had grabbed Sonic and lifted him off of Lennox belonged to Owen Pounder, the team's strongman with a keen brain and good sense of workings-out. Owen held Sonic at arm's length by his head and Sonic tried to punch at him.

"Hey, put me down you overgrown Easter Bunny!" cried Sonic.

"No chance you big, spiky nuisance!" growled Owen "You will not arrest us and we will tear you apart just like we attempted to do the first time we met you!"

He then proceeded to put his other hand on Sonic's head and he attempted to break his neck in two but Sonic quickly moved his feet and rapidly kicked Owen as he edged his moving feet close to him, causing the muscular rabbit to drop him. Now Sonic was free from Owen's grip, he tripped him up with a sweeping kick to the ankles. Owen landed down back first onto the floor rather sharply, making him wince in pain. Lennox tried to help Owen by punching at Sonic but Sonic leaned out of the way and grabbed his fist. He threw Lennox over onto his back and slammed him on the floor as hard as he could. Owen picked himself up and punched at Sonic but Sonic zipped out of the way, leaving Owen to punch Lennox by accident. Lennox ended up wheezing really loudly as if a football had been kicked into his gut. Owen gasped in horror at his mistake and he helped Lennox sit up and started patting him on the back to make him feel better. Sonic just took the opportunity to spin-dash Owen and send him flying into a dormant machine that was nearby. Owen's crash was so heavy that he ended up denting the machine. Sonic ran up to Owen again but Owen held his hands up and caught Sonic like a basketball being thrown at him. Owen raised Sonic up above his head and slammed him down onto the floor as hard as he could. He didn't let go of Sonic though, he swung him around into the machine he'd hit earlier and slammed Sonic as hard as he could again. Owen then pinned Sonic against the machine, hoping to keep him there, but Sonic kicked him in the chest and made him let go. Sonic then slugged Owen in the gut and kicked him down onto the floor. Lennox ran in and punched Sonic but Sonic took the blow and he grabbed Lennox by the arm. He bent Lennox's arm over his shoulder and then threw him over in front of himself onto the floor. The meerkat just groaned in pain as he hit the floor.

As for Rouge, she was fighting Roxy the Raccoon, the team's femme fetale, while Tails was fighting Alistair Drakken, the creepy mask-wearing bat who's also an aerial ace. Rouge had her fight with Roxy in the bag since Roxy wasn't the most incredible fighter of Team Diamond. Rouge flew out of the way as Roxy swung her baton at her and she screw-kicked Roxy in the gut, knocking the raccoon down on the floor. Rouge then tried to grab Roxy but Roxy grabbed her hands and kept them away from her. She then proceeded to throw her legs upwards, sending Rouge hurling forwards into the floor face first. Roxy quickly rolled over and she kicked Rouge just as the bat was trying to get back up. Rouge managed to recover from this though and she roundhouse kicked Roxy across the face as the raccoon tried to hit her with her baton again. Roxy was thrown aside by the kick but Rouge didn't stop there. She grabbed Roxy by her ponytail and yanked her onto her knees. She then dragged Roxy around by her hair and slammed her face first into a nearby supporting pole. Roxy groaned as her face flared up with pure, unadulterated pain. Rouge tried to drag her again but Roxy grabbed onto the pole with both hands, preventing Rouge from dragging her around anymore. Roxy then pulled on herself and pulled Rouge towards her. She elbowed the bat in the mouth and made her let go of her ponytail. Rouge's mouth now had a spot of blood on her lips after that elbow thrust. Rouge wiped it away, staining her elbow length glove as she wiped it, and she took to the skies again. She flew towards Roxy but Roxy jumped up and grabbed onto her, pulling the bat down for she was so taken aback by the sudden grab that she didn't have time to react and the girls were brought crashing down onto the floor. Roxy kicked Rouge off of herself and then tried to club Rouge with her baton but Rouge kicked Roxy in the gut and made her double over. Then she ran towards a pole, grabbed it, swung herself around it sideways and she kicked Roxy in the back, sending her flying forward onto her face. Rouge stopped swinging herself around and she strode casually up to Roxy.

"You're not as good as the boys Roxy." sneered Rouge "I can't think for a minute why Lennox let you on the team."

"Just you wait, I'm not finished yet!" yelled Roxy, picking herself up and walloping Rouge across the head with her baton.

That wallop across the head had left Rouge feeling light-headed and with a big headache which hurt so much, it was hard for her to think straight. She rubbed her head furiously to make the pain go away but she wouldn't have time for that for Roxy picked herself up and uppercut her in the face with the baton, knocking her down onto her back. Roxy tried to hit Rouge again but Rouge rolled out of the way and flew up into the air where Roxy wouldn't be able to hit her. This allowed her a moment to rub her head better and get back into the fight. Rouge screw-kicked Roxy from behind and knocked her down onto the floor. Rouge then snatched the baton out of Roxy's hand and threw it away. She grabbed both her arms and twisted them behind her back, making the raccoon scream loud enough to make the ceiling crumble down on them. Rouge just grinned slyly, clearly enjoying making a member of a team she was once part of suffer. Revenge is sweet as they say.

As for Tails and Alistair, Tails was having one heck of a hard time up in the air with Alistair. Alistair was by far the superior flier of the two so Tails could barely keep up with him. Tails charged towards Alistair like a speeding bullet and he tried to punch Alistair but the bat dodged his attack and dropkicked him in the head, sending Tails hurling down to the floor. Tails managed to save himself by grabbing onto low hanging chain nearby. Alistair charged at Tails but Tails grabbed part of the chain under his feet and he whipped Alistair with it. Being whipped with a chain is much worse than being whipped by an ordinary whip. The whip left Alistair with a dent across the forehead section of his mask and he wailed ominously in pain. The mask was the only thing keeping him alive now and it really hurt him when the mask received any damage. Tails flew off of the chain and he tried to punch Alistair again but Alistair grabbed his fist and socked him in the mouth. Tails cried out in pain and he gripped his throbbing mouth furiously. Alistair then proceeded to slash Tails across the cheek with his razor-sharp claws. Tails screamed in agony as his cheek began to sting from the three fresh cuts he'd just received across his cheek. Tails really lost his wick after that attack and he tried furiously to punch Alistair but the bat kept dodging his attacks with ease.

"Your efforts are futile little brat." he sneered, karate-chopping Tails in the back of his neck as he dodged another attack of his "I am the superior flier of the two, you will never be able to bring me down. And all losing your temper is going to do is ensure that I win and you die." he added as Tails tried and failed to punch him again.

"Shut up!" shrieked Tails, punching at Alistair again and really losing it "You and your evil gang have brutally harmed my sister and I'm gonna make you pay for it!"

Alistair looked stunned to hear Tails yelling that at him.

"Sister…? The blue-furred fox we tortured is your sister?" he mused "Well in that case, maybe if I hold your life on the line, we can get her to talk! I bet the kid will willingly tell us everything we want to know if her brother's life is threatened!"

That did it. Tails REALLY went berserk with rage and he kicked Alistair in the face as hard as he possibly could. Alistair wailed a ghoulish, growling wail of pain but Tails didn't stop there. He flew directly into Alistair and began whaling on him as hard as he could, his rage so out of control that his punches seemed to get harder every time he threw one at the bat.

"You. Will. Not. Get. My. Sister. To. Talk!" he screamed with every punch he threw at Alistair.

He then proceeded to tail whip Alistair down into the floor where he crashed into a dormant treadmill and left a gaping hole in the belt section. Alistair just groaned in pain and lay there, too weak to move after that epic beat down Tails had just given him. When Tails last his temper, he truly was an unstoppable force that not even Sonic can tame. Tails flew down to the floor, panting heavily for that beat down had left him out of breath. He observed Alistair and safely deduced that he was out of action for now. Now the bat was dealt with, Tails could maybe help Sonic or Rouge with their fights. As for Sora, she had watched Tails beat the daylights out of Alistair and she was pretty amazed at what she had witnessed.

"Wow…my brother really is a good fighter isn't he?" she whispered to herself "Better than me that's for sure. I'll have to see if he can teach me a bit more on how to fight when this is all over."

That thought was a very lovely thought indeed and hopefully, Sora would live long enough for it to happen. Back over to Sonic, Lennox and Owen, the three were still fighting rather callously with each other and Sonic was on top for the most part. Tails had decided to fly in and help him since Rouge seemed to have her right with Roxy in the bag and wouldn't need help. Tails flew in and kicked Lennox in the head, leaving Sonic to take on Owen. Sonic was delighted to receive some assistance from his best friend and he let Tails deal with Lennox. Sonic leaped up to Owen and he kicked him in the face in the manner of a martial artist. Owen staggered backwards and Sonic then let him have it with a sweeping kick to the legs. Owen was tripped up by the attack and he came down with a rather heavy thud on his back. Sonic then poured salt on the wound by elbow-thrusting Owen in the gut. Owen gasped after that elbow-thrust but he was soon back on his feet. Sonic punched at him but Owen grabbed his fist. He squeezed on it hard, making Sonic cry in pain. Then Owen tossed Sonic across the room and sent him flying into a wall. Sonic hit the wall and lay against it, grimacing in pain. Owen then lowered his head and thundered towards Sonic like a charging bull. Sonic recovered from that smack in the wall but he was too late to dodge Owen's charge. Owen crashed into Sonic and due to how strong he was and how weak the wall was in comparison to most buildings, he ended up breaking his way through the wall as he crashed into Sonic!

"Oh YEAH!" yelled Owen as he burst through the wall, sending chunks of metal flying everywhere and crumbling down onto the floor.

The wall now had a giant hole in it thanks to Owen charging through it. Owen had sent Sonic flying a few feet away after charging into him and Sonic now lay near a convey truck that was fully loaded and ready to drive off. Owen and Sonic were in the parking lot where the convey was waiting to pick up Team Diamond's latest jewels from their latest hunts. There were four trucks all waiting for the all go signal. The trucks were big, yellow trucks with enormous trailers that had two wheels on each side. The drivers of the trucks looked in their rear-view mirrors and watched as Sonic and Owen started to fight again. They were gobsmacked at what they were seeing.

"Holy mother of pearls! It's Sonic the Hedgehog himself!" shrieked one driver.

"That blasted hedgehog's here to ruin everything!" cried another "Let's get outta here before he steals any jewels that's stored in our trucks!"

"No, we have to wait for Lennox to give the all clear signal. We cannot go yet." said a third driver "Besides, Team Diamond will deal with him no sweat."

So the truck drivers reluctantly decided to stay put and see what happens. Owen threw a punch at Sonic but Sonic dodged and spin-dashed him directly into the trailer of one of the trucks. Owen recovered from the attack and he punched at Sonic again. As the two were fighting, Lennox had decided to run off and see what was going on outside with Tails chasing after him. Rouge and Roxy had decided to do the same thing as well. Alistair had finally recovered from his beat down at the hands of Tails and he flew over to the hole in the wall to see what was going on. Sora was anxious to see what was happening too so she limped over to the hole in the wall, ignoring the pain in her body and forcing herself to walk over to it. They all looked outside and they could see that Sonic and Owen were fighting in the parking lot and fighting near the convey trucks. Sonic spin-dashed Owen into a truck's trailer and the rabbit crashed into some of the cargo inside. Sonic leaped into the trailer and spin-dashed him again. Owen picked up a few crates containing lots of jewels and he tried to smash Sonic with it. Sonic zipped out of the way of course, leaving the crate to smash against the wall of the trailer and break into a million pieces, the contents of the crate scattering everywhere. Sonic picked up a crate and he kicked it directly into Owen's face. The crate smashed to pieces and jewels fell everywhere as it broke. Owen tried to launch another attack but he stepped on some pearls that had fallen on the floor and he tripped on them. Sonic just laughed at him.

"What's the matter Owen? Too slippery for you?" he sneered "Serves you right for throwing crates at me and spilling jewels everywhere I say!"

Owen just growled at Sonic and tried to punch at him again, the hedgehog dodging his attack and dropkicking Owen in the head. Outside, Lennox ran over to the truck and he nearly went mental with shock over what he was looking at.

"NO! Our precious treasures!" he shrieked "That infernal hedgehog's going to ruin our convey! How can we stop that blasted, rapidly-moving nuisance?!"

He then suddenly came up with a brilliant idea. He reached into his cloak pocket and took out the Key of Opulence.

"If I open up a doorway and throw Sonic into it and then close it… he'll be gone forever!" he deduced "Brilliant! We'll get rid of him once and for all!"

Sora and Rouge were horrified to see that Lennox was going to use the Key of Opulence again.

"No! We mustn't let him use that key again!" cried Sora "If he uses it two more times and then another, the key will turn him into a gold-craving monster that will end all life as we know it!"

"I'm on it honey." said Rouge, flying off towards Lennox as the meerkat activated the key's power.

Lennox thrust the key in front of himself, turned it to one side and then opened up a doorway in front of the trailer. The doorway was full of jewels much like before and Owen could see it from inside the trailer.

"Owen! Grab Sonic and throw him in there!" yelled Lennox "Once he's in I'm going to close the door and seal him in there for good!"

Owen smiled evilly at this. Lennox had a good plan to get rid of Sonic it seemed and he was going to make sure that it works to perfection. Owen lunged at Sonic and grabbed him but before he could even so much as ATTEMPT to throw him through the jewel doorway, Rouge screw-kicked Lennox away and instantly closed it. She snatched the Key of Opulence away after closing the door but Lennox grabbed her by the waist and snatched it back off of her before she could fly away. Lennox then re-opened the door and Owen readied himself to throw Sonic through the door. Sonic however managed to break free of Owen's grip and he dropkicked Owen into the back of the trailer. Lennox jumped into the trailer to try and help Owen through Sonic through the door. This gave Rouge the perfect opportunity to close the door again and get the Key of Opulence back.

"If Lennox uses it one more time, he's gonna become that monster Sora's described." she mused to herself "He's used it three times now, I've gotta make sure he doesn't use it again."

Unfortunately, before Rouge could make off with the key, Alistair and Roxy both ran in and they pounced on her. They brought Rouge down to the ground and Alistair swiped the key from her hands. Rouge tried to get it back but Roxy batted her hand and kept it away from Alistair. Alistair then ran over to the truck to give the key back to Lennox but Tails flew in and dropkicked him, making him drop the key. He had overheard Sora and Rouge's discussion so he knew that Lennox must not be allowed to use the key again. Tails grabbed the key as Alistair dropped it but he was soon hit from behind by a flying Sonic the Hedgehog. Owen had managed to throw him out of the trailer and he had crashed into Tails as he flew out of it. Tails dropped the key and Roxy grabbed it. Rouge kicked the raccoon in the back and Roxy dropped the key but it ended up landing near Lennox. Lennox grabbed the key and quickly used its power again.

"Now Sonic, Rouge and Tails, it's time to seal you all away forever!" he yelled at them.

He was right to say "forever" since when you use the Key of Opulence, you never open the same door twice, you always open up a new one. Thus, if he got Sonic, Tails and Rouge through the door and closed it, they would be stuck in limbo for all eternity. But that wasn't what was going to happen now. For when Lennox thrust the key in front of him and turned it, a door didn't open. Instead, the key glowed a very bright gold colour and Lennox was engulfed by the light. The light was so bright that everybody had to shield their eyes from it before they got blinded. Sora was horrified to see what was happening. The heroes had failed, Lennox had used the key more than three times and now the end of the world was coming for Lennox would turn it into a golden paradise with only him as the populace of Mobius for everybody would be turned into gold by him. As Lennox was engulfed by the bright, golden, radiant glow, he began to feel himself changing. His body began to feel funny and he gripped himself in anguish as if the transformation was physically hurting him.

"What…?! What's happening to me?!" he wailed as the key's power began to transform him.

Lennox looked at his hands and noticed that they were turning a brilliant golden colour. That wasn't it though. The golden colour began to spread all the way up his arms and up to his shoulders. Then it spread out down his torso and all the way down to his legs and feet. It finished by spreading up to his head and even his hat. It was as if invisible paintbrushes were sweeping over Lennox and painting him gold. Everybody watched in astonishment as Lennox was turned completely gold and now just looked like a golden version of himself. Every inch of his body had been turned gold, even his clothes. His eyes were a much darker gold than the rest of his body and they were as blank as a sheet of paper. They glowed ever so ominously though and Lennox looked truly scary like this. He looked like a golden ghoul that had come out to unleash chaos on the world. The Key of Opulence stopped glowing after Lennox's transformation and it fell down onto the ground with a clunk. Rouge seized it immediately and held it tightly as she stared at Golden Lennox. Everybody unshielded their eyes and they were speechless with amazement at what was looming before them.

"What in the heck happened?!" cried Sonic "Lennox looks like he just fell into a tub of gold paint!"

"It's that key Sonic!" exclaimed Tails, pointing at the Key of Opulence which Rouge now had in her hands "Its transformed Lennox into a golden entity!"

"But that can't be! How is the Key of Opulence able to do that?!" blurted Owen "I don't recall hearing anything about it being able to do something like this!"

"Well Owen, you big doofus, it can do that obviously since that's what it just did!" shouted Roxy "So what's gonna happen now Lennox is that thing?"

"We all die, that's what happens." said Sora gravely "The Key of Opulence's side effect is that anyone who uses it more than once will become a golden entity that craves gold and will turn everything, living or not, into solid gold. Lennox will turn all of Mobius into gold and we'll all be golden statues that will forever observe the golden landscape that he has created."

"So that's why me and Sora came to stop you guys from using it, because we didn't want to risk having one of you idiots causing the end of the world." said Rouge crossly "Now look what happened! Lennox is gonna turn us all into gold and all because you decided to steal what was rightfully mine! Had the key remained in MY hands then we wouldn't be in this situation now!"

This was all too shocking for Roxy, Owen and Alistair to hear. Their own leader was going to turn everything to gold and end all life on Mobius?! They had to stop him and fast! They maybe treasure-hunters with a rapacious greed but ending the world was not what they had signed up for! If Lennox turned them gold, their careers would be over and their lives would be no more! Even Sonic was gobsmacked to hear all this and he decided to get down to it. He couldn't help but think that Lennox might be the one to doom Silver and Blaze's future. But then, they hadn't described the world is being made of solid gold and if Lennox turns everything into gold then how can Silver and Blaze exist? This must mean that Lennox will get stopped somehow and that filled Sonic up with hope. The only trouble was…how can they stop him? Nevertheless, Sonic was determined to try and stop Lennox before he goes on a gold craze.

"If Lennox is gonna turn the world into gold then we have to stop him and fast!" declared Sonic "Sora, how do we stop him? You know about the key's side-effects, there must be a way to reverse it!"

"Well, I believe it is said that if you use the Key of Opulence and turn it the other way, it'll open up a door that will strip the corrupted person of their golden powers and restore them to normal." said Sora "And by other way, I mean turn it to the right instead of the left like one normally does when turning a key."

"Got it." said Sonic "And Rouge already has the key so let's get on with it. We can end this charade before it begins."

But Sonic was wrong on that for Golden Lennox charged at the Mobians and sent them all sprawling across the ground. Everybody was thrown a few metres in different directions of the parking lot and Sonic & Tails were sent crashing into a truck. Golden Lennox swooped down and he snatched the Key of Opulence away from Rouge, who was lying near the hole in the wall of the factory.

"My Key of Opulence!" hissed Golden Lennox, his voice deeply amplified and very intimidating sounding now "I shall keep this key safely out of your hands and keep you all from taking away my powers! Now, prepare to become gold as I make this world a golden paradise! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

He put the key in his cloak pocket and then edged towards Rouge, preparing to touch the bat and turn her into a solid gold statue. But before he could touch Rouge, Sonic spin-dashed him away from the bat and sent him crashing down away from her. Sonic helped Rouge back onto her feet and the two prepared to battle with Golden Lennox.

"Whatever you do Sonic, DON'T let him touch you!" called Sora "If he does, you'll become gold faster then even you can run!"

"Don't let Lennox touch me, get the key back and use it the other way, I believe I can do that." said Sonic cockily "Tails, Rouge and Team Diamond, I'll need all the help I can get out here so are you with me?"

"Certainly." said Tails and Rouge.

"We're in without a moment's hesitance." said Roxy "We don't want Lennox to kill us all. We want him back to normal so we're helping."

"Good." said Sonic "OK guys, let's do it to it!"

With that said, everybody charged towards Golden Lennox and they prepared to bring him down and get the Key of Opulence back off of him. Golden Lennox raised his fists and he flew towards the charging Mobians. Tails and Alistair were the ones to make the first move by kicking Golden Lennox in the head. Golden Lennox hurled down onto the floor and Owen picked him up. He threw Golden Lennox into a truck, noticeable the one he and Sonic had been fighting in earlier. Golden Lennox hit the truck and due to the fact he was more powerful than ever before, his crashing into the truck ended up tipping it over onto its side. The terrified driver jumped out of the truck and ran for his life. The other truck drivers floored it and drove off, leaving the one truck behind to take whatever it was going to get. Three convey trucks were going to deliver whatever jewels they had to the boss and other teams of H.U.N.T but they were only going to be delivering half of what they usually deliver. Golden Lennox picked himself up and he placed his hands on the truck he had crashed into. The moment he did, the truck turned into a solid gold truck that sparkled like the stars in the sky. He then flew underneath the truck and he picked it up as if it weighed nothing! The Mobians all stared in amazement as they watched this ordinarily sized meerkat pick up a huge golden truck as if it was nothing to him. A solid gold truck was likely to weight hundreds of tonnes but Golden Lennox made it seem like it weighed nothing!

"Unbelievable! He can pick up that truck that he's just turned into gold?!" exclaimed Sonic.

"He must have super strength now!" cried Tails "Well, given he's turned into an entity, I bet his powers are limitless!"

Golden Lennox cackled at the top of his voice and he threw the truck at the Mobians. Everybody instantly dove for cover and the truck ended up coming down with a heavy, tumultuous crash that shattered it all into giant, golden pieces that lay on the ground. The road of the parking lot had been cracked by the impact and now giant cracks were spreading out in the parking lot. Golden Lennox was disappointed to see that his attack had missed and he whooshed down towards Tails for he was nearest too him.

"Gold…must have gold!" he roared as he neared Tails "You will become gold little one!"

Tails cried out in horror as Golden Lennox neared him and he braced himself for the impact. But that would never come for Sora used all the strength she had left in her injured body to jump out and push Tails out of the way. The two foxes ended up sprawling on the ground as Golden Lennox swooped past them both. Tails stared at Sora in surprise and the blue-furred fox with the silver utility belt tried to keep herself standing as she picked herself up.

"Sora…thank you." gasped Tails.

"You're…welcome brother…" grunted Sora as her injuries began acting up again "I lost you eight years ago…I'm not gonna lose you again."

That made Tails smile with gratefulness at his long lost sister. But now was not the time to rest, Golden Lennox swooped back around and he headed towards Tails and Sora. They both cried out in fear and they hugged each other worriedly.

"I will turn you BOTH golden!" he cackled maniacally as he headed towards the two foxes "I must turn everything into gold! Gold is power, gold is beauty and gold is everything and it must become gold!"

"The only gold we'll have around here is actual gold!" yelled Sonic, running in to save Tails and Sora before Golden Lennox could turn the two siblings into golden statues.

He spin-dashed Golden Lennox and slammed him down into the ground. Tails and Sora both breathed a sigh of relief and Tails helped to escort Sora out of harm's way for she was the most vulnerable out here given her injuries and such. Golden Lennox threw a punch at Sonic in an attempt to touch him and turn him gold but Sonic dodged the attack and he spin-dashed Golden Lennox again. Golden Lennox was sent flying into the wall of the factory and before he could get up, Sonic grabbed him by the tail and threw him into the remains of the golden truck he'd thrown at the Mobians earlier. Golden Lennox crashed into the golden remains and he ended up breaking them down into even smaller chunks than they already were. Golden Lennox picked himself up, looking visibly unharmed from the onslaught he'd just received right now and he picked up some rather sizeable gold chunks. He threw them at Sonic in an attempt to knock him out and render him vulnerable to his gold-crazy powers. Sonic just spin-dashed through them all and he hit Golden Lennox once again. Golden Lennox picked himself up and he clasped his fists together. He slammed them on the ground and made it shudder underneath everybody's feet. Sonic was thrown down onto his back by the slam and Golden Lennox rushed over to him, eager to touch him and turn him gold. He lashed out at Sonic but Sonic grabbed Golden Lennox's wrists and kept his hands away from him. Golden Lennox pushed hard on Sonic to try and get his hands near him but Sonic fought back to keep Golden Lennox's hands away from him. Unfortunately, Golden Lennox was beginning to overpower Sonic for Golden Lennox had greater strength than Sonic. Sonic could feel his strength beginning to give out as Golden Lennox began to overpower him.

"It is useless to resist!" cackled Golden Lennox "You are to become gold and you cannot stop me from converting you!"

But before he could so much as get his fingertips close to Sonic's face, Roxy ran in and walloped him into the air as hard as she could with her baton. Golden Lennox hurled into the air but he stopped himself from crashing down into the ground and he flew back towards Roxy. Roxy prepared to bat him again but Golden Lennox came in too fast and he swept Roxy off her feet by charging into her. Roxy was thrown backwards and she skidded to a halt on her back. The raccoon grimaced in pain at that stop and Golden Lennox prepared to touch her. Sonic spin-dashed towards Golden Lennox but Golden Lennox spun around and kicked Sonic away. Sonic crashed down a few feet away and skidded to a halt. He picked himself up and began wondering something.

"Hey wait a second, Lennox touched me!" he cried "Well, he kicked me but he still touched me! Why am I not gold then? Is it only his hands that he has to touch people with and turn them into gold?"

Sonic soon received his answer for Lennox grabbed Roxy by the arm and turned the horrified raccoon into a shining golden statue that lay on the ground completely at his mercy. Flesh and bone and even fur and hair had been turned into solid gold in a matter of seconds. Sonic now knew that he had to make sure that Lennox doesn't get his hands on him or he'll end up like poor Roxy. The best way of maintaining this avoidance technique would be to attack Golden Lennox from behind, the very place he can't touch someone. With that in mind, Sonic zoomed towards Golden Lennox and he attempted to spin-dash him in the back. Unfortunately, Golden Lennox heard him coming and he flipped over out of Sonic's way. Sonic skidded to a halt and charged towards Golden Lennox again but Golden Lennox lowered his head and rammed Sonic into the factory wall, breaking another hole through it as he did so. He then backhanded Sonic across the factory and into a nearby machine (that didn't turn Sonic into gold because Golden Lennox has to touch with the PALMS of his hand for his gimmick to work). Sonic picked himself up and ran out of the factory to bring Golden Lennox back outside. The moment Golden Lennox followed Sonic and flew outside though, Rouge and Alistair both pile-dived him into the ground from up above. Rouge used her screw-kick and Alistair just kicked him. Now Golden Lennox was down, the two bats turned him onto his back and Rouge fumbled in his cloak pocket for the Key of Opulence. Unfortunately, Golden Lennox grabbed her by the arm and turned her into solid gold just like he did with Roxy! He pushed the golden Rouge statue away from him and he leaped back onto his feet. Alistair swiped at him with his sharp claws only to miss as Golden Lennox leaped backwards and the golden-powered meerkat grabbed him by the wrists. Alistair was turned solid gold instantly as he was grabbed. This fight was beginning to go out of control now. Three Mobians had been turned into solid gold and Golden Lennox had no intention of stopping there. He flew towards Tails, he was just flying towards him himself. Tails evaded Golden Lennox by flying to the right and Golden Lennox ended up swooping past him. He turned around and flew back towards Tails with his hands wide open, ready to grab him and turn him into hold. Tails just spun-around in a tornado-like manoeuvre and he sent Golden Lennox hurling down into the ground. Golden Lennox picked himself up only for Tails to fly up to his face and start rapidly kicking him much like how he'd often seen Ruben the Water Panther doing something like that in his battles. He let Golden Lennox have it very hard until finally, he knocked Golden Lennox down onto his back. Tails then landed beside him, reached into his cloak pocket and snatched the Key of Opulence from it. Tails then tried to use the key to turn Golden Lennox back to normal but Golden Lennox backhanded him in the leg, tripping him up and making him drop the key. He tried to touch Tails but Tails quickly moved out of the way and flew off, trying to tempt Golden Lennox to chase him and forget about the key. Lennox bought it luckily for him and he flew after the terrified fox-cub. While Golden Lennox was chasing Tails, Sora staggered as best as she could towards the Key of Opulence. Tails had hidden her behind the corner of the factory and seeing how the Key of Opulence was now in plain sight, she decided to grab it before anything else happens. Unfortunately, Golden Lennox spotted her from up in the sky and he abandoned his chase with Tails. Tails saw this and he flew after Golden Lennox, desperate to save his sister. Sora saw Golden Lennox coming and she quickly dove for cover, leaving Golden Lennox to crash slap-bang into the ground face first. The impact didn't hurt him of course for he's invulnerable in this form and he picked himself up. Tails flew over Golden Lennox's head and he grabbed the Key of Opulence. He flew up into the air and thrust it ahead of him. But before he could turn it, Golden Lennox rammed him from underneath and made him drop the key. Then he kick-slammed Tails down into the ground. The key had landed near Sora and she quickly grabbed it but Golden Lennox swooped down and grabbed her by the arms, turning her into gold instantly. Golden Lennox took they key back and stored it in his cloak pocket. Tails saw what had happened to Sora and he felt like somebody had just plunged a knife into his heart.

"NO! SORA!" cried Tails, unable to believe what had just happened to his long-lost sister.

Eight years he'd spent without her and just when he finally gets her back, it seemed that he'd lost her again. Tails was so shocked at this that he didn't even notice that Golden Lennox was coming towards him. Before Tails knew it though, Golden Lennox grabbed him by the muzzle and turned the heartbroken fox into gold! Sonic and Owen were the only ones left to fight Golden Lennox now! The hedgehog and rabbit felt a little worried about all this and wondered if they were going to win at all. They had just seen their friends become golden statues and if they didn't come up with a plan and fast, they would be next.

"We're the only ones left Owen." said Sonic "We need a plan and we need one fast!"

"I've just got one." said Owen "I'll grab Lennox by the arms from behind and hold him as best as I can. Then you reach into his cloak pocket and get the Key of Opulence back so you can turn him back to normal."

"Sounds like a good idea Owen, let's try it." said Sonic.

Golden Lennox rushed towards Sonic and Owen, his hands bared and read to grab them both.

"Not enough gold! Must have more! MOOOOORRRRRREEEEEEE!" he thundered gleefully, his mouth wide open and streaming with saliva as if he was a starving wild animal hunting down its prey.

Sonic spin-dashed Golden Lennox in the face and he was sent hurling backwards into Owen, who had positioned himself just so Golden Lennox would fly into him as Sonic spin-dashed him. Owen grabbed Golden Lennox's arms and lifted him up by them. Golden Lennox squirmed madly in his grasp, trying to get free. Sonic quickly reached into Golden Lennox's cloak pocket and he snatched the Key of Opulence away from him. After doing that, he ran as far away from Golden Lennox as he possibly could. Golden Lennox cried out desperately and he kicked Owen in the gut to make him let go of him. He then touched Owen and turned him into gold so Owen couldn't do anything to him. But that was going to be his last golden statue ever for Sonic ran back towards Golden Lennox and thrust the key ahead of him. He pushed it as far as it would go as if he was inserting it into an invisible lock and as Sora had instructed to him, he turned it to the right. As he did that, a door opened up in thin air but this doorway had nothing behind it. It was just a plain, white, portal-like doorway and as it opened up, streams of gold began trailing out from Golden Lennox and into the portal.

"NNNNNOOOOOOOOO!" wailed Golden Lennox "My golden paradise isn't complete! I must not lose my powers! I MUST NOT LOSE MY PO WERS….!"

As he wailed in agony, his bright, luminous golden aurora died away and his solid gold appearance began to fade away, bringing back his true colours and returning Lennox Meers back to normal. That wasn't all the door did though, it took away the gold encasing the ones that Golden Lennox had touched, returning them to normal as well. The moment everybody was returned to normal, Tails and Sora hugged each other and Roxy, Owen and Alistair ran over to Lennox, who had fainted from being converted back to normal, The door had finally finished erasing everything Golden Lennox had done and returning everything to normal and Sonic closed up the door. He then proceeded to spin-dash the Key of Opulence into pieces, something that horrified Rouge as she saw what he did. Sonic threw the remains down on the ground and kicked them away. The Key of Opulence was now no longer a doomsday relic, it was nothing but tiny little pieces.

"There, now nobody can bear the wrath of its side effect ever again." said Sonic, glaring at the fragments of the very key that had nearly doomed them all.

"Sonic you idiot, you weren't supposed to destroy the key!" wailed Rouge "You were supposed to get it back for me!"

"Oh yeah and then what? Give some other crazy loon the opportunity to use its power too much and go golden crazy like Lennox did?" sniffed Sonic "Please understand Rouge that I'm destroying that key for a reason. So nobody will ever end up like Lennox did."

"But…but I promised my dad that I would find it and add it to my treasury." protested Rouge.

"I'm sure your dad would rather have the world be safe then allow anyone the chance to use the key to its worst." said Sonic "I'm really sorry Rouge but it's for the good of everybody. Please understand that."

"I…I understand Sonic." said Rouge glumly, her ears drooping down in guilt "I'm sorry I started all of this. I never decided to find that stupid key in the first place, none of this would have happened."

"It's OK Rouge, you wouldn't have anticipated such a thing would happen would you?" said Sonic, patting her on the back affectionately "Well that's what happens, we make mistakes and we make sure we don't repeat them."

"Yeah, I know." said Rouge "Now the key's destroyed, I can't repeat my mistake."

"Exactly." said Sonic with a thumbs up to the bat "Now there's only one thing left to do…arrest Team Diamond!"

He and Rouge turned to face Team Diamond. They were kneeling over Lennox's unconscious body and were trying to revive him. Sonic sneaked up behind Team Diamond and then he spin-dashed Roxy, Owen and Alistair in the back all at once, knocking them down onto their stomachs. While they were down, Sora quickly ran over to them and cuffed their arms behind their backs with the laser cuffs she had brought with her to arrest them in the first place. All of Team Diamond were now powerless and defeated at the hands of Sonic the Hedgehog and friends. Sonic stuck his tongue out at them mockingly.

"Nyah, nyah, we win Team Diamond and you're going to prison." sneered Sonic.

That made both Rouge and Sora beam happily. Now they could finally be brought to justice for what they had done to Rouge's dad and the shop Rouge had once lived in during her childhood and they could do time for torturing Sora and killing her friend Joel. This was going to be H.U.N.T.'s darkest hour with their star team behind bars…

Later that day, General Chipper and his men arrived at the factory to take away the subdued Team Diamond. Lennox, Roxy, Owen and Alistair were all stuffed into police cars and the policemen in them prepared to take them away. General Chipper, who was now in charge of the Mobian Police Department after General Melchett had been killed at the hands of Devion, was chatting with Sonic and Rouge about H.U.N.T. as Team Diamond were bundled into the police cars.

"Yes, I can remember young Rouge here telling us about H.U.N.T. but because she was a thief and a member of the organization for sometime, we didn't believe her and just scoffed her off." said General Chipper, guilty over doing such a thing all those years ago "We're so sorry we didn't believe you Rouge. Well, now we know you are truthful and you and Agent Sora have told us all you know about the organization, we'll see to it that the whole organization gets arrested and taken down."

"That's great General." said Rouge happily "I want H.U.N.T. to go down for all the crimes they've committed. I regret ever being a member of that horrible organization and I hope everybody in it gets arrested."

"Well we'll see what we can do." said General Chipper brightly "Thanks for everything Sonic and friends and we'll see you all next time. Cheerio."

"See ya general." said Sonic with a polite wave "And good luck bringing down H.U.N.T. once and for all!"

General Chipper nodded and he got into his police car, which had Lennox and Roxy cuffed up and sitting in the back seats. General Chipper started up the car and he drove off with the other police cars following them. Rouge waved goodbye to the cars, happy to see Team Diamond being driven away and off to a prison where they would hopefully rot and do hard time for what they had done. As the police cars vanished over the horizon, Sonic turned to Rouge.

"Bet you feel satisfied that the ones who killed your dad are finally arrested." he said.

"I am indeed blue-boy although I do sorta feel sorry for Roxy." said Rouge "I mean, she wasn't a member of the team when they killed my dad so I have no grudge on her and she actually felt sorry for what happened to my dad. She also seemed shocked to hear that they had killed my dad too so I feel that Roxy may not be such a bad girl after all."

"Hmm…" mused Sonic "That is something to think about. Maybe Roxy will redeem herself and leave Team Diamond. I hope she does, joining those losers is a big mistake."

"I'll say it was and it's a mistake I live to regret making." said Rouge grimly "But it doesn't matter now, they're incarcerated at last and now I can treasure hunt in peace, safe with the knowledge that Team Diamond will never be out to get me ever again."

"You said it Rouge." said Sonic "So I guess you'll be going now?"

"I am indeed blue." said Rouge "I'll be off to find another treasure. Hopefully one that can't cause the end of the world." she added with a chuckle "Sayonara you handsome little hedgehog."

"See you next time Rouge." said Sonic with a wink.

With that said, Rouge flew off into the sky and headed off into the distance to begin her next treasure hunt. The moment Rouge flew away, Sonic turned to Tails and Sora.

"Well, this has been eventful hasn't it?" he asked "Team Diamond are finally brought down and you find out you have a sister Tails. Just wait till our friends back home hear all this."

"Oh yes." said Tails happily "And you know what Sora, I'm so glad I've finally got one part of my family back. I may not remember you but I'm willing to make a fresh start and be the little brother you've always wanted before we were separated."

"Thank you so much Tails." said Sora who was feeling much better now "And I'm gonna be the big sister you've never had, that is a promise. And to help with that…I am going to resign from the M.S.I.U. and join the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters just so I can be with my little brother again. My life as a spy made me forget I even had a brother so now I will give up all that and start over as a spy working for the same organization her brother works in, the Royal Fighters Service."

"Wow! You're gonna join us?" blurted Sonic in amazement "Sora, that is WAY past cool! You sure helped us out when the Region of Rebellious Reptiles attempted to ruin the Acorn Awards last year so you're gonna make our battles with Eggman all the more easier!"

"Aw, thank you Sonic." said Sora happily.

"I'm so happy to hear you're gonna join us Sora!" cried Tails happily "I can't wait to introduce you to everybody, especially my girlfriend Cosmo…"

"Ha, ha, ha little brother, I already know everybody in the team's names!" laughed Sora "But I didn't know you and Cosmo are a couple now. That's wonderful to hear that is! Tell me all about your romance!"

"Of course Sora, but when we get back home that is." said Tails "I think everybody's gonna start wondering about us now."

"Yeah, let's get going now you two foxes." said Sonic "Let's not have the others worrying where we are."

With that said, Sonic ran off and Tails took flight, holding Sora by the hands and carrying her off after Sonic. Sora squealed with delight, clearly enjoying the ride as Tails flew off with his super-sleuth sister in his hands. As Sonic, Tails and Sora headed off home, they pictured everybody's reactions to Sora becoming a new member of the team and her turning out to be Tails' sister. This day had been a glorious one for the heroes. But it wasn't long until the next villain came in to make the hero's lives miserable and Sora would end up getting her first encounter with that villain…

What a delightful ending! :D But that's not going to last long for the next story arc's coming soon and it's going to feature the return of quite a few familiar faces. And even a familiar world too...

Hey Alma Von Arena, how's the whole Martian saga and this two-parter been for you? Are you still enjoying the story?

Hey SecretFlowerChild, are you still enjoying this story too and what did you think to the Martian saga and this two-parter?

Oh and bearvalley3365 since you've made it this far, I'm going to say a few things:

1: Thank you for reading and enjoying my story. I appreciate it. :D

2: In answer to your questions about featuring your OC, I decline your offer. I only want to use OCs I create. I don't take other people's OCs, I only use my own so I will not be featuring your character Noah Thompson in my story. Sorry.

3: As for your questions about Team Diamond. Your answers to both of them are "Read on and find out"...

Dark World Part 1

Story 139: Dark World Part 1

Mobius Nega.

One of infinite alternate universes that exists in the multi-verse. Mobius Nega was an alternate version of Mobius where familiar faces have different appearances and attire and everybody's surname is "Nega". Sonic the Hedgehog himself had visited Mobius Nega (albeit in an untimely tussle with a Metallized Mouse) and he had helped save the world from its oppressor, Eggman Nega. Eggman Nega had been defeated and thrown into the void by Sonic after using the power of the Chaos Emeralds collected from other zones to turn super. Since then, Mobius Nega had returned to its former glory and all the metallized citizens had been returned to normal. But unfortunately, that peace had just been taken away for the world had just been taken over once again. During the time of the Devatron invasion back on the Prime Zone, something had brought over two Prime Zoners and they had worked together to take over Mobius Nega. And those two were none other than Scourge the Hedgehog, Sonic's evil twin brother, and his voluptuous girlfriend Fiona Fox. Scourge and Fiona initially had no idea how they had ended up on Mobius Nega but Scourge had decided that it was a fortunate accident since they had a world close enough to their own to conquer and rule. And since there was no Sonic or Scourge to stand up to him in this world, Scourge's takeover was as easy as pie. He'd taken out resistances as easily as adding two plus two and had made citizens flee in terror with his great power. What made his takeover so easy was the fact that he was Sonic at his full potential so he not only attacked vigorously, viciously and dangerously but he also didn't hold back and in almost no time at all, Mobius Nega had fallen beneath his feet and he had crowned himself King and Fiona Queen of Mobius Nega. The Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters had scattered and were striking from the shadows to try and bring Scourge down but their attempts had really just delayed the inevitable. And right now, their leader Amy Nega had just been captured. She had been spying on Scourge but she ended up getting spotted and was cut in seconds. After getting caught, Scourge threw her into a dungeon cell and chained her up with her arms held tightly above her head and he raised the chains so Amy Nega was now dangling off the floor by her arms. Amy Nega was then put under a serious torture session to which Fiona, who was now wearing a queen's crown decorated with gleaming sapphires and purple gems, was the one commencing with it and the whole thing was just to get Amy Nega to tell her where the rest of the Freedom Fighters were. Amy Nega had refused to talk and just let herself be tortured by Fiona. The torture method was a simple pair of devices that resembled shavers only much larger and with square shaped structures at the end. Fiona pressed them against Amy Nega's bare belly and she gave her a nasty scorch with them. The devices had heaters in them and at the press of the button, they switched on and gave whatever they were touching a nasty burn. Amy Nega had found the pain excruciatingly awful and hard to bear but despite all this, she had managed to remain silent despite all the nasty burns she was receiving from the heating devices. After letting Amy Nega have it for an hour or so, Fiona finally had enough and she threw the devices on the floor. She slugged Amy Nega in the belly and made the tortured leader wheeze in pain.

"For god's sake Amy Nega, will you just cave in and talk already?!" snarled Fiona "I'm beginning to lose my patience with you and if I lose it, then my baby loses it so talk and stop wasting our time will you?!"

Amy Nega just glared at Fiona, her lips sealed as tight as anything. She was not telling Fiona anything at all. She was clinging onto the false hope of being rescued and if she told Scourge and Fiona where her Freedom Fighters were, then there would be no hope of rescue for her so she wasn't going to talk. Fiona clenched her fists and gritted her teeth in rage. Amy Nega was seriously beginning to tick her off now.

"You are such an obstinate woman aren't you?!" growled Fiona "I bet if my handsome King Scourge comes in and beats the crap outta you, you'll start spilling and I bet you don't want to bear the wrath of King Scourge do you?"

"I'd…rather…him…just…put…me…outta…my…misery already…

then…tell him…where my…friends…are…" croaked Amy Nega, her voice as hoarse as a whisper and as weak and frail as she was feeling right now after such a horrible hour of torture.

"Well maybe King Scourge will be happy to arrange something like that for you, you irksome little brat!" said Fiona crossly "You know, you remind me of the Amy Rose on MY Mobius, you're just as stubborn as she is and just as annoying! I don't see why Scourge doesn't just finish you of already. You're just a pain in the rear you are."

Amy Nega just ignored Fiona, it wasn't worth listening to the vixen ranting anymore. Fiona put her hands on her hips and sighed in annoyance, shaking her head at how annoying Amy Nega was being right now.

"I'm fed up with you now, I refuse to waste anymore of my precious time with you Amy Nega." grumbled Fiona.

With that said, Fiona promptly stormed off out of the dungeon, leaving Amy Nega alone to just dangle off the floor by her arms and do nothing but hope for freedom. As Fiona left the dungeon, Amy Nega let a tear of despair trickle down her face. She was beginning to lose all hope of being free ever again. Scourge was more powerful and dangerous than Eggman Nega and he'd conquered the world far quicker than Eggman Nega ever had managed. Amy Nega began to wish that Sonic Prime would just come over to Mobius Nega again and save the world like he had done before. But that was highly unlikely given that Sonic would have no idea what's going on, on Mobius Nega and thus, would have no reason to come over since he wouldn't know about all this. The chances of Mobius Nega being saved were a hundred to one and Amy Nega would have to accept that before she hurts herself.

Back over to Fiona, she had stormed out of the dungeon and had wandered off to the throne room. The very building that she, Scourge and Amy Nega were in was a huge fortress that had once been the dwelling of the real king and queen of Mobius Nega, Maximilian Acorn Nega and Alicia Acorn Nega, before Scourge and Fiona had overthrown them and become king and queen of Mobius Nega after their takeover. This fortress was Mobius Nega's equivalent to Castle Acorn only much more futuristic in design and made entirely of steel. The design of the fortress made it look more like a robot's castle then the place of dwelling for a Mobian king and queen. It was full of gun turrets that were stationed in strategic places all around the fortress and they fired very powerful plasma blasts that could incinerate any enemy that dares attack the fortress in seconds. Scourge of course had been using the fortress's guns for his own nefarious purposes and had taken down many resistances with them. Because of this, many Mobians were afraid to even so much as go near the fortress in fear of having Scourge incinerate them just for daring to be in plain sight of him. But Scourge hadn't needed to use the cannons since the last resistance that fought him, which was a week ago, so there was nothing to worry about…yet. Right now in this big, impregnable, invincible fortress that had once housed the original king and queen of Mobius Nega, Scourge was sitting comfortably in the Throne of Acorns and was enjoying the peace and quiet. He was wearing a golden crown with red rubies and glistening emeralds on his head. This crown made him feel very superior and VERY powerful as he wore it and he was often seen stroking it conceitedly by Fiona. He had fought hard for total dominance of Mobius and he'd finally got it with a suitable substitute, Mobius Nega. Mobius Nega was the closest planet in all the multi-verse to matching Mobius Prime absolutely perfectly so Scourge still felt like he'd conquered the REAL Mobius and he was all too happy to be ruling over this lovely substitute. He had been so happy on Mobius Nega that he didn't WANT to go back home, he was quite happy to stay here on Mobius Nega forever and rule the world with an iron fist, just like he'd always wanted. His peace and quiet was interrupted by Fiona knocking politely on the door. He sat up straight and cleared his throat.

"Come in." he said pleasantly for there was only one person in the entire fortress who could be knocking at his door now.

The grand door of the throne room opened up and in walked Fiona, the only Mobian in the world he loved more than himself. Fiona strode across the red carpet that led up to Scourge's throne and she kneeled down with respect at the little steps that led up to the throne. Scourge chuckled a little at Fiona's sign of loyalty to him.

"Aw come on Fi, you're the Queen of Mobius Nega, you don't have to kneel before me." said Scourge kindly "Only my worthless subjects have to do that."

"Oh, sorry." said Fiona, quickly standing back up "I'm more doing this out of respect for you King Scourge."

"That's awful nice of you Fiona." said Scourge brightly "But you don't have to kneel before me, you're too worthy for that. So, how did my beautiful queen do down in the dungeon with that brat Amy Nega?"

"Not too well I'm afraid your majesty." said Fiona crossly "That stubborn little bugger won't say a word to me and I let her have it for a whole frickin' hour! I'm not sure how we'll get her to tell us where her stupid Freedom Fighters are, she just won't say a word."

Scourge's face turned into a very serious frown at the sound of that. He couldn't stand it when people didn't tell him what he wanted to know and the fact Amy Nega was literally being this hard to crack just riled him even further. Scourge thumped the sides of his throne in annoyance.

"What does a guy have to do to get some info outta that wretch?!" he groaned furiously "Is it too much to ask to find out where the ones who dare to try and overthrow me are hiding so that they can suffer proper penance for their treason?!"

"Of course it is baby, Amy Nega's not gonna want to tell us where her friends are so they can keep resisting us and trying to bring us down." said Fiona, climbing up the steps and standing beside Scourge's throne "Although a resilience like hers is most vexing indeed I agree. A normal Mobian would have cracked already."

"Indeed." said Scourge "I do hope that Amy Nega cracks already, I REALLY wanna know where those dweebs who work for her are so I can lock them up and make them suffer for what they've done to try and over-throw me. I really can't settle unless Amy Nega's whole team is in chains alongside her in my dungeon."

"I understand your feelings hon, I'm getting jumpy about them too." said Fiona understandingly, shifting around and sitting on Scourge's lap, cuddling up beside her evil boyfriend "We've worked too long and too hard to FINALLY have a world to rule and we really can't do with losing our grip on this world."

"We most certainly cannot my beautiful queen." said Scourge, putting his arm around Fiona and stroking her waist "I've had a hard enough time trying to conquer Mobius, our Mobius so I can do without losing my grip on a Mobius that more than makes up for failing to conquer the true Mobius."

"Yeah." said Fiona, putting her hand on Scourge's chest "I still feel that the only reason Mobius Nega was no problem for us is that there's no Sonic here and your alternate counterpart apparently is dead too so you've literally got no one who can even remotely match your power."

"That maybe so but still, I'm quite happy ruling this alternate Mobius and I'm glad I had no trouble with it." said Scourge "Although the resistances have been giving me a bit of fun since my takeover I will say. And speaking of my takeover, I still remember how it all began…" he sighed, happily remembering how this had happened in the first place.

"I do too Scourge." said Fiona, thinking back to the critical chain of events that had led to this global takeover "We were over at the village of Spagonia, hiding from the world and waiting to strike again. Until we saw a newspaper and learned that Mobius was being invaded by a race of robots called "Devatrons". You weren't happy at that of course since you want to conquer Mobius so we ran off to stop them."

"And then as we were running, this weird, surreal streak of light comes out of nowhere as if somebody had just tore a piece of the sky out of it and it sucks us directly into it." added Scourge "And then it spat us out here. No idea how or why that happened but I'm glad it did because it gave me the perfect world to rule. No dorky Sonic to stop me and ruin my fun and no resistance strong enough to match me. We conquered this world with your planning and my might and now here we are, basking in the seat of luxury and enjoying every minute of it." he finished with a happy sigh "Oh how fortuitous it was of us to get sucked up into that streak of light in the first place."

"It was indeed my handsome hedgehog." purred Fiona in a sexy tone of voice "And neither of us could be happier, especially as nobody can stop us."

"Too right hot stuff." said Scourge gleefully "Say, wanna kiss and cuddle?"

"I'm all too happy to make out with you gorgeous." said Fiona seductively "I'm all yours baby."

With that said, the two wrapped their arms around each other and they started to deeply embrace each other with a loving hug and kiss in the Throne of Acorns. Scourge and Fiona kissed happily, knowing that nobody could interrupt this loving moment between two villains and nobody could interrupt their wonderful rule. Never before had Scourge and Fiona been so happy and it seemed that their happiness was eternal since there was nothing that could take that away from them…

Meanwhile on Mobius Prime, Sonic the Hedgehog, his best friend Tails and the super-spy Sora had returned to New Mobotropolis where they had been greeted most graciously by their friends. Sonic and Tails had been recruited by Rouge the Bat to help save Sora, who had been captured and tortured by Team Diamond, a nefarious team of treasure-hunters that were now currently behind bars at the Empire City MPD station, and they had had a near-death experience with a golden powered Lennox Meers who had been turned that way thanks to the Key of Opulence's power turning him into a gold-loving lunatic that turned everything he touches into gold. Luckily, Sonic had managed to save the day by using the key's power in reverse to take away Lennox's powers and turn him back to normal again and the key had been destroyed to prevent any chance of that happening again. After all of that, Sora had decided to resign from her original job as a super-spy for the Mobian Spy and Intelligence Unit (M.S.I.U.) and was going to join the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and be a spy for them so she could remain close to Tails, the brother she'd always wanted but never got thanks to financial problems forcing the two to be separated from each other at childhood. Now the two were reunited at last, they could start all over again and begin a new life in New Mobotropolis as brother and sister. As Sonic, Tails and Sora arrived back, they noticed all the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, Team Chaotix and Queen Sally Acorn and her lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx were outside and waiting for Sonic and Tails to return. Cosmo had told them all that Rouge had asked Sonic and Tails to help her save Sora so they knew what they were doing at least. When Sonic and Tails arrived back, everybody started greeting them happily.

"Hey blue dude! You're back! And so is Tails!" cried the Royal Fighter tomboy Mandy Mouse happily.

"We were beginning to wonder how long it would take for ya'll to come back sugah-hog!" exclaimed the cyborg Bunnie Rabbot excitedly.

"Good to see you blokes back in one piece." said her boyfriend Geoffrey St. John the Skunk.

"How did the mission go?" asked the skittish but brave Wilson the Dog.

"Did you save Sora?" asked Amy Rose, the self proclaimed girlfriend of Sonic the Hedgehog, eagerly "Is she OK?"

"Have Team Diamond been arrested?" asked Cosmo the Seedrian, Tails' girlfriend and only non-Mobian of the team.

"What happened while you were saving Miss Sora?" chipped in the ever-innocent and sweet Cream the Rabbit.

"Did Team Diamond give you a tough time?" asked Ruben the Water Panther, honouree member of the Royal Fighters and former Chun-Nan resident.

"Guys, guys, settle down! The hedgehog can explain everything!" laughed Sonic, waving his hands about hastily "So anyways, Rouge took me and Tails to an old factory where Team Diamond were hiding. We went in and saved Sora but Team Diamond came in and started giving us a tough battle. During the battle, their leader Lennox used an artefact known as the "Key of Opulence" too many times and ended up becoming a gold-loving monster that tried to turn us all into gold. But I managed to stop him and return him to normal so no worries on being turned into gold. As for Team Diamond, they're all off to prison now where hopefully they'll do time for their crimes and General Chipper's going to try and bring H.U.N.T., the organization that Team Diamond work for, down once and for all."

"Wow! That's amazing that is!" cried Vector the Crocodile, the Chaotix leader "Although I have no idea who Team Diamond are…" he admitted a little afterwards.

"I'm glad to hear your mission was successful Sonic." said Espio the Chameleon, the Chaotix ninja "Although I have to ask how did this "Team Diamond" get the Key of Opulence? Nobody's ever managed to find that thing before."

"What's a "Key of Opulence"?" asked Charmy Bee, the Chaotix numbskull "And what the heck is an "opulence" too?"

"I've heard of that thing before." said Knuckles the Echidna, Guardian of Angel Island and friend of Sonic and the Royal Fighters "It was said to be a golden key that could open doors full of jewels in thin air but it had a devastating side effect. It's been hidden away since ancient times though, how did Team Diamond get it?"

"Well…Rouge got it actually but Team Diamond stole it off of her." said Sonic "But don't worry, after stopping Lennox from turning us into gold I destroyed the key so we can't have a repeat of what happened."

"That is very good to hear Sonic." said Knuckles' girlfriend Shade the Echidna "That key truly is dangerous in the wrong hands. So, how is Sora right now after you rescued her?"

"Why don't you ask her yourself?" chuckled Sonic, standing aside and revealing that Sora was standing behind him and Tails.

She had been standing behind the boys to make her presence here a surprise for the others when Sonic thought the time was right to reveal her. Sora politely stood forward and waved at everybody.

"Hello people of New Mobotropolis, it is good to see you all again." she said.

"Hey, I remember you!" cried Vector "You were the one who alerted us to the Region of Rebellious Reptiles' attempted ruining of the Annual Acorn Awards last year!*"

"I am indeed, how nice of you to remember Vector." said Sora happily "I remember all of you as if I only saw you all yesterday. Except you two, I don't believe you were there when I helped to save the Annual Acorn Awards." she said, pointing at Knuckles and Shade.

"We were on Angel Island at the time of the awards so no, we weren't there." said Knuckles "But Sonic and Tails did tell us all about what happened that day so we know what you're on about. So little girl, I'm Knuckles the Echidna and this is…"

"Yes, I know who you both are." chuckled Sora "You're both guardians of Angel Island and Shade here used to be your enemy until she opened her eyes and decided to turn good, a very wise decision in my opinion."

Knuckles and Shade stared at Sora in amazement, their mouths hanging open a little.

"How…do you know that?!" gasped Shade in astonishment.

"I'm a spy, I know everything." joked Sora, giggling a little at what she just said "I will say, it is very nice to meet you both in person Knuckles and Shade."

"Thanks, same to you." said Knuckles "So Sora, what brings you here then?"

"Yeah, if you're a spy then should you be going to your next assignment?" asked Shade.

"Not really since I just resigned from the M.S.I.U." explained Sora

"And my reasoning for that being so I can join the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and be a spy for you guys."

Everybody was surprised to hear that and they all looked at each other in amazement. Sally stood forward and knelt down to Sora's height.

"So you willingly resigned from the spy organization you work for, to join us?" she asked "Well that's nice of you but, what made you want to do that?"

"So I can be with my darling brother after being separated from him eight years ago." said Sora, hugging Tails lovingly "I've been away from him for too long and I wanna spend every moment I can with him now."

The fact Sora was hugging Tails gave everybody an idea on who she was talking about. Needless to say, it certainly surprised them on the revelation they'd just gotten.

"Unbelievable, Sora and Tails are siblings?" said a very surprised Amy "Wow! I didn't know Tails had a sister!"

"Ha, ha, ha! I didn't either Amy!" laughed Tails "Although when I saw Sora that time the region tried to wreck the Annual Acorn Awards, something sparked in my head and told me I knew her for some reason. She looked familiar to me and then Sora tells me she's my sister and now it all makes sense. She tells me the reason I probably don't remember her is because I was only two months old when she was given up so I was too young to remember her."

"But now you're back together again and that's so wonderful!" cried Cream happily "It's so nice to see a brother and a sister back together again!"

"It sure is." said Mandy agreeably "So Sora, why were you given up then?"

"Our parents could only afford to look after one child." explained Sora "I willingly gave myself up just so they could afford to look after dear Tails. He was too young to be given up and he needed proper parental care. An orphanage wouldn't accept him given his two-tailed appearance so I felt I had to go. I was hoping to be adopted back by mom and dad but ultimately, I ended up being adopted by a super-spy who shaped me into the spy I am now. I forgot I even had a brother due to my dedication to duty but seeing him again brought a spark of memory back to me and I remembered him. Now fate has kindly brought us back together and I wish to make up for the eight years I never got to spend with the little brother I never had the chance to have."

"Same with me." said Tails "It's nice to have a member of my family back again."

"That's so sweet!" said Nicole in awe "I think we should take Sora in, she'll be quite welcome among us don't you think Sally?"

"I certainly do Nicole." said Sally brightly "So Sora, we accept your request to join us as a spy. You'll be quite a useful member to us and it's nice that Tails has someone from his family back once again so I will keep that family together. Welcome to the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters."

With that said, Sora and Sally shook hands with each other, pleased with the decision that had been made.

"Oh thank you your majesty, thank you so much!" said Sora, ecstatically happy at her acceptance to join the R.F.S. "I can promise you that I'll be a great asset to the team."

"Well now you're on the team lass, we shall see won't we?" said Geoffrey with a smile on his face.

"Indeed we will Mr. St. John." replied Sora "Now, may I see Cosmo the Seedrian? Tails tells me that him and her are a couple now and I wish to congratulate them."

With that said, Cosmo stood shyly forward so Sora could meet her.

"Hello Miss Sora." said Cosmo "It's nice to see you again. I will say, I'm amazed to hear you and Tails are related. Bet that was wonderful for you when you got to see him again."

"It was indeed Cosmo." beamed Sora "And I've gotta say, I'm thrilled to hear that my little brother's got a girlfriend now. He's grown up so fast hasn't he?" she added with a giggle.

Cosmo giggled with her whereas Tails just blushed bright red and sort of chuckled embarrassedly with them. Sometimes, it was tough to be in love, embarrassment can strike at any time with lovers after all.

"Heh, heh…yeah, you could say that about me Sora." said Tails bashfully "Me and Cosmo have only just announced our love for each other though so we've not really been doing anything together yet aside from sitting in the local park together and enjoying each other's company."

"That's so cute to hear Tails." said Sora "I hope you and Cosmo will be very happy together."

"I know we will be happy together." said Tails, holding Cosmo's hand and giving her a quick kiss to which Cosmo returned, earning an expression of awe from Sora.

"Aww…" said Sora, clearly awed by that little moment between the two. Amazing that she finally reunites with her brother and he has a girlfriend already. She did always think that Tails was adorable when he was first born and betted he'd find a girl who adored him as much as the family did.

"So Sora, since you're now a member of the R.F.S., would you like your first assignment for your career as a Royal Fighter?" asked Sally.

"Uh Sal, she's just joined us, give her a moment to settle in first!" blurted Sonic "Don't you think it's a bit early to give her an assignment? That and she's still recovering from a horrible torture she received from Team Diamond earlier…"

"Sonic please, it's alright." said Sora hastily "I'm still fit enough to go into action and I don't mind receiving an assignment so soon after joining, I'm a super-spy, I'm used to getting assignments at unsuspecting times." she then turned to Sally and said "OK your highness, what do you wish for me to do then?"

"Just recently, we found out where Dr. Eggman's hidden base is." explained Nicole "I've put the coordinates into this tracking device and if you hold it ahead of you, it will lead you to the base." she added, holding up a device that looked a little like a remote control for an RC car but had no antenna "We'd like for you to go over to the base and spy on Eggman, find out what he's doing now."

"Oh lovely, I've always wanted to spy on that fat lunatic." said Sora delightedly "Sadly, the M.S.I.U. never really gave me the opportunity as they feel that Eggman isn't worth worrying about what with you lot constantly putting up a good battle against him. Well, now I'm with you, I can show that Eggman is worth spying on and hopefully, I'll help give everybody an edge over the crazy doctor."

"In all honesty, we've already had spies that have helped us before like Espio the Chameleon here so you're not the first to spy on Eggman." noted Sonic, pointing at Espio "But, you've always wanted to spy on Eggman so let's give you the chance. I'll come with you in case you need back-up. I don't think it'll be safe for you to spy on Eggman alone Sora."

"I agree Sonic, I'll need someone to watch my back." said Sora, taking the tracking device from Nicole and switching it on "So shall we get going?"

"Indeed we can Sora." said Sonic, picking the young vixen up bridal style "You direct me since you've got the tracker and I'll deliver you to Eggman's front door faster than you can say "Holy Chaos Emeralds"."

Sora nodded and she peered at the tracker. It was pointing to the north-west of their current position so she pointed in the direction Sonic needed to start running. Sonic understood Sora's directions and he zoomed off out of New Mobotropolis with Sora in his arms. Within seconds, Sonic and Sora vanished into the horizon given how fast Sonic runs and they headed off to Megapolis where Eggman was hiding. As the Royal Fighters watched Sonic go, they all conversed to each other.

"You know, I think Sora's gonna be very welcome among us." said Amy happily "I like her already I do."

"I agree Miss Rose. I wonder what she and Mr. Sonic will find out while they're spying on Eggman?" asked Cream.

"Hopefully nothing too much for us to handle." said Bunnie concernedly "After dealin' with three alien invasions, ah think we could do with an easy time for once."

"I'm just hoping that the blighter's not doing anything at all luv." said Geoffrey, putting an arm around the beautiful cyborg rabbit "After what we've recently been through, I want a moment of peace."

"We ALL do Geoffrey." said Ruben grimly "But when you're fighting for freedom against a dictator who wants to turn us all into robots, a moment of peace can be too hard to ask for."

Geoffrey nodded agreeably with his water-squirting friend. It's too much to ask for a moment of peace when it comes to Dr. Eggman and it was likely he was going to come out again and try to take over Mobius once again…

In almost no time at all, Sonic and Sora arrived at the Northern Border of Megapolis, the very place that Dr. Eggman was hiding in. He had been hiding in the Northern Border of Megapolis ever since he lost his bases all those months ago and had been hiding underground since the day Robotropolis was destroyed by Shadow after the whole world had been de-roboticized. It had only been recently during the Martian invasion that the Royal Fighters had actually managed to find out where Eggman's base was thanks to Nicole tracing Eggman's call to New Mobotropolis back to its source and now they had that info, Sonic and Sora were going to use it for a good cause, spy on Eggman and prepare for his next move. As Sonic screeched to a halt, Sora looked at the tracker and it showed them that the base was about five feet ahead and directly underground. They were there at last, at Eggman's base.

"Well Sonic, it seems we're here." said Sora "We've found Eggman's base."

"Cool." said Sonic, putting Sora down "Now let's see what ol' egg-head's up to now."

"Indeed." said Sora, handing Sonic the tracker "I will say, that was an awesome ride you gave me, moving at supersonic speed is unbelievable!"

"Thanks and yeah, it is unbelievable." said Sonic admittedly "I'm still wondering how I'm able to run so fast though. My parents always theorized that it had something to do with power rings since apparently, my mom was healed with a power ring before I was born since she fell ill while I was still developing inside her. Maybe the power ring's energy went into me and gave me my super-speed but that's just a theory really."

"Wow." said Sora, intrigued by what Sonic had just told her "So where are your parents now?"

"Living in a peaceful countryside somewhere." said Sonic "We still keep in touch on the off chance I get a day-off and a moment to call them so they're OK don't worry. Anyways, got any ideas on how we can sneak into Eggman's base without drawing attention?" he asked, curious on what surprises the little super-spy was going to pull out for this mission.

"I've got just the thing." said Sora with a grin on her face.

She reached to the back of the shoulder strap on her utility belt and she pulled off a steel orb that had a purple dot on it instead of a red dot on it like the other orbs did. She showed it to Sonic.

"This is an orb I don't often use in my missions and it's a very useful orb too." explained Sora "It can dig through any surface thanks to the super-sharp drill contained inside it I'll use this to dig a hole down into the base so that I can put THIS orb in the base…"

She paused for a moment as she took another orb off her belt. The orb was located on the left side of her waist on her belt and had the word "spy-cam" carved in tiny letters on it so she could identify that orb quickly and know which one she was looking for. She showed it to Sonic.

"…this orb will record everything it sees and every sound it hears." she explained "The orb comes with an ear-piece…" she added, taking a piece off of the orb and sticking it into her ear "…so I will be able to hear everything the orb hears. It doesn't have two ear pieces so sadly, I can't give you one so you can hear as well. I'll listen in on the conversation and I'll tell you everything I've heard."

"OK then." said Sonic "I've gotta say, you're equipped for anything aren't you?"

"I'm a spy, of course I'm equipped for anything." said Sora cheekily "Now, let's see what we can find out here…"

She switched the purple dotted orb on and placed it directly where the underground bunker was located. The orb opened up in similar fashion to how a Pokeball from the Pokemon series opens up and a drill extended out from the orb. The orb hovered up above the spot it was place at and it aimed its drill straight down. The drill activated and it began to dig its way down into the ground. The orb was programmed to dig until it entered something so it wouldn't dig too far down luckily. The org dug down and down into the ground until it reached the underground bunker and it dog a hole through the ceiling. There was now an orb-sized tunnel that led all the way down into Eggman's base. It was big enough for only your hand to fit down. The drill-orb ascended back out of the hole and the drill extended back inside and the orb closed up. Sora put it back on her belt and she dropped the spy-cam orb down the hole. The spy-cam orb fell down through the hole until it entered the base and it stayed just in the ceiling between the hole that had been made in it. Eggman would not see that hopefully. Now the orb was in position, it switched its speaker on. The ear-piece that Sora had put into her ear vibrated as the speaker switched on and Sora touched it lightly.

"OK then, we're in position." said Sora "Now keep very quiet while I listen to what's being said."

Sonic nodded and gave Sora an understanding thumbs up. Sora knelt down on the ground and listened very carefully to her ear-piece as the orb picked up a conversation between Dr. Eggman and Devion, former leader of the Devatron race who was now an Eggman servant.

"So Dr. Eggman, what plan do you have now for the Mobian's downfall?" asked Devion inquisitively."

"A plan that is guaranteed to work." purred Dr. Eggman "I've just recently repaired Metals Tails, Amy & Knuckles and Silver Sonic so now Metal Sonic has his buddies back. Now the Metal series is complete once again, I can unleash a vicious attack on New Mobotropolis. You, Katherine and the Metal series will be perfect for taking down that pathetic excuse for a city and bringing out the Mobians for me to roboticize. Sonic and friends will be very worthy assets to my army. I may have roboticized the entire world before but that was foiled by Sonic, Tails, Ruben and Bunnie all those months ago. It would be best to roboticize Mobius' biggest resistance and make sure that none of them can escape roboticization before I try something like that again."

"You motive is logical my liege but how will we get past the city's defences?" asked Devion unsurely "I mean, the city has a barrier and they may raise the shields when we arrive to attack them."

"Indeed so which is why I've made just the thing to deal with it." gloated Dr. Eggman "I have made a bomb device that when thrown at the city will scramble with the city shields and disable the shield generator. The city will be completely prone once I throw that bomb."

"You really are skilled in the realms of brain power master." said Devion "That plan of yours is guaranteed to work. It cannot possibly fail."

"Indeed it won't Devion." purred Eggman "If it does though then I'll have to unleash my new invention on the city and have that take the Royal Fighters down."

"What is this "new invention" then master?" asked Devion.

"You'll see if it needs to be used." said Dr. Eggman darkly "Now let's get ready to go, we're going to unleash the plan now."

Sora was pretty amazed and horrified at what she had just heard and she pressed a button in the socket the spy-cam orb had been on her belt. The orb came back up through the tunnel and out of the base. It returned to Sora and Sora took the ear-piece out of her ear. She stuck it back on the orb and placed the orb back on her belt.

"Sonic, you will not believe this!" blustered Sora "Eggman's going to attack New Mobotropolis with some bot named Devion, a bot named Katherine and a Metal Sonic, Metal Tails, Metal Amy, Metal Knuckles and a Silver Sonic and he's got a bomb that will lower New Mobotropolis' shields! He's hoping to roboticized you all and then roboticize the entire world again like he did before!"

"Whoa…that is NOT good at all!" cried Sonic "Let's skedaddle and warn everybody now before Eggman's plan comes to fruition."

"I'll say!" said Sora as Sonic picked her up bridal style "By the way, isn't Devion the Devatron Leader? Why is he working for Eggman now?"

"Eggman took his body and modified him to work for him." explained Sonic "So now Devion serves him. We'll stop him though, don't you worry."

Sonic then charged off with Sora clinging on tightly to him as he ran off through the plains of Megapolis. Sora had just found out Eggman's new plan and now he was going to return home and deliver the news to his friends. With this information, they'd stop Eggman in no time and foil his evil plan…

A little while later, Sonic and Sora arrived back at New Mobotropolis and the moment they arrived, they instantly told everybody what Sora had just found out during their time in Megapolis. After Sonic and Sora had told their friends everything, they all gasped in surprise and murmured among each other in concern.

"Dr. Eggman is planning to attack the city and kidnap us so he can roboticize us all?!" shrieked Nicole in horror.

"And he has a way to bring down our city's shield so he can level the city?" gasped Sally.

"And the ones he's bringing to do it are Devion, Katherine and the Metal Series?!" cried Tails.

"That's sick that is!" growled Knuckles "Eggman can't do such a thing!"

"Well Knuckles, I'm afraid he can and I'm afraid that's what he's going to try doing." said Sonic, his face looking grave "He's getting ready to launch his plan as we speak. I'm willing to bet he'll be here any moment now."

"Well if that sicko thinks he can just destroy our city and turn us into robots then he can forget about it!" screeched Amy, summoning her trademark weapon of destruction, the Piko-Piko hammer, to her hands "I'm gonna smash his precious toys to pieces and then I'll smash him!"

"We'll have to destroy the robots very quickly before Metal Sonic can copy our data and become too powerful to defeat us." noted Sally, remembering the first ever Metal Sonic and how borderline unstoppable he was "And I have a nasty feeling the other metals "Metal Tails", "Metal Knuckles" and "Metal Amy" might have the same ability. And Silver Sonic is a lethal piece of machinery so we need to take him down quickly as well."

"I agree Sal but Devion's really the one we have to worry about." replied Sonic "Remember, he is invulnerable and tough to take down so we really need to bring him down more than anyone."

"In that case, we'll divide the teams up a little." deduced Sally "You, Tails, Knuckles, Amy and Bunnie will fight Devion since you're the heaviest, hardest and most skilled hitters of the team. The rest of us will take out the Metal series and Katherine."

"Sounds like a good idea to me." said Sonic "Are you up for the battle Sally?"

"Of course, I'm getting more active on the battlefield now so of course I'm ready." said Sally "And I've got my weapon ready too…"

She reached into her vest pocket and took out a small capsule. She pressed on the capsule and it extended out into a long blue staff with white bandages wrapped around the edges. The staff had a retractable blade to which Sally deployed, making her staff a naginata and she twirled it around. It had taken her a while but Sally had managed to master the staff at last and could now wield it effectively. Sonic whistled in an impressed manner at the staff that Sally had in her hands.

"Wow…you got a new staff it seems." said Sonic "I've gotta say, it's a good weapon for you Sal, it suits you."

"Thank you Sonic." said Sally, beaming happily "In all honesty, the staff if my favourite weapon of all time and I can't imagine myself using any other weapon so I had to learn how to use this. The blade at the end will help me provide extra-damage as we fight those insidious robots."

"Wow your majesty, I am impressed." said Sora "What happened to you the last time I saw you?"

"The recent alien invasions happened that's what." said Sally, the staff held with the non-bladed end down on the ground and the bladed-end pointing straight up as she spoke "After being pretty much useless against the Black Arms and Devatrons, I decided to become a more active fighter and stop staying cooped up in my own castle while my Royal Fighters risk life and limb fighting for the planet. I felt it was time I cooperated to my own planet's survival so I changed my outfit into something more adventurous, practiced some more of my fighting and how to wield a staff. I'm still mediocre battle skills wise but I'm getting there."

"That's a very good motive Queen Sally and I think you'll be setting a good example to other queens out there, as well as your subjects." said Sora brightly "If their own queen can fight for the world then they have every right to hope I say."

"Thank you Sora." said Sally graciously "I'm really pleased with myself for making this decision. I wish I'd decided to be more active in the battlefield before."

"Well better late than never Sal." said Sonic cheekily, putting an arm around the queen "It'll be good to have you fighting against Eggman with us."

"Aw Sonic, you're such a flatterer." chuckled Sally, blushing a little at Sonic's compliment "I look forward to fighting alongside you as we foil Eggman's latest plan."

"Speaking of Eggman, I think he's coming now." said Shade, peering into the distance and noticing something heading towards them "Now's the time to strike I think."

With that said, Nicole took the shield's controls off of her hair and activated the city's shields instantly. Now New Mobotropolis was shielded, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters all charged off towards the city gates, which had been repaired after the Martian invasion had finally been resolved the other day. They all charged through the gates and out into the green, grassy meadows that stretched all around the city. They all stood together in a row and they all braced themselves for the battle to come. As they readied themselves for battle, they saw that surely enough, Dr. Eggman was indeed coming towards New Mobotropolis. He was flying in his Egg-Pod and Devion and Katherine were riding in the Egg-Pod with him while the Metal Series flew alongside him and Silver Sonic rocketed after them with the aid of the golden jets on his lower legs. Shade was right, Eggman was coming and it was obvious his plan was going to come in motion now he was here. As Dr. Eggman neared the city, he stared at what was ahead of him and his moustache drooped down in surprise. He couldn't believe his eyes at all.

"What in the name of…? The Mobians are already waiting for me?!" cried Dr. Eggman "How did they know I was coming?!"

"They obviously saw us coming master." retorted Devion "We're not exactly invisible to the naked eye as you can obviously see."

"I know Devion but, it seems like the Mobians knew I was coming." noted Eggman "I do hope Tails isn't spying on me again like he was last year! Or indeed any other Mobian for that matter!"

"It does not matter if the Mobians managed to work out we were coming master, we will destroy their city and capture them." said Devion reassuringly "We're too powerful for the Mobians and we will overpower them easily."

"Yes…we will indeed Devion." crowed Dr. Eggman arrogantly "My Metal series, henchwoman and you will take them down easily! Just remember to leave them alive so we can roboticize them OK?"

"Comprehended to the letter Eggman." droned Devion, clenching his fists and deploying his arm blades.

Dr. Eggman smiled to himself as the Egg-Pod came to a stop and descended down to the ground, Silver Sonic came to a stop behind him and the Metal series all landed down beside the Egg-Pod. Devion and Katherine leaped out of the pod and bent down in battle ready stances beside Eggman. The Mobians were all ready for battle and they prepared to attack. Dr. Eggman decided to do something first by making one of his usual announcements.

"Mobians, I am here to take you all prisoner and roboticize you all…" he began.

"We know why you're here Egg-Brains so don't bother telling us what we already know!" snapped Sonic "You wanna destroy our city and roboticize us all and you have a bomb to bring down the city shields, blah, blah, blah. Well we're gonna kick you outta here and make sure that doesn't happen!"

Dr. Eggman looked like he was about to faint.

"How…how do you know all this?!" he gasped.

"That is for us to know and you to never find out." said Sonic snarkily "Now get your big fat butt outta here before we all use you for stress relief!"

"I will NOT be leaving here anytime soon Sonic!" growled Eggman "I've been waiting too long to finally come out of hiding and start terrorizing you all again thanks to the recent alien invasions so I am going to commence with my plans whether you already know what I'm doing or not! Devion, get Sonic!" he roared at him.

With that said, Devion charged towards Sonic and swiped at him with his arm blades. Sonic curled up into a blue spiky ball and he spin-dashed Devion in the gut. The two ended up hurling across the battlefield to one side with Sonic slamming Devion down into the ground. Devion however kicked Sonic off of himself and Sonic skidded across the grass for a few inches. He picked himself up just in time to dodge a slash attack from Devion. Sonic homing-attacked Devion and made him staged but Devion took the blow and punched him onto his back. He tried to grab Sonic but Sonic kicked Devion away and jumped back onto his feet. But then suddenly, before he and Devion could attack each other again, something surreal happened. A huge, multi-coloured streak of light suddenly appeared from nowhere right up in the sky above, as if someone has just ripped a piece of the sky out like a sheet of paper. The streak was about fifty feet long and fifty feet wide and it looked very surreal and paranormal indeed. Sonic and Devion stared up at the streak of light and Devion took a few steps back, wondering what it was. Everybody else stared at the streak of light too, unable to believe what was happening.

"What the hell just happened to the sky?!" cried Mandy.

"It's like someone just tore a hole in it!" shrieked Wilson "Like a tear in the sky!"

"Keep away from it everybody, it could be dangerous!" exclaimed Sally.

Everybody was already a safe distance from the streak of light, or the "tear in the sky" as Wilson called it, but Sonic unfortunately was quite close to it. Sonic couldn't keep his eyes off the streak of light and he kept staring at it, not moving an inch away from it. Then suddenly, he began to feel himself being pulled towards the streak of light. It was as if giant hands reached out from nowhere and grabbed him all over his body. Sonic was slowly but steadily being dragged towards the light.

"Huh…wha…oh no…HELP!" cried Sonic as he was nearly dragged into the light.

He quickly turned around and gripped onto the grass as tightly as he could, trying desperately not to get pulled into the tear in the sky. But as we all know, grass isn't exactly the best thing to hold onto when trying to keep yourself on the ground. The grass broke away in Sonic's fingers and he was dragged upwards towards the light. But before he could get sucked into it, Bunnie Rabbot ran forward and extended her robot arm. She extended it long enough to catch Sonic by the hand and drag him away from the light. The light's pull was strong though so Bunnie had to pull on very tightly to keep Sonic from flying into it. Unfortunately, Devion ran in and sliced Bunnie's robot arm in two with his gauntlet blades! Bunnie squealed in pain as the lower part of her robot arm lay on the ground and the circuitry in what was left of her robot arm sparked furiously. Because there was no one to help Sonic, the blue hedgehog was sent flying into the tear in the sky.

"SOMEBODY HELP MEEEEEEEEEE….!" wailed Sonic as he was pulled into the streak of light.

The moment Sonic was pulled into the light, it closed up and vanished into thin air, leaving no trace of its existence behind. It was as if it had never happened. The Royal Fighters could do nothing but gape in petrified horror at what had just happened. Even Eggman was lost for words at all this. Where did that tear in the sky come from and why did it happen? What had happened to Sonic now he'd just been pulled into it? Was he…gone for good?! Was this…the end of Sonic the Hedgehog…?

HOLY CRAP! What the heck's just happened to Sonic?! A streak of light appears and sucks him up! Is he...gone?! And what's all this got to do with Mobius Nega and Scourge & Fiona? Tune in next time as "Dark World" continues...

Oh and pay attention to those "streaks of light" or "tears in the sky" whichever you prefer. They're a lead-up to a future big-event story that won't be coming until sometime after Episode 150. I just hope the build up will pay off when it comes...

So Alma Von Arena, since you're still reading my story, what did you think to the Martian invasion saga and the two-part "Key of Opulence" story? And how was THIS chapter too? Please answer BOTH questions if you do.

Hey Chaos Kai X, haven't heard from you recently, how's the recent chapters been for you in this story?

Dark World Part 2

Story 140: Dark World Part 2

"SOMEBODY HELP MEEEEEEEEEEE…!" wailed Sonic the Hedgehog as he was pulled up towards a streak of light that had randomly appeared up in the sky above.

Today was getting eventful for the super-speedy hero of Mobius. Not only had he just recently stopped Team Diamond and had gotten them incarcerated at last but he had brought home a new recruit for the Royal Fighters, the super-spy and sister of his best friend Tails the Fox herself, Sora Sumdac (who's now changed her name back to Sora Prower now she's back with Tails). And earlier today, Sonic had taken Sora on her very first mission with the Royal Fighters and that mission was to spy on Dr. Eggman. They had found out that Dr. Eggman had sinister plans up his sleeve and had run home to warn everybody about the fat-man's next attack. Then Dr. Eggman arrived on the scene with the perfect team of robots for a capture-and-destroy mission. Metals Sonic, Tails, Amy and Knuckles, Silver Sonic, Katherine and Devion the Dreaded, former leader of the now extinct Devatron race (The Startrons have officially wiped them all out with their chrome-eating virus as of this chapter). Sonic and Devion had started off the whole fight but their fight was rudely interrupted by a strange phenomenon. A streak of light had appeared in the sky like somebody had torn a piece of the sky out and the light had sucked up Sonic and closed up the moment he vanished, leaving absolutely no trace of its existence behind the moment it had vanished. It was like it had never happened at all. But unfortunately, it had happened and Sonic was gone thanks to it. After the streak of light had closed up, Sonic's friends could do nothing but stand there, frozen in an incredulous stare of horror and try to factor in what the flying monkeys just happened right now. Dr. Eggman was sharing their surprise and he didn't know what to say about all this either. He had never seen something like this before and it began to worry him. Was this going to be a recurring thing and it might suck him up next? He would have to study this "tear in the sky" and see what the deal behind it is before it can strike again. As for Sonic's friends, they came out of their shock and Amy Rose was the first to say something. She stepped forward two paces and then collapsed onto her knees, her heart feeling like someone had put a bullet through it and her eyes welling up with tears.

"No…Oh no, no, no...Sonic…he-he-he…HE'S GONE!" screamed Amy in anguish "My handsome hero is gone! NOOOOOOOO!"

And with that said, Amy finally let the tears come out and she sobbed her aching heart out. She wailed louder than even the most heartbroken of people can wail and she thumped the grassy ground beneath her in disdain. As for Queen Sally Acorn, she seemed to share Amy's anguish for she found herself crying a few tears too. Just when she starts getting more active on the battlefield, they lose their greatest hero and friend, Sonic the Hedgehog. What a great start to having a battle alongside Sonic THIS was!

"I can't believe it…" said Sally with a few sobs in between her words "Sonic just got sucked up into some streak of light and is…gone. Well and truly gone. This can't be happening…this can NOT be happening!"

"I'm afraid it is happening Sally." said Nicole the Lynx sadly "Sonic's been sucked up into some weird phenomenon and he's gone now. Possibly forever. I can't begin to tell you how unfortunate this is for all of us."

And with that, Nicole found herself shedding tears for the supposed loss of their great comrade. As for Sora, she found herself in a bit of shock and she started getting a little emotional to herself for she had just realized something about herself.

"Unbelievable…my first day as a Royal Fighter and we lose Sonic?!" she gasped "Why does this keep happening to me?! First I get a little brother and then I'm taken away from him just barely two months after he's born, then I become a spy and I lose my foster father and now I become a member of the R.F.S. and we lose Sonic?! Am I…cursed to always lose somebody whenever I gain something?!"

With that said, Sora couldn't help but cry over all of this. It did seem that she had some kind of curse on her. She gains something, she loses something. She gained a brother and lost a family eight years ago and now she gains a spot on the team and she loses a member already. Who knew what she was going to lose next. Tails began to feel sorry for his older sister so he put his arms around Sora and hugged her comfortingly. Sora hugged him back and wept onto his shoulder while Tails patted her on the back.

"There, there Sora. It's not your fault this happened at all." said Tails softly "You're not cursed in the slightest. It was just a very unlucky coincidence that all of this happened that's all, it was nothing to do with you whatsoever."

"I know but I feel that way because of this!" sobbed Sora "I gain something then I lose something! It's like a cruel case of "easy come, easy go" for me! I wish, I wish this would stop happening to me!"

"Sora, everybody loses something in their lives but it's no good complaining about it and blaming yourself for it." said Tails "It's not your fault or anybody else's fault that Sonic's gone. It was just some weird phenomenon that randomly popped out of nowhere and took him. It was something that nobody could have predicted and nobody could have prevented, nothing to do with anybody at all."

That made Sora feel a little better about herself and she stopped crying on her brother's shoulder.

"All right Tails, I understand." said Sora, sniffling a little "I'm sorry I got so emotional."

"It's fine Sora, we're all feeling emotional right now because Sonic's gone." said Tails gently "It's perfectly OK to be sad about it. But at the same time, being sad about it won't do us any favours or even bring Sonic back for that matter."

"Tails is right, we've gotta do something!" declared Knuckles the Echidna, pounding his fists together "We have to work out what that thing was and how to get Sonic back!"

"But how can we do that guardian?" asked his girlfriend Shade the Echidna "We have no idea where the hedgehog will have ended up and how we will even get him back for that matter."

"If only my Uncle Finitevus was here, he could build us a warp ring and super charge it so we can travel between zones and then we could go searching for him." grumbled Knuckles "Sonic's probably in another dimension for all we know and a Super Warp Ring is just what we need to go between zones."

"Indeed." murmured Shade "But we don't have any warp rings and Devion destroyed the only one we had left during the Devatron war so we can't super-charge that one and use it."

"Yeah…thanks a lot you chrome-plated creep!" snarled Knuckles, a threatening glare on his face being aimed directly at Devion, who just stood there with his arms folded and an uncaring glower painted on his face.

"If Silver and Blaze were still here, we could ask them for their Super Warp Ring and we could use that to go zone-hopping and see if we can find Sonic." said Tails.

"Yeah. But those two will be back home in their timeline." said Vector the Crocodile sadly "We won't be able to give them a call or anything."

"It seems that we're well and truly stuck here." murmured Espio the Chameleon "We've lost Sonic and we have no way of saving him."

"Bet the stupid Eggman's really pleased at that." muttered Charmy Bee, glowering at Eggman.

"Eh…It's half and half really." admitted Dr. Eggman who had finally managed to come out of his shock and snapped back into reality "On the one hand, my greatest enemy is gone for good but on the other hand, that streak of light might come back and take another one of us so I can't really be content with this, knowing that I might be next if it comes back. I have a nasty feeling that that streak of light isn't a one time only thing."

"Yeah…I kinda agree with you Eggman." said Tails quietly "What if it comes back? What if it's a recurring thing?"

"Do you think this might be that "end-of-the-world" thing that Silver and Blaze are trying to prevent?" said Wilson the Dog worriedly "If so then they'd better hurry up and prevent it."

"Wilson honey, they can't just "prevent" it, they need to know about it first." noted Mandy Mouse, wife of Wilson and Royal Fighter tomboy "And I sincerely doubt that anybody had the time to write anything about these "tears in the sky" if they really are the things that doom Mobius and they suck everybody up so maybe they'll never find out about it."

That really didn't make Wilson feel good at all. If anything, it worried him even more now.

"I think Mandy maybe right." said Geoffrey St. John the Skunk "This is a problem we'll have to sort out ourselves."

"Yeah." agreed Tails "So Eggman, what are you gonna do now? Commence with your plans now Sonic's gone?"

"No actually, I'm going back to my base and I'm going to study that streak of light, see what I can find out about them." said Dr. Eggman "I'm going to make sure that that thing never shows up again."

"And how exactly do you plan to do that brainiac?" snorted Mandy.

"I dunno but I'll work it out eventually." said Dr. Eggman "That's what scientists are all about, finding out how things tick and all. Everybody, return to base! We have something to investigate!"

With that said, Dr. Eggman's Egg-Pod took off into the air and hovered away with all his robotic minions following him. They all left the Mobians behind and headed off back to Eggman's secret underground bunker (well it's not secret anymore since the Mobians now know where it is) to investigate the whole matter about the streak of light and see what they can find out about it. As soon as Eggman and his minions left, Sally turned to the Royal Fighters.

"I think we should go back to Royal HQ and think of a way to get Sonic back home…if he's still alive that is." she said "And at the same time, try and study the streak of light and see what we can find out about it."

"Yes your majesty." said all the Royal Fighters.

So without further ado, the Royal Fighters all headed off back into New Mobotropolis and back towards Royal HQ. Even though Sonic was gone, they couldn't help but wonder if he was OK and where he might possibly be now. And one thing they couldn't help but wonder was…will he ever come back in one piece? Will he ever come back…at all…?

Meanwhile on Mobius Nega, King Scourge the Hedgehog was standing on the balcony of the Acorn Fortress, former place of residence of the TRUE king and queen of Mobius Nega before he and Fiona had taken over. His golden crown was perched proudly on his head and he was wearing very wealthy looking robes of state that flowed beautifully and was a deep red colour with white fur on the shoulders and the hem. The shoulder sections had gold, medallion accessories which added to the robe's opulent, majestic appearance. The magnificent cape blew about in the wind that was blowing about all around him, making him look very grand indeed. Today was a new day on Mobius Nega (it's morning on Mobius Nega whereas it's afternoon on Mobius Prime. Mobius Nega's time is different to Mobius Prime). The sun was beginning to rise up but the clouds were dark and murky (probably because of the fact the planet's been taken over) and they obscured much of the sun so there wasn't much light shining over Mobius Nega today, the whole world was blanketed in the shadows of the clouds that loomed over everything in the sky above. Scourge breathed in the fresh air through his nose and he exhaled out through his mouth in a content sigh.

"I love the smell of a brand new day." he said to himself "It always means I've got a new day of terrorizing innocents, punishing traitors and imprisoning people who dare to resist me like those stupid Freedom Fighters. I already have their leader. Today, I'll get her loyal lap-dogs."

He smiled to himself evilly as he thought on FINALLY getting his hands on the Freedom Fighters of Mobius Nega at last. Even though he was enjoying beating them up and foiling their attempts to overthrow him and restore peace to Mobius Nega, he was getting fed up of them constantly trying to defeat him when they should just give-up and bow down to his feet. That and Scourge was so paranoid over his rule right now that he wasn't content with Freedom Fighters running around and trying to overthrow him. He'd worked too hard to conquer Mobius Nega and he wasn't going to let his reign come to an end. He was desperate to keep his reign and remain King of Mobius Nega for as long as he lived. So today, Scourge had big plans he was eager to carry out. Big plans that were going to guarantee that the Freedom Fighters join Amy Nega in his dungeon. As Scourge smiled to himself on the very thought of the Freedom Fighters getting captured, somebody else stepped out onto the balcony and joined his side. It was his gorgeous girlfriend Fiona Fox, traitor to the Royal Fighters and Queen of Mobius Nega as of Scourge's take-over of the planet. Fiona had her crown perched proudly atop her head like Scourge had his crown on and she was also wearing robes of state. Her robes were a lighter red than Scourge's, the fur on the shoulder sections and the hem was whiter than Scourge's but she had less medallion accessories on her robes. The wind started to blow Fiona's robes around, making her look very graceful and elegant as they spread out behind her. Scourge turned to his side and saw that Fiona was standing next to him now. That made him smile even more.

"Good morning my beautiful queen, how are you on this fine looking morning." purred Scourge, sneaking his arm around Fiona's back and edging his fingers around her waist.

"I'm perfectly well thank you King Scourge." said Fiona slyly, doing exactly what Scourge was doing to her right now "I've had a lovely sleep and I'm looking forward to taking on the day today. Now we have Amy Nega, today will go more our way than yesterday and all the days before then."

"Indeed it will Queen Fiona." said Scourge happily, pulling Fiona close to himself "Especially as I have some big plans for today."

"Oooooh, my sexy little boy has big plans does he?" purred Fiona in a somewhat teasing tone of voice "What plans might that brilliant mind of yours be concocting now Scourge?" she added, patting her boyfriend on the head.

"I'm gonna give out a BIG reward for the capture of the Freedom Fighters." explained Scourge "I'm gonna put a price on their filthy little heads and make sure that people will go out and bring them to me. I bet all the fortress guards and anyone who's actually loyal to me will be itching to bring me the Freedom Fighters just for a big reward."

"Wow, you're gonna put a price on their heads?" asked Fiona with interest "How much hon?"

"250,000 Mobiums." replied Scourge "That'll make ANYBODY want to go out and bring a Freedom Fighter or two or maybe the whole lot to me."

"Indeed it will." said Fiona, approving of Scourge's idea "Since all the riches of Mobius Nega belong to us and the people out there barely have a penny, they'll be killing themselves to get the Freedom Fighters and get the reward."

"And of course, the reward is just a big lie, I'm not paying anybody a single Mobium!" cackled Scourge "Those gullible twerps will fall for it big time! They'll give me the Freedom Fighters and I'll give them nothing!"

"Scourge, you're so twisted that if we twisted you any further, you would suffocate." chuckled Fiona "So when do we start?"

"Now." said Scourge with a devil's smile spread out on his face "Get me the communicator to the guard's quarters. I'll give those sleeping beauties a wake-up call."

Fiona obeyed and she ran back inside to fetch a communicator for Scourge. She returned with it shortly after leaving and she handed it to Scourge. The communicator was shaped like a traditional telephone receiver but it looked more hi-tech and wasn't attached to anything. Scourge just pressed a button on the communicator and spoke into it.

"Hey all you mugs down in the cellars!" he yelled into it "Wake up! Your king has a task for you all to do!"

Of course, that shout woke up all the guards the fortress had down in the cellars where they slept in. Scourge waited a moment while the guards sorted themselves out and then he received a response through the communicator.

"Good morning your highness. What's the job today?" asked one guard.

"I want you lot to go around and paste up some Wanted posters." explained Scourge "I'm putting a price on the Freedom Fighter's heads. 250,000 Mobiums for the capture of the Freedom Fighters. I'm gonna get the fortress publishers to make the posters and then you will take them all out into the city and paste them everywhere. I bet SOMEBODY will want to bring us the Freedom Fighters and collect the reward I'm placing on their heads."

"OK your highness, we'll do that once the posters are made." said the guard.

With that said, Scourge switched off the communicator and he pressed another button on it.

"Now to call up the publishers and get them making those posters." said Scourge "Get them to put all their faces on the posters so the people will know that I want ALL of them, not just one or two."

"Scourge hold on a minute, something's happening." said Fiona, grabbing Scourge's arm and pointing up at the sky.

Scourge put down the communicator and he looked in Fiona's direction. What he saw was enough to make him go mental with horror. For a streak of light had appeared in the sky a few miles out above the city. And it looked exactly like the same streak of light that had brought he and Fiona to Mobius Nega in the first place! Scourge almost went crazy and he quickly darted out of the balcony and back into the fortress.

"Oh no! Not again! That weird streak of light's appeared again! Don't let it get me!" wailed Scourge as he ran away.

"Hold your horses Scourge, it's too far away from us. You're safe." said Fiona, standing there and just looking out at the tear in the sky as if it wasn't interesting to her.

Scourge caught what Fiona said and he sighed with relief. He came back out to the balcony and he brought out a telescope that was hanging on the wall just beside the doorway to the balcony with him. He extended the telescope to its full length and he peeked through it.

"Alright, let's see what that streak of light's doing over there…" he mused, wondering if it was going to do something good like maybe suck up all the Freedom Fighters and save him and his guards the job of having to capture them themselves.

He aimed the telescope at the steak of light and he watched it very closely, wondering if anything was going to go in it or if anything was going to come out of it. He watched with a mixture of excitement and anxiety bubbling away in his stomach as he waited to see what happened. Unfortunately for him, what happened was probably the one thing he was praying for not to happen. Sonic the Hedgehog came hurling down out of the streak of light as if he had just descended from heaven and he plummeted down into the city below. Scourge's eyes widened in horror and he dropped the telescope in shock. He watched as the tiny blue dot in the distance that is Sonic disappeared behind some buildings in the city. Fiona read Scourge's expression immediately and she detected something was wrong.

"Scourge baby, are you alright?" she asked nervously "What's the matter?"

"You're not gonna believe this baby-cakes…but Sonic the Hedgehog just came falling out of that tear in the sky!" shrieked Scourge, his face an uncharacteristic staple of fear and horror "That freaking tear in the sky just spat out Sonic the Hedgehog! My own dweeby brother's been brought here by the streak of light!"

Fiona's face went pale as Scourge said that to her.

"Oh no…! He…he…he'll ruin everything!" cried Fiona, putting her hands to her head in worry "He'll learn from the locals or maybe even the Freedom Fighters that we're here and we've taken over this world! He'll ruin our reign and throw us in jail either here or back on Mobius Prime if he manages to find a way back!"

"Not on my watch he ain't!" growled Scourge "King Scourge the Hedgehog's reign is far from over my queen! I'll just simply put a price on Sonic's head too! Get somebody to arrest him for me and then once I've got him, I'll lock him up along with Amy Nega and then kill him!"

"Excellent idea Scourge." said Fiona, hugging Scourge in approval "Sonic won't be able to do a thing about us once we get our hands on him!"

Scourge smiled darkly at the very thought of Sonic rotting away in his dungeon to prevent him from taking away his kingdom. If he managed to capture Sonic and lock him away then he would be the happiest hedgehog in the multi-verse. Scourge punched in the button for the fortress's publishers on the communicator and he put it to his ears.

"Hey! News-boys!" he barked sharply into the communicator "Your king has a job for you! I want you to make a bunch of Wanted posters and I want you to make two kinds! One set of posters will have the Freedom Fighter's faces on and the other set will have the face of Sonic the Hedgehog. No, I don't mean YOUR zone's Sonic, I mean there's another version of Sonic the Hedgehog that's come to Mobius Nega to try and take over my kingdom before you ask! He looks like your Sonic except he doesn't wear anything but sneakers and gloves, you can just use an image of Sonic Nega's face if you please. The price on their heads is 250,000 Mobiums. Think you can do that for me?"

"Certainly your highness." said a voice on the other side of the communicator "We'll get making them instantly."

"Good." said Scourge "Print out plenty of copies, I want the WHOLECITY to have a copy of each poster EVERYWHERE! I want those Freedom Fighters and Sonic and I want them NOW!"

"OK, OK! Calm down your highness! We're getting to the task right now!" snapped the voice "We'll have the posters ready and printed before you go on…"

Scourge smiled with appreciation to himself and he hung up, handing the communicator back to Fiona.

"Oh Sonic, you are so mine at the end of this day…" purred Scourge evilly as he picture Sonic's arrestment at his own hands…

A couple of hours had passed after Sonic crash-landed down in the city after being spat out by the tear in the sky that sucked him up like a giant vacuum cleaner. He had crash-landed into a dark, rubbish-bag filled alley-way and was lying on top of some rubbish-bags that cluttered up the back of the alley. Some dustbins that were standing nearby had been knocked over in the impact of the crash and Sonic had been left knocked out for a whole two hours (the crash was pretty bad). Only just now was Sonic finally beginning to come around from that crash-land. He began to moan and groan to himself as he began to wake up and pain swept over his body (Think about it, he crashed on top of black rubbish bags full of rubbish! Of course he's in pain!) for he'd had a very uncomfortable and painful landing. He sat up atop the rubbish-bags he was lying on and he opened his eyes groggily as if he was waking up early in the morning. He stretched ever so tensely and he rubbed himself better as he felt some of his body parts beginning to ache, especially his back.

"Ugggghhhhh…oh man that was painful!" he whinged as he began to rub himself better "Landing on top of garbage bags in the middle of this rundown alley-way?! I'm just begging for a back-ache aren't I?!"

He straightened his back until he felt it crick a little and he eased the pain out of it by gently massaging it with his fingers.

"Ugh…I really can't do with hurting my back anymore given how I had it dislocated by Devion and then I get shot in it shortly after I heal myself with my super form. It maybe healed now thanks to the Chaos Regeneration I used to heal myself during the Black Arms battle but I should take better care of it, given the abuse its received recently…"

He rubbed his eyes to clear them up a little and he stood up from the rubbish bags. He stumbled forward wobbly for he was still finding his feet and he tripped over a dustbin that was lying nearby. He fell flat onto his face and the dustbin made a most terrible clang sound as it fell over onto its side after Sonic stumbled over it. Sonic grumbled to himself and he got back onto his feet, groaning and shaking his head to wake himself up a bit more.

"Ouch…I've gotta be a little more careful I have!" he winced "Now… where the heck am I?" he found himself asking aloud "Have I been catapulted to another place on Mobius? I hope so, I need to get back to NewMobotropolis and fast before Eggman destroys it."

With that said, Sonic wandered off out of the alley-way to see if he could see where he was. He emerged from the alley-way and found himself walking into an enormous city. The city reminded him very much of Old Mobotropolis (you know, before Eggman razed it to the ground and New Mobotropolis replaced it) only the colouring of the buildings was a little darker and the Mobians looked a little different to what he was used to seeing. Different in the sense they resembled Mobians on his Mobius but had some differences like a scar, a marking, different choice of clothing or even a different fur colour. The sky was also slightly different too, being much grainer looking than usual. Sonic strode through the streets and observed his surroundings, wondering what was what and where everything was. This city really reminded him of Old Mobotropolis as he looked around and took note of everything. Sonic knew that Old Mobotropolis was gone and had a replacement so he knew immediately he wasn't on HIS Mobius, otherwise this city shouldn't be here. He put a finger to his lips and thought to himself about something. Something looked familiar about this city. Had he been here before? As Sonic thought and thought, he soon realized why everything was looking familiar to him in more ways than one. He snapped his fingers in realization.

"He-he-hey! I think I know where I am!" he blurted aloud "I'm on Mobius Nega, only it's much less evil looking now!"

Some citizens looked at him funny, wondering what the heck was up with Sonic but they just shook their heads and walked off, leaving Sonic to stand around by himself and exposit on the last time he'd been to Mobius Nega just to refresh his memory.

"Ah…I remember when I first ended up here." he said to himself "I came here completely by accident. I followed a metallized mouse back to this world and found out it had been conquered by this world's Eggman. I helped to save it, although they lost Scourge Nega, and it seems things have improved since the last time I was here. The city's more friendly and welcoming now in appearance and the sky's not black and purple anymore. Although the locals look a bit down, are they having a bad day or something?" he mused as he took note on how miserable some of the local Mobians were looking as they strutted and trudged glumly through the streets of Mobotropolis.

For a world that had just gotten back on its feet after the defeat of Eggman Nega, the Mobians looked pretty darn miserable. What was going on here? Sonic couldn't help but wonder what was up with them. Had something gone wrong? Was there another villain on the lose? Were they just simply having a bad day? Must be pretty bad if every single Mobian in the street looks down-hearted and melancholy. Being as Sonic was stuck here on Mobius Nega thanks to the tear in the sky, he thought he'd see what was up.

"Those long faces on everybody tell me something's up. Wonder what it is?" he asked himself, wondering over to somebody who was sitting glumly on a bench nearby.

Sonic looked at the guy and noticed that he was dressed in ragged robes and had the stereotypical image of a homeless person. He was also a jaguar and his fur was very messy and untidy looking. He had every right to look miserable it seemed but Sonic wondered if he knew why everybody else had such a long face. He patted the jaguar on the shoulder.

"Hey pal, why's everybody looking so sad?" asked Sonic "Did something bad happen?"

The jaguar looked up at Sonic and his eyes widened in surprise.

"He-he-hey! Y-y-you're the g-g-guy in the posters!" he stammered in a wobbly voice that made him sound somewhat demented (being homeless can give you a major blow to your sanity after all).

"Huh? What? What do you mean?" asked Sonic "What posters? What are you talking about?"

"See for yourself Sonic the Hedgehog Prime!" cried the jaguar with a rather creepy smile on his face that made him look like an evil clown without any face paint on.

Sonic began to feel nervous. What was up with that crazy jaguar? And how the heck did he know his name and that he's "Sonic the Hedgehog Prime" in particular? He soon got his answer for the jaguar reached into his robe pocket and took out a poster that he'd kept in there. He handed it to Sonic and the blue hedgehog unrolled it quickly, anxious to see what was on it. What he saw was enough to stop his heart. For the poster was a wanted poster and it said:

WANTED: SONIC THE HEDGEHOG PRIME

REWARD FOR CAPTURE: 250,000 MOBIUMS

DESCRIPTION: He looks like the late Sonic the Hedgehog Nega only he doesn't wear anything but a pair of red sneakers and white gloves and also has longer quills than our former hero. In the name of the king, he is to be captured on sight and brought to his imperial highness immediately.

Sonic was so shocked at this that he couldn't move. He was….wanted?! And by the king no less?! He had risked tail and hide to save Mobius Nega from Eggman Nega the last time he was here and THIS is how they repay him?! By putting a price on his head?! How ungrateful of them! Sonic began to feel disgusted and betrayed by all of this, he really did. But was there more to this then meets the eye? Was something going on that was causing all of this? Maybe Eggman Nega had somehow escaped from the void and had re-conquered Mobius Nega and now wanted Sonic captured? Not likely since there's no escape from the void and Mobius Nega looked perfectly fine right now, it didn't look like Eggman Nega had taken it over at all. But then again, Sonic didn't know the void that well. All he knew was it existed, he didn't know much else. Maybe there was a way of escaping it after all. And maybe Eggman Nega had only recently re-conquered Mobius Nega which might explain why everything's alright for the moment. Nevertheless, Sonic had to find out what was going on and why he was wanted for he could do without anyone trying to capture him right now. Sonic dropped the poster and let it blow away in the wind. He looked back at the jaguar.

"I'm a wanted hedgehog?!" he cried "Why?! What have I done wrong to earn a price on my spiny-little head?!"

"I dunno." said the jaguar, his face still twisted into a crazed expression that made him look very crazy indeed "All I know is the king wants the Freedom Fighters and you captured Sonic! Hee, hee, hee, hee…and now you're standing in front of me…ha, ha, ha, ha…I can capture you and take you to him! I'm so dreadfully skint right now that even my mind is in poverty! Ha, ha, ha, ha! Once I deliver you to the king…I'll be rich, rich, RICH! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Sonic decided now would be the chance to run like hell. As the jaguar cackled maniacally, Sonic ran off at top speed, leaving the jaguar behind to cackle like a demented leprechaun. As Sonic zoomed off down the streets, he whizzed by lots of locals and made them all gasp in surprise as a huge breeze whooshed past them and startled them. Sonic decided to run on until he could find a place to hide. He was not safe out in the open like this since he's now a wanted hedgehog. Everybody would recognize him from the posters maybe and start wanting to apprehend him. Sonic didn't want to have to fight off innocent people for he only believed in hurting people who deserve it so he had to hide if he were to remain out of the public's eye. Sonic ran on until he found another alley-way and he dived into that as quickly as he could. Luckily, he was moving so fast that nobody saw where he went so nobody would know he had gone down there. To make double sure that nobody would find him, Sonic jumped into a nearby dumpster that was in the alley. Sonic sat down in the dumpster and closed the lid, sealing himself inside the dark, smelly dumpster. Thankfully it was empty so he had plenty of room in it. He sat down and lay back against the wall of the dumpster.

"Man oh man…I'm wanted? Why?!" wondered Sonic "What have I ever done to get wanted by the King of Mobius Nega? I SAVED the damn planet from their oppressor! Why the hell am I wanted?!"

"Hey, you're not the only wanted fugitive around here pal." came a teenage sounding voice that sounded very familiar to him.

Sonic looked to his left and suddenly realized that he was not alone in the dumpster. Somebody else was in there with him too. And that somebody looked just like his buddy Ruben the Water Panther. He was the same age, fur colour and height as Ruben Prime but he wore an open leather jacket that had a broken zip, some torn pockets and missing buttons. He had no aqua-collar on and he was missing his left eye. It was covered up by a patch. Sonic shifted a little so he was now completely facing the Ruben look-alike and he stared at him.

"Hey there, lemme guess, you're Ruben Nega aren't you?" asked Sonic.

"That is correct." said Ruben Nega "I'm not surprised you worked that out so soon Prime-Zoner. I've heard much about you from my leader, Amy Nega. She tells me you're the Prime Zone Sonic and that you saved the world from Eggman Nega's tyranny."

"I did indeed but for some reason, I'm a wanted hedgehog!" cried Sonic "They've got my face on Wanted posters and a description of what I look like and all! Why would the very planet I saved from oppression want me captured?!"

Ruben Nega listened to Sonic's statement very closely and he made a serious face as he factored in everything Sonic told him.

"I think you're wanted probably because King Scourge doesn't want any supersonic hedgehogs trying to overthrow him and bring peace back to Mobius Nega." estimated Ruben Nega.

Sonic stared at Ruben Nega as if he'd just spoken a foreign language to him. KING Scourge?! He didn't possibly mean…did he?

"King…Scourge?" blustered Sonic "You don't mean YOUR Scourge

"Of course not, Scourge Nega's dead remember?" noted Ruben Nega "I was told that Eggman Nega killed Scourge Nega so of course I'm not talking about this world's Scourge. No, King Scourge is actually Scourge the Hedgehog Prime. He made that very clear when he took over our world a few weeks ago."

Sonic couldn't believe his ears. He was so shocked to hear all of this that he felt like he was just going to collapse and just randomly die without warning. Well he DID wonder at one point where Scourge and Fiona were and now it seemed he got his answer. The answer though was not what he had expected in a million years so it was still shocking to him. Ruben Nega just looked at Sonic with a stoic expression on his face. Ruben Nega wasn't like his prime counter part personality wise. He was very straight-faced and deadpan and his emotional side rarely ever came out, causing many people, even his own team mates, to find him to be an absolute misery-guts.

"I know, it's shocking isn't it?" asked Ruben Nega "Your zone's Scourge has taken over the world much like how Eggman Nega took it over and since we have no Sonic Nega or Scourge Nega to stand up to them, we were dead meat out there and he took over the world easily. None of us could match up to him, especially as there's no one else on Mobius Nega like Sonic or Scourge Nega. So right now, he's ruling over us all and there's nothing we can do about it."

Sonic snapped out of his shock and finally started speaking again.

"My zone's Scourge has…conquered Mobius Nega?!" shrieked Sonic "My own brother…has conquered Mobius Nega?! How the flying chilli-dogs did THAT happen?!"

"You will not believe how it happened Sonic Prime." muttered Ruben Nega "A few weeks ago, this random streak of light appeared in the sky and then Scourge and a vixen named Fiona who seems to be his girl, fell out of the sky and crash-landed in the city square. Then once they woke up, Scourge asked one of the locals where he was and once he found out this is one of Mobius Prime's many alternate zones, he decided he wanted to conquer it and make it his own. So with his speed and battle prowess and the cunning and intelligence of his rather bodacious sidekick…he took over the world. He trumped our armies, made short work out of us Freedom Fighters and forced us to scatter and go into hiding and is now residing in Fortress Acorn, living a life of opulence and making the world suffer under his cruel, iron-fisted rule. Poverty is global because he's taken all the riches of Mobius Nega for himself, punishments are given out if you so much as look at him weird and he's free to do what he wants and nobody can stop him. He's too powerful for us all and we have no one who can match him. He's like Sonic Nega at his full potential. Me and the other Freedom Fighters have been trying to take him down, striking from the shadows like ninjas in the night. But all we're doing is delaying the inevitable and making him mad. Now he's put wanted posters up for all of the Freedom Fighters and you. He must have spotted you when you arrived here and maybe wants you captured so you can't take him down once you discover he's here. Speaking of arrival…were you sent here by a steak of light in the sky too?"

"I was." said Sonic, taking in everything Ruben Nega had told him "A streak of light tore through the sky and then swallowed me up like a crocodile catching its breakfast. And then…it spat me out here. Seems like a weird coincidence doesn't it? Me and Scourge both get taken here by a streak of light?"

"Yeah. Sounds weird indeed." mumbled Ruben Nega, clearly not thinking this was really that weird or even that surprising for that matter.

"Yeah." murmured Sonic "So…Scourge was brought here…by a streak of light…and that happened weeks ago?"

"Sure did." mumbled Ruben Nega.

That made Sonic feel very nervous indeed. The streak of light had happened a few weeks ago already? The one that had taken him to Mobius Nega wasn't the first time it had happened? What on Mobius was the deal behind the streak of light? Sonic began to think very hard on this. Was it a sign of an apocalypse at all? If so then could this be the apocalypse that Silver and Blaze were trying to prevent and save their future? If so then how could they be stopped? But then again, all they seemed to do was suck up anyone near them and take them somewhere else. Not really doing much harm so far. But would they get worse? And would they get more frequent? Two had already happened with weeks between them. Would those weeks shorten into days and then into hours and then into minutes and then into…seconds?! The streak of light was clearly something catastrophic and Sonic knew it had to be dealt with. But now was not the time for that. Now was the time to save Mobius Nega from his evil brother and bring him and Fiona back to Mobius Prime where they can rot in a prison cell for their crimes.

"Well…I'm gonna bring down Scourge and Fiona and bring them back to MY Mobius!" declared Sonic "I saved this Mobius once and I'll do it again!"

"I'm honoured that you're gonna do that Sonic Prime." said Ruben Nega with a tiny smile on his face "Cause after all, we really do need you to help save Mobius Nega after all."

"You're welcome." said Sonic "Hey, hope you don't mind me asking but…what happened to your eye?" he asked, pointing at Ruben Nega's eye patch "And where's your aqua collar? Shouldn't you have one since you're a water panther?"

Ruben Nega's face fell into an even gloomier expression and he lightly touched his eye patch.

"I lost that during our first battle with Scourge." explained Ruben Nega "He pinned me to the ground and…you don't wanna know how he caused me to lose it. It's too gruesome. As for my aqua-collar… Scourge took it and he destroyed it so I'm incapable of using my water powers now."

"OK then, I'm sorry I asked." said Sonic in a sympathetic tone.

"It's OK, you needed to know." said Ruben Nega gently "Now then, shall I take you to the other Freedom Fighters?" he asked "They'll love to meet you and we can gather together to carry out our next plan."

"Cool." said Sonic "I'd love to meet the Freedom Fighters. Let's get going! I'd especially love to meet Amy Nega again. Man was she hot and cool both at the same time!"

"I'm afraid Amy Nega has been imprisoned by Scourge." said Ruben Nega sadly, his face falling into a sorrowful expression "She is currently chained up in a dark dungeon, baring the wrath of Scourge."

Sonic was horrified to hear this and he almost leaped out of the dumpster in shock.

"Amy Nega's in Scourge's hands?!" he cried "Oh my gosh…we've gotta save her and fast before Scourge kills her!"

"That's exactly what the Freedom Fighters' next move is going to be, rescuing Amy Nega." said Ruben Nega "Come with me and I'll take you to the Freedom Fighters, then we can all go together and rescue our incarcerated leader."

"OK then." said Sonic "Let's get going, the faster we get going the quicker Amy gets rescued!"

"You really like her don't you?" smirked Ruben Nega, his mouth turning up at the side into a small sneer.

"Of course I do." said Sonic "She's like my zone's Amy if she was cooler and prettier looking. I really liked her when I first came here and I wanna make sure she's safe now I'm here again."

With that said, Sonic and Ruben Nega climbed out of the dumpster as slowly and as quietly as they possibly could for they didn't want to make a noise and attract any unwanted attention. They stepped out of the it and quietly closed the lid behind them, making sure it didn't make any noise as they closed it. Once the dumpster was closed, they crept out of the alley way as quiet as a pair of mice. They came up to the corner and they peeked around it, making sure that the coast was clear before they pressed on. They were both wanted Mobians so they couldn't afford to have anyone spotting them and trying to capture them for Scourge and Fiona. The coast was clear, luckily for them, so the two sneaked out of the alleyway and Ruben Nega ran off with Sonic following him.

"We're in for some luck it seems." said Ruben Nega as they ran off "Hopefully we won't encounter and problems on the way back to base."

"Hopefully not." said Sonic "I really can't afford to have any problems as we try to save Amy Nega and defeat Scourge."

"Neither can I pal." said Ruben Nega "Especially as now me and the team have prices on our heads and you as well."

Sonic nodded as he followed Ruben Nega through the streets of Mobotropolis. Ruben Nega darted down a city block and headed off down the empty road that stretched on ahead of them. But unfortunately, as they reached the end of the road and turned to the right, they ran into a troop of guards that all worked for Scourge. They were out on patrol since they were allowed to try and capture the wanted ones and get the reward for themselves. The guards were all a pack of Mobian African Hunting Dogs all dressed in soldier's uniforms and wielding rifles. The guards all stared in surprise at the sight of Sonic and Ruben Nega and they all pointed their guns at them.

"Well, well boys! We've located a Freedom Fighter AND Sonic the Hedgehog Prime!" cackled the leader of the guards "Boys, set the guns to stun and SHOOT THEM NOW!"

The guards all obeyed and they set their guns to stun and fired at Sonic and Ruben Nega…

So Sonic's ended up on Mobius Nega eh? (Big shocker). Well now he's here, he can hopefully save Mobius Nega and overthrow Scourge from his seat of power! But will he succeed? And will he be able to save Amy Nega? And how will he get back to Mobius Prime? Will his friends be able to help him get home? Find out next time as "Dark World" continues...

Glad you thought "They Key of Opulence" was good and you're still enjoying my story Alma Von Arena. :) So how's this one looking so far?

Dark World Part 3

Story 141: Dark World Part 3

Sonic the Hedgehog was having an eventful day today. He'd just recently defeated Team Diamond and gotten them incarcerated at last, had come home with a new recruit who was also the long-lost sister of his best friend Tails, spied on Dr. Eggman with said new recruit and found out what he was planning, got sucked up into a streak of light that had randomly appeared in the sky, spat back out by the streak of light and ended up on Mobius Nega again and had just found out that his evil brother, Scourge the Hedgehog, and his girlfriend, the treacherous Fiona Fox, had taken over the world and had placed a bounty on the heads of himself and the Freedom Fighters of Mobius Nega, and now he was being shot at by Scourge's guards. Sonic was paired up with the Mobius Nega counterpart of Ruben the Water Panther, obligatorily named Ruben Nega of course, and he had been leading Sonic back to the Freedom Fighter's headquarters but they had run into Scourge's guards and they were shooting at the two with their rifles set to stun mode. One shot from those rifles and they would be knocked out instantly. The guards shot at Sonic and Ruben Nega but the two managed to dodge the shots by running or somersaulting out of the way. Sonic was doing the running and Ruben Nega was doing the somersaulting as you've probably guessed. The guards kept up the shooting, desperate to hit Sonic and Ruben Nega so they could knock them out, take them to Scourge and claim the reward that he was offering for their capture (not). But as we all know, the likelihood of tagging Sonic with a rifle is about as likely as finding a five-pound note just randomly lying on the pavement. That is to say…not likely whatsoever. Sonic and Ruben Nega dodged all the shots and Sonic grabbed Ruben Nega by the arm. He whizzed off, holding Ruben Nega tightly, and he ran directly up a nearby building with him. Ruben Nega didn't show any signs of excitement or enjoyment as Sonic ran off with him. He just kept his face straight as usual as if this was just another day of being carried by a supersonic hedgehog for him (he IS deadpan remember?). Once Sonic had run up the building, he and Ruben Nega ran across the rooftop and took shelter behind a rooftop generator with the laser fire shooting up at them from down below. Sonic and Ruben Nega were pretty far across the rooftop so the guards could no longer get a clear shot at them and the rooftop generator provided excellent coverage for the two. They had the perfect moment to catch their breath and think of a plan.

"OK…this isn't going how we wanted!" panted Sonic "We've run into some guys with rifles who are trying to stun us! Who are they Ruben?"

"They're the fortress guards." explained Ruben Nega "I bet Scourge sent them out on patrol to try and hunt us down. Or they sent themselves on patrol to try and hunt us down so they can get the reward. Either way, we can't let them catch us."

"We most certainly can't Ruben." said Sonic "So what do you advise on doing?"

"If Scourge hadn't destroyed my aqua collar, I'd just wash them all away with a jet of water." muttered Ruben Nega "I'd suggest we just stay on the rooftops and out of their way."

"Sounds good to me." said Sonic "And since I can run fast and jump high, I'll outrun those guards while up here easily!"

"I agree, they won't catch us while we're up here." said Ruben Nega brightly "So, let's get going. I'll direct you to the Freedom Fighter hideout while you're evading the guards."

"No Ruben, I can't do that." said Sonic sternly "The guards might follow us back to the hideout and find out where your team is. We'll lead the guards in a different direction and THEN I will run off at supersonic speed and you can direct me to the hideout and since I'll be moving so fast, the guards won't see where I'm heading."

"Wow…you're a lot smarter than most Sonics I've met in the multi-verse." said Ruben Nega, his face now a legitimate expression of surprise "Even our Sonic."

"Thanks." said Sonic "And you've met "other Sonics" in the multi-verse? Really? How did you do that?"

Sonic began to get a tingle of excitement in his stomach. If Ruben Nega's managed to meet "other Sonics" in the multi-verse then he must have some kind of device that allows the user to hop from zone to zone and maybe he could use that to get back home to Mobius Prime once he defeated Scourge.

"Mobius Nega has zone-hopping technology that we often used to visit other zones." explained Ruben Nega "Even Mobius Prime. Eggman Nega destroyed all that during his rule though and erased all data on the devices so we've been incapable of rebuilding any so no zone-hopping for us anymore."

That made Sonic's excitement blow out like a flame. Looks like there was no way home for him after all. He might just be stuck on Mobius Nega forever, unless another tear in the sky appears and takes him back home but the likelihood of that was a hundred to one. The one that had brought Scourge here in the first place had happened WEEKS ago so it might be a while until another one comes and takes Sonic home and even then, it may not necessarily take him home, it could spit him out on a whole new world for all he knew and he'd be even more lost. If only there was a Chaos Emerald or two he could use and then maybe he could just Chaos Control back to Mobius Prime after defeating Scourge. But now was not the time to think about going back home yet. He had Mobius Nega to save from Scourge's oppression first and then he could think about that.

That little statement made Sonic's excitement blow out like a flame and his face fell into disappointment. Looks like there was no way home for him after all. He might just be stuck on Mobius Nega forever, unless another tear in the sky appears and takes him back home but the likelihood of that was a hundred to one. The one that had brought Scourge here in the first place had happened WEEKS ago so it might be a while until another one comes and takes Sonic home and even then, it may not necessarily take him home, it could spit him out on a whole new world for all he knew and he'd be even more lost. If only there was a Chaos Emerald or two he could use and then maybe he could just Chaos Control back to Mobius Prime after defeating Scourge. But now was not the time to think about going back home yet. He had Mobius Nega to save from Scourge's oppression first and then he could think about that. But Sonic would have to think about defeating Scourge later for something else gave him something to think about. And that was the fact that the guards were climbing up a flight of metal stairs that were bolted to the wall of the building he and Ruben Nega were atop and they started shooting at them again. Sonic and Ruben Nega instantly got to their feet and ran for it before any of the stun shots could tag them.

"Whoa!" yelped Sonic as one stun blast whizzed past his bottom just inches away from it "Looks like we're not the only ones who will be rooftop hopping Ruben!"

"Seems that way." said Ruben Nega as he ducked down and dodged a stun shot "Let's commence with your plan Sonic."

Sonic agreed and he picked up Ruben Nega. Unfortunately, before he could run off, a guard aimed his rifle at Sonic's feet and shot at him. The shot hit Sonic's feet and he was brought falling down flat onto his face, Ruben Nega sprawling out in front of him as he fell over. The shot had left Sonic's ankles feeling very sore and the heel of his shoes lightly singed. Sonic gripped his feet in pain and he winced as they began to sting furiously.

"Yeouch! That was a painful shot!" grumbled Sonic "I don't think I'll be able to run with my feet stinging like this! Ow…"

The guards were delighted to hear this. Sonic was completely at their mercy now since his feet were hurting so much, he couldn't run or anything. They all aimed their rifles at Sonic and prepared to shoot him and knock him out with a stun blast. But as they were ready to pull the triggers, Ruben Nega leaped in and unleashed a round of kung-fu moves on all the guards. He jumped on top of one guard's head, and knocked him down onto his face. He then leaped up and kung-fu kicked another guard in the face and knocked him down onto his back. Another guard tried to whack Ruben Nega with his rifle but Ruben Nega evaded the attack and he slugged the guard in the gut. He then elbowed him in the nose, punched him in the eye and then kicked him into another guard. The two dogs were sent sprawling across the rooftop and they groaned in agonizing pain for that had been very painful for them. Another guard tried to shoot Ruben Nega but Ruben Nega bent over backwards to evade the shot. The guard ran up to Ruben Nega as his shot missed but

Ruben Nega spun around and roundhouse kicked him directly off the rooftop! The guard was sent plummeting off the building, screaming as he headed down to the ground below. What silenced his screams was a sickening crunch sound as he hit the pavement. Ruben Nega leaned over to see what had become of the guard. The fall had killed it and Ruben Nega took a moment to close his eyes, put his hands together in a prayer and beg the ancestors for forgiveness since killing was often considered an act of dishonour among Chun-Nan residents, especially water panthers. He maybe dead-pan but he's still capable of feeling after all. There were five guards left standing. They all aimed their guns at Ruben Nega but before they could shoot him and knock him out, Sonic jumped up and spin-dashed them all down. The five guards were thrown near the edge of the rooftop and they all piled up on top of each other in a heap. Sonic stood before them all, his feet still stinging from the earlier shot that had hit him there, and he smirked at them.

"You really should know better than to try and tag someone as fast as me." he crowed "Someone with speed like mine will be much too fast for you to shoot."

Ruben Nega strolled casually over to Sonic with a tiny smile on his face (that's all he's capable of given how stone-faced he is all the time).

"Nice one Sonic." he said casually "Considering you got shot in the feet earlier."

"Yeah, they still sting really badly but I just forced myself to ignore the pain in them long enough to launch that spin-dash." said Sonic, his face scrunched up in a little grimace as he began rubbing his feet better "I often have to ignore whatever pain I'm in when in a situation like this. It's vital if you wanna stay alive after all."

"Can't argue with that." said Ruben Nega "Now, let's get outta here before the guards get back up."

"I'll say, Those dumb dogs aren't very pleasant company." snickered Sonic.

So with that said, Sonic scooped up Ruben Nega bridal style and positioned himself, ready to run off with him in his arms and jump off onto another building. But as Sonic bent down and prepared to make a dash for it, one of the guards picked himself up and primed his rifle, ready to make another shot. He aimed his rifle at Sonic, making sure his shot was as accurate as possible as he poised himself to make the shot. Sonic dashed off towards the edge of the rooftop in almost a millisecond and he gracefully leaped up into the air…and just as he left the building and sailed over the gap in-between the gap between this building he was jumping off and the one he was heading for, the guard pulled the trigger and fired. The stun-shot whooshed out of the barrel of the rifle and rocketed towards Sonic just as he was positioning himself to land on the other building. Sonic landed feet-first on the building he'd leaped onto, ignoring the flaring pain that seared through his feet as he landed, but the shot caught up to him and blasted him directly in the back! Sonic's whole body seemed to just seize up as if he had been sprayed by liquid nitrogen and just froze up on the spot. Sonic dropped Ruben Nega onto the rooftop and because his seized up body wasn't very well balanced (it's in a pose that's leaning back a little, throwing his balance off), he ended up falling backwards off the building. Ruben Nega's face turned into an expression that he very seldom expressed…horror. His eyes widened and his jaw dropped open in incredulous shock as Sonic toppled backwards off the building.

"SONIC!" screamed Ruben Nega.

As stone-faced and miserable as he was, even he was not opposed to getting shocked or expression emotions at any point. This was a legitimate shock for the poor water panther since the fall could quite easily kill Sonic and thus, end Mobius Nega's only hope for freedom and that terrified Ruben Nega. Ruben Nega watched over the edge of the building as Sonic plummeted down to the ground below. He crash-landed on top of a bunch of dustbins, knocking them all over and making them clang and clash most horribly as their lids fell off and rolled across the ground and Sonic knocked them over. The rubbish contained in the dustbins spilled out onto the ground as they were knocked over and the malodorous scent that drifted from the rubbish began to drift up into the fresh air now there was nothing to contain it. Because Sonic was paralyzed by the guard's stun shot, he just lay there by the knocked over bins, completely unable to move because of this. Ruben Nega put his hands to his mouth in horror. He began praying and praying that the fall hadn't killed Sonic. His body shook and he put his fingers into his mouth as he worried on Sonic's well-being. As for the guard that had shot Sonic, he was just left staring open-mouthed as if he had just found the Holy Grail at last.

"Oh my goodness, gracious me! I hit him!" crowed the guard "Come on guys, let's deliver the body to King Scourge and get that reward!"

With that said, the guards all climbed down from the building they were on and ran off to the alley way that Sonic had fallen into. Ruben Nega was so overwhelmed with shock that he didn't move. He was frozen to the spot in fear and he didn't do anything. He was almost petrified as he stared at Sonic's paralyzed body and wondered if he was still alive. Falling off a building and landing on top of dustbins did not guarantee any chance of survival after all. The guards all caught up to Sonic and they surrounded him, pointing their rifles at him to make sure he didn't try to do anything incase the paralysis wore off or something. It wouldn't matter anyway since Sonic had been knocked out by the crash so even though he was still paralyzed, he was unconscious so he wouldn't be moving anyway. The guard that had shot Sonic stood forward and he felt Sonic's pulse on is wrist. He felt a faint heartbeat.

"This may surprise you mugs…but he's alive." said the guard "I guess he's as tough-bodied as King Scourge is."

"I'll say, he even LOOKS like King Scourge!" noted one guard in a rather humorous tone "Just paint him green and give him a leather jacket and he'll be the spitting image!"

"Yeah." said the guard "Well, since he's paralyzed, let's take him back to the fortress before it wears off. We cannot afford to lose him now we've got him."

The guards agreed and they all picked up Sonic's body.

"But what about Ruben Nega?" asked one of the guards as they picked up Sonic.

"Aw forget him, let's just get out of here with Sonic before his paralysis wears off. We can't waste this opportunity while we have it." said the lead guard "We'll catch Ruben Nega later."

So the guards proceeded to just walk out of the alley-way whilst carrying Sonic's body away and they headed off back to Fortress Acorn…and back to King Scourge. Ruben Nega finally snapped out of his shock and watched with disdain as Sonic was taken away to be a prisoner for Scourge the Hedgehog.

"Oh no…they've got him!" cried Ruben Nega "And they're taking him to Scourge! I would try and help Sonic but I might get shot and end up being captured too! I'll go back to the FF hideout and get the Freedom Fighters. I'm sorry Sonic but this is not a one man job. I'll come back for you, I promise."

With that said, Ruben Nega jumped down from the rooftop and down onto the pavement below. He darted off down the road and headed to where the Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters were hiding. Once he recruited his friends, he would come to Fortress Acorn, storm the place and rescue Sonic. And maybe they could rescue Amy Nega too as they come to save Sonic…

Back on Mobius Prime, the Royal Fighters had all gathered around in Royal HQ and were in the lab as of this moment. Tails the twin-tailed fox, Sonic's best friend, was sitting at the computers and was using Mobius' satellites to study Mobius and see if he could pick up anything strange at all. How fortuitous it was that Nicole the Lynx, the lady-in-waiting to Queen Sally Acorn, managed to get the satellites back under control for the Royal Fighters after Eggman had hacked into them* otherwise they would be in a bit of a pickle right about now. Ever since the tear in the sky had taken Sonic away, the Royal Fighters had been desperate to find him and thus, they had returned to Royal HQ and Tails was using the satellites (which they have access to) to see if Sonic had re-appeared anywhere else on Mobius thanks to the streak of light, as well as to scan the habitat and see if there's anything else weird and surreal going on at all. The whole tear in the sky had everybody on tenterhooks and also getting very worried for their super-speedy friend. Even Dr. Eggman was worried about the whole thing and he had gone back to his own lab to study the streak of light himself. You know something's bad if even Eggman's worried about it. While Tails was working away on the lab's computers, the other Mobians were just gathered around and talking to one another.

"I really can't stop wondering what the heck that streak of light in the sky was all about and where it came from." grumbled the AngelIsland guardian and heavy-hitter Knuckles the Echidna "Heck, I'm still wondering WHAT it is for that matter!"

"I'm wondering that too guardian." said Shade the Echidna, co-guardian of AngelIsland and Knuckle's love interest who was standing beside Knuckles and holding his arm for comfort "There must be some kind of rhyme or reason behind that streak of light. Everything has a rhyme and a reason behind it after all."

"I agree on that but sometimes, you can get something that's all rhyme and no reason." said Sally Acorn "For all we know, that streak of light could have just appeared completely at random. It might just be a random phenomenon that happened for no reason."

"I highly doubt that your majesty." said the young and always honourable Ruben the Water Panther "That thing can't just "happen for no reason", it's not a natural thing so something must have caused it. But what caused it is the big question that we're all striving to find the answer to."

"It is indeed Ruben." said Sally grimly "And the other big question is what's happened to Sonic now he's been sucked up into that weird streak of light?"

"I'm just hoping he's not dead!" screeched Amy Rose, Sonic's self-proclaimed girlfriend "I don't know how I'd live with myself if my precious Sonic was dead!"

She began to whimper a little as if she was about to start crying again. She had been one of the most effected of the lot by Sonic's disappearance and was just about losing her mind with grief. Cosmo the Seedrian and Cream the Rabbit both gave Amy a comforting hug to settle her down to which Amy graciously returned.

"Thanks girls." she said with a smile on her face as she wiped away the coming tears.

"No problem Miss Rose." said Cream politely.

"We understand how you feel Amy so we'll be here to comfort you in anyway possible." said Cosmo kindly.

"That's very sweet Cream and Cosmo." said Sally, awestruck by how lovely the two girls could be "It's good to see that despite this stressful moment, you're still there to care for others."

"Thank you Miss Acorn." said Cream.

"Hey everybody, I might sound crazy if I say this but…I think Eggman himself might be behind that "tear in the sky" nonsense." piped in the Royal Fighter tomboy MandyMouse "I mean, it's FAR too convenient for my liking that the tear in the sky just "happened" to show up just shortly after he arrived to take down our city. Coincidence? I think not!"

"I'm sorry to say Miss Mandy that your theory is most illogical." said the newly-recruited Sora Prower, long lost sister to Tails and super-spy "I spied on Eggman with Sonic earlier and he made NO mention whatsoever about a streak of light that can suck things up. Not to mention, he was taken aback by the whole thing himself so how can he possibly have done it?"

"He could have been pretending to fool us all." noted Mandy "But if you said he made no mention about it when you spied on him then maybe he didn't do it after all. You spied on him and told us everything you had heard. Although…he may have talked about it after you left." she added.

"Wrong Mandy, after Eggman had told Devion everything, he said "Now let's get ready to go, we're going to unleash the plan now" and was leaving immediately after he said that." Sora explained "He didn't say anything else. He said nothing about the streak of light, didn't talk about anything else after he left, zilch, zip, nada."

Mandy put a finger to her lips and she thought for a moment about all this.

"Hmm…I see. Maybe the fat-head isn't responsible after all." she murmured, disappointed her theory was wrong.

"He certainly isn't." said Sora "But it wasn't a bad theory Mandy, you had every right to think that."

"I certainly would have blamed it on Eggman too…" muttered Geoffrey St. John crossly "A lot of the weird things that go on are his doing aren't they?"

"Just Eggman in general is weird." joked Wilson the Dog, husband of Mandy Mouse "His very presence is a weird thing going on. That streak of light's the only thing that's weirder than him. I do hope it isn't going to come back otherwise I will start to worry about it."

"Ah hope it doesn't come back either sugah." said Bunnie Rabbot "We really can't afford to lose anybody else right now."

"I agree Miss Rabbot." said Sora "Although we might have more to worry about then a streak of light. I mean, I heard Eggman talking about a "new invention". He said if his initial plan fails, he'll have to unleash his "new invention" on us."

"N-n-n-new invention?" whimpered Cream worriedly.

"Aha!" cried Mandy, snapping her fingers "New invention! That might be it! Maybe Eggman's so-called "new invention" you heard him mention was something that could make that streak of light! Since you found out his original plan and we've pretty much foiled it because of that, I bet Eggman used his new invention to make that streak of light to suck us up but instead, only got blue dude! I knew he was behind all this after all!"

She thumped the palm of her hand with her fist, clearly content with the idea she had just gotten. Sora was taken aback by Mandy's theory but given how they have no idea on what the real cause is, they had to go with it. They had no other theory on this.

"That's…a plausible theory Mandy." said Sora doubtfully "If it IS true then I will be amazed. Although that still begs the question why Eggman seemed so shocked at this too…"

"Duh! He was acting along with it to try play us all for saps Sora! Isn't it obvious?" snapped Mandy rudely.

"Mandy dear, don't be rude." said Wilson, putting his hands on his wife's shoulders "Not everybody thinks the same things as you, you know."

"Sorry Wilson." said Mandy.

"You know if Mandy's theory is correct and Eggman IS the one who made that streak of light then I REALLY will kill him for getting rid of my Sonic!" growled Amy furiously "I'll piko him so hard his head will have a permanent bump on it!"

"I'd love to see that love." snickered Geoffrey, imagining the outcome of Amy going berserk on Eggman for making that tear in the sky to get rid of Sonic.

"Hey guys, come over here." said Tails, turning around and facing everybody "I've got some startling news for you all."

Everybody ran over to Tails, their stomachs tingling with excitement at the possibility that Sonic had been found and was still on Mobius after all. They all lined up in front of Tails and they looked at him, eager to hear what he had to say.

"So little guy, what's this news you have for us?" asked Vector the Crocodile, boss of Team Chaotix.

"Have you found Sonic?" asked Espio the Chameleon, ninja of Team Chaotix.

"No." said Tails, shaking his head sadly "I haven't. But this is my startling news…according to Mobius' satellites and data scans… everything on Mobius is completely NORMAL. Everything's OK now, there's nothing else weird going on, nothing odd is being picked up or registered by the satellites. Everything's just…normal. As if the tear in the sky never happened."

Everybody's jaws dropped and they all looked at each other in astonishment, unable to believe that everything was suddenly normal again after such a weird phenomenon. Surely the planet would be distorted or changed in someway if something this incredulous and obfuscating had happened out of the blue and sucked up Sonic the Hedgehog like it had done. But everything was normal. This certainly was a perplexing mystery wasn't it? The whole business behind the streak of light must be deeper than anybody ever imagined. Mandy however seemed to be getting more ideas with this startling revelation.

"Aha! That PROVES Eggman created that streak of light!" declared Mandy "If everything's normal again it's because that thing was artificially created and not something more surreal like a rift in the timeline or whatever it is in the movies I've seen over the years! Looks like I was right after all!" she added with a satisfied smirk on her face.

"Uh…I'm totally lost. What's up with Mandy?" asked Tails, scratching his head in wonder.

"The mouse girl firmly believes that Eggman created that streak of light himself in an attempt to get rid of us." explained Knuckles "I'm having a hard time believing that myself but it seems likely given the evidence we have. Sora said Eggman mentioned having a "new invention" and the streak of light just conveniently happened to show up shortly after he arrived and now we've just found out everything's normal, it seems that that's the case after all."

"Hmm…Mandy's theory may just well be correct." said Tails "After all, he once built a machine capable of re-shaping the world as he saw fit so I wouldn't be surprised if he built something capable of doing that." he murmured, thinking back to the terrible Egg-Timer machine that Eggman had built and Metal Sonic had taken over and used himself last year.

"Eggman built a machine capable of re-shaping the world?! When did that happen?" asked Nicole.

"Doesn't matter, it's gone for good and I don't think he'll be using it again." said Tails "Anyway, I'm more than inclined to believe Mandy's theory since that Eggman's one heck of a genius. He could have well built something that can make a streak of light appear."

"But then why didn't he make another one after Sonic was sucked up…?" mused Sally, curling her finger around her lips in thought "He didn't bother about us, you'd think he'd suck us all up into that streak of light and not just Sonic."

"Maybe he's sparing us and getting us all worried and upset for his own sadistic pleasure." suggested Ruben "That'd be just like him I bet…" he added, scowling at the very idea of Eggman doing that.

"Yeah…" murmured Tails agreeably "So we'll have to storm Eggman's base and since we know where it is, that'll be easy as pie. We'll storm the base, find the invention and destroy it. But we'll need to get Sonic back still, we can't do with him being goodness knows where thanks to that streak of light."

"But how can we get Sonic back if we don't know where he is?" asked Wilson despairingly "Heck, we don't even know HOW to get him back so knowing where he is won't help us much anyway."

"If only we had a method of teleportation like a warp ring and then maybe we could look for Sonic and bring him home." said Shade grimly.

"Wait a minute…" said Tails, an idea coming to his head all of the sudden as Shade said that "We have the Chaos Emeralds…they can be used as a method of teleportation…we can just use those to Chaos Control place to place until we find Sonic and bring him home that way!"

Everybody all gasped with delight at that idea. They had a solution for Sonic's dilemma at last! They could just use the Chaos Emeralds to find Sonic and bring him back home! Genius!

"Tails, that's a great idea!" cried Knuckles happily "But we still need to know where Sonic is though."

"We can just keep warping with the Chaos Emeralds until we find him." suggested Tails "And I know just the person to recruit for this task. The very master of Chaos Control himself…"

With that said, Tails pressed a button on the control pad and activated a comlink. He spoke into the microphone that was on the control pad.

"Hello, Shadow the Hedgehog? Do you read me?" asked Tails "This is Tails from the Royal Fighters Service. We've got a little task for you…"

Back on Mobius Nega, Sonic was just beginning to come to after being hit by that stun-blast. The stun-blast was pretty powerful and Sonic had been knocked out for quite a while as a result of this. But Sonic was finally beginning to come around and he was slowly but steadily beginning to wake up. His eyes slowly opened up and he mumbled groggily as he began to come out of his paralysis. His body began to feel achy, a result of being hit by the stun-blast and crash-landing on top of some dustbins after falling off the rooftop. Sonic groaned as he felt his body ache.

"Ugh…I dunno what's happened to me but…man do I feel crummy right now." he whined as he finished waking up and was just blinking the vision back into his eyes.

He tried to rub himself better only to suddenly realize that his arms had been raised over his head and he couldn't move them. Sonic tugged on his arms but he couldn't lower them. Sonic looked at his arms and realized why he couldn't move them. They each had a shackle clamped tightly around his wrists! Sonic gasped in horror and he looked down at his legs, realizing that he also had shackles clamped around his ankles too. Sonic soon realized where he was. He was in a dungeon and he was shackled to the wall. And if he was in a dungeon then he might possibly be a prisoner of his own evil brother! That alone made Sonic panic and he desperately tugged on his shackles as hard as he could. Being the prisoner of Scourge the Hedgehog was never going to be a good thing and Sonic didn't even want to think about the terrible things that Scourge might do to him while he's in his parlour. Sonic pulled and pulled on his shackles but try as he might, he just couldn't break free. They were much too tough for him to break. But Sonic wasn't the giving up type so he kept pulling on them.

"Grrr…I can't believe this!" grunted Sonic as he struggled in his shackles "I, the fastest thing alive, am now shackled in a dark dungeon and possibly at the mercy of Scourge the Hedgehog?! This can NOT be happening to me! And I can't stay here or Scourge will use me for stress relief! Come on shackles! Break!" he grunted as he continued to pull on his shackles, desperate for them to break.

But alas, he just couldn't break them. They were too strong for him to break. Sonic ceased his pitiful struggling and he slumped against the wall in defeat.

"Ugh…this just isn't my day today." he moaned "I get sucked up by a weird steak of light in the sky and I end up here, which is now under the rule of my own brother Scourge and now I'm his prisoner! Can things get any…"

His voice trailed off as he surveyed his surroundings and realized he wasn't alone in this dungeon. For in the middle of the dungeon, dangling off the floor by shackles clamped tightly around her wrists was none other than Amy Nega, the leader of the Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters after Sonic Nega had tragically been killed by Dr. Eggman. Amy Nega seemed to be asleep right now for her eyes were closed and she wasn't doing anything (must be hard to sleep comfortably hanging off the floor by your wrists!). Sonic could see that her cute, slim belly had nasty scorch marks on it. She must have undergone a serious torture session while in here. That would be just like Scourge to torture a helpless victim like this and just the very idea that somebody could dare hurt a woman like Amy Nega made Sonic's spines quiver in rage. Still, he was glad to see her again, although he would have preferred it if he and Amy Nega were meeting again under nicer circumstances. Sonic cleared his throat and called to Amy Nega.

"Yo! Amy Nega! Wake up! It's me, Sonic the Hedgehog!" he called.

That seemed to stir Amy Nega out of her sleep for she began to stir a little and she mumbled under her breath. Her eyes slowly began to open up and she slowly awoke.

"Ugh…am I dead yet…?" she moaned groggily, the pain in her voice as evident as the pain in her body.

Given how much pain she had received from Scourge while being in here, it was not surprising that Amy Nega was beginning to question her life status right now. Amy Nega finally woke up and she turned to her side to see who had just woken her up. To her utmost surprise, it was Sonic the Hedgehog himself. Her eyes widened and her jaw-dropped open.

"Sonic…? Sonic…Prime?" she said slowly "I…Is that you?"

"You'd better believe it Ames, it's me in all my "Prime" glory." said Sonic with his trademark smile on his face.

Just Sonic's presence alone seemed to enlighten Amy Nega's pained state and make her forget the unbearable pain in her arms and wrists.

"Oh my gosh! Sonic Prime! It…ugh…it's so good to…grr…see you!" cried Amy Nega happily, grunting in pain a little for it was still excruciating "But…at the same time it's…not good to see you…see you like that I mean." she added, noting Sonic's imprisoned predicament.

"It's good to see you too Amy, although I'd have preferred us meeting as a free pair of hedgehogs." said Sonic dully "So, what have you had to suffer through? Judging by the marks on your belly, you look like you had it rough Amy."

"I have." muttered Amy Nega, looking at her belly and scowling at the burn marks from the torture she'd received "After I got captured, Scourge demanded I talk and reveal the location of my team mates. I refused of course, I'm not telling that scumbag anything! So Scourge got his girlfriend Fiona to relentlessly torture me. It was horrible of course and I've been praying to no end that somebody can get me out of here. But it seems…that I'm not gonna have such luck, especially as you've managed to get captured. Speaking of you Prime Zoner…how in the heck did you get here?"

"A streak of light that randomly appeared in the sky." explained Sonic grimly "I got sucked up by it and brought here. I learned from Ruben that Scourge was brought here by a streak of light too."

"He was." muttered Amy Nega "And how I cruse that stupid streak of light for bringing him here! He's turned Mobius Nega into a hell almost as bad as Eggman Nega's reign and is much harder to defeat than Eggman Nega since he's pretty much you only more savage! Oh how I wish Sonic and Scourge Nega were still alive, they would have fended him off easily and we wouldn't be subjugated to this hell!"

"Yeah, if only your Sonic and Scourge were still alive." murmured Sonic agreeably "They could have helped you dearly in the fight against Scourge. I bet Scourge would be rotting in a prison cell right about now if Sonic and Scourge Nega were still alive. But they aren't and Scourge is now ruling the world with an iron fist. I still wonder how exactly he managed it with just Fiona helping him. I mean, I don't think even I could take over the world myself if I tried!"

Amy Nega nodded and was just about to say something else until the dungeon door swung open and hit the wall with a loud clang that echoed around the dungeon. Sonic and Amy Nega looked over to the door and they saw none other than Scourge the Hedgehog standing there, wearing his crown and robes of state and looking very proud of himself. He strode into the dungeon with Fiona following him and he headed over to Sonic almost instantly, completely ignoring Amy Nega and just leaving her to dangle while he dealt with Sonic. Amy Nega rattled her chains and glared at Scourge.

"Don't you dare harm Sonic you demonic little…" growled Amy Nega.

Fiona just punched Amy Nega in the belly and made her shut up for Fiona had punched here where the scorch marks were and made the punch hurt even more.

"Be quiet while the king and queen are seeing to our latest prisoner!" snapped Fiona "And to make sure you stay quiet…"

Fiona took out a rectangular shaped piece of duct-tape that she had taken to the dungeon with her for she assumed Amy Nega would dare to talk in Scourge's presence and try to get on his nerves from her robe pocket and she placed it squarely on Amy Nega's lips, sealing her mouth shut and rendering her incapable of speaking right now. Amy Nega mumbled angrily behind her gag but Fiona just ignored her and looked over at Sonic. Scourge lowered his sunglasses and he glared at Sonic. His face was twisted into a devil's smile. He seemed eerily pleased to have his own brother chained up in a dark dungeon and completely at his mercy. Well considering that Sonic was Scourge's worst enemy, it was not surprising that he was so happy over this. Scourge folded his arms and stood squarely in front of Sonic, his eyes narrowed down to pure slits of conceitedness.

"Well, well, well…isn't this a fortuitous turn of events? For me that is." purred Scourge, grabbing Sonic by the muzzle and squeezing it as hard as he can "Sonic the Hedgehog, the hero of Mobius and my annoying goody-goody two-shoes brother is in chains and at MY mercy. Ha, ha, ha, ha…oh how I'm loving this moment right now! I never thought I'd live to see the day my own brother is at my mercy and yet, here you are right now Sonic, completely helpless before your own brother!"

"My heart bleeds for you Scourge." snorted Sonic as much as he could for Scourge was still squeezing his muzzle "So, I heard from a little friend of mine on this planet that you arrived her by a streak of light in the sky right?"

"You got that right moron." said Scourge, letting go of Sonic's muzzle and smacking him across the face "Me and Fiona were hoping to come out of hiding and unleash our new plan to take over the world but then we heard news about a bunch of space guys known as the "Devatrons". We were in Spagonia at the time and after hearing about the Devatrons in the news, I decided to come over to NewMobotropolis and whup their backsides for ya. I don't want someone stealing my thunder when it comes to taking over the world after all. But just as we left Spagonia this streak of light appeared in the sky and me and Fiona were miles too close to it so we ended up going straight through it. And thus…we ended up here. On Mobius Nega, said to be the closest planet in the multi-verse to matching Mobius Prime perfectly. This planet is the perfect substitute for Mobius Prime so instead of trying to get home, I just conquered this joint and now here I am, King Scourge the Hedgehog, King of Mobius Nega and soon to be your killer!"

Scourge laughed delightedly over all of this whereas Sonic just looked a little worried, so worried in fact that he ignored the stinging pain in his cheek. The streak of light appeared as far back as the Devatron invasion?! That was a good few weeks ago that was so it hadn't been too terribly long since Scourge had vanished and ended up here! Was the one that had sucked up Scourge and Fiona the first streak of light ever to happen or had more happened in the past and nobody had noticed or reported on it? The streak of light was all the more puzzling now Sonic thought about it. There was definitely something big behind that streak of light and Sonic had a feeling it wasn't good. After Scourge had finished laughing, he looked back at Sonic and clenched his teeth at him.

"And yet…the streak of light seemed to come back with a vengeance since it brought YOU here Sonic!" he growled "Well, that failed since you're now in my parlour and helpless to stop me! I'm not going to let you take away my kingdom so I'm gonna finish you off before you get the chance!"

"Well do it then." dared Sonic "Nobody's stopping you."

"I'm just having some fun gloating in your ugly face before I do it." retorted Scourge "I don't want to just kill you and that's it, that's not fun. Rubbing my glory and conquest in your face will certainly pump up the fun factor before I give you your big send off."

"I just bet that's going to bite you in the ass Scourge." sneered Sonic "Villains: they love to stall for time for idiotic reasons and it comes to bite them in the ass later."

Fiona just promptly kicked Sonic in the gut and made him cough and splutter in pain. Amy Nega just cried out for Sonic behind her gag in distress. She wasn't liking watching Sonic getting hurt since she liked him so much. As soon as Sonic got his breath back, Fiona lifted his head up and glared into his eyes.

"Dare insult my hunky boy again and I'll kick you where it REALLY hurts you blue twerp!" snarled Fiona.

"Duly noted." said Sonic "So Scourge, how exactly DID you conquer Mobius Nega? I mean, even you can't possibly conquer a world on your own."

"Well by "conquered the world" I didn't necessarily do it all myself." admitted Scourge "I mean Fiona helped out with her keen mind and intelligence. She gave me some strategic tactics to use in our battles and they helped me gain some ground and then she came up with the idea of political manipulation. We blackmailed some of the governments into ceding to our demands and then we kidnapped the Mobius Nega counterpart to Tails Nega and forced him to hack into some of Mobius Nega's army bases and gain control over some of their missiles and non-piloted spy craft. With all of this weaponry at our disposal, the armies swore fealty to me and then soon the rest of the world sort of "got scared into surrendering" and thus, they relinquished the world to me. My unmatched power combined with Fiona's great ideas and no Sonic or Nega-counterpart-of-me to stand against me resulted in this: world domination. The damn Freedom Fighters have been very foolish in their attempts to try and get the world back from me though. I have an entire fortress under my control so I can just blast any resistance away and the army can't help the to stop me since when we forced Tails Nega into helping us, he uploaded a virus that cannot be counter hacked, not even by him, so we still have control over their missiles and un-manned spy craft. Because I'm threatening to activate the missiles on the world should the army try and intervene…they're too scared to dare get on the wrong side of me. So as you can see…there's no way the world can stand against me now."

Sonic was amazed to hear all this. Fiona must be one smart woman if she helped Scourge do all that just to conquer the world. Scourge and Fiona certainly were more deadly then one might imagine when they got down to it. Sonic could just imagine what the world was thinking as Scourge took over Mobius Nega with those simple tactics and stratagems. He had to make sure that Scourge and Fiona never attempt this should he drag them back home to Mobius Prime otherwise Mobius Prime would be in serious trouble. More trouble than even Dr. Eggman had ever put them under. Sonic looked into Scourge's cold blue eyes and he sneered at him.

"Wow…you really are a coward Scourge." scoffed Sonic "You didn't even conquer Mobius Nega yourself, you just had Fiona help you do it all. And some of your tactics were cowardly too. Manipulating governments into doing as you pleased? Getting a Freedom Fighter to do some dirty work for you? Threatening to launch missiles if the army so much as looks at you weird? And to think I thought you had a backbone after all."

That bit of banter made Scourge's face contort with rage. He did NOT like being told he was a coward or even being remotely labelled as one. He was so angry right now that he took his crown off of his head and scratched Sonic across the face with the sharp edges of the crown. Sonic screamed in pain as he was slashed by the crown and streaming bloody cuts appeared across it. Blood trickled from the scratches and Sonic groaned in pain as they began to sting furiously. Amy Nega just cringed, feeling the pain that Sonic was probably feeling from that slash. Scourge put the crown back onto his head and he jammed his face into Sonic's face.

"I AM NO COWARD!" screamed Scourge "I conquered the world using intelligence and cunning with assistance from Fiona! That is not cowardly at all! You and your friends use your smarts to win your battles so me and Fiona used our smarts to conquer the world! So don't you DARE call me a coward just for following my girlfriend's advice and using my head for once!"

"I will say, I'm amazed you can even use your head for something other than stroking your own ego." snickered Sonic "Guess you're not as thick as you pretend to be."

Scourge just promptly kicked Sonic in the groin to shut him up. Sonic tried very hard to fight the pain in his groin as it flared up and made him wince. Scourge just reached into his robe pocket and he pulled out a dagger that he had kept in there (you surprised? He keeps daggers in his robe pockets!). He took the dagger out of the sheath and he pointed the blade at Sonic's chest. Sonic began to shudder nervously. Here it comes, his final curtain call and at the hands of Scourge the Hedgehog no less. Fiona grinned evilly whereas Amy Nega began to go berserk with horror and she mumbled frantically behind her gag. If she could speak right now, she'd be begging for Scourge no to kill Sonic right now.

"That's it blue, you've just signed your death warrant!" snarled Scourge "Your death is coming now and once I've killed you, I'm gonna put on your gravestone "Here lies one stupid little pile of s*^&"! Bet you don't like the sound of THAT do you?"

He then drew his arm back and prepared to plunge the dagger into Sonic's heart but before he make the killer blow, the ceiling above their heads suddenly caved in and a massive hole formed in it after some of the brickwork and plaster in it crumbled down. Scourge and Fiona both looked over their shoulders and they gaped in amazement at what had happened. The Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters had arrived at last. There was Miranda Nega, Geoffrey Nega, Bunnie Nega and Tails Nega like before and Ruben Nega was also with them. Ruben Nega had gone back to the Freedom Fighter hideout and they had run over to Fortress Acorn to save Sonic and Amy Nega. They had sneaked into the building and Tails Nega had set up a bomb to blow a hole in the floor, which resulted in the dungeon now having a hole in the ceiling. The moment the Freedom Fighters all fell down into the dungeon, Bunnie Nega flew towards Scourge and she punched him away from Sonic. She grabbed Sonic's chains and, using her partially metallized arms, ripped them out of their sockets, freeing Sonic and giving him a chance to get into the battle now. Miranda Nega aimed a wrist-mounted laser at Amy Nega's chains and she blasted them to pieces, causing Amy Nega to drop down onto the floor for she was now free of their grasp. Due to the earlier torture though, Amy Nega couldn't stand, she just slumped on the floor weakly. Geoffrey Nega helped her back onto her feet and walked her out of the way while the other Freedom Fighters gathered around Sonic. Sonic, relieved to be free, greeted them all ecstatically.

"Well guys, I was hoping you would show up eventually." said Sonic "I'm glad you're here, Scourge was about to kill me!"

"You're welcome Sonic Prime." said Tails Nega brightly "After all, we have scores of our own to settle with "his majesty". Me in particular." he added, scowling over what Scourge had forced him to do when he began his take-over.

"And me." murmured Ruben Nega, feeling his eye-patch.

"Well since I'm free and you're all here, we can take Scourge down once and for all." said Sonic brightly "So guys and girls, let's overthrow Scourge and kick him out of your world once and for…"

His speech was rudely cut off by Scourge throwing off his robes and charging directly into him. Scourge seized Sonic and he charged directly through the wall of the dungeon, screaming "Oh YEAH!" at the top of his lungs as he did so. Scourge and Sonic ploughed their way through the wall as if it was nothing and the two found themselves outside of Fortress Acorn and falling down onto one of the gun turrets that made the fortress's defences. They landed on top of the enormous turret, which was the width of a football pitch and with gun barrels as long as a tennis court, with Scourge on top of Sonic and the two hedgehogs ended up brawling with one another. The Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters and Fiona all looked out of the hole in the wall and stared down at the gun turret where Sonic and Scourge were fighting. The scuffle was intense but Sonic managed to push Scourge off of himself and send him hurling into the wall. Scourge landed on the wall feet first and pushed himself off. He landed down on the gun turret and he and Sonic circled each other, their heads lowered, their shoulders raised and their hands open, ready for a grab. The dark clouds in the dull sky blocked out any remaining sky and light there was and then there was a clap of thunder. Rain began to hail down onto the ground below. Sonic ignored the fact he was getting wet from the rain and he prepared to leap onto Scourge.

"OK Scourge, you've sunken further then you can ever sink!" growled Sonic "You've subjugated this innocent alternate Mobius, tortured somebody I got on well with during my first visit here and tried to kill me! You are going DOWN you miserable excuse for a brother!"

"Oh no you blue twerp…YOU are going down!" roared Scourge "I've worked too long and too hard just conquering this planet! You are NOT dragging me back to Mobius Prime and taking away my glorious kingdom! You will be a twisted, mangled corpse when I'm finished with you!"

With that said, Sonic and Scourge zoomed towards each other and they leaped into the air like real gymnasts as lightning flashed in the sky and made everything look all the more ominous. Sonic and Scourge were having another battle once again and the winner would depend on the eventual turnout as the battle for Mobius Nega began…

Dark World Part 4

Story 142: Dark World Part 4

"So let me get this straight…Sonic the Hedgehog was sucked up by a streak of light that appeared randomly in the sky and you want me to use a Chaos Control and warp from place to place to see if I can find him?" asked the Ultimate Life form himself, Shadow the Hedgehog.

"That's right." said Tails the twin-tailed fox, best friend of Sonic the Hedgehog.

After using the satellites to search Mobius for any signs of Sonic only to come up empty and conclude that he is not on Mobius anymore, Tails had decided to call Shadow to come over and see if he could help find Sonic at all. Shadow had agreed to come over and he had brought a Chaos Emerald with him since Tails requested he bring one with him (he knows where the Chaos Emeralds are, he's been on Angel Island before, particularly during the Black Arms invasion). Once Shadow had arrived, Tails had briefed him in on everything and what he was being recruited for and yet Shadow was somewhat trying to figure out what Tails was on about since the whole "streak of light" business was new to him. But if Sonic was gone and likely on another world altogether then Shadow would have to track him down and bring him back to Mobius Prime so that the Royal Fighters can have their best comrade back. Shadow was now living among the Mobians and doing good deeds of his own so he couldn't refuse a call for help.

"Hmm…this is an unusual turn of events isn't it?" mused Shadow "Sonic gets sucked up by a weird streak of light in the sky? Do you have any idea on what this "streak of light" is all about?"

"Not really although Mandy's come to the firm belief that Eggman's the one who caused it." explained Tails "Although I have a hard time believing that Eggman might have caused it, it does kinda make sense given how according to Sora he mentioned having a "new invention" and the streak of light just conveniently happened to show up not long after his arrival. But one thing I can't help but notice is Eggman seemed a little too shocked for someone who made the streak of light and although he could be playing along with it, I still think his reaction was definitely that of someone who has no idea what they've just witnessed."

"I see…" said Shadow "So if I'm to guess, while I search for Sonic, you and the others are going to storm the doctor's base and see if you can find anything that might have caused that streak of light?"

"That's right." said Tails "Because we know where Eggman's base is, we'll have no trouble finding him. I still can't help but be happy that Nicole managed to find Eggman's base during that whole Martian ordeal…" he said happily.

Nicole the Lynx just smiled upon hearing Tails say that. She felt proud of herself for finding Eggman's base too and to think she managed to find it just by tracing one of his video signals back to its source when he contacted them.

"Well then, I sincerely hope you give the doctor a good beating for me while I'm gone." said Shadow with a rather dark smirk on his face. Even though it had been a year since Eggman tricked him into working for him, he still resented the obese scientist greatly and always wished doom on him.

"Oh we will Shadow, you can bet on that!" declared Knuckles, bashing his fists together eagerly "We'll storm the base and bring that slime ball back to a prison cell where he will hopefully rot in!"

"I sincerely hope I return to news like that." said Shadow "So Tails, where do you think I should look first?"

"Well since Sonic's not on Mobius anymore, you could Chaos Control to any planet in the galaxy." suggested Tails "Although I've got the idea that Sonic might be in an alternate dimension. That streak of light heavily reminds me of theories about "rifts in the timeline" and such so I'm thinking he might be in an alternate universe. I'm hoping that he's on a world he referred to as "Mobius Nega". Sometime ago, while we were helping Silver and Blaze get their Sol Emeralds back, he chased a robotical looking mouse through a warp ring and stated it took him to an alternate version of Mobius called Mobius Nega. If there's any place I hope that streak of light took him to, it'll be there."

"Very well, I shall warp to this "Mobius Nega" and see if the blue hedgehog's there." said Shadow "Thank you for the suggestion Tails."

"You're welcome." said Tails "Good luck Shadow and please come home with Sonic in one piece."

"I shall not fail the given task little fox." said Shadow kindly "And I wish you luck in your mission."

With that said, Shadow held up the green Chaos Emerald he had with him above his head and yelled

"Chaos…CONTROL!"

And with the simple yelling of those words, Shadow vanished in a bright green flash of light. Shadow was off to Mobius Nega to see if he could find Sonic and bring him home to Mobius Prime. The moment Shadow teleported away, Queen Sally Acorn stood forward and addressed everybody.

"OK Royal Fighters, we're going over to Eggman's base to arrest him and see if he is indeed behind the streak of light." she announced "Is everybody keen and ready to go?"

"Yeah!" cried the Royal Fighters eagerly.

"Then let us storm the enemy's territory…" said Sally, whipping out her bladed staff and twirling it around.

This was it, the Royal Fighters were going over to Eggman's underground bunker and they were going to apprehend him at long last…or were they…?

KRA-KOW!

Thunder boomed all around and lightening flashed brilliantly in the dark, grey, cloudy skies above Mobius Nega as rain hammered down onto the ground furiously and soaked everything in sight. Weather like this is weather that people usually tend to stay indoors to get out of since nobody likes to get wet and there's always the danger of getting struck by lightening. But Sonic the Hedgehog and his evil brother Scourge the Hedgehog were making a huge exception for they were outside in the rain and brawling with each other atop a gun-turret that was stationed on the rocky hill that Fortress Acorn stood proudly upon. Scourge had been brought to Mobius Nega by a tear in the sky and with help from his girlfriend Fiona Fox, he had managed to take over the world. Sonic ended up being brought to Mobius Nega by a tear in the sky too and he was determined to save Mobius Nega from a terrible reign at the hands of Scourge. So as of now, the two were having their first major showdown in ages (they hadn't seen each other since the fiasco with the Chaos Clusters and that was LAST YEAR so it's been awhile since they last fought each other). The Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters and Fiona were watching the battle from up in Fortress Acorn through a hole in the wall that Scourge had made when slamming Sonic into it. They all watched tensely as the fight began. Sonic and Scourge charged towards each other in the proper mono y mono fashion and they leaped into the air. They sailed towards each other and threw a punch out both at once. They ended up punching each other in the face and both hedgehogs were sent hurling back down onto the gun-turret. Sonic and Scourge picked themselves up and they lunged at each other again. They grappled arms with each other and they pushed as hard as they could, trying to push either one down onto their knees. Scourge however forced Sonic's arms down and punched him across the face. Sonic retaliated with a punch to the face of his own but then when he tried to throw another punch, Scourge grabbed his fist and socked him in the gut. Sonic uppercut Scourge in the face then twirled around and dropkicked him in the face. Scourge was thrown backwards by the kick and he came down with a heavy thud on his back. Sonic ran towards Scourge in an attempt to grab him but Scourge kicked Sonic away with a hefty kick to the gut. Sonic staggered backwards after that kick and Scourge picked himself up. Scourge homing-attacked Sonic and knocked him down onto his back. Scourge leaped off of Sonic just as he was picking himself up and the moment Sonic stood back up, Scourge ran around behind him and pile-dived him directly in the back. He kept up the attack until he ended up slamming Sonic into the wall of the mountain the gun-turret was built in. He now had Sonic pinned against the wall and started punching him in the back of the head as hard as he could. Sonic just threw his head backwards and jabbed Scourge with his spines. Scourge cried out in pain and stood back for a minute to rub himself better and Sonic took the moment to sock Scourge in the face and knock him down onto his back. As Scourge lay there, Sonic grabbed him by the ankles and threw him into the wall. Scourge groaned in pain and Sonic threw him across the gun turret. Due to how wide it was, Scourge did end up skidding across it a fair distance but he still managed to stay on for he ended up coming to a halt before he was anywhere near the edges. Sonic spin-dashed towards Scourge before he could get up and he ended up nearly sending Scourge over the edge of the turret. Scourge just managed to save himself and he spin-dashed towards Sonic. Sonic dodged the attack but Scourge merely ricocheted rather violently off the rocky wall near to them (he knocked a few chunks of rock off as he ricocheted away) and spin-dashed back towards Sonic. Sonic curled up into a blue spiky ball and he spin-dashed towards Scourge. The two hedgehogs spin-dashed each other and ricocheted off of each other like bouncy balls being thrown at each other and the two hedgehogs spin-dashed each other again. They kept this up for quite a while until eventually Scourge overcame Sonic and dropkicked him down into the turret. Sonic was back on his feet as quickly as he was knocked down and he and Scourge linked arms just as Scourge tried to grab him again. They pushed on each other's arms and tried to overpower the other.

"I can't tell you how good it is to kick your ass again loser!" taunted Scourge "As much as I've enjoyed my Sonic-free reign of Mobius Nega, I did kinda miss our epic tussles. And now here we are, duking it out like the sibling rivals we are once again!"

"Yeah, this does bring back memories." muttered Sonic "Memories I long to forget."

"Why? Because every time we've had a battle in the past I've kicked your ass?" sneered Scourge "Face it blue, you've never been a match for me and anytime you did win was only because of your stupid friends helping you out. Oh dear, your friends aren't here right now and the Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters are too high up to give you a hand! You're mincemeat now!"

"We'll see about that you egotistical, arrogant, big-headed douche-bag!" retorted Sonic.

"You're one to talk about being arrogant Mr. "I'm-the-fastest-thing-alive-so-that-means-I'm borderline-invincible-and-I-can-do-anything"!" snorted Scourge, pointing out how hypocritical it is of Sonic to call him arrogant when he himself is just as bad (but not as bad as Scourge of course).

Sonic's spines quivered in rage at that insult. He was fully aware of his faults, his arrogance, precociousness and recklessness at times, and to hear Scourge use his flaws as an insult just got under his skin and made him mad. Sonic spin-dashed towards Scourge angrily and sent him hurling into the wall. Scourge cried out in pain as he was slammed hard against the hard, rocky wall of the hill the turret was stationed in and Sonic added more to this painful attack by keeping up the spin-dash even while Scourge was already pinned against the wall. Scourge however threw his legs upwards and kicked Sonic directly upwards like a football. Sonic hurled straight up into the air and came straight back down again. Scourge threw a punch just as Sonic was heading back down towards him and he punched Sonic, sending flying across the turret and he came to a stop near the gun barrels. Sonic picked himself up and ran back towards Scourge. The evil green-furred hedgehog picked up some rocks that had crumbled down after he ricocheted off the wall earlier and he threw them at Sonic. Sonic dodged the rocks with ease, weaving around them as they came hurling towards him but Scourge was mostly doing that to distract Sonic. As Sonic dodged the last thrown rock, Scourge grabbed another rock, held it tightly in his hands and threw his hands upwards, walloping Sonic in the chin with the rock. Sonic was so overwhelmed with pain after that attack that he began to wonder if his jaw was dislocated or not. As he was thrown onto his back by the attack, he quickly felt his jaw and moved it up and down to make sure that it was still functional. It was luckily for him but it did feel painful. Scourge advanced on Sonic and he rose the rock above his head, ready to slam it down onto Sonic's head. That would certainly kill him in an instant if Scourge commenced with that. But as Scourge prepared to slam the rock down on Sonic's head, Sonic rolled out of the way, leaving Scourge to slam the rock down on the spot where he had been lying. Sonic kicked the rock away from Scourge's hands and then gave him a left hook to the face. But Sonic made the mistake of turning his back on Scourge as he prepared to launch another attack and Scourge was able to grab Sonic by wrapping his arms around his waist. He picked Sonic up and he ran over to the wall. He threw Sonic directly at the wall but Sonic raised his legs and he hit the wall feet first. He pounced directly off the wall and spin-dashed Scourge directly in the stomach. Scourge doubled over in pain and he clutched his stomach as if he had a killer stomach ache. Sonic took the opportunity to trip Scourge up by roundhouse kicking him in the legs. The moment Scourge was brought down on his back, Sonic kicked him away. Scourge rolled across the turret and he came to a stop near the edge of it. Sonic smirked at Scourge.

"Hey Scourge, you're not doing as well as you usually do." sneered Sonic "Why might that be then? Have you been wallowing in opulence so much that you forgot how to fight me?"

"It's been a while since I've fought you Sonic so I might be a little rusty with you!" snapped Scourge "But I'll turn that around no sweat! I'll cut loose and I won't hold back!"

Scourge picked himself up and tried to run but he ended up slipping and he fell over. The rain was making the turret so wet that it was beginning to get slippy and Scourge's boots weren't suited for slippery terrain. Sonic soon found that he had the same problem. The surface of the turret was getting slippery thanks to the rain soaking everything. So rather than running, Sonic and Scourge carefully walked towards each other and started cutting loose on each other. Sonic threw a punch to the face on Scourge and Scourge threw a punch to the chin back on Sonic. Sonic punched Scourge in the gut and Scourge punched Sonic in the mouth. Sonic staggered backwards a little and Scourge kicked some water into his eyes. Sonic puts his hands over his eyes and winced as they began to sting like mad, giving Scourge the opportunity to kick Sonic in the gut, spin around and then kick him in the side. Sonic was thrown onto his side and Scourge tried to kick slam Sonic but Sonic grabbed his foot and twisted it sharply to the side, causing Scourge to get turned over onto his front and fall over. Sonic picked himself up and kick-slammed Scourge in the back. He then grabbed him by the leather jacket, threw him up a little and raised his leg. He drew it back and then kicked Scourge directly in the back, sending him hurling across the turret. Scourge skidded to a soaking halt but luckily for him, it was too slippery for Sonic to run so he could pick himself up and recover from the blow just in time to get ready for Sonic's next attack. Sonic tried running to Scourge but the wet surface of the turret was just too slippery for him so he ended up sliding a lot and nearly falling over. Scourge used the terrain to his advantage though. He threw himself forwards onto his side and the wet surface of the turret allowed him to slide most efficiently towards Sonic. He took Sonic's legs directly out from underneath him as he slid into him and Sonic came down with a heavy thud onto his face. Scourge stopped his skid and picked himself up. He broke into a brief sprint and then threw himself forwards. He skidded across the wet surface beneath his feet as if he was on ice and he sailed towards Sonic. Sonic picked himself up only to get tackled by Scourge. The two ended up rolling across the turret and Scourge ended up raising Sonic above his head. He threw Sonic as hard as he could into the wall and Sonic crashed into it, sending a few rocks crumbling down onto the turret. Scourge skated across the wet surface towards Sonic but Sonic got the drop on Scourge by throwing a rock at his feet. The rock struck Scourge's foot and tripped him up. Scourge yelped as he ended up hurling forwards onto his face and skidding to a halt in front of Sonic's feet. Sonic grabbed Scourge by the jacket and he threw Scourge away a few feet across the turret.

Up in Fortress Acorn, the Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters and Fiona were watching the battle tensely and they were wondering on who was going to come out as the victor since the battle seemed equally matched so far. Amy Nega looked at her comrades with concern in her eyes.

"I dunno about you guys but I can't see any of the hedgehogs winning this fight." said Amy Nega "They're so evenly matched this fight could go on forever."

"Too right luv." said Geoffrey Nega "This match could easily come to a stalemate given how evenly matched Sonic and Scourge seem to be."

"It may seem that way for the minute losers but my baby will come out on top in the end, just you wait and see." snorted Fiona "Scourge always wins when it comes to battling that blue idiot."

"You shut up!" shouted Amy Nega, smacking Fiona across the face and knocking her crown off of her head "I've had just about enough of you glorifying your stupid boyfriend like this!"

Fiona rubbed the stinging slap mark that was left on her face after Amy Nega had smacked her and she glowered at her.

"I can say what I like about Scourge thank you very much." said Fiona coldly "And as for you, fall is coming a little early this year…for YOU!"

With that said Fiona grabbed Amy Nega by the shoulders and threw her out of the hole in the wall! Amy Nega, with a terrible scream, was sent plummeting down from Fortress Acorn and towards the gun turret down below. Tails Nega gasped in terror and he tried to fly down and save her but Fiona grabbed him by the tails and threw him into the back of the dungeon. Shocked at this, Geoffrey Nega threw a punch at Fiona but Fiona dodged the punch and kicked him in the gut. The skunk doubled over in pain and gasped for breath. Miranda Nega tried to grab Fiona but the slippery vixen was too swift for her. She dodged her lunge and grabbed something off of her belt. It was a grappling hook. Miranda Nega liked to bring along gadgets of any kind as an act of contingency. After grabbing the hook, Fiona kicked Miranda up the backside and sent her crashing into a wall. Fiona hooked the grappling hook on the foot of the hole in the wall and she fed the rope down so she could climb down the hill and down to the gun turret. She began to climb down the grappling hook just as Amy Nega was about to become a nasty stain on the surface of the turret. Luckily for the falling alternate counterpart of Amy, Sonic saw Amy Nega falling and he was quick to abandon the battle for the moment and catch her in his arms.

Amy Nega was relieved to have been saved and she instantly hugged Sonic for saving her. But now was not the time for thanks for Scourge ended up spin-dashing Sonic in the back and sending him and Amy Nega sprawling across the turret. Fiona had finally finished climbing down to the turret and she ran, being careful not to slip, over to Scourge's side. The green hedgehog smiled happily at the sight of his girlfriend.

"Hey Fiona, I guess you decided to join in the fun!" cackled Scourge.

"I did indeed handsome." said Fiona slyly "After all, your queen wants a piece of the action to my king."

"And that's what you'll be getting Fi." purred Scourge "Let's kick Sonic's ass into the next millennium or so!"

Fiona nodded and she ran over to Sonic just as he was getting back up. Fiona gave Sonic a karate style-chop across the face and then she spun around and kicked Sonic in the head. Sonic staggered backwards but Fiona didn't give him a chance to recover. She started throwing punches at Sonic and then tripped him up with a kick to the legs. Sonic groaned as he landed heavily on his back and Fiona started throwing more punches at him. Scourge added the final insult to this big injury by spin-dashing Sonic and sending him hurling into the wall again. Sonic groaned in agony as pain swept over his body like an ocean wave. Amy Nega could do nothing but put her hands to her mouth and cry out for Sonic. Sonic picked himself up, very weakly that is, and he grunted with strained effort as Scourge and Fiona advanced on him.

"Hey…Fiona…ugh…you've gotten better a fighting…all of the sudden!" grunted Sonic "What did you…do to get better than usual?"

"Oh Scourge just gave me a lot of training so I'm a more capable fighter then I used to be." crowed Fiona "Now I can help my baby take you down and put an end to your anarchy."

"We'll see about that!" yelled Sonic, spin-dashing Fiona directly in the belly and sending her hurling across the turret.

Scourge was livid to see that Sonic would dare to hurt his girlfriend like this so he spin-dashed Sonic back. Sonic and Scourge then charged towards each other, ready to bash each other's heads in but then, just as they were about to throw the first punch, a green flash of light appeared between the two, forcing them to stop dead in their tracks, and out of the green flash appeared Shadow the Hedgehog! His Chaos Control had brought him to Mobius Nega at last and by sheer convenience, he showed up where Sonic and Scourge were fighting. Shadow did think about Mobius Nega and where Sonic may be so the Chaos Control pretty much carried out his thoughts literally. Amy Nega was taken aback by the arrival of Shadow. Mobius Nega didn't have a counterpart for Shadow so he was a complete stranger to her. After the Chaos Control had finished, Shadow looked around (ignoring the fact it's raining and he's now getting wet) and he saw Sonic as soon as he turned to his left side.

"Hey Shadow! You just arrived in the nick of time!" cried Sonic delightedly.

"It seems I did." said Shadow with a smirk "Looks like Tails' theory of you being here was right after all. I presume this IS Mobius Nega right?"

"It is." said Sonic "I've gotta say, very clever of Tails to think I might have ended up on Mobius Nega and get you to Chaos Control here to pick me up. Guess he remembered what I told him after I'd visited it the first time. Well at least I've got a ticket home at last but I can't leave yet, I've got my evil brother to defeat."

"Evil brother…" said Shadow in surprise "Is Scourge here too?"

"He is and he's giving you a knuckle sandwich!" shouted Scourge, throwing a punch at Shadow and walloping him across the side of his head.

Shadow dropped the Chaos Emerald and he was thrown down onto his side. Shadow grumbled furiously, unable to believe Scourge had managed to get the drop on him like this, and he picked himself up.

"So I take it you can't leave yet because you need to defeat Scourge blue hedgehog?" asked Shadow.

"I do indeed." said Sonic "The jerk's actually conquered Mobius Nega and I have to defeat him otherwise the Nega-Mobians will live a life of oppression for all eternity. I've just got an idea though." he added quickly "Since you have a Chaos Emerald, we can just simply Chaos Control Scourge and Fiona back home and presto, their reign's over."

"A sound plan Sonic." said Shadow agreeably "Pity you were stupid enough to say it out loud so now Scourge knows what we're planning!" he shouted, punching Sonic in the shoulder furiously.

"Uh…oops?" said Sonic, unable to believe he'd done something so stupid.

"Thanks for saying that out loud moron." said Scourge, picking up the Chaos Emerald and getting ready to use it "Now I know how to stop your plan. I'll use this emerald to Chaos Control YOU TWO back to Mobius Prime so you can't bother me again!"

"Big deal, we'll just use the other seven emeralds we have to come back here." snorted Sonic "You'll never get rid of us."

"Other seven…I thought there WERE seven Chaos Emeralds?" mused Scourge in confusion "If there's one right here then shouldn't there be six left?"

"We have eight Chaos Emeralds now. It's kind of a long story." said Sonic "Now, drop that Chaos Emerald and no one gets hurt!"

"Oh there's definitely someone who will get hurt alright! And it's you and Shadow!" yelled Scourge, tapping into the Chaos Emerald's power and getting ready to unleash all hell on Sonic and Shadow.

The Chaos Emerald glowed very brightly and Sonic and Shadow stepped back a little, bracing themselves for the epic beat down that Scourge was about to give them. He was powerful enough as he was already but Scourge plus a Chaos Emerald equals an even stronger Scourge the Hedgehog. Since Sonic pointed out to Scourge that they can just use another Chaos Emerald to Chaos Control back to Mobius Nega, Scourge was going to use the emerald's power to kill Sonic and Shadow to prevent them from becoming ending his hard-earned kingdom…

Back on Mobius Prime, the notorious Dr. Eggman was sitting at his computer monitors inside his underground bunker and watching them very closely. Ever since the streak of light appeared and took Sonic away, he'd been studying hard to see if he could find out what was going on with it and what it was. He had sent several small machines that were blue in colour with red camera orbs and tiny wings out into the outside world known as Egg-Probe and the probes spread out into the various countries of Mobius, studying everything and analyzing every little detail all over the world. They were scanning everything to see if they could find out anything about the tear in the sky. Eggman was very worried about it after all. It was certainly a weird phenomenon and if it was a recurring thing then he might end up getting sucked up by one too if one came back. And since they were abnormal to no end, they might be catastrophic in nature and may doom the whole world. Eggman did not want that to happen for how can he build his glorious empire if there IS no world? And if the tears in the sky doom the world then he'll be mincemeat so Eggman desperately wanted to know what was the deal behind the streak of light that appeared in the sky earlier. The Egg-Probes had been all over Mobius and had scanned everything in sight only to come up empty. They hadn't managed to detect a single thing that was paranormal in the slightest or out of the ordinary. Everything was completely normal up on the surface. It was as if the streak of light was just something out of the ordinary and the world had decided to just shrug it off and ignore it as if it were nothing. A fine and dandy thing to do and all but it didn't help Eggman find out why it happened in the first place and what it is. Eggman fumed to himself as he read the results from the Egg-Probes on the computer monitors and he put a hand to his head, massaging his temple in annoyance.

"This is preposterous…everything is perfectly normal?!" grumbled Dr. Eggman "How can this be?! The tear in the sky should have left something behind! Everything can't just be normal as if nothing had happened! What is going on here?!"

"This planet is truly a world of obfuscation master." murmured

Devion "Even a Devatron such as myself is incapable of comprehending the illogical situation that is this so-called "tear in the sky" that has just happened earlier. I have used every last ounce of power in my brain circuits to try and logically work out what this paranormal activity that baffles the mind is and I am unable to provide a logical suggestion as to what it could be."

"You know something's puzzling when even someone as clever as you cannot work out what it is." sighed Dr. Eggman "I will say, the fact that everything's normal again might prove that the streak of light was simply a brief rift in the timeline that's caused by something paranormal OR somebody artificially created it and it's just merely a portal. If it's the latter then I sure wish that it was me who did it, that would be acceptable. But I didn't create that streak of light, nor do I think I ever could. If that streak of light was artificially created then who created it and why? It makes me shudder to think that person might use it on me next…" he added, shuddering in fright at the mere thought of someone creating the streak of light again and using it to suck him up.

"I sincerely doubt this planet is technically advanced enough to have the ability to artificially create portals doctor." said Devion "Creating a portal without sorcery of any kind is just beyond the realms of possibility."

"Poppycock Devion! I once created a machine that could reshape the world as I see fit!" snapped Eggman "I'm pretty sure creating portals won't be that difficult a feat to accomplish if I can build a world-remaking-machine!"

"That is…a logical statement master." said Devion, reluctant to admit that Eggman had proven him wrong "If you can make a machine that can reshape worlds then it might be possible to make a machine that can create portals."

"Indeed." said Eggman "I'll find out how that streak of light appeared and if it IS by a machine then I'll destroy that machine before it can be used again! I cannot allow technology like that to be potentially used against me…"

Suddenly, the alarms in the bunker began to go off. They blared loudly around the bunker and red lights began to flash in time with the wailing alarms. Eggman gasped in surprise and he looked at his computer monitors.

"Egads! My proximity alarm's going off!" cried Dr. Eggman "Who dares to trespass in my territory?!"

Dr. Eggman pressed a button and an outside view of the surface appeared on the screen. To Eggman's sheer terror, the intruders were none other than the Royal Fighters themselves! They were all coming towards his base! All of them! Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Bunnie, Ruben, Sally, Nicole, Shade, Sora, Vector, Espio and Charmy were all coming towards the base and they looked like they were seriously ready for a battle right about now. Dr. Eggman looked like he was about to have a seizure.

"What in the name of…HOW in the right royal name of the President of the United Federation do those Mobians know where I'm hiding?!"

"It does not matter master for I shall get rid of them for you." volunteered Devion, unsheathing his arm blades.

"No Devion, I want my new invention to go for a test drive so we'll use that to get rid of the Royal Fighters instead." said Dr. Eggman "Katherine get it ready for battle will you?"

Katherine, Eggman's sinister servant bot, nodded and walked off to do what she had been asked to do. As for Dr. Eggman, he decided to greet his enemies so he got up out of his seat and wandered off to the stairway that led to the outside world. Eggman climbed up the stairs and pressed a button on the wall that opened up a secret doorway that opened up and allowed him to leave his base and walk up outside. Eggman left his base and stood by the open doorway as the Royal Fighters all ran up towards him. The Royal Fighters were slightly taken aback at the fact that Eggman was just standing there looking casual about the whole thing and not looking prepared in the slightest but they quickly shook it off for they just assumed Eggman had something planned for them like he usually does. They Royal Fighters all stood before Eggman and Sally pointed her bladed staff at Eggman furiously.

"OK Eggman, the jig is up!" declared Sally "We know where your base is and we've got your cornered! Also we've managed to work out that YOU were the one who caused that streak of light that sucked up Sonic and we're here to stop you from using it again!"

Eggman just blatantly laughed at Sally as if she'd just told him the funniest joke in the world.

"What a load of rubbish that is my impudent little queen!" snorted Dr. Eggman "So what if you know where my base is? You'll not bring ME down! And as for the streak of light, you are WRONG on so many levels! I did NOT create the streak of light, nor am I responsible for it!"

"Don't play the idiot with us Eggman, it's obvious it was you!" snapped Mandy "The streak of light just "conveniently" happened to show up shortly after you arrived and somebody found out you had a new invention so your new invention must have created that streak of light! You ARE responsible and we're going to stop you from using it again!"

"I am telling you morons that I had NOTHING whatsoever to do with the streak of light!" retorted Dr. Eggman "If I DID create it then why was I shocked at it when it happened?! If I DID create it, I would be cackling delightedly as it sucked Sonic away but no I didn't, I was shocked by it when it happened!"

"Nice try Eggman, you were obviously acting surprised at it so you could fool us into thinking you had nothing to do with it but guess what? We didn't fall for it!" bellowed Knuckles "Now hand over the device that made the streak of light and I won't have to punch your face off!"

"I cannot do that because I DID NOT CREATE THAT STUPID STREAK OF LIGHT!" roared Eggman "I maybe known for my deceptions but I honestly am not responsible for the tear in the sky! If you were watching me closely, I did not press any buttons on my Egg-Pod or activate any machines when it happened and I've just spent this whole time trying to find out what the streak of light is and why it's happening! Although I wis h I had caused the streak of light, I really, really had nothing to do with it!"

The Royal Fighters murmured to one another and wondered if they should believe Dr. Eggman or not. Eggman seemed absolutely certain that he was innocent in all of this and if he had been studying the streak of light then he can't possibly have created it. Why would he study something he created himself? Seems that they had jumped the gun a bit on this one. Eggman wasn't finished though, he had something else to say yet.

"Oh and since you mentioned that somebody found out I have a "new invention", I take it you meant this new creation of mine…" purred Dr. Eggman, standing to the side.

There was a thunderous roar coming from down in the base and the roar was followed by heavy clunking that suggested something big was coming up from down the bottom of the stairway. Something VERY big indeed. The Royal Fighters could hear it coming and they began to grow nervous. Eggman seemed to have made something big and monstrous because they could hear roaring and thudding coming from inside the base.

"Wh-wh-wh-what is th-th-that?" gibbered Wilson worriedly.

"It sounds pretty big!" cried Tails "Has Eggman made a brand new robot to smash us all to pieces?"

"It must be a beastly robot since it's also roaring down there!" shrieked Nicole "What on Mobius has Eggman made this time?!"

The Royal Fighters soon got their answer for out of the doorway trailed a bunch of thorny vines, snaking out from inside the base and into the open world above. The roaring was getting louder as the thorny vines were beginning to come out and what followed the vines was something beyond what the Royal Fighters had ever seen before. They all gasped in terror as the thing came out of the base, raising its vines and roaring a loud, thunderous roar that made the ground beneath their feet rumble…

Back on Mobius Nega, Sonic and Shadow were sent hurling through the air as a Chaos Emerald powered Scourge spin-dashed into them. The two hedgehogs were thrown off the gun turret and they crashed down onto another gun turret nearby. Scourge jumped over onto the gun turret so he could continue to whale on them and beat them to death. Fiona and Amy Nega stayed put and they watched the battle from the gun turret they were standing on. The battle had pretty much gone in Scourge's favour now he had the Chaos Emerald in his hands and Sonic and Shadow were baring the wrath of the insidious, green hedgehog. Scourge let loose a series of homing attacks and spin-dashes that were all made harder by the power the Chaos Emerald was giving him. Sonic and Shadow grunted and groaned as they were hit repeatedly by Scourge and eventually, Scourge gave the two a really big spin-dash that slammed them against the wall and made them cry out in pain as they slid down onto the turret. Scourge cackled menacingly at Sonic and Shadow, the green Chaos Emerald glowing brightly in his hands as he advanced on them. He was clearly enjoying the power the Chaos Emerald was giving him and he was intent on using it to the max.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha!" cackled Scourge delightedly "I really have got to thank you for bringing this Chaos Emerald Shadow so that I can use it to stomp on you and Sonic! Thanks to you, I'll spin-dash you both into oblivion! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Sonic and Shadow picked themselves up and they braced themselves for another attack from Scourge.

"So Shadow…have any ideas on how to get that Chaos Emerald back?" asked Sonic.

"I do have one Sonic and unlike you, I'm not gonna say it out loud and give Scourge ideas on how to foil it." said Shadow grimly.

"OK." said Sonic unsurely "I hope you know what you're doing."

Shadow just stood his ground and got ready to fight while Scourge just stood there, grinning like a gremlin and holding the Chaos Emerald tightly in his hand. Lightning flashed in the sky and thunder boomed around Fortress Acorn as the two hedgehogs prepared to duke it out once more. Shadow bent down in a battle ready stance and Scourge got ready to charge at Shadow. Sonic began to wonder what was Shadow planning to do. It looked like he was planning to just blindly charge at Scourge in hopes of getting the Chaos Emerald back. That would be an act of suicide, even for someone as powerful as Shadow. Scourge would just as easily cripple Shadow if he tried something like that. But it wasn't Shadow that was doing the charging. Scourge leaped into action, charging towards Shadow and getting ready to pummel him. Shadow just summoned a Chaos Spear to his hand and threw it directly into Scourge's face and then warped out of the way. The Chaos Spear struck Scourge in the face and Scourge ended up being blinded momentarily by the attack. Because he was running though, Scourge ended up crashing directly into the wall. Scourge groaned a very loud, pained groan of agony as he hit the wall. Amazingly, he was still holding onto the Chaos Emerald. Shadow reappeared and he lunged for the emerald in Scourge's hand. He grabbed it and tried to pull it out of Scourge's grasp. Scourge was quick to hold on tight and pull back on it, resulting in a tug-of-war match between the two hedgehogs. Shadow swung around but Scourge still held on tightly and the two hedgehogs pulled and pulled on the emerald, trying desperately to win the tug of war match. Despite their strengths, the two were surprisingly equally matched and neither one was able to wrench the Chaos Emerald out of the other's hand. As they tugged on the emerald, they both clenched their teeth and growled furiously. However, Scourge quickly put an end to the Chaos Emerald tug-of-war by activating a Chaos Control! He disappeared into thin air, taking the Chaos Emerald with him and leaving Shadow bewildered as to the fact that Scourge thought of something he should have thought of himself. Scourge reappeared behind Shadow and pile-dived him in the back, throwing him across the turret and nearly sending him flying off of it. Shadow came to a stop near the edge of the turret and he lay there, groaning in pain. Amy Nega could only gasp in disdain as she watched the fight whereas Fiona just grinned delightedly at her boyfriend's progress in this battle. After sending Shadow flying away, Scourge decided to pummel Sonic next. Scourge ran towards Sonic but Sonic jumped out of the way, waited until Scourge ran beside him, and then rammed him in the side with his shoulder. Scourge was thrown down onto his side but he was quickly back up on his feet. Sonic grabbed the Chaos Emerald in Scourge's hands and unlike Shadow who just played tug-of-war with Scourge, Sonic immediately used a Chaos Control to warp himself and the emerald away from Scourge. Unfortunately however, that victory was not to last. For the moment Sonic reappeared, Scourge reacted fast. He kicked the emerald out of Sonic's hands, sending it falling down from the gun turret and to the ground down below, which was a long drop from where they were. Sonic gasped in shock and Scourge grabbed him by the wrists.

"There! Now NO ONE gets it!" growled Scourge "We'll fight this fight to the finish without that Chaos Emerald!"

"If you say so Scourge." said Sonic, pulling on his arms and yanking Scourge towards him.

Sonic kneed Scourge in the gut and brought him down onto his knees. Scourge coughed and spluttered as he was kneed in the gut by Sonic. This allowed Sonic to wrench his hands out of Scourge's hands and he fist-slammed Scourge on the head. Scourge groaned and fought the pain in his head as it burned in his skull. Sonic grabbed Scourge by the shoulders and tossed him across the turret as hard as he could. Scourge hurled a few feet away from Sonic but he wasn't down for long. He was back on his feet in no time and he zoomed towards Sonic. Sonic zoomed towards him and they spin-dashed one another. They did this again several times until finally Scourge overpowered Sonic and kicked him down into the turret. Sonic recovered and he delivered a kick to the face on Scourge. Sonic then jumped off of the turret they were in and landed back onto the one they were on before. Scourge quickly followed Sonic and the moment Sonic landed on the upper gun turret, Scourge spin-dashed him in the back and sent him sprawling across the turret, the slide made all the more worse by how wet and slippery the surface was from the rain. Sonic slid along the turret, eventually coming to a stop at the base of the gun barrels. As for Shadow, he picked himself up and noticed Sonic and Scourge were back up on the turret they had been fighting on earlier. He was going to leap up and help Sonic but then he noticed that the green Chaos Emerald was lying down at the base of the hill, glowing faintly. Shadow knew what had to be done. In order to beat Scourge and get Sonic home safely, he had to get the Chaos Emerald back. Shadow jumped down from the gun turret he was on and, using his jet shoes, slowly hovered down to the ground below to retrieve the Chaos Emerald.

Back up to Sonic and Scourge, the two hedgehogs were in heated combat once again and were fighting near the base of the gun barrels. Lightning flashed in the sky as Sonic and Scourge punched each other in the face. Scourge spun around and kicked Sonic in the cheek and nearly knocked him off the turret. Sonic regained his balance, only to receive a punch to the gut from Scourge and then Scourge kicked Sonic directly onto the gun barrel of the turret. Sonic just barely managed to cling onto the gun barrel for it was incredibly slippery from the pouring rain and a gun barrel isn't exactly the best thing to be standing on for they're more round in shape and you can just as easily fall off. Sonic managed to stay standing though and sprung back by spin-dashing across the gun barrel and back towards Scourge. Scourge dodged Sonic's attack but Sonic broke out of it just in time to stop and prepare himself for Scourge's next move. Scourge spin-dashed towards Sonic and Sonic jumped out of the way, booting Scourge as he whizzed beneath him. That broke Scourge out of his spin-dash and sent him skidding across his face. Sonic tried to run towards Scourge but the wet surface of the turret made it hard for him to do so. Instead, Sonic slid across the wet surface like an ice skater and he walloped Scourge in the jaw with a powerful punch. Fiona decided to try and interfere again but just as she ran out to Scourge, Amy Nega grabbed her by the tail and held her back. Fiona pulled on her tail, desperate to get free so she can help Scourge. Amy Nega held on tightly though and squeezed on her tail as hard as possible.

"Now it's time I got some payback for the torture you've given me." said Amy Nega coldly.

With that said, she pulled harder on Fiona's tail and began swinging the vixen around. She spun around in a circle and swung Fiona around as if she was throwing the hammer for the Olympic Games. Fiona cried out as she was swung around by Amy Nega and Amy Nega eventually let go of Fiona's tail. Fiona hurled through the air and she crashed directly into Scourge, knocking the green hedgehog off of his feet and sending him sprawling across the turret. Scourge and Fiona lay in a heap on top of each other to which Scourge just threw Fiona off of himself and got back to his feet. Amy Nega smirked at Fiona triumphantly, clearly satisfied with the payback she had given Fiona. Sonic smiled at Amy Nega as if to say

"Wow Ames, that was awesome!" and then he got back into the battle with Scourge. Sonic and Scourge linked arms with each other and started pushing on one another but that didn't last long for Fiona kicked Sonic in the back of his legs and made him bend down. This gave Scourge the opportunity to throw Sonic into the wall as hard as he could. Sonic grimaced as pain surged through his back and Scourge grabbed Sonic by the throat. Scourge began to throttle his brother as hard as he could, hoping to finish him off. Amy Nega tried to help Sonic but Fiona stopped her by kicking her to the gut and bringing her down onto her knees.

"This is it Sonic! Your death is coming and nobody can help you now!" cackled Scourge "Once I've finished with you, I'm going to get that Chaos Emerald back and then I'll use it to slaughter Shadow and put and end to the only hedgehogs who can possibly stand against me!"

But Scourge's gloating was cut short for he was stricken in the back by a Chaos Spear. Scourge yelped in pain, letting go of Sonic's neck, and he was brought down onto his knees by that Chaos Spear. The Chaos Spear had been launched by Shadow the Hedgehog. He'd retrieved the Chaos Emerald and had caught up to Sonic and Scourge. Now Sonic was free and Scourge was down, Shadow simply used a Chaos Control to freeze Scourge into space. Scourge was completely frozen now and he couldn't move. Fiona gasped in terror at the sight of this. Scourge was defeated at last and his reign of terror was over. Sonic whooped with joy at this.

"Oh yeah! We did it! We've beaten Scourge!" cheered Sonic "Now we can take him back to Mobius Prime and take him to a nice, warm prison cell that he can stay in forever!"

"No he won't!" cried Fiona, running towards Sonic "I'm still active and I…"

Shadow just promptly froze her with a Chaos Control too. Fiona was frozen in a pose that suggested she was about ready to throw a punch at Shadow. Sonic couldn't help but chuckle at this seeing as Fiona looked so funny frozen like that.

"Thanks Shadow." said Sonic "I couldn't have saved Mobius Nega without your help."

"You're welcome Sonic." said Shadow "Now come, it is time for you to return home. Your friends are worried sick about you."

"I'll bet they are." said Sonic "They'll be thinking I'm dead or trapped somewhere. Let's get going. But first, we need something to tie up Scourge and Fiona with so they won't give us a hard time once the Chaos Control wears off."

"Hey, I can help with that." offered Amy Nega eagerly "I've got plenty of rope back home, just use that Chaos Emerald of yours to warp me and my team back to base and I'll get some rope for you."

"Thank you alternate version of Amy Rose." said Shadow, instantly guessing that's what Amy Nega is being as her appearance evokes that of Amy Rose's so faultlessly.

"Please, call me Amy or Amy Nega Mr. Shadow." said Amy Nega "Now, can I use that Chaos Emerald since I'll know where I'm going?"

"Sure, I trust you'll know how to use it." said Shadow, handing Amy Nega the Chaos Emerald.

"After watching you and Sonic doing it, I think I know how it works." said Amy Nega, admiring the beautiful glowing gem that she now held in her hands. It was so beautiful to her and just to be holding a Chaos Emerald made her feel wonderful.

With that said, Amy Nega looked up at Fortress Acorn and called Tails Nega to bring her up to the Freedom Fighters. Tails Nega did just that and he carried Amy Nega back up into Fortress Acorn. Now Amy Nega was with her team, she held the Chaos Emerald up high and activated a Chaos Control. The Chaos Control engulfed all the Freedom Fighters in a bright green light and they all vanished into thin air. The Chaos Control would be bringing them over to their base right about now and they'd be back shortly with the supplies they'd need to ensure Scourge and Fiona stay put until they're put in jail back on Mobius Prime…

A little while later, the Mobius Nega Freedom Fighters had returned to the gun turret Sonic, Shadow, Scourge and Fiona were on and they had come with the necessary supplies for Scourge and Fiona's detainment. They had brought lots and lots of really thick, strong rope, handcuffs for each of them and a square of duct tape each (they figured that Sonic would want them to remain silent until they were brought to prison). They immediately trussed up Scourge and Fiona the moment their Chaos Controls wore off, the rope tied tightly around their bodies and some extra rope being used to tie up their ankles too, then they handcuffed their hands behind their backs to add further restraint to them and then they had gagged them both with the duct tape squares. Scourge and Fiona were going nowhere now and they couldn't speak for they were gagged. They just mumbled furiously behind their gags but nobody paid any attention to them. Now Scourge and Fiona were subdued, Sonic turned to Amy Nega.

"Well, that's these two dealt with." said Sonic brightly "Their reign of terror has come to an end and now you can restore peace to Mobius Nega once again. I do hope it STAYS peaceful after this, I want a time where I can visit Mobius Nega and it's a nice time for a change."

"We'll do our best to make sure that nobody ever takes over our world again." said Amy Nega, putting her arms around Sonic and grasping him in a hug "I'm so glad that your selflessness paid off again and you willingly helped to save our world once again. Thank you so much for going to all this trouble just to bring Scourge down."

"It's nothing Ames." said Sonic, hugging Amy Nega back "And besides, I couldn't have done it without Shadow, he brought the Chaos Emerald with him and thus, he saved us all so I can't take all the credit for this one."

"Well in that case, I thank you as well Shadow." said Amy Nega brightly "Thank you so much for helping to save our world from Scourge's tyranny."

"Don't mention it Amy." said Shadow "My purpose is to defend Mobius and it doesn't matter which Mobius I'm on, my purpose stands regardless of which version of Mobius I stand on."

"That's very nice of you." said Amy Nega, turning back to Sonic "So Sonic Prime, I guess you'll be going home now? Don't you wanna stay for a little while? Please?"

"Sorry Amy but I'm gonna have to decline." said Sonic, breaking up the hug "I was brought here by accident and I'm gonna have to let my friends know that I'm OK. Maybe I'll visit this place another time perhaps."

"I look forward to that day." said Amy Nega, giving Sonic a quick peck on the cheek "See you later Sonic Prime."

"See you later Amy Nega." said Sonic, rubbing his cheek as if the kiss had some funny feeling on him.

With that farewell said and done, Sonic grabbed Scourge and Fiona by the ropes they were tied up with and Shadow placed his hand on their shoulders. He held up the Chaos Emerald high above his head and performed another Chaos Control. The four Mobians were engulfed in a bright flash of green light and they all vanished into thin air. Amy Nega waved goodbye as they vanished, a small tear trickling down her cheek as they left. How she loved Sonic was what she could think right about now. He reminded her so much of Sonic Nega that she always looked forward to seeing him again. But unfortunately whereas Amy Nega had something pleasant coming her way, the restoration of Mobius Nega's peace and tranquillity, Sonic was coming home to something unpleasant. Most unpleasant indeed and it was going to take him by complete surprise once he arrived home…

Talk about a win-lose situation eh? Sonic and Shadow have defeated Scourge and Fiona but Eggman seems to have the Royal Fighters at his mercy! What is his new invention? And what's going to happen once Sonic arrives home? Is he leaping out of the frying pan into a much bigger fire than the one he's just put out...? Join me next time as Sonic gets an "Unwelcome Home"...

Oh and if anybody believed for a MINUTE that Eggman was behind the streak of light...as this story's just told you, you thought wrong. Seriously guys, I'm anything BUT predictable you know... :P

So how was this episode then my fellow readers? Do tell, I'd love to hear your thoughts and what you liked about it and if you enjoyed it.

Unwelcome Home Part 1

Story 143: Unwelcome Home Part 1

Today had been right busy for the super-speedy hero of Mobius Sonic the Hedgehog. First he gets recruited by Rouge the Bat to save Sora Prower, recently recruited Royal Fighter and long lost sister of Tails, from Team Diamond, then he and Sora spy on Dr. Eggman and find out what his newest scheme is, then a streak of light appears in the sky and sucks Sonic up, bringing him to Mobius Nega of all places and now Sonic, with the help of the powerful and dark but good-hearted Shadow the Hedgehog, had just defeated Scourge the Hedgehog and his girlfriend Fiona Fox and brought them back home to Mobius Prime to incarcerate them for good. Scourge and Fiona had ended up on Mobius Nega thanks to a tear in the sky too and they had taken it over but now their reign had been put to an end and they were going to spend the rest of their lives in jail back on Mobius Prime for all the crimes they've done both on Mobius Prime and Mobius Nega (mostly for Mobius Prime though). The Chaos Control that Shadow had preformed to bring Sonic, Scourge and Fiona back to Mobius Prime had taken them out of Mobius Nega and the four Mobians reappeared in New Mobotropolis. As soon as they reappeared, Sonic breathed in through his nose and he exhaled out through his mouth.

"Aaaah…it's good to be home I think." said Sonic contently "I feel like I've been away forever I do. I wonder how long I actually have been away?"

"I do not know Sonic." said Shadow "But it does not matter. You're back home and that's all you need to be happy about."

"Indeed and I'm so happy about it I could just run for ten thousand miles and maybe more." said Sonic happily "I bet you two think that it's good to be home too don't you?" he sneered, looking at the bound and gagged Scourge and Fiona with a gloating look in his eye.

Scourge and Fiona just fumed at Sonic, furious at the fact they had been yanked out of their glorious kingdom and taken back to Mobius Prime. It was back to the status quo for them now, trying to take over the world once again. The only thing is, Sonic would be making sure that they never get a chance to do that ever again.

"Yeah, I can see you're not happy Scourge and Fiona." snickered Sonic "Bet you're down right miserable given how I've taken you away from Mobius Nega and put an end to your reign. Well it's like I always say, evil people don't deserve nice things after all." he jeered, poking Scourge in the nose.

Scourge fumed ever so furiously at Sonic but given his helpless situation, he couldn't do anything about it. Sonic wasn't done yet though, he had more things left to say to Scourge and Fiona.

"Oh and I bet you're wondering where the heck you are aren't you?" asked Sonic "Well you two, this is New Mobotropolis, my place of dwelling and a beautiful replacement for Old Mobotropolis. While I miss the old city, this city still feels like home to me and since New Mobotropolis has a prison centre, I can keep a very close eye on you two from the comfort of my own home."

Sonic seemed to be very keen on the idea of keeping close watch on Scourge. Since he was going to be imprisoned in New Mobotropolis, Sonic's home city, it would be a lot easier to monitor him and make sure he stays put. Scourge will never taste freedom again now he's going to be imprisoned in New Mobotropolis. Sonic and Shadow picked up Scourge and Fiona and Sonic ran off ahead with Shadow following him. Sonic led Shadow all the way to the New Mobotropolis Detention Centre, the local prison of New Mobotropolis, and once the two arrived, they knocked on the gates to catch the police officer's attention. The Detention Centre was domed shaped with a large lookout tower protruding from the top of it. It was surrounded by a ring wall much like the city itself. The Detention Centre hadn't seen much usage since New Mobotropolis' grand opening the other month given how very little crime goes in within the walls of the very city itself but now the centre was going to get a little excitement since Sonic and Shadow were delivering Scourge and Fiona to be incarcerated there. The prison gates opened and Sonic and Shadow strode through them. They walked up to the centre, where two guards were standing, and they throw Scourge and Fiona at the feet of the guards. The guards looked stunned to see Scourge and Fiona here and were even more stunned to see them defeated and tied up. Looks like things were going well for Sonic since he's managed to capture his evil brother at long last. Sonic gave a thumbs up to the guards.

"Afternoon guys, just thought I'd drop off some unwanted items." chuckled Sonic "Give them a nice cell each and keep them as far apart from each other as possible. I think Scourge and Fiona are less likely to be troublesome if they're separated."

The prison gates opened and Sonic and Shadow strode through them. They walked up to the centre, where two Mobian bulldog guards were standing, and they threw Scourge and Fiona at the feet of the guards. The guards looked stunned to see Scourge and Fiona here and were even more stunned to see them defeated and tied up. Looks like things were going well for Sonic since he's managed to capture his evil brother at long last. Sonic gave a thumbs up to the guards.

That idea just made the two livid with rage whereas the guards seemed full onboard with Sonic's suggestion.

"Very well Sonic, we'll do just that." said the guards happily "We're all too happy to have Scourge back in custody after escaping from EmpireCity twice. We'll make sure he never escapes from here though. Same with that traitor Fiona Fox."

"That sounds good to me." said Sonic "And since Scourge is being incarcerated right here in New Mobotropolis, I'll never be far away should he try and escape. His chances of escaping from here are a million-to-one I think."

"Yeah…especially as her majesty's lady-in-waiting can just activate the shields if he tries to get away." said one guard, picking up Scourge by the ropes he was tied up with.

"You two creeps will never escape on our watch." taunted the other guard, picking up Fiona by the ropes she was tied up with.

"Thanks for bringing these two to us pal." said the first guard "We'll make sure they have a VERY unpleasant time in here."

"Eh, I just want them to stay imprisoned." said Sonic "I don't really mind what happens to them in there as long as they stay imprisoned."

The guards nodded understandably and they carried the squirming Scourge and Fiona into the Detention Centre. Sonic just watched as they were taken inside and then he and Shadow walked back out through the gates. The gates closed behind them the minute they left the centre. Now that Scourge and Fiona have been put in a place where they belong, Sonic and Shadow walked through the streets of New Mobotropolis and headed off to Castle Acorn and Royal HQ. As they walked up to the two buildings, Shadow looked at Sonic and decided to ask him something.

"Say Sonic, do you ever feel…bad…that you have to do this to your own brother?" he asked "I mean, it must feel bad that you have to fight your own brother like this."

"In all honesty Shadow…I kinda do." said Sonic glumly "Every time I fight Scourge I can't help but think to myself "Oh how I wish me and Scourge didn't have to do this". I long for a time where Scourge can finally get it through his thick skull that world domination is a waste of a life and instead of being jealous me, he would be the kind of brother I always wanted but never got. And also…I kinda feel sorry for Scourge." Sonic added with a slight tone of guilt in his voice "The fact that his mind got warped by the darkness in his heart and the power of the Master Emerald just makes me kinda pity him and I would love nothing more than for Scourge to come to his senses and redeem himself. I sure hope that one day in the future I'll be able to get Scourge to turn over a new leaf." he finished with a rather sad look on his face. Sonic maybe a hero who fights for freedom but even he is capable of pitying his enemies, if he feels they deserve any or if there's anything to pity about them at all.

"I understand what you're saying Sonic." said Shadow, putting his hand on Sonic's shoulder "And I hope that Scourge will see the light someday, much like how I've done since the day I found out Eggman had tricked me into thinking I was his creation and my purpose was to destroy the Mobians."

"Thanks Shadow and I agree with you on that." said Sonic brightly "For now though, I've just got my fingers crossed for Scourge's redemption, if it ever happens hopefully. But enough about Scourge, I can't wait to see my friends again. I bet they'll all be really happy to see me back in one piece and back right here on Mobius Prime." he said excitedly.

"I'm afraid that your friends may not be here blue hedgehog." said Shadow grimly "They told me they were planning to storm Eggman's base and in all likelihood, they've probably gone there by now."

Sonic looked surprised to hear this.

"My friends are planning to storm Eggman's base?" blurted Sonic "That's cool I guess, I sure hope they know what they're in for given that Eggman's a character full of surprises. Why are they storming his base then?"

"According to Tails, Mandy believes that Eggman caused the streak of light that brought you to Mobius Nega." explained Shadow "So they've gone to his base to prevent him from doing it again and to maybe arrest him too. How fortuitous they know where he's residing now."

Sonic's jaw dropped in astonishment.

"Mandy believes…what?!" gasped Sonic "I know Mandy's a little presumptuous but how can she think for a minute that Eggman made that streak of light?! Eggman's a genius but he's not supernatural! There's no way he could have done it!"

"I think I agree with you Sonic." said Shadow "Although Tails told me the reasoning behind that theory is that they found out Eggman had a supposed "new invention" and that it was too coincidental that the streak of light appeared just shortly after his arrival."

Sonic took in all of this and he thought for a minute on what Shadow had said.

"Me and Sora spied on Eggman earlier…why didn't she tell me Eggman had a new invention?" wondered Sonic "If that new invention was something that made the streak of light, we could have prepared for that. But anyway, I still don't believe that Eggman caused the streak of light. That "new invention" of his might just be another robot or something."

"Maybe." said Shadow "So why don't you believe that Eggman caused the streak of light then?"

"Well for starters, he's not supernatural." explained Sonic "And Scourge and Fiona were taken by one back during the Devatron invasion. There's no way Eggman could have been responsible for that, he probably didn't even know where Scourge and Fiona were since they've been in hiding until now. So I whole-heartedly believe that Eggman didn't make that streak of light, this is definitely the work of somebody else."

Shadow put a finger to his lips and thought on this for a moment. As much as it pained him to admit, Sonic did have a good point. Maybe Eggman was innocent after all and didn't create the streak of light. While this was good, it as bad at the same time too, because it meant the mystery was just more perplexing behind it and made Shadow wonder if there was some kind of evil he didn't know about behind all this and just waiting to strike again.

"I see." said Shadow "If Eggman truly is innocent…then what did cause the streak of light?"

"Who knows?" asked Sonic "Maybe somebody opened up a portal by accident and it sucked me in? Somebody with supernatural powers made the tear in the sky? I have no idea. But I will find out sooner or later. So anyways, back on to my friends, I wonder if they've returned from their mission or not? I wonder if they've come back home and are waiting for me now."

"I do not know how long it has been since I left to pick you up Sonic but I think I've been away long enough for them to have done their mission and return home." said Shadow "So we shall see if they are indeed home at all."

While Sonic and Shadow had been talking, they had pretty much reached the hill that Castle Acorn stood proudly upon with Royal HQ beside it. A good talk does make a walk fly by after all. Sonic and Shadow ran up the hill, not racing of course as there was no point, and they headed to Royal HQ. Sonic opened the door and let himself in with Shadow behind him.

"Hey everybody! Sonic the Hedgehog is back and still in one piece!" Sonic called out cheerfully into the corridors of Royal HQ.

He received no reply. Sonic scratched his head in wonder and just shrugged it off, thinking that his friends just simply didn't hear him. He tried again.

"Hello? Anybody? It's me Sonic!" called Sonic "Is anybody home?"

He still received no reply. Sonic began to feel worried. It seemed his friends weren't back from their mission yet. Sonic then realized that he had no idea how long he had been away so for all he knew, his friends had just left or something. He may simply have arrived just a fraction too earlier to meet them and they had gone off to stop Dr. Eggman. Sonic wandered off down the corridor and he headed into the lab while Shadow headed towards the rest room. Sonic opened the door to the lab and walked inside. He looked around the lab only to see nobody there. The lab was completely empty and all the computer screens were still flashing. Sonic had an idea on how to see how long it had been since his friends had gone. He walked over to the main computer and tapped some keys on it. He was accessing the security cameras around the building to see what footage he could find. He found one recorded video of the Royal Fighters preparing to leave just shortly after Shadow had left to find him. The time recorded on the footage was 4:30. Sonic looked at the clock that hung just above the computer monitors. It said 5:00 now. His friends had been gone for half an hour and he had just returned approximately five minutes ago. Sonic began to get very concerned indeed. Half an hour is a LONG time to be gone away on a mission for. Then again, they've probably been gone for so long because Megapolis is quite a long way away from New Mobotropolis so they've probably spent this long just getting there and are probably carrying out the mission now. All these possibilities and yet Sonic couldn't relax yet, he had to see for himself what was happening with his friends. Shadow arrived into the lab and Sonic looked over at him.

"Your friends are not in the rest room." said Shadow "And it seems they're not in here either."

"They're not." said Sonic grimly "They haven't returned yet after all. According to the camera footage recorded on Royal HQ's security camera, they've been gone for half an hour. I think we should go over to Megapolis and see if they're doing alright. I'm beginning to get concerned for them."

"Very well blue hedgehog, let us go over to Megapolis and see what's going on over there and if your friends need help."

"Yeah, glad you're coming too." said Sonic "It's nice to see you have some concern for them too."

"Well they did help in saving me from the Black Arms and have accepted me among you Mobians so I have some mutual respect for your comrades." said Shadow "And also, my purpose is to defend Mobius so every life counts in my purpose, except evil life."

"Great." said Sonic "Well then, let's get going and help our friends crack Eggman wide open!"

Shadow smiled at the very idea of cracking Eggman open like…well, an egg (I just had to make that pun you know. I HAD to!). After all, his abhorrence for Eggman was as big as his dedication to his purpose. That is to say…very big. Sonic and Shadow ran out of Royal HQ and they instantly ran off out of New Mobotropolis and towards the nearby Green Hill Zone. They weren't racing since now was not the time for fun and games, they were just running as fast as possible as they usually would and heading off to Megapolis. It was really a good thing that Nicole had helped the Royal Fighters to work out where Eggman's base was* otherwise Sonic and Shadow would be on a wild goose chase right now. Shadow trusted that Sonic knew where he was going so he followed his lead, while running aside him that is. The two cruised through Green Hill Zone and headed off to Megapolis where Dr. Eggman was lurking and they were prepared to give him what for. Eggman was in for it once the two hedgehogs arrived…

…but Sonic and Shadow were going to get more than they bargained for with this battle for Dr. Eggman had already left his base and he was on his way to New Mobotropolis. But he wasn't going there in his Egg-Pod like before, he was going in something MUCH bigger. He'd built a brand new ship for him to fly in and as of this moment, the ship was cruising elegantly through the sky and heading towards New Mobotropolis. This ship was collectively named "Egg Carrier" and it was an enormous vessel with a striking elegance to it. It was red and purpley-black in colour with teal lights and windows everywhere. It had a long, pointed nose, four wings, giant jet turbines in the back and had a rather unique shape to it, making it look pretty amazing to anybody who sees it. The Egg Carrier had been under-construction since the destruction of the Egg-Fleet at the hands of Black Doom and his cronies and it had finally been completed. Eggman was giving it a test drive by bringing the ship along to destroy New Mobotropolis. But his plans had more to it then simply destroying New Mobotropolis, he was planning to do much more than that. The Egg Carrier cruised through the blue skies of Mobius as it headed towards New Mobotropolis. Anyone down below simply gasped at the amazing sight of the grand vessel. The ship was being piloted by Egg-Pawns that had been specially built for the job. Eggman himself was in another room on the ship and staring out of the window, pleased to see his new vessel was flying so well. It brought back memories of when he first invaded Mobius, he came to the planet in a giant battleship and terrorized the citizens of Mobotropolis. He brought down the city but that victory had been taken from him by New Mobotropolis being re-built and thus, that is why he wishes to destroy it. He felt that destroying New Mobotropolis would upset his enemies greatly and also grant him his first victory over them back since New Mobotropolis in its entirety took that away from him. Eggman smiled at the very idea of New Mobotropolis going up in flames once the Egg-Carrier attacked. He wasn't alone in this room though. There was a whole row of Diamond Glass capsules in the room and Sonic's friends were in all of them. Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Shade, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Wilson, Mandy, Ruben, Sora, Sally, Nicole, Vector, Espio and Charmy were all trapped inside the capsules and were completely helpless to stop Dr. Eggman from commencing with his plans. Eggman's new invention had taken them all down with ease and now they were prisoners of Dr. Eggman. All of them were standing up with their hands pressed against the glass but Tails was banging on his capsule furiously. His efforts were futile though given how the capsules were made of Diamond Glass and all Tails was doing was giving himself a sore fist. To be honest though, Tails was too furious to even notice how sore his fist was feeling (that's pretty furious if you ask me!).

"Let us out of here!" yelled Tails, banging on the glass as hard as he could "Let us out of here!"

"Tails, you're obnoxious pounding on the glass is not going to warrant your freedom so kindly cease pummelling the glass before you make me lose my patience with you!" snarled Eggman, clearly getting fed up of Tails banging on the glass constantly.

"I'll stop banging on the glass once you let us outta here!" snapped Tails.

"Tails, for heaven's sake, all you're doing is getting on Eggman's nerves and that's the LAST thing we wanna do so stop doing it!" snapped Sora crossly, sharing Eggman's frustration with Tails' constant pounding against his glass capsule.

"But we can't just sit here and let Eggman destroy NewMobotropolis!" retorted Tails "We need to get outta these capsules and stop Eggman!"

"I know Tails but we can't get outta here and banging on the glass isn't going to help." said Sally grimly "We're stuck here and all we can do is hope Shadow will arrive back with Sonic in time to save us all."

Dr. Eggman turned away from the window he was looking out of and he walked up to Sally in a rather menacing manner.

"You've sent Shadow to try and find Sonic?" he asked "Well that is a clever idea Sally but ultimately a waste of time. Sonic won't be able to stop me, not while I've got my new invention to stop him like it stopped all of you."

"Sonic has stopped every invention you've ever conceived Eggman." said Sally coldly "Your little plant-bot isn't going to be any different to him."

"Well that is definitely wrong my dear. He's never faced a plant-bot before." sneered Eggman "And he's never faced a robot that grows stronger with every machine part it attaches to itself either. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra will stop him without a doubt in my mind! And Shadow too!"

"You'll soon change your tune when your cruddy little Krudzu Hybrid Hydra gets Chaos-Blasted to smithereens by Shadow much like Devion's Deva-Dragon and the Black Arms were." snorted Knuckles.

Eggman ignored the spike-fisted echidna.

"You had better give up all hope Sally. You will never defeat me, even if Sonic manages to come back." he sneered.

"As long as I live, I will never lose hope of anything." said Sally smoothly as if Eggman didn't even scare her one little bit.

"We'll see about that when you're all roboticized and forced to serve me in my glorious Eggman Empire!" cackled Dr. Eggman "And that's what I'm going to do to you all once New Mobotropolis is destroyed! The reason I'm letting you all stay fleshy for the moment is because I wish to see your horrified faces when your precious city crumbles to the ground. It'll be entertaining beyond comprehension it will!" he finished with a sinister smile that made him look possessed in some way.

"Boy is he a sicko." muttered Vector "He needs a better sense of entertainment he does."

"I heard that!" snapped Eggman.

Vector just stuck his tongue out at Eggman cheekily. It was obvious he didn't really care what Eggman said, he was free to insult him as much as he wished. Eggman decided not to bother with Vector and he wandered away from Sally's capsule. He stopped by Sora's capsule and glowered down at the young super-spy. Sora glared back at him, folding her arms in a serious manner.

"One thing I like about this catch is there's some new blood for me to roboticize." he crooned smoothly "I do not believe I've had the displeasure of seeing you before. What's your name?"

"Prower. Sora Prower." said Sora "I am the older sister of Tails and a new recruit in this battle against you. I signed up for the sole purpose of bringing you down you egg-shaped monster."

"Oh really?!" snickered Eggman, clearly humoured by that statement "Well then, I'm going to end your career as soon as it began Sora! Since you're Tails' sister, maybe I should roboticize you first and give him a nasty shock or I can roboticize him first and give you a nasty shock! Either way, it'll be entertaining to no end it will!"

He cackled at the very idea of commencing with this sadistic idea. Sora and Tails just scowled at him, clearly not intimidated by the fat scientist with the amazing IQ. Deep down though, they were downright terrified about what was going to happen next and the fact Eggman was planning to roboticize them. Regardless, they weren't going to give Eggman the satisfaction of seeing them scared. Eggman stopped cackling and then he stood before the captive Mobians, not really looking at anyone in particular this time.

"But you Royal Fighters aren't going to be the ONLY ones I'm going to roboticize." explained Dr. Eggman "For once I've roboticized you all, I'm going to roboticize the entire world!" he announced loudly.

"As if we couldn't guess." snorted Mandy rudely "You did that before so it's hardly a surprise to us."

"I know I did but this time, I'm going to succeed and nobody will ruin my robotical paradise!" declared Dr. Eggman "And my first victims will NOT be you Royal Fighters believe it or not. My first victims…will be the citizens of New Mobotropolis! Before I knock the city down, I'm going to use this vessel to roboticize everybody in New Mobotropolis! And THEN I'm going to destroy the city!"

That made everybody gasp in horror.

"You're going to roboticize everybody in New Mobotropolis?!" shrieked Tails "No, you can't do that to those poor people! They're so helpless that they won't have a chance against you!"

"I know and that's why I'm going to enjoy it!" laughed Dr. Eggman "I'm going to enjoy watching your horror as I roboticize the citizens of your own city that you are unable to protect and then I'll destroy it once the citizens are all out of the way! When New Mobotropolis is destroyed, I'll build my own city, Robotropolis, on top of it!" he announced, clearly pleased with some of his plans for Mobius.

"Eggman, once we get out of these capsules, you are dead meat!" growled Knuckles, punching against his capsule furiously.

"I'd like to see you try." snorted Dr. Eggman "Well, I'll leave you all to worry about your fates while…"

Then suddenly, an intercom in the room switched on and the familiar cold, chilling voice of Devion started booming out of it, startling Dr.

Eggman.

"Master! There are two rapidly moving life-forms coming towards the ship down below!" barked Devion furiously "I have a feeling that they are Sonic the Hedgehog and Shadow the Hedgehog!"

"Do you have a visual?" asked Eggman nervously.

"Just a minute…" said Devion as he peered through the window to see if he could see what was coming towards the ship.

Luckily for Devion, the moving life-forms he'd spotted had caught up to the Egg-Carrier and had stopped to look up at it. He could see them quite clearly now and he could clearly see that they really were Sonic and Shadow indeed. They were down on the ground, looking up at the Egg-Carrier and trying to figure out how to get onto it. Devion spoke back into the intercom to deliver Eggman the bad news.

"My suggestion has proven to be correct." said Devion "Sonic and Shadow have arrived and are presumably going to try and stop us."

That made the Royal Fighters feel VERY excited indeed. Shadow was back and he had Sonic with him too! That meant their rescue was guaranteed and Dr. Eggman was ascertain to be defeated right about now! And the best part was, Shadow had a Chaos Emerald with him. He had used it to go searching for Sonic so he would simply use the emerald to Chaos Control onto the ship and get everybody out. Dr. Eggman looked horrified to hear this from Devion and his moustache drooped down in fear. Sonic and Shadow were here! Looks like things were turning against him right about now. They'd be coming to stop him right now and they'd foil his plans.

"Ha! You hear that? Sonic and Shadow are back Eggman! You're doomed now!" crowed Tails.

"If you want to spare yourself any humiliation from the two, I suggest you stop what you're doing now." said Sally with a sly smile on her face "You don't want another defeat at Sonic's hands do you?"

"Be quiet all of you!" snapped Dr. Eggman "As I said earlier, Sonic won't be able to stop me! And neither will Shadow! The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra will mash them into plant food once it deals with them! I'm anything but doomed yet!"

With that said, Dr. Eggman instantly ran out of the room to unleash the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra once Sonic and Shadow arrived onboard the Egg-Carrier. Eggman had a feeling that Sonic and Shadow would somehow get onboard the Egg-Carrier so he decided to prepare for that. As Eggman left the room, the Royal Fighters decided to just sit-back and see what happens given that there's nothing else they can do right about now. They're trapped in Diamond Glass capsules so all they can do is sit-back and wait. Wait and see on what Sonic and Shadow will do once they get onboard the Egg-Carrier. They had a feeling that Sonic and Shadow were going to succeed in this mission and bring the Egg-Carrier down in no time…

Outside, down on the ground, Sonic and Shadow had arrived underneath the flying Egg-Carrier and they were staring up at it in astonishment. They had not anticipated a giant, flying ship at all, they just expected to arrive at Eggman's base and then break in and see if Sonic's friends are OK. The fact that they were looking at a giant ship flying in the sky above them right now just completely took them by surprise and they couldn't keep their eyes off of it. It was such an amazing, yet astonishing sight to them.

"Well…I wasn't expecting this! Eggman's got a new ship!" cried Sonic "And it looks pretty deadly! I didn't think he'd bother building a new ship after the destruction of his Egg-Fleet during the Black Arms invasion!"

"I wasn't expecting a new ship from him either Sonic." murmured Shadow "But when it comes to Eggman, surprises are to be expected. We need to get on that ship. I bet Eggman's onboard!"

"I bet he is too, and the ship's heading for New Mobotropolis!" blurted Sonic "We have to stop it now! Shadow, warp us onto that ship with the Chaos Emerald you brought to bring me back home!"

Shadow obeyed and he took out the green Chaos Emerald that he still had on him right now. He held the emerald out in front of him and he yelled:

"Chaos…CONTROL!"

With a bright green flash of light, Sonic and Shadow vanished into thin air and they warped all the way up onto the Egg-Carrier. They reappeared onboard the ship in a bright green flash of light and the moment the light died down, Sonic and Shadow looked around to see if there was anyone around and if there was any danger waiting to strike at them. They were in a large corridor with steel walls and a steel ceiling with rows of teal lights in it that stretched down quite a way and the corridor seemed to be empty for there was nobody around in it. The coast seemed to be clear but Sonic and Shadow knew that appearances can be deceptive so they decided to keep their senses alert. When you're in Eggman territory, you never know what you'll come across so vigilance is always paramount when on an Eggman ship or indeed anything Eggman related. Sonic and Shadow sped down the corridor and ran all the way to the end of it. Their super speed allowed them to clear the whole corridor in a matter of minutes. At the end of the corridor was a huge circular door that seemed to lead to something important. A big door often hides a big important room after all. Sonic and Shadow looked around for a way to open the door but there didn't seem to be a switch or a lever of any kind to open it. Not that it mattered since there was one way that Sonic and Shadow could get through the door. They both spin-dashed through it and smashed the door to pieces, sending the fragments sprawling across the floor as they broke through it. The door could have easily have withstood the power of one spin-dashing hedgehog but not two spin-dashing hedgehogs for Sonic and Shadow were very powerful when they were fighting together. Sonic and Shadow uncurled from their spin-dashes and they looked around cautiously to see what kind of room they were in. The room was pretty plain looking and didn't have many features save for wires running through the ceiling and into the next room, a giant screen that hung above the door that lead into the next corridor and some flashing lights. The room didn't seem to serve any kind of purpose. It's like one of those rooms that's just there to take up leftover space or for extra-storage should the actual storage spaces run out. Sonic and Shadow sensed no danger here but they had a feeling that Eggman was waiting to spring some kind of surprise so they trekked carefully through the room, keeping an eye out for anything that was ready to spring out at them. There didn't seem to be anything and that was making Sonic wonder since this was not Eggman's style at all. He was clearly up to something here.

"OK this is weird, I was expecting maybe a few guards or something." said Sonic cautiously "The whole place seems pretty empty for a giant Eggman ship. Where's all the robot guards? Where's any kind of peril or danger? Where's…anything?! Eggman's not one to make things easy for us! He's up to something, I just know he is!"

"While I am happy that we're having an easy time so far, I too harbour suspicious feelings about all of this too." said Shadow "Eggman's not one to leave his places unguarded. I've seen Robotropolis in its entirety during the times I worked for him and that had guards at pretty much every window. A vessel like this shouldn't be unguarded, this is not an Eggman's character at all."

"And because we're weary of this, Eggman won't catch us off guard at all." gloated Sonic "Eggman's nuts if he thinks he's got us fooled this time."

Then suddenly, as soon as Sonic and Shadow reached the centre of the room, the big screen above the door switched on and on the screen appeared the face of Dr. Eggman. How Sonic wished to punch that hateable face of Eggman's as it appeared on the screen before him and Shadow. The two hedgehogs watched the screen very closely as Dr. Eggman began his speech.

"Greetings Sonic and Shadow!" crooned Dr. Eggman "Welcome aboard my new flying fortress, the Egg-Carrier! I can't tell you how happy I am to have two such esteemed Mobians bear witness to the Egg-Carrier's maiden voyage! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Sonic just shook his head casually as if he was bored by the whole thing.

"Hey Eggman, I guess you're not surprised to see that I'm back from where the streak of light sent me then?" sneered Sonic "I mean, I bet you were hoping I'd be gone for good so I can't stop you from commencing with any nefarious plot you have."

"I will admit that I am surprised that you've managed to come back Sonic although your friends told me that they had sent Shadow to find you so I can kinda guess how you made it back here." said Dr. Eggman "And anyway, it doesn't matter if you're back Sonic, I will just exterminate you here and now aboard this very vessel!" he declared, pointing out to Sonic, his finger obscuring his presence on the screen for he was pressing his finger against the camera that was projecting his image onto the screen.

"Eggman, I've managed to foil every scheme you ever came up with, you will never stop me." said Sonic "And since you mentioned that my friends told you that they sent Shadow to find me…where are they? Are they here too?"

"They are indeed Sonic and they're in my custody!" cackled Dr. Eggman "They're in Roboticizer Capsules and waiting to be roboticized! But that's going to wait until after I roboticize everybody in NewMobotropolis and then destroy it! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

He leaned back in his chair as he laughed maniacally and almost fell out of it in a fit of laughter. Sonic couldn't believe what Dr. Eggman had just told him. His friends had been…captured? It was fortuitous that they were onboard the vessel so Sonic pretty much knew where to look for them but the fact they were captured just made things even worse and Sonic was more determined then ever to bring down Dr. Eggman. Sonic's eyes narrowed into a sinister scowl at Dr. Eggman his fists trembled in rage.

"You scum! You better not harm any of my friends or I will crack you open like the bad egg you are!" snarled Sonic in a rather fierce tone of voice, a very unusual tone of voice for Sonic to speak in considering he's usually calm and collected.

He had his fist raised threateningly too. Shadow looked at Sonic in amazement. Even he thought that this was strangely fierce behaviour, even for Sonic's standards. Sonic's threats didn't seem to faze Eggman in anyway though since he just cackled mockingly at Sonic.

"Oh Sonic, Sonic, Sonic my feeble-minded pin-cushion! If you want your pathetic friends back then you will have to save them yourself!" sneered Dr. Eggman "And so will Shadow too! But I don't like to make things too easy as you probably know so I've sent my new invention for you to play with…"

Sonic and Shadow braced themselves for they had a feeling that suddenly, something would burst through the door and then unleash hell on the two hedgehogs. Something was beginning to come towards the door from the other side. Sonic and Shadow could hear some stomping and growling coming from the other side of the door as something began to come towards it. Sonic and Shadow stepped back and waited for the thing to make its entrance. It certainly sounded scary given the growling and roaring it was doing.

"Eesh, has Eggman sent us an "Egg-o-saurus Rex" or something?!" blurted Sonic "It sounds like he's got a monster out there!"

"Prepare yourself blue hedgehog, it's about to come through!" cried Shadow.

But instead of bursting through the door as Sonic and Shadow were expecting the thing to, the door just opened up itself and allowed the thing to walk inside. The thing squeezed through the door as it was quite big in size and only just small enough to get through it and the lights shone on it as it stomped into the room, rearing up and roaring at the top of its voice. Sonic and Shadow gaped in amazement at what the thing that Eggman had sent to kill them was. The thing was an enormous behemoth that was vaguely dinosaur like in body shape and had lots and lots of plant like features on it. The thing had a huge body, a long thorny tail that looked like a strand from a thorn bush, five heads, large clumpy feet with leaves for toes and masses of thorny vines in place of arms. The five heads all varied in appearance too. The middle head was the largest of the heads and was the main head of the plant-like creature. It's head was merely a huge set of jaws crammed with razor sharp teeth and a long, slithering tongue that gave it a rather sinister appearance. The other four heads consisted of heads from old robots that Eggman had used during the first days of the Royal Fighters Service. One head was that of a Motobug, the other was that of a Caterkiller model, one was that of a SWAT-bot head (the SWAT-bots had been retired just a month after the Royal Fighters Service formed, meaning Sonic hasn't fought any for a long time) and the fourth was that of a Combot's head, a robot that Eggman hadn't used since the second month of the Royal Fighters Service's career. The creature had lots of leaves in places and its colours were primarily green since it was plant-like with some brown around the tail and the heads varying in colours too. The thing looked surreal to say the least and also very, very scary. Eggman had used this beast to capture all the Royal Fighters and now it was going to capture Sonic and Shadow for Eggman. Eggman laughed as the plant-creature made its entrance and he started explaining what it is.

"What do you think you bothersome pair of hedgehogs?" sneered Dr. Eggman "Quite the beauty isn't it? This invention of mine started off as a little robot plant that was used for decoration in my base and now I've experimented on it and turned it into a killer robot that can fuse robot parts with itself and grow stronger as a result! I call it…the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra! It's so-called because it was known as a "Krudzu plant bot" and now it's fused with robots, it's a hybrid and it looks like a hydra so that is why I named it as such!"

Sonic just snickered at the daft name of the new invention.

"Krudzu Hybrid Hydra?!" snorted Sonic "What a stupid name! I wonder if your machine's as "cruddy" as it's name is!"

"I assure you, it is not "cruddy" in any meaning of the word." sneered Eggman "This beauty captured all your friends with little to no effort so it is hardly a machine to joke about! Ha, ha, ha, ha! And now to make the Hydra more powerful, I'm going to feed it some new robot parts! Krudzu Hybrid Hydra, here's some tune-ups for you!"

With that said, a compartment opened up in the roof and pieces upon pieces of robot parts rained down into the room and clattered down nosily onto the floor as they fell. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra saw all the robot parts and it seized them immediately. Its vines began to entwine the parts and bring them towards itself. The Hydra began to fuse the parts onto itself, the small parts not really that visible but the bigger parts standing out a bit all over its body. Some of its vines now had attached weapons to it as it was fusing the parts with itself. One vine had a crab-like claw on it, another vine had a drill on it, another vine had a saw-disc on it and another vine had a mace on it. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra also looked as if it were beginning to grow in size too. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was already enormous but as it devoured the robot parts and added them to its massive body, it seemed to grow a few inches in height. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra finished upgrading itself and it raised its vines menacingly, ready to kill Sonic and Shadow. Sonic and Shadow were pretty amazed at what the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra had just done and they braced themselves for a fight.

"Impressive isn't it?" crowed Dr. Eggman "Good luck in fighting the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra Sonic and Shadow! Oh and to add insult to injury…I've given Devion the honour of fighting alongside the hydra!"

As soon as he said that, Devion dropped down from the hatch and he landed down on the floor in the room Sonic, Shadow and the Hydra were in. Devion drew out his arm blades and he bent down in a battle ready stance, ready to deal with Sonic and Shadow and bring them before Eggman. Eggman just grinned conceitedly and the screen switched off since he didn't need to say anything else. Sonic and Shadow couldn't believe it. Eggman really was making things hard for them wasn't he?! First the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and now Devion?! Was Eggman really trying to ensure their deaths or something? This was overkill if they ever knew it! Devion glowered at Sonic and Shadow with his V-shaped visor and he raised his arms menacingly.

"I have been so craving for a chance to have a rematch with you two." said Devion coldly "After what you've done to me and the Deva-Dragon, I will personally eviscerate you both and make sure you never see the light of day again."

"Just try it Deva-Dork!" taunted Sonic "Our fight got interrupted earlier so let us resume the earlier bout and see who truly is the strongest of us both!"

"We will not be doing anything of the sort." said Shadow "Because I'm just gonna do this…"

He whipped out the Chaos Emerald and prepared to perform another Chaos Control to get him and Sonic out of the room and to

Dr. Eggman quicker. But unfortunately, as soon as he whipped out the Chaos Emerald, Devion aimed the cannons on his arm gauntlets at Shadow and he blasted him in the torso. Shadow was thrown backwards by the blast and he slammed into the wall. He dropped the Chaos Emerald the moment he was shot and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra instantly grabbed the emerald with a long, thorny vine that extended out to reach for it. The moment the Hydra grabbed the emerald, it slotted it into a piece of armour that it had attached to itself when upgrading itself and the emerald glowed brightly as the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra accessed its power. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was a pretty intelligent machine, which is unfortunate for Sonic and Shadow, and it knew how to work a Chaos Emerald. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was even more powerful than before now! Not only did it have a Chaos Emerald in its back now but it might just have its powers too, meaning it could probably use a Chaos Control or something and make this battle REALLY difficult for Sonic & Shadow. Sonic gasped in horror and he spin-dashed towards the Hydra.

"Hey! That Chaos Emerald's ours! Give it back!" yelled Sonic.

The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra just whipped Sonic down into the ground with a long, thorny vine that protruded from its chest. Sonic groaned as he was hit by the heavy vine but he wasn't down for long. Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra in the middle head. The Hydra roared furiously and it tried to grab Sonic with the crab-claw vine. Sonic dodged the attack and whizzed around near the Hydra's leg. The Hydra lashed out with the crap-claw but Sonic jumped out of the way, leaving it to accidentally pinch itself on the leg. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra roared in pain and stomped its foot furiously, making Sonic fall over. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra then seized Sonic with a vine and threw him across the room. Sonic hurled across the room and he crashed face-first into it. Sonic bounced back though with a spin-dash to the head again and he tried to get the Chaos Emerald back but the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra whipped him away with its tail. Sonic skidded across the room and then he spin-dashed the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra in the side. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra tried to grab it with its vines, only to miss Sonic and just entangle its own vines and Sonic slid under it. He spin-dashed the Hydra directly in the belly and slammed it against the ceiling. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra fell back down to the floor with a heavy thud after Sonic had spin-dashed it and Sonic spin-dashed towards it again. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra aimed an Egg-Pawn blaster it had fused into one of its vines at Sonic and blasted him with it. Sonic came down with a crash onto the floor but he picked himself up and lunged at Krudzu Hybrid Hydra again.

As for Shadow, he was fighting Devion and he was fighting him hard. Shadow spin-dashed Devion as furiously as he could but given Devion's infamous invulnerability, he took the blows easily and he struck back with a slash of the arm-blades. Shadow winced in pain as he was slashed by the blades and Devion threw a punch at him. He hit Shadow squarely in the middle of his face and knocked him down. Shadow picked himself up and threw a bunch of Chaos Spears at him. Devion took all the shots with ease though but Shadow threw a Chaos Spear and hit him in the visor. Eggman had placed a protective casing for the visor so Shadow failed to blind Devion this time but the shot had left Devion's vision somewhat blurred for the moment so Shadow had the opportunity to strike at him. Shadow punched Devion in the face and then uppercut him in the beak. He then spun around and kicked Devion into the wall. Devion hit the wall with a heavy clunk but he wasn't hurt by the attack. Shadow lashed out at Devion but Devion grabbed him by the hands and threw him against the wall. He pinned Shadow against the wall by pushing on his arms and making sure he can't push back. Shadow tried to push back on Devion but Devion's grip was pretty strong. Shadow couldn't get out of the little grapple he and Devion were having.

"I remember our first encounter Shadow." purred Devion "I managed to defeat you in that fight and I shall defeat you again. Dr. Eggman will very much approve of your defeat at my invincible hands."

"This battle's just beginning Devion! You won't defeat me this time!" growled Shadow.

Shadow warped out of Devion's grasp and reappeared behind him. Shadow spin-dashed Devion and slammed him against the wall. Devion however elbow-thrusted him away and sent Shadow skidding across the floor. The two lunged at each other again and started pounding on each other. As the fight raged on, the Egg-Carrier continued cruising through the sky and Sonic and Shadow would have to hurry and finish off this fight. For the Egg-Carrier was now flying over Green Hill Zone and was almost at New Mobotropolis. Once it arrived, disaster was just one step away and the city would be nothing but ruin and all its inhabitants nothing but robots serving Dr. Eggman in his Eggman Empire…

Some welcome home for Sonic this is! His friends are captured and he has to fight through two deadly machines in order to save them and New Mobotropolis! Will he succeed? Or will Dr. Eggman well and truly win this battle...?

So how was this chapter folks? I hope you enjoyed it and I'll see you next time as the "Unwelcome Home" party gets more intense and exciting...

Unwelcome Home Part 2

Story 144: Unwelcome Home Part 2

Just when Sonic thought his day couldn't get any busier, Dr. Eggman gives him a whole new machine to play with.

Sonic the Hedgehog, Hero of Mobius and the fastest thing alive, had been through pretty much already. First he ended up getting sucked up into a streak of light that had randomly appeared in the sky, then he ended up fighting against his own evil brother, Scourge the Hedgehog and his girlfriend Fiona, and successfully defeated them with help from the Ultimate Life form himself, Shadow the Hedgehog, then Shadow had used a Chaos Control to bring Sonic back home and now the two hedgehogs were fighting for their lives against two very deadly Eggman machines onboard Dr. Eggman's brand new battleship, the Egg Carrier, and all in an attempt to save Sonic's captured friends from Eggman. The two very deadly machines that Sonic and Shadow were fighting were Devion the Dreaded, re-programmed Devatron who now serves Dr. Eggman faithfully and without question, and a brand new machine known as the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was a plant-esque robot that could manipulate machinery and add robot parts onto itself in order to make itself stronger and grow in size. It had started off as a little robot plant that was just there for decoration and now Eggman had altered it and given it some robot parts to feed and grow off of and now it was a deadly killing machine, ready to eradicate Sonic and Shadow along with Devion who was equally as eager to kill Sonic and Shadow for destroying the Devatrons and ruining his takeover of Mobius.

As of now, Sonic and Shadow were in heated combat with the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and Devion. They had to get through them in order to save Sonic's friends and defeat Dr. Eggman once and for all. But the two machines were proving to be a tough challenge. Devion's invulnerability combined with his strength and agility was making him a most difficult opponent to overcome and The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra's enormous size and many appendages were making it hard to get by and it had stolen the green Chaos Emerald that Shadow had brought to bring Sonic back home so Sonic and Shadow had to fight the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra to get the emerald back so they could use it to teleport out of the room they were in and get to saving Sonic's friends. But given the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra's many vines, five heads and many attached weapons from the robot parts it had consumed and attached to itself made it a tricky opponent to sneak by and get the Chaos Emerald back from. Sonic spin-dashed towards the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra but the Hydra just smacked him away with a vine. Sonic was sent skidding across the floor and he came to a stop just near the entrance to the room. He grimaced in pain, clutching his sore arm which was a result of the skid across the floor. Sonic got back onto his feet and jumped out of the way just as the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra attempted to wallop him with a vine that had a mace attached to the end. Sonic cleaved the vine in two with a spin-dash but then came another problem for poor Sonic. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra had regenerative abilities, meaning it could grow a new vine after losing one. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra grew a new vine to replace the one that Sonic had just chopped off and it reattached the fallen off mace to the new vine. That made Sonic grumble in annoyance for it meant he had a tougher opponent then he had anticipated to defeat. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra lunged at Sonic with a crab-claw vine and nearly grabbed Sonic with it but Sonic dodged the attack and he chopped that vine in two with a spine-dash. So the Hydra couldn't use the claw again, once it had fallen off, Sonic stomped on the claw and flattened it into a pancake. That meant the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra grew a new vine but it couldn't put the crab-claw on the new vine since it was flattened and incapable of being used by the deadly plant robot. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra roared furiously at Sonic and it lunged at him with a tangle of vines that threatened to entangle Sonic and suffocate him. Sonic spin-dashed through the vines and he hit the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra in the chest, making it groan in pain and back-off a little. Sonic then back-flipped in front of the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and walloped it in the chin of its middle head with his feet. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra took the blow and it tried to chomp Sonic up in its deadly jaws but it missed as it lunged for Sonic and Sonic punched it in the side of its head.

"Dude! You're trying to eat me! What do you think I am?! Plant food?!" snickered Sonic, jumping on the Hydra's middle head and stomp-kicking it down onto the floor.

The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra retaliated by butting Sonic off of its middle head with the Motobug head. Sonic was thrown off by the attack and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra raised its middle head, glaring at Sonic with its jaws streaming with oily salvia as it prepared to launch its next attack. Sonic bent down in a battle ready stance and prepared to do battle with the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra once again. He clenched his fists and zoomed towards the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra aimed a vine that had a blaster cannon attached to it at Sonic and it began shooting at the blue hedgehog, hoping to hit him. Sonic dodged all the shots and he leaped up towards the five-headed beast but the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra lunged at Sonic with a vine that had a drill on it and Sonic was brought down to the floor as the drill struck him and left a rather long cut across his left arm. Sonic clutched his arm in pain and he rubbed it tenderly to ease the pain.

"Ouch!" he groaned "That Krudzu Hybrid Hydra's a tough bot and it's loaded with weapons! I bet not even weed killer or some garden sheers will take this nuisance down!"

Sonic finally managed to get his arm to stop stinging and he zoomed towards the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra opened up its mouth and it started firing silver orbs at Sonic. The orbs were Ballhog bombs and they exploded the moment they hit the floor. Sonic jumped back in alarm to avoid being blasted by the bombs as they all shot out of the Hydra's mouth and threatened to blow him up. Sonic ran around behind the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and he spin-dashed it in the bottom. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra growled at Sonic it attempted to tail-whip Sonic but Sonic dodged the attack and he ran across its tail. He spin-dashed the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra in the back of its head and sent its head hurling forward face first into the floor. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra raised its head only for Sonic to kick it back down into the floor and then stomp on it, making the Hydra shriek in pain. The plant-like robot grabbed Sonic with a vine and it proceeded to throw Sonic off of itself. Sonic hurled into the wall and he crashed into it back first. Sonic slid back down onto the floor and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra charged towards Sonic. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra stampeded towards Sonic with its five heads all roaring away as it ran towards him. Sonic ran out of the way and left the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra to crash into the wall. The Hydra stumbled about wobbly after it crashed into the wall and Sonic spin-dashed it in the side. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra soon regained itself and it lunged at Sonic with a mace vine. The mace just missed Sonic for the hedgehog stepped out of the way but the Hydra flicked the mace as it whizzed past Sonic just to hit him. Sonic stumbled over after being hit by the mace and the Hydra also added a laser blast onto the hedgehog. Sonic was thrown across the room by the blast and he winced in pain as the shot began to sting ever so furiously. The shot hurt very much and Sonic was having a tough time fighting the pain it had given him.

"Ugh…that Krudzu Hybrid Hydra is getting on my nerves!" cried Sonic "It's pretty darn tough and is getting to be a pain to battle! I sure hope I can defeat this thing!"

He then smacked himself on the head after he'd said that.

"What am I saying? Of course I can defeat it! I'm Sonic the Hedgehog! I can beat anything Dr. Eggman throws at me, even Metal Sonic!" he declared "I can easily beat that silly Krudzu Hybrid Hydra!"

With that thought on his mind, Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed towards the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra once again. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra tried to grab Sonic with its vines only for Sonic to spin-dash through the vines and whack it in the stomach. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra retaliated by tail-whipping Sonic and sending him hurling into the wall. Sonic bounced back with another spin-dash but the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra grabbed him in its vines and held Sonic firmly by his arms and legs. The Hydra then held Sonic out in front of itself, it's toothy jaws twisted into what appeared to be a sinister grin of some kind, showing that the Hydra was capable of expressing emotions. The Hydra raised up the drill vine and the drill bit at the end started spinning. The vine edged towards Sonic with the drill spinning furiously and whining loudly as it activated. Sonic squirmed furiously in the grasp of the Hydra's vines, trying to get free and to prevent the Hydra from killing him. But try as he might he couldn't get free and the drill vine edged closer and closer towards him.

Luckily however, Sonic wouldn't need to save himself for Shadow the Hedgehog had managed to take a break from his battle and spin-dash the vines holding Sonic, freeing him instantly. The vine cried out in pain as it started growing new ones to replace the ones Shadow had just severed. Sonic picked himself up and wiped his forehead dry.

"Whew! I was about to become plant-chow for the Krudzu!" gasped Sonic "Thanks for the save Shadow!"

"You're welcome Sonic." said Shadow "It seems you're having problems taking down the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra."

"I am." muttered Sonic "It's a tough robot with a lot of robot weapons on it. You don't look like Devion's giving you and glory right now."

"He isn't." said Shadow "He's proving to be tough to fight. Neither of us will be progressing for a while it seems."

"Yeah, if only I could get that Chaos Emerald back." said Sonic grimly "Then we could just Chaos Control out of here and get to saving our friends before Eggman reaches New Mobotropolis, as much as I hate to run from a fight."

"We'll get it back somehow Sonic, we'll just have to keep trying." said Shadow "Let's go and bring down these robots!"

"Oh yeah!" yelled Sonic excitedly.

With that said, Sonic and Shadow leaped back towards their respective opponents and began doing battle once again. I think we've seen enough of Sonic vs. the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra so I think now would be a good time to focus on Shadow vs. Devion. Shadow spin-dashed Devion directly in the torso and made him stagger but Devion was quick to strike back with a slash across the face with his arm-blades. Shadow grimaced in pain as two fresh cuts appeared across his face and they began to sting madly. Shadow ignored the stinging in his face and he threw a Chaos Spear at Devion. Devion smacked the spear away and tried to slash Shadow again but Shadow just warped out the way and reappeared behind Devion. He kicked Devion down into the floor but Devion was quickly back up on his feet and he slashed Shadow across the side of his head, leaving more cuts across it. Shadow wailed in pain and he clutched his head tensely.

"Ugh…with those blades they may as well call you "Devion the Shredder" rather than "Devion the Dreaded"!" he growled furiously "Those blades of yours are beginning to get on my nerves!"

"Good, if my attacks are vexing you to some degree you vacuous little vermin then that means I am gaining the upper hand on you." sneered Devion "Now prepare to have your head separated from your body!"

He lunged at Shadow and tried to cut his head off but Shadow jumped out of the way. He threw a Chaos Spear at Devion's head and knocked him down onto his side. Devion retaliated by blasting Shadow in the torso with the laser cannons built into his arm gauntlets. Shadow was thrown against the wall by the blast and he cried out as pain swept over his body. That shot was very painful to say the least and even Shadow had to admit it was a powerful blast. Devion ran towards Shadow and lunged at him again only for Shadow to teleport out of his way and start rapidly attacking Devion, flipping around and kicking and punching him as he hit Devion (he's attacking the way he does in Sonic 06 when he goes up to an enemy and you make him attack). Devion took the blows and just punched Shadow down onto the floor. Shadow picked himself up and spin-dashed Devion in the head. Devion didn't really feel the blow but it did make him stagger to one side as he was hit. Shadow then ran behind Devion and spin-dashed him in the back, one of the best places to hit Devion given that Devion didn't have anything in his back to stop sneak attacks and he couldn't see behind him either. Shadow slammed Devion into the wall and then grabbed him by the back of his head. He slammed Devion's face against the wall as hard as he could, hoping to crack his visor. Devion however effortlessly got back to his feet and threw Shadow directly off of himself. Shadow skidded across the floor but he bounded back with a spin-dash to the face and then a couple of Chaos Spears to the shoulders. Devion just blasted Shadow and brought him down onto the floor. Before Shadow could get up and fight some more, Devion kicked Shadow as hard as he could and sent him rolling towards the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. The Hydra just picked Shadow up and tossed him away as if he were garbage that was no longer desired by the Hydra. Shadow hurled back towards Devion and Devion back-flipped into the air. Shadow hurled towards him as he flipped and just as Devion's legs began to flip up after his body, Devion caught Shadow's had in-between his feet. He then finished his flip and landed down on the floor, giving Shadow a very painful slam as he did so. Shadow's head was hurting so much now he thought it was going to erupt. Devion then grabbed Shadow by the neck and threw him across the room. Shadow banged into the wall and he winced in pain as his back flared up with pain.

"Grrr…you're asking for it Devion!" snarled Shadow "Prepare for a pounding because you're in for a serious one right now!"

"I sincerely doubt it gamin, you are signing your death warrant if you believe for a minute that you can refute me." said Devion coldly "Come to me and face your karma…"

With that said, Shadow and Devion lunged at each other again, fists raised and ready to punch at each other…

Meanwhile, in the roboticizer chamber, the Royal Fighters were getting a glimpse on the action that was going on in the room Sonic and Shadow were fighting in. Dr. Eggman had decided that just to be cruel, he'd allow the Royal Fighters to bear witness to Sonic and Shadow's seemingly inevitable demise. There was a monitor screen mounted on the wall that was used in order for Eggman robots around the ship to deliver and emergency message to Eggman should he be in the chamber at the time and it was switched on. It gave the Royal Fighters a view of the battle between Sonic, Shadow, Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. The Royal Fighters were now watching the battle between Sonic, Shadow, Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and they weren't happy to see that the two hedgehogs were caught up in heated combat at the moment. They were in danger and so was New Mobotropolis and Sonic and Shadow, their only hope of escape and to save New Mobotropolis, were being distracted by two dangerous robots. Granted they had no choice but to fight the robots since the Hydra had taken the Chaos Emerald, their only way of getting past the robots without the need to fight them, but it still wasn't good that Sonic and Shadow were caught up in a battle right now. Eggman was heading to New Mobotropolis and if they didn't hurry, Eggman would arrive at the city, roboticize the populace and then destroy the marvellous city. The unfortunate thing is, it looked like that Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra had Sonic and Shadow plenty distracted and it was going to take them a while to finally get past them. The Royal Fighters began dreading that Sonic and Shadow may not actually be able to beat the robots in time to stop Eggman from New Mobotropolis. At the rate this battle was going, Eggman may actually arrive at New Mobotropolis by the time Sonic and Shadow even manage to beat the robots. They had to do something about this and fast.

"Oh no, Devion and Eggman's new invention are giving Sonic and Shadow a tough time!" cried Queen Sally Acorn in despair.

"We all know how tough that "Krudzu Hybrid Hydra" thing is." muttered Tails the Twin-Tailed Fox "It captured us all in no time and now its giving Sonic the fight of his life."

"I still wonder how the heck Eggman managed to make a machine like that!" cried Knuckles the Echidna "Its beyond what we've seen him build before!"

"Mate, you know what Eggman's like, there's nothing he can't build." said Geoffrey St. John the Skunk "The bloke's got a knack for machines that are weird and kooky in nature."

"He sure has Geoffrey and unfortunately, that machine is keeping sugah-hog at bay." said Bunnie Rabbot sadly "Ah sure hope Sonic and Shadow can get past Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra before Eggman reaches New Mobotropolis."

"It doesn't look like they will." said Ruben the Water Panther doubtfully "Devion's unreal when it comes to battle prowess and the fact he's invulnerable and that Hydra thing has lots of weapons attached to it and a lot of vines. They'll be tough to get by."

"If only we weren't trapped in these stupid capsules!" grumbled

Mandy Mouse, thumping the glass in fury "Then we could get out there and help Sonic and Shadow stomp on those robots and save New Mobotropolis!"

"It's just a pity we can't see a way out of these capsules." whined Wilson the Dog "Unfortunately, we're trapped like rats in here and we can't get out of them."

"I may be renowned for getting out of sticky situations but even I'm beat with this one." said Sora Prower grimly "I can't see a way out of these capsules."

Sally put a finger to her lips and thought of if there was a possible way to get out of the capsules. The glass was really tough and there wasn't enough space for the Royal Fighters to throw any decent attacks to try and shatter it. Even if they could, the glass was Diamond Glass and it was a tough glass to shatter. There had to be a better way to escape. Sally looked up at the top of the capsule and analyzed it. The capsules had steel caps at the top, sealing the Mobians inside, and they had some tubes that seemed to connect to the ceiling. Sally studied the steel caps and the squirrel queen suddenly had a brilliant idea.

"Hey guys, I think I've got us a way out of here!" cried Sally delightedly, earning a chorus of excited gasps from all the Royal Fighters.

She took out a small capsule from her vest pocket and she pressed on it. The capsule extended into her bladed staff and Sally thrust the staff, blade end first, in-between the top of the capsule and the bottom of the steel cap. The blade went straight through it and Sally began to push the staff around the top of the capsule. She began to cleave a thin slit between the top of the capsule and the bottom of the steel cap sealing her inside it and she went all the way around it. After doing that, Sally turned the staff around so the flat end was pointing up at the cap above and she butted it as hard as possible. The cap budged slightly and left a gap small enough for Sally to stick the staff through. Sally poked the staff through the gap and she moved the cap off of the capsule with it. The cap was now dangling beside the capsule by the wires in the ceiling it was connected to. Sally's capsule was now completely open and she could climb straight out of it. Sally put her staff away and she leaped up to the top of the capsule and caught the edge of it with her fingers. She pulled herself up to the top and she climbed out of the capsule. She dropped down onto the floor outside the capsule and she cheered happily. The Royal Fighters were amazed at this and they all applauded Sally with joy.

"Yes! It worked! I've managed to get out!" Sally cried happily "Now for the others."

Sally ran over to a nearby control pad and she instantly pressed a big red button on it. The button opened up the capsules. The capsules rose up thanks to the wires in the ceiling pulling them up and soon all of the Royal Fighters were free and able to join Sally in freedom. The Royal Fighters all ran up to Sally and started congratulating her for her amazing idea.

"Nice one Sally-girl!" cried Bunnie happily.

"That was a brilliant idea Sally!" said Nicole, hugging Sally in thanks "You managed to get us all out because of this brilliant idea!"

"Thank you everybody." said Sally graciously "Now, since we're free, let us help Sonic and Shadow to defeat those robots and save New Mobotropolis!"

"I've got a better idea Miss Sally." piped in Tails "How about you all go and me and Sora find Eggman and stop him so that even if he arrives at New Mobotropolis, he won't be able to commence with his plans because someone's keeping him at bay?"

Sally thought about that for a moment.

"That is a most logical idea Tails." said Sally "Yeah, we'll do that. You and Sora stop Eggman and buy us some time to save the city while the rest of us deal with Devion and the Hydra. Does everybody approve of the plan?"

"Yes." said all the Royal Fighters.

"Then let's go and stop that Eggman!" declared Sally.

With that said, the Royal Fighters all ran out of the room and headed off towards the room where the big battle was going on. Tails and Sora separated from the group and they ran off down corridor in search of Dr. Eggman for they had a feeling he was somewhere important and that the corridor they went down would lead them to him. The rest ran off to join in the fight. Sonic and Shadow's fight was just about to come easier now Sonic's friends were free and able to help them now…

Back over to Sonic and Shadow, their fight with the two machines wasn't going any better. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and Devion were still proving to be too tough to beat and the machines had the two hedgehogs stalemated at the moment. Sonic and Shadow were fighting as hard as they possibly could but their efforts were ultimately in vain since the two were too powerful to defeat. Devion's invulnerability and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra's many limbs and weapons were just too much for the poor hedgehogs and Sonic and Shadow found themselves being slammed against a wall by the two deadly machines once again. Sonic and Shadow groaned in pain as their backs hit the wall and they slid down onto the floor, trying to fight the pain in their backs. Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra advanced menacingly on Sonic and Shadow and Devion pointed his arm blades at them.

"Your efforts to defeat us are futile Sonic and Shadow." sneered Devion "Now you will both perish at my blades."

Devion lashed out at Sonic and Shadow with his arm blades but the two dodged the attack and left Devion with his arm blades stuck in the wall for he ended up plunging the blades into the wall as Sonic and Shadow dodged. Devion growled furiously and he pulled on his arms, trying to get his blades out of the wall and to free himself. Sonic and Shadow ran around the room as the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra began chasing them down while Devion tried to get his blades free. As they ran around, the two hedgehogs began talking to one another.

"Hey Shadow! These bozo bots are just too tough for us to handle! We need a plan!" cried Sonic.

"I know we do Sonic but right now, I don't really have one!" retorted Shadow "I do wish I didn't lose the Chaos Emerald so we could just warp outta here and get to saving your friends and city!"

Sonic then suddenly came up with a brilliant idea. It was such a brilliant idea that Sonic had to wonder why he didn't come up with it earlier. Truly, he ought to use his brain more often.

"Hey Shadow! I've got it!" cried Sonic "Try Chaos Blasting those miscreants to pieces! We'll get the Chaos Emerald back for sure!"

"Chaos Blast them?" mused Shadow "A sound idea Sonic but won't I destroy the Chaos Emerald if I use a Chaos Blast?"

"I wouldn't think you would do so." said Sonic "Chaos Emeralds can't be destroyed like any normal emerald can. Heck, I'm not sure IF a Chaos Emerald can be destroyed."

"I see." said Shadow "Well then, I shall go with your plan."

Shadow screeched to a halt and he removed his inhibitor rings. Sonic screeched to a halt beside Shadow and Shadow handed Sonic his inhibitor rings. Shadow began to glow red with pure Chaos Energy as he began to build up the energy stored inside him. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra ran up towards Shadow but the build-up of energy coming from the Ultimate Life form made the Hydra feel nervous and back off. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was an intelligent machine, par the course of Eggman actually making it intelligent, and it could sense that what Shadow was about to do was not good at all. It shot at Shadow with the SWAT-bot blaster but Shadow took the blows as if nothing was happening. When Shadow was building up Chaos Energy and getting ready to unleash, you couldn't hurt him even with an atomic bomb. Sonic ran up the wall and he grabbed onto some wires running across the ceiling so he would be out of the way of the Chaos Blast. Devion finally managed to wrench his blades out of the wall and he saw that Shadow was building up Chaos Energy and getting ready for a Chaos Blast. Devion remembered this from his first battle with Shadow* and he knew how to counter it. Devion ran towards Shadow and he clenched his fist, ready to give Shadow and uppercut into the air to foil the Chaos Blast like he did the first time. But Devion was too late for Shadow decided to launch the attack as soon as possible. Shadow thrust his arms out to the sides and thundered at the top of his voice:

"Chaos… BLLLLAAAAAAAAAAAAASSSSSSSSSSSSSST! "

A huge blast of crimson red Chaos Energy erupted from within Shadow's body and it blasted the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and Devion backwards across the room. The blast didn't effect Devion due to his invulnerability and the protective cover for his visor but the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra wasn't so lucky. The blasts seemed to tear it apart piece by piece as it tore through the Hydra's body. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra wailed in pain as the Chaos Blast ravaged its body and its parts were destroyed by the blast. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra however managed to save itself. A tiny sprig of the Hydra escaped its doomed body and it slithered away before the Chaos Blast could destroy it, meaning that all that remained of the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was a tiny little sprig with a pair of jaws that slithered across the floor like a snake. Shadow's Chaos Blast eventually died down and Shadow fell to his knees in exhaustion. Sonic ran over to Shadow quickly and he clamped his inhibitor rings back onto his wrists. That immediately boosted Shadow's power back up and the black hedgehog was quickly back onto his feet.

"You did it Shadow!" cried Sonic "You stopped the cruddy little Krudzu Hybrid Hydra! Unfortunately, Devion's still alive but I doubt he'll be hard to take down if we fight him together."

"Indeed." said Shadow "And since the Chaos Emerald is no longer in the Hydra's possession, we can just grab it and go."

Shadow skated over to the green Chaos Emerald, which now lay on its side at the foot of the wall. But Devion jumped in front and he blasted Shadow away with his gauntlet blasters. Shadow was sent skidding across the floor by the blasts and Devion quickly picked up the Chaos Emerald. Devion sneered at Shadow as he held on tightly to the Chaos Emerald.

"You used the Chaos Emeralds to help bring me down during my attempted take-over of Mobius so I shall not allow you to have this Chaos Emerald." he crooned "I shall use its power to defeat you and avenge my fallen soldiers."

"Well I've been looking forward to fighting you again ever since the day Eggman revived you so bring it!" snarled Shadow threateningly.

"Yeah, bring it on Devion!" cried Sonic eagerly.

Devion seemed all too happy to oblige but before he could do anything, the Krudzu sprig slithered up behind Devion and started growing vines out of its tiny, snake-like body. The vines reached up behind Devion and they started to entwine themselves around his body and then sneak into his circuits. Devion gasped in horror as he felt the Krudzu sprig churn its way into his body and start taking it over. That was one of the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra's abilities, it could take over robot bodies be it functioning or non-functioning. Devion cried out as the Krudzu sprig began to get into his body and start taking control of it.

"What…what is happen…ing?!" cried Devion "My body…is being taken…over by…something! The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra! It's…taking over my…body!"

The Krudzu sprig continued to hack its way into Devion's body until finally, Devion was no more and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was now completely in control of Devion's body. Devion looked just the same as before with the only new features being the Krudzu's trademark thorny vines draping from his limbs, face and torso. Sonic and Shadow stared in disbelief at Devion, unable to believe what had just happened and it seemed they were now up against a mix of the two threats. Devion and the Hydra were bad enough on their own but combined together?! They're going to be even harder to defeat now they were together! Devion raised his arms in a rather zombie-like manner, vines curled around them and looking very sinister indeed. He appeared to have lost all speech for he didn't say anything, he just let out a throaty, mechanical sounding growl that made Sonic and Shadow's spines shiver. The two hedgehogs were so amazed at what had happened that they could scarcely breathe, let alone move for the moment.

"I don't believe it! The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra survive somehow and has taken over Devion's body?!" cried Sonic.

"Looks like we're against "Devion Hybrid Hydra" for this battle!"

declared Shadow.

"Devion Hybrid Hydra eh? I like it, let's call it that." said Sonic "Now then Devion Hybrid Hydra, give us that Chaos Emerald back and I won't hurt you too badly."

The Devion Hybrid Hydra ignored the two and blatantly lashed out with a whip of vines, making Sonic and Shadow scatter instantly to avoid being whipped by the thorny vines.

"Guess he's not playing nice!" cried Sonic "We'll just have to get it back ourselves!"

"You don't have to tell me twice!" retorted Shadow, skating around behind the Devion Hybrid Hydra and getting ready to spin-dash him.

The Devion Hybrid Hydra heard Shadow skating around behind him but Shadow attacked before the Devion Hybrid Hydra could get ready to defend himself. Shadow spin-dashed the Devion Hybrid Hydra in the back and slammed him into the wall. Devion Hybrid Hydra retaliated by whipping Shadow away with some thorny vines draped around his arms. Sonic spin-dashed Devion Hybrid Hydra in the torso but the Krudzu-Possessed Devatron fought back by entwining Sonic with his vines. Sonic squirmed in the grasp of Devion Hybrid Hydra but he couldn't get free. The vines were much too tough for him to break free of and the Devion Hybrid Hydra only ended up squeezing harder and harder on Sonic's limbs as he entwined him and prepared to squeeze the very life out of him. More vines began to wrap themselves around Sonic's waist and neck and they began to squeeze very tightly. Sonic gasped and spluttered, trying desperately to catch his breath but to no avail. Shadow tried to help Sonic but the Devion Hybrid Hydra just grabbed him with his vines too and he began to suffocate Shadow and squeeze the life out of him. Shadow tried desperately to get free but try as he might, his efforts were futile and the Devion Hybrid Hydra's grasp just got stronger and stronger. The vine covered Devatron cackled maniacally at Sonic and Shadow as it prepared to finish them off. But it would never get the chance to do that for before it could finish off Sonic and Shadow for good, a familiar double-bladed pole came out of nowhere and sliced the vines to pieces, freeing Sonic & Shadow from the Devion Hybrid Hydra's thorny grasp and made the monster squeal a robotical squeal of pain. That weapon was the spinning blade weapon and it was none other than Wilson the Dog's trademark weapon. Sonic and Shadow picked themselves up and much to their surprise, they could see all the Royal Fighters bar Tails and Sora standing before them and looking ready for action. As surprised as Sonic was, he was all too happy to see his friends again, especially as it had been a while since he had come back from Mobius Nega.

"Hey guys and gals!" cried Sonic delightedly "What a pleasure it is to see you all again! And to think I came here to save you all and you ended up saving me and Shadow instead!"

"Hello Sonic, it's good to have you back here on Mobius again." said Sally brightly "As for us, I managed to find an escape route for us and now we're here to help you defeat Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. Although, we're up against a fusion of the two it seems now…" she added, pointing at Devion Hybrid Hydra who was just growing a new bunch of vines to use to entwine his enemies and whip them around.

"Yeah, the Krudzu's taken over Devion's body so now it's a "Devion Hybrid Hydra"." said Sonic "It's got the Chaos Emerald and we need to get it back so we can leave it here and see to saving NewMobotropolis from Dr. Eggman."

"I see." said Sally "Royal Fighters, give that thing everything you've got and don't hold back!"

With that said, all the Royal Fighters charged at Devion Hybrid Hydra and they all began to attack it at once. Bunnie and Mandy both socked it as hard as they could, Wilson and Sally slashed at it with their bladed weapons, Nicole threw a few punches and a few kicks, Knuckles and Shade bombarded it with their respective methods of attack, Espio, Vector and Charmy all attacked the Devion Hybrid Hydra as furiously as they could, Geoffrey fired some stun darts at it, Ruben let loose a flurry of ninjutsu moves and even drenched Devion Hybrid Hydra with water, Amy walloped it with her Piko-Piko hammer, Cream threw Cheese at it and Cosmo just picked up any debris from the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra's first body and threw the pieces at it as a distraction. The Devion Hybrid Hydra maybe two powerful machines all mixed together but not even he could withstand all those attacks going on at once and all hitting him in several places all over his body. The Devion Hybrid Hydra did fight back by whipping at the heroes with his vines and clawing at them with his clawed hands but he was up against too many at once to properly fend them all off and they all attacked too viciously and callously for him to stand against. To add insult to injury, Sonic and Shadow were joining in too and they spin-dashed him furiously all over his body as hard as they could. All these attacks going off simultaneously eventually forced the Devion Hybrid Hydra down onto his knees and Shadow finally managed to seize the Chaos Emerald from it, snatching it directly out of the fusion machine's vines. The Devion Hybrid Hydra's visor widened in shock as Shadow snatched the Chaos Emerald from it and it tried to get it back quickly by reaching out with some vines. But just as it was about to grab Shadow, Wilson and Sally chopped some of the vines to pieces and Vector chewed through some of the other vines. Now that the Chaos Emerald had finally been retrieved, everybody gathered around Shadow and the Ultimate Life form yelled out loud:

"Chaos…CONTROL!"

And with the simple yelling of those words, the Royal Fighters were all engulfed in a bright green flash of light and they all vanished into thin air, leaving the Devion Hybrid Hydra all alone in the room and very furious at the fact its victims had gotten away. The Devion Hybrid Hydra thumped the floor in rage and it roared out a furious, mechanical roar of dismay over its failure to defeat the Royal Fighters and keep hold of the Chaos Emerald. But the Devion Hybrid Hydra wasn't done yet for it had a cunning plan in mind. It ran over to the screen above the door and it extended out some vines. The vines reached into the screen and the Devion Hybrid Hydra started to hack into it. He was using the screen to see if he could find out where the Royal Fighters were going to end up and once it found out, it would catch up to them and finish them all off in the name of Dr. Eggman…

Meanwhile, up on the bridge, Dr. Eggman was looking out through the cockpit window and much to his delight, the Egg Carrier was finally beginning to arrive over New Mobotropolis. It had been a long flight but the Egg Carrier had finally arrived and was now getting into position. The huge vessel began to slowly cruise over the city, blanketing it in a huge, dark shadow as it blocked out the sunlight and loomed over the city ominously, and the poor citizens of New Mobotropolis began to scream and run in fear. They were fearing that this was going to be a repeat of what happened to the original Mobotropolis and because of this, the panicked citizens were all evacuating New Mobotropolis and running for their lives. Dr. Eggman didn't seem bothered though since he was wanting something like this to happen. If he was to roboticize all the citizens of New Mobotropolis then he'd have to get them out of the city first. And thankfully, the Egg-Carrier's presence was doing just that, scaring everybody out of the city. Now everybody in New Mobotropolis was evacuating, Eggman pressed a button on the control pad. A giant blaster cannon extended down from underneath the enormous vessel and it pointed directly at the evacuating citizens. They all appeared to be gathering together in one big circle so Eggman had a clear shot at all of them. At the press of a button, New Mobotropolis' entire population would be nothing but Robians and New Mobotropolis would be left to be destroyed by Dr. Eggman. Dr. Eggman crooned to himself as he began to picture all the terrified Mobians down below being roboticized in the blink of an eye and the destruction of New Mobotropolis once he'd dealt with the populace.

"This truly is my lucky day today." purred Dr. Eggman "I've managed to capture all of Sonic's friends and I've stalled Sonic and Shadow long enough to get to New Mobotropolis and right now, I'm about to roboticize the populace and destroy the city! Oh what I wouldn't give to see Sonic's face when his precious city is reduced to rubble for a second time! He won't be around to see that I bet since Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra will likely have dealt with the blue twerp already. Well, time to get a new army of Robians for myself…"

"You're not getting a new army of Robians Eggman! Not even one!" screeched a voice that he was not expecting to hear right about now.

Eggman was so startled by the voice that his finger missed the button he was going to press and he gasped in surprise. Then suddenly, he was knocked down to the floor by something kicking him in the back of the head. It was Tails. He and Sora had finally managed to find Dr. Eggman, and all in good timing too, and now Tails had just kicked Eggman down to stop him from commencing with his evil plan. Eggman picked himself up and he gasped at the sight of Tails and Sora, standing there before him with hardcore scowls on their faces and their fists clenched, ready to beat the stuffing out of Dr. Eggman. Eggman's moustache drooped down in astonishment.

"Wh…at?!" he gasped "But…but…but this is impossible! How can you two be up here when you're supposed to be down in the roboticizer chamber trapped in tubes and ready to be roboticized?!"

"We managed to find a way out of the capsules." said Tails bluntly "And we're here to stop you from taking away our home city Eggman! Stand down and surrender while you still can or me and Sora will make you surrender!"

"Me?! Surrender?! Ho, ho, ho, ho! Not likely Tails!" snorted Dr. Eggman "Why would I surrender when I'm so close to roboticizing the population of New Mobotropolis and reducing the city to rubble?"

"Because we're here to stop you that's why." said Sora "Now make this easy on everybody and stand down before things get unpleasant."

"Do you seriously think petty threats are going to make me surrender?" scoffed Dr. Eggman "I'm in a ship that's choc-a-block full of robots that answer my beck and call! I can just simply call one of them to come in here and deal with you two!"

But Eggman was going to get more than he bargained for at this minute. Just as he was about to call for help, a bright green flash of light appeared from nowhere and startled Eggman, Tails and Sora all at once. The bright green flash died down and in its place appeared Sonic, Shadow and all of the Royal Fighters. Dr. Eggman was so horrified to see this that he almost fainted onto the floor. Tails and Sora beamed happily at the sight of all their friends. Now they were all here, Eggman just HAD to surrender now. There was no way that he'd be able to win with the entire cavalry here to stop him from commencing with his evil plans.

"Wow guys, you all made it!" cried Tails happily "And with a Chaos Control too! Guess you finally dealt with Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and got the Chaos Emerald back!"

"You…could say that Tails buddy." said Sonic "Hey Eggman, bet you're surprised to see me here, alive and well, aren't you?"

"What…?! N-n-n-n-n…NO! This is impossible! How the heck did you manage to get past Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra?!" cried Dr. Eggman.

"We had a Chaos Emerald." explained Sonic "The machines took it off of us though and give us a hard time trying to get it back which explains what took us so long to get up here."

"Your plan is in jeopardy Eggman." said Sally coldly, pointing her staff at him "We're all up here on the bridge now, ready to stop you and put an end to your schemes. You can either stand down and settle this peacefully or we WILL use force."

"No…I cannot lose now…not while I'm so close!" stammered Dr. Eggman "New Mobotropolis is…directly beneath us…I can still destroy it…you...you won't…st-stop-stop me from…destroying New Mobotropolis!"

Sonic then proceeded to spin-dash Dr. Eggman away from the control pad and send him skidding across the floor on his bottom. Eggman winced in pain as his bottom began to throb from the skid.

"Dude, you've lost, just give it up already." said Sonic, his voice making him sound almost annoyed with Eggman "You can't possibly beat us now we're all here."

But it seemed that fate hadn't quite had enough of throwing obstacles in Sonic's way for before the Royal Fighters could do anything to Eggman, a huge banging noise was heard directly under their feet. That made the Royal Fighters instantly scatter and stand back and even Eggman was beginning to wonder what the noise was all about. Then suddenly, to the surprise of everybody in the room, Devion Hybrid Hydra burst directly through the floor and ravaged his way up onto the bridge. He had managed to locate Sonic and friends via the screen in the room he was in and had ravaged his way up through the ceiling of every room he came across until he reached the bridge where all the Mobians were gathered. Everybody was taken aback by this and Eggman seemed utterly gobsmacked to see that Devion and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra had become one. He had not expected something like this to happen at all, not that he minded given it meant more trouble for Sonic and friends being as both of his mightiest robots were now combined together to make one seriously powerful robot. Eggman smiled for it seemed his plans weren't ruined after all. The Royal Fighters stared at Devion Hybrid Hydra in disbelief, wondering how on Mobius he had managed to find them.

"The Devion Hybrid Hydra?! Great timing!" muttered Sonic sarcastically "That thing's gonna distract us and give Eggman time to destroy New Mobotropolis and roboticize everybody!"

"No it isn't!" declared Tails "I've got an idea! Hey Devion! Come and get me if you think you're fast enough!"

He stuck his tongue out at the Devion Hybrid Hydra and started mocking it. The Devion Hybrid Hydra glared at Tails furiously and he ran over to the little fox. Tails just took off with the aid of his tails and he flew away as the Devion Hybrid Hydra tried to grab him with his vines. The Devion Hybrid Hydra growled furiously at Tails and he tried to grab him again with his vines. Tails dodged the thorny vines as they tried to grab him and he flew over to a large steel box-shaped object on the wall. This was a power generator and it fed power throughout the entire ship. If that generator got damaged in anyway then chances are, the entire Egg-Carrier would go down like a falling plane. This was Tails' idea, to trick the Devion Hybrid Hydra into destroying the power generator and bring down the Egg-Carrier. He had spotted the generator when looking for a way to defeat the Devion Hybrid Hydra and now he flew in front of it, taunting the Krudzu-possessed Devatron mercilessly and daring it to attack him. Devion Hybrid Hydra lashed out at Tails with some vines and Tails flew out of the way. The vines struck the generator and embedded themselves into it. The Devion Hybrid Hydra was then hit with a tremendous jolt of electricity and it wailed in pain as electricity surged up its vines like conductors and electricity surged through its body. True Devion maybe immune to an electrical shock but the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra wasn't and now most of Devion's body was Krudzu parts so the electrical shock hurt it very badly. The Devion Hybrid Hydra wailed a robotical wail of pain as it was brutally electrocuted by the generator and after a minute or so, the generator exploded and threw the electrocuted machine across the room where it crashed into the wall with a heavy thud. The Devion Hybrid Hydra lay on the floor, completely motionless and seemingly dead. The generator was nothing more then a smouldering wreck of metal and wire and it was blazing away with flames. Dr. Eggman looked horrified to see this and he put his hands to his head in horror.

"NO! Devion destroyed the power generator! This ship's going to crash and burn now!" he shrieked in terror.

"I know, that's why I tricked it into doing that." sneered Tails "Your precious ship is coming down Eggman and your plan is in turmoil."

"Great stuff Tails." said Sonic "But you've forgotten one little thing… IT'S OVER NEW MOBOTROPOLIS!" he cried at the top of his voice "This thing's gonna crash down on top of New Mobotropolis!"

"No it isn't." said Shadow "For I am going to do this…"

With that said, Shadow held up the green Chaos Emerald and used a Chaos Control to warp the Egg-Carrier away from New Mobotropolis, much to the relief of all the citizens down below. The Egg-Carrier reappeared in Megapolis, the very place that Eggman was hiding in and the ship had taken off from, and since Megapolis was mostly plains and the Egg-Carrier had reappeared above the plains, it could crash down and not harm anyone down below. Now that the Egg-Carrier had been relocated, Shadow used another Chaos Control to warp everybody out of the ship and onto the ground outside so they could watch the Egg-Carrier crash down and burn away. The Egg-Carrier started to tilt and it made some very loud noises as it began to lose all power everywhere and its altitude began to drop. Dr. Eggman put his hands to his head in shock and he attempted to run out of the bridge and find an escape pod. But unfortunately for him, the ceiling caved in and a large panel landed directly on top of him, knocking him down onto the floor and pinning him there. Dr. Eggman screamed in fright and he tried desperately to get out from under the panel but it was much too heavy for him to lift. He was trapped and he was going down with his ship like a captain often does. The Egg-Carrier titled downwards and it began to plummet down to the ground. The Egg-Carrier crashed down with an almighty explosion of flames and smoke and the ship skidded across the ground for a good few feet until it finally stopped and started blazing away like an evening bonfire. Some Eggman robots in the underground bunker saw the Egg-Carrier's wreckage and they ran over to it with water equipment at the ready. They began to squirt water at the ship and started trying to put out the fires. Sonic and friends watched the Egg-Carrier burning away and they all began to conclude that Eggman probably perished on the ship for he couldn't possibly have escaped from it, nor could he possibly survive that. It amazed them all to think that this is probably the end of Dr. Eggman as they know it and that Mobius was finally going to be at peace.

"Well…that's that I guess." said Sonic "We've brought the ship down and Eggman doesn't appear to have walked out of it alive."

"Nobody can possibly survive something like this." said Tails "Although Eggman likely used an escape pod to get away from the ship before it crashed. I didn't see anything eject from the ship before it crashed though so I assume Eggman didn't survive that."

"I'm hoping he didn't." muttered Mandy "Given all the crap he's given us over the year we've been at war with him, I hope he's finally put out of our misery and is gone for good."

"As harsh as that is Mandy…I hope he's finally gone too." said Wilson "I've so yearned to have peace come back to Mobius and if Eggman's gone…we can finally have it back."

"I didn't want Eggman dead." said Sonic "I wanted him incarcerated so he can pay for all his crimes and maybe learn his lesson from all he's done."

"Sadly Sonic, I don't think Eggman would have ever reformed." said

Sally sadly "There's nothing redeemable about Eggman at all. Like you though, I'd have preferred to have him arrested too."

"Yeah, that would be a better punishment for him since being dead means Eggman can't pay for all he's done." said Sonic "Oh well if Eggman's dead then he's dead and that's all there is to it. Mind you, I don't think we should assume anything yet, Eggman's a man of surprises and we all know it. For all we know, he might have somehow survived the crash."

"Maybe once all the Eggman robots are finished with the wreckage of the Egg-Carrier, we can search it and see if we can find his body." suggested Sally "Until then, let us go home and rest after all we've been through today. And also give Sonic a proper welcome home too."

"Aw, thanks Sal." said Sonic appreciatively "Shadow? Would you care to warp us all home?"

Shadow nodded and he used a Chaos Control to open up a Chaos Portal back to New Mobotropolis. The Royal Fighters all stepped through the portal and they were warped all the way back home to New Mobotropolis where they would rest and recuperate and give Sonic the welcome home he deserved. Once they got home, Sonic would have quite a story to tell everybody, especially since Scourge and Fiona were now incarcerated in New Mobotropolis, and he'd have to tell everybody that the tear in the sky seems to be a recurring thing since Scourge and Fiona had been brought to Mobius Nega via one. Sonic had a feeling that an investigation was going to be in hand for the streak of light and that they'd be spending the next few days and weeks trying to figure out what the deal behind the whole thing is…

Later that day, the wreckage of the Egg-Carrier had finally been cleared away and put out. The Eggman robots had salvaged many things from the wreckage, including the now completely scrapped body of Devion that was damaged beyond repair and beyond saving (most of his circuitry had been wrecked when the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra took over his body), a sprig of the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and the body of Dr. Eggman himself. Eggman was in a critical condition. His body was scorched, his moustache was singed, his clothes were torn, his body was bruised and laden with cuts and he was barely breathing. Eggman was pretty much at death's door right about now. He had been rushed to medical bay immediately and Katherine, Eggman's loyal servant bot, was nursing Eggman right about now. Eggman was lying on a bed with a breathing apparatus beside him and a mask around his mouth as well as a heartbeat monitor, which beeped very faintly. Katherine had some medical knowledge in her so she, somewhat, knew what he was doing. Sadly for her though, Eggman was beyond saving in the realms of proper medicine. The damage to his body was just too great. Eggman was surely going to die right about now. Katherine was not about to lose Dr. Eggman so she began searching for other methods. And thankfully, she had the perfect method. If Dr. Eggman couldn't be saved then he would just have to become the one thing he loved more than anything in the world…a robot. Rather than roboticizing him though, Katherine thought she'd give Eggman a robot body that would keep him alive and make him a VERY powerful force of nature. And that body she had in mind was the body of a robot that Sonic and Shadow had faced before…E-123 Omega. She had the plans for Omega in her head and she was going to produce a new model for Eggman. It would have the strength, weapons and power of E-123 Omega but it would also work as a life-support machine. Dr. Eggman was going to be reborn…as a powerful machine of great power and weaponry and Sonic would never see him coming…

More Than Meets The Eye

Story 145: More Than Meets The Eye…

A couple of days had passed by since Sonic the Hedgehog's return from Mobius Nega and the destruction of the Egg-Carrier. Since then, Dr. Eggman had not been seen for he was currently in the medical bay and awaiting a new life support machine and Mobius was at a moment of peace. But the Royal Fighters of New Mobotropolis weren't making the most of this moment of peace. Instead, they were investigating their latest worry: the tear in the sky that had sucked Sonic up and spat him back out over on Mobius Nega. Sonic had told all his friends what had happened and also the fact that Scourge and Fiona had had the same thing happen to them, thus meaning the streak of light had NOT been a first time thing at all and it needed to be investigated immediately. The Mobians weren't really sure on how to investigate something like this though since everything had returned to normal the moment the tear in the sky had taken Sonic away and it could be weeks before one appears again. Scourge and Fiona had been taken by one weeks ago so it could be weeks before one appears again. Regardless, Sonic had gone out into the world with a special team to try and investigate the streak of light and see if they could find anything. His team consisted of himself, Tails, Cosmo, Knuckles, Shade and the recently recruited super-spy Sora and they had taken some research equipment with them for this job. As of this moment, Shade was setting up a machine with a radar dish attached to it and four legs that it stood upon. The machine was meant to study the habitat and pick up any anomalies, should there be any in the atmosphere right now. This machine was perfect for studying the streak of light. The only thing is…one needed to appear. Given how strange and unpredictable they are, Queen Sally Acorn theorized that the one that had taken Scourge and Fiona might have been the first time and several other tears in the sky had appeared, just gone undocumented and maybe several happen at several different points all over Mobius so for all Sonic and his team knew, they could see one right about now. Thus, the team was setting up and getting ready to see if they could find anything out at all. They had set up camp in the plains of Megapolis, hundreds of miles from the Northern Border of Megapolis which was where Dr. Eggman was hiding, and Shade was setting up the machine. She'd finished setting up the machine at last and right now, she was monitoring it to see what the machine could find. Sonic and Knuckles were keeping an eye out for any signs of trouble. Tails, Sora and Cosmo however were just having a bit of fun. Sonic had said they could have a bit of fun since they are kids and kids like to have fun but under the condition that once Tails was needed, he would join the research team immediately. As for the fun they were having, Tails had taken Sora by the hands and was giving his big sister a ride in the sky. Sora hung by her arms as Tails flew her around in the sky, holding onto her hands very tightly as he flew her. Sora squealed with delight as Tails flew her around and she could barely stop giggling. She was enjoying the flight very much. Every minute of the flight made Sora more and more glad that she had finally reunited with Tails after being separated from him for eight years. How happy she had felt since she had been reunited with her brother. Tails and Sora's flight went on for a while before Sora decided she wanted to be put down on the ground again. Tails flew down to the ground and he put Sora down, the young super-spy still giggling with delight as she was put back down on the ground. After finally getting her excitement out, Sora caught her breath back and hugged Tails graciously.

"Thank you so much for the flight little brother." she said delightedly "That was wonderful! I had the time of my life up there!"

"Aw Sora, you're more welcome then you realize." said Tails, hugging his sister "Me and you still have a lot of catching up to do so you deserved that flight."

"Thank you." said Sora "When you were born with those two tails, I never in my life would have anticipated that you would be able to fly with them. I always knew that those tails of yours were special and you have just proven my theory correct."

"It's a pity that I used to be taunted for having two tails though." murmured Tails, breaking up the hug with Sora and hugging his tails "But ever since I joined the R.F.S. I am not ashamed of having these tails and I get to put them to excellent use every time."

"I'm glad you're proud of your tails." said Cosmo, putting her arms around Tails "I'm proud of them too, especially since they make you so cuddly and make me feel really lovely and warm when you cuddle me with them."

"Aw…thanks Cosmo." said Tails, blushing bright pink "I'm glad you…like my tails and the cuddles I give you with them."

Tails and Cosmo ended up embracing each other in a nice, lovely, warming hug and Tails wrapped his tails around Cosmo as they cuddled, Cosmo beaming brightly as he did so. Sora just put her hands over her heart and went "aww" at the sight of the two cuddling each other like this.

"Aww…you two are so cute together." said Sora "Who'd have thought that my little brother would find himself a girlfriend, and at such a young age too?"

"I know." said Tails "I don't care though, I love Cosmo and I want to make her as happy as I possibly can."

"And its that amount of kindness to me that made me fall for you Tails." said Cosmo brightly "I'm so glad to be in love with a boy as wonderful as you."

"Thanks precious, I'm glad to be in love with a girl as wonderful as you." said Tails, kissing Cosmo on the forehead "Say Cosmo, I believe your flight is next…" he added, twisting his tails around one another and taking off.

He took Cosmo firmly by the hands and lifted her up off the ground by them. Tails flew up into the air with Cosmo in tow and he gave Cosmo a very lovely flight much as he did Sora. Sora just watched from down below and she smiled happily at the lovely couple up in the sky.

"Aww…they're so wonderful together." said Sora in a heartfelt manner "Makes me wish I had a boyfriend now. Oh well, my time for love will come soon I bet…"

As Tails flew Cosmo in the sky, Shade monitored the machine and studied the various instruments and scanning of the habitat that the machine was picking up. The radar dish on the machine twitched and moved around as it scanned the environment for any signs of paranormal activity and anything unusual. Unfortunately, so far, everything seemed to be normal. Nothing unusual was being detected and everything appeared to be completely normal. It seemed that no tear in the sky was going to appear anytime soon although Shade wasn't going to conclude something like this so suddenly, she had to be patient and see if one was going to appear soon. Knuckles knelt down behind Shade and put his hands on her shoulders as she focused on the machine.

"Anything yet hon?" asked Knuckles.

"Not yet sweetie." said Shade grimly "Everything appears to be normal so far. No anomaly of any kind has been detected yet although it's a little premature to conclude so far. We've only just started investigating, a tear in the sky could appear at any time now. We'll give it an hour or two and pack up."

"That sounds good to me." said Knuckles "I do hope that the streak of light thingy that took Sonic is the last time it happens and that it's not going to happen again though, we can't let it take anybody else. I'd be all too happy for Scourge and Fiona to have stayed gone though, they wouldn't be able to bother us anymore if they were still gone from the streak of light that took them."

"Yeah but then poor old Mobius Nega would be suffering from their tyranny." noted Sonic "In my opinion, every world deserves to be free, even an alternate world. I'd rather that tear in the sky took Scourge and Fiona to a world with no inhabitants whatsoever and then they'd have nothing to do except amuse themselves."

"Hmm, I see." said Knuckles "At least they'd be happy, they could pretty much rule a world like that but they'd have nobody to terrorize. That's the most they deserve. Oh well, they're locked up in the New Mobotropolis Detention Centre and they're gonna stay locked up there for good."

"I agree, especially since they're on my home turf." said Sonic with a smile on his face "Thus if they escape, I'll be over to stop them immediately. They'll not get away from me or anyone else for that matter."

"And that is good." said Shade "But enough about Scourge and Fiona, we need to focus on our research job. It's vital we find out what's causing the tear in the sky and why its happening."

"Easier said then done since we NEED one to appear first." sighed Sonic "And who knows when one will finally appear so we can study it?"

"If we have to wait for a year before one appears at last then I'll be all to happy to wait that long." said Shade "I have the patience after all. I managed to wait years before Ix and the Nocturnus Clan made their sinister move on Angel Island again."

"I'll bet you have patience." snickered Sonic "Same with Knuckles since he just spends all day guarding the Master Emerald…"

Then suddenly, a huge laser blast came out of nowhere and it struck the machine, blowing it to smithereens! Shade and Knuckles leaped back in horror as the machine blew up in their faces and Sonic leaped about a foot into the air. The thing that had destroyed the machine was none other than Katherine, Dr. Eggman's servant bot and the one that was currently trying to save his life! She had clasped her hands together and used the blast attack from her palms to destroy the machine. She had a squadron of Eggman robots with her and they looked furious to see Mobians here in Megapolis. Katherine had been monitoring the terrain and she had picked up Sonic, Tails, Cosmo, Knuckles, Shade and Sora's signals while scanning the terrain. She thought that the Mobians were here to try and hurt Dr. Eggman or even make sure that he was dead so she and some Egg-Pawns had arrived on the scene to stop Sonic and friends from harming Dr. Eggman. Tails flew down to the ground and put Cosmo down just as Katherine destroyed the machine and he was surprised to see that they had company. Sonic gritted his teeth and he clenched his fists.

"Hey! We needed that you jerk!" snarled Sonic "If I'm to guess, Katherine, you're here to kill us just because we brought down Dr. Eggman and he seemingly died when the Egg-Carrier crashed! Well guess what, I'm gonna smash you to pieces!"

Sonic spin-dashed towards Katherine but the female servant bot just activated her barrier and defended herself from the attack. Sonic bounced off the barrier and he skidded to a halt. The Egg-Pawns all ran out from behind Katherine and they began shooting madly at Sonic. Sonic dodged all the attack and he spin-dashed one of them to pieces. Tails, Knuckles and Shade joined in with fighting the Egg-Pawns and they began destroying them one by one. Sonic spin-dashed, Knuckles punched, Tails tail-whipped and kicked and Shade sliced them to pieces. But there were an awful lot of Egg-Pawns around and they were shooting at the Mobians from all directions. As the Egg-Pawns attacked, Katherine spotted Sora and Cosmo standing by and wondering if they should get involved at all. Katherine decided to take them out and see how much she effects the others. Katherine advanced towards Sora and Cosmo menacingly, her sharp metal claws bared and ready to kill. She had her barrier still on and she began firing bladed discs at the two girls. Sora and Cosmo instantly ran for their lives as they were being attacked by Katherine. While Sora was capable of fighting, she didn't think she'd be able to fight a robot that had a barrier on and was firing bladed discs at her. Sora and Cosmo ran for their lives but Katherine gave chase and continued to fire at them. Unfortunately for Sora and Cosmo, they ended up running into a dead end. They had run towards an enormous rock and were now cornered against it with Katherine advancing on them menacingly, ready to fire a bladed disc into them. Sora and Cosmo pressed their backs firmly against the rock and they started trembling with fear. Sora grasped Cosmo into a hug and she shook furiously with fear as Katherine prepared to kill her and Cosmo.

"Tails! Help us!" screamed Sora frantically.

fighting off Egg-Pawns to hear her. Sora and Cosmo stared in terror as Katherine bore over them and she opened up her hands, ready to fire a bladed disc into them and kill the two girls. Sora and Cosmo closed their eyes, the blue-furred fox hugging Cosmo tightly, and they awaited their doom. But their doom was not going to come any moment now for as Katherine prepared to finish them off, a large, golden warp ring appeared directly underneath Katherine and the silent robot ended up falling straight through it. Sora and Cosmo opened their eyes just in time to see the warp ring close up just as Katherine fell through it and then reappear a few feet away from their position. Katherine ended up falling out of the warp ring and landing on the ground with a heavy crash. Katherine wasn't the only one to fall through a warp ring though, all the Egg-Pawns ended up falling through warp rings too, much to the surprise of Sonic, Tails, Knuckles and Shade. The Egg-Pawns all fell through the warp rings and the warp rings reappeared up in the air, causing the Egg-Pawns to all fall out of them and crash down on top of each other in a big pile. The Egg-Pawns all picked themselves up and started wondering what had happened. Katherine picked herself up and looked around, wondering who was responsible for the warp rings and what was going on. She spotted a cloaked figure standing nearby and since he was completely new and out of the blue, she instantly deduced that the figure was responsible for the warp rings. She and the Egg-Pawns charged towards the figure with their weapons at the ready but the figure simply opened up another warp ring and ended up tricking all the robots through the warp ring. The warp ring was set to take them all into another area of Megapolis, miles away from where Sonic and friends currently were. The robots all ran into the warp ring before they could stop themselves and the warp ring closed behind them the moment the last Egg-Pawn went through. Sonic, Tails, Knuckles and Shade gasped in amazement at this and they stared at the figure who had summoned the warp ring.

"Whoa…some guy just opened up a warp ring and…got rid of Katherine and her cronies!" cried Sonic in amazement.

"There's only one guy I know who has that many warp rings…" said Knuckles, clearly familiar with all of this.

"Same here." said Shade "You don't possibly think…that it…it…"

Then suddenly, the figure started coming towards Sonic and friends. The figure turned out to be an albino furred echidna with red eye-lids and golden eyes with black sclera. It had black markings on its forehead, the centre being somewhat diamond shaped with a hypnosis spiral in the middle, gauntlets on its arms and legs that carried warp rings and a huge, flowing black cape that met in the middle and covered its entire body when it put its arms down. Its hands and feet were bandaged and it had metal pieces on its cheeks. The figure looked quite sinister and Sonic didn't really trust it since it looked evil to him, even if it did end up helping to get rid of Katherine and the robots. Knuckles and Shade however were gobsmacked at the mere sight of this figure and they seemed to know who it was, especially Knuckles for he looked like he was about to collapse in shock. The figure stopped before Knuckles and Shade and it smiled at them.

"Greetings nephew." purred the figure in a deep, slithering voice that definitely enhanced its evil appearance further "It has been a while since I last laid my eyes upon you."

"Uncle Finitevus?!" cried Knuckles in amazement "No way it-it-it-it's actually you!"

With that said, Knuckles pounced on the stranger, name Dr. Finitevus, and hugged him tightly. Finitevus hugged him back and patted Knuckles' back. Shade was too shocked to speak whereas Sonic and Tails weren't sure what to think of this revelation. They looked at each other.

"THAT'S Knuckles' Uncle Finitevus?!" blurted Sonic "When Knuckles talked to ME about him, I depicted him being less evil looking! That guy looks like he's auditioning for a Supervillain role!"

"I'm as surprised as you are." said Tails "But we should be grateful that this "Finitevus" guy's here, he did us a favour and got rid of all the Eggman robots for us."

"Indeed he did so I assume he's not as evil as he looks." said Sonic "Hey Shade, you know this guy at all?"

"I do." said Shade, finally regaining the ability to speak after being surprised for so long "That is Dr. Finitevus, the greatest scientist in all of echidna-lore. He was one of the many scientists who worked together to raise AngelIsland into the air to avoid the coming meteor. He, like Imperator Ix, wanted the island back down but when the elders refused, he…took it more lightly then Ix did which is lucky for us. Finitevus even helped to get rid of Ix too for he warped him away after Locke froze him in a Chaos Control."

"I see." said Sonic "Well, I definitely know this guy can be trusted then. Let's meet him Tails."

"Sure thing." said Tails "Hey Sora, Cosmo! Where are you? Come over and meet Dr. Finitevus!" he called out.

Sora and Cosmo ran over to the others, sensing it was safe for them to come out now that the robots were gone and this mysterious stranger was a friend. Dr. Finitevus and Knuckles broke up the hug and Finitevus eyed Sonic, Tails, Shade, Sora and Cosmo as they stood behind Knuckles, waiting to say something to him.

"My, my, my Knuckles, you appear to have made some new friends in my absence." crooned Finitevus smoothly "And among them, I spy none other than Shade the Echidna, the daughter of that traitor Imperator Ix. How she has grown since I last saw her, she's become quite a beautiful young woman hasn't she?"

Shade blushed red with pleasure.

"Yeah, I agree." said Knuckles "Anyway uncle, Shade's on our side now. She ditched Imperator Ix and joined us so she could stand against Ix and let him know exactly what she felt about him. Me and Shade are also officially a couple too." he added, taking Shade's hand.

"And we're all too happy to be one too." said Shade, smiling lovingly at Knuckles.

"Well this certainly is a surprising turn of events isn't it?" chuckled Dr. Finitevus "I leave for ten years and my nephew is now in a relationship with Ix's daughter? What a surprise this is. I'm happy to hear this Knuckles, especially since Shade is on our side now it seems. If only Ix had her common sense…" he added, gritting his teeth as if just thinking about Imperator Ix made him want to snarl.

"Well Knuckles inspired me to betray Ix actually." said Shade "I wouldn't have stood up to him without Ix. I am forever grateful to Knuckles for opening my eyes."

"You're always welcome Shade." said Knuckles brightly "So anyway, enough about us, allow me to introduce you to these guys." added Knuckles "These are Sonic, Tails, Cosmo and Sora." he said, pointing to each of them as he said their names "They're all Royal Fighters and we're good friends so you can trust them, especially Sonic that little hot-head."

Finitevus looked at the others and he smiled at them, clearly delighted to hear that they were members of the Royal Fighters and one of them was Sonic himself.

"What a fortuitous day this is." he said brightly "I reunite with my nephew and now I meet a few members of the esteemed Royal Fighters Service, especially the world famous Sonic the Hedgehog. It is my dearest pleasure so meet you all."

He held his hand out for Sonic to shake to which Sonic did so rather uncertainly. The others seemed more happy to greet Finitevus though, especially Sora and Cosmo since he saved their lives earlier.

"Thank you for saving mine and Cosmo's life sir." said Sora "We were about to be slaughtered until you got rid of Katherine with that warp ring."

"You are most welcome my child." said Finitevus in a friendly tone of voice "I am not one to let innocent lives be needlessly slaughtered by horrible machines of violent tendencies after all."

"Yeah, Eggman robots like to attack anyone they get their hands on." said Sonic "So Finitevus, it's great to meet you an all but I have one thing to say to you, must you look so evil?"

"Sonic!" snarled Knuckles through gritted teeth.

"I beg your pardon? Does my appearance repulse you in some way?" said Finitevus innocently, wondering what Sonic meant by what he had just asked.

"Not really, it's just well…no offence but you…look kinda creepy." said Sonic "What's with the bandages and the evil eyes and the black markings and the big flowing cape? I really hate guys in capes, they're usually evil and I should know, I've fought a few villains who have worn capes before."

"I apologize most dearly for my appearance cannot be helped." said Finitevus in an eerily calm manner "I was born like this and my sense of attire just comes from my own personal preferences. A lot of people on Angel Island found it hard to trust me for my appearance made them feel uncomfortable about me. I assure you though, I am not as evil as I look."

"Yes, he isn't!" growled Knuckles "Now Sonic, you say sorry to Uncle Finitevus right now! You should be ashamed of yourself for being so rude to him!"

"OK, OK! I'm sorry!" cried Sonic frantically "I should have been more considerate! Sorry!"

"Your apologies are whole-heartedly accepted young man." said Finitevus, taking all of this pretty well.

"You're lucky Finitevus is a forgiving man Sonic." said Knuckles through gritted teeth "So…" he said, turning to Finitevus "Where have you been uncle? I haven't seen you for ten years."

"I know, I have been gone for quite a while haven't I?" mused Finitevus "After Imperator Ix was banished from Angel Island, I decided to take my scientific research to a whole new level. I decided to study the one thing that a lot of people didn't dare study…the void. I super-charged a warp ring and went into the void. Unfortunately…I ended up being a prisoner of the gate-keeper of the void himself…Ixis Naugus. He captured me and subjected me to his games of torture. I tried to escape but to no avail and it took me a while before I managed to escape. I finally escaped last year and when I realized I had been gone for nine years, I decided to do a lot of research on the world to bring me up to speed and help me get back into the swing of things so that I know what I've missed out on and what is happening in the world. The void…left quite an impact on me and I decided to remain hidden until I got over my shock. I didn't want to return to you in such a frenzied state after all. It took me a while but I have fully recovered from my time in the void and thus, I set out to find you and here I am."

"Whoa…you've been through quite a lot uncle." said Knuckles "I'm glad you're OK though. As for the void, Ix is currently in there now."

"He is?" said Finitevus in surprise "When did that happen dear nephew?"

"Last year, Imperator Ix returned with the Nocturnus Clan to take over Angel Island." explained Knuckles "They corrupted the Master Emerald and made it a Dark Chaos Energy powerhouse that only he could control. I got Shade to see the light and she helped me and the Royal Fighters defeat Imperator Ix and I sealed him in the void with a Chaos Control."

"So the Imperator will NEVER be able to bother anyone on Angel Island ever again." purred Finitevus delightedly "How wonderful. So, would it be OK for me to visit the home place of Sonic the Hedgehog at all?" he suddenly asked "I'd very much like to meet the rest of your team and the Queen of New Mobotropolis herself. It'd be an absolute honour to meet these people."

"Uh…sure, you're welcome to visit." said Sonic "Hand me one of your warp rings and I'll warp us over to New Mobotropolis."

Finitevus took a warp ring off of his arm and he handed it over to Sonic. Sonic flicked the warp ring up into the air and the warp ring extended to several times its size. It opened up a portal back to New Mobotropolis and everybody quickly stepped through it. The warp ring vanished, leaving no trace of its existence as it disappeared.

Back in New Mobotropolis, Queen Sally Acorn was sitting comfortably in her throne and patiently awaiting the return of the research team that she had sent out to find out what they can about the streak of light that had taken Sonic and was now the current mystery of Mobius. Sally was enjoying the relative peace and quiet she was having at the moment and was just sitting back, admiring her beautiful throne room and thinking of happier times from her childhood and before Marik the Martian killed her parents. She had come a long way since then. She was now a queen, prematurely, and was slowly becoming more active on the battlefield. She had learned some fighting moves mostly to defend herself but as time went on, she decided she needed an actual fighting prowess so she had started training more callously and even gave herself a weapon, a bladed staff. She'd even changed her outfit too and even on a slow day such as today, she was still wearing the new outfit, (which was a blue crop-top with a white stripe down the middle, blue vest, blue shorts, blue boots with white stripes on them and black fingerless gloves) she had changed into before fighting Count Nyder at the time of the Martian invasion*. Sally was quite proud of herself for becoming more active in battle and she looked forward to the next time she'd be fighting evil with the Royal Fighters. She was setting herself up to be a most excellent queen indeed and her image would be an inspiration to many, as well as badge of honour for the Acorn lineage. Her mother and father would be so proud to see their little daughter with so much honour and valour in her now.

"Oh mom…oh dad…how I wish you were still here to see me now…" sighed Sally sadly as she began to think of her parents "I miss you so much and I wish you could see what I've become now. Oh well, at least you're at peace and your killer, Marik, is in hell where he belongs. The void was the perfect place to exile him, especially since that traitor to the Acorn Family, Ixis Naugus, is running the place now…"

Her thoughts were suddenly interrupted by warp ring opening up in the middle of the room and Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Shade, Cosmo and Sora all stepped through it, startling the squirrel queen and nearly making her leap out of her seat. Sally beamed happily to see that her research team was back and she greeted them eagerly by stepping out of her throne and walking up to them.

"Hello everybody! You're back!" cried Sally happily "So how did the research mission go then?"

"Not too well Queenie." said Sonic disappointedly "Some Eggman robots led by Katherine came in from nowhere and they destroyed our machine and attacked us. We didn't find out anything before then either so we've come home with nothing."

"Oh…that's too bad." said Sally "I was hoping we could find out a bit about the streak of light we've recently had. Oh well, there's always next time. Now you're all home, I suggest you all enjoy yourselves before Dr. Eggman's robots attack again. He maybe gone, or so we hope, but his robots are obviously still functioning and his servant bot's obviously leading them in his absence. Who knows when Katherine will decide to attack and get revenge on us for what happened to Eggman?"

"Indeed." said Sonic.

"By the way your majesty, before we go, there's someone I want you to meet." said Knuckles "Allow me to introduce you to my Uncle Finitevus."

With that said, Knuckles stepped to the side and revealed Dr. Finitevus standing behind him. Finitevus had decided to keep himself hidden and let Knuckles introduce him to Sally for him. As soon as Sally caught sight of Finitevus, she gasped in surprise and took a step back for his rather eerie appearance made her feel very nervous all of the sudden.

"Oh…um…hello?" said Sally wobbly "How…um…nice it is to…uh… meet you sir."

"Greetings my queen." said Finitevus in a slithering voice that made her spine tingle "It is my utmost pleasure to be meeting the Queen of New Mobotropolis herself."

He stepped forward and knelt down before Sally. He took her hand and politely kissed it to which Sally sort of half-chuckled at and half-shuddered at, at the same time given she wasn't sure if she should be flattered or terrified by this stranger in her throne room.

"The…pleasure's all mine Mr. um…Finitevus I believe your name is." said Sally.

"It is indeed." said Finitevus "And please do not be alarmed at my appearance my child, I assure you this dark appearance of mine actually hides a genuine heart of good and honour. You need not fear me, especially since I am a relative of one of your allies…" he added, motioning over to Knuckles.

"Oh, that's alright then." said Sally, settling down a little now she knew that Finitevus wasn't a man to be afraid of "I'm sorry I looked frightened by you, it was very rude of me to be so inconsiderate…"

"Please your majesty, I get that all the time." sighed Finitevus "You do not need to apologize for your reaction to my very presence."

"OK then, thank you." said Sally "So…you're Knuckles' uncle are you? Funny he's never mentioned you before…"

"I have been gone for quite a while." explained Finitevus "I was away studying something and I was gone for a long time. I arrived back last year and spent most of my time researching Mobius to see what I've missed out on in my absence. I've learned much of what has happened since I've been gone, particularly the Royal Fighters Service, the crusade against the scornful Dr. Eggman and even the recent alien invasions. My compensation for making it through them all to all the members of the R.F.S. by the way." he added with a polite bow.

"Oh I see." said Sally "And your compensation is appreciated, thank you. We have been through quite a lot recently. Looking back on it all, it amazes me to no end that we're still alive and walking upon this earth right now."

"It must be most amazing to feel this way my queen." said Finitevus understandably "Looking back on my nine year trip through the void, I'm amazed I managed to survive that."

"You've been through the void?" blurted Sally "Oh my goodness! Thank god you made it out alive, very few people can survive that hell-hole!"

"I know, I found that out the hard way…" muttered Finitevus "After I escaped, I spent most of last year just recovering from the experience, as well as getting up to speed on what I've been missing out on in my absence. And now here I am, reunited with my nephew and meeting a few notorious members of the Royal Fighters Service and the very queen they serve faithfully."

"You're not the only one who's been reunited with a relative after being gone for so long…" put in Sora, putting her hand on Tails' shoulder.

"So Sally, Uncle Finitevus is AngelIsland's greatest scientist and he helped to get rid of Imperator Ix when he tried to lower AngelIsland years ago." explained Knuckles "I was thinking that…maybe he could help us investigate the tear in the sky that we're all edgy about."

Finitevus seemed rather surprised to hear the words "tear in the sky" and he looked at Knuckles, puzzlement as clear on his face as his trademark black markings.

"Tear…in the sky?" he mused "Whatever do you mean nephew?"

"A couple of days back, a weird streak of light appeared in the sky and it sucked Sonic up and took him to another dimension." explained Tails "We got him back by having Shadow use a Chaos Emerald to warp to said other dimension and find him. Apparently, his evil brother Scourge and his girlfriend Fiona were also taken by a streak of light and that happened during the Devatron invasion, which is WEEKS ago now. We're really worried on what all of this may mean and thus, we're trying to find out what the streak of light, or "tear in the sky" whichever you prefer, is. I've got the theory that it's a random rift in the space-time continuum but there must be a logical theory and possibility behind it, it can't just be random. There has to be a reason for it."

"Hmm…I see." said Finitevus smoothly "Well, given my scientific intellect, I may be able to provide a helping hand in this situation. I will help you to figure out what this "tear in the sky" is all about. I humbly agree with you that there has to be a logical reasoning behind it Tails, everything happens, be it with rhyme or reason or a bit of both. Nothing ever happens with no rhyme or reason behind it after all."

"Yeah." said Tails "That's what we were doing before Eggman's robots interfered, we were studying the landscape to see if a streak of light will appear and see if we can find out what it is. Pity they destroyed our machine…"

"A most unfortunate outcome indeed." said Finitevus sadly "Well, maybe I could help you to build a new one and contribute to your research."

"That'll be swell Finitevus but the queen says we can just make the most of the day for now." said Tails "We'll study again tomorrow and maybe then, you could join us in our research efforts."

"Very well." said Finitevus "So nephew, would you and Sonic care to give me a tour of this most grand city?" he asked, turning to Knuckles "I'd very much like to see NewMobotropolis in all its glory."

"Sure uncle, I'll be happy to show you around." said Knuckles "But since this is Sonic's home city, he'll be a better tour guide so it's good you're inviting him too. Hey Sonic, you up for giving my uncle a tour of the city?" he asked.

"Don't see why not. Finny's on our side and anyone who's on my good side is deserving of a tour of my humble home." said Sonic casually "Come on Finitevus, I'll show you around the whole city if you like."

"That would be most delightful indeed Sonic." said Finitevus graciously.

"You have a nice tour Finitevus." said Sally kindly "It's been nice to meet you and I look forward to seeing you putting your scientific knowledge to good use when we next start studying for tears in the sky."

Finitevus bowed politely to Sally and he walked off with Sonic and Knuckles leading him out of the throne room. Tails, Sora and Cosmo went with them for they decided to join in with the tour of the city. As everybody walked out of the throne room, Sally sat down in her throne and thought to herself about Finitevus and what a good impression he seemed to be setting for himself.

"Well…first Tails get his sister back and now Knuckles gets his uncle back." she said to herself "Nice to see families coming back together lately, give us something nice to think about after all we've been through lately. I wonder if Finitevus will want to join the R.F.S.

at all…?" she wondered, putting a finger to her lips in thought "It certainly would be nice to have another scientist in our ranks. I wonder how good Finitevus is when he gets down to his science…"

Sally had a feeling she was going to see soon enough what Finitevus can do and it'd be sooner than she expected…

"OK Finitevus, you've just seen Castle Acorn so now let's begin this tour by showing you it's next-door neighbour." began Sonic "Just next to Castle Acorn, you will see none other than the Royal Fighters Service headquarters itself, Royal HQ."

He pointed to Royal HQ which stood proudly beside Castle Acorn as it always did. Sonic decided to start off the tour of New Mobotropolis by showing Finitevus around the rest of Castle Acorn and now they had finished with the castle, he felt that Royal HQ was the next best place to show Finitevus around. Finitevus looked at the base and observed its appearance, taking note of everything he looked at. Finitevus often liked to analyze what he was looking at and take note of what he could see and whatnot (he's a scientist, scientists like to analyze everything). He was quite impressed with Royal HQ's appearance.

"A very potent looking base indeed." he said "I do wonder if the insides match what the outside has to offer."

"Oh you'll love the inside of Royal HQ very much uncle." said Knuckles "Especially the lab, that's one of Royal HQ's most important bases after all."

"This base has a lab does it?" purred Finitevus "I look forward to seeing this lab."

"You'll see more than just the lab Finitevus." said Sonic, opening the door and letting everybody in "You'll get to meet the rest of our team too. I'll let you meet them first while we're looking through Royal HQ."

So the Mobians all walked into Royal HQ and Sonic led Finitevus down the corridor into the rest room. He opened the door and walked into the rest room. There, he saw that all of his other friends were here and all busy chatting to one another. Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Ruben the Water Panther, Espio the Chameleon, Vector the Crocodile and Charmy Bee were all here and all having a nice conversation with each other. They stopped chatting the moment Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Cosmo, Shade and Sora walked into the room though and they all smiled happily at the sight of them.

"Hey blue-dude and crew! Good to see you all back!" cried Mandy happily.

"So did my handsome hero find out anything at all?" asked Amy curiously.

"We didn't find out anything about the streak of light." said Sonic sadly "But we did find somebody…"

He stood to the side and allowed Finitevus to step forward and reveal himself. The albino echidna smiled at everybody whereas the Royal Fighters all looked at him funny as if they were staring at a talking cactus that's also wearing a sombrero. Geoffrey in particular seemed to have a rather disapproving look on his face as he saw Finitevus.

"Um…Sonic? Who's the weirdo in the cape?" asked Mandy with her face screwed up in disgust.

"Mandy! Don't be rude!" snapped Knuckles "This is my Uncle Finitevus and he's not happy to be called a weirdo so you'd better apologize to him now!"

"Knuckles please, I am used to insults like that nowadays." muttered Finitevus in annoyance "I grew up with comments like that directed at me."

"Oh sorry, I just can't stand it when people say things like that at you just because of your…distinctive appearance." said Knuckles.

"It is quite alright nephew, I appreciate your consideration for me."

said Finitevus softly.

Mandy stood up from her chair and walked up to Finitevus.

"Oh I'm so, so sorry for my comment sir." said Mandy "I should have been more considerate, really I should."

"Do not fret my child, it's alright." said Finitevus "No offence has been given to me. So, am I right to assume that you are all Royal Fighters and the team mates of Sonic the Hedgehog?"

"We sure are!" declared Amy excitedly "We're all the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters! My name's Amy Rose, soon to be Sonic's girlfriend. It's nice to meet you Mr…um…Fin…it…how do you pronounce that name of yours?"

"Fin-it-TEE-vus." explained Finitevus.

"Thank you." said Amy "It's nice to meet you Mr. Finitevus, especially since you're related to Knuckles. I can trust a relative of any good friend of mine I can." she added with a very bright smile on her lovely little face.

"My name's Cream the Rabbit Mr. Finitevus. How do you do?" Cream introduced in her usual polite attitude.

"My name's Mandy Mouse." said Mandy.

"I'm Wilson the Dog and I'm Mandy's husband." said Wilson, putting his arm around his wife as he said that.

"Howdy sir, ah'm Bunnie Rabbot." introduced Bunnie "Ah don't believe ah need to explain why ah'm called that." she giggled, flexing her robot arm and legs."

"I'm Geoffrey St. John." said Geoffrey, his face still rather grim and distrustful looking to Finitevus given his trust issues and how dodgy Finitevus looked.

"My name's Ruben the Water Panther." said Ruben, bowing politely "It's an honour meeting the uncle of Knuckles the Echidna."

"And we're Team Chaotix." said Vector, pointing to himself, Espio and Charmy "I'm Vector, this is Espio and this is Charmy. If you need us to find anything then give us a call and we'll be right over."

"So, you're Knuckles' uncle are you?" asked Espio "What do you do Finitevus?"

"I'm a scientist and I am among the best scientist on Angel Island." explained Dr. Finitevus "No mind on AngelIsland is as brilliant as mine and there is nothing that I cannot build or repair."

"Cool. Maybe you could fix our toaster since Vector's too incompetent to fix it after it broke the other day." said Charmy, snickering a little at what he said.

Vector shot a death glare at Charmy and he bared his teeth. Could he help it if he wasn't very good at fixing things? He sure wished Charmy would stop bringing up stuff like that, it kinda wounded Vector's pride and it didn't take much to wound Vector's pride what with him having quite a high opinion of himself. Finitevus however didn't seem to have noticed Charmy's remark for he gleamed over it and spoke to everybody.

"It is my utmost pleasure to meet you all." he said "I've heard many good things about you all, especially on what you've been through lately."

"Yeah, we've had quite a tough time lately." said Geoffrey "We've dealt with three different alien invasions, all not long after each other, and we've just recently brought Eggman down and he seemingly died when his ship crashed. We're making the most of the peace while we've got it at this moment."

"Very nice." said Finitevus "Anyways, I have been apprised on a so-called "tear in the sky" that you all are concerned about and I am going to join your research team in finding out what the cause behind them is and why they're happening."

"Oh cool." said Ruben brightly "It'll be nice to have another scientist, especially a good one, helping us out on this research mission. I bet you'll do really well if you're as good as you say you are sir."

"Thank you little boy." said Finitevus kindly.

"We're not going to be doing anymore research today though guys and girls." said Sonic "Katherine and some Eggman robots destroyed the machine we had for the job and it'll take a while before we can get a new one ready. Sally's letting us have the rest of the day off so we're just gonna kick back and relax."

"I see." said Amy "Well that just means me and you can do a lot of catching up Sonic, especially on our love life. I'm still eager to have a date with you since the last two we had got interrupted."

Sonic groaned at the very idea. Why had he ever decided to try and give Amy a chance and see if things will spark between him and her? Why couldn't he just say he'd decided that romance wasn't his thing and right about now, he wasn't ready for love yet? He'd say it some day, but not now since he didn't want to upset Amy in front of a guest.

"So anyways, you ready to see the rest of Royal HQ Finitevus?" asked Sonic tightly, hoping to get away from Amy before things could get uncomfortable "Your tour's only just begun."

Finitevus nodded and he waved goodbye to everybody. Everybody else waved goodbye to him and then Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Shade, Cosmo and Sora took Finitevus out of the room and led him off to Royal HQ's laboratory. The moment he left, the others began to talk to each other about him.

"Well, that Finitevus guy seems awfully nice." said Amy "I wonder if he'll join the Royal Fighters Service at all?"

"I hope he does." said Cream "You know what they say Miss Rose, the more the merrier. It'd be nice to have another person joining our team and expanding our forces."

"I agree love." said Geoffrey grimly "But I don't trust that Finitevus. He looks way too shifty to me."

"Oh Geoffrey, don't you DARE start that nonsense again!" snapped Mandy crossly "I know you have trust issues but you can't just assume things about Finitevus because he "looks shifty"! I think he looks kinda creepy too but he's shown us that he's not as evil as his appearance suggests. He seems like a really OK dude to me."

"I know Mandy-girl but his appearance just really gives me bad vibes about him." said Geoffrey, shuddering "That cape, the black eyes, the bandaged hands and feet…that just doesn't look normal to me, especially on a good person."

"Maybe Finitevus just has a unique sense of fashion." suggested Wilson "And the black eyes, I don't think he can help that. He was probably born this way."

"Ah agree, same with the black markings on his head." added Bunnie "As for his hands and feet, ah think they're just bandaged because he's hidin' somethin' horrible or they're recovering from a bad injury. Ah don't think they're bandaged like that all the time."

"Maybe." said Geoffrey glumly "But I've got my eye on that blighter. I'm sure he's a good guy, what with him being related to Knuckles and all, but still it's worth making sure there's no foul play with him."

"Fair enough Geoffrey, just don't upset Knuckles if you're going to do that." said Wilson "We don't want to upset that spike-fisted hard-hitter do we?"

Geoffrey shook his head. Upsetting Knuckles was not a wise move at all so he was going to make sure that when keeping an eye on Finitevus, he didn't get on Knuckles' bad side at all. As for Sonic and the others, they had led Finitevus to the lab. Sonic opened the door and let himself in. But as he was doing that, Finitevus did something strange. Instead of going into the lab with them, he snuck off down the corridor and headed off to the door to the base. He went through the door and exited Royal HQ. The moment he left Royal HQ, he snapped his fingers and summoned a warp ring from his arm. The warp ring expanded to several times its size and he stepped through it instantly. The warp ring vanished into thin air, leaving no trace of him or itself behind. Back in the lab, Sonic and the others walked inside and Sonic began talking.

"And here we are Finitevus, the Royal HQ laboratory." said Sonic cheerfully "You'll love it here, it's very hi-tech and has all that good science-y stuff that you scientists love so much…"

Sonic turned around and he noticed that Finitevus was gone. The hedgehog looked perplexed to see this and he put a hand to his head in wonder.

"Hey…where's Finitevus?" asked Sonic "He's gone."

"That is most puzzling, why did he just vanish like that?" asked Shade "I thought he wanted a tour of the city."

"Maybe he realized he had something important to do and warped off to get it done?" suggested Cosmo "Or maybe he wanted to see AngelIsland again for the first time in years and has gone there?"

"But why would he go without telling us?" asked Knuckles "This isn't in Uncle Finitevus' character at all. I hope he's OK, he did say that the void left a rather bad impact on him after all. I hope the void's not getting to him and making him act weird."

"Well he's got warp rings on him so I'm sure he'll come back to us soon." said Sonic "If he doesn't then I think we should go over and see if he's on Angel Island and see if he's OK."

Knuckles nodded agreeably. He really didn't want Finitevus to be feeling funny just shortly after being reunited with him after ten years. He hoped that his uncle was OK and that he would be back soon…

…but Knuckles was about to get the shock of his life for Dr. Finitevus had warped himself to Angel Island and was about to do something terrible. A warp ring opened up just above the Master Emerald shrine and Finitevus jumped through it. He landed on top of the Master Emerald, feeling the warm energy the emerald contained underneath his feet, and he smiled a devil's smile to himself as he looked at the Master Emerald he now stood upon.

"All too easy…" he purred evilly to himself "Fooling those simple-minded idiots into thinking I am innocent party was just as easy as I expected it to be. Now thanks to them, I know where they live and where my master has been banished…"

He then took a warp ring off of his arm and placed it atop the Master Emerald, hopping off of the giant green gem as he did so. The Master Emerald's energy started to feed directly into the warp ring, causing it to glow a brilliant green colour as it did so. Finitevus was using the Master Emerald to super-charge his warp ring. He had lost his original Super Warp Ring after escaping the void but since he has plenty of warp rings (sixteen in total, four on each limb), he could easily get a replacement. After a minute or two, the warp ring was finally super charged by the Master Emerald and Finitevus eagerly grabbed it. He cackled maniacally at his now super-charged warp ring and he flicked it up into the air instantly, cackling as he did so.

"Now my master…time for you to come back to Mobius…and to Angel Island!" cried Finitevus in a crazed fashion as the Super Warp Ring opened up and a portal to the void opened up inside the ring.

This is why Finitevus needed to super-charge his warp ring, so he could open up a portal to the void. As for why he needed to open up a portal to the void, that answer was about to come for as soon as the warp ring opened up, something jumped out of it and landed on top of the Master Emerald, cackling maniacally as it did so. The warp ring closed up the moment the figure managed to get out of the void and Finitevus slipped it onto his arm. He smiled gleefully at the figure that now stood upon the Master Emerald, his evil laughter booming around the island as he cackled away. The figure was none other than the imposing and invincible Imperator Ix! Finitevus had opened up a portal to the void purely for the purpose of bringing Imperator Ix back to Angel Island! This is why Finitevus needed to reunite with Knuckles, so he could find out where Imperator Ix was since he had a feeling his nephew would know the whereabouts of the mad echidna and since Knuckles told him Ix was in the void, he knew where he'd need to open up a Super Warp Ring. Ix clenched his fists and Chaos Energy started crackling around him as he cackled gleefully. It was as if the Chaos Energy was feeling as excited as he was and was dancing around him for joy. Imperator Ix threw his arms up delightedly.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! Let no joyful voice be heard! Let nobody look up to the sky with hope! And let this day be cursed for those who witness the return of IMPERATOR IX!" thundered Ix, his voice booming around the island like a terrible thunder storm.

"Master. It is good to have you back on the island you so rightfully deserve to rule." said Finitevus, bowing down loyally to the echidna in the armour and cape.

"You miserable wretched failure!" snarled Imperator Ix, glowering at Finitevus with his cold, ice blue eyes.

He then suddenly lashed out and seized the cloaked doctor by the neck and hoisted him up to his height. Finitevus gagged and choked loudly as Ix began to throttle him and he struggled in the Imperator's grasp.

"I ordered you to prepare Angel Island for my return!" bellowed Ix "The island was not prepared at all and I ended up getting defeated by the guardian and his friends and being banished to the void! You were supposed to get rid of the guardian and all the other guardians before me and the Nocturnus Clan made our takeover once I returned! Instead, I had to get rid of them all myself and Knuckles ended up goading my daughter into betrayal and getting me banished to the void! And also, you were supposed to be keeping me updated on Angel Island during the time I was sent away by you, which if you remember was just to save me from arrestment and to help me recover from the Chaos Control I was trapped in, and you didn't keep me updated in the slightest! Give me one good reason why I should keep you alive you worthless excuse for a minion!"

"Ack…I apologize for not…sticking to the plan master!" croaked Finitevus "Gack…hurk…I know what I was supposed to be doing! I just…ack…got fascinated by the void…and wanted to investigate it…and see if we could use it…to our advantage in anyway! Wheeze…my little science mission…just took longer than it…should have! I only just escaped last year and…I've spent most of my…time since the…recovering from the experience…ack!...and trying to find you! Thanks to my manipulation…and me being in Knuckles'…good books…I found out where you were…hurk…and now I've brought you back!"

Ix took in all of Finitevus' words and he dropped the doctor on the ground, making him gasp and splutter for breath as the air in his lungs began to return to him. Ix kept his steely gaze fixed on Finitevus and he folded his arms.

"I see." he said "I assure you though, the void will be of no use to us in this battle. The void cannot be controlled or used in anyway. However…we could banish Knuckles there as we take over Angel Island."

"Indeed we could master." said Finitevus with an evil smile on his face "But may I suggest something better than just taking control back of Angel Island? I think we should expand our empire to more than just Angel Island. We deserve more power than just control over a measly floating island. That and more than just Knuckles needs to pay for this anarchy that was carried out against you."

"I agree apprentice." said Ix grimly "Those disgusting Royal Fighters helped Knuckles to stop me and throw me into the void. They must all pay too! I shall make Angel Island my own and then take over the residence of the Royal Fighters!"

"Then you will delight in knowing that I know where the Royal Fighters are currently living." purred Finitevus darkly "They live in a city called "New Mobotropolis" and I know exactly where it is…"

"Do you?" said Ix delightedly "Well then let us go over to New Mobotropolis and conquer it! Make those Royal Fighters pay for contributing to my exile!"

"Indeed master." said Finitevus happily "And Knuckles & Shade are over at NewMobotropolis too so we can make them suffer too."

"Even better!" cried Ix delightedly "Let us go over immediately and take over the city! We're bringing AngelIsland with us too as a sign of our tyranny and oppression. It'll strike plenty of fear into the heroes for sure…"

"I'm onboard with this idea master." said Finitevus, climbing up the Master Emerald shrine and walking up to the Master Emerald "And I shall perform the Chaos Control since I know exactly where we need to go."

Finitevus stood upon the Master Emerald and he yelled at the top of his voice "Chaos…CONTROL!" The Master Emerald glowed a brilliant green flash of light as he activated the Chaos Control. The light expanded to all around Angel Island and then suddenly, in the blink of an eye…Angel Island in it's entirety completely vanished into thin air! Angel Island was just…gone in a flash of light! The Chaos Control had taken Angel Island and now it was going all the way over to New Mobotropolis where Finitevus and Imperator Ix could begin a most terrifying takeover…a VERY terrifying takeover indeed. What had been a day of good fortune was now going to become one of the scariest days of Sonic's life…

So how about that then? Dr. Finitevus from Archie Sonic fame is in this story now! And what a debut for him since he's brought Imperator Ix back from the void! Will he and Ix take over New Mobotropolis? Will Sonic and friends be able to stop the two albino echidnas? Or is the end about to come for them...?

Hey speedox12, Prowerpower85, Alma Von Arena and BlackStormNomad, are you all still enjoying the story? If so, what do you think to the recent chapters and how was this one? Was it good?

Thrown into the Void Part 1

Story 146: Thrown Into The Void Part 1: The Takeover

"Hurry up Sonic! Sandy the Ferret's concert is about to begin soon!" cried Amy Rose eagerly, dragging Sonic by the arm and into the bustling crowds that were building up inside the New Mobotropolis Coliseum.

"OK, OK, OK! Calm down Amy! I'm only just beside you! I'm not gonna be late!" sighed Sonic in annoyance as he was dragged through the crowds of people by Amy. If Amy dragged him any harder than his arm might detach from his shoulder.

A good few minutes had passed since the rather sinister but seemingly good Dr. Finitevus had vanished from New Mobotropolis during his tour of the city and now Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends were going to a concert that was being hosted in the New Mobotropolis Coliseum. The concert was hosted by the popular rock star, Sandy the Ferret, and the concert was being made to celebrate Dr. Eggman's demise (or so they thought). Sonic and friends were ecstatic to see the concert and right now, it was about to begin so the Royal Fighters were all taking their places in the crowd and awaiting for this blast of a concert to begin. Hopefully, this one wouldn't be abruptly halted like it was when the Devatrons first came to Mobius and began their attempted takeover of the planet several weeks ago. It didn't seem like this concert was going to be ruined though. Eggman is dead (at least that's what the Mobians have concluded since his ship crashed and his body was never found, nor did they witness any escape pods or anything coming from the ship when it crash), no villains were at large at the moment for most of them (Scourge, Fiona, Team Diamond and others) are incarcerated and ones like Blizzard and Ravage are in hiding and no aliens were invading or even coming to Mobius right now. So at this minute, there was near-to-nothing to ruin this concert. It seemed that things would go without a hitch for once. Sonic was sure hoping that this would be the case since as much as he loved adventure and such, even he didn't mind having a quiet moment for a change. He was hoping to make the most of the relative peace he and his friends had before anything bad started happening again so he was hoping that this concert would go well and nothing would ruin it. In the crowd, Sonic and Amy managed to make it to the front row, which was reserved specially for the Royal Fighters given their rather renowned status and place in the city. They weren't in a row of seats, they were among the people standing on the grass and looking up at the stage while more people were piled up in the seats further back. The Royal Fighters were allowed to stand up front since they were deserving of what is often considered to be the best view of the concert. As Sonic and Amy took their spaces next to Tails the Fox and Knuckles the Echidna, they looked up at the stage and Amy beamed happily at the sight of it.

"Oooh, I'm so excited!" she squealed "I'm right here at the New Mobotropolis Coliseum with my handsome hero Sonic the Hedgehog and just about to watch a brilliant concert by Sandy the Ferret, one of my all time favourite singers ever! Eeeeeee! I can barely contain myself!"

"I'm glad you're excited Amy." said Sonic, holding Amy's hand to settle her down "I'm looking forward to this too, especially as it's all about us finally being rid of Dr. Eggman. Although one part of me tells me that he's still alive and that our battle isn't over yet…" he murmured, his face falling as he thought about Eggman just suddenly emerging from nowhere and wrecking the entire concert.

"Oh come on Sonic, we all know Eggman's dead!" snapped Amy "We all saw what happened to him! His ship crashed down and we saw no escape pods ejecting from the ship so he can't possibly have escaped from the ship and made it out alive! How can you possibly doubt he's dead Sonic?"

"Well it's just…Eggman often comes back when we think we've defeated him." noted Sonic "And I have a feeling that this'll be another case of him coming back just when we think we've defeated him once and for all. I WANT to believe Eggman's gone forever but I just can't bring myself to think that because I have this doubting feeling that he really is gone for good."

"That's too bad Sonic." said Tails pityingly "Well, please don't worry about Eggman. Just enjoy this concert and party on with everybody. We earned this celebration after all we've done recently."

"Yeah Sonic, forget about Eggman and just enjoy the concert." said Amy, putting her arms around Sonic and squeezing him affectionately "We're all here to have a good time after all."

"OK, OK, I'll not let my worries get to me." said Sonic, casually pushing Amy away from him "I'll just enjoy this celebration of our victory and us finally being rid of Eggman, even if I don't yet feel that way. Say Knuckles, you still concerned for Finitevus at all since he hasn't come back yet?" he asked, noting that Knuckles still seemed to be somewhat concerned about something.

"I am a little Sonic but Finitevus hasn't been gone for too long so I'm not too worried about him." said Knuckles "Besides, it's kinda good he left since he doesn't really do music, especially concerts. He wouldn't have wanted to stick around for this."

"I see." said Sonic "Still, would be nice to show Finitevus the coliseum along with the rest of the city before the concert started. Oh well, we've got next time when he decides to come back."

"I'm still wondering why he blatantly left us without even telling us he was going." said Shade the Echidna, shaking her head a little "I don't know Finitevus as well as you do Knuckles but I think it seems a bit strange for him to just blatantly leave like that."

"It is Shade but I'm sure Uncle Finitevus will tell us what the deal was when he comes back." said Knuckles, putting an arm around Shade and pulling her close to him "Maybe he wanted to deal with something privately or whatever. I'm sure it's nothing bad."

"I'm sure it isn't too." said Shade, holding Knuckles' hand and nuzzling his cheek with her cheek.

Knuckles smiled at his girlfriend and he returned the nuzzle. As the two echidnas enjoyed the hug they were giving each other, the concert stage began to light up brightly and Sandy the Ferret herself strode proudly up onto the stage. The ferret was now wearing a long, flowing purple dress that sparkled like diamonds on the illuminated stage she stood proudly upon and the dress was accompanied with a lavender coloured sash. Sandy held her arms out to the sides and beamed happily as the crowd started to explode in tumultuous applause over her. Cameras clicked and flashed as photographs were taken by the dozen of her and people cheered and screamed her name, clearly delighted to see the rock star again. Sandy bowed graciously to the crowd and blew some kisses out to everybody, marvelling in the applause she was receiving. This is why she loved being a rock star, she loved all the attention she received from her adoring fans. Sandy stepped up to the microphone and she spoke into it.

"Hello people of New Mobotropolis! I'm the rockin' rock-star you all know and love, Sandy the Ferret, and I'm here to begin my newest concert!" she shrieked into the microphone "Are you ready to rock everybody?!"

Her response was an uproar of applause that was so loud that even the demons in the pits of hell would have to bang upon the ceiling and start moaning at the crowd to keep it down up there. Sandy continued.

"Well then let's get this party STARTED!" she bellowed loudly "But first, we have a special introduction for this concert. Her royal highness herself, Queen Sally Acorn, is going to deliver a speech that will set the tone of this concert for the next couple of hours so let's give it up for our beloved queen everybody! Go ballistic for Queen Sally Acorn!"

The crowd cheered at the top of their voices, especially the Royal Fighters, as Sally stood shyly out of the crowd headed towards the stage. Her lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx cheered happily for her best friend and was eagerly awaiting for Sally to begin her speech. The spot light shone over Sally as she stepped up onto the stage and walked over to the microphone. Sandy respectfully stood aside and curtseyed to Sally out of respect for her. Sally smiled and she stood in front of the microphone. She tapped on it to see if it was working. A boom of reverberation rung around the coliseum as she tapped it, meaning the microphone was on and working. The crowd fell silent as Sally put her hands behind her back and prepared to start speaking, eager to hear what she was going to say. Many members were staring in amazement at Sally's change in attire, taking note that it seemed strange for her to be dressed in a crop-top, open vest and shorts. Sally cleared her throat and spoke into the microphone.

"I would like to start off by saying that I am honoured to be the queen of such a wonderful city full of wonderful people." said Sally, showing no signs of anxiousness or discomfort as she spoke "And I am especially honoured to be the woman in charge of the Royal Fighters Service. They have risked life and limb for all of us and it is thanks to them that we can enjoy this magnificent concert and finally enjoy our lives without any worries about Dr. Eggman. They have been an inspiration to us all, especially me. I ended up deciding to join in the Royal Fighters' battles since I was so inspired and motivated by their valour and heroism. Thus, I changed my attire and started learning some new fighting skills. While I won't really get to use my new skills to save you all from Dr. Eggman, I will contribute to any new mission the Royal Fighters get over time for there is more to their jobs then just fighting Dr. Eggman. I hope that I will be an inspiration to you all and I hope that the next person to take the throne from me will be as inspirational as I am. As for today, we will sit back, relax and party for Dr. Eggman is finally finished and gone for good. This is a happy time of celebration and joy and I hope you all have a good time. I myself am looking forward to all the fun we're going to have. So that's it for my speech, thank you all for listening and enjoy the concert. Thank you for being such wonderful people to have in my kingdom and special thanks to the Royal Fighters for inspiring me to become a fighter and to fight for my kingdom in bigger ways than ever before." she said, putting a hand over her heart "Have a good concert everybody."

Sally smiled at the crowd and she stood back from the microphone. She stepped down from the stage and took her place back in the crowd. What followed this lovely speech was a loud applause of acclaim from the audience. They screamed so loudly for joy that you'd think their voices were going to give out on them. The Royal Fighters cheered louder than anybody else in the crowd for they loved the speech and were flattered to hear that they had been such an inspiration to their kind-hearted queen. Now Sally's speech was done, the concert could begin and everybody could start having a good time. Unfortunately though, nothing good was going to happen from this point onwards for just as Sandy stepped towards the microphone and was ready to start singing, a bright green flash of light start shining brightly above New Mobotropolis and everybody stared at it in horror, thinking that something bad was happening. Sandy saw it and she instantly grew worried over the sight of the light.

"Oh no! Have aliens come to interrupt my concert again?!" she cried in despair.

The Royal Fighters all stared up at the flashing light in wonder.

"Oh now what?!" whined Sonic.

"Just when things look like they're going to go well for once, something starts happening!" cried Sally "What's going on up there?!"

"It's not another tear in the sky is it?" asked Tails worriedly.

"Can't be, this looks different to the tear in the sky." said Knuckles "This looks more like…a Chaos Control!"

"But what's Chaos Controlling over the city?" asked Amy in fright "It looks awfully big!"

She soon received her answer for the green light eventually died down and revealed what it was all about. The crowd erupted into gasps of horror as they stared up at the sky and saw none other than Angel Island, looming ominously over the city and blanketing it in a huge shadow as it blocked out the sunlight from up above. The crowd started to murmur in worry, thinking that something terrible was happening right now. Knuckles and Shade was so gobsmacked to see Angel Island here that they almost passed out in shock.

"ANGEL ISLAND?!" they both shrieked in disbelief at once.

"What the cuss is Angel Island doing up there?!" blurted Sonic in confusion "It's supposed to be over Downunda! Why is it all the way over here?!"

"Did somebody Chaos Control the entire island here?" asked Tails "Why would somebody do that? As a matter of facts…who did this and why?"

"I have a feeling we're about to find out Tails…" said Sonic grimly as he stared up at AngelIsland.

And Sonic was right on that for after Angel Island had finished materializing into place, two figures jumped down from the island and one of them summoned a warp ring underneath them. The figures fell through the warp ring and they reappeared through a warp ring that appeared just above the stage. They fell through the warp ring and landed down heavily onto the stage, the impact booming through the microphone and causing it to be amplified. Knuckles and Shade stared in horror at the figures that stood on the stage before everybody. The two figures were Imperator Ix and Dr. Finitevus! The Royal Fighters stared at Ix in terror and they instantly began shrieking in fright at him.

"Imperator Ix?!" cried Sonic "No way! It can't possibly be him!"

"I'm afraid it is…" said Shade hoarsely "And he'll be coming…for me!"

"How can this be?! I banished Ix into the void!" shouted Knuckles "How did he possibly managed to get back?!"

"I bet Finitevus had something to do with that…" said Sonic grimly "Look at him standing beside Ix and looking all delighted and evil! I bet Finitevus brought Ix back here and is really on his side!"

"But…but…but Uncle Finitevus is a good guy!" cried Knuckles "He helped to get rid of Ix all those years ago! Why would he serve him?!"

"Why don't you ask him yourself?" snorted Sonic "He's up on the stage for you after all."

Knuckles stared up at Finitevus and waited to see what he was going to do. He soon found out for Finitevus stood forward and he spoke into the microphone.

"Greetings people of New Mobotropolis." he purred, his evil voice booming around the concert as he spoke into the microphone "My name is Dr. Finitevus and I am here along with my master Imperator Ix to deliver a very serious penance to all of you. My master will explain everything to you now."

He stood aside as Imperator Ix stood forward and he addressed the frightened crowd he stood before on the stage.

"People of New Mobotropolis!" he boomed at the top of his powerful voice "I am Imperator Ix and I am here to deliver you this message! Your local heroes, the Royal Fighters, have committed a very serious crime on my home of AngelIsland! They assisted in overthrowing me from my seat of power and committed anarchy against me and they are to be sentenced to a life of imprisonment! I am here to take over your city and to punish the Royal Fighters for wrongfully exiling me and overthrowing me from my rightful place as ruler of AngelIsland!"

"We'll see about that Imperator Ick-Face!" yelled Sonic, jumping up from the crowd and spin-dashing towards Imperator Ix.

Finitevus however was quick to save his master from a powerful attack by tossing a warp ring in front of him. Sonic ended up spin-dashing through the warp ring and the warp ring took him to directly in front of the crowd. Sonic hurled out of the warp ring and he knocked down the entire front row accidentally. The crowd all stepped back and ran for it as the Royal Fighters were knocked down accidentally by Sonic. Ix clenched his fists angrily and he pointed sharply at Sonic.

"You DARE To assault me?!" he bellowed "I'll have your head for this!"

"No master, you are not fit for combat without your staff." said Finitevus, stopping Ix by holding up his arm and keeping him back "I will deal with the Royal Fighters myself. I have the skills for it after all."

"Very well, I shall let you beat the Royal Fighters up and put them in their places." purred Ix darkly.

Finitevus smiled evilly and he hopped off the stage and stood before the Royal Fighters. He smiled darkly at them as they all picked themselves up. They all glared at him, their faces contorted with loathing and they were ready to beat the stuffing out of the caped doctor with the many warp rings.

"You traitor!" snarled Knuckles "You were working for Imperator Ix all along! I can't believe I never worked that out!"

"I KNEW I shouldn't trust a guy in a cape!" yelled Sonic "I KNEW you looked dodgy the moment I saw you Finitevus and you're gonna pay for your manipulation!"

"You're disgusting!" said Tails crossly "How could you play us all like saps and fool us into thinking you were innocent and that you were good?!"

"Looks like for once, I was right to distrust somebody!" muttered Geoffrey St. John as he loaded his crossbow and prepared to shoot Finitevus was it.

"Why Finitevus? Why?" asked Shade "Why are you working for Imperator Ix?"

"Because Imperator Ix was in the right all along." explained Dr. Finitevus "I believed he was right to lower Angel Island once we rose it up. We rose it up ONLY to avoid that comment that nearly caused zero hour for us all. We agreed to lower it once the comet had passed and what happened? Those senile old fools we called "rulers" decided they liked it BETTER up in the sky where it will be an easy target for many an evil-doer and where it is vulnerable to more than it ever has been before! I'm working for Imperator Ix because I care about the safety of Angel Island and its citizens! Unfortunately, the elders were short-sighted and couldn't see how moronic their ideas were! I didn't rebel against them for Ix was all I needed to express my opinions on the whole matter. I only warped him away from the island so he could recover from his Chaos Control and come back. I ended up getting sidetracked by my visit to the void though so Ix ended up striking prematurely and without me. I roamed most of Mobius trying to find him and now thanks to you all, I found out that Ix had been exiled to the void and thus, I brought him back. Ix's exile is undeserved and you all should be ashamed for imprisoning a man who's just trying to keep Angel Island safe from destruction that is more liable to come to is now it is up in the sky and sticking out like a sore thumb for anybody around!"

"Imperator Ix murdered the elders! Why should he be allowed what he wants after doing that?!" screamed Knuckles "Besides, the elders decide what happens to AngelIsland! Not Ix! He has no right to pontificate to them and tell them what's right and wrong for us all! The elders were wise and they would not leave AngelIsland up in the sky if they knew it was going to be dangerous!"

"So naive…" said Finitevus angrily "I'm ashamed to call you my nephew Knuckles! You have way too much of my idiot brother Locke in your veins you do. The elders knew NOTHING about what was good for AngelIsland and me and Ix are going to show how wrong they were by putting AngelIsland where it belongs and making it safe for years to come!"

"You cannot defy the laws of the island!" yelled Shade "That is high treason and you will be arrested for such treason against the island!"

"You are one to talk Shade considering you used to work for Ix!" snapped Finitevus "Besides, YOU are the ones who will be arrested! Arrested for preventing Imperator Ix from doing what is right and committing anarchy against him! Your crimes are far greater then any crime that can be committed!"

"Blah, blah, blah! Shut up and stand down Finitevus!" snapped Sonic "You and Ix are not welcome here so get lost or get beaten up by us all!"

"No, me and Ix will stay right here and get the justice we so rightfully deserve." said Finitevus coldly "And you will have to fight me if you wish for me and Ix to leave this city."

"I'll gladly fight you Finitevus." said Knuckles crossly "Any traitor to Angel Island deserves no mercy from me! Even if you are my uncle!"

With that said, Knuckles thundered towards Dr. Finitevus and he raised his fists. He punched at Finitevus and…the albino-furred echidna just leaned his head to one side and dodged the punch! Knuckles threw several punches at Finitevus but the evil echidna in the black cape dodged them all with ease by bending to one side and causing Knuckles to miss. Knuckles threw an uppercut at Dr. Finitevus but Finitevus bent over backwards to dodge the attack. He then threw himself forwards and he head-butted Knuckles in the face. Knuckles staggered backwards, clutching his nose in pain and Finitevus uppercut him in the chin. Knuckles threw a punch at Finitevus but he back flipped away and dodged the punch. Knuckles chased after Finitevus and tried to catch him but Finitevus cart-wheeled away from Knuckles and then back-flipped onto the stage. Sandy was still on the stage for she was too frightened to move and Finitevus grabbed her. He shoved the horrified ferret into Knuckles, knocking him down before he could climb onto the stage. Sandy picked herself up and belted it fast before she could get hurt. Knuckles climbed up onto the stage only for Finitevus to kick him off of it. The Royal Fighters could sense that Knuckles needed some help so they all ran up towards the stage, ready to help Knuckles. Little did they realize is that Finitevus' fighting prowess is cranked up by a lot of notches when he has an environment full of objects he can use. Wilson the Dog climbed up onto the stage and he deployed his spinning blade weapon. He threw it at Finitevus but the echidna dodged the attack and the blade boomeranged back over to Wilson. Finitevus grabbed the microphone and he thrust it stand-first at Wilson, hitting him in the gut and making him double over in pain. Finitevus then used the microphone to pole vault himself up into the air and he dropkicked Wilson directly off the stage. Mandy Mouse was next to attack and she climbed onto the stage. She had her knuckle attachments on already and she threw some punches at Finitevus. Finitevus just dodged the punches with ease and he whacked Mandy on the head with the microphone stand. Mandy groaned loudly and she clutched her head, easing the pain as it flared up in her head. Finitevus then tripped Mandy up by taking her legs out from underneath her with the microphone stand. Mandy quickly picked herself up and punched at Finitevus. The doctor back-flipped away from her and he leaped up onto a stage light. He kicked the light sharply and caused it to lower down and shine directly in Mandy's eyes. Mandy shielded her eyes from the blinding, dazzling light that was shining on her and Finitevus cackled at her. He kicked the light so hard that it came of its hinges and it landed directly on top of her! Mandy groaned in pain as the light landed on top of her. She was left feeling very sore indeed from that. Finitevus jumped down from the steel beams above the stage and he kicked the light off of Mandy like a football. It hurled off the stage and it crashed directly into Cosmo the Seedrian, knocking her off her feet and lying beside her on the ground. The light was now twisted and broken and beyond use. Shade somersaulted onto the stage and she slashed at Finitevus with her trademark twin blades. Finitevus dodged the attack and he rolled away from her. He picked up the microphone stand again and he swung it at Shade. Shade blocked the attack and she chopped the microphone stand in half. Finitevus now had one half of the stand with the microphone in one hand and half a stand with the base of the stand in the other hand. He didn't seem phased by this though. He just held the base half out like a shield just as Shade Blade-Rushed him. The microphone stand base took the blow and Finitevus threw it at Shade. Shade sliced it to pieces and she ran up to Finitevus with her blades glowing brightly. She slashed at Finitevus only for him to roll out of the way and then butt her in the back of her head with the microphone. He then started to swing the microphone around like a nunchaku and he walloped Shade as hard as he could with it. Shade was thrown down onto her knees by the attack and Finitevus threw the microphone around her ankles. It wrapped around her ankles and tied her legs together. Finitevus pulled on it and pulled Shade towards himself. He kicked Shade off the stage as hard as he could and the poor echidna was left lying on the ground, grimacing in pain and trying to work out what hit her. Finitevus cackled at the opponents he had just taken down so far.

"You have no idea what you're up against…" he sneered.

Tails decided he was going to attack next. He flew towards Finitevus with his fists clenched and he attempted to punch Finitevus. However, Finitevus just swung the microphone around and he smacked Tails in the head with it. Tails ended up dive-bombing down into the stage thanks to the microphone hitting him and Finitevus immediately threw him off of the stage. He then jumped up onto another stage light and he kicked it off of its hinges. The light came down with a heavy crash, the light bulb shattering to pieces as it hit the floor of the stage. Finitevus then picked up the light and he threw it at Tails. The light hit Tails and knocked him clean off of the stage. Finitevus somersaulted off of the stage and he landed between Sally and Nicole. The two ladies prepared to deck him but Finitevus split-kicked and knocked them both down onto their back. Amy ran in and tried to whack Finitevus with her hammer. Finitevus just grabbed her wrists and ended up wrestling with Amy for control of the hammer. Amy fought back hard but she couldn't stop Finitevus from shifting her hammer into the way of a punching Knuckles. The hammer ended up blocking Knuckles' punch and giving Finitevus a chance to kick Knuckles in the thigh and bring him down. He thrust Amy's arms and Amy accidentally ended up hitting Knuckles with her hammer. Finitevus then twisted Amy's wrists and wrestled the hammer out of her hands. Tails flew up behind Finitevus and tried to pile-dive him but Finitevus heard him coming and he swung the hammer directly into Tails' face. Tails was brought down onto the ground, clutching his face in excruciating pain after being hit by Amy's Piko-Piko hammer. Amy tried to get free from Finitevus' grasp but the evil echidna had hold of her hands very tightly. Cosmo and Cream ran up to try and help Amy but Finitevus threw Amy up into the air and sent her spiralling towards the two girls. Amy crashed into Cream and Cosmo and she knocked them both off of their feet. Team Chaotix ran up to Finitevus and the three detectives tried to attack him. Vector the Crocodile lashed out at Finitevus and he tried to chomp on him with his jaws. Finitevus dodged the attack as if it was nothing and when Vector lashed out again, Finitevus grabbed his jaws and clamped them shut. Vector tried to open them again but Finitevus' surprising strength kept them shut. Charmy buzzed towards the doctor and attempted to sting him but Finitevus held Vector's jaws in the way, leaving Charmy to accidentally sting Vector on the nose. Vector yelped in pain and a huge sore-spot appeared on his nose from the sting. Finitevus laughed at Vector's misfortune and he dropkicked Charmy down into the ground. Espio threw some kunai at him but Finitevus used a warp ring to shield himself and send the kunai hurling elsewhere. Espio jumped up into the air and he tried to dropkick Finitevus but Finitevus caught his foot and threw him away. Espio landed on the ground and ran towards Finitevus again but the echidna used a warp ring to send him away and drop him on top of Vector. Bunnie and Geoffrey were next to try their luck against the slippery echidna now. Bunnie punched at Finitevus but he ducked to avoid the punch and he sharply poked Bunnie in the gut. Bunnie fought the pain in her gut and she threw another punch. Finitevus caught her robot arm and forced it behind her back. Bunnie tried to get free but surprisingly, Finitevus was too strong for her to break free of. The doctor was a lot stronger than his appearance suggested. Geoffrey aimed his crossbow at Finitevus but he held Bunnie in front of himself, leaving Geoffrey now aiming it at her. Geoffrey stopped himself quickly before he could accidentally shoot Bunnie. Finitevus then kicked Bunnie directly into Geoffrey and the skunk caught her before she could knock him over. Bunnie punched at Finitevus, extending her robot arm out to hit him without having to get close to him, but Finitevus used a warp ring to send Bunnie's punch elsewhere. And by elsewhere I mean, in the back of Geoffrey's head. The punch threw Geoffrey off of his feet and sent him sprawling on the ground. Bunnie gasped in horror and she ran furiously towards Finitevus. The evil echidna however took a warp ring off of his wrist and threw it at Bunnie like a Frisbee. It pinged off of her face and made her grimace in pain. Finitevus caught the warp ring and he opened it up. He went through it and re-appeared behind Bunnie. He dropkicked her in the back and sent her hurling forwards. Sora ran in and she tried to grab Finitevus but she missed as he ducked, causing her to sail over him, and he grabbed her by the tail. He threw her across the battlefield and sent her hurling into Tails. Finitevus dusted his hands off and he smirked at the Royal Fighters as they all struggled back onto their feet and tried to remain standing.

"You're all pathetic." he sneered "I'm not even breaking a sweat out here. I'm just getting warmed up."

But then suddenly, somebody FINALLY managed to land a blow on Finitevus. It was Sonic the Hedgehog. He'd spin-dashed Finitevus in the back and sent him hurling near the stage. Finitevus groaned in pain and he picked himself up, cursing Sonic for getting the drop on him. Sonic gritted his teeth and glared at Finitevus.

"Nobody beats up my friends like this!" he growled "I'm gonna make chilli-sauce out of you Finitevus!"

"Just try it hedgehog, I'm beyond what you've ever faced before…" purred Finitevus darkly.

Sonic rushed towards Finitevus and he tried to tackle him but Finitevus back-flipped onto the stage. This caused Sonic to crash into the stage and groan in pain as he crashed into it. Sonic climbed onto the stage and he spin-dashed Finitevus in the gut. Finitevus hurled backwards into a large speaker. Fortunate for him though since he had something to use as a weapon now. Sonic prepared to attack Finitevus again but Finitevus jumped behind the speaker and then kicked it towards Sonic. The speaker crashed into Sonic and knocked him down onto his back. Finitevus pushed the speaker down onto its front in an attempt to crush Sonic but Sonic simply held his hands up and saved himself from being squished by the speaker. Sonic pushed the speaker off of himself, the speaker now lying on its side next to him, and he leaped back onto his feet. He punched at Finitevus as furiously as he could only for Finitevus to effortlessly dodge the attacks and he back-flipped, kicking Sonic as his legs went up and over with his body. Sonic staggered backwards and Finitevus ran over to a nearby fire-extinguisher (the stage has one for in case it catches fire of course). He grabbed the fire-extinguisher and he aimed the nozzle at Sonic. He blasted Sonic with a jet of foam, causing Sonic to cough and splutter as he was covered in foam and his vision was impaired by it. Finitevus then held the fire-extinguisher by the nozzle and spun the bottle around by the nozzle! Sonic wiped the foam out of his eyes only for Finitevus to wallop him with the fire extinguisher. Sonic was sent hurling across the stage and he came down with a heavy crash onto his back. The other Royal Fighters ran onto the stage to help Sonic fight off the mad doctor. Finitevus however did something strange. He took the clasps off of his cape and he took his cape off of his shoulders. Knuckles punched at him but Finitevus stepped aside and wrapped his cape around Knuckles' face. Knuckles pulled on the cape as hard as he could but Finitevus was too strong for him. Finitevus pulled on the cape, taking Knuckles with him and he swung him into the Royal Fighters. He sent many of them hurling across the stage as he walloped them with Knuckles. Finitevus then threw the capeupwards and sent Knuckles spiralling towards Shade, who was lying near the speaker that had been used earlier. Knuckles landed on top of Shade and knocked her off her feet. Finitevus then twisted his capearound and he whipped Knuckles with it like some childish person whipping someone with a kitchen towel. Knuckles winced as he was whipped by the cape and Finitevus put it back on. Sally lunged at Finitevus with her bladed staff but Finitevus caught the staff in his hands and he threw Sally over his shoulder. Sally landed on her face directly in front of Sonic. This provoked Nicole and made her try to attack Finitevus. Finitevus just simply gut-punched Nicole and brought her down onto her knees. Sonic and Sally picked themselves up and they panted heavily.

"Man! Dr. Finitevus is one serious fighter!" cried Sonic "Who taught him how to fight?! He's worse than even Metal Sonic!"

"I dunno." said Sally "He's definitely no push-over that's for sure. Knuckles, is Finitevus usually this powerful?"

"No." said Knuckles "Or at least I don't think so. I've never seen him fight before."

"Indeed nephew." sneered Finitevus "I kept my fighting prowess secret so that when I used it on you and the other guardians, I'd have the element of surprise. My fighting prowess stems from filling myself up with Chaos Energy and a lot of callous training from Imperator Ix, all done in secret of course. I filled myself up with Chaos Energy whenever I got a moment to use the Master Emerald alone. Only until I ended up in the void did I get to put my battle skills to the test. It's precisely my skills that helped me to survive the void in the first place. And now you've just witnessed how formidable an opponent I am…"

"Indeed we have." said Sonic "But we'll still bring you down Dr. Finitevus!"

Sonic's little statement was met with mocking laughter from the maniacal echidna scientist.

"Even after I beat you all into the dirt, you STILL have the gall to think you can beat me?!" snorted Finitevus "You pathetic Royal Fighters are the embodiment of obstinacy! Your stubbornness is so over-bearing that it's a miracle you fools haven't perished yet! How you survive your encounters with Dr. Eggman just obfuscates the mind trying to comprehend this implausibility!"

That statement made the Royal Fighters all glare at Finitevus in rage, every one of them itching to beat the stuffing out of him.

"Finitevus, you don't have to do this!" cried Knuckles desperately, pleading that there was at least some shrewd sense of decency left in his uncle "You don't have to serve Imperator Ix! I mean look at yourself, you've just taken all of us down with little effort! You could help us bring down Imperator Ix before he can doom us all again!"

"And why would I do something as moronic as that nephew?" snapped Finitevus "Ix is by far the most pragmatic and logical of all the echidnas. HE is the one we should be following! His decisions and choices are the ones that should motivate the echidnas for generations to come. His desire to keep the island safe will allow our existence to prolong and continue whereas your precious elders' moronic ideas will get us all blown out of the sky!"

"Ix is no better than the elders!" retorted Knuckles "When he tried to take back AngelIsland last year, he corrupted the Master Emerald, filled himself with Dark Chaos Energy and actually attempted to destroy the world! Is this someone you want to be serving?! You're many things uncle but you're surely not nihilistic are you?!"

"Bah, Dark Chaos Energy can make you act far from lucid." scoffed Finitevus "Ix wouldn't have to resort to tactics like that if you all just listened to him and heeded his warnings about what will happen if Angel Island stays afloat instead of being down on the ground where it belongs. You and the other idiots drove him to that kind of insanity."

"Indeed you're right my apprentice." boomed Ix, stepping down from the stage and striding up to Finitevus and the Royal Fighters proudly, his cape trailing behind him as he walked "I had no desire to take such extremes in lowering the island but because the elders are short-sighted and cannot see that my statements are correct and for the good of our home, they forced me to submit to anarchy and thus, led to my unwarranted exile. If you'd open your eyes instead of blindly following your hubristic father and the idiot elders then me and Finitevus wouldn't be punishing you all right now."

"While you do make good points against the island staying afloat, it's still treasonous to rebel against the laws of the island!" screamed Knuckles "And besides, you two should respect the laws of Angel Island and if you did then Ix wouldn't have been exiled into the void and I wouldn't have lost my father!"

"A law will only be respected if the reasoning behind it is pragmatic and logical!" thundered Ix "A law that is neither of those things should not be respected at all! And to the void with your father! He was as idiotic as all the others who dared to oppose me!"

That did it. Knuckles lunged up towards Imperator Ix, his face contorting with uncontrollable rage and his fists clenched so hard that his fists were probably as white as his gloves now and his arms drawn so far back that it was a miracle that Knuckles' arms hadn't dislocated from his shoulders yet. He was going to give Ix one heck of a serious beat down just for chastising his feather like that. But unfortunately, his punches never got to connect with Ix's face for Dr. Finitevus opened up a warp ring in front of Ix and sent Knuckles flying through it. The ring opened up directly above the ground and Knuckles ended up falling out of it and crashing face-first into the ground. Knuckles picked himself up only for Ix to throw a Doom Orb sphere at him. Knuckles was sent hurling forwards by the attack and he lay on his back, groaning in pain, a few feet away from everybody. Everybody gasped for poor Knuckles and Ix just cackled at the hot-headed echidna that was a big nuisance to him.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha! As before, you're just dust to sweep away Knuckles!" crowed Ix "Dust that me and my apprentice can both sweep away together! You have no chance against me now! I was invincible when I was on my own and with the Nocturnus Clan so what chance do you have against me AND Finitevus both together?"

"In case you've forgotten big-head, you're quite easy to defeat when you don't have your staff." snorted Sonic "You couldn't fight us all on your own without your weapon Ix, you're much weaker without it. Heck, right now Finitevus is the one who curb-stomped us all, not you, so if anything we should be fearing him more than YOU now! Some bad-guy you are Ix if your minion's a bigger threat then you are!"

"SILENCE!" thundered Ix "I am still powerful, even without my Chaos Staff! I have Angel Island under my control once again! I can just simply use the Master Emerald and power myself up if I have to! And I can also use your Chaos Emeralds too if I have to! I have all this power at my disposal so I will still be unbeatable!"

"Uh-huh, sure." muttered Sonic "And what's to stop us from simply going up to Angel Island and using the emeralds against you?"

"Sonic, are you crazy?! We can't get up to the island!" cried Tails "Ix and Finitevus will be no easy obstacle to climb over and Finitevus has all those warp rings! He can get up on the island in the blink of an eye! Even quicker then you can Sonic!"

"We'll see about that." said Sonic, picking himself up and fighting the pain he was feeling.

Ix however threw a Doom Orb at Sonic and knocked him back down onto the ground before he could do anything. Sonic grimaced in pain as he tried to shake off the attack.

"I wouldn't try anything if I were you." sneered Imperator Ix "Now…it is time for me to deliver your sentence Royal Fighters. You have all been found guilty in assisting Knuckles in his anarchy against me so I shall now punish you all for it."

"Wait! You can't do that!" cried Sally "Me and Nicole had nothing to do with you being exiled to the void! We didn't even remotely get involved with what happened that time so you can't punish me and Nicole!"

"You can't punish me either!" shrieked Sora "I wasn't even a Royal Fighter then! I've only just recently joined!"

"You three assisted in the attempted beating of me during the fight." noted Finitevus "That warrants a punishment. That and Queen Sally is the true leader of the Royal Fighters. The service is in service to the Acorn Family and Sally is currently the only living member and thus, is still running the service. On a technicality, she assisted in Ix's downfall since she runs the Royal Fighters Service."

"Agreed so she is deserving of punishment too." said Ix coldly "The ones who will get the worst punishments are Sonic the Hedgehog, Knuckles and Shade and Queen Sally Acorn."

"W-w-w-what a-a-a-are y-y-y-you g-g-gonna d-d-d-do t-t-t-to them?" asked Cosmo worriedly, her voice wobblier then a crumbling tower "Oh please, please d-d-d-don't k-k-k-kill them i-i-i-if th-th-th-that's w-w-what you're p-p-p-p-planning to do. P-p-p-please d-d-don't kill them!"

"Don't supplicate me plant-girl." said Ix rudely "Anyway…Shade is guilty of treachery and for turning against me during out take-over of AngelIsland last year and in turn, resulting in my exile! Your sentence is…exile!"

With that said, he grabbed Shade roughly by the scruff of her neck and hoisted her up to his height. The echidna in the Nocturnus bodysuit was downright terrified right now. Her worst nightmare was sentencing her to exile and she had a nasty feeling she knew where she was going to be exiled to. Ix nodded to Finitevus and the scientist opened up a warp ring. Most notably…his Super Warp Ring. Said Super WarpRing was opened up and in it was a portal that led directly into the void itself. Shade squirmed furiously in Ix's grasp and tried desperately to avoid her sentence.

"No! Please! No, don't exile me to the void! Please, please, please!" shrieked Shade "Don't throw me in there! I beg of you father, don't throw me in there! Please!"

"Leave her alone!" grunted Knuckles "Don't you dare throw Shade into the void!"

Ix ignored Knuckles and he promptly did just that, he threw Shade screaming at the top of her horrified lungs through the warp ring and into the void. Shade disappeared into the warp ring and her screams eventually faded out as she was gone. Knuckles was so horrified to see this that he went mental with rage. He punched the ground furiously and he roared a wailing roar of anguish for his girlfriend. Ix soon shut him up though by grabbing him by the face and hoisting him up to his height. His icy blue eyes were colder than ice as he stared at Knuckles with a Medusa stare.

"You'll be joining her for your sentence is exile also Knuckles." said Ix coldly.

He then proceeded to throw Knuckles into the void too! Knuckles cried out in despair as he was thrown through the warp ring and into the void. Everybody gasped in horror as Knuckles disappeared through the warp ring and his screams were drowned out as he fell further and further into the void. Ix turned to Sally next. He grabbed her by the vest and picked her up off the ground. Sally's heart seized up in terror for she had a feeling she was going to be thrown into the void next.

"Oh god no! Please, no!" screamed Sally, her hands clasped together in a pleading manner and her ears flat against her head "Oh please, I beg of you! Don't throw me into the void! Anything but that! Anything!"

"Such a pathetic excuse for a queen." snorted Ix "A true ruler faces his sentence without mindless pleading and begging. Your sentence is also exile and you will be joining the echidnas."

"No! Please! You can't!" whimpered Sally "There's a wizard in there who will kill me if…"

Sally didn't get a chance to finish her sentence for Ix just threw her through the warp ring and into the void. Sally screamed a horrified squeal of anguish as she was thrown into the void. Her screams seemed to tear a hole in everybody's hearts as they watched their beloved queen-turned-fighter disappear into the void. Sonic in particular seemed the most horrified for he quite liked Sally, especially as she was becoming more active in the battlefield now. Ix then turned to Sonic and he grabbed him. Sonic didn't resist him at all, he just allowed himself to be picked up by the mad imperator.

"And your sentence…" began Ix.

"Let me guess, it's exile isn't it?" scoffed Sonic, predicting what Ix was going to say instantly.

"Indeed." said Ix gleefully.

"Good. I WANT to be thrown into the void." said Sonic bravely "That way, I can rescue the three you've exiled there and we'll all come back and kick your sorry butt Imperator Ick!"

"You will never escape the void." crooned Ix gloatingly "Finitevus has your only door to the void and he most certainly will not open it again for you."

With that satisfying thought in his head and his final victory quip blurted at Sonic, Ix threw the hedgehog through the warp ring and into the void. Sonic cried out in surprise as he was thrown into the void. He disappeared in an instant and Finitevus closed up the Super Warp Ring. He slipped it back onto his wrist and he smirked at the Royal Fighters who were still lying there defeated before him and Ix. The Royal Fighters were horrified to see that their greatest hero and friend along with Sally, Knuckles and Shade were gone for good and sealed off into the void. The only emotions that anybody was feeling right now was horror and sorrow. It seemed that after all they have been through, this was how it was going to end for them. Maybe this was the start of what causes Mobius to go to hell in the future. Pity Silver and Blaze wouldn't arrive in time to stop Ix and Finitevus from causing the apocalypse, if indeed they go onto cause such a thing. As for Ix and Finitevus, they smirked at the heroes triumphantly.

"Now the major sentences are dealt with, here's the sentence for the rest of you." purred Ix "You will all be slaves that will serve me faithfully as I take AngelIsland for my own and make it an empire that will spread out all over the world."

"We will NEVER serve you Ix!" cried Tails bravely.

"You will do…" said Ix coldly "Especially since I'm going to make you all serve me faithfully…"

Finitevus seemed eerily delighted at the very thought of Ix smacking the Royal Fighters into place and making them his loyal servants. This was an empire he was looking forward to seeing Ix create now that the main problems were gone and Angel Island was theirs once again…

Sonic the Hedgehog's screams were suddenly silenced as he came to a heavy thud upon something solid and hard. Sonic groaned as pain swept over his body from the impact and he lay there for a few minutes, waiting for the bones in his body to knit again and for his senses to start functioning properly. Sonic picked himself up and he rubbed his head, easing the pain in it and clearing it up enough for him to think clearly again. Sonic looked around and saw that he was in what was probably the strangest, most surreal place he had EVER been in. Everything was a dark blue colour and waving around like swirls and there were crystals all over the place. It was like being in a crystal paradise except this was no paradise. The crystals were all hellish in design and looked very surreal and unsettling. The swirls also had a creepy vibe to them and there were pits of fire all around too, blazing away furiously with dancing blue flames that flicked every so often. The air was also quite different too and Sonic felt that he couldn't breathe as well as he could normally because it was hotter in this place then it was in NewMobotropolis. He was standing on a rocky platform with a stretching bridge way that seemed to lead to other platforms and went on for quite a while. This surreal zone was the void itself, an empty place of death and crystals and is often described as being the closest thing to hell that anyone can ever face on Mobius. Sonic studied his surroundings and he did not like what he was looking at.

"Oh man…this is the void is it?" he said "It's surreal with a big "S" in here! I've seen many weird things in my life but not THIS weird! I hope Sally and the echidnas are OK…"

"Sonic! Over here!" cried the voice of Sally Acorn not too far away from where he was now.

Sonic saw Sally standing on a platform that was on the other side of the bridge way connecting his platform to the others. Sonic zoomed over to Sally and he hugged her comfortingly to ease her fears since she seemed legitimately horrified at the thought of being thrown into the void. Sally was in tears and shaking all over. Sonic stroked her hair and back as he tried to calm the queen squirrel down.

"There, there Sal, it's OK. I'm here now." said Sonic "Everything's going to be OK."

"No it isn't!" shrieked Sally "We're in the void! The freaking void! This place is hell incarnate! We're gonna die in here and…"

"Sally you listen to me!" shouted Sonic "We've survived Eggman, we've survived Scourge, we've survived three different goddamn aliens, one of which was invulnerable robots, and we've survived Perfect Chaos and even Super Scourge! We are going to survive this one you see if we don't! I promise you Sal, we will get out of here alive! I promise!"

"OK Sonic, but how will we get out of here?" asked Sally worriedly "We don't have a warp ring and Finitevus certainly isn't going to let us out! We don't have a Chaos Emerald either!"

"We'd best hope that our friends can get Finitevus' warp ring off of him and get us outta here." said Sonic "Or that there's another way out of the void."

"Sonic, Ix only managed to get out of the void when Finitevus super-charged his warp ring and opened a portal here." noted Sally "There IS no other way out! Chaos Control or a warp ring are the only doors out of this nightmare! Unless our friends can help us, we're trapped in here forever!"

Then suddenly, something crashed down into the platform and Sonic and Sally yelped in horror at it. They hugged each other even tighter and they stared at what had crashed into the platform. To their amazement they recognized it instantly. The thing looked like Marik the Martian! The only thing was he was covered entirely in crystal save for his face and looked completely mindless. His eyes were blank and his mouth hung open unfocusedly. He also groaned in a rather zombie-like manner. Sonic kicked the crystallized Marik away from the platform whereas Sally put her hands to her mouth. Marik just floated away from the platform, completely unaware on what was happening and moaning loudly as he drifted away.

"Oh my god! That…that was Marik!" she gasped "He's…he's…been crystallized! Turned into a mindless crystal servant!"

"Puh, that's the least he was owed." sniffed Sonic "But how did that happen? Who did this to him?"

"I did newcomers to the void!" hissed a sinister raspy voice that made Sonic and Sally jump nearly out of their skins.

They turned around and saw a very strange creature standing before them. The creature was a rather large Mobian with a very surreal and even fantasy like appearance to him. His face was grotesque and troll like in appearance with a mouth crammed with sharp yellow teeth that made him look very ugly and unappealing in appearance. He had large bat ears, a large, ugly horn protruding from the top of his cranium, an enormous beard that touched the ground and dragged across the floor as he walked, a large cape with a bat-like appearance to it and his left arm had a lobster claw in place of an actual hand. His right hand was normal though. He wore gloves on his hand and claw and he also wore boots and a purple bodysuit. He definitely looked very demonic and evil in appearance and his hideous face contorted with sinister glee. A big fat smile spread out across his troll-like face. Sonic literally had no idea what to make of this creature and he stepped back whereas Sally stood her ground and pointed her bladed staff at the creature.

"Y-y-y-you k-k-k-keep a-a-a-way f-f-f-from u-u-u-us y-y-you f-f-f-freak!" stammered Sally "I'm w-w-warning you! Take one s-s-step and I-I-I-I'll skewer you! I mean it!"

"What's up Sal? You know this mutant in the weird pyjamas?" asked Sonic.

"Unfortunately." spat Sally "I'd hoped never to see this freak of nature ever again."

"Whereas I have been craving your return Princess Sally Acorn. Oh yes…gasp…I've been looking forward to it indeed!" cackled the creature delightedly. When he spoke, he often paused for a breath as if he had trouble breathing.

"Who are you and how do you know Sally?" asked Sonic.

"I…gasp…am Ixis Naugus." introduced the creature "I am a sorcerer of the highest calibre…gasp…and I am the Gatekeeper of the Void! Everything is to my will and my bidding…gasp…and I am without limitations here. As for my knowledge of the Acorn Princess…

Hhhha, ha, ha, ha, ha…I know her because I used to be the Acorn Family's Royal Wizard. I served the Acorn Family for many generations until that oaf of a king, King Max, threw me into the void!" he snarled, baring his teeth and dribbling furiously.

"You betrayed him!" snapped Sally "You tried to kill him and take the Acorn throne yourself! You deserved to be banished you freak!"

"I know I did…and I'm glad I was." hissed Naugus smoothly "I'm quite happy in the void. It's a brilliant kingdom for me. It suits my surreal nature perfectly and I'm quite at home here so you'll be happy to know that I do not desire to return to your pathetic city of Mobotropolis. You can have that wretched city, this place is all mine! And whenever anybody gets thrown into the void…I get to have hours of fun with the exiled!"

He cackled maniacally as he thought over all the people who have been exiled to the void over the years. That made Sonic think about Perfect Chaos, Eggman Nega and the Martians. He'd sent them all to the void. Did Naugus simply turn them into crystal as he did Marik and make them his loyal servants? Kind of amazing to think for a minute that he was punishing villains and giving a traitor to the Acorn Family his own personal entertainment. Still, at least Naugus wasn't a villain to worry about since he was happy to be in the void. Sonic had to admit, he was quite at home in this place. As for Naugus, he stopped cackling and he smoothed out his beard.

"As happy as I am here though, I'm all too happy to slaughter you though." snarled Naugus, seizing Sally with his lobster claw and lifting her up off the floor "I still abhor you and your family dearly princess and now an Acorn Family dares to venture into my domain, I will finish you off for revenge against King Max and his ill-treatment of me when I was the Royal Wizard!"

"I'm not a princess anymore, I'm a queen now." said Sally "Mom and dad are both dead now so you can't get revenge on my dad by killing me, he's already dead!"

"So what if he is?" snapped Naugus "I'll still delight in killing you and putting an end to your family name Sally!"

He then squeezed Sally as hard as he could with his claw, Sally wincing as the life in her was getting squeezed out of her by Naugus. Sonic stared in horror as Naugus prepared to finish of Sally and wondered what would the best method of attack be. Naugus is a wizard after all so who knew what he could do if he tried to attack him head on…

OH NO! OH NO! OH NO!

(Kool-Aid Man bursts through the wall)

Kool Aid Man: Oh YEAH!

0_0 That was weird...anyway, Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade have been banished to the void and Sonic and Sally are at the mercy of the sinister Ixis Naugus! Will they escape the void? And what about Ix and Finitevus? Can they be stopped? Or is the end coming for Sonic and friends...?

Thrown into the Void Part 2

Story 147: Thrown Into The Void Part 2: The Naugus Games

What was supposed to be a day of solace for Sonic the Hedgehog and friends had just turned into a day of hell for them all. First Dr. Finitevus, Knuckles' uncle and recently revealed apprentice of Imperator Ix, super-charged one of his warp rings and he brought Imperator Ix back from the void. Then the two echidnas brought AngelIsland over to New Mobotropolis and attacked the city, then Finitevus beat up all the Royal Fighters, all with little to no effort too, and now Imperator Ix had sent Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade into the void. The other Royal Fighters were going to be subjected to slavery as Imperator Ix took over AngelIsland and sooner or later, the world. In the void, Sonic and Sally had reunited but their reunion had been cut short for they were now face to face with the Gatekeeper of the Void himself, Ixis Naugus. He had been banished to the void for treason against the Acorn Family but he was all too happy to live in the void. He was not pleased to see a member of the Acorn Family in the void though so he had grabbed Sally with his claw and was squeezing her like a bathroom sponge. Sally squirmed in the evil wizard's grasp and she tried to get free but her efforts were ultimately futile. Naugus was much too strong for her and he was slowly but surely squeezing Sally to death. Sonic was left wondering what to do. It would be foolish to attack a wizard head on since wizards can be dangerous and can do goodness knows what. Sonic would have to be careful on this attack. Sonic then had an idea. While Naugus was squeezing Sally, Sonic got down onto his knees and crawled down off the edge of the bridge way, holding onto it with his fingers. He edged his way across the bridge way, keeping quiet and making sure Naugus didn't see him. He edged past Naugus and pulled himself up behind the monstrous looking Mobian. Naugus seemed too invested in what he was doing to notice Sonic behind him. Seeing Sally suffocate seemed to give him some sick kind of enjoyment. Naugus was sadistic after all.

"Naugus…grr…let me…go!" croaked Sally weakly.

"Not a chance you miserable child!" cackled Naugus "Your demise will be greatly enjoyed!"

"Sorry but the queen's got a life to live and she can't lose it yet!" cried Sonic.

Before Naugus could even wonder about who said that, Sonic spin-dashed the wizard in the back and sent him hurling forwards onto his face. He dropped Sally and she lay on the bridge way just inches away from the wizard. Sally got out her bladed staff and she used it to pole-vault over Naugus and she landed in front of Sonic. She put the staff away and she hugged Sonic graciously.

"Thank you for saving my life Sonic." said Sally.

"No problem Sal." said Sonic, enjoying the hug since Sally hugged him properly and not squeezed him to death like Amy does "I have a feeling I might be doing a lot of that while we're in here."

"Not the kind of image I was hoping for when I decided to become a more active fighter." muttered Sally.

"Ah who knows? Maybe you'll end up saving MY life at some point." noted Sonic "Now let's juice before…"

Suddenly, a magical wave swept over the two and their bodies up to their necks were turned into crystal! Naugus had just picked himself up and he was in full rage mode at this moment. He was so furious that his body seemed to be steaming almost as if he was about to burst into flames. Naugus was not only known for his crystalline magic but he was also renowned for being Master of the Elements. He could use elemental powers and sometimes, his powers reacted with his emotions so him being angry equals going up in flames. But Naugus was just at steaming point at the moment, not yet going up in flames. Naugus clenched his teeth and his eyes were curled into a villainous scowl that would give a normal person a headache if they tried to imitate it.

"You DARE to assault me hedgehog?!" snarled Naugus "You DARE to deny me the chance to finish off the Acorn child?! YOU DARE?!"

"I do dare Ixis Noogie-Brain!" snapped Sonic "Nobody tries to harm my friends while I'm around! You let us outta these crystal shells or my shoes will leave an imprint on your hideous face!"

"Watch your words boy!" growled Naugus "Otherwise you will find yourself…gasp…becoming a Crystal Golem much like all the Martians who got sent here did!"

"Naugus please, we just wanna get out of the void and back to Mobius!" pleaded Sally "Please let us go!"

"Why should you be allowed to return to Mobius?" hissed Naugus "You ended up in the void! Only those who are exiled end up thrown in here! Why should you be allowed to leave?"

"Because we weren't exiled, we were thrown in here by an evil echidna named Imperator Ix." explained Sonic "Two echidnas named Knuckles and Shade were thrown in here too, although I'm not sure where they are right now. Anyway, Imperator Ix is trying to take over the world and he threw us in here so we can't interfere…"

"Imperator Ix?!" rasped Naugus as if the name terrified him to some degree "Did you…gasp…say Imperator…Ix?!"

"Yes I did." said Sonic "His wormy assistant Dr. Finitevus broke him out of the void, thus violating his well-deserved exile mind you, and now Ix is trying to subjugate Angel Island and probably soon, the whole world."

Naugus was so furious upon hearing all of this that he (literally) burst into flames! Sally screamed in terror whereas Sonic had no idea what he should think of that. The flames blazed just inches away from them and they could feel the heat of Naugus' anger. Naugus eventually calmed himself down and his flames died away, returning him to his normal self.

"I vehemently LOATHE that unrighteous, vexing, pompous, arrogant echidna!" roared Naugus "He thinks himself…gasp…a more powerful wizard than me and he actually has the gall to resist my crystalline magic! He has tried to take over the void and has left me spending my precious time fighting with him non-stop just to make sure my glorious utopia doesn't get desecrated and usurped from me! The void is MINE and mine alone…gasp…and he dared to try and take it from me! Not long ago he mysteriously disappeared and I've finally managed to get a moment of peace. I'm NOT happy to hear that he was let out of the void though! Nobody…gasp…is allowed to leave the void unless the people who have exiled them there in the first place pardon their exile! Ix is violating his exile and I will not allow it! especially since I am not finished with him yet!"

Sonic and Sally began to feel a tingle of excitement building up in their stomachs.

"So are you gonna let us out of here so we can kick Ix back into the void for you?" asked Sonic hopefully.

"I am…but first you must "earn" your freedom." explained Naugus "I am not a wizard who just grants freedom like that, it must be earned. You two must compete in a series of challenges I will set up for you now. If you can win three different challenges, I will grant you a portal out of the void."

"Cool!" cried Sonic "Guess you aren't such a bad guy after all."

"Wait a minute!" screeched Sally "If you can open up a portal to leave the void…then why haven't you left already? Heck, why don't you just come out yourself and bring Ix back to the void?"

"As I said, I like it in here." explained Naugus "I don't WANT to leave the void, it's too glorious a paradise for me. If I can't have Mobotropolis…gasp…then I will have the void, simple as that. As for why I'm not leaving the void to bring Ix back, I maybe a conniving wizard…gasp…but even I am bound to the rules of the void. I've been exiled here so therefore, I must remain here until my exile is pardoned. That and I didn't even know Ix had left so why would I need to leave the void and look for him if I didn't know he was gone?"

"Hmm…makes sense I guess." said Sally, taking in Naugus' words "I will say, I'm glad you're more reasonable than most villains I've encountered. At least you actually live with your punishment unlike those who seek to oppose it. Although exiling you here isn't exactly a punishment since you like it here and thus, it feels more like we rewarded you rather than punished you…"

"Uh Sal, I wouldn't go any further if I were you." said Sonic "Don't want to upset the big, ugly wizard now do we?"

Naugus didn't seem fussed over what Sally had said though. He just simply snapped his fingers and the crystal around their bodies broke, releasing them and allowing them to wander freely. Sonic and Sally dusted themselves off and Naugus spoke again.

"So do you two accept the challenges that will befall you and grant your freedom should you win?" asked Naugus.

"We do." said Sonic "But you better swear on your blood and soul that you WON'T harm Sally or try to kill her again while we're here! If you do, I am gonna give you an Ixis Migraine!"

"Bah! I may hate the Acorn Family but I hate Imperator Ix more!" scoffed Naugus "I'll happily let Sally live if Ix comes back to me… alive so I can kill him myself! Hhhhha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"Deal." said Sonic "We'll bring you Imperator Ix back gift-wrapped and with a ribbon on top if we have to. So, what's the first challenge?"

"The first challenge…" purred Naugus, a crooked smile spread out across his slimy, aged lips "…will be a matter of life and death…"

With that said, Naugus waved his arms and started to form something with the aid of magic and the mystic arts. As he was forming the challenge for Sonic and Sally, Sonic whispered into Sally's ear.

"Hey Sal, I don't mean to ask but…what is Naugus exactly?" he whispered "I've never seen anything like him before."

"He used to be three different wizards named Agunus the Rhino, Nusgau the Bat and Suguna the Lobster." explained Sally "They fused themselves together and become Naugus. His title of "Ixis" came from the fact he used to be part of an order known as "The Order of Ixis". He's the only one left though after the Order of Ixis fell into relapse and eventually…died out. He tried to make a new order by taking over Mobotropolis and turning everybody into wizards with a simple spell. Since his exile though, it seems he doesn't want to do that anymore. I'm quite happy he's content here since it means I don't have to worry about him coming back for me."

"I see." said Sonic "Well I'm glad he doesn't want to leave the void either. I've got enough villains on my plate as it is."

As they were talking, Naugus finished forming his first challenge for Sonic and Sally to complete. The challenge had a lot of square-shaped slabs that led to two crystal pillars standing proudly upon a huge stone slab. To Sonic and Sally's horror, Knuckles and Shade were both bound to the pillars by crystalline restraints wrapped around their bodies. They also seemed to have their lips fused shut by crystals too. They couldn't speak or anything, just cry out muffled mumbles behind their crystalline gags. Sonic and Sally stared at Knuckles and Shade and they had a feeling on what this challenge was going to be about.

"Hop across the slabs and reach the pillars at the end." explained Naugus "If you can get there and save the two echidnas fused to the pillars then you win the challenge. If you fail…gasp…I guess you know what will happen…" he added with a slimy smile on his face.

"Yeah, yeah. We remain trapped here forever and you never get your revenge on Imperator Ix. Whoop-de-do." muttered Sonic "So, is there any catches to this? This challenge seems suspiciously easy."

"I will let you find that out for yourselves…" crooned Naugus darkly.

"I saw that coming." sighed Sally "You always like to hide some sinister surprise in your challenges don't you?"

"Indeed." said Naugus "So hedgehog and Queen of Mobotropolis… in your own time…let the challenge begin!" he cried out, holding his arms out in a rather excited manner.

"Indeed we will." said Sonic "I'll just spin-dash my way up to the pillars…"

"Nah, ah, ah quickster." said Naugus, waggling his finger in the proper "nah, ah, ah" manner "No super powers are allowed in these challenges. They take away the entertainment value they present. You must win without using any kind of power you have."

"Aw!" whined Sonic "So no super speed and no spin-dashes?! This sucks! And yet this isn't the first time this has happened to me…" he added, thinking back to the challenges he had to go through in Chun-Nan last year when trying to meet Conquering Storm.

"We'll abide to your wishes Naugus, especially me since I have no powers." said Sally "So Sonic, let's begin this challenge. Just be careful though since we have no idea if this challenge has a hidden danger or not."

"Ah don't worry Sal, I'll be careful." said Sonic, hopping onto a stone slab "Let's begin this challenge and save the echidnas!"

Sally jumped up and landed on the slab Sonic had just hopped onto. Nothing happened so it seemed that Sonic and Sally had landed on a safe slab. Maybe this challenge had no problems whatsoever and was just a straight path up towards the crystal pillars. Sally still couldn't help but think that not all was what it seemed and that there had to be some kind of catch to this. Sonic however wasn't as cautious. He immediately hopped onto the slab in front of him…and it promptly fell down as he landed on it! Sally immediately lunged out and grabbed Sonic by the hand just before he could fall to his death. Sally lay on the slab with her arm over the edge and her hand tightly gripping Sonic's hand. Sonic held on tightly and Sally mustered up what strength she had in her to hold onto Sonic and pull him back up onto the slab. Sally pulled Sonic back up onto the slab she was on and Sonic gasped with relief. His trademark grin quickly returned to his face though and he smiled at Sally.

"Heh, I told you you'd end up saving my life at some point." he sniggered playfully.

"Sonic the Hedgehog! Be serious please!" snapped Sally "Your reckless behaviour almost guaranteed a never-ending plummet for you! You have to keep your head on in a game like this or you'll ruin our only chance of escape! Understand?!"

"Yes Queenie." said Sonic, slightly taken-aback by Sally yelling at him like that. He'd never see Sally get so mad at him before, nor had he seen Sally get this mad over anything at all.

"And don't call me "Queenie"!" retorted Sally "That's a stupid nickname!"

"Eesh, what's gotten your hair in a tangle Sally?" snorted Sonic, taking note of Sally's rather harsh attitude right now.

"The fact we're competing for our ticket out of here and we only have one shot at this!" yelled Sally "That's why I'm so edgy right now so please, for the love of Mobius, be more careful and start taking this more seriously or I will slap you silly Sonic!"

"OK! OK! Jeez, take a chill pill Sal!" cried Sonic, waving his hands around frantically "I'm sorry OK?"

"Alright." said Sally with a sigh "I'm sorry Sonic, you know what feeling edgy can do to somebody."

"It's fine Sally." said Sonic softly "So…now we know what to look out for. Some slabs fall if you step on them. Any ideas how to bypass that hazard?"

Sally studied the slabs and she noticed how the one that fell was directly in front of them. It was obvious the path to the pillars was not directly in front of them. Sally began to wonder if there was a certain pattern that they had to follow in order to get across. She took out her staff and she poked the slab on the left side of the slab they were on now. The slab fell down the moment she poked it. She tried the slab on the right side of the slab she and Sonic were standing on. That one fell too. She then poked the slab that was on the north-west corner of the slab they were on. That one didn't move when she poked it. It seemed their path might be a matter of hopping onto one slab and then another sort of like this: hop onto one slab on one corner side and then hop onto another slab on the other corner side. Sally hummed to herself and she held the staff beside her.

"Sonic, I think I've worked out how to get around this." deduced Sally "But in case I'm wrong, take it slowly."

"Right behind you Sally." said Sonic, deciding it would be wise to take Sally's advice since taking his advice ended up nearly sending him on an endless plummet through the void.

Sally and Sonic both leapt onto the slab on the north-west corner of the one they had been on. The slab didn't do anything just like how it didn't do anything when Sally prodded it with the staff. Before jumping onto the next slab though, Sally poked it with her staff. Much to her surprise, it ended up falling. It seemed her path wasn't the right one after all. Sally poked the slab on the north-west corner of the one they were on now. That slab didn't move so Sonic and Sally jumped onto that one. Sally poked the slab on the north-west corner of the slab they were on with her staff and that one didn't move either. It seemed the path to the crystal pillars was diagonal instead of the way Sally thought it was. So Sonic and Sally began hopping across slabs in a diagonal pattern towards Knuckles and Shade, the two echidnas looking hopeful for the two as they began to get across to them. Naugus didn't look too pleased though. He thought he'd given the two a decent challenge and yet they were dealing with it as if it was nothing so far. Looks like he'd have to try harder with the second challenge. Sonic and Sally continued their diagonal path until they ended up reaching the end of the slab rows. It seemed they'd have to go diagonal up to the pillars on the slabs on the other side. Sonic and Sally went up diagonally across the slabs in the north-east direction and much to their luck, they led directly up to the stone pillars where Knuckles and Shade were imprisoned. Sonic whooped with joy as he and Sally landed in front of the pillars.

"Whoo-hoo! We did it!" he cried "One challenge completed already!"

"And two of our friends back safe and sound." said Sally, poising her staff and preparing to chip at the crystal binds around Knuckles and Shade.

No need for that though since Naugus just snapped his fingers and the crystal pillars released Knuckles & Shade. The crystal fusing their mouths shut disappeared so they could now speak again and the stone slabs all disappeared and fused into bridge way so Naugus could walk up and congratulate Sonic and Sally.

"Hey, thanks for the save Sonic." said Knuckles "I can't believe that we got caught by that wizard guy down there."

"I can't believe it either." said Sonic "I mean me and Sal didn't have much of a problem with him. Although that might be because I can run fast and we unintentionally ended up suggesting something he liked…"

"Like what?" asked Shade.

"We promised Naugus, the wizard who's walking up to us now, that if he lets us out the void, we'll bring Imperator Ix back into it and let Naugus finish him off since he hates Ix and wants him dead." explained Sally "Naugus is making us take part in some challenges to earn our freedom though so now you two are free, you can help us in our challenges so we can get outta here and stop Imperator Ix once and for all."

"I'm up for that easily!" cried Knuckles "I'll be sure to exile Dr. Finitevus here too since he deserves to be in the void for siding with Ix! I'll remember to confiscate all his warp rings though…"

"I'll assist in anyway possible." said Shade "Especially as I want to get out of this hell hole as quickly as possible."

"Well me and Sally managed to do one challenge so I bet the other two won't be too hard." said Sonic.

Their conversation was interrupted by Naugus striding up to them and he seemed to have a forced smile on his face. Sally felt a little uncomfortable seeing him with that expression. She could tell that secretly he was furious and that he was probably going to do something incredibly unpredictable. You never know what a wizard will do after all, they can be very unpredictable.

"Very well done indeed you two." hissed Naugus "You have passed the first challenge. Now it is time to move onto the other one, and I shall make it a bit harder now we have more players in this game."

"Bring it on Naug-y, we'll take the challenge no matter what it is!" dared Sonic cockily.

Naugus grinned evilly at Sonic and he began to wave his hands around. He was forming the next challenge for the Mobians and he was going to make it a challenging one indeed. Even though he wanted Ix back in the void, he did like to have some entertainment so he was doing these challenges for Sonic and friends to give himself some entertainment. Naugus was a man who didn't give things away unless he got something in return. Through the challenges, he was getting entertainment while the heroes were earning their freedom. He wasn't going to make the challenges impossible though, he was going to make sure that the heroes can pass it so they can earn their freedom and he can let them bring Ix back to the void where he belongs…

Meanwhile, Imperator Ix and Dr. Finitevus had brought the rest of Sonic's friends up onto Angel Island via Finitevus' warp ring and had restrained them all with laser cuffs around their wrists and ankles. As of this moment, everybody was kneeling down before Finitevus while Ix was standing on the Master Emerald shrine and admiring the Master Emerald. He had big plans for Angel Island now that it was under his control once again. He was finally going to put it back down on the ground where it belong and then he was going to expand his reign. He wasn't just going to rule Angel Island, he was going to make his own empire and have it be a global empire too. Ix wasn't content to have a group of Mobians daring to stand up to him so he felt that if he had an expanded reign with many people under his control, people would be less tempted to overthrow him. His plans weren't exactly logical or indeed very good but Imperator Ix is insane so he isn't one to be thinking straight now is he? Ix had used a Chaos Control to bring Angel Island back over Downunda where it belonged and it was now looming above the great crater it had left behind when it was risen up into the sky. Ix placed his hands on the Master Emerald gleefully, the Chaos Energy coursing between his fingers as he felt it crackling away in the palms of his hands.

"Finally, there's no resistance that can get in my way." purred Ix delightedly "Now I can do what should have been done in the first place…return Angel Island back down to where it belongs. I shall make this island safe from harm and prevent anyone from trying to take our prized relic, the Master Emerald, ever again."

"You're one to talk!" snapped Tails angrily "I bet once Angel Island's back down on the ground, you'll take the Master Emerald for yourself and use all of its power for your own evil deeds Imperator Ix!"

"I would kindly silence your accursed lips little child or I will see to it that you do not live long enough to even see Angel Island return to the ground." said Ix coldly "It is none of your business what I plan to do with the Master Emerald. Besides, I used to be a ruler alongside the elders on Angel Island. The Master Emerald legitimately belongs to me in that regard so I can do what I see fit with it."

"I'd have thought Knuckles technically owns it since he's tasked with guarding it." noted Sora "So technically, it's his emerald."

"Not anymore…" crooned Ix slyly, taking his hands off of the Master Emerald "Now without further ado…"

He held his arms out and he thundered at the top of his voice "Chaos…CONTROL!" and with the simple yelling of those words, Angel Island was warped from up in the sky to down in the crater where it had once been before it rose up into the sky. The island slotted nicely into the crater and it sat there in the ground absolutely perfectly. It was as if it had never been raised at all. Angel Island was an island no more, it was back in the landscape and is now part of the surroundings once again. The captive Royal Fighters were rather surprised that lowering the island was that simple, just Chaos Control it down to the ground. Is that how they raised it up in the sky in the first place? One had to wonder why Ix didn't just do that to begin with when he attacked the island last year. Mind you, Ix is insane so maybe it didn't occur to him at the time to do that. Imperator Ix smiled from behind his helmet and he cackled maniacally over the fact his plans were going his way for once.

"At long last Angel Island, you're back down where you belong." crooned Ix "Now that that is dealt with, I can begin planning my global empire."

"Global empire?" asked Mandy Mouse "What are you up to now you crazy old echidna?"

"Since you disgusting worms dared to defy me, I think the world needs a bit of discipline." explained Ix "So I'm going to expand my reign to more than just Angel Island. I shall take over the other regions of the world and make everybody my loyal servants. And being as I have the Master Emerald, I will have the power to do so quite easily."

"Wow. He really is crazy isn't he?" sniffed Vector the Crocodile "Where was he when the brains were handed out?"

"Probably in space." chuckled Charmy Bee.

"Silence!" bellowed Imperator Ix "You will all change your tunes for you're all the first of my new servants you are! You'll all serve me faithfully and I'll have you all stationed right here on Angel Island…or shouldn't I call it that anymore since it's not an island anymore?" he added with a sneer evident in his voice.

"We still prefer Angel Island." said Nicole the Lynx grimly "And we will NEVER serve you Ix! We wouldn't bow before Dr. Eggman, the Martians or even the Devatrons and they were all twice the tyrants you are!"

"We'll see about that." scoffed Imperator Ix "Now, before I commence with my plans, I am going to locate the Chaos Emeralds. I remember how that accursed Knuckles dared to use them to exile me into the void. If I have the Chaos Emeralds as well as the Master Emerald…imagine what kind of power I could have in the palm of my hands…"

He cackled at the very idea of what power the Chaos Emeralds could give him if they were used along with the Master Emerald. He would be a god of epic proportions with that much Chaos Energy pulsing through his veins. He could practically feel the Chaos Energy in him now as he pictured using the Master Emerald and the Chaos Emeralds all at once. Dr. Finitevus seemed to like that idea as well. He rubbed his hands delightedly over the very idea.

"That sounds like a great idea master." purred Finitevus "And to add even greater power, we could even use the Chaos Clusters that were hidden away thanks to the hubris of the echidnas before us."

"Nice try doc but the clusters are all gone now." sneered Ruben the Water Panther "Scourge used them on the Master Emerald and woke up Perfect Chaos. Perfect Chaos took all the clusters for himself and they're all gone now. All one-hundred of them."

He finished his sentence with a gloating smirk on his face. Finitevus looked horrified to hear this.

"You mean to tell me…the Chaos Clusters are gone?!" he gasped "What an inconvenience! Oh well, the Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald will do just fine. Ix, you find the Chaos Emeralds while I keep an eye on our prisoners. After the beat-down I gave them, I doubt they'll try and escape me…" he added with the tone of his voice dropping to a sinister slither that made everybody shudder.

"Indeed Finitevus." said Ix evilly "Well, I shall be off now. I will be back soon worms so don't get too comfortable…"

So Imperator Ix strode off proudly, heading into the nearby woods and searching for the Chaos Emeralds. He'd be surprised to find out that he'd have eight Chaos Emeralds to find instead of seven though (I trust you remember why we have eight Chaos Emeralds instead of seven now. Something to do with a certain alien race that created Shadow owning one and losing it to the Mobians…) As Ix strode into the woods, Finitevus stood before the Royal Fighters with his arms folded and his face was twisted into a rather sinister looking smirk. The Royal Fighters weren't really intimidated by him though. Tails decided to try something desperate and see if he can get Finitevus to turn on Ix much like how Knuckles had managed to get Shade to turn on Ix.

"Finitevus, you've got your wish now, Angel Island's back on the ground so why don't you do the wise thing and help us defeat Imperator Ix?" asked Tails "I mean is this what you want? Ix to take over the world and become an oppressor?"

"While I myself have no intentions on taking over the world, I am not in position to question Ix and his motives." said Finitevus coldly

"Besides, he's only doing it to make sure nobody tries to overthrow him again."

"But Ix isn't in charge of Angel Island!" snapped Amy Rose "Getting rid of him isn't overthrowing him at all!"

"Wrong my child." sneered Finitevus "Ix was one of the rulers alongside the elders and now they're dead and he isn't, he is legitimately the ruler of Angel Island. He was next in line after the elders."

"He got his position through murder and anarchy!" snapped Geoffrey St. John "The blighter doesn't deserve to rule Angel Island!"

"You are in no position to say who deserves what you feeble-minded skunk." scoffed Finitevus "It is not stated how one may achieve the rank of ruler. All it says in the ancient laws of the echidna is that if the main rulers, always referred to as the elders, are dead and only one remains then that echidna is thus appointed as ruler of Angel Island."

"Boy does that law have a lot of holes in it…" sighed Wilson the Dog.

"Never mind all that now." said Tails "Finitevus, why do you think Ix is in the right? I mean, won't Angel Island being down on the ground make the Master Emerald easier to steal? I mean look, it's practically ripe for the picking now!"

"For your information little boy, when Angel Island was down on the ground, the Master Emerald NEVER sat upon that shrine!" snapped Finitevus "That shrine was used as a lookout point and we only put the Master Emerald there to help it raise up into the sky!"

"Oh…right…" said Tails, unable to believe this bit of history about the island that Finitevus had just told him.

"So if the Master Emerald never sat on that shrine until the island rose…then where did you keep it before it was raised?" asked Cosmo the Seedrian.

"It resided in a deep cavern that was so deep down that it's energy signature was masked and it was impossible to locate unless one already knew where it was." explained Dr. Finitevus "The cavern was sealed with a stone slab that only opened at the sound of an elder or guardian's voice and they had to say a certain chant to make it open. Said chant is in a dead language the ancient echidnas used to speak in. So as you can imagine, only we echidnas knew where the Master Emerald was and Angel Island, back then known simply as "Echidnaopolis" was always at peace and harmony. Then came the day we had to raise the accursed island. We dug out a lot of earth around Echidnaopolis and we brought the Master Emerald out of the cavern and onto the shrine. With a simple Chaos Control, we rose Echidnaopolis up into the sky and avoided the comet that would have left the city in ruins. And now it's up in the sky, we get invaders and thieves trying to steal the Master Emerald for it's practically just sitting there waiting to be stolen and because Echidnaopolis is up in the air, it sticks out like a sore thumb and makes us an easy target! THAT is why I believe Ix is right because he IS right! NOBODY attacked Echidnaopolis or tried to steal the Master Emerald UNTIL the island was raised so that further proves why the elders should have listened to him! For centuries the Master Emerald remained hidden and undisturbed directly under our civilization and only the echidnas who lived here knew where it was! Because the island was raised, people know about the Master Emerald and have tried time and again to steal it and thus, doom our home! And it isn't just Dr. Eggman who's tried to steal the emerald, we had attempted thefts of the emerald long before he came to Mobius! So tell me Royal Fighters, do you truly believe that Angel Island is a safe haven up in the sky now you've heard this history lesson?"

The Royal Fighters all looked at each other in wonder. Neither of them had known this bit of history about Angel Island and hearing more about Angel Island's background just surprised them and made them all think for a moment. Maybe Dr. Finitevus and Imperator Ix were in the right after all? Maybe Angel Island would be safer down on the ground. If Angel Island's grounded then the Master Emerald could be returned to the cavern it resided in at first and nobody would attack the island ever again, especially since they'd be wondering where it had gone since it no longer floats. That bit of revelation made the Royal Fighters wonder if Ix and Finitevus truly are in the right and that they maybe do care about their home in the grand scheme of things. But there was still a few things wrong with their motives…

"Finitevus, we understand your motives a lot better now thanks to that history lesson." said Tails slowly "But the way you and Ix are going about it is wrong. Ix has killed and committed treason just to do all of this and now you yourself are committing treason by helping an anarchist and a murderer get what he wants. And according to Knuckles and Shade, Angel Island was supposed to stay afloat and by law no less and you can't just defy the laws of the island. That's treasonous you know so really, you two are still committing crimes even if they are for the greater good. The ends do not justify the means as they say."

Finitevus just scowled at Tails but he kept his cool. That was one of the sinister things about Finitevus, he rarely ever lost his cool and that made him a pretty sinister, even dangerous, foe to come across for it made him unpredictable and you never know what he'll do next.

"Me and Ix may indeed be committing crimes little child…but if it means our home being safe and the Master Emerald being well-hidden again then we're all too happy to do so." said Finitevus casually "Sometimes, you have to take extremes to get your point across. That sadly is what the world can be like I'm afraid."

"I believe that definitely." muttered Vector, thinking about the Region of Rebellious Reptiles and his evil father Lord Sycorax and how extreme they were in getting their point across.

"So now the island's back down, are you just gonna put the Master Emerald back in the cavern it used to be in?" asked Cream the Rabbit curiously.

"Indeed." said Finitevus "And Ix will be the only one who has any access to it. No need to use the chant to open the slab that seals the cavern since I can just warp him in there with my warp rings."

"But Ix is gonna use the Master Emerald AND the Chaos Emeralds to do evil, terrible things now he has them!" cried Ruben "Is that seriously what you're OK with him doing Finitevus? Is that seriously somebody you want to work for?!"

"I've told you already, I am in no position to question my master." said Finitevus, a slight growl in his voice "And if him taking over the world is what he wishes to do then so be it. We deserve more power than control over a measly civilization such as ours anyway. We have the power after all and Ix will use it to it's absolute greatest. I look forward to seeing what happens if the Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald are all used together…"

Then suddenly, something hit him in the side of his head and threw him down onto the ground. The blow to the head was so hard that it knocked him out! The attacker was none other than Espio the Chameleon. He had turned invisible and had sneaked away while Finitevus was talking. Luckily for the chameleon, he had been in the back of the Royal Fighters so Finitevus didn't see him turning invisible and thus, he had been able to sneak off and ambush him. He crept up carefully behind Finitevus and then walloped him in the side of his head with a powerful kick. Now Finitevus was knocked out, Espio turned visible again and he pulled out a kunai. Using the kunai, he broke open his handcuffs and then he broke open his ankle cuffs, freeing his arms and legs and giving him free usage of his arms and legs again. Espio sought to freeing everybody else and the moment everybody was free of their cuffs, they all ran over to the unconscious Finitevus.

"Well done Espio!" cried Vector happily "That was some good sneaking you did!"

"Yeah! Finny-tee-vee-us totally didn't see that coming!" laughed Charmy excitedly.

"Thank you." said Espio, honoured to receive such compliments and very pleased with himself that his plan had worked so well.

"OK, which one of these warp rings on him is his super warp ring?" asked Bunnie Rabbot, looking at the warp rings on Finitevus' arms and legs "Ah can't tell, they all look the same."

"Didn't he put it on his wrist or something?" asked Tails "Although he probably switched them around for in case we tried to steal it off of him. Let's take them all and see which one opens a portal to the void."

"You do that." said Amy "I'm gonna put the island back up in the sky where it belongs. All I have to do is touch the Master Emerald and say Chaos Control right?"

"Right." said Tails "Remember to think about Angel Island in the sky as you say it though."

So with that said, Amy quickly ran up to the Master Emerald shrine and she placed her hands upon the Master Emerald. She thought about what she needed to think about, then she yelled aloud "Chaos…CONTROL!" and in a bright flash of green light, Angel Island disappeared into thin air and then reappeared in the sky just above the great crater. Angel Island was now an island once again. While that had been going on, the Royal Fighters all took a warp ring each off Finitevus' arms and legs and they began flicking them about to see what would happen and if they'd be able to get into the void at all. They had sixteen warp rings to try out so this could take a while. Nicole flicked a warp ring into the air while thinking about the void. The warp ring expanded to many times its size but no portal appeared in it. It was just an empty ring. Warp rings don't open up portals if they can't get to the place you're thinking of. Nicole didn't have Finitevus' Super Warp Ring. Sora flicked one into the air. Again, no portal opened up. It was just an ordinary warp ring. Amy ran down from the Master Emerald shrine, grabbed a warp ring and she tried it. Another ordinary warp ring. Cream, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Bunnie, Ruben, Vector, Espio and Charmy all tried some warp rings each but yet again, they just had ordinary warp rings an nothing happened. Tails had gathered up three warp rings so at least one of the ones he had had to be the Super Warp Ring Finitevus had. Tails flicked all three warp rings into the air. Two of them came up empty of course whereas the third opened up a portal to the void. They'd found the Super Warp Ring! Now they could rescue Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade from the void and bring them back to Mobius so they could stop Ix and banish him and Finitevus into the void!

"Guys! I found it!" cried Tails "Let's all go through and save our friends!"

"Hold on there kiddo, we shouldn't ALL go in there. We need to keep an eye on Dr. Creepy Von Evil here." noted Mandy "Make sure he doesn't try anything if he wakes up."

"OK." said Tails "I'll go in and get them while the rest of you make sure Finitevus…"

Too bad for the Royal Fighters that just at that moment, Finitevus woke up from his attack and leaped over Tails and snatched the Super Warp Ring away! When you're full of Chaos Energy like Finitevus is, you don't stay knocked out for long. Finitevus closed up the warp ring and he slipped it back onto his wrist. The Royal Fighters all grabbed his other warp rings and kept hold of them to make sure that he doesn't get them back. But even one warp ring was all Finitevus needed and it so happened he had the best one so it wasn't that much of a problem for Finitevus. The Royal Fighters would have an edge on him that's for sure though.

"So, you want to play it the hard way do you?" crooned Finitevus "Good…I do enjoy a good exercise after all. If you want to rescue your friends from the void, you will have to get my Super Warp Ring first."

"Bring it on Finitevus!" dared Tails "We'll stop you, especially as we now have all your other warp rings so we will be able to handle you a lot better than before!"

Finitevus just bent down into a battle ready stance and prepared to attack…

Meanwhile back in the void, Ixis Naugus had formed the next challenge for Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade. Using his magic, he had made a straight bridge way that stretched down for quite a distance and there were crystalline shaped structures that sort of acted like flamethrowers. They spouted fire and there were two on each side so you had a crystal flamethrower on both sides of the path and spouting fire at each other. There were quite a few flamethrowers across the bridge way and it seemed the end of the path had nothing else but given this is a wizard's game, you never know what will happen and what kind of surprise he will have in store for you. There could be more to this challenge then that it appeared to be. The Mobians studied their challenge for a moment and Naugus announced what the challenge was going to be.

"So Mobians, this is your next challenge." explained Naugus "You must get to the end of the path I have set before you while dodging the various obstacles around in the path."

"Sounds easy enough Naugus although there doesn't seem to be more obstacles then the flamethrowers in front of us." said Sonic.

"Oh there's more obstacles in the path then you realize quickster…" hissed Naugus darkly, grinning like a hobgoblin "You'll see for yourself once you begin the challenge."

"Oh that's reassuring." sighed Sonic "Still, we'd best get on with it or we won't be getting out of the void."

"Indeed. And to make it harder…you have to complete the course in five minutes." added Naugus "Your time is starting…NOW!"

Sonic immediately jumped into action upon hearing that. He ran towards the first pair of flamethrowers, running at an ordinary speed of course for he isn't allowed to use his super speed or any power he has, and he jumped over the spouting fire going off between them. Sally, Knuckles & Shade followed him and they jumped over the fire too. It wasn't going to be as easy as that though for the flamethrowers did something different as they went up the path and they also got harder too. The second set of flamethrowers was higher up than the first pair. Much to high for any of them to jump over but high enough for the Mobians to duck under. Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade ducked down and ran under the fire. They ran up the path and came across the third pair of flame throwers. This one was going to be tricky for there were TWO jets of fire going off. One was high up and the other was low down so you couldn't jump over it OR duck under it. Sonic looked around desperately, eager to find a way to get through it without burning himself. Shade however seemed to have an idea already. He got out her blades and she Blade-Rushed the crystal flamethrowers. Her attack didn't seem to do anything to it though. There were no chips or cracks in the crystal whatsoever. Seemed the crystal was too strong for a Blade-Rush attack. Knuckles tried punching it but even his powerful fists couldn't break through the crystal flamethrowers. Time was ticking by and the Mobians were stuck on the third set of flamethrowers. They needed a plan and fast. Sally had the idea to try and dive between the fire since there was a gap between the flamethrowers. Sally put her arms together, bent down and pointed directly ahead of herself and she jumped through the gap between the roaring flames. She made it clean through with only a few singes on her clothes and a tiny bit of her hair caught fire to which she put out easily by tapping on it. Sonic, Knuckles and Shade copied what Sally did and they soon made it through the flamethrowers too. There was a fourth pair of flamethrowers next to overcome and that pair of flamethrowers moved up and down, meaning that the Mobians would have to time their moves exactly to either jump over it or duck under it. They'd have to be precise too for the flamethrowers moved up and down relatively quickly so if they weren't fast enough, they'd get burnt alive. Sonic stood forward and decided he would go first. He watched very carefully as the flamethrowers moved up and he quickly lay down on the floor and rolled across it just as the flamethrowers were coming back down. Sonic made it past the flamethrowers and he picked himself up. Knuckles went next. He watched as the flamethrowers moved down and he jumped over them. The flames moved up quite quickly though and they just licked his shoes as Knuckles sailed over them, the echidna feeling the sheer heat of the fire on his feet as the flames touched his shoes. A close call as it maybe, Knuckles wasn't hurt and his shoes weren't even effected by the flames. Still, he was lucky to have made it over and barely get touched by the flamethrowers. Shade went next and she decided to go under like Sonic did but she did it a different way to Sonic. Shade ran backwards a little bit until she was up to the third flamethrower obstacle and then she belted it down the bridge as fast as she could. She timed her running just right so that when she reached the flamethrowers, they moved up and she threw herself down onto her side. She slide across the floor and directly under the flamethrowers. Sonic and Knuckles were impressed with that move and Shade was relieved it had worked so brilliantly. Shade picked herself up and dusted herself off. Sally was the only one left now and she had her staff (with the blade sheathed) at the ready. She waited until the flamethrowers lowered and then she pole-vaulted herself over the flamethrowers. They were just starting to raise up again as she sailed over them. Sally landed just beside Sonic and she put her staff away. She wiped sweat off her forehead in relief as if she didn't think she was going to make it.

"Whew, I'm amazed I made that!" she gasped "Well, that seems to be it for the flamethrowers. I wonder what obstacles are next?"

"Doesn't seem to be anymore Sal." said Sonic, taking note of the bridge way and noticing that it seemed completely empty and there were no obstacles around "I mean look, there's nothing else around."

"Hedgehog, it may seem like there's nothing around but do remember that appearances can be deceptive." noted Shade "For all we know, there might be an invisible trap or something."

"Shade's right, we need to be vigilant." said Sally.

"But we don't have time for that!" snapped Sonic "We're racing against the clock here! We need to move it and fast!"

"Three minutes and counting Mobians!" hissed the voice of Ixis Naugus "I'd hurry up and get on with it if I were you! Hhhha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"See what I mean?!" yelped Sonic, waving his arms about frantically.

Sally just sighed and she took off her vest. She decided to test the bridge and see if there was any traps lying around, particularly invisible ones. Sally threw her vest across the bridge way and waited to see what happens. The vest flew across the bridge and landed about a few sections away from the Mobians. The moment the vest landed on the bridge, a huge bolt of lighting shot out from nowhere and zapped the vest, singeing it and ruining the look of it. Sally gasped in horror. The next obstacle was lightening coming out from nowhere! They'd have to find a way to get past this one and fast! Luckily, the fast-thinking squirrel queen had an idea.

"We'll get zapped if we run across the bridge." said Sally "But there is a way to get around it. Everybody, do what I do." she ordered.

Sally then got down onto her knees and climbed down the side of the bridge, holding onto the edge tightly with her arms so she was now hanging off the edge of the bridge by her arms. Sally then started to trek across the edge of the bridge with her hands. She reached out further up the bridge with one arm and pulled herself across. Sonic, Knuckles and Shade copied her. They hung over the side of the bridge by their arms and they started trekking across the side of the bridge. They moved as fast as they could too to make sure that they still beat the time limit. The Mobians kept this up for a while until Sally decided to see if it was safe to climb back up onto the bridge again. She bit on her glove and she took it off by slipping her hand out of it and she threw the glove onto the bridge. Nothing happened. It seemed like it was safe to come back up. So, using all the strength in her body, Sally pulled herself up onto the bridge. She didn't get zapped as she climbed up. It seemed they had bypassed the obstacle. Sally sighed with relief and she put her glove back on. Sonic, Knuckles and Shade climbed back onto the bridge too and they looked ahead of them. The path ended further up the bridge. It seemed the finishing line was just a good sprint away from them now. Sonic quickly ran off without thinking and he jogged towards the end of the path. Sally groaned in annoyance and she darted off after Sonic. Knuckles and Shade decided to just follow them for there wasn't much they could do just standing where they are now. Unfortunately, just as the Mobians were nearing the end of the path, a huge spiked crystal wall rose up from the bridge and blocked their way! The wall was sixteen feet tall and the spikes all seemed to be in some kind of pattern, almost as if you could use them to climb up the wall. Sonic leaped back to avoid getting skewered by the spikes on the wall.

"Hey! We beat your challenge Naugus! Why are you cheating to make us lose?!" yelled Sonic furiously.

"You have not beat it yet quickster!" cackled Naugus, appearing before them as a misty figure that looked just about fit for a fog "You have to reach the end of the path before time runs out! This is the final obstacle and you only have a minute to climb up it! Hurry up, the clock is ticking…Hhhha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

The misty Naugus then drifted off to the end of the path, almost as if he was waiting for them to make it so he could congratulate them. Sonic frantically started to climb up the wall for he only had a minute left before the challenge was over. He grabbed onto some spikes with his hands and pulled himself up, putting his feet above any spikes bellow him to keep himself balanced. Knuckles just simply punched his fists into the crystal wall and he climbed up the wall using his knuckles, the way he always climbs whenever he does it. He had Shade clinging onto his back for Shade couldn't climb as well as Knuckles could. Sally was climbing on her own and she followed Sonic as quickly as she could. Because Naugus wanted the Mobians to succeed, he did fashion the wall so that it would be relatively easy to climb but whether the Mobians could climb it in a minute was a matter of how fast they could climb it. Sonic & Knuckles were climbing quite well whereas Sally was going a bit slower than they were. She wasn't as strong as Sonic and Knuckles were so it was harder for her to pull herself up when she needed to. She did rely more on where she was placing her feet though so she didn't have to do too much pulling up at least. In thirty seconds, the Mobians had made it to the top of the wall. Now here came the next big obstacle…climbing down it. It would take too long to do that so Sonic decided he would do the next big thing, jump down from it. He grabbed Sally and held on tightly to her. Then he jumped straight off of the wall and hurled down towards the ground. Sally screamed as Sonic jumped down for she did not like falling at all. Sonic landed on the ground pretty hard and he fought the pain in his feet long enough to put Sally down and run towards the end. Knuckles was a bit more sensible than Sonic and rather than jump straight down, he climbed down halfway with Shade on his back and once he reached halfway, he jumped down onto the bridge and he ran towards the end. They only had ten seconds left and Naugus began counting down as they ran towards the end of the path. The Mobians ran as fast as they possibly could and fought hard to make it to the ending in time as the seconds dropped one by one. Just by the skin of their teeth, the Mobians made it just as Naugus reached three seconds. They all collapsed onto the floor and panted for breath, unable to believe they had just made it.

"Whew…we did it! Challenge two completed!" cried Sonic "Would have been done a lot faster if I could use my super speed!"

"Indeed so Sonic…gasp…but we won the challenge so it doesn't matter." gasped Sally "I'm amazed we did it though."

"So…am I…" panted Shade.

Naugus stood before the tired Mobians and he grinned at them.

"Marvellously done indeed." he said delightedly "You have passed the second challenge, and just barely too. Now it is on to the final challenge and for this one, your powers are not prohibited should any of you have any."

"Sweet! I can spin-dash and run fast again!" cheered Sonic "So what's the final challenge Naugus?"

"Defeat my glorious pet…Crystal Chaos!" announced Naugus in a maniacal manner that made him look crazed and off his rocker.

Before the Mobians could wonder what Naugus meant by that, the bridge way expanded into an enormous platform that was the width and length of a football pitch and a huge crystalline creature appeared from nowhere. It roared loudly at the Mobians as it saw them, its roars making the platform shudder. It had waving tentacles, a huge serpent like head and jaws crammed with sharp, crystalline teeth. It's entire body was covered in crystal and yet despite the crystal body, Sonic couldn't help but think that the creature looked a little familiar. Knuckles recognized it instantly though.

"Oh my gosh! It's Perfect Chaos!" cried Knuckles "And he's all crystal now!"

"So we have to fight that thing and then it's freedom for us?" said Sonic, staring in disbelief at Crystal Chaos "No problem. We beat it before, we'll beat it again. Bring it on Chaos!"

And with that said, Sonic spin-dashed towards Crystal Chaos, making sure he was aiming for the brain on the top of its head…

Well, Sonic and friends have beaten Naugus' challenges and now they have to fight an old enemy for their freedom! Can they succeed and escape the void? Or will they be stuck in there forever? And will the other Royal Fighters beat Dr. Finitevus and save Sonic, Sally, Knuckles & Shade? And what will happen if Imperator Ix returns and gets involved? Why am I asking all these questions?! Tune in next time for "Thrown into the void" comes to an exciting conclusion...

Thrown into the Void Part 3

Story 148: Thrown Into The Void Part 3: Escaping the Void

A one way ticket out of the surreal nightmare world that is the void was just inches from Sonic the Hedgehog's grasp. After being thrown into the void by Imperator Ix, he and Queen Sally Acorn had made peace with the void's Gatekeeper, the grotesque Mobian wizard Ixis Naugus, and had been forced to participate in a series of challenges set up by the wizard in order for them to leave the void. Knuckles the Echidna and his girlfriend Shade the Echidna were also competing for their freedom. The first challenge had been Sonic & Sally having to save Knuckles & Shade and the second challenge had been a close call on a rather difficult and terrifying obstacle course. Now they were on their third challenge and the only challenge left to win before Naugus would let them out of the void. The third challenge wasn't going to be easy though for the Mobians were up against a crystallized Perfect Chaos. Sonic along with Shadow the Hedgehog and Scourge the Hedgehog had sealed Perfect Chaos into the void during the time of the Chaos Emerald Clusters and now Perfect Chaos was a mindless, crystallized pet for Ixis Naugus to command use to toy with whoever he so wished. Perfect Chaos was hard enough to defeat so Crystal Chaos likely wasn't going to be easy either. Add in the fact that nobody had a Chaos Emerald to turn super with so this was not going to be an easy battle at all. Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade were standing on a huge platform that served as their only grounding in the battle against Crystal Chaos. Crystal Chaos just loomed above them and snarled loudly, waving its crystalline tentacles around and getting ready to attack. Sonic had already launched the first attack at Crystal Chaos and he hit it in the top of its head, making it roar in pain and wave its tentacles around furiously. After that attack, Sonic hurled back down onto the platform. Ixis Naugus levitated above everything, looking down at the Mobians and grinning an evil, toothy grin that could make a shark go wild with excitement.

"This is my glorious little crystalline pet Mobians." hissed Naugus "You must defeat it or you will NEVER leave the void and you will be mine forever!"

"We'll stop it, don't worry Naugus!" declared Sonic "We've stopped worse then this thing before!"

"Wait Naugus, if we lose and you keep us in the void then we can't bring Imperator Ix back for you to settle your grudge with him!" protested Sally.

"And that is exactly why you must win Queen Acorn!" rasped Naugus "If you lose then both of us suffer! I never get to finish off Ix for all he's done to me and you never get out of the void so you'd better try and see if you can win this challenge or else…"

Sally just sighed in annoyance at the cackling wizard as he laughed away to himself. Sometimes, evil-doers just couldn't make things easy. They just had to be difficult didn't they? Still, this was their only chance of getting out of the void so whether she liked it or not, Sally and her friends would have to take on Crystal Chaos and in turn, win their freedom. Sally got out her staff, unsheathed the blade in it and twirled it around. Sonic, Knuckles and Shade bent down into battle-ready stances and prepared to do battle with Crystal Chaos. Sally looked a little nervous though. She'd never seen anything like Crystal Chaos and considering she never fought Perfect Chaos before he was sealed into the void, she had no idea what she was up against.

"OK…gulp…what are we up against then you three?" asked Sally nervously "You seem very familiar with it."

"That's a Chaos entity known as Perfect Chaos." explained Knuckles "It was a liquid-like life form that was formed from a disaster involving Chaos Emeralds apparently. You don't have to worry about it being water though, it's crystallized now."

"It's only weakness is the brain on top of its head." said Sonic, pointing up at the fin on top of Crystal Chaos's head that contained the only organ in its entire body "If we hit that brain, we seriously hurt it and that'll hopefully bring it down."

"OK then." said Sally "I don't think I'll be of much use in this battle unfortunately…"

"Don't strain yourself your majesty." said Shade "We'll take down that monster. You standby and see if an opportunity to help presents itself."

"OK." said Sally "Good luck you three."

"Thanks Sal." said Sonic "OK echidnas, let's bring down Crystal Chaos and win our freedom!"

Sonic soon found himself eating those words for Crystal Chaos lunged out and almost hit him with a huge tentacle. Sonic dodged the attack and zipped off as Crystal Chaos attempted to wallop him with another tentacle. The tentacle missed Sonic and walloped the platform, making it shake and shudder almost to the point of falling apart. Sonic jumped onto Crystal Chaos' tentacle just before the beast could retract it and he ran up the tentacle towards Crystal Chaos' head. Crystal Chaos unfortunately saw Sonic coming and it fired shards of crystals at Sonic from the spikes on its back. These normally would be energy bullets but because Chaos was crystallized, its attacks were crystallized too. Sonic dodged all the crystal shards and he spin-dashed towards Crystal Chaos' head. Crystal Chaos rose its head just as Sonic was about to hit its brain so Sonic ended up spin-dashing the wrong area on its head and he ricocheted away and down onto the platform. Sonic muttered grumpily under his breath and he spin-dashed towards Crystal Chaos again. The only thing is, when Sonic's a fair distance away, it gives his enemies more time to react and thus, Crystal Chaos was able to react before Sonic could get within ten feet of his brain. He walloped Sonic away with a huge, crystallized tentacle and Sonic was sent hurling away so far that he crash landed about halfway across the platform. Sally helped him up and Sonic rubbed himself better as Knuckles & Shade ran in to attack Crystal Chaos.

"I forgot one thing about Perfect Chaos...he doesn't like to play nice!" grumbled Sonic.

"Since he's battled you before Sonic, he likely knows that you know his weak-spot and will do anything to stop you from hitting it." explained Sally "Try distracting it and then go in for the kill."

"Sounds like an idea Sal." said Sonic brightly "And I know who'll distract it really well. Hey echidnas! Keep that thing busy for me while I try and hit its brain!" he called over to Knuckles and Shade who were both attacking Crystal Chaos simultaneously. Knuckles had grabbed onto one of its tentacles and had ran up towards its head and Shade was Blade-Rushing it like crazy, hitting several places all over the beast's crystallized body with energy waves.

"What did he say?!" asked Knuckles as he continued running up towards Crystal Chaos. Given how far Sonic was away from him and he was already climbing up Crystal Chaos' tentacle, it was no wonder Knuckles didn't hear Sonic very clearly.

"I think Sonic said "Keep that thing busy for me while I try and hit its brain"!" Shade called up to her boyfriend "I think Sonic wants us to distract this thing while he hits its weak-spot!"

"Got it hon!" said Knuckles, giving his girlfriend the thumbs up and a dashing smirk "Hey crystal-face! Here's mud in your eye!" he added for he had reached Crystal Chaos's head and he jumped into the air, drawing his arm back and aiming for its eye.

Unfortunately for Crystal Chaos, its eyes were not crystalized (obviously. How can he see otherwise?) so Knuckles had a clean shot. He hurled towards Crystal Chaos' eye and he punched it as hard as he possibly could, making the giant serpent-like monster roar in pain as it was hit ever so violently and callously in the eye. Knuckles just feel back down to the platform and Shade was quickly on hand to catch him before he could have a hard landing. Sonic watched Crystal Chaos writhe around and he curled up into a ball. He built up speed and he prepared to launch a spin-dash. He timed his attack just right so that when Crystal Chaos lowered its head while writhing around, Sonic would hit it. He rocketed like a whacked tennis ball towards Crystal Chaos and he spin-dashed directly into the fin on top of Crystal Chaos's head. Just a darn pity for Sonic that it was crystallized like the rest of Crystal Chaos's body was! But the crystal around the fin wasn't as strong as the rest of its body so while Sonic didn't break through it and hit the brain, he did leave a crack in it as he ricocheted off of it. If he hit it a few more times, he might just break through it and be able to hit Crystal Chaos's brain. Sonic landed back on the platform and he stared grimly at Crystal Chaos. He hated it when his villains didn't go down in one hit. This was why he honestly preferred fighting Eggman robots, they were always easier to take down since he could just knock them out with one hit. As is, he was against a crystallized Perfect Chaos and he'd have to just hit him as hard as he can and keep fighting until he goes down. Shade looked up at Crystal Chaos and she swiped her blades in a Blade Rush attack, aiming for the fin on Crystal Chaos's head. The purple energy wave whooshed from the swipe of Shade's blades and up towards Crystal Chaos's head. The attack struck the fin on Crystal Chaos's head but unfortunately, it didn't break the crystal casing around the fin, it just cracked it a little bit more but not by much. Knuckles ran towards Crystal Chaos and tried to grab onto one of its tentacles so he could run up it and up to its head but Crystal Chaos kept its tentacles up out of Knuckles' reach and it fired clusters of pink energy balls at the echidna. Knuckles dodged the attacks as they showered down over him and he leaped up and actually managed to grab one of the balls. It felt very hot in his hands and began to sting like crazy but he managed to keep hold of it and he threw it at Crystal Chaos's head. The ball hit the fin on Crystal Chaos's head and the colossal beast screamed in pain as its head began to sting like crazy from the attack. What made things worse was the fact that the energy ball had actually managed to shatter the crystal around Crystal Chaos's fin and now its brain was vulnerable! Sonic and the echidnas could hit it now and stop him for good! Sonic beamed happily at what Knuckles' attack had just done.

"Whoo-hoo! Good throw Knuckles!" cheered Sonic "Now let's beat the brains outta this guy! Ha, ha, ha...how do I come up with these jokes sometimes?" he snickered.

Sally sort of chuckled sarcastically at Sonic's line. She did somewhat find his sense of humour mildly entertaining most of the time. So now Crystal Chaos's brain was vulnerable, Sonic could just spin-dash it and easily take down the beast as easy as pie. Unfortunately for him, Crystal Chaos was not going to make it easy to hit him now his brain was vulnerable. He fired a huge energy beam out of his mouth at Sonic but the blue hedgehog managed to jump back just in time to dodge the attack. Crystal Chaos did end up taking a huge chunk out of the platform though. There was now a twenty-foot wide crater burning in the middle of the platform. Sonic gulped and he decided to make sure that Crystal Chaos doesn't do that again otherwise the entire platform would be obliterated and they'd be taken with it, thus eliminating their chance for freedom and quite easily ending their lives. Sonic looked up at Crystal Chaos and much to his horror, he saw that Crystal Chaos was preparing to fire another energy beam out of his mouth! Luckily for him though, Knuckles used his knuckles to climb up Crystal Chaos's tough, crystal shell and he climbed up and up until he reached the monster's eyes. Knuckles punched Crystal Chaos in the eye again as hard as he possibly could and he made Crystal Chaos lose focus. He reared his head up in agony and it fired the energy beam up into the air without really meaning to do it. Sometimes you can do things by accident when you're in pain after all. Now its attack had been interrupted, Knuckles jumped down from Crystal Chaos and landed down onto the platform. Sonic curled up into a ball once again and he spin-dashed towards Crystal Chaos just as it lowered its head. He whizzed towards the exposed fin on Crystal Chaos's head and he ploughed straight through it for Chaos is made up of water. Sonic hit the brain and he made the crystallized monster bellow a thunderous roar of pain, its tentacles waving around furiously and its head aching like mad. The pain in its brain made Crystal Chaos's body structure weaken and it began to sink down below the platform. Sonic hurled out of his head as Crystal Chaos began to sink down and he landed on the platform, skidding across it as he did so and he came to a halt near the crater made in the platform from Crystal Chaos's earlier attack. Sonic mopped his brow and he sighed with relief, believing that Crystal Chaos was defeated at last.

"Whew…that was cathartic!" gasped Sonic "But I think we've done it! Crystal Chaos seems to be down and out at last."

"I sincerely hope it's down." said Knuckles grimly "I wanna get out of this stinkin' place and get to stopping Imperator Ix and my treacherous Uncle Finitevus already!"

"I think we may still be fighting for our lives boys." said Shade downheartedly "Crystal Chaos isn't down yet. Look!" she exclaimed, pointing ahead of her dramatically.

Sonic and Knuckles stared in the direction Shade was pointing in and they saw Crystal Chaos coming back up and towering over the platform with a very angry look in his eyes and his teeth bared! Sonic leaped back in alarm and the echidnas prepared to do battle once again as Crystal Chaos raised its tentacles and prepared to continue fighting.

"Man, I thought that spin-dash to the brain would have taken it down already!" moaned Sonic "Guess I might have to hit it a few more times!"

"I'd try hitting the brain clean out of its head." suggested Shade "That'll take it down easily."

"It may even kill Chaos if we do that." said Knuckles "Not really bothered though, in this match it's "kill or be killed" as the say."

"OK, I'll try and spin-dash the brain clean out of its head." said Sonic "Apologies if that's a little grisly by the way Sal." he added, looking over at Sally.

"I'll be fine Sonic." said Sally reassuringly "You're doing this to a creature made of water, it won't be that cringing to see."

"OK then." said Sonic with a smile "Knuckles, Shade, let's bash Crystal Chaos's brain right out of his head!"

"You will not be doing that just yet quickster!" cackled Naugus delightedly "For I have decided to add in an extra opponent for you to face to make this final challenge more interesting…Crystal Nega, join in the battle!" he thundered at the top of his raspy voice.

Sonic was horrified to hear this. Naugus was giving them a second opponent to battle?! That wizard liked to make things difficult and throw in a few surprises here and there to shake things up didn't he? The Mobians watched in astonishment as a new crystallized figure suddenly appeared from nowhere in a magical breeze that swept around everybody and stood before them, its crystallized fists clenched and a scowl on its face as it prepared to do battle with its opponents. Sonic stared at the figure and suddenly realized that it looked incredibly familiar. The figure looked heavily like Dr. Eggman only it was entirely crystallized and looked about ready to do battle with them. Sonic had an idea on what they were suddenly up against whereas Sally, Knuckles and Shade were obfuscated to say the least.

"Dr. Eggman?!" shrieked Sally "B-b-b-but th-this c-can't be! He's dead now! How did HE end up in the void?!"

"Simple, it isn't Dr. Eggman." explained Sonic "Well technically it IS Dr. Eggman but it's not the Dr. Eggman we know and loathe."

"Please explain hedgehog, we're confused here." demanded Shade impatiently.

"OK, remember Mobius Nega?" asked Sonic "Well, that's the Mobius Nega counterpart of Dr. Eggman. He took over Mobius Nega and turned everybody into metal life forms. I helped to bring him down and I sent him here. Guess Naugus got him as well."

"I see." said Sally "So this is an alternate version of Eggman is it? He shouldn't be too difficult since he has no machines to help him out here."

"Yeah." said Sonic "Although I'm pretty sure the challenge was to defeat Crystal Chaos, not to take down Eggman Nega as well!" he growled, glaring at Naugus furiously as the wizard hovered before the Mobians with a sinister grin on his face that would make a goblin proud.

"I've altered the challenge. Pray I do not alter it any further." sneered Naugus "Now fight Mobians unless you want to stay trapped in the void forever! Hhhhha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"Sonic, you and the echidnas take on Crystal Chaos!" ordered Sally, whipping out her bo-staff and unsheathing the blade "I'll take on Eggman Nega, he won't be much of a problem for me and he'll just distract you if I don't take him on."

"Good idea Sally." said Sonic "Let's do it to it everybody!"

With that said, Sonic, Knuckles & Shade all ran towards Crystal Chaos and prepared to attack him again while Sally twirled her staff around and prepared to battle Eggman Nega. Naugus watched the whole fight from above, clearly enjoying every minute of what was going on. He sure was going to miss these Mobians and how entertaining they were when he let them out of the void. In fact… maybe he could keep them in the void anyway and have them provide him entertainment for all eternity…Naugus smiled maliciously as he thought about this idea. It sure would do him good to see Sally's horrified face when he announced that he was changing his mind and was keeping the four Mobians here in the void for the sake of entertainment. How glorious that would be to see indeed…

Meanwhile on Angel Island, the Royal Fighters found themselves having their second bout with Dr. Finitevus. They were fully aware of how powerful Finitevus was since he wiped the floor with them earlier but luckily for them, they had a counter attack. Espio the Chameleon had knocked out Finitevus with a kick to the head and while he was knocked out, the Royal Fighters had stolen his warp rings. Finitevus managed to get his super warp ring back though and that wasn't good for the Royal Fighters for that was the warp ring they needed. If they could get the super warp ring, then they could open up a portal to the void and save Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade from it and bring them back to Mobius. Then they could all team up and stop Imperator Ix once and for all, especially as the Master Emerald's here for Sonic or Knuckles to use and turn super with. Unfortunately, Finitevus is anything but easy to grab hold of and even though the Royal Fighters had his other warp rings to counter-attack, he was still as slippery as a bar of soap. That and Finitevus knew how to use warp-rings in battle much better than the Royal Fighters did too so this battle still wasn't going to be easy for them.

Finitevus started off the battle by lunging towards Tails the Fox. Sora Prower, Tails' sister, quickly handed Tails her warp ring as Finitevus lunged towards him and Tails opened it up to a random location and he sent Finitevus hurling through it. Tails had warped him into the volcanic land of obsidian known as Black Acropolis, miles and miles away from Angel Island. But that wouldn't keep Finitevus away for long. He used his super warp ring to warp back over to Angel Island. The moment he stepped out of the warp ring though, Vector the Crocodile socked him in the side of his head and sent him hurling across the battlefield. Finitevus dropped his super warp ring and Vector grabbed it quickly. But before he could do anything, Finitevus ran towards Vector and he flipped towards him. He reached the crocodile and, while standing on his right hand, he roundhouse kicked the crocodile in the head. Vector dropped the super warp ring and Finitevus quickly grabbed it. He flicked it into the air and he jumped through it just as Wilson the Dog ran forward and tried to grab him. Finitevus vanished through the warp ring and he reappeared behind Wilson. He jumped out of the super warp ring and he walloped Wilson in the back by lunging feet first into his back. Wilson was brought down onto his face and sent skidding across the grass, a mound of dirt building up around his face as he scrapped across it. Mandy Mouse, Wilson's wife, fumed at Finitevus and she flicked a warp ring into the air. Unfortunately, Finitevus heard her doing so and he quickly jumped through his warp ring. He vanished through it as Mandy threw a punch through the warp ring she had and left Mandy to punch nothing at all. Mandy drew her arm back out of the warp ring and she closed it up quickly so that she wouldn't lose it to Finitevus should he suddenly pop out and attack. Finitevus reappeared behind Mandy but because of Mandy's sensitive ears, she heard the warp ring open up and she ducked immediately before Finitevus could kick her. Finitevus hurled out of his warp ring and Mandy threw the one she had in front of him, sending Finitevus hurling through it. Mandy didn't sent Finitevus to another place unlike Tails, she just opened her warp ring up directly above Bunnie Rabbot. Thus, Finitevus fell out of the warp ring and Bunnie uppercut him in the gut before he could crash on top of her. Finitevus hurled back through Mandy's warp ring and Mandy caught him like a goalkeeper waiting for the coming football for she was standing outside of hers and waiting to grab him. Mandy forced Finitevus' arms behind his back and she held on tightly to him.

"Alright Dr. Creepy Von Evil, give us your super warp ring and I promise I won't break your arms!" snarled Mandy.

"Pry I don't break yours first my dear…" sneered Finitevus smoothly, not phased in the slightest by Mandy's threats.

He wrestled himself out of Mandy's grasp effortlessly and he forced her arms behind her back. He snatched the warp ring she had from her hands and he kicked Mandy directly into Wilson as he tried to help his wife fight the caped echidna. Finitevus now had two warp rings. He slipped the second one on his left wrist and continued to use his super warp ring. Geoffrey St. John loaded up his crossbow and he shot some stun-darts at Finitevus. Finitevus dodged the attacks and he charged towards Geoffrey as quickly as he could. He clasped his fists together and he uppercut Geoffrey in the face. Geoffrey staggered backwards and Finitevus tripped him up with a kick to the legs. Bunnie had the wise idea to throw a punch as Finitevus was attacking. Her robot arm extended to twice its normal length and she socked Finitevus directly in the face. Finitevus was quite amazed at how powerful that punch was and he found himself lying on the ground somewhat shaken by the powerful punch. Amy Rose ran towards Finitevus, her hammer brandished high above her head and she prepared to attack him before he could get back up. But Finitevus opened up a warp ring above himself as Amy threw the hammer down. The warp ring opened up…directly above Amy's head, leaving the pink hedgehog to wallop herself on the head with her own hammer. Finitevus picked himself up and he saw that Amy had one of his warp rings on her wrist. He pushed the dazed and confused Amy onto her back and he snatched his warp ring back, now giving himself three warp rings to use. He slipped it up to the knee on his left leg. Finitevus soon ended up getting four to use for he saw Nicole standing by and he quickly slugged her in the stomach, making Nicole double-over in pain and drop the warp ring she had. Finitevus grabbed it and slipped it onto his right leg up to the knee. Sora got the drop on him though by opening her warp ring directly underneath Finitevus. Finitevus fell through it and he ended up hurling towards Ruben the Water Panther. Ruben squirted Finitevus away and sent him hurling across the battlefield. Finitevus crashed into the Master Emerald shrine back-first and he groaned in pain as it flooded up his back and made him wince. Charmy Bee tried to sting Finitevus but he opened up a warp ring and sent Charmy whizzing into it. Charmy ended up being warped behind Vector and Charmy accidentally stung Vector in the bottom, making the crocodile yelp in pain. Cosmo the Seedrian ran in and she tried to snatch Finitevus's super warp ring but Finitevus just backhanded her onto the ground. Tails was livid to see Finitevus hurting his girlfriend like this and he lunged towards the albino-furred echidna.

Finitevus saw Tails coming but he was too late to stop Tails from kicking him in the face and knocking him down onto his back. Finitevus picked himself up and he punched at Tails. Tails flew over Finitevus and he grabbed the super warp ring in Finitevus' hand just as he sailed over him. He tried to wrestle it out of Finitevus' grasp but Finitevus held on tightly, resulting in a big tug-of-war between him and Tails. Tails was spinning his tails around as fast as possible to give himself some extra-strength in this tug-of-war. Finitevus was surprised at how much stronger Tails is when using his tails. He was having a hard time snatching his warp ring back. But the tug-of-war match was interrupted by a Doom Orb coming from nowhere and hitting Tails dead on in the body and sending him hurling across the battlefield. It was Imperator Ix! He had come back after searching for the Chaos Emeralds and he saw that Finitevus was in heated battle with the Royal Fighters. He had decided to help Finitevus by blasting Tails away. Unfortunately, Tails letting go of the super warp ring caused Finitevus' arm to shoot up into the air and he ended up accidentally letting go of the super warp ring and flinging it up into the air. The super warp ring hurled near the edge of Angel Island and it pinged off of it and over the edge. Cream the Rabbit saw it falling off of the island and she flew after the super warp ring as fast as she could. Finitevus opened up one of the three ordinary warp rings he got back and he jumped through it. He reappeared just underneath where the super warp ring was falling and he leaped up out of the warp ring. Cream was flying as fast as she could, desperate to get the super warp ring but unfortunately, Finitevus got it first. Finitevus caught it in his hands and he opened it up. He warped back up onto Angel Island just beside Imperator Ix and Cream, upset at her failure to get the Super Warp Ring, flew back onto the island. The Royal Fighters were now up against Imperator Ix and Dr. Finitevus both at once. Imperator Ix stood forward, his fists glowing malevolently as he glowered at the Royal Fighters. He threw some Doom Orbs at the Royal Fighters and he sent them all hurling backwards across the battlefield. This attack caused any Royal Fighters who still has one of Finitevus' warp rings to drop them on the ground and Finitevus was on hand to grab them all and put them back onto his arms and legs respectively. Tails groaned in defeat, unable to believe on how close they were to getting into the void and saving Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade from the horrors it contained. Imperator Ix cackled loudly at the heroes and he pointed gloatingly at them.

This attack caused any Royal Fighters who still has one of Finitevus' warp rings to drop them on the ground and Finitevus was on hand to grab them all and put them back onto his arms and legs respectively. Tails groaned in defeat, unable to believe on how close they were to getting into the void and saving Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade from the horrors it contained. Imperator Ix cackled loudly at the heroes and he pointed gloatingly at them.

"A most valiant effort to try and take down my apprentice and steal his super warp ring foolish worms." boomed Imperator Ix "But your attempts are ultimately futile. Why do you delay the inevitable so recklessly I must ask?"

"Because we aren't prepared to let guys like you take over the world and make everybody's lives miserable!" snapped Tails hotly.

"Yeah! And we also won't abide to you throwing four of our friends into the void and leaving them there to perish!" squealed Amy "You can beat us up all you like Ix and Finitevus, we won't give up no matter what happens!"

"As vexing as their hubris is, I really have got to admire such valour in these young fighters." purred Finitevus "Valour like that is commendable. You heroes will make fine servants for my master when our empire forms."

"You will never make us serve you Finitevus!" declared Nicole furiously "I'd sooner die then serve you or Imperator Ix!"

"We'd be all too happy to arrange that little lynx…" crooned Imperator Ix coldly, making Nicole suddenly regret saying that.

"Hey, I don't mean to ask but didn't Imperator Ix leave to find the Chaos Emeralds?" asked Cream curiously "He doesn't seem to have them on him right now."

"That's because my search got interrupted before I could really find them." said Ix grimly "I was searching high and low for the emeralds but I then decided to come back for a minute and see how things were going and now I see Finitevus fighting you all off as you try to stop him and steal his warp rings. Before I continue my search for the Chaos Emeralds, I think I may need to discipline you all a little and stave off any ideas of getting Finitevus's super warp ring and using it to go to the void…" he said, his voice dropping to a rather sinister tone as he summoned some energy to his fists and prepared to launch an attack at the Royal Fighters.

"You won't do anything of the sort Ix!" yelled Tails "For we've got one big shiny emerald that can help us get past you and your apprentice…" he added with a sly smile, flying up off the ground and up towards the Master Emerald, hinting heavily at what his great idea was.

Ix and Finitevus stared in horror at Tails as he prepared to do something with the Master Emerald.

"The Master Emerald…stop him now!" cried Imperator Ix furiously.

But before anyone could do anything, Tails landed on top of the Master Emerald and he yelled aloud "Chaos…CONTROL!" As he yelled those words, the Master Emerald began to glow brightly and time around Imperator Ix and Dr. Finitevus seemed to slow down. Time slowed down so much that it ended up stopping around them. Imperator Ix and Dr. Finitevus were frozen in time thanks to the Chaos Control. Tails cheered happily, pleased to see that his plan had worked and he hopped off the Master Emerald.

"Yes! It worked!" cheered Tails "Ix and Finitevus are stuck in a Chaos Control! Now we can get that super warp ring and get Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade out of the void!"

"Ya'll better be quick sugah for it won't last forever." noted Bunnie.

Tails darted over to Finitevus as quickly as he could and he decided to take a wild guess on which warp ring was the super warp ring. He took one from Finitevus's left wrist and he flicked it up into the air, praying that it was the super warp ring. The warp ring expanded to twice its size and…a portal opened up in the centre of it and the portal led directly into the void! Tails had chosen the right ring! Tails cried out in excitement at the fact he had managed to find the right warp ring.

"Yes! I've got it!" exclaimed Tails "Now I'll just get inside and find our friends. I'll be back soon everybody, see you later." he said, waving to the others as he prepared to step through the warp ring and into the void.

"Good luck Tails." said Cosmo with her hands over her chest.

"You find our friends and bring them back home little brother." said Sora brightly.

Tails smiled at Cosmo and Sora and he jumped into the warp ring. He was warped from Angel Island and into the void and the super warp ring closed up behind him as he jumped in. It may take a while for Tails to find Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade but he'd do it eventually. He'd have to be quick though for Ix and Finitevus's Chaos Control was wearing off and the Royal Fighters may not be able to hold them off for too long once the inevitable battle ensues…

Back in the void, the battle for freedom was getting as intense as ever. Crystal Chaos was giving Sonic, Knuckles & Shade a hard time whereas Sally wasn't having it too hard with Eggman Nega but the crystallized doctor was pretty resistant so her attacks weren't really that big of a blow to him (you try hurting something coated in crystal!). Sally twirled her staff around and she tripped Eggman Nega up by taking his legs out from underneath him with the staff. Eggman Nega landed heavily on his back and Sally added a bit more by kicking him as hard as she could. The resulting kick left her foot feeling sore but at this point, Sally was pretty used to pain now. Sally rubbed her foot better and she braced herself as Eggman Nega picked himself up. The crystallized mad-man lumbered towards Sally as quickly as he could. That is…not very quickly considering he's already a fat man and all that crystal around him is just making him even heavier. Sally had plenty of time to step out of the way and dropkick Eggman Nega in the back as he lumbered past her. Eggman Nega was no match for Sally's speed and agility. Eggman Nega was thrown onto the floor by the kick but he picked himself up and punched at Sally. Sally dodged the punch and she stabbed Eggman Nega's arm with the blade of her staff. Eggman Nega groaned furiously as the shard blade of Sally's staff penetrated the crystal casing he was trapped in and went through his arm. Sally yanked the staff out of Eggman Nega's arm and she spun around and kicked Eggman Nega towards the edge of the platform. The crystallized alternate Eggman nearly ended up falling off, he just came to a stop on his shoulder. He lay there on the edge of the platform, clutching his arm in pain. Sally decided to see to it that he does fall off so she ran over to Eggman Nega and she pushed him directly off the platform. Eggman Nega plummeted straight down from the platform and he disappeared into the dark depths of the void, his screams drifting away into silence as he disappeared from sight. Sally took a moment to forgive herself for doing something so brutal and then she turned away from the edge of the platform.

"That almost felt like getting rid of the real Eggman…" she said to herself "I doubt I could ever bring myself to be so cold and merciless though if this were the real Eggman at my mercy. At least Eggman Nega won't be dead since if you fall in this place you just fall and fall until Naugus catches you so I won't have killed Eggman Nega, lucky for me as I could never bring myself to kill anybody, no matter how horrible they are."

Her thoughts snapped back into reality just in time for Sally to see that Crystal Chaos was still providing some problems for Sonic, Knuckles & Shade. The crystallized monster tried to whip the three Mobians with its enormous tentacles but they all dodged the attack and Sonic spin-dashed towards its brain again. Crystal Chaos however lifted its head up so Sonic ended up spin-dashing him in the bridge of his nose rather than the fin on his head. Sonic hurled back down to the ground and he tried another spin-dash. Crystal Chaos however fired some energy bullets from the spikes on its back and they blasted Sonic back down onto the platform, the blue hedgehog crying out in pain as he was stricken by the attacks. Knuckles tried to climb up Crystal Chaos and get to his brain but Crystal Chaos saw him and he scraped Knuckles off of himself with his tentacle. Knuckles was sent hurling back down to the platform and he groaned in pain as he hit it. Shade tried to Blade-Rush Crystal Chaos's brain but he held up his tentacle and blocked the attack. He then tried to whip Shade but Shade managed to dodge the attack and she ran for it as quickly as she could. Crystal Chaos eyed Sonic, who was still lying on the platform and recovering from the earlier attack, and he raised a tentacle up as high as he could. Sally gasped in horror for she could see that Crystal Chaos was going to crush Sonic with his tentacle. The squirrel queen put her staff away and she instantly bolted forward as fast as she could. Crystal Chaos aimed his tentacle at Sonic and he brought it swinging down towards him. Sally made it just in time and she scooped Sonic up in her arms. She jumped out of the way just as Crystal Chaos slammed the platform with his tentacle. The platform shook violently and Sally ended up falling over, dropping Sonic as she did so. Sonic rolled across the platform and he came to a stop just a few feet away from Sally. Sally picked herself up and she ran over to Sonic's side.

"Sonic? Are you OK?" she asked concernedly, shaking him a little.

"Ugh I feel like I've been shot out of the sky…" groaned Sonic as he sat up and rubbed himself better.

"Oh thank goodness." said Sally, hugging Sonic with relief "Sonic, are you still able to fight at all?"

"I'm a little sore Sally but I can still go for it." said Sonic "I've survived worse before as you know."

"I know." said Sally "Anyway, I've gotten rid of Eggman Nega so you only have Crystal Chaos to worry about now."

"Cool." said Sonic, staggering back onto his feet "As for Crystal Chaos, I'm sure we'll take him down eventually. We just need to hit that brain a few more times."

"If only you had your super form Sonic." said Knuckles grimly "You could just pound Crystal Chaos to a pulp and you'd be too fast for him to stop you."

"Indeed I would." said Sonic dully "As is, we just have to try everything we've got in order to…"

Then suddenly, much to the surprise of everybody, a warp ring opened up and out of it shot Tails! Sonic jumped as Tails whizzed out of the warp ring that opened up. Tails grabbed the super warp ring as he jumped through it and he landed onto the platform next to Sonic & Sally. Naugus looked amazed to see this happen whereas Sonic, Sally, Knuckles and Shade were all too happy to see Tails here and with a super warp ring no less.

"What sorcery is this?!" he rasped in bewilderment.

"Tails! You managed to get Finny's super warp ring! Ace!" cried Sonic with joy "Now we can get outta here at long last!"

"You bet we can Sonic." said Tails brightly "Come on let's get going and fast!"

But before Tails could do anything, Crystal Chaos slammed the platform and made everybody fall over as it shuddered furiously under the massive slam of Crystal Chaos's enormous, crystalline tentacles. Tails picked himself up and he stared in horror at the sight of Crystal Chaos. He recognized him easily and that's what made him even more scared of Crystal Chaos.

"Perfect Chaos?!" shrieked Tails "Wh-wh-what happened t-t-to him?!"

"Long story bro, can't explain it now." said Sonic "Open up the warp ring and get us outta here!"

Tails did not wait to be asked twice. He flicked the super warp ring up into the air and it expanded to several times its size. Naugus was horrified to see this and he flew towards the super warp ring as fast as he could.

"Oh no you don't! You will not leave here until the challenge is completed!" snarled Naugus, desperate to catch the Mobians before they could escape the void.

But as fast as Naugus was going, he was much too late. Sonic, Tails, Sally, Knuckles & Shade all bolted through the super warp ring the moment it opened up and by the time Naugus got there, the warp ring closed up and vanished into thin air, leaving Naugus to crash face-first into the platform. as he missed. Naugus picked himself up, rubbing his face better, and he clenched his teeth in rage. The Mobians had managed to evade him and they had escaped the void! Naugus was so furious over losing his new figures of entertainment that all he could do was roar in rage.

"RRRRRRAAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRRRGGGGGGGGGGGGHHHHHH

What you're about to get now is the embodiment of good timing for when the super warp ring opened up and Sonic, Sally, Tails, Knuckles & Shade all filed out of it one by one and onto Angel Island, the Chaos Control around Imperator Ix and Dr. Finitevus wore off. The two were now able to move again and once they started moving, they were quick to notice that they now had more company than they did earlier. As for the Royal Fighters, they were overjoyed to see Sonic, Sally, Knuckles & Shade back from the void and looking OK as they stood on the Master Emerald shrine before everybody.

"Whoo-hoo Tails! You did it!" cried Mandy excitedly.

"You've got them all back!" cheered Cosmo "Sonic, Sally, Knuckles & Shade are back from the void and safe and sound again!"

"Now we can deal with those echidna blighters once and for all!" exclaimed Geoffrey St. John happily.

"The guardian and the others I banished to the void have returned?!" thundered Ix in rage "How did this happen?!"

"I froze you both with a Chaos Control and then I stole Finitevus's super warp ring and used it to rescue our friends!" explained Tails, a taunting expression on his face "You two are dead meat now so you may as well give up all plans you have of putting the island back down and making your own empire!" he added, pointing at them as he yelled those words.

"I am hardly dead meat cretin!" snarled Imperator Ix "For I have my magical powers and Dr. Finitevus has his prodigious fighting abilities! You will be thrown back into the void and this time, I'll exile ALL of you so that NOBODY can bring you back from the void!"

"We'll see about that Imperator." said Sonic "Though I think Knuckles has a few things he'd like to say to you."

As Sonic said that, Knuckles climbed onto the Master Emerald and started tapping into its power. Sonic, Sally, Tails & Shade jumped off the shrine as Knuckles tapped into the emerald's power and the Master Emerald began to glow dazzlingly and radiantly as its power activated. Knuckles was activating his chaos form once again. His red fur began to turn a dark green colour as he filled himself with energy from the Master Emerald and his dreadlocks began to spread out and levitate upwards. Ix and Finitevus both stepped back in horror as Knuckles began transforming into his chaos form. They knew they were in trouble now for a chaos form was far more powerful then anything they had ever taken on before and Knuckles' chaos form was the very thing that had exiled Imperator Ix in the first place.

"No! The moron is using his chaos form!" cried Dr. Finitevus.

"He is indeed!" exclaimed Imperator Ix "But I will not be defeated and thrown back into the void again! Finitevus, help me bring down this wretch once and for all!"

"Bring him down yourself master!" snarled Finitevus "Unlike you, I know when I'm defeated!"

With that said, Finitevus snapped his fingers and opened up a warp ring as quickly as he could. He jumped through the warp ring and left Angel Island behind. The warp ring closed up behind him as he left, leaving a furious Imperator Ix stranded on Angel Island and at the mercy of Chaos Knuckles. Speaking of Chaos Knuckles, Knuckles' transformation was complete and he levitated off of the Master Emerald and over to Imperator Ix, a bright green aurora surrounding him and his dreadlocks waving around. Imperator Ix stood back and he began to tremble with fear.

"N-n-n-no! P-p-p-please! G-g-guardian! D-d-d-don't th-th-throw me b-b-back into the v-v-v-void!" whimpered Ix "I-I-I-I'll d-d-do anything! Anything! D-d-don't throw m-m-me b-b-back into the v-v-void Knuckles! Please!"

"You don't deserve to walk on Angel Island Ix, or indeed anywhere else on Mobius." said Chaos Knuckles coldly "You're a disgrace to the echidna race and you violated your exile. Now I'm gonna make sure you STAY in the void for good!"

With that said, Chaos Knuckles held his arms out and he thundered at the top of his voice "Chaos…CONTROL!" His body began to glow brightly as he yelled it aloud and Imperator Ix suddenly froze up as if time was stopping all around him. Imperator Ix was frozen in time once again and he couldn't move at all. Now that was done, Chaos Knuckles opened up a Chaos Portal with another Chaos Control. The portal opened up nice and big and Chaos Knuckles grabbed Imperator Ix by his arms. He lifted him up as if he weighed nothing and then he threw the crazed echidna into the portal. The portal, of course, led to the void. Imperator Ix was now back in the void where he belonged. But Chaos Knuckles didn't seem to be finished yet. He yelled aloud "Chaos…CONTROL!" again as the portal began to close up. Nothing seemed to happen though so the Royal Fighters were left wondering what Chaos Knuckles had done with that Chaos Control. Now Ix was gone for good, Chaos Knuckles powered down and he returned to his normal self. His fur turned back red and his dreadlocks drooped back down again. The moment he was back to normal, Knuckles turned to the others.

"Tails, try and use the super warp ring to go to the void." he ordered.

Tails was puzzled to receive such an order. Why on Mobius did Knuckles want him to do that? Squaring his shoulders, Tails just did as he was told. He flicked the super warp ring into the air and it expanded to many times its size…but no portal opened up in the middle. It was just empty. Tails was even more puzzled now. What was going on? He has the super warp ring so why can't he open up a portal to the void now?

"Huh? I…I don't understand." said Tails "Why can't I…?"

"It's a good thing Tails, it means it's worked." said Knuckles "You see, one of the perks of being a Chaos Being is that you can do beyond what any normal person can do with a Chaos Emerald. Using that final Chaos Control before the portal closed, I have placed a time-lock on the void. So nobody can ever enter or leave the void ever again. Uncle Finitevus can try all he likes, he will never be able to get into the void again. It's time-locked and no super warp ring will ever be able to get you in it, no matter how powerful it is."

"Wow! Way past cool Knuckles!" cheered Sonic "Ix is stuck in the void forever now!"

"But that means we can't banish anybody else to the void either." noted Sally "Especially Dr. Finitevus."

"It doesn't matter." said Knuckles "Finitevus will be caught some day and brought to justice you see if he isn't. When I get my treacherous uncle, I'll turn into Chaos Knuckles, place a time-locked Chaos Control on him and then lock him away forever. Finitevus will be frozen forever if I ever get to do that to him."

"Sounds cool." said Sonic.

"By the way Knuckles, we learned some history about Angel Island while you were in the void." explained Cosmo "Finitevus claims that the Master Emerald used to be hidden in a cavern before the island was risen and that nobody was ever able to find it in there. Do you think that he's right to have the island down and have everything back the way it was?"

"Uncle Finitevus does have legitimate reasons for being against Angel Island being in the sky." explained Knuckles "But he totally missed the point that even if the island's down and the Master Emerald's back in the cavern, it won't be any safer then it is up here. Everybody knows about the Master Emerald now and do you think lowering the island is gonna make people forget about it? Certainly not! We'd probably get thieves digging the place up trying to find it and since Eggman's servant bot is still functioning, she might bring a whole army of Egg-Pawns and blow up the place just to find the emerald! While raising the island is the reason everybody knows the Master Emerald exists now, the guardians are here to make up for that mistake…by making sure it stays safe and that the island stays afloat. I'm here to make sure that the Master Emerald stays safe and that Angel Island stays safe. It's much safer up here and it shall STAY up here as long as I'm around."

"Very good points there Knuckles and a very good sense of dedication to duty." Sally commended brightly "I bet your father would be very proud to hear all this Knuckles."

"Yeah…my old man would be proud indeed." murmured Knuckles as he thought back to his father's death."

"He would, and there's another echidna who's proud of you Knuckles." said Shade, coming forward and pulling Knuckles into a hug "And she's standing in front of you right now." she added slyly.

Knuckles knew what Shade meant and he chuckled slightly. He wrapped his arms around Shade and the two echidnas kissed each other lovingly. The Royal Fighters just watched on, awed by the two echidnas kissing each other. As they did that, Sally took Sonic's hand into hers and looked over at him dreamily. That scary encounter in the void had left her feeling rather attracted to Sonic and she found herself beginning to fall for him. She'd been harbouring feelings for Sonic since the day he rescued her from Eggman's first attack and this adventure just left her feeling more attracted to Sonic than ever before. She began to wonder if Sonic was feeling the same way towards her. Sonic looked over at Sally and realized she was holding his hand. He didn't mind though, he was beginning to quite like Sally himself.

"Guess Knuckles and Shade smooching together is making you feel all lovey-dovey then?" teased Sonic.

"Don't start true blue." teased Sally "I will say though…thank you for keeping me safe and saving my life while in the void Sonic."

"Don't mention it Sal." said Sonic "And thanks for saving my life too. I appreciate it." he added.

Sally beamed brightly. Seemed Sonic might be sharing her affections after all. They'd just have to wait and see though. For now, they could enjoy this moment of victory and get back to their day of peace they had been hoping to have before this whole mess started.

Unbeknownst to anybody though, Dr. Finitevus had warped back onto the island and he had been listening to the conversation from behind some thick bushes. He put a finger to his lips and mused for a moment about what he had heard.

"So my master's gone forever thanks to a time-lock is he?" purred Finitevus "That means that I am separated from him forever. Oh well, him being gone is his own fault, his hubris was his downfall. As for the reasoning behind keeping the island afloat…maybe my nephew isn't so stupid after all. He can have this accursed island though, it's not worth my time anymore. But the Master Emerald…is. And I have just the plan to snatch it from Knuckles's fingers…yes… they will all pay for my humiliation and for getting rid of Imperator Ix for good. They will all pay…"

And with that said, Finitevus vanished through another warp ring and he headed off to one place he knew he wanted to go…Dr. Eggman's underground bunker…

In the void, Imperator Ix's Chaos Control had worn off and he found himself floating around in the dark, eerie atmosphere of the void. Ix began to feel nervous. He was back in the void again and it was very likely that he was going to be done for. And done for he was for Crystal Chaos spotted him and grabbed him with a huge tentacle. Crystal Chaos squeezed Imperator Ix as hard as he could, the echidna gasping and wheezing for breath as he was squeezed. Ix's troubles were just beginning though for Ixis Naugus appeared in front of him in a gust of wind and he grinned inanely at him.

"Hello Imperator Ix." he hissed evilly "How nice of you to come back to the void! Losing the quickster and his friends is moot now that you're back in my territory. And now I've got you, I will make you suffer for all you've done to me!"

So with that said, Naugus waved his arms around and Ix, screaming in agony, found himself slowly becoming a crystalline figure. His flesh and bones began to become crystal and it started up from his feet and up to his head like a spreading virus. Ix's screams were finally silenced when his head became crystalline. Imperator Ix was now a crystal minion for Ixis Naugus to play with and Naugus was going to have a lot of fun with Ix, especially since he had such a big grudge on him…

And that's the end of Imperator Ix everybody! But Dr. Finitevus is still around and who knows what he's planning next...what's next in store for Sonic the Hedgehog? And will he be ready for it? Join me as we begin the set-up to the titanic milestone epic Chapter 150 next time...

Operation: Double Trouble Part 1

Story 149: Operation: Double Trouble Part 1: Setting the Stages

Dr. Eggman's underground bunker had been working non-stop in the couple of days that had passed since the destruction of the Egg-Carrier and the near-death of Dr. Eggman himself. Eggman was in a critical condition after the Egg Carrier had crashed and nearly taken him with it and the only way to save the good doctor was to give him a new life. A life encased in a cold metal cage complete with functioning joints, coding and circuitry. A life inside a robotical shell. Katherine, Eggman's loyal servant fem-bot, had reconstructed the body of the late E-123 Omega to pose as Dr. Eggman's life-support machine. Omega had once been used by the treacherous butler-bot Alonzo in an attempt to kill Dr. Eggman during the time Shadow the Hedgehog once worked for him and now Omega was going to be used as Dr. Eggman's life-support machine. Truly a cruel case of irony considering Omega once tried to kill Eggman and now was going to be keeping him alive. Omega would be furious over the very idea of keeping Eggman alive. But no need to worry about that for Omega was not entirely the same as before. Katherine had remoulded him to be more appropriate for medical purposes and to be a life-support machine rather than a fully functional robot. For example, Omega had no internal mechanisms inside. The space was entirely hallowed out for Dr. Eggman to fit in. Omega's limbs would move by Eggman's will thanks to special sensors built into the limbs and wires connected to a helmet that was perched on top of Eggman's head. All Eggman would have to do is think and then he'd be able to move around and activate Omega's hidden weapons that were contained in his arms. Dr. Eggman had been placed in Omega and all the time that Sonic the Hedgehog and friends had spent fighting with Imperator Ix and Dr. Finitevus, Katherine had been providing the finishing touches to Dr. Eggman and his life-support machine. Right about now, Katherine had finished her work and she was about ready to bring Eggman back alive. Eggman was fully encased inside Omega's body now and Omega was standing motionless by the wall with lots of wires connected to his back. Katherine was standing by a generator which had a lever. One throw of the lever and Eggman would function and begin a brand new life as the very thing he loved to make…a robot. She hadn't chosen to roboticize Eggman as she felt Eggman would want some part of him left at least and wouldn't want to be entirely robotic. Katherine curled her long, thin claws over the lever and prepared to pull the lever. Her circuitry hummed nervously for she feared this experiment might not work and Eggman would well and truly be gone. Katherine played a vocal clip of somebody sighing to express her nervousness and then she pulled the lever. Electricity buzzed and crackled through the wires as energy began feeding through them and into Omega's functionless body. Omega began to judder furiously as energy was feeding into him and Katherine stood by, watching intently as the final touch was added to Eggman's life-support machine. This went on for two very tense and very long minutes until finally, the energy stopped feeding into Omega and electricity stopped crackling up the long, snaky wires connected into his back. Everything fell into an ominous silence once that had finished and Omega still stood against the wall, completely functionless and void of any life. Katherine stood forward and held a hand out in the manner of a worried child reaching out to touch something that's just died. Had the experiment failed? Was all her hard work for nothing and Dr. Eggman was gone for good? Katherine could feel herself about ready to malfunction over the very thought of this. Then suddenly, as Katherine's hand began to place itself on Omega's head, his body jerked furiously and his optics shone a fantastic, luminous, eerie red colour that matched his red colour-scheme. He stood up straight and he began to slowly walk away from the wall. Katherine stepped back as Omega walked forward. He then stopped walking and he stretched his arms out to the sides. He then stretched in the manner of somebody waking up in the morning and having a good stretch.

"Oooooh…Dr. Eggman it is good to be back!" came the voice of Dr. Eggman from inside Omega's body as he stretched. His voice was altered a little so when he spoke, he sounded like Eggman and Omega both at once.

Katherine stood there in an excited stance as she heard Dr. Eggman say those words. The experiment had worked! Dr. Eggman was alive and he was back in action once again! The Eggman Empire could continue with it's glorious leader back alive and Sonic and friends could pay most dearly for nearly ending Eggman's life! Katherine bowed down to Dr. Eggman loyally.

"It is good to have you back again DR. EGGMAN." Katherine said through multiple voice-clips she played in order to piece that sentence together.

Dr. Eggman looked at Katherine and he smiled at her from inside Omega's casing.

"Katherine, my loyal little fem-bot. How have you been while I've been out of it?" asked Dr. Eggman kindly.

He reached out a huge, metal hand to touch Katherine only to suddenly realize that he wasn't reaching out with his own hand. He looked at his hand and saw that much to his astonishment, it was the hand of Omega. He looked at his arm and saw that he also had Omega's arm. He looked at his other arm and saw that he had both of Omega's arms. He looked down at his legs and saw that they were not his own legs, they were the legs of Omega. Eggman then realized that he was sitting in something. He looked all around at the interior of Omega that he was fitted in and realized that he was not his old self. He was sitting, fastened inside the body of one of his own machines! Eggman was so startled at this that he almost stumbled over onto his back. The Omega casing he was encased in staggered backwards on its small legs and nearly overbalanced. Eggman regained his balance thanks to Omega's enormous arms weighing him forward as he held them up. He looked at his hands again and the casing's arms began to tremble a little. Almost as if Dr. Eggman was horrified to see what had become of him.

"Katherine…what has happened to me?!" gasped Dr. Eggman "I'm…encased in the body of E-123 Omega?! What has happened to me?!"

Katherine began to feel nervous. Eggman looked horrified to see what had become of him. Would he explode in rage and destroy her? Would he lose his mind and go on a rampage? Katherine's joints trembled and her circuitry hummed anxiously as she pieced together a sentence out of pre-recorded voice-clips to explain Eggman's situation.

"It was the only way we could save you Dr. Eggman." she said "You were AT DEATH'S DOOR pretty much . Your spaceship crashed down and you nearly died in it . I had no choice BUT TO PUT YOU ON LIFE SUPPORT in order to save your life Dr. Eggman. Please understand."

She held her hands up and deployed her barrier for incase Eggman reacted violently and tried to kill her for this. Dr. Eggman took in Katherine's words and he realized that she was right. The crash of the Egg Carrier had left him pretty much dead. He remembered the ship crashing down, the impact throwing him off his feet and sending him catapulting into a wall, the crash into the wall leaving him feeling very sore and almost broken, debris crashing down around him and the craft exploding into flames as the fuel was ignited by the crash and the fire dancing all around him as he passed out from his injuries and the heat in the atmosphere. It likely would have been the end for him then so Eggman had to be thankful to Katherine that he was alive at all. As is, he wasn't going to kill Katherine for resurrecting him as a cyborg, a human inside a robot's shell. Eggman admired himself all over again and Katherine waited to see what his reaction was going to be. Eggman lowered his enormous, robotical arms and he looked at Katherine with the optics on Omega's head.

"So in order to save my life, you had to resurrect me as a robot pretty much." crooned Eggman, coming up to Katherine and putting his hands on her shoulders "Very thing that I love to make. And you've put me in the body of E-123 Omega no less! VERY good indeed Katherine!"

He then picked Katherine up and hugged her as a token of gratitude (Thank goodness he's hugging her with the robot shell he's in otherwise this would look wrong in so many ways). Katherine was rather surprised at the fact Eggman was actually OK with this despite his rather horrified reaction once he realized where he was. Nevertheless, she was pleased her master approved of this. She did aim to please after all. Eggman put Katherine down and he looked at the huge arms of the Omega casing he was being kept alive in. He smiled at them from inside the casing.

"Omega was one of my best robots ever! So potent, so powerful and so full of weaponry too." crowed Dr. Eggman "Now I'm inside the body of Omega, I will be able to take down the hedgehog no sweat! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha! Oh yes, Omega himself could fend off Sonic, Shadow, Bunnie and Rouge all at once! Just imagine how strong I will be in this casing! Oh, ho, ho, ho, ho, ho!"

With that said, he proceeded to stride over to a wall and he punched it as hard as he could. He broke directly through the wall with that one punch, yelling "Oh YEAH!" as he did so. The wall now had a giant hole in it and chunks of metal from the wall littered the floor as Eggman punched through it. Katherine shook a little at the sight of Eggman punching through the wall. She didn't really think it was that necessary to do that, even if it was a test of strength and also seeing the wall crumble before Eggman's might made her feel relieved that Eggman didn't decide to use her for stress relief. Eggman stepped through the hole in the wall and he cackled over what he had done.

"I've never felt so powerful in all my life!" cackled Eggman "Oh, ho, ho, ho, ho! This is fantastic! I'm in the body of one of my most powerful machines ever! It would have been even better had I been put in the body of Silver Sonic though but Omega more than makes up for that! Especially since I have all these weapons at my disposal!"

With that said, Eggman deployed some of Omega's weaponry. His metallic hands became a pair of laser cannons, some extra-laser cannons came out of his arms and some Gatling guns extended out from compartments in the torso section of the Omega casing. The laser cannons spun as they readied for action and the Gatling guns clocked themselves, ready to spray bullets on whatever they were aimed at. Omega was a robot built with heavy artillery after all and Katherine had re-captured all of that perfectly when re-building Omega as a life-support machine for Dr. Eggman. Eggman had enough weaponry on him now to blow his entire bunker up if he wanted to. But of course, he wasn't that crazy (yet) so he wouldn't be blowing up his own base just to test his firepower. Eggman retracted all of his weapons back into his arms and he had yet another fit of maniacal laughter (yeah, expect a LOT of that from him in this chapter).

"Sonic the Hedgehog will have no idea what's hit him once I strike!"

crowed Dr. Eggman "I will wipe the floor with his smug little face so hard that the floor will leave his face a VERY bloody mess indeed! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Katherine just showed an icon of a smiley face on her visor to express how glad she was to see that Dr. Eggman appreciated her hard work for him. It made her feel good to see that Eggman was happy with his life-support machine and that he didn't mind being resurrected as a robot. Dr. Eggman finally finished idolizing himself (bet you thought he'd never stop) and he turned around to face Katherine again. He put his arms behind his back in the manner of how he used to do it when he was his old self and he strode up to Katherine, again, in the manner of how he used to do it when he was his old self.

"So enough about me and my excellent return to duty, let's talk about some other things." said Dr. Eggman, coming to a stop just before Katherine and looking down at her "Katherine, did you manage to retrieve anything from the Egg-Carrier's wreckage at all?" he asked curiously.

He was quite inquisitive to hear if anything good had been salvaged from the sorry remains of his rather grand vessel of greatness so that he could re-use it and try again to take down Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends. Katherine just turned around and wandered off towards the hole in the wall that Eggman had made. Eggman followed her and the two stepped back through the hole in the wall and into the lab that Eggman had been woken up in. Katherine led Eggman over to a nearby desk and she showed Eggman that she had indeed managed to salvage something from the destruction of the Egg-Carrier. The thing was contained in a glass canister and it was wriggling about inside, trying to get out. It was the sprig of the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra, Dr. Eggman's robotical plant machine that could manipulate machinery and add parts to itself in order to grow, shape-shift and become a very powerful robot. It had given Sonic & Shadow a tough fight on the Egg-Carrier and had even taken over the body of Devion the Devatron Leader in an attempt to stop them. The Hydra had survived but was now a little prickly vine with jaws just wriggling about inside its canister, hungry for machines to devour and parts to add to itself. Eggman walked up to the desk and he observed the Hydra with the optics of his life-support mech.

"Well…this is fortuitous." purred Dr. Eggman "You've managed to salvage the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra! Brilliant! According to my scanners though, it's a little damaged so I cannot send it out into battle anytime soon. Did you manage to salvage Devion's body at all?" he asked hopefully.

Katherine shook her head in despair. Devion had been rendered irreparable thanks to the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra taking over his body and pretty much replacing most of his circuitry with its own vines as it took over his body. That and the fact Devion got a nasty shock meant that Devion just couldn't be repaired. His body was now nothing more than spare parts for the next Egg-Pawn or whatever Eggman decided to build next time and the Devatrons were now finally extinct (the Startrons wiped all the others out with their chrome-eating virus if you remember). Dr. Eggman was disappointed to hear this. He had done all of this hard work just getting Devion under his control and it had all been for nothing. His most powerful minion was merely scrap metal now. What a loss this was. Devion could have given him a glorious victory what with his intelligent mind, great battle prowess and invulnerable body that made him a dangerous fighter and a tough opponent to take down. Oh well, as the old saying from his home world of Earth went: easy come, easy go. Eggman would just have to put up with the fact Devion was gone for good. After all, Eggman replaced his minions all the time, he could just as easily build a new robot to replace Devion and he still had his Metal series and the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. Devion's loss wasn't entirely devastating after all.

"That is most unfortunate to hear Katherine." said Eggman grimly "Poor Devion has been reduced to the scrap pile. He will be missed. Oh well, nothing lasts forever as they say. I've still got plenty of robots to use against Sonic and friends, especially the Metal series. Metals Sonic, Tails, Knuckles & Amy and the mighty Silver Sonic will still give Sonic and friends a tough battle and the best part is, thanks to you giving me this life-support mech, I will be able to join in with them! Oh happy, happy day this is! Speaking of Sonic and friends, I know just what to do!" he declared excitedly "I'll have you dig into the city Katherine, then you will take down the shield-generator that is the only thing they have to stop me from entering it and then we will bombard New Mobotropolis and destroy the Royal Fighters with it! I would normally roboticize them but I've decided that it might be better if I just kill them. Keeping them alive has led to my downfall too many times already! And it's also led to this…" he added, looking down at his robotical arms again "So I won't push my luck for the millionth time. The Royal Fighters are to be killed, not roboticized from now on. Do you understand Katherine?"

Katherine nodded understandingly. Roboticizing Sonic and friends didn't do any good for them at all. Mecha Sonic? Sonic got saved and Eggman got defeated humiliatingly. The time Eggman roboticized all of Mobius? Mobius got saved still and Eggman went nuts for a time. Attempting to roboticize Sonic's friends? That just led to the Egg-Carrier crashing and Eggman nearly dying so why keep trying to roboticize Sonic and friends since it keeps leading to disaster? Katherine was all too happy to change her priority from capture the Royal Fighters to kill the Royal Fighters instead. Killing them would definitely put an end to all their problems and leave Mobius without any protectors as Eggman went onto roboticize the entire world and build his glorious Eggman Empire. Eggman grinned at Katherine, pleased to see she understood his plans and change of motive.

"Good girl Katherine." said Eggman, patting her as gently as he could with the mech's huge metal hands (you have to be careful with hands and arms as large as Omegas'!) "Now then, I think we should get started right about now. I'm eager to get into action now that I'm in this great life-support mech and loaded with firepower to unleash on those Mobians! So Katherine get ready to go for…"

He was suddenly interrupted by a warp ring opening up from nowhere and filling the room with a dazzling, golden glow that made it look like an angel had just ascended from heaven and materialized into the room without warning. Eggman was so alarmed that he ended up falling over onto his back with a heavy clunk. Katherine instantly ran over to help Dr. Eggman back onto his feet as something stepped out of the warp ring. The owner of the warp ring was none other than Dr. Finitevus, Knuckles' subversive uncle and scientist from Angel Island. He had just recently returned from a nine-year absence, most of which had been spent in the void and the rest up till now being spent recovering from it, and he had brought Imperator Ix back from the void in an attempt to return Angel Island to the ground and to punish and enslave the Royal Fighters. The scheme had been foiled by the Royal Fighters, Ix had been returned to the void for good and Finitevus had fled in disgrace. He had many new plans formulating in his head and he had decided to come to Dr. Eggman's underground bunker to prepare for his new schemes. He had spent a long time researching and catching up on things after coming back from the void and thus, he had found out where Dr. Eggman's underground bunker was and was able to warp there with his warp rings. Finitevus stepped out of the warp ring and he put it back onto his arm once he'd emerged from it.

"Aaaah, this is the hiding place of Dr. Eggman himself." purred Dr. Finitevus "Good thing my research led to me coming across Royal Fighter data records so I could find out this information. Now let's see what technology the deceased doctor has on offer…it'll prove useful for me in my plans to get revenge on those accursed Royal Fighters and snatch the Master Emerald from my nephew's precious island…"

He found himself stopping his sentence before he was finished when he suddenly realized that he was not alone in the bunker. His eyes widened at the sight of Katherine and Dr. Eggman standing before him, bewildered at the sight of Dr. Finitevus and wondering who the heck he was. Finitevus, of course, had no idea he was staring at Dr. Eggman right now. He just assumed he was looking at an Eggman robot who had another Eggman robot for a sidekick. Eggman pointed a huge, metallic claw at Finitevus.

"We have an intruder!" he screamed "I shall terminate it immediately! Katherine, leave here at once for you do not want to get caught in the crossfire!"

Katherine obeyed and she ran for her life, leaving Dr. Eggman alone in the laboratory to deal with Dr. Finitevus. Dr. Finitevus just calmly stood before Dr. Eggman and he prepared to let Eggman have a taste of his amazing fighting skills. The two bent down into battle-ready stances and they prepared to unleash hell on each other. The lab was going to be a serious mess when these two villains were done fighting each other.

"So, I invade the headquarters of the late Dr. Eggman and I find myself against one of his robotical accomplices." sneered Finitevus "How droll. Oh well, if I want to confiscate some of his prodigious technology then I will have to take down this robot first."

"I have no idea who you are freak of nature but you will not be leaving here with anything!" snarled Eggman "Nobody steals from Dr. Ivo Eggman and lives to tell the tale!"

With that said, Eggman deployed some Gatling guns out of his arms and he started shooting at Dr. Finitevus as furiously as he could. Finitevus back-flipped away from the gun shots as laser bullets sprayed out of the spinning barrels in the arms of Eggman's life-support mech and he jumped behind a nearby work desk. He used the desk as shelter and he stomped on a section of floor with his heel. The stomp made the section stick right up into the air so Finitevus could grab the panel with his hands. Finitevus jumped back out from behind the desk, holding the panel in front of his face so that when Eggman shot at him, the panel protected him. It wouldn't be much of a shield for long though for Eggman's attacks immediately started leaving scrapes and dents in it. Finitevus ran up to Dr. Eggman and he threw the panel at his head, diving through a warp ring the minute he threw the panel at Eggman. The panel spun through the air like a Frisbee and it hit the life-support mech squarely in the middle of its head. Eggman stumbled backwards a little but he regained his balance. Finitevus reappeared through a warp ring behind Dr. Eggman and he kicked him directly onto his front. Eggman landed heavily on the floor with a horrible clang and he groaned as the life-support mech shook all around him and made him feel light-headed. Finitevus jumped onto the mech's back and he knelt down on it.

"Now let's remove the robot's head and see what makes it tick." he crooned darkly "Maybe I could study it and use it for my own nefarious purposes…"

He jumped off of the mech's back and he kicked Eggman over onto his back. He then grabbed the head of the mech and he ripped it clean off the top of it, exposing Dr. Eggman and leaving him vulnerable to an attack, as well as yanking the control helmet off of his head, leaving the mech incapable of moving. Dr. Finitevus stared inside the mech and his eyes widened so much that his pupils became tiny golden dots swimming around in the black sclera of his eyes. He dropped Omega's head on the floor and knelt down beside Dr. Eggman.

"The robot has something inside of it?!" he exclaimed in a rather surprised tone of voice, an expression not often used by it "And I'm willing to bet that you are the infamous Dr. Eggman aren't you?"

"I am! I am Dr. Eggman, the terror of the world and the bane of Sonic's existence!" whimpered Eggman "I've just been saved from dying thanks to this marvellous life-support machine my servant-bot made me and I was hoping to terminate Sonic and friends and take over the world! Please do not finish me off! You wouldn't take down a helpless, crippled old man such as myself would you? You Mobians are more lenient then that right?"

Finitevus just stared at Eggman, unable to believe that he was face-to-face right now with the villain of Mobius himself. He regained himself and spoke in his usual cool and colleted manner.

"Greetings Dr. Eggman, it is a pleasure to meet such an esteemed scientist such as yourself." said Dr. Finitevus politely "Although rumours were spreading around and claiming that you had perished after your vessel crashed down a couple of days ago. Guess the rumours were red herrings."

"Well I WAS about dead when the ship crashed." noted Eggman "But my servant bot Katherine saved me from dying by building me this life-support mech, derived from the design for E-123 Omega and just as potent as him too. So as you can see, in order to stay alive, I had to become the one thing I love to make…a robot."

"Indeed so." said Finitevus smoothly "Well then Eggman, allow me to introduce myself. I am Dr. Finitevus, the best scientist ever to walk across Angel Island and I have scores to settle with your hated enemies the Royal Fighters."

"Really?" said Dr. Eggman brightly "Oh that IS swell to hear! Maybe we could…wait a minute!" he blurted out suddenly "We were fighting a moment ago and now we're being friendly towards each other! Did I miss something here?"

"Not really doctor, I've just decided that since I'm face-to-face with the enemy of Mobius himself, I have the perfect person I can ally with in my ambitions." explained Dr. Finitevus "Besides, we both have every reason to be on the same side. We both hate the Royal Fighters and we both want to take them down. You wish to turn them into robots and I wish to just destroy them."

"How do you know so much about me?" asked Dr. Eggman.

"I've done plenty of research." crooned Dr. Finitevus, a sinister grin spreading out across his evil face "I know much about you and your potent machinery and sensational science skills. I also know much of your rivalry with Sonic the Hedgehog too."

"Figures really since my gaff with Sonic is one of the most well-known things about me." muttered Eggman grimly "So Finitevus, would you kindly put my mech's head back on so I can get back up on my feet? You took off the helmet that helps me make the mech move when you ripped the head off so I can't move with out it."

"I shall fix it immediately." said Dr. Finitevus with a polite bow.

He picked up the head piece of the life-support mech and he put the helmet back onto Dr. Eggman's head. The wires connected to the underside of the head-section were long enough for Finitevus to put the helmet on without needing to put the head on as well. Once the helmet was back on his head, Eggman willed the mech to sit up. One he'd done that, Finitevus wondered over to a work desk nearby and he searched for a welding tool. He managed to find one and he wandered back over to Dr. Eggman. He welded the head section neatly back into place, the process taking a good few minutes or so. Now Eggman's life-support mech was fixed, Eggman stood back up and he looked down at Dr. Finitevus.

"Thank you." said Eggman graciously "So Dr. Finitevus. Tell me a bit about yourself. What's your gaff with Sonic and friends?"

"In response to "tell me a bit about yourself", I will say this:" began Finitevus "I am the uncle of Knuckles the Echidna, no doubt you know who he is, and I am also one of Imperator Ix's loyal servants. I'm one of the echidnas who sided with him when debating over if Angel Island should be lowered or not. As for "what's my gaff with Sonic and friends", they had the nerve to exile my master into the void even though he was trying to keep Angel Island and the Master Emerald safe. I got him back out and sided with him as we attempted to bring Angel Island back down. But then our plans failed and Knuckles exiled Ix again, only this time for good since he's time-locked the void. Angel Island is no longer worth my time though but I do wish to get revenge on those cretins for exiling my master. That and I would very much like to steal the Master Emerald and see what potential I can unlock with it."

"I see." said Dr. Eggman "Well then, any enemy of Sonic's is a friend of mine. But woe betide you if you're hoping to manipulate me into accepting you just so you can overthrow me Finitevus! Because it won't work!"

"Fie Eggman, I do not harbour any interests in over-throwing you." said Finitevus smoothly "I wish to ally with you. That is why I am here after all."

"You came in here hoping to steal some tech from me you lying little scumbag!" retorted Dr. Eggman angrily.

"That WAS my motive but seeing you're alive, I do not need to steal anything from you." said Finitevus calmly "Because allying with you will just grant me access to your amazing technology anyway. That is, if you're willing to share a little with a dear old scientist such as myself."

"If you're going to join my empire Dr. Finitevus then I'll be all too happy to spare some technology for you." said Dr. Eggman "You'd better use it for the purposes of the task given to you though or I won't let you use any." he added sternly.

"Fair enough Eggman, I shall use any given machinery for the tasks you assign me with." said Finitevus "So are you up for an alliance then doctor? Together, we could stop Sonic and friends at long last and maybe we could run the Eggman Empire together as the world's greatest scientists."

"I'm always happy to have a new member in my empire." said Dr. Eggman brightly "Welcome to the Eggman Empire Dr. Finitevus." he said, holding out a hand for him to shake.

"Uh…I'd prefer to keep my appendages attached thank you." said Finitevus, hastily refusing the handshake as he felt like he might lose an arm in the process.

"OK then." said Dr. Eggman "So Finitevus, what can you do other than use those warp rings of yours to great efficiency?"

"I am one of the most ferocious fighters you'll ever witness in action." explained Dr. Finitevus "I had a lot of training under Imperator Ix's watchful eye and I filled myself up with a lot of Chaos Energy. I am abnormally strong and very swift in battle. I also pride myself in using the environment to my advantage when I fight too. I was able to floor every single one of Sonic's friends and even Sonic himself when I got into a battle with them." he added, grinning a grin so evil looking that even the devil himself would be jealous of it.

"I very much look forward to seeing you fight Finitevus." said Dr. Eggman, liking the sound of what Finitevus had said to him "So it seems I have a scientist and a fighter in my ranks. I think this is an alliance I won't regret making…"

"I assure you it won't be." said Dr. Finitevus reassuringly "So, what plans do you have at this very moment Dr. Eggman?"

"I am hoping to invade New Mobotropolis and kill all the Royal Fighters." explained Dr. Eggman, clenching his metal fists with excitement "And I will be able to carry that task out brilliantly thanks to this life-support mech of mine! Sonic is dead meat when I arrive on his doorstep!"

"Oh that plan marvels on sheer genius, it really does." snorted Finitevus sarcastically, rolling his eyes and folding his arms "How many times have you tried taking Sonic down with a mere robot Eggman? And isn't Sonic quite capable of taking down a robot? I mean, that's what he does for a living from what I've learnt about him."

Eggman's moustache drooped down in disappointment and the mech's arms sagged down beside him in despair.

"So you think my plan won't work?" said Eggman in disappointment.

"Of course it will not succeed you fool!" snapped Finitevus "From what I can gather from my research, your robots consistently get destroyed by Sonic and friends and because you do the same scheme over and over, you are far too predictable in combat now and Sonic and friends will know what to do about you before you can even launch an attack! Just building a machine to take the hedgehog and his comrades down will not suffice at all Eggman!"

"Fie! I have Metal Sonic and metal versions of Tails, Amy & Knuckles! And Silver Sonic too!" retorted Dr. Eggman "They're on standby and waiting for orders! They'll destroy Sonic and friends easily!"

"If that is the case then why haven't they done so already?" scoffed Finitevus "I have read about your so-called "Metal Sonic" when doing my research. Despite his magnanimous power, he too was unable to kill Sonic and now you keep re-using him so Sonic knows who he's up against all the time now. This is your problem Dr. Eggman, you're too predictable. You keep trying the same scheme over and over and you keep constantly failing. And now look what's happened to you, you're now encased in a cold, metal cage with limbs just to keep alive and why did this happen? Because you never use your scientific knowledge to its best potential and just waste it on a repetitive scheme that has seen a streak of failures and no victories."

"Then what do YOU suggest I do then smarty-pants?!" snarled Eggman crossly, insulted at the very idea that Finitevus dared to call him predictable and suggest his schemes were not the way to go.

"Simple…you do the UN-predictable." purred Finitevus slyly "Try a scheme that does not hinge upon sending robots to destroy the Royal Fighters. Try a scheme that does something different. Try a scheme that…separates the group and renders them weaker."

"Oooooh…this sounds interesting." said Dr. Eggman excitedly "What marvellous plan are you concocting in that evil little head of yours my caped comrade?" he asked inquisitively.

"A plan that works in two different ways." explained Dr. Finitevus "We should not have just one plan for Sonic and his friends to try and stop…but two. Imagine how shocked Sonic will be when he realizes he has two schemes to stop at once? That is the factor of unpredictability you need Dr. Eggman. That is the kind of scheme you should be concocting if you wish to terminate Sonic and his friends. And that scheme will work like this: The first scheme will involve a giant, nuclear missile that will be targeted directly for New Mobotropolis right here in Megapolis. The second scheme will involve your Metal Sonic and his other comrades you mentioned going to Angel Island to steal the Master Emerald and deliver it to us. And the beauty behind the scheme is if we have them BOTH happening simultaneously, Sonic and friends will have to separate their numbers and thus they'll be weaker and more prone to defeat. Also if there's two schemes to foil at once, the tension will be risen and the chances of them losing are increased. You have many resources so the two schemes will have a lot of back-up to ensure that they both succeed, which they will. What do you think to this plan Dr. Eggman?"

Dr. Eggman had listened to the whole plan and he was intrigued with it. The plan had much potential and he thought that it was going to work to perfection. He was all too happy to carry out such a nefarious plan, especially since it was bound to work. Sonic and friends would have their work cut out for them once they carried this scheme out.

"Finitevus, I would be an idiot to reject this brilliant plan." said Dr. Eggman brightly "I accept without a moment's hesitation! We shall carry out this scheme and we shall call it…Operation: Double Trouble! Me and you will carry this plan out together and we will eliminate Sonic & friends once and for all with Operation: Double Trouble! There's no way they can stop THIS plan!"

"I'm glad you approve of this plan doctor. said Finitevus brightly "And there's still a bit more to it. I suggest we capture a close comrade of Sonic's and strap him or her to the missile. Maybe more than one if you please. That way, Sonic will be forced to choose to either stop the missile or save his comrades."

"I love that idea Finitevus!" cheered Dr. Eggman happily "So who are you going to get to strap to the missile then?"

"Anyone affiliated with the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters." said Finitevus darkly "And I shall search for that person now…"

With that said, he wandered over to a computer monitor nearby and he sat down at it. He tapped some keys on the keyboard and he began searching for something. He filed through the internet searches as he tapped away on the computers and he began searching for any comrades of the Royal Fighters. Mobius did have an internet much like we humans have an internet and Finitevus was using it to see what information he could gather. He had found out everything he currently knows now thanks to the internet and it was going to help him out this time. Finitevus searched through many pages that came up after typing in his search but he couldn't seem to find anything. Given how most information about the Royal Fighters is classified, not many web-pages were going to have information about them. Most of what Finitevus knew was because of news pages he'd read about the Royal Fighters in action. Finitevus then suddenly came across a webpage that said "Mobius News International". That could easily have the thing he was looking for. Finitevus opened up the article on the screen and he began reading through past news-stories. He then came across a very interesting article that caught his eye. The article was titled "Royal Fighters save Chun-Nan from treacherous ninja-clan". Finitevus read through the entire page, his marvellous brain soaking up the information like a sponge in water, and he came across a particularly interesting bit of the page. It mentioned on how Princess Matilda, the princess of Chun-Nan, had been brought specifically to the Royal Fighters to inform them on what had happened and the article explained how she and Sonic were on good terms and she's considered a good friend of the R.F.S. Finitevus decided to see if he could find any more info on Matilda so he filed back through some more news articles and came across some good ones that told the time she defeated Shadow and the time Sonic helped to save Chun-Nan from Zira the Ruthless. Finitevus went back to the webpage and he typed Matilda's name into the search bar. He came across a few articles about her and he read some of the news that came from Chun-Nan and told of the times she had stopped Lord Vharr* and had tried to stop Conquering Storm from taking over Chun-Nan. While doing this, he found out quite a lot of good facts about her. He smiled to himself. He'd found just the person he and Eggman could strap to the missile.

"Dr. Eggman, I have found our Royal Fighter comrade…" he purred darkly.

Eggman clanked over to Dr. Finitevus and he peered over his shoulder to see what Finitevus was looking at. Finitevus had gone back to the news article he originally looked at and found out about Matilda. He saw a picture of Matilda that had been added to the news article so people knew what she looked like when they read the article. Eggman recognized her instantly.

"I think I remember that Mobian." he said "I came to Chun-Nan to pick up Shadow the Hedgehog and Sonic had that yellow mongoose with him. She seemed to be accompanied by a red falcon and a green iguana too. They must be good friends of Sonic's."

"According to this article, they are." said Dr. Finitevus "This child we're looking at right now is named Dalon Matilda and she is the Princess of Chun-Nan. According to other articles I've had a look at, she knows kung-fu and is quite a prodigious fighter. She has a boyfriend named Bladefeather the Falcon and she lives with her father, Dalon Tai. Before you ask, no their names are not "Dalon", in Chun-Nan they introduce themselves surname first. Sonic has met them before so they must indeed be close comrades of his. They'll be perfect to strap to the missile in Operation: Double-Trouble."

"Indeed they will." said Dr. Eggman gleefully "So when are going to kidnap these Matilda, Bladefeather and Tai people?"

"As soon as we've built the missile we're going to launch." explained Finitevus "So let us get started in formulating Operation: Double Trouble for execution…"

Eggman grinned evilly and he and Finitevus immediately set off to start building the missile for the plan. Operation: Double Trouble was going to be a great plan and Sonic and friends would never anticipate it coming. They were as good as dead once the plan was executed…

Three whole weeks had passed since Dr. Eggman and Dr. Finitevus had formulated Operation: Double Trouble and they were now getting ready to carry out the stratagem. The reasoning behind this hinders down to the fact a huge, nuclear missile does take a while to build and had Eggman not had legions upon legions of robots at his disposal, it would have taken EVEN longer to build so Eggman's robot army was doing some good for once and speeding up production work. The missile had finally been completed after three weeks of long hard work, preparation and building. Now Dr. Finitevus was ready to commit the next part of the plan, get the captives to strap to the missile and give Sonic something else to worry about and hopefully, hinder his attempts to stop the missile. Finitevus had already left through a warp ring and was on his way to Chun-Nan to capture the beautiful and powerful Princess Matilda, her pompous but loyal boyfriend Bladefeather and her loving father Emperor Tai for the stratagem. As for Chun-Nan, ever since the Raiju Clan had been defeated, it had been in peace over the past months. No new foes had stricken out of the shadows, no new villains were trying to take over the country and ones still around like the Spiders of Anarchy hadn't attempted their usual bout of anarchism of which they're renowned for and to which their group bears the name. Chun-Nan was completely fine right now with no problems going on at all. This was perfectly fine for Princess Matilda. She wanted Chun-Nan to be at peace. It meant she wouldn't have to keep using violence, the one thing she hated doing yet only did it because she needed to and she loved her country more than she hated violence, and she could settle down with Bladefeather more and develop their relationship at last. Funny I should mention Matilda settling down with Bladefeather more…that's exactly what's happening right now. Bladefeather was paying a visit to the Pagoda of Prosperity and his welcome was met with Matilda throwing his arms around him and embracing him deeply (aww). The two were now sitting outside in Matilda's back garden and they were having a pretty lovely make-out moment. Bladefeather was lying down on his back in the grass of the garden and Matilda was lying on top of him. They were kissing and cuddling each other deeply and they were also stroking each other's hair. Bladefeather ran his fingers gently through Matilda's beautifully shampooed, glistening black hair which she had let hang loose over her shoulders for a change instead of having it up in a bun. Matilda loved having her hair stroked, it felt very nice to her, especially since Bladefeather was doing it to her. Matilda kissed Bladefeather again and she ran her fingers up and down the three feathers that stood up on top of his head. Bladefeather loved that feeling, especially since he enjoyed the soft, tender touch of his gorgeous girlfriend. It mystified him that a woman as powerful as Matilda still had such a gentle touch but he didn't mind, he always enjoyed it when Matilda's fingers ran up and down his feathers. The two stopped kissing each other for a moment so they could breathe again and they stared lovingly into each other's eyes.

"Oh Bladefeather, I'm having such a lovely moment with you right now I could keep it up all day." giggled Matilda.

"The day is still young my angel, there's still plenty of time left for us to make the most of this joyous moment between us." purred Bladefeather, tickling Matilda lightly behind her ears.

"I know." said Matilda "I'm glad we're having a moment like this now, we deserved it after all the hard-work we've put into keeping Chun-Nan safe."

"Indeed we have my beatific princess." said Bladefeather happily "And we've been going out on romantic outings for quite a good period of time so a moment like this is one we are most deserving of. Our first anniversary of us as a romantic couple is almost upon us too so now is a good time for us to be like this."

"Indeed my handsome little birdie." said Matilda, playfully tapping Bladefeather's beak "The day after my birthday this year will officially mark our first anniversary as a couple. I have a feeling in the future, we'll be celebrating our first anniversary as a married couple." she added with a sly smile on her face, a smile she only really let out in moments like this.

"I have that same feeling too." purred Bladefeather slyly "But we do not need to let our minds wonder about such thoughts yet, we need to wait for the appropriate time before we can think about such an event. Right now, there's one event we can focus on and anticipate greatly…your birthday. It's only in a couple of days."

"I know and I can't wait for it." said Matilda brightly "I always enjoy it on my birthday, especially since I tend to get some rather extravagant gifts from you Bladefeather. I can't wait to see what you've got for me this year."

"Believe me when I say the gift I shall bestow upon you on your birthday this year will be my most extravagant yet." said Bladefeather happily "I greatly anticipate witnessing your reaction when you receive it."

"That sounds pretty wonderful Bladefeather." said Matilda kindly "I look forward to it. Speaking of you…I do greatly adore how you're becoming far less rude and overbearing ever since you confessed your love for me. You're a much lovelier man nowadays." she said sweetly.

"Your compliments are appreciated my love." said Bladefeather appreciatively "And all the thanks I have is to go to you my radiant sunbeam. You were the positive influence I needed in order to better my personality and I've verily enjoyed my much politer life-style. It's much more pleasant being kind to people, especially the little children of Chun-Nan."

"I'm really happy to hear that Bladefeather." said Matilda, putting her hands on the side of Bladefeather's face "And I really had no idea I was such a positive influence for you. I'm flattered to hear that I am though, means that I'm a princess who does what a princess should do: set a good example for the populace."

"Indeed Matilda." said Bladefeather with a big smile on his beak.

Matilda giggled and the two kissed each other again. But just before they could really get into their loving moment, a warp ring opened up in the middle of the garden, startling the two Mobians and making them get up onto their feet in alarm. They were still clutching each other as Dr. Finitevus appeared out of the warp ring and stood before them, grinning maliciously and putting his warp ring back onto his wrist. Matilda and Bladefeather instantly had a bad feeling about Finitevus since he looked anything but friendly. Matilda and Bladefeather broke up the hug and they both bent down in battle-ready stances. Emperor Tai heard all the commotion going on outside and he ran out to see if his daughter was OK. Tai was rather surprised to see that his wonderful garden had an intruder in it and he had a feeling that such an abrupt arrival was not for something good. Finitevus stood there as calm as anything with his cape covering his entire body for his had his arms down by his sides and Matilda & Bladefeather prepared to do battle.

"OK mysterious stranger, either you explain yourself right now or I can kick you out of my country." said Matilda coldly "Who are you and why do you trespass in my holy garden?"

"I am Dr. Finitevus my dear and you along with the falcon and the red-furred mongoose are coming with me." purred Finitevus darkly.

Finitevus snapped his fingers and he opened up three warp rings directly underneath Matilda, Bladefeather & Tai's feet. The three Mobians all screamed in terror as they fell directly through the warp rings and vanished into them, their screams drowning out as they fell in the warp rings. The warp rings closed up the moment they fell through them and Finitevus put them back onto his arms. He then opened up another warp ring and he jumped through it. He had warped Matilda, Bladefeather & Tai over to Eggman's underground bunker and now he was warping back over to the bunker himself. The plan was about ready to begin now…

Back over in Dr. Eggman's bunker, warp rings opened up inside some electrical cages (cages with bars made of generating electricity) and Matilda, Tai and Bladefeather ended up falling into one each with a heavy thud. Dr. Eggman watched this gleefully for that meant to him Dr. Finitevus had done his job and that Operation: Double Trouble was ready to begin. Shortly after the three Chun-

Nan Mobians had arrived, Dr. Finitevus re-appeared beside Dr. Eggman out of his own warp ring. His face contorted with smugness.

"As you can see, I've managed to apprehend the poor fools doctor." said Dr. Finitevus smoothly, his evil grin so devilish looking that you'd think he was auditioning for a horror movie.

"Indeed you have. Well done Finitevus." said Dr. Eggman happily "Now we've got our hostages, let us set up the missile and set its course for New Mobotropolis! Operation: Double Trouble can now begin!"

Finitevus smiled evilly as Dr. Eggman said those words. As for the captives, Matilda got up onto her feet and rubbed herself better for crashing down in the cage had left her feeling a little sore and she realized that she was no longer in her back garden. She was in a hi-tech bunker of some kind and she along with Bladefeather and Tai were inside cages with electricity for bars. Matilda poked one streak of electricity that was crackling between the generation points in the cages and she got a very nasty electrical shock that made her yelp in pain and suck on her finger furiously to make it feel better.

"Silly girl, one would think your kung-fu lessons would have taught you that electricity hurts!" taunted Dr. Eggman, snickering mockingly at Matilda.

"Who are you? And what are you?" gasped Matilda, gaping in amazement at Eggman for she had never seen a robot before and she didn't suspect Eggman was inside of it "I've never seen anything like you before! Are you one of those robot things that the villain known as Dr. Eggman supposedly makes?"

"You're right on one thing princess." said Dr. Eggman "But what you're looking at right now is a robot with ME inside of it!"

"A robot with me inside of it…you're Dr. Eggman himself?!" shrieked Matilda, unable to believe her ears.

"Whatever has happened to you?!" exclaimed a very gobsmacked Bladefeather "Your…appearance does not match what it was the last time my eyes were laid upon you!"

"It's a long story I won't waste time explaining." said Dr. Eggman hastily "But I WILL explain something. Like why you're here for example."

"I hope you can explain that you monster!" said Tai crossly "Why on Mobius have you kidnapped and imprisoned us like this?"

"Because you three will be used as hostages as me and my new assistant Dr. Finitevus prepare our latest scheme, Operation: Double Trouble." explained Dr. Eggman "And we got you three in particular because you are close allies of the Royal Fighters and you're far out of Sonic's reach so we could get you three without alerting Sonic too soon."

"How do you know we're allies of the Royal Fighters?!" gasped Matilda hoarsely.

"Research is our greatest weapon my child." purred Finitevus, tapping his brainy head conceitedly.

"You baneful, unrighteous, vile serpents of turpitude!" snarled Bladefeather "You cannot use us as hostages in your repugnant motivations! You release us from these prisons or you will regret the day you ever came to traverse upon mother nature herself!"

"Does the falcon always talk like this?" snorted Dr. Eggman.

"That is beyond my realms of knowledge Eggman." sighed Finitevus "Anyway, you will do nothing about your current situation Bladefeather." continued Finitevus, pointing at him "These cages have electricity crackling away, you'll never escape. And in a matter of minutes, you will be fastened to a nuclear missile that is aimed at Sonic the Hedgehog's home city. You'll not be able to do anything about it when that happens." he added with a very dark smile.

"You're going to fasten us to a missile?!" cried Emperor Tai in horror "And it's aimed for Sonic the Hedgehog's home-city?!"

"You can't do this to us! Let us out of here right now or you'll be very sorry you two sick pair of scientists!" demanded Matilda in an oddly fierce tone of voice.

"You maybe a princess Matilda but that does not mean you can boss us around." sneered Dr. Eggman "You're all staying right here until the missile is ready to launch. And while the missile is readying to launch, I shall be preparing the Metal-series for the attack on Angel Island. Sonic the Hedgehog will NEVER be able to stop two threats at once…NEVER…"

"I could not agree more Eggman." said Finitevus agreeably "You prepare the Metal-series for launch. I shall keep a good eye on the prisoners."

"Very well then." said Dr. Eggman, turning around and clanking off to get the Metal-series ready for action.

Matilda, Bladefeather and Tai watched as Dr. Eggman walked away from them and left them behind to be watched by Dr. Finitevus. Finitevus stood there, eyeing the three captives and grinning darkly at them. He was just picturing Operation: Double Trouble in action now and he could just see Sonic's horrified face when he realized he had two terrible threats to deal with. But Finitevus wouldn't anticipate Sonic getting an early tip-off for there was a little snoop hiding in Eggman's base right now. And that snoop was the one and only… Sora Prower. Three weeks of nothing bad happening and nothing from Katherine and Eggman's robots had made Sonic feel a bit edgy so Sora had volunteered to spy on Eggman and see if she could find out what was going on in Eggman's bunker. She had managed to get inside via the super warp ring they still had from Dr. Finitevus and had sneaked under a work desk where she lay low and had heard every single thing that had been said. Sora frowned at what she had heard and she crawled out from under the desk, making sure Finitevus didn't see her. The desk was in a corner of the room near the door way, Finitevus would not see her sneaking out. Especially as he was looking directly ahead of him. Sora slipped away and ran out through the door. The door closed behind her, earning a look from Finitevus but he just dismissed it as Eggman leaving the room, and Sora got out the super warp ring.

"Just wait until Sonic hears this." she said to herself, flicking the ring into the air and quickly diving through it before anyone could see her.

Operation: Double Trouble was about to begin but it seemed it was going to be foiled most definitely since Sora heard everything and had gotten away ever so cleanly. The only concern though was… would they be able to stop two such potent threats…?

Story 150: Operation: Double Trouble Part 2: The Plan In Action

Three weeks had passed since the disappearance of Dr. Finitevus and the permanent exile of Imperator Ix and Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends were having a rather relaxing time right now. No villains had come out of hiding and stricken again, no more tears in the sky had appeared since the one that had taken Sonic to Mobius Nega, Dr. Eggman was dead (or so they think) and it didn't seem that Katherine, Eggman's loyal servant bot, was interested in attacking again despite the onslaught she and a bunch of Egg-Pawns had launched the day they first met Dr. Finitevus. The thing is though, the fact that Katherine hadn't attacked again had been getting Sonic pretty concerned about a few things. He was wondering if Katherine was plotting something and the fact she hadn't attacked for three weeks straight is what got him concerned about this. So he had suggested that Sora Prower, the super-spy sister of his best friend Tails, could go over and spy on Katherine to see what was going on over in Eggman's bunker. He was in for a surprise when Sora got back though for she had found out something beyond shocking over in Eggman's bunker. At the moment though, Sonic was sitting by himself on a bench in the park and he was looking up at the beautiful, blue sky above him. The clouds were fluffy and white and there weren't many around. Today was a lovely day and Sonic planned to make the most of it so he was chilling out for the moment. Sonic had rather enjoyed the three weeks of rest and recuperation he and his team were having and he began hoping that it would stay this way. True it may not be as exciting as the life of adventure he'd been having since the day

Eggman came to Mobius but it was still nice for Sonic to be kicking back and enjoying himself. Not to mention, anyone can have an adventure and you don't necessarily need a villain to give you one. Sonic put his hands behind his head and he sighed happily. For once it seemed evil had been defeated and Mobius was FINALLY going to return to it's original peaceful state. The heroes had had a tough time over the years but it had been worth it for this. It seemed all their hard work had paid off once for all. Mobius was finally at peace once more.

"Aaaah…this is more like it." said Sonic, sighing contently and enjoying the gentle cool breeze that blew over him "No worrying about Eggman or any other villains out there, just enjoying life as we live it and having a moment of peace. Three weeks is a pretty good record for us so far, I hope it keeps going. Mind you, we've had longer periods of peace before evil strikes again. Still, shouldn't be much of a problem since Eggman's dead and any other villain out there will be easier to handle. Blizzard's not that much of a threat, the Region of Rebellious Reptiles are jokers, Ravage has his own band of heroes to handle him*,Team Diamond as well as Scourge & Fiona are incarcerated, Devion's dead, Marik and the Martians are stuck in the void forever and are crystal minions for Ixis Naugus and now Imperator Ix is stuck in the void for good since Knuckles time-locked the void and I bet Naugus is handling him. As for Finitevus well…who knows what will happen if he shows up again. He won't be much of a problem though since we know how to counter-attack him. Use a warp ring against him. So pretty much with Eggman gone, we have nothing to worry about."

"I couldn't agree more Hero of Mobius." came a female voice from behind Sonic that made him jump a little.

Sonic turned around and much to his delight, the person who had come across him was none other than the beautiful Queen Sally Acorn. Sonic had been growing more and more fond of Sally ever since she started becoming a fighter so you can imagine he's probably happy to see her here right now. Sally seemed happy to see Sonic too for she had a cute, happy little smile on her pretty face.

"Why your majesty, what an honour it is to have your royal presence around here." chuckled Sonic in a rather teasing tone of voice.

"Let it never be said that I adore your sense of humour hedgehog." chuckled Sally teasingly "And please, you don't have to treat me like a queen you know, you can just act like I'm another Royal Fighter if you wish."

"But you're technically both aren't you?" noted Sonic "I mean you rule New Mobotropolis and you join us for battles so you're a Royal Fighter in more ways then one."

"Ha, ha, ha, I am aren't I?" chuckled Sally "So may I please sit with you Sonic?"

"Sure, you don't need my permission to sit with me Sal." said Sonic "Anyone who's a friend of mine's free to sit with me if they like."

"Thank you." said Sally, sitting down on the bench beside Sonic without a moment's hesitance.

"So what brings her majesty out here with the hedgehog then?" asked Sonic, playfully nudging Sally with his shoulder.

"I just decided I needed a bit of fresh air that's all." said Sally, taking in Sonic's little tease well since she was used to it now (she's put up with this ever since the R.F.S. formed. Of course she's used to it!) "That and I kinda wanted to see you since I've been cooped up with royal duties most of the last couple of weeks we've had."

"Oh that's nice." said Sonic brightly "Say Sally, you know that you weren't sure about becoming a Royal Fighter because of your important duties as queen? Well I've been meaning to ask...why is that no longer a problem to you now? I mean first you think you can't be a Royal Fighter and now suddenly you think you can? Not that I don't like your decision to become one of us, I think it's great that you do."

"Well Sonic, people change over time as you know." explained Sally "After the Devatrons, I thought about becoming a fighter so that I can help my fellow fighters on the battlefield. Consider it me returning the favour for all you and the others have done over time. I also realized that I don't need to worry about my royal duties because I have a good substitute for me when I'm out fighting. The Council of Acorn are qualified enough to maintain control over the city. They have experience in laws and policies after all. I also have some loyal staff members who can fill in for me too. I did promise that I won't get into EVERY battle out there though, the substitutes can't handle everything for me, I need to resume my post on occasion. Still, at least I have the freedom to join my loyal soldiers in battle and help keep my city, my kingdom, even the whole world safe from evil."

"I see." said Sonic "And I think that's really cool Sally. I'm so glad that you're the one ruling over New Mobotropolis. You're a great queen you are."

"Thank you so much." said Sally with a slight blush on her face "And I'm so glad I have you in the R.F.S. You're a great hero you are."

With that said, Sally put her hand on top of Sonic's which was placed flat on the seat of the bench beside him. Sonic didn't mind this, he thought Sally had a nice touch and her hand felt quite nice to him.

"Heh, thanks Sally." said Sonic "I'm glad you think that."

"You're welcome Sonic." said Sally sweetly "Say Sonic, are you and Amy still…um…dating at all?" she suddenly asked with the hope that things weren't suddenly going to become awkward between them."

"Nah, we've not dated in a while." said Sonic "I told Amy that I'd rather wait a while before we have one again although I've found myself thinking that maybe I'm not ready for love yet. I mean I have a lot of responsibilities what with me being Hero of Mobius and all and I just hardly have the time to get into a relationship and really develop it between me and Amy. Besides, I don't think Amy's the right girl for me."

"Oh." said Sally "Why is that then?"

"Well she does get a little clingy and all and she does irritate me a little." said Sonic "I think she's a great friend and all but I don't see her as more than a friend. I see her as just a friend so I don't think I really love Amy that much."

"I understand." said Sally, holding both of Sonic's hands and looking into his eyes "I'm sure Amy will understand too. Be sure to talk to her and let her know that you're not ready for a relationship and you don't think she's the one for you. Don't keep those feelings to yourself, it's important to let Amy know or she'll get the wrong idea about you."

"Good point Sally and don't worry, I'll do just that." said Sonic brightly "I will say though Sal…I'm finding myself quite…uh…liking you. Not you known just "liking" you, I mean…um… REALLY liking you…uh, does that sound right?" he added, blushing a little.

Sally's heart began to flutter excitedly.

"I know what you mean Sonic." said Sally with a smile "You have feelings for me don't you?"

"Uh…a little I admit." said Sonic bashfully "Although I'm not ready for a relationship because of my duties and all, I do admit I kinda fancy you. I've always thought you were…kinda lovely even before you were a queen. Even during the times I gave Amy a chance, I still felt that you were the one I truly admired. But while I admire you…at the same time I feel that I can't let my heart rule my head. I mean, I can't get into a relationship, I've got too much on my plate to bother about love…"

"Sonic, you can never have too much on your plate to worry about love." said Sally kindly "You may have a lot of responsibilities but you must leave room for love. Love can make you strong and keep you going even in the toughest of battles. Believe me, my love for my kingdom inspires me and keeps me going in the thick of the battle. My love for you even kept me going while we were trapped in the void together. And also, if you leave room for love, you can have someone to spend your free time with and have a good time with. Please don't let your hero duties overrule everything Sonic. You can still experience love no matter how much of a hero you are."

Sonic took in Sally's words and understood what she was trying to say to him. Sally had some good points in what she said and Sonic began to feel maybe he should give love another try after all. His heart was telling him to do it that's for sure. Sonic strokes Sally's fingers with his thumbs as he thought deeply about all this and he finally had something to say to Sally again.

"I understand Sal." said Sonic "While I still feel I'm not ready yet… sometime soon I'll give love another shot. And I want to do it…with you. If that's OK that is." he said, putting a finger to Sally's chin gently.

"I'd love that Sonic." said Sally "After all, you really are the Hero of Mobius. My Hero of Mobius that is…"

Sonic chuckled slightly and then he and Sally leaned their heads close to one another. Their eyes closed and they prepared to kiss each other. Sonic could hardly believe he was about to lock lips with the queen of his own city but he didn't mind. He was all too happy to be doing this right now. Their lips were just inches away from each others when suddenly, the sound of swishing tails came from up above them and they stopped what they were doing. Sonic and Sally looked up and saw none other than Sonic's best friend and sidekick, Tails the twin-tailed fox, coming down towards them. His tails were spinning furiously as he flew down towards the bench they were sitting on and his face looked frantic. It seemed an urgent message was coming to them shortly given how frenzied Tails' expression was. Tails landed down directly in front of Sonic & Sally.

"Hey Sonic! Hey Sally! Pant, pant…Sora's back! She wants us all to meet her in Royal HQ so she can tell us what she's found out over in Eggman's bunker!" blustered Tails, panting and gasping madly given how frantic he was "Please come over to Royal HQ!"

"Sure thing sweetheart." said Sally "It sure sounds urgent. Let's see what's going on then."

"Pity this had to happen just as things were getting interesting between us." sighed Sonic in annoyance.

This was one of the reasons why he was less sceptical about love then most people. It ticked him off dearly when something happened while he was getting ready to enjoy the moment with the girl he was with. Oh well, there was always next time. Sonic and Sally got up from the bench and they ran off to Royal HQ, Sonic rushing ahead of course for he was super-speedy. Tails flew after them as they ran out of the park and headed off to Royal HQ. The three quickly made it into Royal HQ before a minute could pass and they all ran into the lab where everybody else was waiting for them. All the Royal Fighters were here: Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John, Ruben the Water Panther, Nicole the Lynx, Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon and Charmy Bee and Sora was standing before them all, waiting to give out her testimony. Knuckles the Echidna and Shade the Echidna were both on AngelIsland right now, fulfilling their guardian duties. Sonic stood beside Amy with Tails standing by his other side and Sally stood beside Nicole as Sora cleared her throat and prepared to begin her testimony. Everybody listened with baited breath as Sora began.

"You are NOT going to believe what I've just found out!" shrieked Sora, the tone in her voice suggesting it must be horrifying news she had to deliver for them "First of all, we all celebrated too early when we thought Dr. Eggman had died when the Egg Carrier crashed because he hasn't! He's still alive and is now encased inside of a robot known as "Oh-mega" or something like that!"

The reaction to that statement was one of pure shock that swept around the room. Everybody gasped in incredulous horror and they all exchanged disbelieving glances among each other. Sora just shook her head sadly. She knew her friends wouldn't take this news well at all. Even she had been finding it hard to believe and yet she was right there, hearing every word that had been spoken as she spied on Eggman.

"No way! That…that's impossible!" blustered Tails, scarcely able to keep himself clam after this.

"We saw no escape pods ejecting from the Egg-Carrier when it crashed!" exclaimed Cosmo "And nobody can possibly survive a crash like that! The Egg-Carrier exploded into flames when it crashed! How can Eggman possibly have survived that?!"

"I have no idea love." said Geoffrey St. John "But I for one am not happy to hear this. Just when it seems Eggman is gone for good, he comes back! He's like a cockroach mate…he doesn't stay squished."

"Too right sugah." said Bunnie "And Sora says that Eggman's encased inside of Omega? Ah bet he's gonna be even tougher to battle now! Omega was one tough critter and ah should know! Me and sugah-hog took him on and barely survived, even with Shadow & Rouge fighting him too!"

"Well I took that bucket-of-bolts down by sneaking a bomb on him." crowed Mandy "Maybe I can do it again…" she added with a devious smirk on her face "THAT would finish the fat tyrant off for sure I bet."

"It sure would Mandy but we're not that ruthless you know." said Wilson "At the most, we could try and disable Omega and that would leave Eggman vulnerable to us."

"Good idea Wilson." said Ruben "But here's one thing…why is Eggman encased inside of Omega anyway? Is Omega his life-support machine or something now?"

"I guess so." said Sora "What other reason would he have for being inside a robot? Although how he even survived to be put in one mystifies me, his body should have been ravaged by the explosion. Eggman can't possibly be alive."

"Well Sora, he is and that's tough crud for us." snapped Sonic, more shocked than anybody about Eggman still being alive "It's back to square one now and it's gonna be worse than before because Eggman's inside a really powerful robot now. Why do I feel that instead of finishing Eggman off we've just made him more powerful?"

"It doesn't matter if he is, we'll still take him down no matter what." declared Sally "So Sora, did you find anything else out over in that bunker?"

"A lot!" exclaimed Sora "Dr. Finitevus has teamed up with Eggman and they're both working on a plan called Operation: Double Trouble. It's two schemes going off simultaneously and it's like this: one scheme has a nuclear missile aimed at New Mobotropolis and the other has the Metal series attacking Angel Island and I presume they'll be stealing the Master Emerald as well! What's worse is that they've kidnapped the Emperor of Chun-Nan, Princess Matilda and Bladefeather and are going to restrain them to the missile to try and slow us down in taking the missile down!"

"Oh my gosh!" exclaimed Sally, putting her hands to her face in horror.

"That's mondo bad that is!" cried Sonic "Eggman's going TOO far now! Nobody kidnaps good friends of mine and aims a missile at my city and also attacks rad red's floating home! And how dare Finitevus join Eggman for this! We have to stop Operation: Double Trouble and fast!"

"Wait, this city has shields right?" noted Cream "We can just use the shields to defend New Mobotropolis from the missile."

"I'm afraid the shields won't survive a nuclear missile little Cream." said Nicole sadly "A nuclear strike is just too powerful for the shields to take. Also, the emperor, Matilda and Bladefeather will be strapped to it so even if the shields DID hold off the missile, it'll explode and kill them anyway. We have to stop that missile full stop or New Mobotropolis will be wiped off the map and Chun-Nan loses its royals and one of its fighters."

"I agree with Nicole." said Sally "Operation: Double Trouble has to be stopped and fast. Sora, how much time do we have?"

"Not sure although when I left, Eggman was going to prepare the missile and the Metal series. We have to act now." declared Sora.

"Very well." said Sally

"Very well." said Sally "We need to split up in order to stop this double threat. Knuckles & Shade will be able to handle Angel Island but they'll need an extra hand. We'll send over Team Chaotix to help with Angel Island. The rest of us will stop that missile. When we get there, I will attempt to shut down the missile while the others keep Eggman and Finitevus distracted. Everyone got that?"

"Yes." said all the Royal Fighters.

"Then let us put an end to Operation: Double Trouble." announced Sally "Team Chaotix, use the super warp ring to go over to Angel Island. We'll hold onto it so we can get it back and use it to go over to Megapolis."

"Sure thing your majesty." said Vector with a polite bow "Boys, lets keep Knuckles' home island safe from Eggman's metal morons!"

Espio nodded obediently and Charmy punched the air with his fist excitedly. He was always happy to be going on a mission after all. Sora, since she had taken the warp ring with her to get into Eggman's bunker in the first place, took out the super warp ring and she flicked it up into the air for Team Chaotix to go through. The warp ring expanded to several times its size and a portal to Angel Island opened up in the middle of it. Vector, Espio and Charmy ran through the warp ring immediately and Sora held onto it so that the warp ring would close in Royal HQ and not on Angel Island. Team Chaotix wouldn't be stuck on Angel Island of course because if they wanted to get home, they'd just use the Master Emerald or even a Chaos Emerald to Chaos Control back home. The warp ring closed up as Team Chaotix ran through it and Sora held it in her hand as it shrunk down to size. Now Team Chaotix had gone over to inform Knuckles and Shade about Operation: Double Trouble and help defend Angel Island, Sally turned to the group and she spoke to them.

"OK everybody, this maybe one of the biggest fights of our lives." said Sally "We need to give Eggman everything we've got and we must stop that missile from launching. If we fail then our city is no more much like the first Mobotropolis and Chun-Nan loses its emperor, its princess and one of its warriors. Failure is NOT an option in this mission. We have to succeed or Mobius will lose many grand things today. So…are you ready everybody?"

"As ready as we'll ever be your majesty." declared Mandy, punching her fists together "Let's get on over there and make some noise!"

"I agree with Mandy, let's kick Eggman's new, shiny, tinplated butt!" yelled Sonic, taking in the fact Eggman's inside of Omega now so he technically does have a shiny, tinplated backside now.

"Then let us get going." ordered Sally "Sora, the warp ring if you please."

Sora nodded and she tossed the warp ring up into the air. The warp ring expanded to twice its size and it opened up a portal to Megapolis, the very place Eggman was hiding in and the very place the missile was going to launch from. All the Royal Fighters charged through the warp ring eagerly…except for Sonic and Sally. Sally had been about to charge but Sonic grabbed her and held her back for a minute because he wanted to ask her something. Sally held onto the warp ring so it wouldn't close before she and Sonic could get through. She turned to face Sonic.

"Sonic, we don't have time for this, we have to get going." said Sally.

"I know Sally it's just…do you think you'll be OK shutting the missile down by yourself?" said Sonic, the concern in his voice very noticeable "I mean, you're still training and learning the tougher fighting skills, you're still not the best fighter out there. And what if you can't shut the missile down?"

"Sonic please, I'm quite adequate at hacking." said Sally reassuringly, putting a hand on Sonic's shoulder "I'll be able to shut that thing down. I was almost able to stop Katherine from forbidding access to our satellites the day she hacked into them so I'm sure I can do this. Please don't worry about me Sonic. I'll be fine, especially as I have all these brave fighters keeping Eggman busy so he won't notice me."

"If you say so." said Sonic "But if you end up in trouble, I'll be there to save you."

"I'm sure you will." chuckled Sally teasingly "And here's a little something for good luck out there."

Before Sonic could even guess what that little something for luck was, Sally grabbed him by the shoulders and pulled Sonic close to herself. She then planted a small but affectionate kiss on Sonic's lips. Sonic's quills straightened in surprise but he returned the kiss and even gave Sally a little hug as they kissed. Luckily, they didn't get too carried away and they broke it up before it could go too far. Sonic could only smile at Sally after that kiss.

"Whoa…that was unexpected." gasped Sonic.

"I'll bet it was." giggled Sally "Now, shall we?" she asked, motioning to the still open warp ring.

"Be my guest." said Sonic, bowing down to Sally in the manner of somebody inviting their guest into their humble home.

Sally smiled at Sonic and she stepped through the warp ring. Sonic followed shortly afterwards. As Sonic dashed through the warp ring, it closed up behind him and the lab of Royal HQ was left silent and empty as the warp ring vanished. Operation: Double Trouble was about to commence and the heroes would be there in time to stop it…all of it…

"So if I've got this right…Eggman's still alive, has been resurrected as a robot, my Uncle Finitevus has joined forces with him and they're planning a double-attack, one on New Mobotropolis and one on Angel Island?!" cried Knuckles the Echidna, unable to believe what he had just heard.

"You got it." said Vector "We're just as amazed as you are about all this."

Team Chaotix had arrived on Angel Island and they had just been giving Knuckles the necessary exposition to justify why they're here and what is happening right now. Knuckles and Shade were horrified to hear that Dr. Finitevus had joined Eggman and the two evil scientists were planning a double-attack and Angel Island was one of the targets. But what shocked them the most about all this is the fact Eggman was still alive. Just when they thought that they'd gotten rid of him, he shows up once again and the fact he's now encased in a robot means he'll be a much deadlier foe than ever before. Knuckles could feel himself getting angry over all of this whereas Shade just put her arms around Knuckles arm and tried to calm him down.

"Knuckles, please curb your anger." said Shade "We need to be ready for when the attack on Angel Island arrives."

"I'm trying the best I can!" muttered Knuckles through gritted teeth.

Shade could tell that Knuckles wasn't going to be easy to clam down right now so she decided to let him vent for a minute and come to grips with himself. She let go of Knuckles and Knuckles turned his back on everybody. Knuckles growled furiously and then he punched the ground as hard as he could to let all his rage out. That one punch didn't seem to have clamed him down much though, he was still fuming.

"I can't believe it! Dr. Eggman's still alive and my subversive uncle is working for him now?!" screamed Knuckles "Why won't Eggman just stay gone already?! And how dare my uncle join forces with him! Eggman's going to be more dangerous than ever with Uncle Finitevus working for him! We all know how well Finitevus can fight and his scientific knowledge combined with Eggman's is going to make them a very deadly team-up! If I ever get my hands on my uncle, I'm gonna KILL him!"

"If we ever catch that dishonourable fiend, we'll be all too happy to let you deliver his penance." said Espio with a rather dry smirk on his face "So you two, the attack on Angel Island is this: According to Sora, Eggman's going to send the Metal series over to attack and presumably steal the Master Emerald. I assume the Metal series means we'll be up against Metal Sonic, Metal Tails, Metal Knuckles and Metal Amy. Maybe even Silver Sonic. I remember how we WERE going to fight those robots until the tear in the sky took Sonic away. Well, we'll get our chance to fight them now."

"I hope so." said Knuckles "I've been itching to tussle with Metal Knuckles again."

"Will they be coming anytime soon?" asked Shade.

"Should be." said Espio "Sora said Eggman was putting the plan in action just before she left."

"Hey, is that them right now?" asked Charmy, pointing into the distance ahead of him "I can see something coming and it looks like a bunch of robots."

Everybody looked in the direction Charmy was pointing in and they could see something coming towards Angel Island in the distance. What they could see was a horde of five robots all flying towards Angel Island at top speed. These robots were, of course, the Metal series. Metal Sonic, Metal Tails, Metal Knuckles, Metal Amy and Silver Sonic were all flying through the air with the aid of their jet packs (Silver Sonic is flying with the jets on his legs for he doesn't have one in his back) and they looked like they were ready for battle. They were coming in fast, meaning that Knuckles, Shade and the Chaotix would have to be ready in a matter of seconds or the Metals would get the drop on them all. Knuckles immediately leaped on top of the Master Emerald and he clenched his fists. The Chaotix and Shade stood around the shrine and they readied themselves for battle.

"Alright Metals! Give us your worst!" dared Knuckles "We'll stop you!"

Metal Sonic launched the first blow by curling up into a shiny, steel ball and he spin-dashed towards the Master Emerald. Knuckles knelt down on the emerald and he tapped into the Chaos Force, green energy crackling around his body as he prepared to use its power for something. Knuckles had the brilliant idea of using the Master Emerald to perform a Chaos Control and freeze the Metals in place. Once the Metals were frozen, he'd simply glide towards them and smash them down into the ground before they can move again. Unfortunately, Knuckles timed his plan a little too late so Metal Sonic ended up spin-dashing him directly off the emerald just before he could perform a Chaos Control. Knuckles was thrown off the emerald by that spin-dash and he slid across the ground on his back, leaving nasty scrapes on his back and a big track of flattened grass and scattered dirt as he slid across it. Metal Sonic stood on top of the Master Emerald and he analyzed it, wondering if he could use its power in anyway and how he'd be able to transport it back over to Eggman's base. Metal Tails and Metal Amy hovered beside the Master Emerald and they placed their clawed hands on it. They proceeded to try and lift the emerald up off the shrine, using all the power in their jet packs to help them ascend with the emerald. Metal Sonic hopped off the emerald and he joined Metal Tails and Metal Amy. Metal Knuckles could not help for he didn't have real hands, just claws. Silver Sonic hovered by and he placed his claws on the Master Emerald. His enormous size, superior circuitry and powerful systems would make him a lot stronger and thus, he'd be able to lift the emerald up easily. But before he could get the chance, Vector jumped up to the emerald and he fisted Silver Sonic off of it.

"Hey! That's Knuckles' big glowing emerald! No touchie!" yelled Vector as Silver Sonic landed beside the emerald shrine with a heavy clunk.

Silver Sonic picked himself up and he clawed at Vector with a heavy metal hand. Vector ducked as Silver Sonic's clawed hand whooshed over his head, nearly snagging his earphones as it missed him, and he jumped onto Silver Sonic. He clamped his jaws around Silver Sonic's arm and tried to bite it off. Silver Sonic took the bite and he grabbed Vector. He threw him into the emerald shrine as hard as he could. Vector groaned as he hit the shrine and left some heavy cracks into it. Silver Sonic stomped up to Vector and he raised his foot, ready to squash the crocodile flat. Knuckles however saved Vector by jumping in and punching Silver Sonic in the face and knocking him over onto his side. Metal Knuckles was quick to fly in and punch Knuckles away from Silver Sonic though. Knuckles hurled off of Silver Sonic and Metal Knuckles flew after him. Knuckles uppercut Metal Knuckles before he could slash him with his metal claws and Metal Knuckles hurled backwards into the ground. Metal Knuckles jumped back up and he and Knuckles grappled fists with each other.

"Hey Metal Knuckles! Been looking forward to fighting you again!" growled Knuckles, a devious smirk on his face as he grappled with his metal doppelganger "And this time, no truce will save you from being scrapped by me because we aren't forming one this time!"

Metal Knuckles just promptly yanked one of his claws out of Knuckles' grip and he socked Knuckles directly in the face. Knuckles took the blow despite it being powerful enough to knock him clean off his feet and onto his back and he soon sprung back hard with a punch to the face on Metal Knuckles. The punch was enough to make Metal Knuckles' senses go a bit fuzzy and distorted for a minute before he recovered and tried to attack again. Knuckles beat Metal Knuckles to the punch (no pun intended) though and he uppercut Metal Knuckles into the air. Metal Knuckles hurled up into the air and he fell back down to the ground. Knuckles ran in and walloped Metal Knuckles off of Angel Island with a single punch before he could crash down onto the ground. Metal Knuckles hurled off the edge of the island but he was soon back up onto it thanks to his jetpack. Metal Knuckles flew back up onto the island and he socked Knuckles as hard as he could as he flew back up onto it. As Knuckles and Metal Knuckles fought, Team Chaotix tussled with Metal Sonic, Metal Tails, Metal Amy and Silver Sonic. Shade was fighting Silver Sonic, Vector was against Metal Amy, Espio was against Metal Sonic and Charmy was having an air-to-air showdown with Metal Tails. Operation: Double Trouble had begun and the fight for Angel Island was likely to get hectic. Only time would tell who the victors of this battle would be…

Over in Megapolis, the second stage of Operation: Double Trouble was being set-up. The nuclear missile that was going to be launched at New Mobotropolis had been raised out of the bunker by a bunch of Eggman robots and some walk-ways had been constructed so that robots could walk around the missile and make any further adjustments. The site that the missile was going to launch from looked very much like the launch site for a NASA space rocket. The missile itself looked very similar to a rocket in appearance. It was huge, about the same size as a standard rocket and coated in a silver steel shell. It had the Eggman Empire logo painted on it and it also had yellow fins near the rocket engines. Up near the cone-shaped nose of the missile were Princess Matilda, Bladefeather the Falcon and Emperor Tai. They were secured to the rocket by chains wrapped and wound around their arms, torsos and ankles and they were fastened there quite securely. They tried as desperately as the could to break free of the chains but try as they might (especially poor old Tai), they just couldn't break free. The chains were quite tough and due to how securely they were fastened, they couldn't really find the strength or momentum to break free (not that Tai ever would be able to break free even if he had momentum since he's weak and frail). On the walkway, Dr. Eggman and Dr. Finitevus stood there looking up proudly at their captives and also admiring the missile. The walkway led to a control pad that was just under Matilda's feet (she's chained facing directly in front of Eggman and Finitevus) and Dr. Eggman was punching in the launch sequence in the control pad. The missile was preparing to fire and Eggman was setting its course, as well as the appropriate launch time. They couldn't launch the missile too fast or it wouldn't have time to warm up and be effective. Also, launching it too fast would probably cause it to overheat and explode right there so this isn't a simple case of just launching the missile at the touch of a button. A nuclear missile needs time to warm up after all. Matilda gulped as Eggman set the launch sequence for the missile. In a matter of moments, she, her father and her boyfriend would be obliterated along with Sonic's home city and maybe even Sonic himself.

"Aaaah, that should do." said Eggman as he pressed one last button on the control pad "The launch sequence is five minutes and the course is set. This missile will be turning NewMobotropolis into a wasteland in five whole minutes! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

He then pressed a button on the control pad that was marked "Begin launch". The countdown for the missile's launch began, red digital numbers flashing on the control pad as it started and the numbers counted down second by second. The missile whirred and rumbled as it was warming up for the launch. The three captives could feel the shell vibrating on their backs as the missile powered up. They were all very frightened now. Would somebody be able to save them in time? Would something go wrong and the missile would end up going dead instead of launching? Both chances seemed unlikely but being that they were from Chun-Nan, Matilda, Tai and Bladefeather didn't give up hope. They considered giving-up to be dishonourable. They began hoping that somebody would stop the missile and save them in time. Dr. Eggman grinned from inside Omega's casing as the missile prepared to launch.

"Oh what a joyous day!" he crowed excitedly "My brilliant plan is in action and Sonic and friends know NOTHING about it! They can't stop me now, Operation: Double Trouble is going to be a brilliant success it is and all thanks to my genius mind! Oh ho, ho, ho, ho, ho!"

"Ahem, I believe you need to be corrected on certain points in your statement Eggman." said Finitevus coldly, pulling on Eggman's arm and pulling on it so hard he almost yanked him over "First off, it was MY plan and Sonic won't be able to stop US. Do remember that you have me as your sidekick Eggman, don't grab all the glory for yourself." he hissed sinisterly, a fuming scowl narrowed on his face.

Eggman glowered at Finitevus with the red optics of his life-support mech but he didn't smack Finitevus or anything. He just took his arm out of Finitevus's grip and put them on his hips.

"Excuse my misinterpretation of events." he said sarcastically "You do realize though that I'm the head honcho of the Eggman Empire so I can credit myself for anything that goes on under my watch."

"As you wish." said Finitevus, scowling at Eggman and folding his arms "After all, I wouldn't want to steal your glory would I?"

"I should hope not!" snapped Eggman "Now, let us stand back and watch as our glorious missile prepares to launch into the air and fly off to NewMobotropolis. I can just picture the nuclear wasteland it'll be reduced to now!" he cackled evilly.

"I for one hope that the citizens end up mutated by the nuclear substance in the missile and that way, I can have some VERY fascinating creatures to experiment on." crooned Finitevus darkly, thinking on the fact nuclear substances can mutate a being should such a thing end up happening.

"My Finitevus, you are twisted!" laughed Dr. Eggman "Are you naturally this evil or do you practice at it?! Ho, ho, ho, ho!"

"The conversations between these two are so tempting me to vomit violently all over myself at this very moment." sighed Bladefeather crossly. He was disgusted to hear what Finitevus and Eggman were talking about right now.

"I wonder how those two can bear to live with such a horrible sense of enjoyment." said Tai, his face screwed up in disgust "They both have no lives, they really don't."

"I agree daddy." said Matilda grimly "Which is why I so wish I wasn't chained up now. I'd love to give those two a bit of discipline…maybe more than a bit actually."

"I so relish the thought of connecting my foot with the rear ends of those baneful scientists." said Bladefeather "If only we could get free…"

And now is the time for one of the biggest coincidences ever for just as Bladefeather said that, a warp ring opened up a fair distance away from the launch site. Eggman and Finitevus saw the warp ring opening up and they stared hard at it, wondering who was going to come out of it. Much to their utmost shock, out of the open warp ring piled Sonic the Hedgehog and all his friends! Sonic, Tails, Sally, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Nicole, Wilson, Mandy, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Sora & Ruben all charged out of the warp ring and they began charging towards the missile launch site like a herd of stampeding rhinos. They all looked furious and like they were ready to give Eggman and Finitevus an epic beat down. Both the doctors jaw-dropped in surprise at what they could see. Matilda and Tai saw the warp ring open up and they both beamed at the fact Sonic and friends were here (Bladefeather can't see because he's on the other side of the missile beside Matilda).

"It's the hedgehog and his friends!" blurted Finitevus "But…this is impossible! They shouldn't be knowing about all this! How can they possibly have known about our plan?!"

"So much for unpredictability…" snorted Eggman, frowning at Finitevus "I bet someone in Chun-Nan noticed that the princess, emperor and kung-fu warrior had gone missing and then squealed on us to them. No matter, I've been hoping to have a battle with Sonic in my new robot body! Finitevus, you keep an eye on the control pad while I fight off Sonic and friends!"

Finitevus obeyed and he stood guard by the control pad as Eggman flew off of the walkway and down towards the ground. Sonic saw Eggman coming and he screeched to a very violent halt just as Eggman landed down heavily on the ground just before him. Sonic leaped back and bent down into a battle ready stance. The others ran up beside Sonic and they came to a stop just behind him, all sharing his eagerness to get into battle. Sonic smirked as he observed the Omega life-support mech that Eggman was now encased inside. Sonic remembered that Sora said he was encased inside Omega and he remembered Omega all too well so he knew that this was Dr. Eggman he was face-to-face with now.

"Hey Eggman! That's a nice new look for you!" taunted Sonic "What happened? You wanted an extra belly-size or something? I mean Omega just makes you look even fatter then before now! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"You'll change that tone of yours Sonic." sneered Dr. Eggman "For I am encased within the body of E-123 Omega! If you remember, even Shadow the Hedgehog couldn't take him down so you should be afraid of me now Sonic! Oh, ho, ho, ho, ho! I will be much deadlier now!"

"Oh yeah sure will be." sneered Sonic "I will say, I'm glad you came back as Omega. I've been itching to have a rematch with Omega and now you've given me that opportunity. You've just made me one happy hedgehog." he added, sticking out his tongue rudely.

"You're not supposed to be delighted! You're supposed to be terrified!" shrieked Dr. Eggman furiously, shaking his huge metal arms furiously.

"Eggman, you weren't scary when you were bald, flabby, ugly and fleshy!" snapped Amy, brandishing her Piko-Piko hammer menacingly "You being encased in a robot isn't going to make you any scarier!"

"We'll see about that…" snarled Dr. Eggman, deploying Omega's weapons and aiming them at the Royal Fighters.

Sonic however spin-dashed Eggman and knocked him over onto his back before he could fire so much as one bullet. Eggman landed with a heavy clunk on his back, his guns randomly shooting up into the sky as he landed.

"Sally! Go!" yelled Sonic "Now's your chance! Stop that missile!"

"Will do." said Sally, running off past the downed Dr. Eggman with the super warp ring in hand "Please be careful everybody! Eggman's going to be very dangerous with all that artillery in his mech-suit!"

Sonic nodded and he watched as Sally ran off towards the missile launch site as fast as she could. Eggman slowly but steadily picked himself up, not realizing that Sally had gone, and he clenched his fists furiously. He deployed his weapons and he started firing rapidly at the Royal Fighters. The Royal Fighters all scattered around like a terrified colony of ants as Eggman tried to shoot them. Bunnie deployed her shield generator and kept herself and Geoffrey safe from harm with a force field. Once the rabbit and skunk were out of the line of fire, Bunnie deployed her arm cannon and she shot at Dr. Eggman. The blast sent Eggman staggering and he nearly fell over onto his side. Bunnie however ran in and made sure that he did fall over. She uppercut Eggman over onto his side with her robot arm. Eggman tried to get back up but Amy ran in and hammered him into the air. Eggman hurled through the air and crashed down violently on the ground a few feet away. Eggman picked himself up and he launched some missiles at the Royal Fighters. Bunnie blasted them to bits before the missiles could get anywhere near the Mobians but the missiles were merely a distraction. Eggman plunged into the smoke of the exploding missiles and because of his suit's optical sensors, he could sense where his opponents were and he knew where he was heading. He emerged from the explosions and he uppercut Bunnie directly in the face, sending her hurling up into the air but Eggman jumped up after her and grabbed her. He slammed her down onto the ground and then threw her directly into Geoffrey. Geoffrey caught Bunnie and then he fired as many darts as he could at Eggman. The darts pinged off of his tough mech suit and Eggman fired a round of bullets at the skunk. Sonic and Tails however jumped in and they both kicked Eggman at once, knocking him down onto his back. Eggman picked himself up quickly and he punched them both in the face. He picked Tails up and slammed him down on top of Sonic. Sonic cried out as Tails was slammed on top of him. Eggman threw Tails away carelessly like a broken tool and he picked Sonic up by the head. He held Sonic firmly in one hand and he slugged him in the stomach with the other. He proceeded to do it again but before he could do it a third time, Ruben jumped in and blasted Eggman off of his feet with a jet of water. Eggman hurled across the battlefield and he came to a stop on his back. Eggman picked himself up and he fired a missile at Ruben. Ruben cried in horror and he ran for it as the missile soared towards him. Luckily for him, Sora was on hand to save him. She pounced on Ruben and brought him down to the ground before the missile could get him. The missile whizzed over their heads and exploded as it hit the ground a few feet away from them. Sora and Ruben covered their ears as the missile exploded. Ruben looked over at Sora graciously.

"Ugh…thank you." he said.

"You're welcome water-boy." said Sora with a smile.

Ruben found himself blushing at that remark. Water-boy was a childhood nickname of his and to hear a girl calling him that was just glorious to him. As Ruben blushed, he took note of Sora and found himself thinking she looked quite nice. Beautiful even. Especially her eyes. Amazing he hadn't noticed this before. Now was not the time for admiring Sora though, they had a battle to win. Eggman ran towards Sora and Ruben with his Gatling guns deployed and the barrels spinning, ready to fire. Wilson and Mandy stopped him from getting anywhere near them by attacking him from the side and tripping him up. Eggman fell onto the ground flat on his face as he was tripped up. Eggman picked himself up only to have Cosmo climb onto his back and cover the mech's optics. Eggman couldn't see anything now Cosmo was covering the mech's optics. This gave Cream the perfect opportunity to launch an attack on him. She threw Cheese at Eggman as hard as she could and Cheese ended up hitting Eggman squarely in the knee, bringing him down on one leg as the Chao hit him. Sonic then spin-dashed Eggman, making sure he didn't hit Cosmo as he did so, and knocked him over onto his side. Cosmo hopped off of Eggman but she had an alternative for blinding him. She gathered up a splodge of mud that was from a nearby mud puddle and she threw the mud at Eggman's optics. The mud hit Eggman in the face with a splat and the mech suit's optics were now covered with mud. Eggman couldn't see a thing at all now. While he tried to get the mud off his optics, Nicole jumped up onto his head and then leaped off again, the force of her legs pushing her into the air sending Eggman stumbling backwards. Bunnie and Geoffrey both pile-dived Eggman in the back and sent him hurling forwards onto his face. Eggman picked himself up only to be spin-dashed by Sonic and knocked over again. Eggman activated the jets in the mech-suit's back to fly up into the air and keep himself out of harm's reach so he could get enough time to wipe the mud off his optics. He of course forgot one thing…Tails and Cream can simply fly after him. But Eggman managed to wipe the mud off his optics just before Tails and Cream could get him and Eggman fisted them both down into the ground. He remained flying and he began unleashing as much of his arsenal as he could from up in the sky. The Royal Fighters ran for it as bullets and missiles all rained down onto the ground from up where Eggman was flying.

Meanwhile, Sally had made it to the launch site and she climbed up the stairs to the walkway as fast as she could. Dr. Finitevus could see Sally coming and he decided to play a sneaky trick on her. He disappeared through a warp ring and made it look like he was abandoning his post to fight the Royal Fighters by reappearing near the battle scene. This trick was to fool Matilda, Tai and Bladefeather into thinking he didn't know somebody was coming up to save them and was going over to help Eggman and thus, they wouldn't warn Sally about him and ruin his ambush. Sally finally made it to the top of the walkway and she bolted over to the control pad, panting heavily. Matilda looked down at Sally and she beamed happily.

"Oh thank the ancestors! Someone's here to stop the missile and get us down!" she cried happily "And...I think it's the Queen of New Mobotropolis herself." she added, recognizing Sally from the last time they met which was when she was hospitalized after being beaten by Conquering Storm a while back.

"It is indeed." said Sally brightly "I am Queen Sally Acorn of the AcornKingdom and I'm gonna stop this missile. Hold on while I try and shut it down."

"I sincerely hope you succeed dear queen." said Bladefeather "I do not harbour any interests in going up like a firework after all!"

Sally nodded and she looked at the control pad. Only three minutes left until launch were left on the countdown. She'd have to think fast and get to it. Sally beginning pressing on some buttons and she tried to see if she could hack into the control pad and get the missile to abort launch. But then Sally realized something. If she aborted the launch and saved the captives, Eggman would still have a missile to use the next time. Shutting it down and nothing more would just be delaying the inevitable. The best thing to do would be abort the launch, save the captives and then make the missile destroy itself. The result would do so damage but given it's in the middle of far stretching plains, it wouldn't harm anything or anybody. Sally knew what she had to do now so she set to hacking into the controls to the missile and stopping the launch.

"OK, if I can just bypass these set of codes, I should have access to the missile." mused Sally "Clever of Eggman to put up encryption codes to stop anyone from accessing the missile once the launch sequence is set. I know I can do this though. Come on Sally girl, you can do this…"she said, a bead of sweat trickling down her forehead as she tried to hack into the controls.

"Sally LOOK OUT!" Matilda suddenly screamed at the top of her voice.

Sally turned around to see what Matilda was so frightened about and she was instantly met with a backhand to the face that sent her hurling over the rail of the walkway. She managed to save herself by clinging onto the walkway luckily. Her attacker stood by the rail and peered down at Sally. It was of course, Dr. Finitevus. He'd warped back onto the stairway a few sections down so Sally wouldn't hear him coming and he had sneaked up onto the walkway as quietly as he could. Now he'd gotten Sally clinging on for dear life onto the rail and he smirked down at her.

"So her Royal Highness herself has come to stop the missile." purred Finitevus darkly, stomping on Sally's right hand and making her let go of the rail "Such a poor choice of planning. Say goodbye…"

He then stomped on Sally's other hand and made her let go of the rail. Sally plummeted straight down from the walkway, screaming loudly as she fell to her apparent demise. She was very high up from the ground so she wouldn't survive a fall like this. But Sally had a saving grace on her. As Sally fell down to the ground, she fished the warp ring out of her vest pocket and activated it directly below her. Thus, she ended up falling through the warp ring and saving herself from a very nasty fate. The warp ring re-opened just behind Finitevus so Sally ended up hurling out of the warp ring and landing smack in the middle of Finitevus' face. Finitevus was sent hurling across the walkway and he groaned in pain. He picked himself up, rubbing his face better and Sally got out her staff and deployed its blade. She twirled it around and pointed it at Finitevus. Finitevus just cracked his knuckles and prepared to fight. He wasn't even that bothered at the fact he was up against Sally Acorn right now. He knew she was no threat and that she couldn't possibly hope to stop him. Matilda watched on worriedly as they prepared to fight.

"My child, do you seriously believe you can stop me?" snorted Finitevus "All the Royal Fighters together couldn't stop me so what chance do you think YOU have against me?"

"The fact I now have a warp ring of my own." sneered Sally "Finitevus, once I beat you, you will be arrested for your crimes against AngelIsland and the Kingdom of Acorn. Do not expect me to be lenient on you."

"It is you who will be begging for mercy you feeble minded woman…" snarled Finitevus dryly.

Sally immediately sprung into action. She twirled the staff around and tried to hit Finitevus with it. Finitevus leaped over the swinging staff and he drop-kicked Sally in the head. He then grabbed onto the rails, hoisted himself up and kangaroo kicked her directly into the control panel. Luckily, Sally didn't break it as she hit it but she did end up with a sore back after that hit. Finitevus lunged towards Sally but Sally threw her warp ring in front of herself, sending Finitevus hurling through it. He reappeared in front of her, flying out of the warp ring and Sally whacked him away from herself like a baseball player swinging the bat. Finitevus hurled off the walkway but he saved himself with a simple warp ring back onto the walkway. Sally knew what he was planning anyway so she warped away and left Finitevus to pounce on nothing. She reappeared behind him and kicked him down onto the floor of the walkway. Finitevus didn't seem that hurt though and he picked himself up as if nothing had happened.

"Alright red-head, you want to play?" he sneered "Now we play for real!"

He then lashed out and grabbed Sally's wrists. He forced her to drop the staff and he then jumped around behind Sally, forcing her arms behind her back. Sally tried to get free but Finitevus was just too strong for her. Finitevus kicked Sally and sent her hurling face first into a pole on the walkway. Sally groaned as she hit the pole and her face started aching like mad. Finitevus grabbed Sally by the hair and then slammed Sally's face against the pole. Sally saved herself from another slam by kicking Finitevus in the shin and making him let go. She then spun-around and kicked him backwards. She ran past Finitevus and picked up her staff. She pole-vaulted towards Finitevus but the mad scientist simply held his arms up and pushed himself forward, making her attack ineffective and knocking her down onto the floor. Sally picked herself up and pole-vaulted over Finitevus as he tried to grab her again. Finitevus twirled around and ran after Sally as she ran under an overhead section of the walkway. Sally thrust the staff forward, nearly stabbing Finitevus in the shoulder as she did so. Finitevus leaped up out of her way and grabbed some overhead rails. Sally swung at Finitevus but the doctor kept raising his legs up to dodge and he kicked Sally in the forehead. He then grabbed her head with both his legs and held her firmly in place. Sally gagged and she tried to get free before Finitevus could snap her neck with his feet. Luckily she managed to do so by whacking Finitevus in the back of his knees with her staff. Finitevus let her go but he still held onto the rails. He kicked Sally in the back of the head shortly after letting go of her and Sally fell down onto her face. Finitevus let go of the rails and dropped back down onto the walkway. He grabbed Sally by the vest and he slammed her against a rail. He pinned her there and gave Sally a very nasty look.

"See, you have no chance against me you poor, miserable excuse for a queen." purred Finitevus "I have you beaten and the missile is almost ready for launch. You know…maybe I'll take you prisoner and see what kind of experiments I can perform on you…" he added with a very twisted, cruel smile on his face.

"I will not be your lab experiment Finitevus!" yelled Sally, head-butting him in the forehead and making Finitevus cry out in pain.

He let go of her and Sally tripped Finitevus up with a swift roundhouse kick to the legs. Finitevus winced as he landed on his back and Sally activated her super warp ring. She picked Finitevus up by his cloak and she threw him into the warp ring. Finitevus vanished through the warp ring and ended up reappearing in the middle of the battle between Dr. Eggman and the Royal Fighters. Sally put the warp ring back into her vest pocket, put her staff away on her belt (it shrinks into a small capsule when she's not using it) and she grunted for her body was paining a bit from the fight. She clutched her arm and wandered over to the control pad.

"Ugh…hopefully Sonic and friends will keep Finitevus busy now I've given him to them." said Sally "Now where was I? Oh yes…"

She made it back over to the control pad and what she saw nearly gave her a heart-attack. The missile only had one minute left until launch! Sally freaked out and instantly resumed what she was doing as fast as she could. She began pressing buttons and furiously trying to break the encryption codes that were keeping her out of the controls. Sally began to sweat madly and her heart was racing as fast as her hands were moving. Would she make it in time? The missile was beginning to yawn a loud, rumbling noise as it was warming up and preparing to take off. Sally could feel the walkway vibrating as the missile was ready to take off. She had to stop it now or it would be too late. Sally typed and typed on the control panel until, at long last, she managed to break the codes and get into the controls and all with thirty seconds left to go. Sally instantly scrolled through the options and she quickly pressed the option that said "Abort launch?". The missile stopped rumbling and it fell into a deep silence as its launch was aborted. Matilda, Bladefeather and Tai all cheered excitedly for they were now saved and the missile was stopped. Sally gasped with relief and she put her hand over her pounding heart.

"Oh thank goodness…I thought I wasn't going to make it!" gasped

Sally "Thank god I did! Whew…"

She wiped sweat off her forehead and took a moment to relax. Once she was relaxed, she got out her staff and saw to freeing the captives. Using the blade of her staff, she cut the chains to pieces and Matilda, Tai and Bladefeather all dropped down onto the walkway. The moment they did, they all gave Sally a gracious hug each and expressed their thanks.

"Oh thank you so much your honour!" squealed Matilda "I thought we were done for!"

"Your valour and honour is to be commended your grace. Many thanks for saving our lives." said Bladefeather, politely kissing Sally's hand as a token of gratitude.

"I cannot thank you enough for your bravery Miss Acorn." said Tai, shaking Sally's hand "I am honoured by your selflessness and valour and I am so grateful to you for saving our lives."

"Aw, thank you everyone." said Sally graciously "You're all quite welcome. I couldn't let Chun-Nan lose its royals and one of its warriors after all. Now I have just one more thing to do."

"Which is?" asked Matilda curiously.

"Set the missile to self-destruct." said Sally, getting back to the controls to see what she could do "Shutting it down and leaving it as it is will just give Eggman another opportunity to use the missile. We have to destroy it completely."

"But won't you take all of us with it?" piped Matilda.

"No, I'll set it on a timer and give us time to get out of here before it goes off." said Sally "I have our escape route already, the warp ring that we got from our first encounter with Dr. Finitevus. I think ten minutes will be more than enough time for us to break for it before the missile destroys itself."

"A very potent plan." praised Bladefeather "I admire a woman of great intelligence I do."

Sally blushed at Bladefeather's remark and she began taping a few buttons on the control pad. She managed to find an option that, rather conveniently, allows the user to set the missile to self-destruct. The feature was there so that if the missile was going to be lost and Eggman didn't want it to fall into enemy hands, he could just destroy it and save it from being used on himself. A sound security feature that was going to be used to Sally's advantage. Sally selected the option and set the timer for ten minutes. She would have to get the Royal Fighters out of Megapolis in ten whole minutes or the missile would take them with it when it self-destructs. This wouldn't be that much of a problem since she had a great escape route. The only real problem was getting them past Eggman and Finitevus. Since she now had Matilda, Bladefeather and Tai free, they could help stop the two villains and buy themselves enough time to warp out of here. Sally flicked the warp ring into the air and she, Matilda, Bladefeather and Tai hopped through it. They warped down to the big battle on the ground and they ran forward to help Sonic and friends stop Eggman and Finitevus. Time was ticking and they were racing against the clock. Would they be able to get past the two villains and get out of Megapolis in time…?

Back on Angel Island, the battle with the Metal series was pretty much even-sided right now. Knuckles was still brawling with Metal Knuckles and given how Metal Knuckles is meant to match Knuckles in everyway, this fight's definitely going to be even-sided. Shade was still against Silver Sonic, Vector was still against Metal Amy, Espio was still against Metal Sonic and Charmy was still fighting with Metal Tails up in the sky. The Metal series were a tough bunch of robots but the echidnas and the Chaotix fought back valiantly and were managing to hold them off pretty well. Metal Sonic and Silver Sonic had been fought so many times already that they weren't really as strong as they used to be. While still powerful, the heroes had become wise to them and since Metal Tails, Metal Amy and Metal Knuckles were pretty much the same only modelled after different characters, the heroes were wise to them too. Still didn't stop the Metal Series from being a tough threat to fight. Metal Knuckles gave Knuckles a powerful uppercut that sent the echidna hurled up into the air and just as Knuckles was hurling back down into the ground, Metal Knuckles fired a laser from his optics that struck Knuckles before he could hit the ground. Knuckles groaned in pain but he was still able to stand back up. Metal Knuckles ran towards Knuckles and tried to attack him again. Knuckles was quickest to react this time and he socked Metal Knuckles in the face. Metal Knuckles stumbled backwards and Knuckles grabbed him by the arms. He stomped on Metal Knuckles' gut and pulled on his arms, hoping to rip them clean out of their sockets. Metal Knuckles however was able to yank his arms out of Knuckles grasp and he punched Knuckles off of himself. Knuckles and Metal Knuckles linked arms and they pushed on each other, trying to overpower the other and bring them down. As for Shade and Silver Sonic, Shade wasn't having too much trouble with Silver Sonic's superior size. She used her swiftness to stay on top of her battle but Silver Sonic was still a problem for her. Shade Blade-Rushed Silver Sonic but the attack didn't really faze him in anyway. He took it as if it was nothing and clawed at Shade. Shade ducked and she uppercut Silver Sonic with her blades. Silver Sonic was thrown down onto his back but he was soon back up. He spin-dashed at Shade to which the echidna dodged and…Silver Sonic ended up plummeting directly off of Angel Island. Silver Sonic maybe strong but he's not very bright. He's just a mindless killing machine after all. Silver Sonic however uncurled from his spin-dash and he used the jets in his legs to fly back up to Angel Island. However, Shade was ready for him. She swung her blades and activated her Blade-Rush attack. She aimed at Silver Sonic's hip joints and since she sent two waves hurling towards Silver Sonic, the waves hit the hip joints. The hip-joints were much weaker than Silver Sonic's body-armour and the Blade-Rush attack ended up severing Silver Sonic's legs from his body. With no jets to fly now, Silver Sonic just plummeted straight down to the ground with his legs falling ahead of him. Silver Sonic was most definitely finished now. Shade smirked at the falling Silver Sonic and she ran over to help Knuckles take down Metal Knuckles. The two were still pushing on each other's arms and trying to best the other but given their equal strength they just couldn't overpower the other. Shade ran in and Blade-Rushed Metal Knuckles away from Knuckles. Metal Knuckles hurled across the island and came near the edge of it.

"Thanks for that Shade." said Knuckles graciously.

"Anytime handsome." said Shade "Silver Sonic's down for the count so we just have the four we're still fighting left to take down."

"Good." said Knuckles "It'll make things much easier now Silver Sonic's gone. Let's keep up the hard work!"

Shade agreed and she and Knuckles ran out to attack Metal Knuckles again. Over to Team Chaotix, they were managing reasonably well with their opponents. Vector had Metal Amy on the ropes, Espio was even with Metal Sonic and Charmy was just giving Metal Tails a wild game of cat & mouse to which Metal Tails wasn't faring too well at. Metal Amy swung her hammer hands at Vector but Vector grabbed them before they could hit him and he punched Metal Amy away. Metal Amy sprung back and she hammered Vector in the jaws. Vector clasped his fists together and he slammed them down on top of Metal Amy. Metal Amy was slammed down onto the ground and Vector picked her up, hoping to rip her to pieces. Metal Amy however hammered Vector in the gut before he could so much as pull on her. Vector let go of Metal Amy and thus, Metal Amy walloped Vector into the air with her hammer hands. Vector crashed down a good distance away from Metal Amy and Metal Amy flew after him. Vector picked himself up and he caught Metal Amy in his jaws. He tried to chomp her to pieces but Metal Amy was too tough for him to chew through so instead, Vector threw her away as far as he could.

"Huh, I bet it'd be much easier if it was Amy herself fighting Metal Amy!" grumbled Vector "Hey Espio, how are you doing with Metal Sonic?" he asked, looking over at Espio.

"Just fine thanks!" Espio called back as he threw a kunai at Metal Sonic.

Metal Sonic caught the kunai and he threw it away as he flew towards Espio. Espio flipped backwards and he kicked Metal Sonic as his legs swung up and over in his flip. Metal Sonic was whacked by Espio's leg but he wasn't brought down. Metal Sonic fired his torso laser at Espio but Espio dodged the blast and he threw some shuriken at Metal Sonic. The shuriken pinged harmlessly off of Metal Sonic's armour and Metal Sonic clawed Espio across the face. Espio rubbed his face better and he gave Metal Sonic a ninja-style kick to the head. Metal Sonic landed down on his side but he picked himself up and spin-dashed Espio. The chameleon was thrown across the island but he was soon back on his feet and he ran towards Metal Sonic again.

Up in the sky, Charmy was having some crazy version of a bullfight with Metal Tails. Metal Tails was the bull and Charmy was the matador. Charmy just hovered there and he taunted Metal Tails to which Metal Tails would fly towards him and then attempt to attack him but Charmy would buzz out of the way and then kick Metal Tails in the head. This tactic was doing well for the little ditz of a bee but it wouldn't be successful for long. Metal Tails actually wizened up to Charmy's little game so he decided to do something different. Charmy taunted Metal Tails to come and get him to which Metal Tails did. But he didn't charge straight at Charmy, he instead aimed his torso at him and fired his torso laser. Charmy was hit by the laser and he fell down to the ground head-first. His helmet protected him luckily and Charmy picked himself up, his mind in a bit of a scramble because of that sharp hit to his head. Metal Tails flew down and walloped Charmy across the island. Charmy ended up flying directly into Vector to which the crocodile caught him and settled him down gently on the ground.

"Ugh…Vector these guys aren't fun anymore…" whined Charmy.

"They weren't fun to begin with." muttered Vector "We need to end this now before we get too tired to fight back."

"I'm totally in agreement." said Espio, leaping away from Metal Sonic and preparing for another attack.

"Hey Knuckles & Shade! Got any ideas?!" Vector called over to the two echidnas.

"I have one!" Knuckles called back as he dodged an attack from Metal Knuckles "We could use the Master Emerald to freeze them with a Chaos Control! We just need to get past the robots first!"

"I'll go and do it since I've already taken my opponent down and you'll keep Metal Knuckles away better than me." offered Shade, abandoning the battle and running off towards the Master Emerald.

"Sure thing hon! We'll keep the robots away from you!" Knuckles called as he punched Metal Knuckles in the head.

Team Chaotix resumed their fights while Shade ran towards the Master Emerald. The Metals could see that Shade was heading towards their prize but the Mobians were just too much of a problem for them to get past and stop her. So because of this, Shade was successfully able to get up onto the Master Emerald and she began tapping into the Chaos Energies it contained. Shade knew how to use the Master Emerald luckily. She had used it before with Knuckles and she knew plenty about the Chaos Force. The Master Emerald glowed a dazzling green as Shade tapped into the emerald's power and she held her arms out.

"Chaos…CONTROL!" she yelled as loud as she possibly could.

The Master Emerald was obscured by an amazing, malevolent glow as a Chaos Control activated. Metal Sonic, Metal Tails, Metal Knuckles and Metal Amy were all frozen in time by the Chaos Control and they could not move at all. Knuckles' idea had worked to perfection. Knuckles smirked at the frozen Metal Knuckles and he instantly began pounding the frozen robot echidna into itty-bitty little pieces. He broke his arms off and punched his head clean off of his body. The robots were easier to smash when they couldn't defend themselves after all. Vector grabbed Metal Amy and simply pulled her apart like a baby who likes to break his toys. Espio got out a kunai and started slicing Metal Sonic apart at his joints. The shoulders, neck and hip joints were where he aimed and Metal Sonic ended up as a pile of limbs, a head and a torso lying on the ground. Charmy tried to destroy Metal Tails but much to his disappointment, he couldn't. He just didn't have the strength or weapons for that kind of stuff. He did however leave a few dents in him with his stinger. Vector sighed and just promptly destroyed Metal Tails for Charmy. Charmy pouted crossly for he wanted to destroy Metal Tails himself. Knuckles beamed at the destroyed robots and Shade hopped down from the emerald shrine. Knuckles picked her up and twirled her around happily, earning a cute little giggle from her as he did so.

"Well done Shade! You did it!" cheered Knuckles "We've saved Angel Island from those metal maniacs!"

"Ha, ha, ha, ha! Thank you Knuckles." said Shade as Knuckles put her down and hugged her "So I guess that's one part of this "Operation: Double Trouble" foiled now?"

"It is indeed." said Espio "I wonder how Sonic and friends are doing with the missile Eggman's planning to launch at New Mobotropolis?"

"Well we can always find out." suggested Charmy "Let's warp over to wherever Eggman is and see how things are going."

"I'm up for that, especially since Finitevus is working with Eggman and will likely be there with him. I'd be all too happy to arrest him once we get there." growled Knuckles "Where's the missile being set up?"

"Megapolis." explained Espio.

"Then let's warp over there and give Eggman and Finitevus a warm welcome." said Knuckles.

With that said, Knuckles climbed up the shrine and he placed his hand on the Master Emerald. He activated a Chaos Portal with the simple yelling of "Chaos…CONTROL!" and the Mobians all ran inside it. The portal closed up behind them as they ran inside and they were warped from Angel Island…

...and over to Megapolis where a big epic fight was going on. Knuckles, Shade and the Chaotix observed their surroundings and they could see Sonic and friends fighting against Eggman and Finitevus. The fight seemed to be going their way, especially since Matilda and Bladefeather were joining in the fight. Emperor Tai was, of course, staying well away from the battle since he would be of no help. He could try and nerve freeze Finitevus but the slippery doctor would be much too fast for him to hit and a nerve freezing attack wouldn't work on Dr. Eggman because he's encased inside a robot so it was best that Emperor Tai kept well out of the way. Sonic and friends were already holding their own well against Eggman and Fintievus but Matilda and Bladefeather joining in just made the fight all the more easier for the Royal Fighters given their kung-fu prowess. Sally had been trying to tell Sonic that they had to get going now but Eggman's firing weapons was keeping her from getting close to him so she couldn't warn Sonic that the missile was about to self-destruct. She'd just have to wait until they had a moment of peace. Sonic spin-dashed Eggman directly towards Bladefeather and the falcon let Eggman have it with a powerful kick to the back. Eggman was thrown forwards and he crashed down on his front with a heavy clunk. Finitevus was using his great skills and agility to keep out of harm's way pretty much. Bunnie threw a punch at Finitevus but he dodged and grabbed her by the arm. He threw Bunnie over his shoulder and into Cream and Cosmo. Amy tried to hammer Finitevus but Finitevus grabbed her wrists and swung her hammer at Tails, making the fox back off before he could get hit. He kicked Amy onto the ground. But his luck was about to run out for Matilda grabbed him into a choke hold and held him firmly back. Knuckles decided he'd attack Finitevus first so he ran towards Fintievus as Matilda held him in place. Matilda saw Knuckles coming and she held Finitevus in front for she had the idea that Knuckles was wanting to punch him. Knuckles drew his arm back and he slugged Finitevus directly in the gut, making him splutter in pain. Finitevus had never been punched by Knuckles before so this was definitely a first hand experience for him. Needless to say, he didn't enjoy it. Matilda winced as she watched Knuckles punch Finitevus, clearly thinking about how much that would hurt if she received a punch like that. She threw Finitevus across the plains and the evil scientist ended up lying on his side, clutching his gut in pain.

"Thanks for that princess." said Knuckles "You have no idea how much I've been itching to do that to Finitevus."

"You're quite welcome Knuckles." said Matilda with a bow.

As for Sonic, he spotted Knuckles talking to Matilda and he ran over to meet him. Sally followed Sonic and the others continued to do battle with Eggman.

"Knuckles! You're here to help!" said Sonic brightly "Cool! I guess Angel Island's safe now?"

"It is." said Knuckles "We managed to stop all of the Metal Series."

"That's great!" piped Sally "As for us, I've managed to abort the missile's launch and I've set it to self-destruct in ten minutes. It should be going up shortly so we need to leave here now."

"You've set the missile to blow itself up?" exclaimed Sonic "Whoa...Sally you are awesome! But as you said, we'd best break for it! I bet that explosion will spread over a great distance!"

"It will." said Sally "You know how violent a nuclear explosion can get. Good thing I have the perfect getaway."

So with that said, Sally fished out the super warp ring and she tossed it up into the air. A portal to Royal HQ opened up in the centre of the warp ring and the ring expanded to twice Sally's height. The Royal Fighters stopped fighting Eggman and they saw the open warp ring.

"Oh are we leaving now?" asked Tails "I guess we've accomplished our mission."

"If we're leaving then let's get going!" cried Amy "We don't need to be here a second longer!"

So all the Royal Fighters abandoned the battles and they ran off towards the warp ring. One-by-one, the Royal Fighters filed in through the warp ring and warped back home to Royal HQ. Matilda, Bladefeather and Tai followed them since they couldn't just go back to Chun-Nan right now and Royal HQ was the best place to escape to in order to survive a nuclear explosion. Sally stood by until everybody had made it through the warp ring and then she ran through herself. The warp ring vanished into thin air the moment she ran through it. Eggman had watched the Royal Fighters leaving and he muttered to himself.

"They retreated. That must mean they succeeded in stopping my missile!" growled Eggman.

"They have indeed." said Finitevus grimly "I overheard them talking. They've foiled Operation: Double Trouble. Our brilliant plan has gone up in flames."

"Indeed it has." grumbled Eggman "So much for unpredictability and carrying out two schemes instead of one! We still didn't beat Sonic and friends!"

"I bet we would have succeeded had they not somehow found out about our plan." muttered Finitevus "I wonder if somebody spied on us without us knowing about it. We have to speculate later though...the queen has apparently set the missile to self-destruct."

"SHE HAS?!" squealed Dr. Eggman in horror "Well there goes my lovely nuclear missile! Warp us back to my bunker now! Thank goodness it's in the Northern Border so we'll be nice and far away from the explosion!"

Finitevus did not wait to be asked twice. He quickly opened up a warp ring back to Eggman's bunker and he and Eggman dived through it as quickly as possible. The warp ring closed up behind them and vanished out of existence. The missile only had a minute left until it self destructed. Since nobody was around now it could explode and it wouldn't harm anyone. All the damage it would end up doing was creating a huge crater where it once stood. A minute ticked quickly by and then the missile self-destructed. It erupted into a chaotic fireball that reached hundreds of feet high and the tumultuous explosion ripped across three-hundred metres of land, tearing up rocks and sand and throwing them across the plains as if they were nothing. The roaring, deafening thunder of the explosion was deafening and could be heard all over the plains. Green, misty substances flared up from the explosion too like smoke from a fire. That was the nuclear substance inside erupting with the missile. The entire area that exploded would be contaminated by radiation for quite a while thanks to the nuclear substance in the missile. Once the explosion had finished, the smoke cleared away and revealed the destructive aftermath. There was merely a giant crater that was three-hundred metres wide and contaminated with radiation. The crater was a hazard zone and in all likelihood, it would be best to keep as far away from it as possible...

Back in Royal HQ, everybody was squealing and cheering with delight and acting like they were in the middle of an enormous party.

They were very happy with their successes today. Two villainous schemes both foiled in one day, what more could they be happy for? The Mobians all conversed amongst each other and told each other about what went on while they were foiling Operation: Double Trouble. Everybody was pretty amazed to hear from each other on what had happened today and Sally was all too happy to be a part of such a happy moment. After a minute of celebration, Sally stood forward and caught everybody's attention.

"Everybody, if I may have your attention please?" she said "I'd like to say that I'm really pleased with how successful we've been in taking down Eggman and Finitevus' Operation: Double Trouble scheme. I'd like to give everybody a big congratulations for doing so well in our attempts to foil it. And special thanks goes to our little super spy Sora Prower for finding out about this scheme. Had she not spied on Eggman, we would have been unprepared for that scheme."

With that said, everybody cheered excitedly for Sora and Tails even hugged her. Sora just smiled modestly, happy that she had helped prevent all of this and she took in the massive praise.

"That's nice and all Sally but I think someone else deserves a big congratulations." put in Sonic "You Sally. You came up with the plan to stop Operation: Double Trouble and you also stopped the missile. All by yourself no less. You wanted to become a Royal Fighters as well as a queen? Well I say, Queen Sally Acorn, you are officially a Royal Fighter! Well done your majesty!"

Sally was rather surprised to hear Sonic say that but she was glad that Sonic truly thought she was Royal Fighter material at last. The whole room cheered happily for Sally and the squirrel queen found herself overwhelmed with joy. She had wanted to become a queen who was a fighter and it seemed she had succeeded at last. How proud her parents would be to see this. They had often said a great princess who becomes a great queen will become something even greater in life and now, Sally had become the greatest thing she could ever become...a Royal Fighter. Once the cheering quietened down, Sonic spoke again.

"So, we all know that Eggman's going to coin up something else soon right?" asked Sonic "Well, we'll be ready for him. We'll stop Eggman no matter what he does and it doesn't matter if he's in a robot now. He's still the same mad scientist we all know and loathe. Eggman can do what he likes! We'll be there to stop him and it doesn't matter if Finitevus is there too! We'll stop them both and we will make Mobius free and happy once more!"

The cheering that followed this speech went on for many minutes. Today had been a good day for Sonic and friends and it seemed that the other days afterwards would go well too. Little did Sonic and friends realize is that something bigger and more deadly than Eggman was waiting to strike again. And that something was going on outside as they celebrated. Outside over the giant crater in Megapolis that had been created by the destruction of Eggman's missile...was a streak of light up in the sky. It looked like the one that had taken Sonic away the other day. It was looming in the sky and sucking up all the radiation that contaminated the area. After a minute, it had finished what it was doing and then it vanished into thin air...

Sonic's Origins

Story 151: Sonic's Origins

"Yo Tails! Rise and shine! We've got a big day ahead of us!" yelled Sonic the Hedgehog as he burst into the house of his best friend Miles "Tails" Prower without even knocking politely on the door first.

It had only been a day since the terror of the almighty Enerjak* and two days since the foiling of Operation Double: Trouble and yet Sonic was still ready for something. Today though he wasn't preparing to save the world from another Eggman scheme or foil another evil plan from another villain around the world. Today, Sonic was getting ready to study the streak of light that had been getting everybody on edge since the day he was taken away by one. The Royal Fighters had been concerned over what the streak of light could possibly be and what it might mean for the rest of the world. It could be the start of something catastrophic, especially since it could just suck somebody up and take them away and what was even more worrying was the fact that it had apparently happened before. Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona Fox had been taken away by a tear in the sky too, weeks before Sonic got taken by one so the fact that they weren't just a recent problem and had been happening before definitely gave the heroes something to deeply think about. So the heroes had made it their priority to study and investigate the streaks of light and see if they can find out what they are, what's causing them and what they can do to stop them. Today, Sonic and Tails were supposed to be taking the just-been-fixed machine that they had been using to scan for tears in the sky only for Katherine to destroy it and investigate again, see what they can find this time and if any streaks of light would show up this time. Sonic, as usual, was up bright and early but Tails seemed to be sleeping in a little so Sonic decided to run over and kindly remind his friend that they had a job to do today. Sonic let himself into Tails' house (one would think he'd have been taught how to be properly let into a house) and he called around, looking for Tails. The living room was quite cosy looking and looked fit for Tails to live in. There was a comfortable leather sofa which was yellow in colour, a small but hi-tech looking television sitting in the corner and the floor was covered with a lovely brown, furry carpet that covered every inch of floor in the room. It certainly looked like a nice place for Tails to live in.

"Hey Tails! You home or something?" asked Sonic as he wandered into the living room and looked for his friend "Come on, we've got a job to do!"

Sonic received an answer but not from Tails to his surprise. Sonic's ears caught the sound of a door handle turning upstairs and the door opened up. Sonic wandered over to the stairs and he looked up them to see none other than Tails' adorable, leafy girlfriend Cosmo the Seedrian. It was perfectly understandable for Cosmo to be with Tails right now since they were in love with each other so Sonic didn't find it strange that Cosmo was here at all. He couldn't help but wonder what was going on upstairs though so Sonic climbed up the stairs to meet with Cosmo. Cosmo smiled at Sonic's presence, she was always happy to see someone as selfless and heroic as Sonic after all.

"Good morning Sonic." said Cosmo brightly.

"Top of the morning to you too Cosmo." said Sonic "So how's it going?"

"Oh I'm doing fine Sonic, thank you for asking." said Cosmo cheerfully "Although, same can't be said for Tails I'm afraid."

"Oh really? What's up with him?" asked Sonic "He lost his favourite toolbox again?"

"No." said Cosmo sadly, her cheerful expression dying away into a solemn one "Poor Tails has fallen ill with a terrible fever. I've spent most of the morning just looking after him. He's in a dreadful condition. He's hot to the touch and he just can't stop groaning. It's horrible listening to him suffering like this. I'm ever so sorry to say Sonic but Tails can't join you for the streak of light investigation today."

Sonic felt a little disappointed to hear this. Tails was sick and thus, he'd have to do this investigation without him? Not a chance. Sonic was useless with machinery and he wouldn't be able to work the machine they were using to study the streaks of light so if Tails wasn't up for this job then Sonic wouldn't do it without him. Still, Sonic could be there for Tails and maybe lighten his day up since Sonic didn't like the idea of Tails being cooped up in bed and feeling miserable because of a bad fever. Sonic put a hand on Cosmo's shoulder.

"Hey Cosmo, I'm sorry to hear about Tails." he said gently "But I'll help you in looking after him if you wish. I'll stay here and keep Tails company if you think that's OK. I'd love to lighten up his day."

"That's very lovely of you Sonic." said Cosmo happily "Tails would like that very much. You go see him while I get him some water to drink."

So Sonic stepped politely to the side and let Cosmo through down the stairs. Cosmo climbed down the stairs and she ran off into the kitchen, which was at the right of the living room, to pour some water for Tails to drink. Sonic watched Cosmo go and then he slowly opened the bedroom door and let himself quietly inside. Sonic shut the door behind him as he entered. Tails' bedroom was quite unusual to say the least. It looked more like an inventory with a bed to sleep in. There was a work desk with piles of blueprint paper for Tails to do some designing ideas on, a wooden rack that was full of toolboxes and a steel cabinet that contained many materials used for building and repairing things. The only thing resembling a bedroom at all was the fact there was a bed in the room with a pair of curtains hanging just above it. Tails was lying in the bed with the duvet pulled up to his muzzle. His eyes were closed and he was groaning ever so miserably. He really did not look very well at all. Sonic was a little sad to see his best friend feeling like this but he knew that it couldn't be helped. If you felt sick, you felt sick and you have to put up with it until you get better. Sonic wandered over to Tails and he knelt down by his bedside. He felt Tails' forehead. The poor fox was burning up. Fevers did that to you after all, make you feel warmer than you should feel. Sonic's face fell into a sympathetic gaze. Tails would definitely be unable to join him for the investigation mission today. Oh well, they could always get to it once he felt better. Sonic lightly shook Tails.

"Hey Tails. It's me, Sonic. I've come to see you buddy." he whispered.

Tails groaned as he was woken up by someone shaking him. He was quite enjoying his little rest so to be woken up by somebody really didn't make him feel good at all. Tails turned over to his right side and he slowly opened up his eyes. To his surprise but also to his delight, he saw Sonic kneeling by his bedside and smiling at him. It was surprising to Tails that he didn't hear Sonic come into the room. Sonic must be getting good at being quiet or Tails was just so ill that he didn't really bother about what was going on around him. Just seeing Sonic there made Tails beam weakly, a sick smile spreading out on his face.

"Ugggghhhhh…hi Sonic…" he mumbled groggily "I'm…sorry but I can't…join you for our little investigation today…ugh I feel terrible…" he whined, clutching his head for it was aching a little.

"I know, Cosmo told me you have a fever." said Sonic, stroking Tails' head comfortingly "I've decided that I'll join her in keeping you company until you get better pal. The investigation of the tears in the sky will have to wait for now."

"Oh…thank you." said Tails appreciatively "That…makes me feel better already…"

He paused for a moment, sat up a bit in his bed and then let fly a horrible, throaty cough that made Sonic jump in alarm. That cough made Tails sound like he had a chest infection as well as a fever it was that horrible sounding. Tails cleared his throat after the cough and then lay back down in the bed, pulling the duvet back up to his chin.

"Cough…uh it's no fun being sick…" he whined "Why did I have to get a fever…on a day as…important as this?"

"I dunno. You never know when you're gonna feel ill Tails." sighed Sonic "When I was younger, I once wanted to take part in a marathon race for Mobius and I had to pull out because I had a terrible cold. It really sucked for me that day, believe me so I understand your displeasure big guy."

"Oh…" croaked Tails "I can just imagine…how you felt when that happened…"

Sonic nodded, still stroking Tails' head to make him feel better. As Sonic comforted Tails, the bedroom door opened up and in walked Cosmo, carrying a bottle of water and a glass in each hand. Cosmo walked up to the bed and she poured some of the water into the glass. Tails sat up in his bed and Cosmo passed him the glass. Tails took it and he lifted the glass up to his dry lips. He titled the glass up and started gulping down the water inside, quite eagerly given how thirsty the fever was making him feel. Tails gulped the entire glass down and he passed it back to Cosmo.

"Want some more?" asked Cosmo sweetly.

"No thanks…angel." said Tails weakly "But you can…leave the water here in case…I need anymore later."

"OK cute stuff." said Cosmo, putting the bottle and glass down beside the bed "I really hope you feel better soon Tails. It's really sad seeing you feeling so down and so ill."

With that said, she gave Tails a little hug for comfort. Tails hugged her back, feeling much better already just having the girl of his dreams hugging him like this. The two stopped hugging and Tails lay back down in his bed.

"Thanks Cosmo, I needed that." said Tails with a small smile.

"Anytime precious." said Cosmo, stroking his hand (which has no glove on. Tails doesn't wear gloves when he's in bed).

"So Tails, if you need anything, me and Cosmo will be there to answer your needs." said Sonic kindly "Do you need me to get anything for you?"

"No thanks Sonic, I'm fine for the moment." said Tails "But…it's very kind of you…to offer."

"No problem." said Sonic.

Sonic then thought for a moment about something. What could he do to pass the time and cheer Tails up? At the same time, Sonic was trying to give himself something to do since he was likely going to start feeling bored if all he did was just sit there comforting poor Tails. What could he do? Sonic then had an idea. Maybe he could tell a story of some kind. Sonic knew just the story he could tell to pass the time. It'd be a story that Tails and Cosmo would be most interested in hearing too so they could get some enjoyment out of this.

"Hey Tails, would you like to hear a story?" asked Sonic "That'd be something nice to pass the time with I bet."

"A story?" said Tails brightly, sitting up a fraction in his bed "Great…I love stories."

"Me too." said Cosmo eagerly "So what's this story going to be about?"

"Well I don't mean to sound egotistical or anything but…it's a story about me." explained Sonic "And this story is one that I've never told to anyone before for in case they try and use it against me. But you two are two of my closest friends so I can whole-heartedly trust you with this story."

"That's very nice of you Sonic." said Cosmo gratefully "It feels good to be trusted."

"So…what's this story going to tell us?" asked Tails inquisitively, eager to hear this story.

"A secret that I'm only going to tell to you two and any of my other buddies in the R.F.S. if I feel like it." said Sonic "This story…is how I got my super speed…sort of since it's mostly speculation at best."

"Oh cool." said Tails "Let's…hear it."

"OK then, but you mustn't tell this to anyone once you've heard it." said Sonic sternly "Only I can tell this story and I'll tell it to who I think can be trusted the most with this kind of information."

"We won't tell a soul." promised Cosmo "Honest we won't."

"I know you won't, which is why I'm gonna tell you this important story that I like to keep secret." said Sonic "OK, it all starts back during the time my mom was gonna give birth to me. My dad told me this story of course so now I'm passing it on to you two…"

Mobotropolis Medical Centre: 16 years ago…

In the days of the original Mobotropolis, long before Dr. Eggman ever became known to the world, Mobius was quite a different place. All villains of Mobius were Mobians-only, no extra-terrestrial villains at all, life was more peaceful than it is now but there was a lot more criminal activity than there is now, mainly because this was during a time where Sonic the Hedgehog wasn't the big-shot hero of Mobius he is now. To be more precise…he doesn't walk the planet yet at this time for he is still being developed inside the womb of his mother. The very person who would forever be honoured to be giving birth to Sonic the Hedgehog was a female hedgehog named Bernadette Hedgehog, or "Bernie" for short. Bernie was a rather pretty looking hedgehog at about 30 years of age with blonde hair and her quills tied together into a neat looking pony-tail. She wore a lovely purple dress with matching purple slippers and she wore white gloves with gold cuffs around the wrists. Her fur was dark blue, a little similar to Sonic's fur colour and she had light blue eyes. Bernie was lying in a hospital bed and she was in awful agony right now. In two weeks time, she was due to give birth (and had a sizeable baby bump) but she had come down with an agonizing illness. An illness that was causing her body to ache, her temperature to rise and her brea thing to get more furious and raspy. It was absolute torment for the poor girl to be lying there, suffering really badly when she should be looking forward to giving birth in two weeks time. Beside her bed stood her husband, Jules Hedgehog, the man who would become the proud father of Sonic the Hedgehog. Jules was 40 years old and he was a rather tall hedgehog with light blue fur and a quill style very different from the generic hedgehog design. He had three short quills curled up on each side of his head and an extra-three running down the back of his head. He had a tuft of silver hair sticking up on his head. He wore a brown leather jacket with a slight cowboy look to it, white gloves and red and white walking boots with brownish-gold bits on it. He had been married to Bernie for a couple of years and had been hoping to have kids someday. The other year, Bernie had given birth to their first child, Scourge the Hedgehog (who's at home with a baby-sitter at this moment), and now they were hoping to have another kid. But unfortunately, Bernie had fallen ill as mentioned earlier and her condition was deathly serious. She was finding it harder to breathe and her body was aching more and more. Poor Bernie felt like she was dying and at the rate her condition was worsening…she soon would be dead. Jules held Bernie's hand to try and comfort her but the agonizing pain she was in was too much for her to concentrate on her loving husband. Jules's heart was aching almost as badly as Bernie's body was. Watching his wife suffer like this, and all before she was due to give birth, made him feel like he wanted to drop dead right about now. He even felt like tearing up over Bernie too, his eyes welling up with tears as he dreaded to think what might happen to his beloved wife. The doctors were doing the best they could to stabilize Bernie but their best wasn't enough. She just wasn't improving at all. The doctors ran some diagnostic tests on Bernie again and they the results they received were most grave and severe indeed. They shook their heads and they looked at Jules, who read their expressions and feared the worst.

"She's not getting any better is she?" said Jules, his voice wobbling a little and his lips trembling as he spoke.

"I'm afraid she's not." said the doctor sadly "The illness has spread to most of your wife's body. She has a one-hundred to one chance of survival and many people who reach that stage of the illness do not make it. I'm afraid Miss Bernadette needs a miracle in order to survive and we all know that miracles don't just happen like that." he finished with a snap of the fingers.

"No!" whimpered Jules, ready to break down in tears "No, I can't lose her! Not before we can get our second child! You've got to save her doctors, please, you've got to!" he cried out desperately.

"I'm terribly sorry sir but there's nothing we can do." said the doctor "We've tried all we can but Miss Bernadette just gets worse, not better. If I were you, I'd spend all the time she has left with her and give her some last comfort before she passes, which maybe in a couple of days or so depending if she gets even worse."

Jules felt like he was going to collapse upon hearing those terrifying words. His legs felt weak and he could feel his heart sinking like a ship. Jules knelt back down beside the bed and he looked at Bernie. She was wheezing ever so hoarsely and her face was scrunched up in agony. She was suffering so much that she appeared to just want to be put out of her misery already. A very depressing thought for somebody to have when they're in this kind of situation. Jules took Bernie's hand, tears streaming down his face as he watched her moan and groan. Bernie turned her head to one side, the look on her face suggesting that she was in so much pain just simply turning her head hurt her, and she shared Jules' depressed expression. She was in rainfalls of tears.

"Oh Jules…sob…I can't believe that it'll end like this…sob…I'm going to die…and the baby inside of me will be going with me…and before it can even have a life!" she wailed, sobbing loudly as thoughts of her dieing began to overwhelm her "Oh what will our little Scourge think?! He's so young…sob…that he won't understand…and it brea ks my heart…to think that he won't understand…sob…any of this!"

Bernie squeezed Jules' hand ever tighter and she wailed so loudly and so uncontrollably that she couldn't speak properly anymore and all the agony she was feeling was turned into wails of sadness and anguish. Jules couldn't help but cry with her, his cries not as loud or uncontrollable as Bernie's. The doctors just shard their grief. They had to deal with this kind of stuff on a daily basis but while it doesn't effect them as badly as the patients, they are still capable of feeling sorry for them and sharing their anguish, especially since they themselves could fall victim to something this heartbreaking some day. After a moment of crying, Jules wiped his eyes dry and he suddenly had a serious look on his face.

"No…I won't lose you like this dear." said Jules "By the power invested in me, I will save your life Bernie, and also our unborn child."

"But honey…there's nothing we can do…" sobbed Bernie "I'm dying…my illness is getting worse…gasp…we can't do anything about it!"

"Yes we can." said Jules "And I know just what to do. Hang tight for me my angel. I'll be right back."

Jules then gave Bernie a passionate kiss on the forehead and suddenly got up to his feet and walked out of the hospital without saying another word. The doctors just looked at each other, wondering what was going through Jules' head. One doctor deduced that Jules had lost his mind. He'd soon change that tune though for Jules would be back with the one thing that would save his wife's life…

After leaving the hospital, Jules got into his hover car, which was coloured blue and had four powerful engines, and he drove off out of Mobotropolis and headed towards the Great Forest . He had heard of the legendary Lake of Rings and the mystical power rings that the lake produced every 24 hours. Even though Jules didn't know what kind of power the Lake of Rings had, he knew that the rings were renowned for being powerful and he hoped dearly that he could use one to save Bernie. He looked at his watch as he drove through the fields and to the forest. It said 2:50 . In ten minutes time, the ring of the day would come out of the lake. Luckily, the Great Forest wasn't too far away so Jules would get there in time. In less than two minutes, Jules arrived at the Great Forest and he abandoned his car in favour of trekking through the enormous forest on foot for it was too densely grown for a car to drive through, even if it could hover. Jules bolted through the Great Forest as fast as his legs would let him and using his navigational knowledge, he managed to find the Lake of Rings and all with five minutes to spare. Jules dived into the lake and swam out to the centre, ready to grab the ring once it ascended from within its watery habitat. Jules made it out to the centre and waited patiently as five minutes ticked slowly by and the glorious, golden ring that the lake mysteriousl y produced rose up from the water. Jules grabbed it instantly and he swam back over to the bank, making sure he didn't lose the ring. Jules climbed out of the water and he shook himself dry. He looked at the magical ring he now had in his hands and he prayed to himself.

"Please let this thing save her and our second kid." he prayed "Please, please, please…"

With that said, Jules put the ring in his pocket and he ran off back to his car at the end of the forest, avoiding the growth that threatened to trip him up and get in his way. He made it to his car and he quickly drove off back to Mobotropolis. In a matter of minutes, Jules arrived back at Mobotropolis and he ran off back to the Mobotropolis Medical Centre where his dying wife lay. He ran up to her room and he ran over to his wife's bed. Bernie was still in indescribable pain and her breathing was getting more and more hoarse. She sounded like she had a serious lung problem and that just brea thing was hard work for her. The doctors were a little surprised to see Jules back so soon.

"Oh, you're back. Well, I'm sorry to say…"

"I think I can guess what you're going to say doctor." interrupted Jules "Bernie my love, I've got you our last hope." he said to the dying hedgehog, reaching into his jacket pocket and taking out the power ring.

He held it out for Bernie to take. Bernie opened her eyes weakly and she tried to gasp in surprise at the power ring but all she could do was rasp a little and then cough. The doctors however, carried out her intended reaction for her.

"Great Scott! Where on Mobius did you find that?!" exclaimed one doctor.

"In a very special lake." explained Jules "And I'm hoping this will save Bernie."

With that said, he took Bernie's hand and curled her fingers around the ring. As Bernie touched the magical ring, it began to glow a brilliant, radiant gold and Bernie could feel some kind of sensation kicking inside her. It was as if she was being given new life all of the sudden and all thanks to this little golden ring her husband had brought her…

Present Day…

"…and then like magic as dad puts it…mom was just better again." finished Sonic "As if she was never ill to begin with."

"Oh wow!" cried Tails as if the fever he had come down with had suddenly gone away "Your dad's such a hero isn't he? Saving your mom like that! That is awesome!"

He then suddenly groaned as his head started to ache. One thing you shouldn't do when you're poorly is get too excited. It can give you a headache. Tails massaged his scalp and winced in pain.

"Ugh…should take it easy…since I don't feel so good…" he grumbled to himself as he brought the pain down gently with the head-massage he gave himself.

"That is an amazing story Sonic." said Cosmo "It's amazing to think that…you could have died before you were born."

"I know right?!" exclaimed Sonic "If dad didn't get that power ring… then I wouldn't even be sitting in front of you telling you this right now! It's almost disturbing to think that I was nearly a goner before mom could give birth to me!" he added, hugging himself and shuddering a little over those horrible thoughts that crept like a bad dream into his head.

"I'll say." said Cosmo, sharing Sonic's amazement over such a close call "Although how does this story tell us how you got your super-speed?" she added curiously "I thought you said this was the story on how you got your super-speed?"

"Well I was gonna get there." said Sonic impatiently "You see, after I was born, mom and dad named me "Sanjay" and they referred to me as a "Miracle Child" since, when you really think about it, I am a miracle since I was saved by one. Sadly, that title is what forever changed my brother Scourge as we know it…but I digress. When I was two, I began to toddle but the funny thing was…I toddled really quickly. I could toddle as fast as an adult could run. Mom and dad were amazed at this and then when I was three I learnt to run…and I ran faster than a speeding car when I did it. They couldn't understand this and they took me to the doctors to see what they thought. They didn't really know what was causing my unusual speed but they theorized that the power from the power ring that had been used to save mom had generated into me when I was still inside mom and thus…the power granted me super speed. Mom and dad decided to just go with it since it was the only logical conclusion. And because of my speed, they decided to legally change my name from "Sanjay" to "Sonic" as a reference to how fast I could run. I'm glad too, I mean would you take me all that seriously if my name was "Sanjay" at all?" he finished with a snicker.

"So you can run fast because of a power ring?" said Tails in surprise "Oh wow! Who'd have thought that was the secret behind your speed?"

"I agree, I never would have guessed that in a million years." said Cosmo "Or that your name used to be Sanjay too…" she added, giggling a little.

"Well my name's Sonic now and it has been since I was three so no jokes about my old name." laughed Sonic.

"So…if you got your speed from a power ring…then how did Scourge get his speed?" asked Tails "I mean, Scourge was born before you wasn't he? Your mom didn't have that power ring until before your birth."

"That's right." said Sonic "Scourge NEVER had super speed when he was a kid. He got it when he corrupted himself with the Master Emerald. The Master Emerald granted him super speed as part of his desires. You know that Chaos Energy can turn thoughts into power right? That's what happened with Scourge."

"Oh I see." said Cosmo "Unlike you though, Scourge doesn't deserve that power."

"You bet he doesn't." sniffed Sonic "So, would you like to hear how I became a hero? I was a hero before Eggman ever came to Mobius you know."

"I'd love to hear that story Sonic." said Tails eagerly "We might even learn how you came to master your speed. I mean, surely you must have taken a while to learn how to control running so fast?"

"Oh getting as good as I am now wasn't easy." muttered Sonic "I often crashed into things and tripped over because I couldn't control how fast I was running. Take in mind I was only a kid so how is someone my age supposed to control their speed like that?! Anyway, my dad mentored me most of the time I was learning to control my speed. But there was one day that saw me run in prematurely and get me the beat down of a life time…"

Mobotropolis: An ally-way somewhere in the city, 4 years ago, a year before Scourge's turn to villainy…

12 years had been a mixture of fun and pain for young Sonic the Hedgehog. Fun in the sense that running fast was exciting and awesome for him and painful in the sense that he often became a Mobian crash-dummy because of how uncontrollable his speed was. Thankfully, mentoring from his father Jules had helped him to better control his speed and he could now run really fast without crashing into anything or tripping over himself or even losing control. Even though Jules couldn't run at supersonic speeds, he had helped Sonic by having Sonic run with him and then practice running a little faster but keeping in the advice Jules was giving him. Now Sonic could control his speed and have a happy time running around, free as the wind that blew in his face as he ran. As of this moment though, Sonic was taking a steady stroll home. He'd decided to walk home for a change for he wanted a moment of relaxation and he'd had enough of running for today. But Sonic's little walk home was going to get a little more eventful than he had anticipated for he ended up hearing the cry of an innocent little man coming from further down the street. Sonic followed the sound of the crying voice and it brought him to a rather rundown looking ally way that was full of litter and smelling repugnantly of decaying rubbish coming from the rubbish bins in the alleyway. Sonic poked his head around the corner and he saw something that disgusted him. There was a gang of four Mobians, all very scruffy and ragged looking and they were pummelling a poor, male ferret in a tweed-jacket and bowler hat and carrying a briefcase. The gang consisted of a jackal, an armadillo, a bear and a cougar. The cougar seemed to be the ring leader. He was muscle-bound with brown, spotty fur and he had an eye patch.

He wore an open black vest and had spike attachments on his knuckles. The armadillo was a rather lean looking fellow with a golden stripy shell and he wore ragged shorts and leather gloves that came to his elbows. He looked very mean and sinister. The jackal was skinny as a rake and his eyes had scars lined out underneath them, suggesting a rather bloody encounter was part of his back story. He wore an open vest too and he had a balaclava on his head. The bear was enormous and he wore boxing gear which really kinda hinted at his possible profession in sports, maybe even what sport he actually plays in his spare time. The gang had the ferret pinned to the wall and the armadillo snatched his briefcase. The ferret was whimpering in fear as the cougar and bear kept him pinned. The armadillo opened up the briefcase and found inside a whole pile of money. There in the case were reams and reams of Mobium notes (Mobiums is the Mobian currency) all ranging between 100 & 200. The gang had picked themselves a rich customer it seemed. The armadillo laughed at all the money he'd found in the case.

"Hey guys! We hit the jackpot with this loser!" cackled the armadillo "Look at all this money!"

"I always said morons in bowler hats have great wealth on them!" laughed the cougar "Let's take the whole case with us boys! We are gonna have a good night tonight with all that dough!"

"You guys please, give that back to me!" whimpered the ferret "That money isn't mine! I need to deliver it to my bosses or I'll lose my job! Please, you wouldn't cost an innocent man his job would you?"

"Dude, as far as money's concerned, old Theo here is willing to cost anything!" snarled the cougar "Now keep your trap shut before someone hears you!" he added, clasping his hand over the ferret's mouth.

"Why don't we just kill the poor sod?" asked the armadillo, closing up the briefcase "If we let him live, he'll call the stinkin' cops and get us busted!"

"I agree with Shellshock boss, let's bust this guy before he busts us!" growled the bear.

"OK then Buster, we will." said Theo with a sadistic grin on his hideous face "Say pal, how easy does a ferret's neck snap I wonder? Let's find out…"

"No, no, NO!" screamed the terrified ferret as Theo curled his fingers around his throat.

"Hey! Leave that man alone!" yelled Sonic, running into the ally way and slide-tackling the cougar, causing him to trip up and let go of the ferret.

Theo landed on his back and the ferret ran for it as fast as he could, using his sleek, slender body to avoid capture from Buster and Shellshock as they tried to grab him. Buster and Shellshock cursed their bad luck as the ferret managed to elude them and flee out of the ally way. Theo picked himself up and he glared at Sonic, his yellow teeth glistening like diamonds in a jewel shop.

"How dare you interfere with our business runt!" snarled Theo "I'm gonna rip your heart out for this!"

"Who do you think you are interfering with our affairs?! Some kind of cop?!" snarled Shellshock "Well you don't look much like one!"

"I'm not a cop but I'm not someone who tolerates big bullies like your four shanks!" yelled Sonic "You drop that briefcase or I'll beat you black and blue!"

"You're the one who'll be beaten black to go with your blue shrimp!" roared Buster, punching his fists together.

"I verily agree on this Buster!" said the jackal "Let us send this cretin to the spirit in the sky…"

"You said it Jack!" laughed Theo cruelly, cracking his knuckles.

Sonic had gotten himself into a pretty bad situation here. You see, this was a time where Sonic had no fighting prowess of any kind. He didn't even know how to do the spin-dash yet so Sonic had no chance against this evil gang. The gang all closed in on Sonic and then all lunged out at the terrified hedgehog. Theo grabbed Sonic by his arms and he slammed him against the wall as hard as he could.

He then punched Sonic in the face, the spiked knuckle attachments adding insult to injury as he punched him, but Sonic managed to break free by kicking Theo in the chest. Theo dropped Sonic and Sonic tried to run away but Buster blocked his way. He grabbed Sonic and hoisted him up to his height. He threw Sonic across the ally way and he crashed into a pair of dustbins, knocking them over with a horrific clanging sound as the bins were overturned and the rubbish inside was spilt all over the floor, the malodorous scent contained inside staining the air and filling Sonic's nostrils. Sonic gagged, the scent was so odoriferous that he thought his nostrils were going to fry up like bacon in a pan. Sonic picked himself up just as Shellshock rolled up into a ball and Buster bowled him towards him like a bowling ball. Sonic picked up a dustbin lid to use as a shield but Shellshock's attack was too powerful for him. He hit Sonic and slammed him against the wall, the dustbin lid taking much of the impact. Sonic groaned in pain as pain fla red through his back from the slam into the wall. Jack lunged at Sonic and he slammed him against the wall again. He then punched Sonic as callously as he could, making real sure that the punch hurt. Sonic felt like his face was going to shatter after that punch. But the real blow to him came in the form of Buster drew his arms back and then giving him a good boxing beat-up. Sonic was punched repeatedly by Buster, every punch he threw seeming to get harder as he threw them, and then Buster threw him over to Theo. Theo roundhouse kicked Sonic as he was heading towards him and Sonic crashed face first into a corner. The poor hedgehog's eyes were bruised and swollen from the beat down, his face was bruised and his nose was streaming with blood. Sonic tried to pick himself up but he couldn't. He was too weak from the beat down and he could barely stay awake. Theo cracked his knuckles and he reached out to grab Sonic.

"What a piece of cake this was!" cackled Theo "That kid really needs to learn his place…pity I'm not gonna give him the chance to learn though!"

His crowing was interrupted by the most terrifying sound a criminal can hear. The eerie, wailing sound of a police siren. The patrolling policemen that were keeping an eye on the streets were coming their way and they had to brea k for it and fast. Theo punched the ground in fury.

"%&£^!" he swore "The bloody cops are coming! Boys, let's scraper and fast!"

With that said, the gang ran off out of the ally way and they bolted down the streets, leaving Sonic behind in the corner to pass out from his injuries. The last thing Sonic heard as he drifted off into unconsciousness was the sound of running feet and the sound of approaching police cars that followed a minute after the running feet had stopped…

Present Day…

"Oh my gosh!" cried Tails, surprised at everything he had heard.

"That's awful! Poor you Sonic!" exclaimed Cosmo, putting her hands over her chest in sympathy for Sonic "Those guys sound horrible!"

"They are." muttered Sonic "And because of my idiocy, inexperience and recklessness, I ended up in hospital for a while. You should have seen my parents, they were going MENTAL over me when they heard what had happened. Scourge however just laughed at me, saying that "I was asking for that" when their backs were turned. Mom and dad were so horrified at what had happened to me that I thought they were gonna pass out!" he exclaimed "I was amazed they didn't!"

"I can't believe that you got beaten up like that!" gasped Tails "Not even Eggman's beaten you up that badly before!"

"Had it been Eggman I was up against that day, I'd be pushing up the daisies." said Sonic with a grim expression on his face "I still kick myself for how stupid I was at the time. I mean, I could have gotten myself killed! What was I thinking back then?!"

"Well at least you learned your lesson and you won't make that same mistake again Sonic." said Cosmo, patting Sonic on the back to cheer him up "You've come a long way since then, you really have."

"I'll say, but that's mostly because of my parents." explained Sonic

"After I'd recovered from my beat down, mom and dad started teaching me how to fight and how to use moves like the spin-dash. You see, it's kinda customary for us hedgehogs to know the spin-dash. Dad taught me the spin-dash and mom taught me the homing attack. Over the next year or so, I was able to use those attacks pretty well but I still had to be careful who I fought against. Just because I can do a spin-dash or a homing attack, doesn't mean I'm invincible after all."

"I see." said Tails "So…cough…excuse me…cough, cough…" he paused to clear his throat for a minute and then spoke again "… does this lead up to…your heroic debut?" he asked.

"Oh yes." said Sonic "And here is how it happened…"

Mobius: 3 Years Ago, a month before Scourge's turn to villainy…

Another year had passed and Sonic the Hedgehog had learnt plenty since the day he nearly lost his life to Theo and his gang. Jules had mentored him a bit more on his skills and now Sonic could perform his trademark attacks. He could spin-dash, although not as powerfully as he can now, and he could use the homing attack. He had more control over his speed than ever before and he could use his attacks very well. Sonic still had a bit to go in terms of accuracy though but he was getting there. Sonic was slowly but surely becoming the hot-shot hedgehog he is now. Today was the day where his life would change forever and all his training would end up making him Mobius' biggest hero ever. And it happened in a way that Sonic would nev er have expected…

Sonic was running off to his humble home in Mobotropolis after going for a run around Green Hill Zone to pick some berries so Bernie could make a lovely pie with them. Sonic adored his mother's berry pies and he couldn't wait to have one for desert after dinner tonight. Sonic made sure he had the basket steady as he ran through the meadow that stretched in-between Green Hill Zone and Mobotropolis. Amazingly, despite his amazingly fast pace, he didn't drop a single berry that was in his basket. Sonic arrived back in Mobotropolis and he screeched to a halt outside of his house. He just missed the path to his front door though for his screech to a halt wasn't quite enough to be exactly a perfect stop. Sonic looked down at his feet and saw that he was on the edge of the path.

"Hmm, I'm getting better at timing my stops." said Sonic to himself "I wonder if that's a good sign at all? Bet my awesome dad can tell me if it is."

So Sonic walked up to the front door and he opened it, letting himself into his house.

"Yo mom! Yo dad! The hedgehog is…"

His happy voice trailed off into a stunned silence the moment he walked inside and got a glimpse of what awaited him inside. The house was in a terrible mess. The lovely red, velvet sofa was overturned, the TV set had been knocked over and destroyed, some picture frames lay shattered on the floor instead of hung-up on the walls as they should be, a couple of windows had been broken, the curtains had been pulled down and the door to the kitchen was left with chunks and splinters missing from it. It looked like a terrible fight had broken out in the living room. Amazingly, there was no blood anywhere, suggesting that the conflict hadn't been all that bloody. Sonic dropped the basket on the floor, spilling the berries and adding more mess to the living room. He felt weak in the knees and he was about ready to burst into tears. He ran into the kitchen to see if his parents were there. To his dismay, he saw only his brother Scourge lying on the floor with the dinner table, which had all four legs broken, lying on top of him. Scourge looked like he'd been in a terrible fight too. He was bruised all over his body and he had cuts all over his body, the cuts staining his fur with blood as they bled away. The kitchen finally had been spared much of the abuse the living room had received. Only the dinner table was damaged in the kitchen. Sonic ran over to Scourge and he lifted the table off of him.

"Scourge! What the heck happened here?!" shrieked Sonic.

"Some…jerks…named Theo, Shellshock, Buster and Jack…broke into…the house…" grunted Scourge "They've…kidnapped…mom… and dad…I tried to stop them…but I wasn't…strong enough!"

Sonic thought he was going to drop dead from shock all of the sudden. Theo, Buster, Shellshock and Jack, the same thugs that had beaten him up last year had kidnapped his parents?! Why?! Why would they do such a thing?! Sonic began to worry, would they kill his parents just to get back at him for interfering with their business last year? Sonic had to save them and fast!

"No!" cried Sonic, horrified to hear this "Mom…dad…where are they?!" he cried desperately.

"I think…one of them said…they were going…to an…old warehouse…in Central Cit y…" grunted Scourge.

With that said, Sonic scooped up Scourge in his arms and he quickly rushed him off to the Mobotropolis Medical Centre so he could heal from his injuries while he saved his parents. The minute Sonic dropped Scourge off, he rocketed out of the city at top speed and he headed off to Central City to find his parents.

"Hang on mom and dad." thought Sonic as he ran off to the designated place "I'll save you both…"

Over in Central City, Theo and his gang had taken Bernie and Jules to an abandoned warehouse and tied them both up to a pair of steel poles that extended up to the ceiling. Their arms had been raised above their heads and tied to the pole with thick, strong rope. Their ankles had been tied to the poles with rope too. The terrified hedgehogs were well and truly stuck now and poor Bernie was practically killing herself with fear at this very moment. She was shaking like crazy, tears streaming down her fact and she was also trying to get free. She writhed around trying to free herself but she just couldn't. The ropes were just too strong for her and much to tightly tied to the pole. She had no hope of getting free. Jules was considerably calmer than his wife but he looked downright furious at the fact this had happened to him. Theo, Shellshock, Buster and Jack stared evilly at their captives, grinning evilly and admiring their helpless state. Bernie stopped struggling and she looked at the thugs, still whimpering in fear.

"Oh please, untie us you four! Please, I hate being tied up like this!" begged Bernie.

"Nah babe, I think we'll leave you like that." purred Theo "Besides, you look cute like that you do." he added with a dirty smirk on his hideous, scarred face.

"How dare you say that to my wife!" snarled Jules "I swear once I get out of these ropes you will be sorry you picked on us!"

"Get real old man, we took you down no sweat so do you really think we're going to be intimidated by your petty threats?" scoffed Theo "So no, I don't think we'll be sorry we picked on you at all."

"Why are you doing this to us?!" wailed Bernie "We haven't done anything to you! Honest!"

"Of course you haven't done anything to us." said Shellshock cruelly "We've nev er met before. We've kidnapped you two because we've heard interesting things about you two."

"What kind of things?" whimpered Bernie.

"That you two are the parents of a supersonic hedgehog boy." explained Theo "Mobotropolis hears things very easily you know. We want your son we do. We want to know how he came to get such speed so we can give ourselves super speed too. We'd be able to commit crimes at the speed of sound and nobody would catch us ever again! So where's your supersonic son you two?"

Bernie's response was a horrified gasp and uncontrollable sobbing. Theo scowled at her.

"Jack, the duct tape please." he said in annoyance.

Jack obeyed and he handed a roll of duct tape over to Theo. Theo ripped a piece of tape from the roll and he plastered it squarely over Bernie's trembling lips, silencing her and preventing her from speaking. Bernie could only emit muffled sobs from behind her gag, the tape inflating in and out as she brea thed. Jules glared at Theo. How dare they do that to his wife! He so ached to bash their heads in he did! If only he wasn't tied up though…

"Hey! Take that tape off Bernie's mouth now!" yelled Jules.

"No chance you old fart." snapped Theo "Her crying's getting on my nerves it is. I always said "women should be seen and not heard" I did. Now then buster, where's your son and what's the secret behind his speed?"

"Get fragged!" snarled Jules "My son will make mincemeat out of you cretins once he finds us!"

"In yer dreams!" laughed Buster "Nobody can beat us! We're too strong for any puny person to defeat!"

"Last chance gramps." said Theo coldly "Where is your son and what is the secret behind his speed?"

Jules did not say a word. Theo scowled at Jules and he turned away from him.

"Fine, if you want talk then maybe your wife will." he said, ripping the tape off of Bernie's mouth and making her lips sting like mad.

Bernie yelped in pain as the tape was ripped off her mouth. Theo jammed his face into Bernie's face, making her feel very uncomfortable.

"Hey blondie, where's your son and what's the secret behind his speed?!" snarled Theo.

"P-p-please, I-I-I c-c-can't t-t-tell you!" sobbed Bernie "I-I-I won't t-t-tell you!"

"Well in that case, let's see what you look like in your underwear." said Theo, reaching out to grab Bernie's dress and pull it down.

"Hey jerks! Leave my parents alone!" yelled a familiar voice that made the gang jump in surprise.

They all turned around and they saw none other than Sonic the Hedgehog standing there with a serious look on his face. He looked furious to see that his parents were tied up and being interrogated by the same gang of thugs that had beaten him almost to death last year. The gang looked surprised to see him.

"Hey! I remember that loser!" gasped Shellshock "Didn't we beat him half to death last year?"

"We did." said Buster "And the untimely arrival of the cops stopped us from finishing the damn job! Now he's here to save his mommy and daddy from us!"

"Wait a minute, he told us to leave his parents alone…" Jack realized "So if they're his parents…then is he the supersonic hedgehog we're looking for?"

"Seems so." said Theo grimly "We had him right in front of us last year and we never realized that. Well, time for us to make up for that mistake. Boys, get that hedgehog and knock him out so we can find out what the secret behind his speed is!"

Shellshock, Buster and Jack were all too happy to oblige. They all thundered towards Sonic and prepared to grab him.

"No please, don't hurt my son!" wailed Bernie, tugging on her ropes frantically.

"Relax dear, Sonic can show them what we've taught him over the years." said Jules with a wink at Bernie.

Sonic smirked at the gang as they all charged towards him and prepared to beat him into submission. Buster ran forwards and he aimed a punch at Sonic. Sonic curled up into a blue spiky ball and he spin-dashed Buster directly in the gut. The enormous bear gaspe d in surprise as he was walloped in the gut by the spin-dashing hedgehog. Buster was thrown across the room by the attack and he crashed into a wall. The wall, which was already old and crumbling, ended up caving in on top of Buster, knocking him out and pinning him to the floor. The bear was well and truly out of commission for now. Shellshock gaspe d. Sonic didn't do that before! Had he suddenly gotten stronger since their last encounter? Shellshock suddenly found himself being homing-attacked by Sonic and knocked down onto the floor. Shellshock picked himself up and he punched Sonic in the face before the hedgehog could attack him again. Sonic took the punch and he spin-dashed Shellshock. The armadillo was thrown across the room and he crashed into a rusty old stairway that was practically begging to be knocked down due to how old it was. The stairway ended up falling down as Shellshock crashed into it. Shellshock found himself being pinned down by a tangled pile of rusty old metal stairs. Jack, who was considerably more cowardly than the others, decided not to do anything and instead tried to run away. Sonic grabbed Jack in a quick sprint and he threw the jackal over directly into Theo, knocking the cougar off his feet and onto the floor. Theo picked himself up and he ran over towards Sonic. Sonic homing-attacked Theo and knocked him down onto his back. He then stood on top of Theo and he punched the cougar as hard as he could in the face. He punched him several times, making sure he hit him as hard as he could. Theo took some of the punches but as Sonic punched him harder and harder, the cougar eventually began to give in and Sonic's punches began really hurting him. Sonic then punched Theo so hard that the cougar ended up passing out. Theo's head turned to one side and the cougar lay there on the floor, blood pouring out of his nose and his eyes bruised and swollen. Sonic gasped and panted for he had worn himself out by punching Theo so consistently and callously. Sonic could hardly believe that he had just done that, beaten somebody into unconscious. As much as he was glad to have paid the gang back for beating him up last year, he wasn't all too pleased at what he had done. He felt like he'd gone a little too far. He began to wonder about taking it easy when he got into a fight next time and maybe be a little more lenient. Sonic got up from Theo and he ran over to his parents. He quickly untied them and they both hugged him ever so tightly and gleefully.

"Oh my brave little boy!" squealed Bernie "Thank you so much for saving us!"

"You're a hero Sonic." said Jules brightly "I always knew that you'd perform a miracle some day soon my miracle child."

"Aw thanks mom and dad." said Sonic happily "I'm just glad that you're both safe now!"

The hedgehogs all had a family group hug and they all beamed happily over this happy moment. Sonic was a hero and his parents were safe. And to think he'd go on to perform even more heroic deeds later on in life…

Present Day…

"…and thus my heroic career was born." finished Sonic "My first ever heroic deed had been simply saving my parents from those jerks who beat me up in that ally way. Who'd have thought it eh?"

"That's amazing Sonic." gasped Tails in amazement, enjoying every moment of the story that Sonic had told him "I bet your parents were really proud of you."

"Oh they were." said Sonic "They treated me like a prince since that day. Although not everything good came out of it. I mean a whole month later I performed my second heroic act…which was stopping Scourge when he went crazy. I kinda wish mom and dad didn't treat me as a "miracle child". I keep feeling like that's what caused Scourge to become the mean hog he is now." he added sadly.

"I understand." said Cosmo "Still, at least you're still a good soul and you don't let jealousy consume you as Scourge did. So…how are your parents now?" she asked.

"They're doing great." said Sonic brightly "They live in a peaceful countryside somewhere in Furville. We keep in touch and sometimes I pop into see them when I'm running through Furville."

"That's lovely to hear." said Cosmo "I wonder if your parents could ever come around and visit us someday?"

"I'll have to see if they want to visit us." said Sonic, taking in the thought "It'd be nice to see what they think to NewMobotropolis. So Tails, how do you feel now?" asked Sonic.

"I feel much better." said Tails "Still a little feverish but your stories have really brightened my day. Thank you for telling us them Sonic."

"Anytime bro." said Sonic happily "I'm glad I decided to tell them at last. Now you all know how I got my super speed and how I became who I am today. I bet my story will be inspirational to many people who wish to be heroes in the future."

"I certainly think so." said Cosmo brightly.

Suddenly, there was a knock on the door downstairs. Sonic got up to his feet.

"Stay right there, I'll get it." said Sonic.

"OK." said Tails.

Sonic left Tails' bedroom and he walked down the stairs to the front door. He opened the door and saw that it was none other than a postman with a letter in his hand. The postman handed the letter to Sonic.

"Letter for you Sonic." said the postman "I was hoping I'd come across you eventually, you didn't answer your door so I assumed you weren't home."

"Oh OK, thanks." said Sonic.

The postman left and Sonic looked at the letter, closing the door behind him. The envelope was purple in colour and it had Chinese writing on it. Sonic opened the envelope and he pulled out the letter inside. To his amazement, this is what it read:

Dear Sonic the Hedgehog,

I was very much hoping if you and the Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis would be able to come to my 22nd birthday party tomorrow. It'd be a great honour to see you and your wonderful friends on my birthday!

Yours truly, Princess Matilda

"Oh my gosh! We're invited to Princess Matilda's birthday party?!" blurted Sonic in amazement "Holy macaroni, this is one party I cannot miss! I'd best tell everybody about it!"

And Sonic decided to start by darting up the stairs to Tails and Cosmo. Hopefully Tails would be better for the party tomorrow for this was a birthday that they just had to attend…

Birthday Siege Part 1

Story 152: Birthday Siege Part 1: Anarchy and Celebration

"Well, given how Matilda's a princess, I should have expected lots of people to attend her birthday party!" chuckled Sonic the Hedgehog as he saw just how many people were gathered around the Pagoda of Prosperity, ready to celebrate the birthday of Chun-Nan's beloved Princess Matilda.

Chun-Nan had had it rough during the whole agenda with Enerjak the other day*. When Enerjak had awoken from the crypt he had been imprisoned in, he had spread a foul presence around the country and made poor Emperor Tai fall into a state of insanity. He'd also possessed Matilda and made her nearly kill the emperor and also drove her insane too. Chun-Nan had really been through a horrible, dark time during the terror of Enerjak but thankfully, ever since Enerjak's defeat, the country had been recuperating beautifully. The citizen's faith in the emperor had returned, Matilda was cleared of all charges that had been placed on her and the country was now its happy, honourable self once again. Enerjak's dark presence had disappeared and Chun-Nan was celebrating one of the happiest days it could celebrate all year…the birthday of Princess Matilda. Birthdays of the royals were very special days in Chun-Nan and a big celebration was often hosted in their honour. The party consisted of lots of guests, a lot of giving presents as gifts of honour, a hearty banquet and lots and lots of fireworks. It was currently dusk right now (what, did you think a party with fireworks would take place during the day?! Get real!) and the tradition of a birthday party for a Chun-Nan royal was that once the sun had set, the fireworks would go off. It was sunset at the moment and the guests were patiently waiting for Princess Matilda to step out and begin the celebration. Among the many guests here today were Sonic the Hedgehog and all of the Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis. Tails the twin-tailed fox (who was feeling MUCH better from that fever he had yesterday), Knuckles the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cosmo the Seedrian, Cream the Rabbit, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie Rabbot, Ruben the Water Panther, Shade the Echidna, Sora Prower, Queen Sally Acorn, Nicole the Lynx, Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon and Charmy Bee were all there and they were all looking forward to seeing Matilda. Most of them were even wearing very lovely clothes to look nice at this party. Sally in particular was wearing an opulent dress that showed off her royal position. As they waited, the Royal Fighters all began conversing amongst each other.

"This is so exciting!" said Ruben excitedly "I've always wanted to celebrate the birthday of a royal! I've never been allowed to during my days in the Hǎilàng clan because I was too young unfortunately. And now here I am, ready to celebrate the birthday of Princess Matilda! I'm going nuts here I'm so excited!" he squealed, jumping up and down with excitement.

"I can tell you are!" chuckled Sonic, putting his hands on Ruben's shoulders to keep him still "You're practically jumping out of your skin you're so excited!"

"I'm just glad my fever decided to recover so I could come to this party." beamed Tails "I wouldn't want to have missed this party at all, especially since it's the birthday of Princess Matilda."

"Same here." said Amy brightly "Matilda's a great woman, I'm all too happy to wish her well on this party I am. I just hope that pompous old falcon isn't here, I do not like him one little bit and all he's gonna do is make me mad!" grumbled Amy, remembering Bladefeather from her first visit to Chun-Nan last year.

"Amy, Bladefeather's one of Chun-Nan's heroes remember?" noted Ruben "There's no reason to still feel so spiteful over him."

"I don't care, he's far too pompous and vain for me!" sniffed Amy "I hope he's not here or he's gonna ruin this party!"

"Well sorry to burst your bubble Amy but Bladefeather's very loyal to the emperor." noted Ruben "And he loves Matilda, there's no way he'll want to miss this." (before you ask, Matilda told him that after the events of Operation: Double Trouble.)

"I agree." said Sonic "I wonder if his friend Mushu will be here too.

I'd love to meet Mushu again, he was cool."

"I'd love to meet the emperor again." said Cosmo sweetly "He was a lovely man and I enjoyed visiting him that time we went to Chun-Nan last year."

"Well we'll definitely see Emperor Tai again." said Sonic "He's the emperor after all, he won't want to miss his own daughter's birthday after all."

Tails, Cosmo, Amy & Ruben all chuckled at that little joke. Their laughter was suddenly cut off by the arrival of two familiar faces that came up to them. Everybody looked at the two individuals and Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Cosmo and Ruben recognized them. They were Bladefeather and Mushu. The two stood there with very friendly smiles on their faces. The Royal Fighters smiled back whereas Amy just scowled at Bladefeather.

"Oh great, the falcon's here!" whined Amy "This party's ruined already!"

"Amy! Be nice!" snapped Ruben "It's dishonourable to be rude to guests!"

"Don't mind Amy Bladefeather, she still doesn't like you unfortunately." said Sonic, shaking Bladefeather's hand politely.

"Do not fret over such a superfluous matter my good sir." said Bladefeather "I fully comprehend the girl's distaste in me. We do have a variance with each other to which I fully understand. We did not get on well after all the last time we met…Anyways, greetings my honourable heroes of the R.F.S." he added, bowing down to everybody "It is a great honour to see you all here to celebrate the dear princess's most joyous day. I very much hope that you enjoy this magnanimous event tonight."

Mushu just bowed down beside Bladefeather, saying nothing for he was mute. The Royal Fighters were flattered to receive such a greeting whereas Sonic stared at Bladefeather in amazement. Even Amy was gobsmacked at the falcon's unusual politeness. He had changed much since they last met him hadn't he?

"Alright who are you and what have you done with Bladefeather?" snickered Sonic.

"Very humorous of you to pick up on my newfound politeness hedgehog." Bladefeather snickered back "Let us just say that Princess Matilda has been a very good influence on my sense of etiquette. I am now a much more pleasant man and I am all too happy to be like this. It's much nicer being polite to people."

"Well I can already say I like you a lot better than the old Bladefeather." said Amy brightly "Consider us on good terms now sir." she added with a polite curtsey to the falcon.

"Your compliments are appreciated my child." said Bladefeather kindly.

"Hey Bladefeather, have you got a gift for Matilda like usual?" asked Ruben eagerly "I remember hearing that you often liked to give Matilda gifts, especially on her birthday."

"Oh I do indeed my young water panther." said Bladefeather with a wink of the eye.

With that said, Bladefeather decided to show off the extravagant gift he'd gotten for Matilda's birthday this year. He reached up his sleeve and pulled out what appeared to be a small box. He opened the box and showed that inside it contained…a beautiful silver ring with sparkling blue diamonds in it. Everybody stared at the gift, amazed at how beautiful it looked.

"Nice, you got her a ring." said Sonic "Although, don't you think Matilda might have plenty of those already?"

"Sonic!" hissed Ruben, elbowing Sonic furiously for that statement.

"You bring up an excellent point Sonic, which is why this ring I've brought for Matilda is no ordinary ring." explained Bladefeather "This…is an engagement ring."

"Oh I get it!" chipped Amy "You're going to give Matilda a wedding proposal for her birthday right?! That's so adorable! Aww, I'm about ready to faint from the sheer cuteness of this!"

Amy began fawning over the sheer cuteness of the gift. Sonic just looked at her with a look of embarrassment on his face. Amy really needs to settle down a bit one of these days. No wonder he loved Sally instead of her.

"Hey Wilson, why didn't you save our wedding proposal for MY birthday?" Mandy teased, winking at her husband.

"Uh heh, heh, heh, I dunno, I guess I just couldn't wait?" suggested Wilson, giggling a little at Mandy's joke.

"Say Bladefeather, how long have you and Matilda been a couple?" asked Ruben curiously "Heck, WHEN did you even become one?"

"We've been a couple for a year and I've been in love with Matilda ever since she was sixteen." explained Bladefeather "That age was also the age she was when I first met her too. Her bodacious appearance captivated me and I knew that I just had to win her heart. So I started off small by giving her gifts. Then during the Five Festivals of Holy Honour last yearI finally came out and admitted my love for her to which she admitted her love for me back. Since then we've been in a committed and unbreakable relationship. A relationship…that has changed me quite meritoriously. I am now less rude and arrogant and more accepting of children. This lifestyle for me is much more pragmatic than my older self indeed. I am so in love with my beautiful princess that I just feel that it's time we tied the knot. I…I just hope that she'll accept…" he said in a sudden nervous voice.

"Bladefeather, if Matilda really loves you that much then of course she'll accept." said Sally reassuringly "Don't worry about rejection, I'm sure Matilda will be all too happy to accept your proposal."

"Your words of comfort are most reassuring my good woman." said Bladefeather "Thank you. As for the proposal, I harbour feelings of the anxious kind which is why I have Mushu here to back me up should I need a little prompting."

Mushu just smiled at his friend, happy for him that he was going to finally ask for Matilda's hand in marriage.

"Well I think you've given Matilda the best possible gift anyone can receive on their birthday." said Sonic "Matilda's gonna love that I bet. We'll soon be celebrating two things, her birthday and her engagement. Looks like we've gotten more than we've come for eh?"

"You could put it into those kind of terms indeed." chuckled Bladefeather.

"Hey everybody! The emperor's here!" cried Tails excitedly, pointing over at the Pagoda of Prosperity "He's coming out to greet everybody! I think the party's about to start!"

The Royal Fighters, Bladefeather and Mushu all directed their attention over to the Pagoda of Prosperity and surely enough, they could see Emperor Dalon Tai coming out of the pagoda to greet everybody. He looked very well and much happier than he was during the time of Enerjak. It had been hard for him but Master Kai Zen, Matilda, Bladefeather and Mushu had helped Tai to recover from Enerjak's horror and now the emperor was his old self again, happy and full of kindness. It made Sonic happy inside to see the emperor back to his old self again, made all the better that he had recovered in time for his daughter's birthday. Tai's aged old face was curled up into a huge smile that suggested he was very enthusiastic about today. The guests all cheered when they saw Tai and Tai gestured for them all to settle down for a minute. The guests quietened down and waited eagerly for Tai to speak.

"Greetings all you wonderful guests who have attended this joyous event today." said Tai happily "It brings me great honour to see you all here today, ready to wish my wonderful daughter well on her very special day. Matilda has given me twenty-one glorious years since her birth and now she shall move on to give me her twenty-second year of joy on this earth. Without further ado, let us welcome the birthday girl herself. Please welcome my precious daughter and your honourable princess herself…Princess Dalon Matilda."

With that said, Tai stood to the side the pagoda doors opened up. Out of the doors stepped Princess Matilda herself. She was wearing a magnificent teal dress decorated with red roses around the hem that sparkled like a sea of diamonds in the sunset. She had her hair styled in a ponytail instead of a bun and the dress was so long that Matilda's feet couldn't be seen. If they could, you'd see she had blue slippers on to match the dress. She wasn't wearing her trademark black wristbands. Matilda looked amazing to say the least and Bladefeather was staring open-eyed and open-mouthed at her. Mushu seemed to share his friend's reaction for he was amazed at how Matilda looked too. The crowd greeted Matilda with a tumultuous applause that could be heard from miles around. The Royal Fighters joined in and Sonic even whooped for Matilda. Matilda beamed happily, gracious to receive such an amazing reception from all of her happy guests. It's moments like this that made her happy to be a princess. What made all of this even better for her was that everybody had forgiven her for her "attempted murder" of the emperor during Enerjak's reign of terror. Chun-Nan was a forgiving country after all and Matilda could put all the horrors she endured under Enerjak behind her and focus on the wonderful things, her birthday celebration. Matilda held up her hands and signalled for the crowd to settle down. The crowd fell silent, all eyes on the princess and their faces curled up into big beaming smiles. Matilda smiled back at the crowd and began to speak.

"Hello everyone." she said politely "I'd like to thank you all for attending my birthday celebration today. It brings me great honour to see so many people here, all wishing me well and wishing a good day for me. It's been an honour to walk the very earth of this country for twenty-one years and now I move on to my twenty-second year which I guarantee will be a year of greatness as has been the last twenty-one years of my life. I hope to continue bringing honour and glory to this great country and I hope to continue delighting you and making you all happy for many more years to come. Thank you all for attending this joyous celebration and may you all have a good time. Enjoy the celebration everybody."

The crowd cheered once again as Matilda stepped down and headed towards the crowd. Some crowd members started lighting up Chinese lanterns and letting them float up into the sky. The lanterns were a popular addition to a party in Chun-Nan. Some guests even let some balloons float up into the sky and throw some confetti around. As modest as Matilda was, she really enjoyed hearing the happy cheers of the crowd of guests that had come to wish her well on this special day. It filled her heart with joy to see that so many people loved her and wanted to wish her well. That was a sign to her that her mentoring and teachings under her father and master had done her good and she was doing her job properly. She never knew that she would be this beloved though, never in a million years. Still, she was quite happy to be much loved among the populace. Made being a princess all the more glorious. As Matilda started to walk through the crowd, Sonic waved to her in hopes of catching her attention.

"Hey Matilda! Over here!" called Sonic "We'd like to meet you!"

Matilda didn't really hear Sonic for the noise of the crowd drowned out his voice but she did see his gloved hand waving around above everybody's heads. Matilda recognized Sonic's hand instantly and she strode over towards him, carefully edging through the happy crowd that held out gifts and began wishing her a happy birthday as she went by. As Matilda got closer to Sonic, she soon realized that he had company with him, very pleasant company indeed. She didn't see Bladefeather and Mushu though for Bladefeather was hiding behind some other guests. He wanted his presence to surprise her so he kept himself hidden until he was ready. Matilda's face brightened and she ran over to get to Sonic and friends. As soon as she made it to them, she bent down a little (she's slightly taller than he is) and threw her arms around the blue hedgehog. Sonic hugged her back for he felt it was good to see Matilda again… for proper that is since their latest meeting was during a villain's scheme.

"Oh Sonic the Hedgehog, I'm so, so, SO happy to see you here today!" squealed Matilda excitedly "It's such an honour to have the hero of the west and his team mates here on my birthday! You honour us all with your presences everybody!"

"Ha, ha, ha, ha, thanks Matilda." chuckled Sonic "We're glad to be here too."

"This was a party we just COULDN'T refuse your honour." said Tails with a polite bow "We just had to come and you know it."

"Especially me." said Ruben gleefully "I've always wanted to attend the birthday celebration of a royal."

"Well you're all in for a treat tonight." said Matilda with a big smile on her face "Because these celebrations get VERY colourful, festive and enjoyable. This is a night you'll never forget, believe me."

"I think we already believe you princess." laughed Sally, coming forward to greet Matilda "I mean look at all these guests here and they're setting off lanterns, balloons and confetti! And I bet all of this is just the icing on the cake!"

"Mmm…cake." said Charmy Bee, his mouth-watering over the very thought of some cake being around.

"Stop drooling, there's no cake around yet!" snapped Vector the Crocodile, startling the bee as he yelled that.

Matilda just giggled.

"Oh you lot have a great sense of humour!" she chuckled "No wonder I'm so happy to see you all here."

"Thanks princess." said Sonic "Oh and, happy birthday by the way." he added quickly "We've gotten you a gift."

With that said, Cosmo and Cream stood forward and presented a lovely red box with a yellow ribbon tied around it to Matilda. Sonic decided to let them present the gift for it just "looked cuter" if they did it (aww). Matilda awed at the gift and she took it politely out of their hands.

"Aw thank you." she said graciously "You're too kind you all are."

"You're welcome Miss Matilda." said Cream sweetly "Why don't you open the box and see what's in it?"

"I'm going to right now." chuckled Matilda.

She untied the ribbon from around the box and she opened the lid. In the box was a rather extravagant and radiant looking pendant that looked like it belonged to royalty. It was round in shape, golden in colour and decorated with rubies that sparkled like stars. Matilda picked up the pendant and she gaped at it.

"Aww…this is beautiful!" she cried happily, immediately putting it around her neck. "I've always wanted one of these! Aw thank you so much Royal Fighters!"

"You're quite welcome." said Sally, speaking on behalf of everyone "By the way, that pendant was one I used to wear but I felt that red and gold wasn't really my style so I decided to give it to you seeing your birthday was coming up. I'm glad you like it."

"I'm glad you let me have this." said Matilda, giving Sally a friendly hug to say thank you to her "Thank you Queen of Mobotropolis."

"You're welcome Princess of Chun-Nan." said Sally, hugging Matilda back.

"Aw, it's nice to see the Royals of Mobotropolis and Chun-Nan getting along like good friends." said Ruben delightedly "Especially as I'm on both sides in a manner of speaking."

"Yeah, we get ya Ruben." said Sonic.

Sally and Matilda stopped hugging and Sally suddenly remembered something.

"Oh Matilda, would it be OK if I can talk privately with your dad at all?" she asked "There's something I'd like to discuss with him."

"Oh sure Sally, go ahead." said Matilda "Daddy's always open for people who want a private word with him. What's it about anyway?"

"Government business." said Sally "I'll go and see the emperor now. Bye for the moment everybody and enjoy this party without me if you please."

"Bye Sal." said the Royal Fighters.

So Sally left the Royal Fighters with Matilda and she walked steadily through the crowd, trying her hardest not to accidentally push anybody out of the way. As soon as Sally disappeared into the crowd, Matilda turned back to the others.

"So how's things been going with you all?" she asked.

"We would tell you Matilda but somebody wants to meet you first." said Sonic with a wink.

Before Matilda could even ask what Sonic meant, Bladefeather sneaked up behind Matilda and playfully covered her eyes with his feathery hands. Matilda gasped in alarm but she quickly relaxed for she recognized the texture of the hands and she knew who liked to play this little prank on her for a bit of fun.

"Hello Matilda." purred Bladefeather in a sly, seductive tone of voice that made her feel warm all over.

"Hee, hee, hee! I know who these hands belong to…" giggled Matilda, lifting Bladefeather's hands off of her eyes.

She then turned around quite quickly and she threw her arms around Bladefeather. She pulled him close and gave him a loving kiss directly on his beak. Bladefeather returned the kiss and even wrapped his arms around Matilda, hugging her tightly and lovingly as they embraced each other. The Royal Fighters all awed at this expect for Amy who didn't really know what to think about this.

"Eh…they're cute I guess although Bladefeather's not the first man I'd pair Matilda up with." she said to herself "Oh well, Bladefeather's better now so it's OK."

"I think they're adorable together I do!" cried Ruben, enjoying what he was seeing right now "Aww…look at them! They really are cute as a couple!"

"I'll admit that they look nice together although I never would have seen Bladefeather and Matilda being in love." said Knuckles "Much has changed since I last saw Chun-Nan indeed."

"Yeah…least it's all good." said Sonic with a smile.

Mushu just shared everybody's reaction and looked at his friend with a happy face. He was happy for Bladefeather that he had found love, especially since Matilda was the one he loved. He couldn't have picked a better woman for Bladefeather. Matilda and Bladefeather finally stopped kissing and they looked dreamily into each other's eyes.

"Happy birthday my little streak of sunlight." said Bladefeather.

"Thank you my little red falcon." said Matilda happily "You being here has instantly made it ten times happier, twenty even."

"Why how nice of you to say that Matilda, thank you." said Bladefeather graciously, stroking Matilda's raven-black hair "And it's about to get even more happy for I am about to bestow upon you my gift of honour."

"Aw Bladefeather you shouldn't have." giggled Matilda "You've given me many wonderful gifts in the past, I'm not sure if I have room for anymore."

"Heh, heh, heh, you will change that mind of yours when I present the gift to you Matilda." chuckled Bladefeather, taking his arms off from around Matilda and reaching up his sleeve.

Matilda looked puzzled. Bladefeather never hid things up his sleeve before. What kind of gift did he have for her this time? Matilda was more intrigued than ever to see what Bladefeather had gotten for her birthday this year. Bladefeather took out from his sleeve the box with the engagement ring he'd shown Sonic and friends earlier and he opened the box to show Matilda the glorious ring. Matilda stared at the ring, amazed at how beautiful it looked. It was a very beautiful ring and he looked forward to wearing it. She was in for a surprise though for the ring had a bit more to it then just being a ring. Bladefeather took one of Matilda's hands and he held the ring close to her face.

"Upon your celebration of birth I bestow to you…this ring as a gift of honour." said Bladefeather "But this ring is not just a gift of honour… it is an act of engagement. With this ring I wish to seek your hand and heart in marriage. Princess Matilda…will you give me the greatest honour of my life…by becoming my wife?"

Matilda put her free hand to her mouth in surprise. She was so amazed at the fact this was not just a gift, it was a proposal that she immediately broke down in happy tears.

"Oh my gosh…Bladefeather…this is the greatest gift I've EVER received!" cried Matilda "Yes! I will marry you!"

With that said Matilda threw her arms around Bladefeather and pulled him into a deep kiss, happy tears streaming down her face as the newly engaged couple embraced each other. Mushu grinned from ear to ear at the fact Matilda had accepted his friend's proposal and he wiped away some happy tears that filled up in his eyes. The Royal Fighters all awed at the kissing couple and Ruben expressed his enthusiasm about the proposal.

"YAY!" he cried out happily "I knew Matilda would accept! Now Chun-Nan will have a prince and a princess to rule alongside the emperor!"

"Prince Bladefeather…ugh…I bet the falcon's never gonna stop bragging about this." muttered Amy "Oh well, I'm happy that Matilda accepted his proposal. What an adorable birthday present to give to somebody!"

"I don't think Matilda could have possibly received a gift better than a marriage proposal." said Sonic "Bladefeather's truly made her day today. Major kudos to the guy for having such a big heart."

"I bet they'll invite us to their wedding." said Tails "After all, Matilda invited us to her birthday party so why not invite us to the wedding too?"

"Indeed my young fellow, which is why we whole-heartedly hope that you can attend our wedding day." said Bladefeather as he and Matilda stopped kissing and looked over at the Royal Fighters.

"You bet we'll be there." said Sonic with a thumbs up "So when shall we mark our calendars?"

"Oh next July would be wonderful." suggested Matilda, drying her eyes from the happy tears she'd cried "After all, there's no rush, we need plenty of time to settle before we get married. Also, July often has wonderful weather, it'd be the perfect month to get married.

"Then next July it is." said Sonic "Congrats on the engagement you two and may you be a very happy couple."

"Thank you so much Sonic." said Matilda happily "Now then, who's ready for a little party celebration?"

"I think everybody's gonna have the same answer…" said Sonic with a wink of the eye.

Matilda beamed and prepared to begin the party. This birthday party was a celebration made even bigger thanks to Bladefeather's proposal to Matilda and it was guaranteed to be an enjoyable celebration…

Meanwhile, inside the Pagoda of Prosperity, Emperor Tai and Queen Sally were kneeling at a table and enjoying a nice cup of tea together. Sally had informed Tai that she wanted to see him privately and thus Tai had taken Sally inside for them to have a chat. He'd made some tea for Sally to drink with him and the two were sipping their teas. Sally had never tasted tea from Chun-Nan before and she had to admit, it had an interesting flavour. It wasn't the finest tea for her though but still not bad. Tai put down his cup.

"You know, I never imagined that the Royal Fighters served such a beautiful young queen such as yourself." said Tai kindly "They must be very happy to be under your rule Miss Acorn."

"Aw thank you emperor." said Sally gratefully, putting down her cup "And I think Chun-Nan's lucky to be under the rule of an emperor as kind and loving as you. I've heard a lot of good things about you, especially from Sonic. It's nice to actually see you in person your grace."

"Thank you child, that's very kind of you to say." said Tai with a warm smile on his aged face "Now then my dear, you wanted to converse with me about something?" he added, picking up his cup and preparing to have another sip of tea.

"Oh yes indeed I do." said Sally "And as we begin, you can see why

I wanted to discuss this privately."

"OK then Miss Acorn, do start." said Tai, sipping his tea.

"Thank you." said Sally "So…you know what happened to you, Matilda and Bladefeather recently?" she asked "You three got kidnapped by Dr. Eggman and Dr. Finitevus and chained to a missile in an attempt to slow us down while we tried to foil Operation: Double Trouble."

"Oh I do indeed!" blurted Tai in despair, putting his tea down on the table again "That moment was horrible, awful! I thought we were going to die that day! I cannot tell you how terrified we all were as the missile was preparing to launch with us on it! I'm still very, very grateful that you saved our lives."

"Yes, yes, I know and you're very welcome once again." said Sally quickly "Anyway, Eggman's never really targeted Chun-Nan before has he?"

"He targeted the country only once and that was during his first year on Mobius." said Tai "The kung-fu masters brought him down easily and he hasn't bothered us since. The only other time he appeared, according to Matilda, was when some person named "Shadow the Hedgehog" ventured into Chun-Nan and he'd only come to pick Shadow up, not attack and enslave us. We've not had to deal with him since. Why?"

"Well, since Eggman and Finitevus likely know you're allies of the R.F.S., they might start targeting Chun-Nan more often than they did before." said Sally.

"Oh dear…that is a ghastly thought indeed." said Tai, dreading to think about the possibility of Chun-Nan being targeted by Dr. Eggman more often than before.

"I know, which is why I've decided to make a proposition." explained Sally "I think we should unite our kingdoms. If Chun-Nan and New Mobotropolis come together as one, we could become an even bigger, stronger force for Eggman to reckon with and also it would help the R.F.S. receive any distress calls from Chun-Nan a lot quicker. It would be easier for us to come to your aid should you need it and if we have a way of contacting each other, your kung-fu masters could also come to our aid should we need it. Do you think this is a good idea?" she asked, hoping for the answer to be yes.

Tai thought about this proposition. A union of kingdoms certainly wouldn't be a bad idea at all. Chun-Nan maybe safe and peaceful now but Tai could never forget the terror of Zira the Ruthless or even the Raiju Clan's takeover of Chun-Nan a while back. It had been thanks to the R.F.S. that Conquering Storm and her ninjas had even been defeated and Sonic and Ruben had been the ones to bring Conquering Storm over to stop Zira during her second attempt at take-over. The R.F.S. had provided ample assistance to the country in the past so Tai could see no reason why he should refuse an offer like this. Not to mention, it'd be an honour to ally his kingdom with a kingdom as strong and beloved as The Kingdom of Acorn that has a great band of heroes much like his very own. Tai smiled at Sally and he held his hand out.

"I see no reason for this offer to be declined." said Tai happily "This alliance will be a boon to both kingdoms indeed. Consider the Kingdom of Chun-Nan and the Kingdom of Acorn officially allied together."

Sally's face brightened like a light bulb and she quickly shook Tai's hand, happy that the emperor had accepted her offer.

"Aw thank you emperor!" cried Sally happily "I'm so glad you've accepted my offer! I promise you, you will not regret this at all!"

"I don't see why I would regret it anyway." chuckled Tai "Allying with the Heroes of Mobius themselves can only lead to great things and great honour."

"It can indeed." said Sally brightly "I'll be sure to set up some resources that your country will need to be in contact with the R.F.S. as soon as possible."

"What kind of resources will those be then my dear?" asked Tai.

"Oh mostly just communication towers and phoning devices."

explained Sally "Nothing too major. I understand that Chun-Nan's a very traditional country and it does not relish technology all that much so we won't be adding too many resources don't worry. Just the resources you'll need to remain in contact with the R.F.S."

"I see." said Tai "Well, would it be permissible for me to oversee the installation of said resources? I wouldn't want a communications tower to be in a place where it would look too conspicuous and unappealing to the populace."

"I understand and you may." said Sally "If an alliance is to work then one side must appeal to the other's and vice-versa."

"Indeed child." said Tai happily "You know, I wonder what Chun-Nan would be like if it had its own Royal Fighter team…" he began to wonder to himself.

As he wondered away, Sally looked out of the window and saw something glisten in the distance. She blinked a little and looked closer. It looked like the last rays of sun shining upon something. Sally wondered if she was seeing things at all.

"Hold on a minute sir, I think I just saw something." said Sally, holding up her hand to stop the emperor from speaking.

"Oh. What is it?" asked Tai curiously.

Sally just stood up from the table and walked over to the window to see if she could see anything. Not much was visible at this moment since the sun was almost fully set and darkness was falling. Sally squinted into the silhouetted distance and tried to see if she could see what she thought she had seen a moment ago. She couldn't see anything though so she began to wonder if it had just been her imagination. Sally was about to turn away from the window until she saw something flare up in the distance. It was as if something had just fired from all the way outside. Was it a firework being set off? Nothing shot up into the air so it wasn't a firework. Then Sally saw something that made her nearly collapse in shock. A trial of smoke was drifting up into the air and something was rocketing towards the pagoda! The roar of the thing was getting louder and louder and the smoke trail got thicker and thicker as it got closer! It was a missile and it was heading towards the Pagoda of Prosperity! Sally instantly plunged her hands into her dress pockets and yanked out the super warp ring they still managed to keep hold of after defeating Dr. Finitevus back on AngelIsland. She tossed the warp ring up into the air, startling the emperor as it expanded to twice its size and opened up a portal in the centre. Without stopping to tell him anything, Sally grabbed Tai by his robes and she jumped through the warp ring as quickly as she could, taking Tai with her. The warp ring vanished into thin air just seconds before the missile hit its target.

Outside, all the guests had seen the oncoming missile and they all panicked as it headed towards the Pagoda of Prosperity. They were all too late to do anything about it though for the missile reached its target and it ploughed straight through the left side of the Pagoda of Prosperity, exploding into a huge fireball of debris, smoke and flames as it hit the wondrous pagoda. The explosion tore through the pagoda as if it was nothing and the entire building was destroyed in seconds, fire engulfing the woodwork of the walls and floors and scorching the tiled roof that sat atop the pagoda. The Pagoda of Prosperity was reduced to nothing more than a sorry wreck of ashes and rubble that were blazing away in the huge fire that danced around the wreckage, licking away at the rubble and sending smoke up into the sky. The only expression on everybody's face upon seeing this was utter horror. It is impossible to put into words how horrified everybody who was attending Matilda's birthday party was to see this happen. Matilda in particular looked like she was going to have a nervous breakdown. She stared at her blazing home, unable to believe it had been destroyed and all so quickly and suddenly too. Her home never had a chance. What had been a birthday of joy and happiness complete with a marriage engagement had quickly been reduced to a moment of shock. How quickly the mood can shift for some individuals it seemed. Sonic and the Royal Fighters stared at the Pagoda of Prosperity's destroyed remains and they began to feel sorry for Matilda. Nobody should have to have something like this happen to them, especially on their birthday. What made Sonic really worry though was if Sally and Tai were in the pagoda since Sally had been hoping to talk privately with Tai. He soon found out though for the super warp ring opened up just behind the Royal Fighters and Sally & Tai hurled out of it and onto the ground in a heap. They picked themselves up and Sonic was quick to hug Sally comfortingly.

"Sal! Tai! Thank god you got out of there alive!" cried Sonic "I thought for one spine-tingling moment you went up with the pagoda!"

"We almost did Sonic!" screamed Sally frantically "I'M amazed that we made it out alive! Gasp, gasp…but I'm glad we did. Losing me and the emperor would have made losing the Pagoda of Prosperity even worse…" she said sadly, looking over at the destroyed pagoda.

As for Matilda, she couldn't take it anymore. She fell to her knees and wailed her heart out. She pounded the ground in agony, her sobs as loud and depressing as any heartbroken person could sound.

"NOOOOOOOOOO!" screamed Matilda through her tears "No, no, no, no, NOOOOO! Not my home…oh please not my home!"

She continued to howl at the top of her voice, her tears streaming down her cheeks like rainfall. This was supposed to be the happiest day of her life and instead it had become one of the worst of her life. She had lost plenty in her lifetime, including her mother. She couldn't bear the fact she'd lost her home too. As Matilda wailed and cried, Bladefeather knelt down beside her and hugged her. Matilda threw her arms around Bladefeather and squeezed him tightly, crying into his robes. Bladefeather shed a tear for his fiancée. He thought he'd picked the perfect time to propose to Matilda and yet his perfect proposal had been rendered moot by the destruction of the Pagoda of Prosperity. Instead of celebrating becoming a couple, Matilda would likely spend the night mourning her lost home. Tai listened to his crying daughter and he felt like he wanted to cry with her. As a matter of facts, he couldn't help himself and ended up breaking down with Matilda.

"This is horrible!" wailed Tai "This was supposed to be my daughter's perfect day…and then this happens! Why oh why would anyone launch this unwarranted desecration upon us?"

"I dunno emperor but I have a feeling somebody wants you dead."

suggested Sonic "I mean there must be a reason that missile was aimed at your home. I bet the assailant blew up the pagoda, hoping to take YOU with it."

"I agree with Sonic, this was not just destruction, this was definitely an attempted murder." declared Ruben "But who could be behind this? All of Chun-Nan's villains are locked away except for the Spiders of Anarchy and they can't possibly use a missile launcher. They don't even have proper hands for the job!"

"I'm willing to guess that a certain anarchistic reptile group's behind this but I'm gonna investigate on this before jumping to conclusions." said Vector "Espio, Charmy, once that fire's put out we'll investigate and see what we can find out about this attack."

"Roger." said Espio.

"OK." said Charmy disappointedly "Does this mean we don't get cake?"

"Yes Charmy, it means we don't get cake." said Vector with an annoyed scowl on his face. He'd managed to get Charmy to come under the promise of getting some cake and now Charmy would likely not stop whining about this, much to Vector's despair.

"You know what else, I think we should get Master Kai Zen to come and investigate this too, as well as provide more protection for the royals." suggested Tails "Kai would be all too happy to find out who's behind all this."

"He…sniff…would indeed." sniffed Matilda, wiping her eyes dry "Still…I'm so scared right now…" she said, shaking a little "Somebody launched a missile at my home…presumably hoping to take me and dad with it. What heartless cretin would want to kill me and dad? And on my birthday too no less!" she cried out, squeezing Bladefeather even harder then she already was.

"Even my sharp mind is having trouble comprehending such a thought." mused Bladefeather "I could understand Zira and the Raiju clan since they're evil but they're incarcerated and there's no logical reasoning behind them using a missile launcher. Chun-Nan doesn't even manufacture them so if they did it, they cannot possibly have a missile launcher."

"I'm amazed nobody other than me thinks this might be Dr. Eggman and Finitevus trying to get revenge on us for foiling Operation: Double Trouble." said Sally grimly "This could easily be their kind of villainy."

"Nah, if Eggman and Finitevus did this, they'd have actually snagged Tilly and the emperor." noted Sonic "Especially since Eggman's a walking arsenal now. I bet he'd carpet bomb the place rather than just destroy the Pagoda of Prosperity with all of Omega's weapons at his disposal. And I think he'd be after all of us and not just the emperor."

"That's…a feasible theory." admitted Sally "So this still leaves the question. Who could have done this?"

"I dunno my child." said Tai sadly "But I have a feeling that the attacker isn't only going to strike once…"

Sally nodded sadly as she looked over at the wrecked remains of the Pagoda of Prosperity. It was hard to believe that what looked like a perfect day of celebration and relaxation had become a night of horror and despair. A terrorist attack had been launched and the Pagoda of Prosperity had been taken in said attack. The scariest thing about all this was that nobody knew or could even possibly guess who the attacker was and when he would attack next. It was going to be a scary time for the Emperor and Princess of Chun-Nan and it would only end with the attacker being found out and arrested for his crimes…

As the moon began to rise up and signal the dusking of night, two shadowy figures began trekking across the Great Wall of Chun-Nan and heading towards a tower that had some flaming torches lit on it. The figures were meeting someone at this tower so the flames were there to signal to them where they needed to go. Lucky for them, nobody was on the Great Wall of Chun-Nan at this time of night so the figures had the entire wall to themselves. Just perfect for them for their meeting was supposed to be private. And the reason it was meant to be private was that it was a villainous meeting. A very villainous meeting indeed. The two figures ran across the wall and they finally reached the tower that they were heading for. They climbed up the ladder that took them up to the top of the wall and they saw that just the people they were going to be meeting were there. The figures themselves were Vladek the Frill-Necked Lizard and Dak the Spider. Vladek was a member of the Region of Rebellious Reptiles, a group of anarchistic reptiles that specialized in rebellions and the destruction of governments and politics. Dak was a member of the Spiders of Anarchy, a group of anarchistic spiders that were banished from Chun-Nan after revoking against it for not accepting one of them in their parliament. Dak and Vladek bowed down to two people who were standing atop the tower they had climbed up to meet. The two people were the leaders of the respective groups, Lord Sycorax and Gina the Spider Queen! Lord Sycorax was Vector's father and the leader of the Region of Rebellious Reptiles. He had not been seen since the attempted foiling of the Annual Acorn Awards last year, a plan which had been foiled by Sora Prower herself. Now it seemed he was all too happy to be active again. Gina was the leader of the Spiders of Anarchy. She had not been seen since the Raiju Clan gassed all her children to death* and now it seemed she and Dak were plotting a new. Sycorax and Gina eyed Vladek and Dak as they bowed down to them.

"Lord Sycorax." said Vladek in a tone of loyalty.

"Gina the Spider Queen." said Dak in a tone of loyalty.

"Report my dear husband." purred Gina delightfully "I eagerly await what you've got to tell us."

"Same to you Vladek." said Sycorax with an evil smile on his face.

"We have done as you've instructed." announced Vladek "We fired a missile at the Pagoda of Prosperity and…destroyed it."

"But we failed to terminate that scornful emperor and that brat of a princess." hissed Dak in annoyance.

"Not to worry my dear husband." said Gina smoothly "There's always a next time you know."

"Indeed my dear ally." purred Lord Sycorax "Besides, we destroyed the pagoda. That's good enough for one night. Get the royals all panicked and worked up and leave them ripe for the killing."

"I understand sir." said Vladek "So when do we launch the next stage of our plan?"

"Tomorrow morning at the crack of dawn." explained Sycorax "After all, it'll be much too early for anybody to be awake. We have the perfect opportunity to kill the royals and wipe out Chun-Nan's government then."

"I see." said Vladek.

"We will not fail you." declared Dak "We shall find out where the emperor and princess are going to stay now they're homeless and then we shall destroy their new home…with both of them in it this time."

"I like the sound of that." said Gina in a slithering voice "You may turn in for the night Dak. We need plenty of sleep if were going to commence with our plans so early in the morning."

Dak obeyed and he crawled down the tower and back onto the wall to go back to the hiding place of the Spiders of Anarchy and get some rest.

"You may fall back too Vladek." said Sycorax "The whole region needs to be wide-eyed and alert in the morning after all."

"Yes Lord Sycorax." said Vladek, saluting his master loyally.

Vladek climbed down the ladder and ran off across the wall to where the Region of Rebellious Reptiles were hiding. Sycorax and Gina were now alone on top of the wall tower together. They both looked at each other and they smiled happily.

"This alliance was certainly one worth formulating Gina." said Sycorax darkly "We're working together beautifully and everything is going splendidly. You giving us the best info on Chun-Nan plus my region's advanced weaponry will ensure this country losing it's government just like the whole world should do!"

"Indeed Lord Sycorax." purred Gina agreeably "It's amazing how we ended up meeting. You came here hoping to attack Chun-Nan and got tangled up in a web trap. I came to eat you alive and then you explained yourself and convinced me you were worth sparing. And then after that, we decided to team up and now here we are. Life's full of strange occurrences isn't it?"

"It is indeed, but at least this "strange occurrence" has been beneficial to us." said Lord Sycorax gleefully "Thanks to our teamwork, we shall destroy all policy once and for all!" he declared, bashing his fists together.

"Yes…we shall." said Gina, a tone of uncertainty hidden in her voice. After all, Gina didn't want to stop politics altogether, she just wanted spiders to run Chun-Nan.

"So Gina, I think now would be a good time to pack up and get some sleep." said Sycorax "We don't want to be too tired for our attack in the morning do we?"

"Indeed not my friend." said Gina "Let us retire for the night. See you in the morning you rebellious, reptilian rascal." she added with a slimy grin on her slimy lips.

"See you in the morning you anarchistic arachnid." chuckled Sycorax, a big smile on his scaly jaws.

With that said, Sycorax and Gina climbed down the tower and onto the Great Wall of Chun-Nan. They both trekked across it and headed to their respective hiding places. Tomorrow was going to be a big day for them and it was going to be a glorious day for them both…or so they thought…

Birthday Siege Part 2

Story 153: Birthday Siege Part 2: Double the Anarchists

Chun-Nan dawned, bright and sunny. The sun began to peep up from behind the mountains and spread its light out across the landscape of the beautiful country, waking it up from it's dark time slumber and bringing light to Chun-Nan. It had been a long night for everyone in the country. The news of the Pagoda of Prosperity's destruction had spread around like wildfire and now every single person in the country knew all about it, even the incarcerated individuals like Zira the Ruthless (I imagine she's grinning sadistically over all of this). The populace had been worried over the well-being of their beloved emperor and princess. Would they be targeted again today? Would they be killed at all? It was all so worrying just to even think about the possibility of such a thing happening. No sooner had the pagoda been destroyed, Master Kai Zen had been called in to provide some extra protection for the Royals of Chun-Nan. Master Kai Zen was Matilda's mentor in becoming a kung-fu mistress and he was all too happy to be on the case of the destruction of the Pagoda of Prosperity. Kai did not have his trademark mask on this time. He believed wearing a mask to be moot now since Conquering Storm revealed who he really was during the time Chun-Nan had been subjugated by the Raiju Clan. While Chun-Nan slept the night away, Kai had stayed up all night to see if anything else was going to happen (he's a badger so he's nocturnal and can easily stay up all night) at all. To his pleasure, the night had been peaceful and quiet but as morning dawned, Kai had a feeling that he shouldn't go away just yet. Anything could happen, even at a time like this and he knew it. Experience had taught Kai that you have to be alert even at the most unlikely of times. As for Matilda and Tai, Bladefeather had kindly offered the two to take refuge in his home until the Pagoda of Prosperity was repaired. Bladefeather lived in a pagoda of his own. It was nowhere near as wealthy and grand looking as the Pagoda of Prosperity but it was still nice looking and suggested Bladefeather had considerable wealth in him. The R.F.S. had just taken up camping, sleeping outside in Bladefeather's back garden in sleeping bags that they had kindly been donated. The Royal Fighters were all still sleeping away as dawn began to creep over the country. All the Royal Fighters except for Sonic the Hedgehog and Queen Sally Acorn (who is in her casual outfit now). They had had trouble sleeping all night and the moment the sun rose up, they had just gotten up out of their sleeping bags and walked up to Kai, who was standing outside of Bladefeather's pagoda and watching the sunrise (he likes doing that, he considers it relaxing and pleasant to watch). Kai heard the two coming towards him and he turned around to see them.

"Well, if it isn't the Hero of Mobius and the Queen of New Mobotropolis." said Kai with a tone of surprise in his voice "You're both up very early this morning. What are your reasons for this?"

"We couldn't sleep so we decided to just get up with the sun already." said Sonic, yawning loudly and stretching tightly.

"We've been really worried for the emperor and princess." said Sally affectionately "We're worried on what might happen next and if they'll be targeted again. So as you can imagine, sleep was the last thing on our minds last night."

"I see." said Kai sternly "You two should know how important a good sleep is. Little sleep renders you unfocused and unprepared for the day ahead. A true warrior, kung-fu or not, relinquishes all worry in favour of a good sleep."

"I get you Kai but you forget that we're not that good at keeping our emotions under control." noted Sonic "We're not quite like you kung-fu guys after all."

"We're very sorry Kai, we really did try to sleep but it was just hard for us." said Sally apologetically "But I assure you, we're ready for today and what might happen."

"Good." said Kai "That's the most important thing after all. Being ready for what fate may throw at us."

"I agree." said Sally "So, did you see anything last night Kai?"

"Not a thing my child." said Kai with a shake of the head "The night was as silent and still as the very sky that looms above us."

"That's good and bad at the same time." said Sonic grimly "Good in the sense nothing happened and bad in the sense it means the attacker's plotting big this time."

"Either that or the attacker just simply went to bed Sonic." snickered Sally, pinching Sonic's cheek and shaking his face playfully "Just consider that for a minute."

Sonic chuckled at Sally and playfully pushed her off of himself.

"Well I bet the attacker's up nice and early like we are and is probably planning to attack anytime soon." said Sonic, the grin on his face quickly vanishing "So for this morning, we'd better stay alert and keep an eye out for any possible assassination attempts."

"And since we're anticipating such an attack, we'll actually be ready for it this time." said Sally, taking out the warp ring and twirling it around her finger "If any missiles come flying our way, I'll just open this up and warp the missile elsewhere."

Kai stared at the warp ring in amazement.

"That ring can warp things away?" he asked in astonishment.

"Sure can. Watch this." said Sally, flicking the warp ring up into the air.

The warp ring expanded up to twice its size and Sally jumped through the portal that opened up in the centre of the ring. Kai watched in amazement as Sally vanished through the ring and then reappeared on top of the pagoda in the blink of an eye. Sally waved down to Sonic and Kai from up on the pagoda's roof and she re-activated the warp ring. She jumped through it and reappeared down on the ground in front of Kai and Sonic. Sally put the warp ring away and Kai just stared open-mouthed at her. He'd seen many amazing things in his life but never anything this amazing. He could hardly speak.

"That…is incredible…" he gasped "However did you come to possess such an amazing artefact?"

"Warp rings have existed for a while now." explained Sally "Although this particular one I have was stolen from Dr. Finitevus himself."

"Finitevus? Hmm…Matilda told me about him." mused Kai "He's working for Dr. Eggman isn't he?"

"He is." said Sonic "And on Knuckles's behalf, I hope to get Finitevus locked up for his crimes. What he did was just sick! Teaming up with Ix to try and bring Angel Island down despite the opinions of their superiors and teaming up with Eggman to kill us all! But he's a villain for another day, right now we've got to think about who the one who destroyed the Pagoda of Prosperity could possibly be."

"That is a question that I hope we find the answer to sooner or later." murmured Kai "The fact somebody dares to try and harm my beloved emperor and my dear student truly is an unsettling one to me."

"Well with us on the case, the attacker will be found out and brought down faster than you can say "Chun-Nan's Got Noodles Galore"." declared Sally "I vow that I will not leave this country until the assassin is eliminated for good."

"Such valour and spirit from a woman so young…you remind me much of Matilda you do." said Kai with an approving grin on his face "New Mobotropolis must be honoured to have a queen like you ruling over them."

"Oh…thank you." said Sally modestly.

"You can sorta think me and my buddies for that, we've kinda inspired her to be a little tougher and such." said Sonic "And I will say, I like that Sally's become more like us recently…"

As Sonic, Sally and Kai chatted away, somebody a good few miles away was preparing something. That somebody was Vladek the Frill-Necked Lizard, member of the Region of Rebellious Reptiles. He was not along though, he had his friend Romeo the Chameleon with him and both reptiles were accompanied by Dak the Spider, husband of Gina the Spider Queen. The three were standing on top of a giant rock that sat at the foot of a mountain that was standing proudly a few miles away from the village of Chun-Nan, its shadows blanketing the houses as the sun rose up from behind the enormous mountains. They were hoping to finish what they'd started and thus they had set up position in a place where they could see Bladefeather's pagoda and could aim at it just nicely from where they were standing. Romeo and Vladek were priming a rocket launcher, the very weapon that Vladek had used to destroy the Pagoda of Prosperity last night. Romeo loaded a rocket carefully into the barrel of the launcher and Vladek prepared it for activation, clocking it loudly. Dak peered out into the distance. His keen eyesight allowed him to see quite clearly out into the distance and he could see that Chun-Nan was beginning to wake up and Matilda and Tai weren't around. They had spied on the village before going to bed last night and they knew where the royals were staying so they knew that Bladefeather's pagoda was the place to aim. Given how Matilda and Tai were nowhere in sight, it was safe to assume that they were still in the pagoda.

"It appears that the royals are still asleep." announced Dak "I do not see them anywhere."

"How can you possibly see from all the way here?" gasped Romeo.

"Spiders pride themselves on their rather prodigious sight." explained Dak "We can see from miles away. Although from here, I will admit it might be better if I was a little closer and could see a little better."

"Oh well, it's far too early for two fully-grown adults like them to be up." noted Vladek as he made the final preparations on the rocket launcher "They'll still be asleep believe me. I've never ever seen an adult up at a time as early as this."

"If you say so Vladek." said Romeo, closing the crate of missiles that they had with them to load the rocket launcher "I just hope that that stupid hedgehog isn't here. It's bad enough with help from that bratty little fox who squealed on us that Sonic stopped us from ruining the Annual Acorn Awards last year, we don't need him ruining this assassination attempt."

"I highly doubt that the blue hedgehog is here." said Dak "He will be dealing with more seminal matters back at his home. He will not be here."

"I hope you're right Dak otherwise if you're wrong I may have to get the bug spray out." snorted Vladek, standing up and resting the missile launcher on his shoulder.

Dak snarled at Vladek, not pleased to receive a threat like that. The mere mention of the words "bug spray" made Dak think back to the gassing of his and Gina's children. How the loss of their kids still burned in the back of Dak's head like a raging fire! Vladek stood at the edge of the rock and he began to aim the rocket launcher at Bladefeather's pagoda. Vladek settled down on one knee and he peered in the targeting scope on the side of the launcher. He had the rocket launcher aimed squarely at the pagoda and he prepared to pull the trigger. A big breath blew out from Vladek's mouth as he aimed carefully. He made sure that everything was perfect and then, carefully, he curled his claw around the trigger to the rocket launcher.

"Careful buddy, you don't want to miss." said Romeo wearily "It's bad enough we didn't kill them last night, we can't do with another miss."

"Don't worry Romeo, there's no way I will miss them this time." crowed Vladek "They're sleeping like babies and the pagoda is squarely in sight. How can I possibly miss?"

"Don't get in over your head reptile!" snapped Dak "It is compulsory that the assassination goes as planned!"

"Yeah, yeah, sure, sure." sighed Vladek "Get ready, I'm going to fire any second now." he added, looking back through the targeting scope.

Romeo and Dak stood back as Vladek prepared the rocket launcher for fire. Vladek smiled himself as his claw firmly curled around the trigger and prepared to pull it. What an opportunity this was! He had a clear shot at Matilda and Tai. There was no way this assassination could go wrong! Vladek chuckled to himself as he pictured the destruction of the pagoda in his foul little mind. A political landmark going up in flames was always something he enjoyed, especially when he was the one who caused it to go up in flames. Vladek snapped back into reality and he pulled the trigger. The rocket launcher blasted out the deadly missile that had been loaded into it, fumes trailing out behind it an a loud squeal emitting from the missile as it fired. Romeo and Dak covered their ears to drown out the deafening noise of the launching missile. Vladek cackled like a hyena as he watched the missile rocket towards the pagoda. Anyone walking around in Chun-Nan at this moment immediately panicked as they saw the missile heading towards the village. They instantly thought of last night and how fate seemed to be repeating itself. Unlike last night, nothing was going to get destroyed for Sonic, Sally and Kai saw the missile coming directly towards them, roaring louder than a pride of lions. The three Mobians nearly jumped out of their fur in shock as soon as they saw the missile.

"Missile!" screamed Sonic "Sal, the warp ring NOW!"

Sally was already reaching into her vest pocket as Sonic yelled that. She was in such a hurry though she nearly dropped the warp ring. She just managed to keep hold of it though and she quickly tossed it up into the air just in front of the missile. The missile had only a few meters left to cross as the warp ring opened up. A portal opened up inside the warp ring and the missile whizzed straight through it, vanishing from sight as it did so. The trial of smoke left behind it disappeared into the morning air as the missile vanished and everything fell into a tense silence. Some citizens had witnessed this miracle and they all cheered happily. Sally gasped with relief, pleased to see her plan had worked.

"Oh my gosh, I can't believe how close that was!" gasped Sally "I thought I was gonna miss it!"

"Well you didn't Sally-girl and now you've saved the emperor and princess!" congratulated Sonic, clapping the beautiful squirrel queen on the back.

"So where, pray tell, have you sent the missile my dear?" asked Kai curiously.

"Directly above the sea." explained Sally "Chun-Nan's sea to be precise. That missile won't harm anybody now. It'll just shoot straight down into the water and burn out."

"A most wise tactic my child." said Kai approvingly "You are certainly a most wise woman indeed. I admire intelligence in many a young soul."

"Thank you." said Sally, blushing with pleasure at that compliment.

Despite getting rid of the missile though, it still managed to wake up all the Royal Fighters, Bladefeather, Matilda, Tai & Mushu. The moment the noise of the missile had woken everybody up, they had gotten out of their beds and sleeping bags respectively (they all slept the night in their clothes so no need to change) and they ran out of the pagoda to see what had happened. Everybody was in a flurry over this.

"What was that noise?!" shrieked Matilda, her hair hanging loose down her shoulders and back and flapping about frantically as Matilda fretted "Another missile attack?"

"Where did it hit?" asked Bladefeather "I see no scenes of damage anywhere." he added as he observed his surroundings and saw that everything was intact.

"Is somebody attacking?" asked Tails nervously.

"Everybody, please calm down!" cried Sally hastily, waving her hands around "Somebody attempted to fire a missile at Bladefeather's pagoda, presumably a random terrorist attack or the attacker somehow knew that Matilda and Tai were in it. I got rid of the missile with our handy little warp ring so no harm has been done."

"Oh thank the ancestors!" cried Matilda with relief, brushing some of her hair out of her face "Sally, how can I ever repay you?"

"No need to." said Sally with a smile "I'm just a queen who's saving the lives of other royals. Now…since the attacker is obviously striking now, we'd best take action." she declared.

"And I know just how to do that." said Sonic, taking the warp ring off Sally "I saw where the missile came from. It came from near those mountains over there." he said, pointing at the mountains where Vladek, Romeo and Dak were attacking from "I'll warp myself over there and see who's the wise-guy behind all this."

"Be careful Sonic." said Tails wearily "You don't wanna get killed by this assassin."

"Tails, I've taken down a lot worse than a guy with a rocket launcher, what can happen?" gloated Sonic, flicking the warp ring up into the air.

The warp ring expanded to many times its size and opened up a portal to where Vladek, Romeo and Dak were stationed. Sonic leaped through the warp ring and it vanished behind him as he jumped through it. The three villains were in for a pounding once Sonic got over to them…

Over to Vladek, Romeo and Dak, the three of them had seen the missile vanish through the warp ring (they didn't really see the warp ring, just the missile vanishing) and they were speechless with horror. Their perfect attack had somehow failed?! How could this be! They had the perfect opportunity to destroy the emperor and princess of Chun-Nan! How on Mobius did the attack fail?! Vladek in particular looked like he was going to have a nervous breakdown.

"But…I don't understand!" gibbered Vladek "I had a clean shot at the pagoda! Why the hell did the missile just vanish into thin air?!"

"This country's bewitched!" shrieked Romeo "There's witchcraft going around here I just know it!"

"Preposterous, Chun-Nan may have spiritual beliefs but there is no such thing as magic." said Dak gruffly.

"Then explain why the missile just vanished into thin air you crazy spider!" shrieked Vladek.

"I do not know why the missile vanished but I am not inclined to believe it was an act of sorcery!" snapped Dak "We spiders are firm believers that magic does not exist!"

Then suddenly, Sonic's warp ring opened up directly behind Dak and Sonic whizzed out of it and pile-dived Dak in the back. Dak cried out in pain as he was suddenly thrown callously off his legs and heavily onto his stomach. Sonic stood on Dak's back, pressing his head down with his foot and he smirked at Romeo and Vladek.

"Alright then, who's ready for a supersonic smash-up?" he announced at the top of his voice.

"THE HEDGEHOG!" cried Romeo "Shoot to kill, shoot to kill!" he screamed, bouncing up and down frantically and pointing at Sonic.

Vladek threw down the rocket launcher for a rocket launcher is hardly a logical choice for really close combat and he whipped out a pair of pistols. To make himself more intimidating, he raised his frill and hissed menacingly. Sonic scoffed at the guns and he jumped out of the way as Vladek tried to shoot him. The shots missed Sonic by a long shot and the hedgehog dropkicked Vladek in the head. The frill-necked lizard was brought down onto his back and he grimaced in pain, rubbing his head vigorously to ease the pain. Romeo threw a punch at Sonic but Sonic ducked and then uppercut Romeo in the chin. Sonic then grabbed Romeo's arms and threw him into Vladek. Dak picked himself up and he tried to web Sonic up but Sonic heard him get up so he leaped out of the way as Dak spun a web. He ended up webbing Romeo and Vladek up in a big webby-cocoon because of this. Romeo and Vladek were completely trapped in the web and try as they might, they couldn't get free. The two reptiles growled furiously, their glares directed squarely at Dak. Dak just hid his face in shame, embarrassed at that little goof-up of his. Dak hated messing up, it embarrassed him greatly, especially when Gina was around. Sonic spin-dashed Dak directly in his abdomen and made him cry out in pain. Dak gave off a shrill screech of fury and he swung one of his legs at Sonic. Sonic dodged but Dak managed to get him with another leg. Sonic was thrown down onto the rock by that smack and Dak raised his arms, hoping to plunge his bladed hands into Sonic's puny body and finish him off. Sonic dodged the attacks though by rolling out of his way and Sonic kicked Dak in the gut. Dak doubled over, coughing and spluttering hoarsely and Sonic jumped back up onto his feet. He spun around and kicked Dak in the face. The kick threw Dak over onto his back and Sonic finished him off by stomping on his head and knocking him out. Dak lay there on the rock, completely unconscious and out of commission. Sonic dusted his hands off and he strode over to Vladek and Romeo. The two reptiles could only look helplessly back at Sonic, wondering what the hedgehog was going to do to them. Sonic put his fists on his hips in a stern manner and he eyed the discarded rocket launcher that was nearby. Just seeing the rocket launcher lying there told him everything he needed to know and he glared at Romeo and Vladek.

"So you guys are the ones who blew up Matilda's home last night and tried to blow up Bladefeather's a moment ago!" growled Sonic "Well all I can say to you scaly scoundrels is how dare you!"

He grabbed Vladek and Romeo by their necks and jammed his face into theirs.

"Matilda was having the party of a life time last night! She even got engaged with her boyfriend and was supposed to be celebrating such a joyous event and then you heartless cretins went and blew up her pagoda and made it the worst night of her life! How could you?!"

"Because we're doing it for a good cause!" snapped Romeo "Policy should be eradicated and even you know that!"

"Oh sure I do…if I didn't have any common sense!" snapped Sonic "So where's Lord Sycorax and why is Dak the Spider working with you?"

"Dak is working with us because he's group, the Spiders of Anarchy, have joined forces with the Region of Rebellious Reptiles to eradicate all governments and put an end to politics forever." explained Vladek "As for where's Lord Sycorax, you can stuff it in your mouth and swallow it! We're not telling you that!"

"Fine then, I guess you want a nice plummet to certain death then?" said Sonic coldly, pressing his foot against Vladek and threatening to push him off the rock and send him hurling down to a very painful landing.

"You wouldn't!" cried Vladek worriedly.

"Oh wouldn't I?" said Sonic, smiling evilly at Vladek "Do you wanna test that theory? Do you seriously want to chance it with me? I may not kill but there's times I may need to make an exception…"

He then lightly began to push Vladek towards the edge of the rock. Vladek was dangerously close to falling off now. If Sonic pushed him any further then the frill-necked lizard would be going up to heaven with the angels. Vladek began to panic as his balance was beginning to falter at the hands of Sonic. Sonic really was going to kill him! Seems he underestimated the hedgehog greatly. The frill-necked lizard began to sweat and he tried to keep his balance as he felt himself tilt backwards thanks to Sonic. Romeo began to fear for Vladek's safety and he decided to squeal already.

"OK, OK! We'll talk! Leave my friend alone!" wailed Romeo like a pathetic little child.

"Thank you." said Sonic, taking his foot off Vladek and allowing him to balance properly again "So start spillin' the beans then Reptile Rebel!"

"Lord Sycorax and the rest of the region are stationed by the Great Wall of Chun-Nan!" squealed Romeo "So are the Spiders of Anarchy! Honest to the Lizard King they are!"

"See, that wasn't too hard was it?" chuckled Sonic, playfully smacking Romeo on the cheek "Now then, I'd best rile up my friends and meet up with Lord Sycorax and Gina. I look forward to smashing their faces with my shoes I do."

"What about us?" asked Vladek pathetically.

"Oh I've got an idea or two for you three…" said Sonic in an uncharacteristically cold tone of voice as he flicked up the warp ring and re-opened a portal back down to the others…

Later that day at the Great Wall of Chun-Nan, Lord Sycorax was pacing around up and down the wall nervously, his hands behind his back and his face squarely down at the brick floor of the wall he was pacing upon. Gina was just sitting atop one of the bridge towers and looking very bored indeed. She was staring up at the sky and waiting for something to happen already. They had been waiting for Vladek, Romeo and Dak to return to them after their assassination attempt and they had not come back yet. It seemed that they were taking longer than they needed to do at this job and this was beginning to worry the two anarchists like mad. A job that took longer than needed to finish was always worrying for two evil people like them.

"Where are those three?!" wailed Sycorax, throwing his arms up in the air in fury "They should be back by now!"

"I agree my good friend, those three should have killed the emperor and princess by now." muttered Gina, casually picking her teeth with her blade like hand "I mean they don't even have that big a task to do. Just fire a rocket at the place the emperor and princess are taking refuge in now their home's destroyed and that's it, it's done. Is that too hard a task to do?"

"Shouldn't be for Romeo and Vladek!" cried Sycorax "Those two are some of my finest shooters and they're also quite efficient at their given tasks! They managed to break ME out of prison with little problems encountered*! This task should be a walk in the park for them!"

"And yet it doesn't seem to be." sighed Gina, lying down flat on her stomach and slumping with her head to one side "I have a nasty feeling that something bad has happened and we need to get involved or something."

"I'm feeling the same thing too Gina." said Sycorax with a sigh "I have a feeling we should see what's up and see if anything's gone wrong at all. But if anything went wrong, Vladek or Romeo would have called me already. They have communicators after all."

"That's probably how bad the situation is." suggested Gina "They can't call us for help. So maybe we should traipse over there and see how everything's going."

"Very well Gina, we shall do that." said Sycorax "I do hope that those pesky Royal Fighters aren't causing any interferences of any kind or I will chomp something to tiny pieces!"

Sycorax growled over the very thought of having to deal with the Royal Fighters Service again. He liked it when he had no interferences in his schemes and everything went like clockwork for him. Nothing riled him more than people getting in his way (he's a bit of a spoilsport like that). But before the two leaders could do anything at all, a warp ring opened up a few meters away from the Great Wall. Sycorax and Gina stared at the open warp ring and they wondered what it was for they had never seen a warp ring before. They jumped down from the wall and came closer to the warp ring, wondering if something was going to happen. And to their amazement something did happen. To their dismay, it was something they didn't want to happen. Sonic the Hedgehog stepped out of the warp ring and he stood before Sycorax and Gina with a rather smug expression on his face. Sycorax and Gina both jumped backwards and they glared at Sonic.

"The hedgehog!" cried Sycorax "The Royal Fighters are here! Chun-Nan must have called them for help or something!"

"Ehk! Wrong!" sneered Sonic "We were already here when you guys decided to ruin the princess's very special birthday party last night and we stopped your goons from killing them earlier this morning!"

"Stopped our…so that's why they're taking so long!" shrieked Gina worriedly "Sonic must have beaten them into submission before they could carry out the attempt!"

"Exactly spider-girl." crowed Sonic "And speak of the devil, here they come now…" he added, stepping to the side and allowing some more Mobians to emerge from the still open warp ring.

As Sonic stepped aside, the rest of the Royal Fighters emerged from the warp ring in single file with Sally leading. Matilda, Tai, Kai, Bladefeather and Mushu were with them and they were furious upon seeing Gina the Spider-Queen and they also gave Lord Sycorax a nasty glare for he was working with her. Vector was carrying the still webbed-up Vladek and Romeo under his arms and the other Royal Fighters were carrying Dak, who had all his legs tied up. The Royal Fighters and Chun-Nan residents lined up together and stood before Sycorax and Gina, the warp ring closing up behind them as they stood there and Sally caught it and put it away. Sycorax and Gina stared in horror at their captive comrades. Their fears were true, they had been taking too long because they had been subdued and the Royal Fighters had taken them captive. They had to admit, they never would have expected the heroes to have done something like that. Matilda stood forward, her face contorting with rage and she pointed fiercely at Sycorax and Gina.

"You two scoundrels are the ones who ruined my birthday part last night and destroyed my home!" she snarled "I'm disgusted you could do something so dishonourable and heartless! I should beat you both senseless for doing something like this to me! But because I'm a patient woman who works pragmatically, I am not going to do something so brutish. I am instead going to make a proposition… you both surrender and face a prison sentence or your comrades will remain in our captivity."

"Who the heck do you think you are talking to ME like that you foolish woman?!" snarled Sycorax "You do realize how dumb you sound, trying to sound all tough and powerful and…"

"Watch it Sycorax, if you get Matilda angry she can kick your butt all the way back to the swamp you were raised in." said Gina smoothly "Matilda's no push-over…she knows kung-fu and is one of Chun-Nan's mightiest warriors."

"Gina's right you know!" yelled Ruben "I've even seen her fight so if you know what's good for you then you'll comply to our offer!"

Sycorax could hardly believe his ears. A kung-fu princess? What an amazing thing to come across! He'd never seen a kung-fu princess before so this should be interesting for him. Sycorax smiled over the very idea of killing Matilda. Killing a kung-fu princess would be infinitely more fascinating than killing an ordinary princess that's for sure. Bladefeather turned to Sonic.

"So who may I ask is the vulgar crocodile with Gina?" he asked.

"That's Lord Sycorax." explained Sonic "He's Vector's dad and he leads an anarchistic group of reptiles. One of his buddies tells me he and Gina have teamed up so we've got two anarchistic groups for the price of one here."

"I see." said Bladefeather "So how did they come together I must question?"

"I can answer that easily." said Lord Sycorax with a big smile on his face "A couple of days ago, I came here hoping to wipe out Chun-Nan's government. I'd been in hiding for a while since the failed attempt at ruining the Annual Acorn Awards and I decided to come out and attack. I ran into a web-trap laid by the Spiders of Anarchy by accident though. Gina came out to eat me alive but I pleaded with her to spare my life, revealing that I'm an anarchist just like she is. She…was impressed to say the least and she decided to let me live. So we formed an alliance and now here we are, the Region of Rebellious Reptiles and the Spiders of Anarchy joining forces to wipe out politics forever!"

"As if you weren't a big enough pain with all your reptilian buddies." muttered Vector "You just HAD to get spiders as well you piece of scum!"

"You should know better than to talk to your father like that!" snarled Sycorax.

"Dude, you're evil. Vector can talk to you how he likes." snorted Sonic "And besides, if you two are hoping to wipe out Chun-Nan's government…then where the heck where you during the tyranny of Enerjak the other day? I mean Chun-Nan was vulnerable and all during that time. Matilda was even in prison and insane! Where were you during that time?"

Sycorax and Gina looked at each other as if they had an embarrassing secret to tell everybody and then they turned their attention back to the others.

"We were hiding." explained Gina "The earthquakes scared us into hiding and hearing all about this "Enerjak" being made us reluctant to come out. In case we fell victim to his curse like this country did."

"Wow…you lot really are cowards." sneered Sonic "I mean even Cosmo was brave enough to help us fight against Enerjak."

"Shut up!" yelled Lord Sycorax defensively "We're here now, plotting death on Chun-Nan's government, that's all that matters now! And another thing…I'm surprised to see Mushu the Iguana standing among you and glaring evilly at me. Didn't think I'd ever see another region deserter after Vector." he added, glaring at Mushu.

uilty and he looked down at the ground in shame. Vector and Bladefeather stood by him and instantly began questioning him.

"You're a region deserter as well?!" exclaimed Vector.

"You…were one of them?!" blurted Bladefeather "Explain yourself at once Mushu!"

"Uh, he can't. He can't speak remember?" noted Sonic.

Mushu however used one method that he had in order to communicate to Bladefeather and Vector. Using sign language, he managed to tell Bladefeather everything. Bladefeather read his signs and understood what he meant.

"Three…years ago…you…were…approached…by…the region… and…Sycorax…tried…to…goad…you…into…joining… them." read Bladefeather as Mushu signed out and mimicked actions to him with his arms, hands and head "You…nearly…fell…for…his…lies…but… you…discovered his…true…motives…and…abandoned him."

Mushu nodded as he finished his sign language communication.

"Well done you!" cried Vector, clapping Mushu on the back happily "I'm proud of you for doing that! You give reptiles a better image you do!"

Mushu smiled, happy to hear such a compliment. It gave him great honour to think that he gives reptiles a better image by abandoning the region. How he relished the fact he left the region when he had the chance! Sycorax just frowned at Mushu but he said nothing about it. The Royal Fighters refocused their attention back on Sycorax and Gina.

"We're digressing. Do you accept our offer or not?" asked Matilda sternly.

"We decline of course!" snapped Sycorax "I am not relinquishing my freedom just to save my two best comrades! I'll fight you for them if I have to!"

"And I'll fight you for Dak!" yelled Gina.

"Very well, you have chosen your fate." said Matilda coldly "Don't say I didn't give you a better option to choose…"

"Cool!" cried Sonic happily "Royal Fighters, let's kick some reptile and spider butts!"

The Royal Fighters seemed all too happy to be given such a task, especially the Chun-Nan residents after what the Region of Rebellious Reptiles and Spiders of Anarchy had done to them. Lord Sycorax and Gina glared at the Mobians, clearly looking like they were ready to give them all a good beating for foiling their plans, and they called forth their comrades to even the odds.

"Reptiles!" yelled Sycorax.

"Spiders!" yelled Gina.

"Come forth and attack!" they both yelled together.

Just after they yelled that, a horde of reptiles wearing region armour and a swarm of scarlet red spiders all came charging over the Great Wall of Chun-Nan and running over to meet their masters. Sonic eyed all the reptiles and spiders that the Royal Fighters were now up against, his confidence not the least bit shaken by the sheer number of reptiles and spiders they had to fight now. After all, at this point in time, numbers were just numbers to Sonic. Nothing more. He'd taken down huge numbers of cronies before so this was nothing he hadn't experienced before and nothing he certainly couldn't handle. Sonic cracked his knuckles and bent down in a battle ready stance.

"Alright…it's party time." he said smoothly.

Sonic then curled up into a ball and launched the first attack. He spin-dashed both Gina and Sycorax in the heads and knocked them both down onto their sides quite callously. The two leaders winced in pain as their skulls began aching like mad from the attack. The Royal Fighters all ran forward to attack with the reptiles and spiders running in to attack as well. What resulted was an enormous battle that could give even the historical Battle of Hastings a run for its money in terms of how large it was. Heroes and villains clashed and fought furiously just inches away from the Great Wall of Chun-Nan (Emperor Tai obviously is staying out of this one with the occasional nerve-freeze sneak attack planned in his mind). Amy Rose whipped out her powerful Piko-Piko hammer and she walloped an enormous spider in the face, causing it to spit out some oozy green blood from its mouth as it was hit. The spider screeched a shrilling, ear-piercing screech at Amy and it tried to slash her with its legs. Amy blocked the attacks with the head of her hammer and she hammered the spider in its legs. The spider was brought down onto its belly by the attack and it screeched in pain. Amy hammered it on the head to knock it out and put it out of the battle. She flipped her hair in a preening manner at the knocked-out spider that lay before her and she ran off to fight another spider. Knuckles ran through the battling crowds and he decided to try his luck against a huge muscle-bound chameleon in Reptile Rebel armour. The chameleon punched at Knuckles but Knuckles dodged the punch and he socked the chameleon directly in its face. The chameleon was taken aback by such a powerful punch, especially coming from an echidna, and he rubbed his cheek, wondering if the pain would ever ease due to how much it hurt. Knuckles attacked the chameleon again, upper-cutting it in the chin and then slugging it in the gut. That punch to the gut sent the chameleon hurling backwards like a thrown rock and he crashed back-first into the Great Wall. The impact of the crash, amazingly enough, wasn't enough to do any damage to the enormous, long stretching wall that loomed above the battle. Tails flew around some reptiles, kicking them in the heads and knocking them down as he flew past them and he kept well out of the way of the slashing spiders. Sonic just did what he did best, spin-dashing as many enemies as possible. He spin-dashed through a bunch of spiders and reptiles, sending many of them hurling into the air and crashing down on the ground very heavily. This was just another dose of fun time for Sonic and he was loving it, knocking down spiders and reptiles like skittles as he spin-dashed through them like a bowling ball. Cream and Cosmo double-teamed against as spider with Cream carrying Cosmo by the arms and swinging her back and forth, allowing Cosmo to kick the spider squarely in the middle of its face. Cream put Cosmo down and on the ground and Cosmo picked up some stones to throw at the spider, making sure to hit the joints on its legs so that the spider's legs would bend in and make it wince and lean down on the ground. The spider cried out as its legs folded up in pain and Cream made it even worse by throwing Cheese squarely at the spider's head. Cheese walloped the spider's head and the spider screeched a terrible screech of agony. Cream and Cosmo gave a high-five for their teamwork (bet that's an adorable image isn't it?). Wilson and Mandy were teaming up against a pair of reptiles. Wilson was sword-fighting with a skinny gecko and Mandy was boxing with a rather tough salamander. Mandy's brass knuckle attachments gave her the upper hand of course for her punches were harder than the salamander's with them on. The salamander began to falter as Mandy threw hard punch after hard punch and eventually, Mandy knocked it out with a punch to the chin. The salamander lay down on the ground staring up at the sky wondering what time of day it was. Mandy sniffed at it and ran off to fight another foe. Wilson and the gecko were sword-fighting quite roughly but Wilson's double-bladed weapon allowed him the victory to this battle for as the gecko clashed blades with him, Wilson used the other blade to scratch him across the arm and make him wince. Wilson kicked the gecko down onto his back and he snatched its sword away. He tossed the sword over his shoulder…and ended up skewering an unlucky spider with it (good grief!).

"The Region of Rebellious Reptiles really hasn't changed has it?" he said to himself "They're still pathetically easy to defeat."

"Couldn't agree more handsome." said Mandy, punching a spider in the fangs as hard as she could "These spiders are no harder too."

"These guys are gonna regret destroying Matilda's pagoda when we're done with them!" declared Sonic, kicking down another reptile as he ran past it.

Wilson and Mandy gave Sonic a thumbs up agreeably. Over to Bunnie and Geoffrey, they were teaming up against a reptile and a spider respectively. Bunnie fought the spider, avoiding it as it fired torpedoes of web at her from its abdomen in an attempt to subdue her and she walloped the spider in the abdomen with her robotical arm. The spider screamed for the abdomen is a rather sensitive area on a spider and hitting it really does leave it in a great deal of pain. Bunnie walloped it in the head, knocking it over onto its back as she hit it and then she elbow-thrusted it in the gut, making the spider wheeze in pain as all the air in its lungs was about sucked out from that elbow-thrust. Geoffrey was fighting a snake and he showed the snake why a man with limbs will always prevail in battle. He grabbed the snake by its tail and he swung it around as if he was swinging a lasso around. The snake screamed an hilarious scream as it was swung around and Geoffrey let go of it, sending it flying across the battlefield. The snake hurled over the wall and landed with a heavy crash on the other side. Geoffrey couldn't help but slap his knee and laugh at what he did to the snake. Ruben cut loose in this battle, throwing streams of water at various spiders and reptiles and sending them slipping and sliding into the Great Wall of Chun-Nan. Ruben was pretty ticked after all, especially since Chun-Nan was his home so he wanted to make the reptiles and spiders pay ever so dearly for ruining Matilda's birthday last night. As Ruben did that, Sora fought off a spider that tried to attack her with its legs. Sora dodged its attacks and she threw an orb at the spider's eye, blinding it and making it shriek in pain. Sora then jumped up and kicked the spider in the neck, making it gag in pain. Unfortunately, a skink sneaked up behind Sora and grabbed her by the tail. Ruben was quick to save her though by squirting the skink away. Sora glanced over at Ruben and smiled at him, earning a little blush from the water-panther. Sora had saved him during Operation: Double Trouble and now Ruben had returned the favour in this battle. Shade Blade-Rushed a giant tortoise in the gut and brought him down onto his shell. The tortoise tried feebly to get back up but as you know, a tortoise can't get up so easily. Shade leaned down, grabbed the tortoise by its leg and she spun it around on its shell. The tortoise cried out as it was spun around like a Frisbee and Shade kicked the spinning tortoise towards some Reptile Rebels. The result was a comical moment of the tortoise sending reptiles flying all over the place as he hit them. As straight-faced as Shade usually was, she couldn't help but smile at that. Sally and Nicole were double-teaming some reptiles and spiders together with Sally butting and slashing them with her staff and Nicole using her fighting skills to bring down her opponents. The two girls were performing quite admirably in this battle and the reptiles and spiders could hardly keep up with them. Espio and Charmy fought off some reptiles and insects together with Espio using his ninjutsu and Charmy using his stinger. Espio punched and kicked some reptiles away and Charmy stung some spiders in their abdomen and legs. Vector was, obviously, fighting against Lord Sycorax (did I even need to tell you that?). Vector and Sycorax punched at each other and Sycorax slugged Vector in the gut. Vector lashed out and chomped on Sycorax's arm, destroying his strength-enhancing arm gauntlet with one single bite. Vector chomped on the other one and broke it so Sycorax was now weaker and back to being on par with him. Sycorax growled furiously at Vector and he walloped him in the jaws with his fists. Vector walloped him back in the gut and then uppercut Sycorax in the air. Sycorax came down with a crash on top of the Great Wall. As for Matilda, Bladefeather, Mushu and Kai, they were all joining in the battle and they were taking reptiles and spiders out by the dozen thanks to their kung-fu abilities. They were like snowploughs pushing through snow, sending reptiles and spiders flying as they attacked them. Matilda was fighting Gina and she absolutely unleashed hell on her, not holding back even for a minute and punching her all over her body. Gina cried out furiously as Matilda beat her viciously and she tried to fight back. She slashed at Matilda with her scythe-like hands but Matilda blocked all her attacks and she pile-dived Gina in the gut, making her scream in pain.

"This is for my home and for dishonouring all my guests at my party last night!" yelled Matilda as she did a graceful twirl in mid-air and she roundhouse kicked Gina into the Great Wall.

Gina crashed into the wall just underneath where Lord Sycorax was lying and she groaned in pain.

"Ugh…those heathens are tough!" she grunted "We're losing out here!"

"I can see that." muttered Sycorax "But I'm not inclined to retreat yet. I've got an idea…"

Sycorax leaped down from the Great Wall and he landed beside Gina. He whispered into Gina's ear and the spider smiled at his idea. She liked the sound of it definitely. Gina and Sycorax picked themselves up and Gina called out to the spiders.

"Spiders! Every single one of you, web up the heroes and make sure you catch them!" yelled Gina.

The spiders all understood the order and every single spider aimed their abdomen at the Mobians and started spouting out webs in every direction. Gina joined in with the web-spinning for she wanted a piece of the action too. The reptiles all fell back to avoid getting accidentally caught by them as web began spinning all around the battlefield. Now one spider spinning webs is bad enough but there's fifty spiders, not including Gina, Dak and the one Amy knocked out, on the battlefield and ALL spinning webs at once! Not even the Royal Fighters could manage all of those webs spinning at once! The heroes suddenly found themselves getting webbed up as so much web began spinning around them and tangling them up. Sonic tried to cleave through the web but due to how much web was being thrown over him, he found himself being anchored down and unable to get back up. Even the kung-fu masters found themselves getting stuck down by the webs. The spiders kept spinning and spinning until eventually, the heroes were all completely stuck down to the ground and unable to move. They all struggled helplessly but try as they might, they couldn't get free. Gina smiled with satisfaction at the trussed up heroes and Lord Sycorax ran over to free Romeo, Vladek and Dak. He freed them all and they all joined in with the gloating session the reptiles and spiders were now having with the heroes.

"A valiant effort heroes but now you're all webbed up and at our mercy." purred Gina "What a way to go isn't it?"

"You scum…let us go and fight with honour!" screamed Matilda "This is a cowardly gambit that will forever shame your name Gina!"

"As if she didn't shame her name already." muttered Sonic.

"Wow, even when they're defeated they still dare to insult us." sniffed Sycorax "How pathetic. Now Gina, I think an execution is in mind don't you?"

"I do indeed Sycorax." purred Gina "And YOU are joining them!"

She then proceeded to web up Lord Sycorax! Sycorax cried out as he was webbed up to his head and he fell down on his side, squirming furiously and trying to get free. Sonic and friends were rather surprised to see this. Gina was turning against Sycorax? Some alliance they formed wasn't it? Sycorax glared at Gina furiously.

"You traitor! Release me at once!" snarled Sycorax.

"I don't think so." sneered Gina "You see, I liked our alliance and all but I don't like how you want to terminate policy altogether. I only want this country to be ruled by spiders, I don't want to terminate policy and governing and have a world without democracy. That kind of world would be catastrophic. So as you can see, I can't let you live Sycorax otherwise you'll just try and terminate me and my spider government."

"Why you slimy little…reptiles, kill her at once!" bellowed Lord Sycorax.

"Dare try it and you'll be webbed up too." threatened Gina before the reptiles could even get out their weapons "I'd run away and never come back if I were you."

The reptiles looked at each other and decided that it'd be best not to do anything about it. They knew better than to try and take out a bunch of spiders that could easily web them up and be done with it. They were all about to run away and leave Sycorax to his fate until something happened. A loud ripping sound was heard as if a giant piece of paper had just been torn in two and then, spreading out in the sky above and looming brightly above everybody was…a steak of light! The exact same streak of light that had taken Sonic away and brought him to Mobius Nega! The only difference was this one was a couple of feet wider than the one that had taken Sonic away, suggesting something ominous and possibly dangerous about the streak of light. Everybody stared up at the streak of light with reactions being surprise for the villains and kung-fu warriors for they'd never seen it before and horror for the heroes.

"Not again!" exclaimed Sonic.

"Don't worry, the webbing will keep us down!" cried Sally "We won't get sucked up by it!"

And Sally couldn't be more right on that for the streak of light began tugging on the spiders and reptiles with an invisible force that was like millions of hands reaching out to grab and pull at something. It tried pulling on the heroes but the masses of webbing that had been spun to keep them down by the whole group of spiders was too strong for it. While the webbing was being tugged at, it was still sticky enough to keep the heroes safe from the streak of light. The spiders and reptiles were not so lucky though. They were all sucked up towards the paranormal activity that is the tear in the sky, screaming bloodcurdling screams as they were sucked up into the aluminous light. Romeo and Vladek ran towards Lord Sycorax and they picked him up quickly before they could be sucked up by the light. They managed to get out of range and they bolted it before anything else could happen. Gina tried to get away but the light was too strong and she soon found herself being sucked up into it, screaming at the top of her lungs as she was snatched up from the earth. Dak was taken in too, crying out in horror as the tear in the sky sucked him up with Gina. In a matter of seconds, all the spiders and reptiles were gone and the streak of light disappeared into nothingness, restoring the sky to normal and leaving to trace of its existence. Everything was normal once again. The heroes were still stuck to the ground in web although some of it had been taken up by the streak of light, allowing them to move a bit more. Matilda was wide-eyed and open-mouthed at what had just happened. She could barely keep her eyes off the sky before she finally snapped back into reality and she looked over at Sonic.

"What in the name of Chun-Nan was that?!" she gasped.

"A mystery." said Sonic grimly "Even we're not entirely sure what it is."

"I will say, for once I'm glad that thing showed up." said Sally "It saved us all from a grisly fate."

"It most certainly did." said Bladefeather "I wonder if it was a miracle bestowed upon us by the ancient gods that watch over us?"

"Hardly." said Tails with a grave expression on his face "This isn't the first time it's happened. One took Sonic away the other day."

"It did?" gasped Matilda "Then…how is he back here then?"

"Shadow saved him with a Chaos Control." explained Tails "I can guarantee Gina, her cronies and the Region of Rebellious Reptiles are gone for good though. We're certainly not going zone-hopping to save them."

"Good." said Bladefeather "Those insidious canailles don't deserve to traipse upon Mobius's soil due to how wretched and dishonourable they are."

"Yeah, pity Sycorax and two of his men got away." sighed Vector "I'll get them next time though."

"First things first though…" said Sonic "How the heck are we gonna get outta this web?!" he cried out, taking note of the fact they were STILL webbed up.

"Uh…maybe I could help?" suggested Tai helpfully.

He had been on the sidelines the entire time and thus, had been the only one not to get webbed up by the spiders (they were too busy focusing on the heroes to bother with Tai). Tai wandered over and started tearing at the strands of web with his hands, hoping to free everybody from its silky grasp so they could properly celebrate this victory of theirs…

Meanwhile, Romeo and Vladek had taken Sycorax to a rather large cave and they had set to cutting him free from his web. Romeo took out a dagger and cut through Sycorax's web, freeing him and allowing him to stand up and move freely once again. Sycorax flexed his arms and he patted Romeo and Vladek on the head.

"Thank you for that boys." said Sycorax "No wonder I made you both my second-in-commands."

"You're welcome my lord." said Romeo loyally.

"I'm sad to report though that the Region of Rebellious Reptiles is no more." announced Vladek "A weird streak of light appeared in the sky and…the entire region sans us was sucked up into it. They're all gone sir. Our group is no more."

"I know." growled Sycorax fiercely "I witnessed that as I was being carried away. Unbelievable, I've lost my entire region and now only three of us are left! HOW CAN WE ERADICATE POLICY FOREVER IF THERE'S ONLY THREE OF US LEFT TO FIGHT AGAINST IT?!" he bellowed at the top of his voice in rage.

Then suddenly, as if something had heard him, a faint roar came out from the cave they were standing near. Sycorax jumped in surprise when he heard that roar and he peered down the cave.

"What was that?!" he cried out in alarm.

"Shall we investigate sir?" asked Romeo.

"Yes, let's." said Sycorax eagerly "Maybe there's reptiles down there I can get together to make a new region. Let's go."

So with that said the three reptiles all began to trek down into the cave, following the faint sound of roaring that was coming from it. What they were going to find was beyond any reptile they had ever seen before…

Day of the Dragons

Story 154: The Day of the Dragons

Chun-Nan had seen many an eventful day in its time and today had been VERY eventful indeed. Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends had found out that the Region of Rebellious Reptiles had teamed up with the Spiders of Anarchy to assassinate Emperor Tai and Princess Matilda and then the heroes had gotten into a big fight with the two groups of anarchy which almost ended with them being a spider's lunch. Fortuitously enough though, a streak of light appeared in the sky and sucked up the entire region sans Lord Sycorax and his two right-hand men Romeo the Chameleon and Vladek the Frill-Necked Lizard and the whole Spiders of Anarchy got sucked up too, including Gina and Dak. Sycorax, Romeo and Vladek were the only Reptile Rebels left and they were pretty desperate. They couldn't wipe out politics and democracy if there was only three of them. They needed a new army and they needed it badly. At this moment though, Sycorax, Vladek and Romeo had heard a faint roar coming from inside a cave they had stopped to rest by and they had gone down into the cave to see what it was. The cave went down pretty deeply and it soon became too dark to see as Lord Sycorax, Romeo and Vladek trekked down and down into the cave. However, Lord Sycorax's helmet visor came with a night-vision feature so he could still see where he was going as they kept going down the cave. Romeo and Vladek weren't wearing helmets though so they still couldn't see where they were going. Sycorax took them by the arms and kept them close so they wouldn't get lost in the cave. He didn't have time to start looking for them if he lost them after all. As they pressed on, they couldn't hear anymore roaring, suggesting that either they had been hearing things or the thing they had heard had simply gone silent. Just as Sycorax began to doubt himself about the fact there was anything down there at all, he heard another roar coming from further down the cave. That confirmed there definitely was something in the cave and Sycorax had not been just hearing things and the fact this roar was louder suggested they were getting closer to the thing. Sycorax, Romeo and Vladek kept walking quietly and carefully through the cave until finally, they found something that suggested there was something down there after all. There was a cave mouth at the end of the already long, dark tunnel they were trekking down and there was a dim orange light emitting from inside of it. The roars were coming from inside the cave mouth. Sycorax, Romeo and Vladek entered through the cave mouth and they gasped in amazement at what they were face-to-face with. Through the cave mouth was an enormous steel object that appeared to be a prison of some kind, the multitude of chains wrapped around it and padlocked shut further indicating it was indeed a prison. The prison was the size of a living room on the surface but it stretched down a long distance, making it a rather long and tall prison and suggesting there was a big thing kept inside it. It was hexagon shaped too, giving it an unusual look and the room it was in was alit with an ominous orange glow, suggesting a fiery pit was licking away underneath the prison. On top of the prison was a rotating circular object that looked as if it was the very thing that opened it. The loud roaring Sycorax had heard was coming from within the prison itself. Romeo and Vladek were gobsmacked at what they were looking at whereas Sycorax rubbed his hands delightedly and smiled to himself.

"Oooooh…what serendipity this is!" cackled Sycorax delightedly "Oh yes, oh yes, oh yes! This is the greatest day of my marvellous life this is! Hallelujah, we've hit the jackpot!"

He continued to laugh like a demented hyena over this find whereas Romeo and Vladek looked at each other, their faces the embodiment of obfuscation. Had their crazy leader finally lost his marbles once and for all? Why in the name of the lizard king was he so happy about finding a prison? They didn't see much reason for being so delighted over it. They looked back at Sycorax.

"Uh boss…when do you want the asylum keepers to come and collect you?" asked Romeo.

"You seem to have lost it sir." said Vladek "Why on Mobius are you so happy about this thing? It doesn't look like much."

Sycorax stopped celebrating and he shot a death glare at his two minions as if he was about to chomp their heads off for daring to think he was insane (not that he isn't already of course. Heh, heh.).

His face went redder than the room the prison was contained in.

"You…you dare to question my sanity?!" snarled Sycorax, throttling both Romeo and Vladek furiously and shaking their heads like mad "You have the nerve to think that I am insane?! Who do you think you two are?!"

Romeo and Vladek couldn't speak for Sycorax was throttling them too hard for them to breath any words. Sycorax let them go and they dropped down in a heap on the floor just at his feet. Sycorax folded his arms and glared down at his henchmen, his face still contorting with rage.

"This thing we have just found is the one thing I've spent my entire life looking for since the Region of Rebellious Reptiles formed!" Sycorax exposited (to you readers mostly) "That is the Legendary Seal of the Five Dragons we are looking at right now. That thing contains the last five dragons that exist on Mobius! Now can you see why I'm so happy about this?" he added with a scowl at Romeo and Vladek.

Romeo and Vladek rubbed their necks better and they stared at Sycorax in astonishment.

"Dragons?" gibbered Vladek "You mean w-w-we've j-j-just found…d-d-dragons?!"

"Impossible! The dragons went extinct years ago!" shrieked Romeo "You're pulling our legs Sycorax!"

"I'll do more than pull your sodding legs if you keep doubting my sanity you stupid idiots!" snapped Sycorax "Anyways, that's what the world wants us to think! The world wants us to believe that dragons are extinct! The dragons never truly went extinct, there are five dragons who somehow managed to gain the power of immortality during the time of the dragons so they can never die. Those dragons were instead imprisoned in a seal created by the Ancients of Chun-Nan using dead magic or something like that. They've been imprisoned in that cage for millions upon millions of years and have remained dormant since their imprisonment. I've been fascinated with this tale and I've been looking for the seal for years on end. I've had no luck though and began wondering if it was just a myth but now here I am, looking at the seal itself and looking at an ancient piece of reptile history!"

"Wow…" gasped Vladek "I'm sorry I doubted you master."

"Me too." said Romeo "Although…legend has it that dragons have no allegiance. They're just mindless beasts who raze what they can just because they can. You seriously aren't hoping to free the dragons and get them to work for you are you?"

"That's exactly what I'm doing." announced Sycorax, grinning widely "You see, the dragons have a word of honour. "A dragon doth serveth he who releases thy dragon from thy prison". In other words, you free a dragon, it becomes your loyal servant for life. If I free the dragons, they'll worship me no doubt and I'll have the best reptiles a reptile could ask for!"

"Goodness…you free a dragon from imprisonment and they just swear loyalty to you? Awesome!" cried Vladek happily "Let's free them now!"

"How do we free them from their seal?" asked Romeo curiously.

"Like this…" crooned Sycorax darkly.

Sycorax stepped out onto the seal and he ran over to the rotating circle in the centre of it. Sycorax grabbed the circle and he began to spin it around anti-clockwise. Spinning the circle around seemed to unlock all the padlocks on the chains around the seal and the chains started to unravel from around the seal as the circle was turned around. Sycorax cackled happily as he began to unlock the seal. He could feel the dragons roaring gleefully under his feet from inside the seal as it began to open. Sycorax jumped back off the seal as it opened up and a chorus of roaring erupted out from within the seal. The last five dragons in existence were free and Mobius was going to be doomed once they took flight…

"Thanks for un-webbing us emperor." said Sonic the Hedgehog as he brushed some thin strands off of his arms and straightened some ruffled up fur on his quills.

"You're welcome." said Emperor Dalon Tai, throwing down the last few strands of web he'd managed to tear off in order to free Sonic from it.

It had taken the emperor a while but he had finally managed to get all the heroes free from the web. Every time he freed somebody, they joined in with freeing the others so the progress had been shorter than it would have been and now all the Royal Fighters and the Chun-Nan kung-fu masters could stand up again. Everybody brushed themselves off and stretched a little, glad to be free from the web at last.

"Oh that feels good." said Mandy Mouse, stretching a little "I hope I never get webbed up again. That was just disgusting!" she added with a gag.

"Couldn't agree more honey." said Wilson the Dog, picking some web off his nose.

"I still can't believe that streak of light thingy decided to just "show up" and suck up all the reptiles and spiders." said Amy Rose, looking up at the sky as if she was expecting another one to show up all of the sudden "It's like it just…decided to show up and give us a hand. Weird isn't it?"

"It was indeed." murmured Knuckles the Echidna "First it gets rid of Sonic and then it gets rid of the Reptile Rebels and spiders? Does this thing flip-flop between good and evil or something?"

"I doubt it even has a sentient mind." said Queen Sally Acorn "It was just purely coincidence it just happened to show up at the right time to save our lives. I highly doubt it was there to save us though, it was just a random, surreal paranormal activity that just coincidentally ended up saving us. I fear though next time, it might not be for a good thing if it appears again."

"That's the thing with that streak of light." sighed Sonic "It's unpredictable. We just don't know when it's gonna show up and what it's gonna do. I hope we find out a bit more about it and put an end to it soon for it's REALLY getting me concerned now."

"It's getting us ALL concerned." said Sally gravely "I really fear that something terrible is going to happen because of those tears in the sky."

"Something…terrible?" squeaked Matilda nervously "Oh no…I've had enough terrible things in my lifetime, I don't need anymore! I should be kicking back and relaxing with my fiancé, not worrying about something terrible happening!"

"You know what it is like my pet." said Bladefeather, putting his arms around Matilda from behind "There's no rest for the weary, especially if you live an extraordinary life."

"Indeed Bladefeather." agreed Kai Zen, Matilda's mentor "This is why we make the most of the peaceful times when we get them. They're scarce and thus, are very precious to us when they come."

Tai & Matilda both nodded agreeably. They knew all too well that Kai was right about all this.

"So…do you think another one of those "tears in the sky" as you call them will come soon?" asked Matilda, looking over at Sally.

"Maybe so." said Sally grimly "One took Scourge & Fiona away during the Devatron invasion, and that's now months ago. Then one took Sonic away a few weeks ago and now another one's appeared. It's all too likely one may show up again."

"Or if we're lucky, that might be the last time it ever happens and everything returns to normal for good." suggested Tails hopefully "It might be just one of those weird phenomenon's that finally stops after a while of happening. At least, I hope it is."

"I hope it is too." said Sonic "But until another one appears, let's focus on other things. Like helping the royals recover from last night's horror."

"And set up R.F.S. facilities that will allow Chun-Nan and The Kingdom of Acorn to remain in contact." added Sally "Before the pagoda was destroyed, me and Tai formed an alliance between kingdoms so we could help each other."

"Aw that's awesome!" cheered Sonic happily "That's really cool that is!"

"You formed an alliance with the AcornKingdom daddy?" said Matilda in surprise "That's wonderful! That means we can come to the R.F.S.'s aid should they need it and they can come to our aid anytime now! I'm glad you two agreed on that alliance."

"I am too." said Tai brightly "So when will work on installing communication devices in the country begin?"

"As soon as you wish your honour." said Sally with a polite bow.

"I propose we start now." said Tai with a smile "The sooner we start, the better."

"Nobody's starting anything!" growled a grizzly voice that nobody was expecting to hear again so soon.

Everybody looked over to where the voice had come from and they all gasped in surprise. For there, standing before them was Lord Sycorax with Romeo and Vladek standing behind him. Lord Sycorax had a big fat smile on his hideous face, suggesting he was very happy about something. Vector the Crocodile stood forward and cracked his knuckles. When it comes to Lord Sycorax, Vector must always get first dibs on him (bet you'd feel the same way if your dad was evil).

"Well, well, well…if it isn't my moronic dad." snarled Vector "Guess he hasn't had enough being pounded into the dirt yet!"

"And just when I thought his stain upon this great country had been wiped clean." muttered Espio the Chameleon, drawing out some shuriken and itching to throw them at Sycorax.

"Get outta Chun-Nan you scaly, politic-hating freak!" yelled Charmy furiously "You don't deserve to come here you bad, bad man!"

Matilda was livid to see Sycorax here and she was all too happy to give him a piece of her mind. She stepped forward, brushing her hair back a little and she pointed menacingly at the anarchistic crocodile.

"Lord Sycorax, you trespass upon holy ground!" growled Matilda furiously "You either stand down and surrender peacefully or things will get needlessly violent once again!"

"I'd do as she says Syco-boy." sneered Sonic "Especially since there's twenty-three of us and ONLY three of you. You've got no chance killer croc."

"Oh I think I have…" purred Sycorax darkly "Especially since I've got a big surprise for you all…"

He then turned around and put his fingers to his jaws. He whistled a VERY high-pitched whistle and just after he'd whistled, a loud roar came from nowhere and made everybody jump in surprise. Sounded like a big monster was around and that had everybody concerned for a minute. Lord Sycorax just folded his arms and smirked confidently at the heroes as out from the distance came an enormous flying shape. It soared over to where the heroes and Sycorax were and it glowered down at them, flapping its wings and remaining airborne. The Mobians stared in horror at the enormous creature that was flying before them and looking down at them with a very evil look in its eyes. The thing was a huge, crimson red dragon with enormous wings and flames emitting from its back, head, tail and just above its limbs. It had four legs with sharp claws on its feet, a huge head with horns that protruded proudly on its forehead, curved structures above its eyes and glowing yellow eyes that just teamed with eeriness. It had a forked tongue too and masses of sharp teeth in its jaws. The flames all over the dragon burned a fiery orange and it bellowed a thunderous roar that shook the ground beneath everybody's feet. The Royal Fighters were amazed and horrified to see this whereas the Chun-Nan people looked like they had just witnessed the end of the world. They were more visibly terrified than anybody at the sight of this monstrous dragon.

"A dragon?! WHERE DID LORD SYCORAX GET A DRAGON?!" screamed Amy in terror, practically losing her mind with horror over the sight of this monster.

"No way! A real live dragon?!" gasped Sonic "Well, given this is Chun-Nan dragons aren't that strange but I thought dragons were just silly make-believe!"

"Oh no Sonic, dragons are all too real…" said Matilda hoarsely, her face as white as a cloud "Dragons used to roam Mobius for many years, reigning supreme in many countries. They caused unspeakable havoc on Mobius for they had a strong feeling of power and would go out of their way to show it off and make the Mobians cower before them. The Ancients of Chun-Nan, a cult of wise mages that knew magical powers, fought against the dragons and slaughtered all but five of them. The five remaining dragons had somehow gained immortal powers so they couldn't be killed. Instead, they were imprisoned in a magical seal that could contain them easily. And now it seems the seal has been opened and the dragons are free!" she shrieked, putting her hands to her head in fear.

"So you're telling us that fiery bloke we're looking at isn't the only dragon we're dealing with love?" said a very horrified looking Geoffrey St. John.

"Yes!" gasped Matilda fearfully.

Then, as if they knew now was the time to conveniently make their appearances, four more dragons flew in onto the scene to join the fire dragon. They all lined up beside the fire dragon and glared at their opponents. One dragon was a water-powered dragon and it had a long snaky body, four wings, fins at the end of its tail, two arms with three clawed hands, a long slender head with fins on the sides and four wavy structures on the top and a long extending fin on its back. Its skin was blue like the very water it used as a weapon and it too had glowing yellow eyes. The second dragon was a lightning based dragon with a sauropod style body (long neck and tail), two wings in place of arms and lightning shaped structures on its back and head. It had four on its back, four on its face and four on the back of its head. The tip of its tail was lightning bolt shaped and its skin was black and gold in colour, all of the gold going to the lightning bolts on its body, its underbelly and its glowing eyes. The third dragon was rock based and it had thicky, lumpy skin that made it look like a cross between an Ankylosaurus and a dragon. It even had a clubbed tail and a bony lump on its head! It had eight spikes, four on each side of its head, and four horns behind its head. It had huge clumpy legs, tiny two-clawed hands like a Tyrannosaurus and enormous wings that were strong enough to lift its already heavy body. Its skin was as brown as earth and its eyes, again, glowed a bright yellow colour. The fourth dragon was wind based and it had a long snaky body, no wings or limbs at all, a spiked harpoon like tail, waving structures on its body and a mane. It had a beak like jaw and its skin was an ice-cold blue colour. Its eyes glowed yellow just like the others. All five dragons stood there in a line, roaring loudly and making the Mobians all stand back in terror.

"Five dragons?! FIVE DRAGONS?!" screeched Amy "How can we possibly take all of them on?!"

"You can't, that's how little girl." sneered Sycorax "These five dragons are powerful beyond comprehension and they will lay waste to you all! And since I freed them from their seal, they're completely loyal to me so I can make them do whatever I wish."

"He's right unfortunately." said Kai grimly "A dragon's word of honour is it will serve anyone who frees it from imprisonment of any kind."

"Pity WE didn't free those dragons." muttered Sonic "We could use them to help us fight against evil otherwise."

"Well they're mine to command and I have one simple command for them all…" purred Sycorax menacingly "Dragons…kill them all!" he thundered, pointing at the heroes.

Like loyal drones listening to the commander, the dragons instantly obeyed their order. The fire dragon was the first to attack, landing down on the ground and breathing huge bursts of fire out from its mouth. Ruben however was quick to jump in and launch jets of water from his hands at the dragon's fire to protect his friends. His attack stalled the dragon long enough to let everybody get out of the way of the fire-breathing monster. But fire as much water as he possibly could, Ruben was fighting a battle he had no chance of winning. A puny little water panther is nothing compared to a mighty dragon. The fire dragon increased its attack and made its flames stronger, so strong in fact that poor Ruben's water powers weren't enough to stop it. Ruben kept on trying, straining himself ever so greatly to try and beat the fire dragon but he just couldn't do it. He wasn't strong enough and the fire dragon's power was too much for him. Luckily, Sora Prower ran in and tackled him down to the ground just in time to save him from being incinerated by the dragon. Sora and Ruben could feel the searing heat of the dragon's fire just above them as it flared away over them and at the ground inches away from their sides. Sora helped Ruben back up onto his feet and they both ran for their lives.

"Oh thank you Sora!" gasped Ruben as he was helped away from the fire dragon by the young super spy "I nearly got toasted by that thing!"

"No problem." said Sora with a smile "I can't let a boy as adorable as you get fried can I?"

Ruben blushed bright red at that remark. Sora just called him "adorable". It was obvious that she had some kind of likeness for him. Maybe she was the girl Ruben had been looking for since Cosmo after all. But now was not the time to be feeling happy over a compliment like that, they had huge, monstrous dragons to deal with first. As soon as Ruben and Sora were safe, Sonic zoomed out and spin-dashed the fire dragon in its eye, making it scream a thunderous roar of pain as it was hit. Sonic was used to big bad creatures after all so he at least stood some chance against the dragons. But even Sonic would meet his match here for the water dragon came to the fire dragon's aid and blasted Sonic with a jet of water. Sonic was thrown across the terrain by the attack and he landed in a wet soggy heap at the feet of Sally Acorn. Sally instantly helped Sonic up, the hedgehog soaking to the bone as water dripped from every inch of his body.

"You alright Sonic?" asked Sally worriedly.

"Trust one of those dragons to squirt water!" whined Sonic, shaking himself dry "I hate getting wet!"

"But I thought dragons breathed fire!" exclaimed Tails "How can one of them squirt water?"

"They're elemental dragons." explained Matilda "They have powers of the elements. Fire, Water, Earth, Wind and Lightning. That is what makes them such a deadly bunch of dragons, they can burn, drown, crush, scatter and shock whatever they please and combine all of that together, you get one heck of a killer bunch of attacks!"

"Well that's just prime isn't it?" muttered Sonic "Dragons that have all those kinds of powers? Is there a way to stop them?"

"We must get to their seal and put them back into it." explained Kai "First though, we need to subdue the dragons long enough for us to get to the seal without them getting in our way. I know where the seal is so once the dragons are subdued, I will take you all to it."

"Cool." said Sonic "How do we subdue them then?"

"Just hit them as hard as you can." said Kai "I'm sorry that isn't very helpful but it's all we can do."

"Then what are we waiting for?! Let's bash some dragon brains in!" squealed Amy ecstatically, waving her hammer around like a maniac.

"You heard Amy, let's do it to it people!" cried Sonic, running off towards the water dragon since he wanted to make it pay for soaking him.

The Royal Fighters and kung-fu masters all charged towards the dragons and prepared to give them their best. Bunnie, Knuckles, Shade, Amy and Team Chaotix all decided to take on the rock dragon since that was evidently the toughest one and likely would require their expertise in strength and power to take it down. The rock dragon lowered down and it bellowed at the Mobians, it's mighty roar so powerful it blew them all away. Bunnie Rabbot however managed to pick herself up fast and fly towards the rock dragon. She converted her robotic arm into her blaster cannon and she began blasting away at the dragon's tough, rocky hide. Her blasts didn't seem to have much effect on the dragon but it still flinched and groaned as the shots hit it so Bunnie was at least hurting the dragon to some degree, just the only problem being not an awful lot. A dragon with skin as hard as rock isn't exactly easy to penetrate after all. The rock dragon fumed at Bunnie and it opened its enormous jaws. Bunnie gasped in fright and she flew off, fearing on what was going to happen now its jaws were open. How right she was to fear what would happen now the rock dragon had opened its mouth for enormous boulders began shooting out from within the very depths of the dragon's throat. Bunnie turned around after flying away a good distance and she began shooting at the boulders to destroy them before they could hurt anyone. While the dragon fired boulders at Bunnie, Knuckles and Shade ran up to the side of the dragon and decided to launch their attacks. Shade Blade-Rushed the rock dragon's side and Knuckles climbed up it, using his spiked fists to climb up the dragon's rocky hide. Shade's attacks didn't really do much and the dragon didn't even feel Knuckles climbing up it. This was good for Knuckles so he could climb up the dragon without it trying to shake him off. Knuckles climbed up and up until he was on the dragon's back and then he climbed up its back and up towards its head. He reached its head and then Knuckles began punching it as hard as he could, fisting the dragon's rough cranium as hard as he could. This made the rock dragon stop firing boulders and start shaking its head around. Bunnie flew up to the dragon and began shooting it in the head as furiously as she could. Two Mobians bombarding your head is enough to make even a dragon cry out in pain. The rock dragon shook its head, trying to get Knuckles to fall off of it and to try and avoid Bunnie's shots. Shade decided to add more injury to the rock dragon so she Blade-Rushed its head, hoping to add more pain to the dragon. The dragon decided that it had taken all that it could and it stomped the ground with its enormous feet, making Shade and Team Chaotix shudder and fall over and Knuckles fall off of its head. Bunnie had to stop shooting just to fly down and catch Knuckles. She just managed to catch him before he could crash down onto the ground and she carried Knuckles up to the dragon's head. She threw Knuckles at the dragon's head and Knuckles crashed directly into the centre of its face. The dragon cried out in pain and it head-butted the ground to try and crush Knuckles. Knuckles managed to get out of the way before the dragon head-butted the ground, leaving a giant crater in the ground where it had head-butted. Of course, the dragon didn't feel much pain for it had a tough head. The rock dragon raised its head up and it prepared to fire more boulders at the Mobians.
